It was the same impression that animated the hearts of the disciples at the time Jesus rode into Jerusalem, and induced them to exclaim: "Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord" Luke 19: 38. It was the same enthusiastic expectation that fired their hearts when "Jesus perceived that they would come and take him by force to make him a king" (John 6: 15); but knowing that the time for him to commence his reign had not arrived, Jesus concealed himself in a mountain.

This was the very impression that elated their hearts when "they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear." Luke 19: 11. And this was the hope that led Peter, with sword in hand, to contest the capture of his prospective King on the night of the betrayal; but, despite his feeble resistance, wicked men triumphed, and led away Jesus, and "crowned him with a crown of thorns," in mockery of his claim to the kingship.

Now the faith of the disciples begins to falter; but presently it is put to a more severe test, as they see Jesus nailed to the tree, while his enemies defiantly wag their heads, and tauntingly exclaim, "Hail! king of the Jews." But their hope is obliterated when Jesus dies, and his enemies put him in the sepulchre, and roll a great stone, and put a seal upon it, to keep him in death's embrace. Their expected king is dead and buried, and their hope died with him. Their happy dreams of a coming kingdom are all thrown into the shade, and they are plunged into a quandary. Their contemplated king is dead. Where now is the expected kingdom?

Where now is the hope that so recently filled their hearts with ecstasy? Their hope has expired; the hope of the establishment of a kingdom under the Messiah is obliterated; for, prior to the resurrection of Jesus, "they knew not the Scriptures, that he must rise again from the dead." John 20: 9. All was darkness and sadness, and keen disappointment, while Jesus slept in the tomb; for they were blind to the thought of his resurrection. For three days and nights they were without hope. Supposing that he must long remain under the power of death, his friends came with spices and ointments to prepare him for a long rest in death, after the custom of the Jews.

But, lo! an angel had come down from heaven, and paralyzed the soldiers, rolled away the stone, broken the Roman seal, and Jesus had risen with "the power of an endless life." The news coming from the lips of two angels is reiterated—"He is risen!" How the tidings fly, and it wakes up the hope of the contemplated kingdom in all their hearts. They now see that death could not prevent the establishment of the long-looked-for-kingdom. Jesus lives again, and can yet set up the kingdom. And it was this thought that led Peter to exclaim:—"Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead." 2 Pet. 1: 3.

For forty days after his resurrection, Jesus remained among his disciples, conversing with them "relative to things pertaining to the kingdom of God;" but he did not then see fit to enlighten them concerning the precise point of time when it should be established; perhaps he knew they could not endure the thought of its being so far in the future, so soon after their recent sad disappointment; so with hearts filled with the thoughts of the establishment of the Messiah's kingdom, still looking for it prematurely, at the end of forty days, almost impatient for its immediate establishment, they came to Jesus and "asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?" Acts 1: 6. The reply of Jesus was calculated to strengthen the impression that they were right in expecting the kingdom at some time: "It is not for you to know [now] the times or the seasons which the Father hath put in his own power: but ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you." And while the Master's admonition—"Tarry ye in Jerusalem until ye be endued with power from on high"—was still sounding in their ears, "He was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their sight." For a moment the unexpected event bid fair to extinguish their hope again; but God carefully arranged for this emergency; two messengers "stood by them in white apparel," fresh from the throne of God, to make the cheering announcement, "This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven."

Had it not been for this angelic testimony, their hope might have been blighted again; but this announcement, coming from the truthful lips of holy angels, elated their hearts with the sweet assurance that their contemplated King was destined to return again; and perhaps for a time they fancied that he would remain away only a few days, weeks, or months at most, to make some necessary arrangements preparatory to the establishment of his kingdom on earth; and they remained in Jerusalem, as they were commanded to do, till the Holy Spirit came down upon them in miraculous power; when the secret was divulged that Jesus was to be the Mediator of the race, to offer repentance to all men, and be the guest of the Father "till his enemies be made his footstool," or till he should "judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and kingdom;" thus learning that his "kingdom" could not come till the dead should be judged.

Subsequently Jesus sent a "revelation" to his waiting disciples, in which he plainly informed them that the ushering in of his kingdom would take place at the sounding of the seventh trump; at which time also the dead should be judged, and the reward be given to the saints, and the wicked be destroyed: "And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ; and he shall reign forever and ever: . . . thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldest destroy them that destroy [margin, "corrupt"] the earth." Rev. 11: 15, 18.

Thus the ancient hope of a heavenly kingdom on earth is to be realized at the return of the Divine Nobleman who has gone from earth "into a far country, to receive for himself the kingdom" which is now filled with "enemies," who are practically saying, "We will not have this man to reign over us;" but in due time he will "return" to earth, "having received for himself the kingdom," and issue this edict of extermination: "Those mine enemies that would not that I should reign over them, bring hither and slay them before me." Luke 19: 12, 15, 27.

Then the territory of the coming kingdom will be free from all impurity, and Messiah shall "reign before his ancients gloriously." This ancient hope, though not perfectly understood at first, is to be consummated at the coming of the "King of glory," who was once the "Man of sorrows," when all the entombed saints shall be called forth to share in its realization, in a sinless and deathless realm. The early disciples erred, not in believing that the "government should be upon his shoulder," nor in supposing that he should reign "upon the throne of his father David," but in looking for it too early. They erred in looking for this kingdom without the resurrection, and without the judgment day. In due time these defects were rectified; and now this hope shines brighter than ever, and we are nearing the time of its consummation.

While the disciples were so very anxious for the establishment of the kingdom that they overlooked Messiah's death, many now have their attention so fixed on his death that they overlook his reign. But the kingdom is coming when the King shall be escorted from heaven to earth by myriads of angels. May our hearts be ever animated with this glorious hope, and may our fervent prayer ever be, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven."

For the World's Crisis.

FOREVER WITH THE LORD.

The christian's "Lord and Master is now absent; but prior to his departure he made this promise: "I will come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also;" and also, "Neither can they die any more;" while Paul's testimony is, "So shall we ever be with the Lord."

Then death will never break up the friendly circle, sickness never afflict us, temptations never annoy us, sorrow never disturb us, foes never oppress us, and sin will exist no more. Our sainted friends will all be gathered, the pure-hearted ones of six thousand years be assembled, coming from the cold realm of death, electrified with immortal vigor, to meet the descending Savior, and for a time to stand on the "sea of glass," which is "before the throne," in the new Jerusalem, there to "sing the song of Moses and the song of the Lamb"—a song of triumph and a song of redemption.

Saved at last. How sweet the thought. No more dangers to fear, and no more doubts to oppress. No longer absent from the Lord, but with him in Paradise, with prophets and apostles; and "so shall we be ever with the Lord." The living saints no more fall victims to death, and the dead saints all escape his grasp. Then "the tabernacle of God shall be with men" on earth made new, and thus we shall "ever be with the Lord."

WM. SHELDON.

For the World's Crisis.

WALKING BY FAITH, AND WALKING BY SIGHT.

The truth I am about to present is drawn from the whole word of God, but the phraseology of my subject comes from the seventh verse of the fifth chapter of 1st Corinthians: "We walk by faith, not by sight."

The children of this world walk by sight, while the children of the kingdom, when living as they should, walk by faith. To act "by sight" is to act in accordance with what is seen; is to behold and judge things for oneself. It is to act on the authority and in the light of one's own reason and judgment. To act by faith is to act by hearsay, from the testimony or word of another. Faith uses the ear, rather than the eye; whence comes the expression, "the hearing of faith"; also, "faith cometh by hearing"; hearing rather than seeing. Jesus told Thomas, "Blessed are they who have not seen, yet have believed." Faith takes a low and humble position. Reason is proud and lordly, and likes to act from itself alone. Faith accepts what she hears without doubt or questioning, and acts as she is told. Hence the proud heart does not like faith. A heart must be broken thoroughly before it loves faith.

When I speak of faith, I mean scriptural faith. And this faith is that which exalts God as her Master and Lord of all. The only question she asks is, "Does God say this?" and she believes. What seems, what appears to be, makes no difference to her. God's naked word outweighs all probabilities and appearances. No matter how a thing looks—what does God say about it?

Scriptural faith cannot be exercised between man and man; for faith, in the Scripture sense, means taking God's word, God's statement, against and in the face of every thing to the contrary. God demands unquestioning faith in every statement he makes. He commands that I live by my ear, instead of by my eye. Shall I sit in judgment over a statement of God's? Nay. Let God be true, and every man a liar; yea, though human eyes and reason are stultified.

Walking by faith, as contrasted with walking by sight, means simply acting unremittingly on the strength and by the direction of God's statements or words. "We walk by faith"; i.e., faith in every step, in every act we perform.

But just here let me speak of a wide-spread error with regard to faith; it is very prevalent and very pernicious. I cannot describe this error better than to say that it resolves faith into a general and wholesale trust. It is so convenient to trust in God in a general sort of way; to say, "Lord, Lord," and not do the things which he says.

I think I had this kind of faith about fifteen years. I was not careless nor indifferent; I seemed to be humble, and thought that I could say, "Thy will, O Lord, be done." I expected that God would do as he pleased, and I knew that I must submit, and I tried to do so. I rather threw myself upon the mercy and will of God, in a general way. I was not so particular about what he said, but I trusted that I was submissive and humble, and had faith, or trust, which I considered the same thing.

Now I can see the working of just that sentiment in this church. This is really the idea of nine out of every ten professing christians. They say, in heart, "God is sovereign; I will yield to him, I will bow to him, and let his will be done. He is merciful; I will trust in him." This general sort of trust creates a pleasant and soothing feeling, and the man comforts himself with the thought that he has saving faith. But this is an awful mistake. Why? That is not faith. Faith goes by the chart. It keeps the chart in hand, and traces out every crook and turn and point of compass marked out.

Since I came to know what faith is; to know that it is special and not general, I have studied the chart—the Bible—ten-fold, yes, a hundred-fold more than I ever did before. The truth is, we have a way of saying, "I trust in God—his holy will be done," and then go and act, and live, not as carefully and exactly as God directs, but as seems best to us, as our own judgment and desires dictate; and we don't scruple very much to go contrary to God's plain directions. It is very easy to get over texts of Scripture, saying, "It does not mean exactly so; we must make some allowance for the language. At any rate it is very uncertain what it does mean; and we can only trust in God, and let his holy will be done."

Now, I do not suppose that those who have not struggled and fought against this universal tendency of unbelief see this picture as I do. But, where true faith exists, it makes everything of our great chart. It studies it, it pores over it, it keeps its finger on it, and when a step is to be taken, an act or deed to be done, or a doctrine to be accepted or to be taught, it traces out the line of it with all nicety of care and painstaking.

The man who walks by faith, in reality, and not in mere profession, will have an altogether new and absorbing love and regard for the word of God, such as he never dreamed of having before. Then every text becomes as good as a mint of gold, and he regards it in its exact literal expression, and is as careful of its accurate significance as is a man of the delicate works in his watch.

O, this vague and general faith! it comes of the devil. Christ says, "If a man love me, he will keep my words." John says, "Hereby we do know that we know Him, if we keep his commandments." Mark! "keep" his words. This means obey, and much more than obey. The word literally means, to guard, cherish, have an eye upon, watch over, keep as a man keeps jewels. It means, to have a loving regard for. O, if God's words are not precious, exceedingly precious, and attractive to our thought and meditation and study, it is in vain to pretend to faith and to love.

The great hindrance to faith is sight. Here we have what appears and is reasonable. Sight denies the simple word of God. As we have formed the habit of looking and judging for ourselves, we in reality give the lie to God. We may and do claim to accept the Bible, and all its statements, or think we do; and yet we naturally take the edge off from every plain statement of truth. I put this strongly, for living by faith is rare, and yet what passes for it is spurious. The life of faith is grandly unworldly, and transcends our lives of sight and expediency as the heavens are higher than the earth. And I shall proceed to prove this assertion from God's word. A child of God is called to live alone with God, in actual separation from the world. He is not intended to feel at home here, and has no place into which he fits. He cannot be brought into harmony with his surroundings. If he has the divine life strong within him, he is out of his element in this world, and longs to be clothed upon with his house which is from heaven.

So lives the man of faith. A mighty tide of things visible, of deceitful appearances, sets against him. The ways of this world,—the aims and pursuits and methods of this world, weary and trouble his soul. He finds no sympathy concerning things dearest to his heart. And what joy fills his soul when he sometimes meets a man of living faith, whose heart remains true and loyal to his God.

This antagonism between God and the world is not known and felt, except by those who have real faith. The man, the professing man, who loves the world and lives for the world, is not sensible that he is what the apostle designates him, "the enemy of God." "If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him."

Very few realize the deadly enmity between the whole course of this world and God. Why? Because they take their first lessons of the world, and God never gets their unprejudiced ear forever afterwards. If Abraham, after being ordered of God—"Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will show thee"—had asked advice of his fellow men, they would have told him not to go; that he ought to lend his influence to society at home; that he ought to mingle in the politics of his own country, in order to reform them. This is not God's way. He calls his people out of the world, instead of into it, in order to improve it. God has already condemned this world to destruction, in order that a new state of things shall be established here. He does not design to repair it as it exists now. The true way to live here, therefore, is the way that Daniel and his two comrades lived at Babylon. They were taken to the king's house, and orders were given to give them of the royal meat and wine, such as the king's children lived upon. But Daniel would not receive this food, and secured the privilege of eating pulse—simple vegetables, and drinking water. Again, when every one else bowed down to the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar set up, these three men refused to do it.

Did you ever reflect that God has ordered our lot in this world? He has permitted us to be surrounded with all that appeals to the eye and to reason; with things that appear and that appeal strongly to us; and over against these things he has set the declarations of his word. God, as it were, setting us down here, says: You see all these things, but don't heed them. The race of mankind do rush after these things, along a broad way and in a mighty current. The influences and persuasions of this world all tend to that way; but remember, I have spoken—keep my words. "He that endureth unto the end shall be saved."

God intends that a child of his, amid these influences and tendencies, shall be peculiar and alone, like the rock rising above the current of a rapid stream. There he stands, while every one rushes past him. He is founded on the word of God. God means to try his children and all mankind. It is very easy to glide with the current, but it needs great determination and persistency to stand like a rock. But they that do so are the tried gold, the polished stones, that go into the heavenly temple. Appeals and persuasions innumerable beset men, the whole amount of which Scripture calls "the world." And there, set over against them, is the naked word of God. To which do you listen? If you take the world, all is easy enough; you need only consult your reason, common sense, and judgment. You can be wise, and shrewd, and philosophical, and popular, and honored; you may be learned and far-seeing; but this is walking by sight.

If, on the other hand, you choose to take God's words to go by, explicitly and alone, you will be struck by that great current. From every hand you will have appeals made to you founded on sight and reason. You will think you ought to do so and so. Others, professors of religion, as much as the rest, will advise and criticise. They will try to interpret and explain away the Bible declarations, so as to justify the slippery, sliding policy; so as to retain this world's ways, and to keep up a home feeling here. The pressure which you do not feel at all, if you are living as people in general do, will seem immense and overbearing; but while you stand against it, you are living by faith.

Is it a fact that things are so arranged as I have asserted, so that one must tremendously oppose them in order to live rightly and come out safely in the end? Yes, it is the plain teaching of Scripture. The whole arrangement now is such as to constitute a fiery trial, a baptism of fire, to dwellers on the earth. I will simply quote a few passages. Peter had just said, "We have forsaken all, and followed thee; what shall we have therefore? And Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, That ye which have followed me, in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel." Again, "And he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you, whom the heavens must receive until the times of restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." And again, "The creature [i. e., creation] was made subject to vanity [i. e., put under an arrangement in itself vain, empty; under a present misrule, for disciplinary purposes], not willingly, but by reason of him who hath subjected the same in hope; because the creation itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God."

Yes, we are under an arrangement of vanity, if we yield to it we are lost; if we resist it we are saved. But this arrangement is not always to continue. A time of restoration, restitution, regeneration, is coming. In plainer English, "Behold, I make all things new." Things will be reorganized, reconstructed, set up differently. But this is the order of things now: "Vanity of vanities, . . . all is vanity." We may, if we will, walk by sight, by reason; we may allow only what we understand of the declarations of God; we may, without thinking of it, detract from the exact words and commands of God, so as to leave us unterrified and untroubled in our worldly lives. But, oh, it is better to stem the flood, to oppose the world, to live outside of sympathy, to call down upon our heads the maledictions of evil men, and the scorn and mockery of the religious world. It is the price of a sure title to heaven. I have come to the conclusion that no one floats into heaven—not even good people, religious people, or professing christians; that no groove into which we fall, and along which we slip, ends in heaven. I know I used to hope that by submitting to the will of God, and living on about as usual, I should some way get there, especially as I never neglected the prayer-meeting and means of grace. But I have given up that idea.

I do not wish to preach too strictly; but as for myself, I feel that I must give up everything, lay aside every weight. I must do it; I dare not do otherwise; not even to-day. I feel like a soldier in winter quarters, who has been making himself as easy and comfortable as possible during the winter, and now has got marching orders for a hard campaign. He looks over his accumulated substance, and makes up his mind. He says to one comfortable thing after another, "I cannot take you, nor you, nor you," as he goes forth on the march, perhaps with not even a knapsack, but with his all wrapped in his oil-cloth blanket, and slung over his shoulder.

I say this is the way I feel. The obligation is laid upon me. I may hesitate to preach this doctrine to others, but I must preach and practice it for myself. I believe that a man cannot do too much, not be too earnest and eager in this matter. Like Paul, I trust I count all things but loss "if by any means I might attain unto the resurrection from the dead." O, I want to succeed in that! What if my life has not been what it should be? What if I have never manifested heretofore this eagerness? It is only left for me to forget the things that are behind, and press forward. My mind is made up to it. I intend to spare no effort in order that I may not be a castaway, as Paul says concerning himself.

Do I make the way of life a narrow way? It is narrow; narrower every way than I used to think. We must strive, keep striving, if we keep in it. This text has been much in my mind for months past: "Many are called, but few chosen"; and taken in connection with Paul's fear lest he should be found a "castaway"; i. e., as one disapproved, I see reason enough for unremitting vigilance and earnestness. I suggest the thought of others. The church is large, and, to the eye, flourishing. It has hundreds of thousands of good, fair, regular members, who maintain a good standing, and perform all ordinary duties; where there are only hundreds, or it may be tens, who are all body and soul for God, who oppose the world in every shape, making no account of things seen, but adoring and cherishing God's words just as they stand.

Now, may it not be that these hundreds of thousands are the called ones, while the hundreds, or the tens, are the chosen? That is, all run, but these obtain the prize. All are "called" to the race; but the few are "chosen" for having run sufficiently well and earnestly. As Paul indeed says in this very connection, "Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run that ye may obtain." If this be true, it is an intensely solemn truth. Many of my good church members may not run hard enough, though they are "called," and do "run" somewhat; and in the great day they shall be found with "disapproved" written over against their names. They gave way to the world too much. They thought or hoped they were making very good headway; but they took too much baggage, and they failed. Feeble running will doubtless be the death of many of us. A racer not only carries nothing with him, but looks at nothing along the course. His eye is only on the mark.

Who of my church members, and who that is not a church member, will shake hands with me on this great determination? I am ready; who will go? And we will take for our motto—"Let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us; and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, who is the author and finisher of our faith."—Selected by S. L. Manley.

For the World's Crisis.

THE TIME OF TROUBLE.—Dan. 12: 1.

"And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people: and there shall be a time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book."

It is necessary in this connection to discuss the question whether it is Michael the archangel, or Christ, who was to stand up. If it be Christ, it by no means follows that he and the archangel are the same, no more than that John the Baptist was Elijah that was translated, because he was called by that name. But the question to be considered is, what time is meant by the phrase, "And at that time shall Michael stand up." That it was the time of the continuance of the abomination of desolation, is proved by Christ's words in the 24th of Matthew, where he says (when it stands in the holy place), "Then shall be great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world, even to that same time; no, nor ever shall be." And the connection between the quotation from Daniel proves that he was tracing the rise, progress, and end of that abomination (whose head he represents as the willful king), so that the phrase "at that time" relates to the time of its continuance. And so if Michael stands up in the close of that period, it would be "at that time." And Daniel's people being delivered in the close of that time, it could also be said of them, "And at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book. And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, these to everlasting life, and those to shame and everlasting contempt. And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever." Verses 2, 3.

If the deliverance of Daniel's people is to take place in the end of this time of trouble, and no one can prove the contrary, the question would naturally arise as to the length of that time of trouble. And we find a question afterwards, in that connection, which can have no reference to anything else except to the length of that time. For we read in continuation from verse three,

"But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased. Then I Daniel looked, and, behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the bank of the river, and the other on that side of the bank of the river. And one said to the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?" verses 4–6.

The question here asked relates to the length of some period of time, and since it cannot relate to the whole length of Daniel's vision, it must relate to a period of time cut off from the latter end of that vision; and there must be something in the connection which indicates this, and to which the question is applicable, else the question would have been unintelligible. And the only time in the connection, to which the question on time can relate, is the time of trouble; in the end of which Daniel's people were to be delivered. After this question was put, Daniel says,

"And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he lifted up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and sware by him that liveth forever, that it shall be for a time, times, and a half: and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished. And I heard, but I understood not: then said I, O, my Lord, what shall be the end of these things?"

The reader will notice that the last word in the above quotation is supplied by the translators. Leaving it off, the question seems to relate to what should be the end of the time, times, and a half, and shows that he did not understand whether this was to be the complete measure of the time inquired about in the first question, "How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?" For that he understood the length of the period given, cannot be disputed; for if he had not understood it, it would have been necessary for him to have inquired as to its length.

Daniel had been under the Chaldean government for seventy years, and was taught the tongue and learning of the Chaldeans, and was associated in the government of Babylon (Dan. 2: 48), and of course followed their calendar. And in Bliss' Sacred Chronology (p. 24,) we read,

"The form of the year employed therein is the movable year of 365 days, consisting of twelve equal months of thirty days and five supernumerary days; which was the year in common use, as we have seen, among the Chaldeans, Egyptians, Arminians, Persians, and the principal Oriental nations from the earliest times."

For their year to be a "movable year of twelve equal months of thirty days and five supernumerary days," their year would have to be moved ahead five days every year; which is virtually leaving them out of the year. A time, then, would have been one year of three hundred and sixty days; times, being in the plural, could not be less than two, nor over this number, without making an indefinite period of it, and so must be only two of those years; a half time, half of three hundred and sixty, that is, one hundred and eighty days; in all, three and a half of those years: that is, 1260 days. This view of it is confirmed by Rev. 11: 2, 3, which represents forty-two months as amounting to 1260 days; and chap. 12: 6, 14, represents 1260 days as "a time, times, and a half."

Did Daniel understand those days to represent years? He could not have otherwise done; for in the preface to chapters eleven and twelve he says the time appointed was long. And all those periods in chapters 8, 9, 12, are short taken in their literal sense. To have been "long," therefore, they must be of a symbolical character, and so can only symbolize years. All this Daniel must have understood; and so when he said, "I heard, but I understood not," it referred to what was to be the end of this period. But if he had understood this to reach to the end, he could not have said, "O, my Lord, what shall be the end of these things?"

"Having asked this question, the reply was, "Go thy way, Daniel; for the words are closed up and sealed till the time of the end. Many shall be purified, made white, and tried; but the wicked shall do wickedly; and none of the wicked shall understand; but the wise shall understand. And from the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and the abomination that maketh desolate set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days." Verses 9–11.

It will be noticed that Daniel had no point given for the commencement of the "time, times, and a half," which accounts for the reason why he said, "What shall be the end of these?" And unless the 1290 days were given to date these, the question would be left unanswered; so the latter number was given to date the first by. And so when it was further said, "Blessed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the thousand three hundred and five and thirty days," the thousand contained in the 1335 days is identified with the thousand contained in the 1290, and this dating the 1260 days, indicates that these three periods date together. If, then, we can find the end of one of these periods, we can find the commencement of the three, and their end.

We turn to Dan. 7: 25, 26, and read of the papal power, "And he shall speak great words against the Most High, and shall wear out the saints of the Most High, and think to change times and laws; and they shall be given into his hand until a time and times, and the dividing of time. But the judgment shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion to consume and to destroy it unto the end."

There is a marked period in the history of the papacy, since which it has been on a general decline. On the fifteenth of February, 1798, Berthier, a French general, entered Rome, took the pope prisoner, declared the papal power abolished, and erected the republic of Italy, and carried the Pope into captivity into France, where he died in prison. If we admit that the 1260 day-years ended there, we have 538 as the time when they began; and as the 1335 began with these, we have 1873 as the time to end the time of trouble, when Daniel's people are to be delivered, "every one that shall be found written in the book"; while we have 1260 days as the measure of its intensity; the longer period reaching to its extreme end.

We close, then, with the remaining words of chapter 12: "But go thy way till the end be, for thou shalt rest, and stand in thy lot at the end of the days."

WM. HOBBS.

CAST ALL UPON CHRIST.—A man carrying a burden was overtaken by a rich man as he drove along, and invited to get up behind him in the carriage, which he thankfully did. After a while the rich man looked around and saw the burden still strapped to the traveler's back. He therefore asked him why he did not lay down his pack on the seat beside him. But he answered that he could not think of doing that; it was quite enough that he himself should be allowed to sit behind in the carriage, without putting his burden on the seat also. Thus, often, do believers fear to lay too much upon the Lord, who has bidden us "cast all our care upon him," and assured us that "he careth for us."

IDLE WORDS.—Be careful with regard to what you say while in conversation with those you love. Idle words have done much mischief and may still do more. Harmless as they seem, and innocently as they may be uttered, their effects are often baneful in the extreme. By the utterance of a single word near and dear friends have been estranged forever; nations that have always been at peace and on terms of friendly intercourse have been set at open variance and through their influence the harmony before existing between families and neighborhoods has been broken and friendship with them exists no longer.

— A knowledge of our duties is the most useful part of philosophy.

The World's Crisis

SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, June 1, 1870.

☞ Take Notice!

☞ All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ Money Orders.

☞ Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ H. N. READ—It is impossible for the Editor to be there.

☞ D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

☞ BRO. T. M. PREBLE having removed from Lynn, his P. O. address for a short time will be Chelsea, Mass., care of E. G. Kingsbury.

☞ BRO. NATHAN WHEELER'S P. O. address is Sugar Hill, N. H.

RUTLAND.

Rutland still affords good religious news. On our return there Saturday, May 21st, we learned that the prayer-meetings during the week had been seasons of special interest. Devoted Methodists, Baptists and Congregationalists, still take an active part in the meetings, and enjoy them exceedingly. They feel contented with us, and some have decided to stay and make it their home, in preference to their former church relations. Besides these, some strong men, who have been faithful servants of sin and Satan, are now rejoicing in the Lord and the blessed hope of the coming kingdom. As they have been leaders for the enemy of man, they are now willing to devote all their energies to Jesus, their best friend. We may well exclaim, What a change! Their whisky and tobacco are thrown to the moles and bats, and they have received the Holy Spirit instead. Their exchange is a happy one.

One prominent citizen, long noted for his energy of character and ability to superintend enterprises of a difficult nature, where courage, skill and fortitude were necessary, has given his heart to the Lord. His friends are very much surprised at the change that he has experienced. The popular preaching and theology had but little or no effect upon him. He clearly saw that they did not harmonize with the Bible, reason nor common sense; but when the simple truth of the Scripture came to his mind, he at once became interested, and sought the Lord. After some unsuccessful efforts to become a christian, he came to a strong obstacle, which was the use of tobacco. He is a very stout-built man, and could endure enough to kill two common men, with comparative ease. He had used tobacco very freely, and for many years; but was made to feel most deeply that he was not a fit temple for the Holy Spirit, while saturated with tobacco. Following a severe mental struggle on the subject, he resolved, by the help of the Lord, that he would use tobacco no more forever. After this decision, he was most sorely tempted; and even urged by a prominent church member to return to its use. When speaking of this temptation, said he, "I won't use tobacco again, if I go to hell." The Lord was so well pleased with his firm decision on this subject, that he immediately took away his appetite for it, and led him out of darkness into light, from sorrow to joy and peace, and embraced him as his child, affording rejoicing to men and angels. His case is a great triumph of the grace of God. A gentleman holding a high official position in Vermont, after hearing what the Lord had done for this man, remarked that what had been accomplished in his case, paid for all our labor in Rutland during the fourteen weeks. This man is noted for pressing to its consummation whatever he undertakes. He has now undertaken to live a christian life, and we trust he will be eminently successful. We have rarely seen one so anxious to start right, and build on the sure foundation. Up to this time (May 25th), he is the last one converted. Last evening he spoke three times in the meeting. It was a precious season. The Spirit of God was upon us in power. Most of the young converts are growing up into Christ, notwithstanding the strong opposition they have to endure from church members, and other devices of Satan.

This is a hard time for young christian soldiers. Unless they give up all to the Lord, there is but little chance for them to stand in this evil time. There is no doubt but that the perils will increase as we approach the great day of the Lord. The powers of darkness are rallying all their forces for a terrible conflict with the children of God. As far as possible, the enemy of all righteousness is trying to persuade the professed followers of Christ to make a compromise with him, to let him assist in getting up fairs, festivals, picnics, excursions, etc., they uniting with him, and then neither shall oppose the other; but if they will not do this, and make this league, then he will do all in his power to make them unpopular, and thus destroy their influence. It appears that but few are willing to let their good names, friends, and all go for Jesus and his truth. Those who make the compromise will not be able to stand in the coming conflict. They will be found on the side of the enemy, and must share the fate of rebels. Dear reader, be wise; "fight the good fight, lay hold on eternal life."

KENNEBUNK DEPOT.—We are pleased to learn that the Lord has been doing a good work at Kennebunk Depot, Me. Some twenty-two have been converted, and are seeking the kingdom of God. As they have no place in which to worship, but an uncomfortable school-house, they have decided to build a meeting-house. They are not abundant in this world's goods, and fear they shall not succeed, unless they can get some help from brethren in other places. If any will be liberal towards them, they will feel very grateful. Address Daniel Goodwin, Kennebunk Depot, Me.

CASTLETON.—We spent Monday evening, May 23d, with Bro. Mathewson, at Castleton. We had a profitable meeting in the evening. The church is still prospering under the faithful pastoral labors of Bro. M. As usual, we had a very pleasant visit with Bro. and Sr. M., and other dear christian friends.

THE FENIAN RAID.

The Fenians have made a bold move against Canada, but met with a signal defeat. Their plans were kept very secret up to Monday evening, May 23d, when they began to land at St. Albans, Vt. Tuesday evening, the 24th, several more car loads arrived, and quietly dispersed in different directions into the surrounding country, where they bought provisions of the farmers, and behaved quietly.

The following is from the St. Albans Messenger of Tuesday afternoon:

MOVEMENT OF SUPPLIES.

All Tuesday night teams were busy in the eastern towns transporting arms and supplies from hiding places towards the line. One man in Westford saw eight heavy loads pass there for the north and in Fairfield everything that could draw a load, and that money could hire, was engaged. Many wagoners received $10 each for their night's work, and one man informed us that he was offered as high as $25. During the afternoon Monday, seventeen loaded teams were on the east side of Fairfield Pond and after dark they started for the north.

We have two accounts from trustworthy sources in Fairfield, one of which puts the number of loaded teams that passed through the Center during the night at seventy-one and the other fixes the number which were seen at a point further north at eighty-five. One gentleman counted fifty-one in Sheldon and forty arrived at Franklin, where the drivers said they expected the men to take whatever composed the loads. We have information from there to the effect that more than sixty teams are now between Franklin and Pigeon Hill.

ARTILLERY.

During the early hours of Tuesday morning several pieces of artillery passed easterly through this village, together with several wagon loads of other war material. A few hours after this a veteran of the Union army, who resides in Fairfield, informs us that he saw four breech-loading Parrott guns, followed by three wagon loads of ammunition, pass through there en route north. The direction indicates that these were the same pieces that were seen here. Another Fairfield man, when on his way to St. Albans, Tuesday forenoon, met one piece of artillery and several loads of what he judged to be ammunition and supplies.

In addition to this, we are informed of the arrival of two pieces of artillery at Hubbard's Corner, in Franklin, about a mile this side of Canada line, and a gentleman of perfect reliability says he met, Tuesday morning, between Fairfield and Sheldon, about twenty pieces of light artillery in wagons.

THE PROBABLE FORCE.

All appearances indicate the presence of arms and supplies sufficient for at least 5,000 men and everything seems to be in the most perfect readiness for a movement so sudden and so formidable as to threaten immense damage to the Canadian government.

Up to the hour we go to press we think it safe to state that the number of Fenians who have arrived singly and in squads will not exceed three hundred, all told, but we have information by telegraph of the approach of four car loads from Troy and one car load of Zouaves from some place beyond White River Junction. These will arrive on the first train Tuesday evening, and from some remarks dropped by some of the Fenians, there is reason to expect a large detachment Wednesday morning.

We also have information by telegraph that 250 Fenians left Potsdam Junction this morning for Malone, and it is reported, though we cannot say how truthfully, that on the New York side of the Lake the telegraph has been cut in various places.

In Canada, on account of the excitement, the news and the rain, the Queen's anniversary birth-day has been celebrated with sorry jubilee. The militia are being hurried out from all quarters, and horses, railroads, telegraphs and nimble feet are hurrying red-coats to the front. At noon a company of forty men had arrived at St. Armand, but none except the local militia will be likely to reach the border further east before Wednesday morning. A collision will then be imminent.

The Fenian plans are not developed. Their officers are wholly reticent, and are off for the front as soon as they arrive. It is not known even who they are, but they and many of their men display evidences of skill and military experience.

It will be seen from the foregoing that the Fenians meant fight. It appears from facts developed, they have been transporting the weapons of war near to the Canada line in a very quiet, unobserved manner, for some time, so that whenever the time came for an invasion, their military equipments would be ready for them at once on their arrival. They well knew that the American government would not allow armed men to pass over the R. R.'s to invade a peaceful people, who were its neighbors; and yet it could not be expected that the American Government would forbid the rail-road companies from carrying an extra number of passengers, who paid their fare, and conducted with propriety on the way. After the President received satisfactory information that the Fenians intended to make a raid on Canada, he issued the following proclamation:—

By the President of the United States of America,

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas it has come to my knowledge that sundry illegal enterprises and expeditions are being set on foot within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States, with a view to carry on the same from such territory and jurisdiction against the people and district of the Dominion of Canada, within the dominion of her Majesty, the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, with whom the United States is at peace, now, therefore, I, Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States, do hereby admonish all good citizens of the United States, and all persons within the military jurisdiction of the United States, against aiding, countenancing, abetting or taking part in such unlawful proceeding, and I do hereby warn all persons that by committing such illegal acts they will forfeit all right to the protection of this government, or to its interference in their behalf to rescue them from the consequences of their own acts. And I do hereby enjoin all officers in the service of the United States to employ all their lawful authority and power to prevent and defeat the aforesaid unlawful proceeding, and to arrest and bring to justice all persons who may be engaged therein.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this 24th day of May, in the year of our Lord, 1870, and in the Independence of the United States of America the 94th. U. S. GRANT.

By the President.
HAMILTON FISH, Sec. of State.

Wednesday, May 25th, matters assumed a more serious aspect. The expedition is under the command of Gen. O'Niel, who has since been captured by Gen. Geo. P. Foster, U. S. Marshal for Vt. The following is from the Rutland Herald:—

Franklin, Vt., via. St. Albans, May 25.—Gen. O'Neil is at this point, two and a half miles from the line with his aid. General J. J. Donnelly and one thousand men including infantry, cavalry, and one battery of artillery, and is now giving orders to cross the line and within two hours the Fenian flag will fly on her Majesty's Dominion. There is five hundred more between here and St. Albans ready to join the advance guard. All the men here are well officered, equipped, uniformed and armed. The commander at Malone is Gen. Clingham, and Gen. Carter is expected.

During the forenoon the Fenians were busy at Hubbard's Corner, half a mile beyond Franklin, in unpacking their arms, uniforms, etc., and getting ready for action. Gen. O'Neil was present, and with Gen. Donnelly, Cols. Brown and Sullivan, and Capt. Lonegan was busy in superintending the busy operations.

Reports stated the number of Canadian militia on the other side at about fifty and intrenched. At half past 11 o'clock Gen. Geo. P. Foster, U. S. Marshal for Vt., arrived and caused the road, which the Fenians had rendered impassable for some, to be opened. Almost immediately orders were given to fall in and the march commenced. Arriving within about a hundred rods of the line orders were given to load, and this being done the march was resumed. Very soon the red coats were seen skirting the woods on a side hill to the left of the road, and when the Fenians arrived near the brick house of Alvah Richards, which is about 20 rods this side the border they halted, and after speeches by O'Neil, Capt. Cronan and Col. Brown, fight commenced by the Canadians opening a sharp volley from positions concealed, and much nearer than the Fenians had supposed.

Capt. Cronan's men immediately faced to the left and returned the fire. Gen. O' Neil was just in the rear, partially sheltered by the house, but he immediately took an exposed position and began to survey the position of the enemy through his glass. The two companies that were following became excited and would have wasted powder, but their officers were cool and in an instant the men became so, and moved forward in good order to the hill-side on the left.

Headquarters of Gen. O'Neil, at Alvah Richard's House, ten rods south of the Canada line, Franklin, Vt. The Fenians moved to this point at 11.30 A. M. At 12.10 the picket guard, under Capt. Brown, crossed the line and were immediately repulsed, with the loss of one man killed (John Rowe, Burlington) and four men wounded, among whom are Lieut. John Hallihan, Burlington, a slight flesh wound in his right arm, and James Keenan, of Fort Edward, in his right foot. The main body was deployed to the left, on the hill.

The battle of Richards' Faren had opened by sharp shooting on both sides, and it is reported that Capt. Monahan, who was leading, was killed. There is said to be about one hundred Canadians holding the bridge, and they keep it well covered so that it is impossible for Gen. O'Neil to dislodge them. At this time, one o'clock P. M., the firing has almost ceased.

CAPTURE OF GEN. O'NEIL.

By virtue of the President's proclamation, Gen. Foster captured Gen. O'Neil, the leader of this Fenian raid. It is said he has made this raid on his own responsibility, without the general consent of the Fenians. When Gen. Foster was about to arrest him, he stood back, and refused to be arrested, saying he had troops at hand that he should use for his protection. At this juncture, as reported by the special correspondent of the Rutland Herald:—

"Gen. Foster glanced up the road and saw two companies of Fenian reinforcements close at hand, and with that ready judgment for which he is characteristic in a tight place, he threw open the door of the carriage, and with Failey's help thrust Gen. O'Neil into the back seat in an instant. Quick as thought they leaped into their seats and the driver lashed the horses from the field with the greatest speed. Gen. O'Neil meanwhile having been cautioned that any outcry might cost him his life. He arrived with him at five minutes before four o'clock, and when he came away fighting was still going on. Probably Gen. Donnelly, chief of staff, succeeded to the command."

Gen. O'Neil was taken immediately to the Weldon house, St. Albans, and soon arraigned before the U. S. Commissioner, Jacob M. Smalley, for violation of neutrality laws. He waived examination, and in default of $20,000 bail, was taken to Burlington. It is said the arrest of their leader has very much dampened the zeal of the Fenians, and that many are already on their way back to St. Albans, and procuring passage to their homes. The prompt action of the President has saved much bloodshed, and prevented many horrid scenes.

For the World's Crisis.

LIGHT.

"Being at Calais," says a traveler, "I climbed up into the light-house and talked with the keeper."

"Suppose," I said, "that one of these lights should go out."

"Never! impossible!" he cried with a sort of horror. "See," said he, pointing to the ocean yonder, where nothing can be seen, "there are ships going by to every part of the world. If to-night one of my burners were to go out, within six months would come a letter, perhaps from India, or from America, perhaps from some place I never heard from, saying that on such a night the keeper neglected his post, and vessels were in peril. Ah! sir, sometimes in the dark night, and in stormy weather, I look to sea, and feel as if the eye of the whole world was looking at my light. Go out? burn dim? no, never!"

Bro. and Sr., are your lights burning? The Savior says, "Ye are the light of the world"; but I am afraid that it is growing dim. Shall sinners look to you for a light, and you let it go out, and they be lost on account of it? May God help you to trim your lamps, so you can show to the world the way to the haven of rest. May you say as did the light-keeper, "Go out? no, never!"

H. S. MITCHELL.

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."
By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

Sheldon's Four New Tracts.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

1. "LIFE AND DEATH THEOLOGY: or, The Scriptural Doctrine of 'Eternal Damnation' and 'Everlasting Punishment.'" Price 10 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 80 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $6.00 per hundred by express.

This work of sixty-four pages is the clearest and strongest document yet produced by Bro. Sheldon on this topic. It is just the thing to scatter among all classes.

2. IMMATERIALISM: or, The Doctrine of Soul-Immortality Refuted." Price 5 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $3.00 per hundred by express.

A tract of thirty-two pages, showing that fifteen cardinal errors spring out of the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and that those errors could not exist independent of that doctrine, thus showing it to be the main root of error. Let it be scattered widely.

3. "DEATH AND THE DEAD," 16 pages. Price 3 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1.50 per hundred by express.

Just the thing to scatter everywhere.

4. "THE COMING JUDGMENT: Its Necessity and Result," Eight pages. 10 cts. per dozen, postpaid, or 75 cts. per hundred by express.

It will do much good. A'GT.

For the World's Crisis.

THE LAW MAKER.

Spiritualists and skeptics of all kinds are ready to cry out, "There is no personal God, but one great and universal law governing all things, from which there can be no deviation." Very good. There being such a law, it must emanate from a source greater than all, to be governed by the same. Also it must come from a higher intelligence than the one to whom it is given.

Law also implies subjects; as such, they are amenable to that law. Law implies a penalty for the breaking of that law. Law implies the personality of the law-giver. A penalty being attached to that law, implies that the law-giver is fully competent to execute the penalty threatened on the disobedient.

The legitimate conclusion drawn from the word "law" is, that there is a personal, intelligent, and Almighty God. "For thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy; I dwell in the high and holy place; with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit."—Isa. 57: 15.

NAAMAN GRANT.

For the World's Crisis.

HOW IS THIS?

I am led to inquire, Have all the translators of the Bible into English made an egregious blunder in rendering Job 19: 26, and given us an incorrect version, and one too which seems to assert a doctrine contrary to their own preconceived opinions? And have all the Hebrew critics failed to detect this blunder until the present time?

As reported, the Rev. Geo. P. Hepworth, pastor of the church of the Messiah, New York, preached a most eloquent sermon to a large congregation last Sabbath, in which, offering some reasons for a new translation of the Scriptures he said:

"Some passages, both in the New Testament and the Old, are so badly translated as to wholly mislead the reader; while many interpolations were made in the heat of theological controversy on which to found a dogma."

He then cites the well-known instance of the three heavenly witnesses in John, and adds:

"In Job 19th chapter it says: 'And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God.' Give this text its true translation, and behold what a beauteous light is shed over its meaning: 'And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet without my flesh shall I see God.' Here, at once, is beheld the distinction between mind and matter, and the glorious assurance that though this body be laid in the grave and perish, yet the soul shall live and look upon its God. For this and a thousand other reasons, the world should be given a new translation. Man is approaching a new religious life,—a life which we can get only from the New Testament; but not by outgrowing God's word."

I have looked at several translations, and they all read, "See God in my flesh," except one, which reads, "Then shall my skin encompass this body, and from my flesh shall I behold God, whom I shall gaze upon myself." Mr. Hepworth seems to have followed a late expositor (Barnes)—"Yet even without my flesh shall I see God." Whether this is strictly according to the Hebrew, or whether it is "outgrowing God's word," Hebrew scholars must decide.

If the Hebrew Scriptures any where affirm that men when dead can see God, or that they possess souls that can then, and not before, gaze upon God, I should think it was about time this information was imparted to the world. Will those who are learned examine, and give us the truth? S. HALL.

Hartford, Ct.

For the World's Crisis.

EXPLANATION.

Bro. Grant:—In my letter dated Apr. 4th, which is published in the Crisis of this week, I did not mean to convey the idea that the people of West Greenwich had never heard of the "blessed hope," for that would give the impression that they were quite unchristian, which is not the case, the community where I was laboring being a christian community. Lest some might get that impression, which would be doing injustice to that people, will you please just correct that clause—"They had never heard of the blessed hope," and simply say, where there had been no Advent preaching. ELLEN L. CRUMB.

Dorrville, R. I., May 27th, 1870.

☞ The prevailing belief that Protestants in Rome are compelled to worship outside the walls of the city, is erroneous.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute according to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERRON, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments.............$510.93
A Helper.............5.00

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments.............$66.46

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 202, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments.............$827.65
J. Clothy.............1.00

For the World's Crisis.

GOD WILL BE GLORIFIED.

Yes, reader, whether you and I are saved or lost, God will be glorified. Christian, let this be engraven upon thy heart, and never depart from thy mind: God will be glorified. Whether thou art faithful or not, the object in thy being and calling will be the same; his glorification. God will not be disappointed by us, nor in anything which he has made. He will be glorified. Creating all things for pleasure, nothing will prevent him from receiving the praise and glory he seeks. The universe will at length fully praise him, and every thing that he has made will bring him glory. He will be satisfied with the result. His will will be done, and in the end his glory full and complete: he will be glorified.

If we ourselves do not glorify him, he will glorify himself by us; our creation will not be in vain. If we glorify him, he will glorify us with himself; but if we do not glorify him, he will be glorified by our destruction. Every event in time will bring him glory; every act of angels and men will exalt his name. Nothing will be lost by him, by what he may order or permit. God will not lose honor or glory by any event, or act of any creature which he has made. God cannot lose.

But thou, O man, canst lose; yea, thou wilt lose, if thou dost not glorify thy God. This is thy duty to thyself—thy life-work. Neglect it, and thou art lost. It matters not what thou mayest gain in the world; all is soon lost and thyself also, if God be not glorified by thee. God will exist without thee; but thou canst not live without God. He can be glorified by thy destruction, but thou must live and be exalted by him, or be in shame forever. For thy glory and honor he asks thee to glorify him; yet on his own behalf he claims glory from thee.

Dear reader, he seeks thy salvation. For his own sake and glory he seeks it. For thy sake he desires it. He has no pleasure in thy death. He wants thee to live—live with him through the coming, endless ages. He wants to set thee at his right hand, and have thee join in the song of redemption in the presence of angels. He wants to hear thy voice in the great anthem that is to fill the heavens, and roll on through eternity. He wants thee there in the blood-washed throng, a trophy of his saving grace and love. He wants thee there to be glorified with him. Thou hast heard the invitation. His house is filling up. Come, while there is room, and before the seats at the table are all taken, and the door is closed. Come, and glorify God, and he will glorify thee. God will be glorified.

Glory unto him will come
  From the wide creation:
Earth and sea, from every land,
  Every tongue and nation,
Shall ascend the lofty praise,
Through the never ending days.

Glory unto him shall come,
  Never ending glory;
Heaven above, and earth beneath,
  Each shall tell the story
Of his greatness, truth and love,
While the eternal ages move.

Men and angels all shall join;
  Worlds united all shall sing;
Every voice and every tongue
  He hath made, his praise shall bring;
Swelling still the chorus higher,
Of the vast immortal choir.

I. I. LESLIE.

For the World's Crisis.

PAGO-CHRISTIANIZED THEOLOGY.

Death is a stern reality, and we have no reason for trifling with solemn realities; but we desire to look at the monster—death, as an enemy, and not as a friend. I long ago abandoned the false notion that "death is the gate to endless joys," but learned that when man was dead he was not (at the same time) alive; neither in heaven, nor in hell-torments. The real condition of man in death is a state of unconsciousness—a sleep, till the resurrection at the last day.

Let us look at some fancied notions of the good,—yes, they mean well, many of them, but they certainly are in an error. Let us hear the testimony of one who believes his friends who have died are in heaven.

"I bless God for the hope I am permitted to entertain, that I have a mother whose spirit wanders in a cloud of glory, through the gardens and over the delectable mountains of the blest. She spent here below a life of sorrow, wedded to privations and disappointments; but now she plucks the fragrant flowers and the delicious fruits of paradise, leans her weary head upon the bosom of Jesus, and slumbers in the visions of the throne of God. I have often fancied in hours of darkness and gloom that her glorified spirit lingered around me, whispering words of consolation." And he adds: "Glory to God, that we have friends in heaven! Parents, husbands, wives, children, brothers, sisters, have gone before us. They await our arrival on those blissful shores." Then comes an outbreak of fancy in the shape of poetry:

"There is a glorious world of light
  Above the starry sky,
Where saints departed, clothed in white,
  Adore the Lord most high."

Now, dear reader, are not such very pretty specimens of fancy too good to be spoiled? How very comforting—away to heaven at death; no need of a resurrection; how perfectly useless that would be. And then, there is no use of saying anything about Christ's coming again, seeing we shall go "above the starry sky" when we die, and wander in a "cloud of glory through the gardens and over the delectable mountains." And yet, these same persons will tell you that without a resurrection, all nature is involved in a mystery. How true is this thought; and yet how completely irreconcilable with the foregoing remarks. One speaks the language of the Bible; the other the language of pagan philosophy.

Here is another morsel of sublime paganism on the death of a lady:

"Now in her snow-white shroud she lies,
  Her lily lids half veil her eyes,
As if she looked with wild surprise
  Up at her soul in paradise.
Her hands lie folded on her breast,
  Crossed like the cross that gave her rest;
She looks as if some heavenly guest
  Had told her that her soul was blest."

This is a rare specimen of modern theology, or immortal-soulism. Here soul and body both are made conscious in death. The body is looking "up at her soul in paradise"; but not being able to trust its eyes, a "heavenly guest" is sent to talk to the body, and tell it "her soul was blest." O, what a splendid theology! The outbreak of some minister of fancy, with which the present age abounds. If the word of God is not turned into fables by such teaching, then I am very much mistaken.

No such teachings are brought to view in the word of God. "The dead praise not the Lord"; and were it not for the resurrection, they are "perished." Our only hope for our friends who sleep in Jesus is, that the Lord will raise them up at the last day; then they will be clothed with immortality and have eternal life.

We are all interested in this matter, being subjects of death; and our object is to arrive at the truth. We will close with a scrap of true poetry:

Rest, sweet mother, rest in slumber,
  Until the resurrection morn;
Then arise and join the number
  Who thy triumph shall adorn.

Fair Haven, Ct. J. E. CLARK.

For the World's Crisis.

AND STILL THEY COME.

We are glad to be able to inform our beloved brethren in Christ, that we believe the Lord is with the little church in Porter, Me. Notwithstanding all has not been accomplished in the conversion of sinners that we would have been glad to have seen, yet we have great reason to be glad in believing that some precious souls have of late been born, "not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God."—John 1: 13.

Sunday, May 22nd, a large concourse of people gathered down by the river's side, to witness the burial of five happy souls beneath the yielding waves. It was a pleasant and happy day in the Lord to a goodly number assembled there. The ordinance was administered by our beloved brother, T. E. Lang, who has labored faithfully and acceptably the past winter, from time to time, with the church in Porter; and God has blest with his Holy Spirit, and many more poor, unsaved ones have been deeply convicted of the truth, that have not given up to its influence. We are hoping that they will yet become decided to obey and follow Jesus.

Some four years since we decided to be for Christ, and at that time there were but few in this part of the Ossipee valley who were lovers of our like precious faith; but to-day a goodly number are rejoicing in the truth; and we feel to cry out from the fulness of our heart, "It is the Lord's doing, and it is marvelous in our eyes." Truly a great change has been wrought in that time in all this region of country. But little more than a year ago there was no church at Porter village, and no meetings of any sort except an occasional one; and nearly the whole place seemed given over to the service of Satan. But now a loving, happy band of praying ones has been raised up, and prayer-meetings are held regularly twice a week at the village, besides others held in the vicinity once and twice a week; and other denominations have been stirred up to have meetings in the place; even Universalists have meetings now one-fourth part of the time. Bless God for what has been done for us and our fellow creatures around us. CHAS. H. HURD.

Freedom, N. H., May 24th, 1870.

For the World's Crisis.

NEWS FROM ENGLAND.

Just a word or two, dear brethren who read this, in great haste, to tell you of the glorious reformation that is taking place in England, in reference to the spread of truth. Life only in Jesus as its store-house, and through Jesus as its channel, is gaining ground hourly. I say hourly, for daily is not now to be mentioned. Opposition for the moment on every hand. A sharp skirmish, and then the triumph of "the thoughts of His heart which endure to all generations." It must ever be so. God must triumph; for who is a man of war like to Jehovah of hosts? Ministers are preaching and exhorting their audiences, till they are nearly spent, not to believe that death is death, but some kind of life; but the people are not to be settled in that way; they are not pacified with that sop.

Englishmen are practical to the very last, and not in heathenish darkness as those who peopled the world in the classic ages; and myths are not to be tolerated. Splendid lies are not as good as plain truths; and an handful of corn is more acceptable than husks.

Priestcraft has lived its day. A long day, alas! far too long. Dissertations are all very good in their way for those who know all practical truth and carry it out in life; but where can a man of this sort be found? It may amuse, or interest, to hear a grand and elaborate "sermon"; but the christian cannot feed on sermons. Yet he does say, "How precious are thy thoughts, unto me, O God."

It is these precious thoughts that are going abroad in England. May they prevail more and more, and may the black of error fade away before the light of the blessed gospel.

I have issued thousands of tracts on the all-important truth that adds a fresh and deeper lustre to the grace of God—eternal life his gift. Many among the true-hearted ministering servants of Christ are sending for tracts and papers. By the kind permission of dear Bro. Grant, given some two years ago, I have just issued two thousand copies of "Pauline Theology." We are pressing the battle to the very gates.

Last week there was a county association of ministers here, and about fifty ministers and delegates received a copy of "Immortality only through Christ." As soon as we know each other enough in England, we shall issue a penny weekly paper.

Bro. Leask is doing well in the cause of truth here. His Rainbow spans the truth, and I am glad to see it improving. It is very sad that hades should be considered as a world of life, when it is dead men that go there. And as to shades, why, it is all a shady idea of a dark age. Bro. Leask's Rainbow should be taken by all the faithful in Christ in America. I must not forget to mention, also, Bro. Carstable of Ireland, who is a dignitary in the Established Church. He is clear, I think, as far as I have read. He calls man "dust," in opposition to others who call him "spirit." He writes very concisely and scripturally.

The greatest helps to the spread of truth are the Brethren who are continually "casting out" of their synagogue. The cases are "noised abroad," interest is excited, and the case is looked into. Sometimes letters are published on both sides, and a summary of the truth given. I have one on hand now for a person in Dublin. Of course it raises a storm, but though the truism is threadworn, it is for all that a realism—"After a storm comes a calm."

And in concluding let us draw some comfort from that, applied in a different direction. After a storm—earth's storm, with its lashing and mighty hubbub—there comes a calm. Blessed then those who stand the storm now; the storm of fire and brimstone shall never beat upon them; but they shall abide in the "rest that remaineth for the people of God," through all halcyon and sun-lit ages. May the Lord dispose the unconverted reader to long for that "rest." Yours in the blessed hope, W. KELLAWAY.

26 St. Thomas St., Weymouth, Dorset, Eng.

For the World's Crisis.

"SPIRITUAL MELODIES," by Elder I. K. Lombard.—An enlarged edition of the above work for general use, it being a choice selection of 453 hymns. It is well arranged, each class under its respective head. It contains many precious gems, and is of very convenient size. The paper and imprint are very fair, and the binding excellent. Those in leather are really beautiful pocket companions. They are for sale by I. K. Lombard, Chelsea, Mass. S. S. BREWER.

For the World's Crisis.

"FATHER KNOWS."

A gentleman was one day opening a box of dry goods. His little son was standing near, and as he took the packages from the box, he laid some on the arm of the boy. A little friend and playmate of the merchant's son was standing by, looking on. As package after package was laid upon the arm of the boy, his little friend began to fear his load was becoming heavy, and said:

"Johnny, don't you think you've got as much as you can carry?"

"Never mind," dear little Johnny replied, in a sweet, happy voice, "father knows how much I can carry."—Sel.

Dear brethren and sisters, there is a great lesson to be learned from the narrative above. "Father knows." Yes, he knows just how much that little, weak, tried and tempted child of his can carry, or bear. He never will lay one more burden on them than they can carry. Trials must and will come, and who knows how much we can bear better than our heavenly Father. We may at times murmur at trials, and temptations; they may seem to weigh us down; but still our strength holds strength holds out. We go through with it. Then we can praise God that he has not left us alone to bear all our trials.

A trial comes. It is a hard one to bear. You may say, I can never endure it; but hold, dear one. Stop, think, reflect. Has Father ever left you in the past? No. Then will he leave you in the future? Never, no, never. How much better, then, to cast all your cares on him. "Count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations," or trials. Never murmur. Your lot may be a hard one, but, like the little boy referred to, say smilingly, "Father knows how much I can carry." Yes, dear ones, he knows all about it.

"O what a friend we have in Jesus,
Who will all our sorrows bear."

Yes, he will do it. Then be encouraged; the time of trial is nearly over. A few more, and the last one will be past. The great Deliverer will soon come. Then all those who have endured patiently unto the end will have the crown of life. O hail, happy day! Come, Lord Jesus, and set all free. Then cheer up, lone pilgrim. Trust in God a little longer; pray a little longer; you will soon be made like him. Glorious thought! May it soon come, is my prayer. Amen. Thy Bro. in Christ, GEO. A. STREETER.

Extracts from Letters.

SR. E. J. GARLAND writes:—"Is not this a blessed thought, as we toil here in the darkness of trouble and woe, that we can look up and exclaim in the fulness of the heart, 'A home in heaven'? I rejoice that every true follower may and does feel assured of this blessed hope, whatever his station in life may be. Although his pathway may be winding and rugged, and the wrongs and deceit of false friends may sometimes wring the heart, doubt and temptation arise, and Satan himself advance with power; yet he has the assurance that soon, very soon, the morning will dawn, and the sun break through the dark clouds of adversity, and through his tears he shall see the haven of rest. Then let us be firm in our faith, and pursue the voyage without fear, trusting in Him who sends the storm to guide our frail bark on this restless ocean, and will bring us safe home at last."

BRO. O. SHERWIN writes from William Springs, Ill.:—"I have moved from Chicago to this place. I am one of a gang of hands working with dredge and derrick, on the Ill. and Mich. Canal, eighteen miles from Chicago, on the St. Louis R. R. I shall be glad to hear from any of the saints at Joliet, or vicinity. There ought to be a meeting of our faith there. There is no meeting of any kind here, and few inhabitants. I long for the time when the scattered saints shall be gathered from the four winds. 'Thy kingdom come; thy will be done in earth as it is done in heaven.'"

BRO. J. W. BURROUGHS writes:—"The good Lord is still at work in Ancona. The good work is going on finely. I baptized three more the last time I was there. The sects are doing all that they can to stop the work, but the Lord can work and none can hinder. They undertook to hold a meeting the last Sunday I was there, but there were so few attended the minister would not preach. The truth has taken deep hold of the people, and many poor souls that were a short time ago in the bonds of iniquity, are now rejoicing in the blessed hope of soon seeing Jesus and being like him; for we shall soon see him as he is."

☞ A Parisian Journal tells us that a number of ladies have formed themselves into a society for the purpose of reforming the fashions; that is to say, to reduce the present extravagant expenditure on dress. They call their association "L'Union des Femmes Chrétiennes." Each lady promises to spend so much and no more on her toilette annually, and to pay ready money.

Obituaries.

TAYLOR. Died, in Byron, Me., April 20, 1870, my father, Richard Taylor, aged sixty-one years, one month and ten days.

In 1839, the year he moved to this place, father, mother, and three or four others, who moved here about the same time from the same town, were converted to God. There was no preaching in the place at the time, there had never been any meetings, and they had not heard a prayer in the neighborhood. They commenced prayer meetings, which have been continued ever since, with preaching occasionally. God has added to their numbers such as we trust will be saved.

The promises and grace of God sustained him in his last hours. He lived to see all his children converted to God.

"The mossy old graves, where the pilgrims sleep,
Will be opened as wide as before,
And the millions that sleep in the mighty deep,
Shall live on the earth once more."

Sermon at the funeral by Bro. E. M. Haggett.
A. W. TAYLOR.

DUNN. Died, in Byron, Me., April 29th, 1870, Sr. Mary J. Dunn, aged thirty-seven years.

The subject of this notice was a great sufferer during her sickness of full three years. The Christian's hope was hers. She looked forward to the time when there will be no more pain. She leaves a husband, a little boy, a widowed mother and one brother, with other relatives and friends, to mourn her loss.

Words of comfort were spoken at the funeral from Isa. 25: 8. A. W. TAYLOR.

WALDRON. Died, in Stewartstown, N. H., May 4th, 1870, of consumption, Charles L., son of Ira S. and Sarah A. Waldron, aged eight years, five months and twenty-six days.

Charles will sleep until Jesus calls him forth to wear a crown of life. May God give sustaining grace to the parents, who are passing through severe trials. Sermon on the funeral occasion by the writer, from 2 Kings 4: 26. A. GORDON.

ANDERSON. Died, in Limington, Me., Oct. 3d, 1869, of cancer, Bro. George Anderson, aged seventy years and ten months.

The subject of this notice embraced religion some twelve years since. He bore his sufferings without a murmur, and fell asleep with a hope of coming forth in the "resurrection of the just." He leaves a wife and a large circle of friends to mourn their loss. M. A. ANDERSON.

SHACKLEY. Died, in Peru, Me., April 26th, 1870, of cancer, Mrs. Louisa Shackley, aged fifty-two years, eight months and two days.

Her sufferings were great, which she was enabled to bear with christian patience. She rests in hope. She leaves a husband and daughter to mourn her loss. May God's grace sustain them in their affliction. Text used on the occasion, Hosea 13: 14. E. M. HAGGETT.

SMITH. Died, in Bradley, Me., of consumption, May 21st, Sister Nancy, wife of Bro. Samuel Smith.

Many who have visited Bradley will remember her hospitality, as her house has been a pilgrim's home for many years. She leaves a husband and three children, besides numerous friends, to mourn her loss. We preached on the occasion from Isa. 25: 8. GEO. W. BROWN.

HUBBARD. Died, May 20th, 1870, Bro. Alonzo Hubbard, of Houghtonville, Vt., aged sixty-one years.

Bro. Hubbard has been failing for three months. He died in hope of a better resurrection, feeling Jesus to be precious. S. COOK.

NILES. Died, in Gardiner, May 2nd, 1870, Sr. Celia Niles, aged twenty-five years.
H. D. REED.

Married.

HASTINGS—GRIFFITH. In Boston, May 28th, by Eld. A. P. Moore, Mr. JOHN S. HASTINGS, and Miss LOUISA F. GRIFFITH, both of Boston.

EASTER—SMITH. April 23d, by Eld. T. T. Farrell, Mr. J. EASTER, Jr., of Boston, and Miss S. S. SMITH, of Springfield, Mass., daughter of Charles Smith, Esq., of Quebec.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

PARIS, May 24. M. Ollivier declines to allow the citizens' committee, formed to promote the adoption of the Plebiscitum, to maintain a permanent organization, declaring that the Government could not sanction the creation of a permanent and irresponsible political body.

The Corps Legislatif has adopted the amendment to the press law which was proposed by the opposition. The Ministers resisted the amendment, but without avail.

A dispatch from Rome denies that the French Government is sending reinforcements to Rome. Meanwhile the Journal des Alpes Maratimes reports that two regiments of infantry and one of cavalry arrived at Toulon yesterday and embarked for Rome.

QUEBEC, May 24. A great conflagration occurred here to-day, destroying six hundred houses and two new ships.

May 26. In the Corps Legislatif to-morrow an interpellation will be submitted to the government on the cause of the dissolution of the Plebiscitory Committee. The ministerial journals express fears that the question raised on this point may result in a coalition of the right and left wings of the Corps against the Ministry. It is announced that on this occasion the left will declare itself the constitutional party, and will signify its willingness to accept power under the Empire, if it is permitted to carry out its programme. Picard is the leader in this movement, and will be the chief of the party, which is to be called the Constitutional Left.

Dispatches from Lisbon report that on Tuesday last groups of citizens passed through the streets crying, "Live Iberian Union."

LONDON, May 26. Voluminous dispatches, received from the New York Associated Press office, giving the President's proclamation and the movements of the Fenians, were printed in the newspapers here this morning, and made a decided sensation. President Grant's course was warmly commended on all sides.

The Times says that while the proclamation itself is satisfactory, the absence of American troops on the borders to carry out its provisions is deplorable. This, however, is not surprising, as troops are not usually quartered on a friendly frontier. Troops should be sent to Canada immediately, and Canada forward to the frontier all the soldiers she can spare. Canada must have no tenderness for this second offense; these marauders must be treated as robbers, ruffians and murderers.

The Morning Telegraph says President Grant has acted with loyalty and honor.

The Morning Post is confident that the loyal and energetic action of the American President will place the Fenians in their proper light before the world, as being the enemies of mankind.

LONDON, May 29. Advices from Rome represent that the infallibilists, both in and out of the Council, are extremely active. During the debate which is pending they have called in all the absentees of the party to meet the vote, which will soon be taken; and outside of the Council they are assembling in large numbers, and exert a powerful pressure on the dissenters.

BERLIN, May 27. Count Von Bismarck has made a proposal to the Great Powers that they take joint action for the suppression of piracy on the Chinese waters. The governments of Great Britain and the United States have signified their acceptance of the proposition.

GREECE, Vienna, May 14. Correspondence of North Eastern Correspondencia of Berlin. Information from an official source enables me to give you some positive details relative to the steps which the Powers are about to take in order to obtain satisfaction for the crime of Marathon. According to this intelligence, England, in concert with Italy (the two others protecting countries, France and Russia, have not yet pronounced), will require the King of Greece to completely change his Cabinet and that all the present members of it shall be dismissed. The formation of a new one will take place under the direct influence of Great Britain, and consequently will be able to count upon the support of that nation in the work of purification and reconstruction which is to be effected without delay in all branches of the administration.

Until the completion of that task constitutional liberties will be suspended. During that period of transition the King and royal family whose journey to Germany, Denmark, and Russia was stopped by the sad affair at Marathon, will leave the country, which will be governed by Prince John, his Majesty's uncle, as regent. The Cabinet of the Tuileries has just in its turn declared, through its representative at Athens, that it will henceforth consider the Hellenic government as responsible for the security of every French traveler, who, after having indicated the route he intends to pursue, shall have received from the authorities the assurance that the road in question is not infested with brigands.

PAPAL INFALLIBILITY.—The schema of the dogma of infallibility, which is now under discussion in the Ecumenical Council, has been distributed in printed form. It contains five canons, as follows:

1. If any one should say that the episcopal chair of the Roman Church is not the true and real infallible chair of Blessed Peter, or that it has not been divinely chosen by God as the most solid, indefectible, and incorruptible rock of the whole Christian Church, let him be anathema.

2. If any one should say that there exists in the world another infallible chair of the truth of the gospel of Christ our Lord distinct and separate from the chair of blessed Peter, let him be anathema.

3. If any one should deny that the divine magisterium of the chair of blessed Peter is necessary to the true way of eternal salvation for all men, whether unfaithful or faithful, whether laymen or bishops, let him be anathema.

4. If any one should say that each Roman Pontiff, legitimately elected, is not by divine right the successor of blessed Peter, even in the gift of the infallibility of magisterium, and should deny to any one of them the prerogative of infallibility for teaching the church the word of God pure from all corruption and error, let him be anathema.

5. If any one should say that general councils are established by God in the church as a power of feeding the divine flock in the word of faith superior to the Roman Pontiff, or equal to him, or necessary by divine institution in order that the magisterium of the Roman Bishop should be preserved infallible, let him be anathema.

DOMESTIC.

New York, May 26. The enrollment of Fenians is carried on to-night steadily, though not with the same enthusiasm as last night. Meetings were held at Hibernia Hall and other places, at which stirring speeches were made, exhorting all who loved their country to hasten to the front. The Fenian headquarters are almost entirely deserted, all the prominent men have left the city.

Col. Burke and Col. Graynor have filled their regiments and two hundred of the latter command started for St. Albans to-night. About five hundred men left by the 8 and 11 o'clock trains over the Hudson River Railroad. Now that the first feeling of depression caused by the news of the capture of Gen. O'Neil has passed away, the general feeling is that it will no more interfere with the success of the expedition than if he had fallen in battle. The proposed mass meeting of Irish sympathizers will be held on Saturday.

Hartford, Conn. May 26. A meeting of the Fenians of this city and vicinity was held at American Hall to-night, and they resolved to aid their brethren whenever called upon. The Fenians at Meriden are also waiting orders, and signify their intention of starting to the front at the first call, in any way. They will continue to recruit men as long as there is a shadow of hope.

St. Albans, Vt., May 27. The only Fenians that left for their homes last evening were Burlington boys. The rest remained here and were provided with food by order of U. S. Marshal Foster and the village authorities. The presence of United States troops and the closing of liquor saloons make them orderly and peaceable.

The depot furnished shelter for one hundred, some quartered on sympathizing friends, while others were compelled to lay out of doors. The men have no money, and officers have not more than enough to provide for their own wants. Some of the men claim that Gen. O'Neil has one or two hundred thousand dollars of Fenian funds in his possession. They have been loitering about the streets this morning in squads of ten or more, discussing their probable fate and destination.

New York, May 27. Gens. Meade and McDowell, Quartermaster Gen. Ingalls and Quartermaster Van Vleet with several staff officers took the eleven o'clock train last night on the Hudson River Railroad. In answer to a question as to what movements were intended by the United States troops Gen. Meade said that he had no settled plan, but should take a look at the situation at the front and be guided by circumstances. If necessary, arrangements had been made for concentrating a large force on the borders in a short time. The neutrality laws would be enforced at all hazards.

Toronto, Canada, May 26. The Fenian movement may be now looked upon as having virtually collapsed. Straggling parties may give a little trouble, yet the preparations are so complete that nothing but an entire defeat will attend any further invasion. The story of the Indians having attacked the troops at Saut St. Marie cannot be traced to any reliable source, and the latest advices say nothing about it. On the Niagara and Detroit frontier there is a sufficient force in readiness to repel any attempt to enter the country.

Quebec, Canada, May 27. A destructive fire is raging at Saguenay, covering an area of five miles wide by thirty miles in length. Over five hundred families, numbering 4500 persons, are rendered destitute. Six adults and two children perished in the flames. A wharf at Haha Bay and several churches have been burned. The fire originated in the woods.

Gen. Foster has received the following order from Washington:—

WASHINGTON, May 27.

"To Gen. George P. Foster, U. S. Marshal, District of Vermont:

The President directs you to cause to be seized and held by the military forces of the United States, all arms and munitions of war which you can find prepared or intended for the invasion of Canada by the Fenians. Communicate with the military commanders. (Signed)

E. R. HOAR, Attorney General."

ST. ALBANS, Vt., May 29. Yesterday morning a detachment of Battery G, Fifth Heavy Artillery, went to Franklin to make a collection of the arms left by the Fenians, under the direction of the United States Marshal and his assistants. The arms and ammunition are stored at the Franklin House. Although the search has been quite successful, hundreds of muskets will probably never be delivered up. Some few of the Canadians have returned those taken from the Fenian camp, but others refuse point blank to do so. No trouble is apprehended from the refusal. The battery will return to St. Albans to-morrow morning, and will probably be withdrawn altogether by the last of the week.

Six cars loaded to overflowing left here last night at half-past eight o'clock, bearing the last fragments of the broken army of the Irish Republic. A more jubilant crowd never went out of this village, and a happier set of individuals than the citizens here were never seen as the last car rolled out of the depot. For the next week every day will feel like Sunday. The people here have been feeding on excitement for the last month, and now they are brought back to the monotonous happening of every day events.

Gen. Donnelly, who was yesterday reported dead, is all right. His wound, though painful, is not so severe as represented, and one of these fine mornings he will be found missing. None of the wounded here have been arrested.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., May 28. A Sunday quiet reigns in St. Albans.

There are large numbers of Fenians still here waiting for some chance to get home.

The Government has decided to leave the settlement of affairs in the hands of the United States Marshals of the different districts, and unless it withdraws the offer of transportation offered on Wednesday, some arrangement will probably be made to transport those who are without money to their homes. The railroad officials express their willingness to assist.

Generals Meade, McDowell and staff leave for Malone at noon. They will not interfere with the duties of the U. S. Marshal in the matter of arrests, but simply see that the neutrality between the two countries is not violated.

U. S. Marshal Foster has left for Franklin, and will demand the return of the field piece captured by the Canadians. There is not the least probability that any further attempt will be made at any point.

It is the intention of the Marshal to arrest all who are known to have been connected with the affair at Richards' Farm, officers and soldiers.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 30. The Fenian leaders from the Middle States and the West were in council here to-day, investigating the late disaster and adopting measures of reorganization.

MILWAUKEE, May 24. The venerable Bishop Kemper, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Wisconsin, widely known as the pioneer Bishop of the Northwest, died at his residence, on Nashotah avenue, this afternoon, aged eighty-one years.

☞ Russia, which hitherto has been in the habit of buying her artillery abroad, particularly at the German works of Krupp at Essen, is now in possession of a factory for war material in no way inferior to those of other nations. This manufactory, situated at Perm, is on the same plan, but of larger proportions, as that belonging to Rhenish Prussia, and some enormous pieces of cannon are now being cast there for the defence of Cronstadt, Bender, Nikolajewsk and Kertch.

☞ Spain has commenced the work of emancipation in Cuba.

Passing Events.

☞ In San Joaquin valley, California, butter is made by placing the cream in a thick linen sack, and burying the parcel in the earth over night. The sand absorbs the milk, and in the morning the butter is found as well worked as by an hour's churning.

☞ Hereafter, according to the laws of Mississippi, any person sending or accepting a challenge, or second carrying a challenge, or any person going out of the State to fight a duel, will be forever disfranchised.

☞ It is said that there is a convent of monks in Iowa following the rule of St. Bernard, who, after a time, take upon themselves a vow never to speak aloud, and a number have kept that vow for twenty years.

☞ It is now said that Espartero has agreed to accept the crown of Spain if the Cortes will elect him.

☞ The Empress of Austria is said to be much perplexed by the intimation that the Pope intends to bestow on her the Golden Rose. She has a superstition on the subject, as it proved unfortunate to Queen Isabella of Spain. She cannot refuse, and is unwilling to accept it, and has asked Prince Liechteustein to arrange the affair with Cardinal Antonelli.

☞ Notwithstanding all the efforts of the Russian Government for the past forty years to suppress Polish amor patriæ, it is admitted by the Moscow Gazette, that "the existence of a Russian in Poland is now almost intolerable." There is, after all, more in national sentiment than despots are aware of.

☞ Ledru Rollin has gone back to London, feeling no security in the old friendship of M. Ollivier who formerly, when he was a hot a republican as he now is imperialist, used to style the grand old orator his second father.

☞ Russia and Switzerland are at loggerheads. The Czar seeks, as we are told by cable telegram, to "bully" the republic and force the people to forego their right of asylum to foreigners. As the Emperor of France is a naturalized citizen of the Swiss republic the case may become serious should the Muscovite persevere.

☞ It is said that the workmen engaged in repairing the carriage road on Mount Washington have to dig paths through snowdrifts twenty feet deep.

☞ Prince Leopold, the youngest son of the Queen of England, is in a very dangerous state of health.

☞ The Emperor of the French, the King of Prussia and the Emperor of Austria meet in Germany this summer.

☞ Ladies are now permitted to follow the course of medical lectures at the University of St. Petersburg, and subsequently to practice medicine.

Notices.

New Hampshire Quar. Conference.

The fourth quarterly session of the New Hampshire Christian Conference will be held at Whitefield, N. H., commencing Friday, at 10½ o'clock A. M., June 17th, 1870, and hold over the following Sunday. It is hoped that our preaching brethren will make a special effort to attend this meeting, and that all the lovers of truth in this region will come to this conference to work for God and the salvation of men.

T. W. PIPER,
A. W. SIBLEY, } Committee.
C. H. FLETCHER,

Grove Meeting.

A grove meeting will be held in Bartlett, N. H., (Middle District), in Bro. John B. Deering's grove, commencing Wednesday, June 22nd, and holding over the following Sabbath.

Bartlett is situated on the road from North Conway to the White Mountains. The mountains tower around, and the scenery generally is magnificently grand. We have held meetings in the place during the past winter, and although the truths we love have never been preached there, the people have been like the Bereans, and are favorable to the truth, and a good number have been converted. We know of no place where greater good can be done by a meeting than in Bartlett, and it is hoped that the brethren and sisters from the surrounding towns will be present. Come from Porter, Freedom, Melvin Village, Albany and adjoining towns in Maine. Come from Whitefield, Woodstock, and other places west of the mountains, and you will find entertainment, and have a glorious meeting. Brethren coming by the Notch will inquire for Nathan French, James Mead, or Levi Rogers; and those from other directions, for John B. Deering. Brn. T. W. Piper, N. Wheeler, Levi Allen, J. H. Evans, J. G. Smith, Bro. Kidder, and others who love the truth, and don't distract and divide, are invited. Provision will be made to accommodate all the brethren and sisters who may come. Pasturing will be furnished for horses. Let us have a good gathering of the saints in the name of the Lord. An ordination and a baptism may be expected.

In behalf of the brethren, L. C. MCKINSTRY.

Notice.

The Vermont Mission Tent is engaged to be finished June 15th, all but the poles; and will be ready to be pitched in Middlesex June 23d, as it is wanted at that place for a conference. May great good be done in the name of the Lord Jesus.

R. N. STETSON.

N. B. I would like to engage some one to furnish the poles. We want two centre poles, twenty-eight feet long, and twenty-six or seven feet long. If any Bro. can procure them, I wish he would write to me immediately. R. N. S.

Conference.

A quarterly conference will be held at the Bailey school-house, in Pittston, Me., four miles south of the city of Gardiner, on the east side of the Kennebec river, opposite Gardiner depot, at five o'clock, P. M., June 23d, and hold over Sunday. Let the brethren and sisters all attend who can to work for the Lord. Provision for all. Ministering brethren from abroad are invited. Those who come by cars will stop at South Gardiner, and the brethren will be there to take them over the river in a boat.

S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Notice.

The new tent, "Evangelist," will be pitched in Cambridgeport, corner of Hampshire and Columbia streets, and will be dedicated, Sunday, June 5th. Meetings every evening through the week and over Sunday, June 12th. Leave the horse cars on any of the roads at Columbia street. It is on the same ground where the Mass. tent was pitched two years ago. We hope for a good turnout. We want to see sinners saved. The judgment is at hand. Brethren, pray for us.

JOHN G. HOOK.

Maine Ministerial Conference.

EXTRA SESSION.

This conference will convene in the Second Advent Hall, Portland, on Tuesday, two o'clock P. M., June 21st, and close Friday. We desire to see present all the members of the conference, and all preachers who desire to join; likewise delegates from all the churches and societies, with as many other brethren and sisters as will come to work for the Lord, and the salvation of sinners. It is hoped the campmeeting committee will be prepared to report what decisions have been made in regard to a place, or places, for campmeetings in Maine this season; also the tent committee in regard to the tent mission. Brethren, let us come together once more in the Spirit of the Lord, praying his blessing upon the great work to which he has called us.

C. GOUD, President.
I. C. WELLCOME, Sec.

New York State Conference.

The annual meeting of the New York State Conference will be held at Lockport, Niagara Co., commencing Thursday evening, June 9th, 1870. Lockport is situated on the Niagara Falls branch of the N. Y. Central R. R., fifty-seven miles west of Rochester, and eighteen miles east of the Niagara Falls. Fare from Rochester to Lockport, $1.15. Trains leave Rochester for Lockport at 9.50 A. M., 12.10 and 6 P. M. Trains leave Buffalo for Lockport at 6 A. M. and 4 P. M. Fare from Buffalo to Lockport, 40 cts.

Persons coming to the conference will go from the depot directly to the Advent Hall, on Main Street, when the committee of arrangements will see that they are provided for.

The church at Lockport have opened their doors wide, and extend a hearty invitation to the dear brethren and sisters to come and spend a few days with them; hoping to receive from the gathering a fresh impetus in the christian journey, as well as to make it pleasant for those who come. We want every one to take up the Crisis of April 27th and read the article from D. Cogswell, entitled "New York State Conference," and be sure to act in harmony with it.

D. COGSWELL, Pres.
W. J. HOBBS, Sec'y.

Wisconsin Campmeeting.

This campmeeting, beginning June 5th, is to be held at Prairie du Sac (Upper Sauk), Sauk Co., on the ground occupied last year. Eld. Miles Grant and Eld. S. W. Thurber from the east will be present. Let the friends in the west come from every point in the State, and come early. Let a goodly number of tents be erected on Saturday, June 4th. WM. SHELDON.

Minnesota Campmeeting.

The second annual campmeeting for the State of Minnesota will commence on Monday, June 27th, at Ottawa, continuing one week. Ottawa is situated on the Minnesota river, five miles below St. Peter. The St. Paul and Sioux R. R. will carry passengers at half fare to and from this meeting. When buying tickets for Ottawa from any station on this road, ask for a return ticket, which will be good for ten days after June 27th. A refreshment and provision stand will be kept on the ground for the accommodation of the camp, where such articles of food as cannot be conveniently brought from home may be obtained. The committee will make every effort for the temporal comfort of those attending the meeting, and trust all will unite in striving, by the help of God, to make it a spiritual "feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined."

COMMITTEE:—G. W. Miller, L. C. Collins, P. Ramer, W. Ketzebock, E. Bacon, E. T. Himes.

Notice.

I will hold a quarterly meeting with the Christian Church at Cohocton, Steuben Co., N. Y., May 28th and 29th. Bro. Cogswell is expected to be with me there. Also I will hold a quarterly meeting with the church at Wilmot Settlement, Broome Co., N. Y., June 4th and 5th, and will spend the time there and at Hawleyton as they and Bro. Bull of Hawleyton may arrange, from May 31st to June 7th. I expect to attend the Annual State Conference from June 9th to 12th (the place not yet published); also I will attend a grove meeting with Bro. J. W. Taylor, at Westfield, Tioga Co., Pa., June 18th and 19th, to commence on the evening of the 17th, as the church there may arrange. Let there be a general turn-out in these meetings. For the churches,

C. F. SWEET.

Notice.

Having arranged to spend the summer in Chelsea, Mass., I hereby take this opportunity to inform those who would like my "Hymn Books" and "Admonitions," that I would have them address me there. I have got out the new edition to my hymn book, and will supply orders in cloth at 50 cts. single, $4.50 per doz. I will send them neatly bound in leather at 60 cts. single, $5.50 per doz., postage paid by me in all cases. They are neatly and firmly bound, and contain 453 hymns, embracing all those in general use among us. Those who take a dozen in cloth, will get them at 37½ cts. per copy; or if a dozen in leather, the rate will be 47 cts. per copy. I. K. LOMBARD.

Notice.

To the brethren in New York State: Shall we have a general campmeeting in the old Empire State? Will the brethren think and pray about it, and when we meet at our June conference, decide when and where we will hold it, and appoint a committee to arrange for the meeting? We have strength enough in Western New York for a good campmeeting, if we will all take hold of the matter. The Lord is coming. Let us do all we can to strengthen each other, and save the perishing around us. Please write immediately.

MILTON R. MILES, Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.

Notice.

The next session of the Maine Central Quarterly Conference will be held at the Robbins school-house in Rome, to commence Thursday, at five o'clock P. M., June 2nd, and hold over the Lord's day. Let the brethren and sisters all attend who possibly can to work for the Lord. Provisions made for all. Ministering brethren from abroad are invited.

W. A. KNIGHT, Sec.
H. B. SEAVEY, Pres.

The Iowa Mission Tent.

Those who desire tent, camp, grove, or basket-meetings, will do well to correspond with me soon, so that I may make arrangements for summer work. In these meetings will be presented the gospel of Jesus Christ, with a view to do the people good. No party, sect, or hobby to build up, but to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Every lover of Jesus shall be free to work with us. All lovers of this pure christianity are requested to write soon. Direct to Peter S. W. Deyo, Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Notice.

Our annual grove meeting in Springwater, N. Y., will be held June 25th and 26th, 1870, commencing June 25th, at two o'clock P. M., in the grove, on the Morris farm, as usual. Come, now, brethren and sisters; let us all meet together and praise the world. C. F. SWEET.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meeting on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's. O. G. TRUNDY.

Notice.

The Advent Christian Church in Nashua, N. H., have hired a hall in Beasom's Block, corner of Maine and Factory Streets, up two flights of stairs, well fitted up, where we shall hold meetings three times on the Sabbath, and Thursday and Saturday evenings. For the brethren,

NATHANIEL EATON.

Notice.

The Mass. Tent will be pitched, the Lord willing, at Millville, on land owned by Dr. Southwick, and occupied by Bro. Wm. Boyden, about one mile from the village, and one mile from Slatersville, R. I. Meeting to commence June 8th, at 7½ P. M., to continue over Sunday, and longer if thought best. Preachers and all are invited. It is about half a mile from the depot on the B. H. & E. R. R., and one mile from the depot of the P. & W. R. R. Those coming from a distance will provide for themselves as far as they can. Let all help in having a good meeting, that sinners may be saved, and God's name glorified.

GEO. A. STREETER.
L. BOUTELL.

Grove Meeting.

A grove meeting will be held in Bartlett, N. H. (Middle District), in Bro. J. B. Deering's grove, commencing Wednesday, June 22nd, and holding over the following Sabbath. Full notice next week.

In behalf of the Brn., L. C. MCKINSTRY.

Conn. A. C. Conference.

The next session of the State Conference will be held with the church in Bristol, commencing Wednesday, June 8th, and continuing over Sunday.

H. H. DICKINSON, Pres.
GEO. L. TEEPLE, Sec'y.

Conference in Nova Scotia.

The Lord willing, there will be a conference at Bear River, Annapolis Co., N. S., commencing Saturday, June 11th. All are invited. Preachers are requested to be present in the name of the Lord. JOHN MOORE.

Notice.

By request of Bro. Grant, I will be with the Shinnecock Indians, L. I., at their annual meeting, the first Sabbath in June. Will some one meet me at Sag Harbor, on the arrival of the boat, Saturday, June 4th? H. PRATT.

Wisconsin Conference.

The State Conference of Wisconsin will be held in connection with the State campmeeting, which is to be held at Prairie du Sac, Sauk Co., Wis., beginning June 5th. The first business session of the conference will be held on Wednesday, June 8th. Let ministers and delegates be present in time. WM. SHELDON, Sec'y.

Notice.

Dear brethren and friends:—We have bought a brick house in Vienna, to fit up for a meeting-house. We lack funds to finish it. It will cost $100 to do the work inside. Some brethren have offered to assist us. If others who have the means will help, we should be glad. If we cannot get help, shall be obliged to sell. If brethren will send in what they will pay, we will give credit, and if enough is pledged we will notify when wanted. Direct all communications to

H. B. SEVEY,
S. W. CARR, } Mt. Vernon, Me.
H. C. CLIFFORD,

Notice.

All persons, rich or poor, wishing to have the Rhode Island Mission Tent pitched in any locality where there is an opportunity to get the great truths of the plan of salvation before the people, will address me by letter, at South Killingly, Ct.

E. BELLOWS.

Notice.

I would say that persons desiring practical treatment with the Resuscitator for diseases, may address me at 43 Revere Street, Boston.

W. C. STONE.

Dedication.

We are intending, the Lord will, to dedicate our Chapel (Putnam, Ct.), Thursday, June 9th, at one o'clock.

Inquiry.

Brethren and sisters of Sutton, Bradford, and Warner: Can we join together and have a tent meeting? We in Bradford think we can.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL.

Anna E. Smith.......Sunday, June 5th
Hiram Munger.......Sunday, July 3d

BOSTON, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.

EAST BOSTON.

Meetings are held at Chase's Block, up two flights, at 154 Meridian Street, on Sundays, at the usual hours, also Monday and Thursday evenings.

Communion, Thursday evening, June 9th. A general invitation to all. Bro. Hook is expected.

C. Goodrich.......Sunday, June 12th

CHELSEA, MASS., (LIBRARY HALL.)

L. Boutell.......Sunday, June 5th
T. M. Preble.......Sabbath, June 12th
J. Couch.......Sunday, June 26th
T. M. Preble.......Sabbath, July 10th
J. Hemenway.......Sunday, July 24th

CHARLESTOWN.

Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.

Sr. L. M. Stoddard.......Sundays, June 5th and 12th
Sr. Anna E. Smith.......Sunday, June 19th
W. S. Campbell.......Sunday, June 26th

Clinton, Mass.......Sunday, June 5th
Stoneham, Mass.......Sunday, June 26th
C. GOODRICH.

Hartford, Ct.......Sunday, June 5th
A. P. MOORE.

Cambridgeport tent meeting, (corner of Hampshire and Columbia streets, on the same ground where the Mass. tent was pitched two years ago), Sunday, June 5th, and every evening through the week, and over Sunday, June 12th. JOHN G. HOOK.

Stoneham, Mass.......Sunday, June 12th
Sheldonville (Wrentham, Mass)....Sunday, June 19th
J. S. WHITE.

Holden, Mass.......Sabbath, June 5th
Fitchburg, Mass.......Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th
Manchester, N. H.......Sabbath, July 3d
T. M. PREBLE.

Exeter, N. H.......Sunday, June 19th
L. BOUTELL.

West Fairlee, Vt.......Sunday, June 5th
Keene, N. H.......Friday evening, June 10th
Fitchburg, Mass.......Sunday, June 12th
North Springfield, Vt.......Sunday, June 19th
Bridgewater, Vt.......Sunday, June 26th
H. F. CARPENTER.

North Springfield, Vt., Sunday, Jun. 5th, supplied by Bro. Dow, of Woodstock.
Bridgewater, Vt., Sunday, June 12th, I will supply by substitute. H. F. C.

Carver Green, Mass.......Sunday, June 5th
H. L. HASTINGS.

Tatnuck, Mass.......Tuesday evening, June 7th
Palmer, Wed. and Thurs. evenings, June 8th and 9th
Worcester (Bethel).......Friday evening, June 10th
Springfield, Sunday and Monday, June 12th and 13th
Chicopee Falls...Tues. and Wed., June 14th and 15th
ANNA E. SMITH.

Great Falls, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
Rye, N. H.......Sunday, July 3d
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works), Sunday, July 10th
JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Wakefield, Mass.......Sabbath, June 12th
ALVAH BEAN.

Meredith Village, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house, near Deacon Merrill's) Sunday, June 12th. LEVI ALLEN.

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., June 5th
D. W. DAVIS.

Week's Mills, China, Me.......Sunday, June 19th
L. D. TOTMAN.

Hinsdale, N. H. (where Quenton Streeter may appoint) Sunday, June 5th.
Northfield, Mass. (at Anson Gage's) evening, June 7th
Warehousepoint, Conn.......Sunday, June 12th
Litchfield, Conn. (where Weaver Auston may appoint) Sunday, June 19th.
Newfield (where Wm. Grant may appoint) Sunday, June 29th.) W. W. SUTHERLAND.

Cushing, Me.......Sunday, June 12th
Friendship, Me.......Sunday, June 19th
Northport, (as Bro. Pendleton may appoint) Sunday, June 26th.
Lincolnville Corner (Free House)....Sunday, July 3d
JER. CARR.

Meredith, N. H., (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, June 12th
Upper Bartlett, N. H.......Sunday, June 19th
L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

London Ridge, N. H.......Sabbath, June 5th
Nottingham, N. H. (baptism).......Sabbath, June 12th
Salisbury, (Union meeting-house) Sabbath, June 19th
Strafford, N. H., (Roberts' school-house), Sun., June 26th. S. S. MOONEY.

Suncook, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
Would invite the friends in the adjoining towns to come in and help. NATHAN WHITING.

Acworth, N. H. (Town Hall).......Sabbath, June 12th
This is a new place. Come, brethren, and work for the Lord. T. L. HALL.

Campton, N. H. (Bump school-house), Sun., June 5th
H. C. WILLOUGHBY.

Montgomery, Mass.......Sunday, June 5th
Hampton, N. H.......Sunday, June 19th
Great Falls, N. H. (at the tent meeting) Sunday, June 26th. A. SIMPSON.

East Concord, N. H.......Friday evening, June 3d
East Canaan, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
Warner, N. H. (where Bro. Haremon may appoint) Sunday, June 19th.
East Boston (Chase's Block.......evening, June 21st
Lynn.......evening, June 22nd
Lawrence.......evening, June 23d
Kennebunk Depot.......evening, June 24th
Kennebunkport.......Sunday, June 26th
Portland, Me.......evening, June 27th
Lewiston.......June 28th and 29th
Mechanic Falls.......evening, June 30th
Bryant's Pond.......evening, July 1st
Poland, Me. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, July 3d.
East Colebrook, Kiddersville.......Sunday, July 10th
U. G. LADD.

If these appointments conflict with others, please write me at Lowell, Mass. U. G. L.

East Otis, Mass.......Sunday, June 5th
ENOCH PHELPS, Jr.

Lee, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
East Holderness, N. H.......Sunday, June 12th
JOHN PARSONS.

Rye, N. H.......Sunday, June 12th
West Kingston, N. H.......Sunday, June 19th
Lake Village, N. H.......Sunday, June 26th
WM. C. STEWART.

Hopkinton, N.H. (Town Hall Building) Sun., June 5th
FRANK NELSON.

Webster, N. H. (Old meeting house)...Sab., June 5th
Manchester, N. H.......Friday evening, June 10th
Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall) Sabbath, June 19th
SIMEON ROBY.

Northwood Narrows, N. H.......Sabbath, June 26th
N. C. TWOMBLY.

Lake Village, N. H.......Sabbaths, June 5th and 12th
Rye, N. H.......Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th and evenings in the intervening week.
Seabrook, N. H.......Sundays, July 3d and 10th
ALLEN DAMON.

Northwood Narrows, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
Exeter, N. H.......evening, June 7th
Lawrence, Mass.......evening, June 8th
Charlestown, Mass.......evening, June 9th
Lynn, Mass.......evening, June 10th
Providence, R. I.......Sunday, June 12th
S. W. BISHOP.

Warren Summit.......Sunday, June 5th
☞ NO NAME.

Springfield, Mass. (Hill).......Sunday, June 5th
Worcester, Mass.......Sunday, June 12th
Lawrence, Mass.......Sundays, June 19th and 26th
I. B. POTTER.

Manchester, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
Great Falls, N. H.......Sundays, June 12th and 19th
Great Works, Me.......Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
South Elliot, Me.......Sundays, July 10th and 17th
Seabrook, N. H.......Sundays, July 24th and 31st
E. S. MOULTON.

Worcester, Mass.......Sunday, June 5th
Lowell, Mass.......Sunday, June 12th
New Bedford.......Sundays, June 19th and 26th
M. BATCHELOR.

Lynn, Mass.......Sunday, June 5th
J. COUCH.

Square Pond, Ct.......Sabbath, June 5th
Putnam, Ct.......Sabbath, June 12th
Webster, Mass.......Sabbath, June 19th
Woodstock Valley, Ct.......Sabbath, June 26th
P. S. BUTLER.

Harrisburg, N. Y. (Bickford school-house), Sunday, June 5th, at 10½ A. M. and one P. M.
Martinsburg, N. Y. (Brook's Dist.) evening, June 7th
Will Bro. Miller please circulate the appointment?
Greig, N. Y. (Union Chapel).......Sunday, June 12th
C. H. WILLIAMS.

Frankfort.......Sunday, June 5th
Burlington, Me. (if the meeting-house is not occupied by another), Sunday, June 12th.
In the vicinity of Lowell or Burlington, as may be thought best, Sunday, June 19th.
THOMAS SMITH.

Meredith Village, N. H. (Dolloff Hall) evening, June 4th, and over Sunday.
North Sutton (where Bro. Israel Andrews may appoint) Sunday, June 12th.
London Ridge.......Sunday, June 19th
L. E. SAULSBURY.

Richmond Village, Me.......Saturday evening, June 4th
Reed meeting-house, Me.......Sabbath, June 5th
Lewiston, Me.......Wednesday evening, June 8th
South Poland, Me.......Thursday evening, June 9th
Mechanic Falls, Me.......Friday evening, June 10th
West Poland, Me.......Sabbath, June 12th
Mayberry Hill, Casco, Me.......Tuesday, June 14th
South Casco.......evening, June 15th and 16th
Portland, Me.......Sabbath, June 19th
Cape Elizabeth (if desired) Monday evening, June 20th
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works)...Tuesday, June 21st
Lee, N. H.......Wednesday evening, June 22nd
Will be at Newmarket eleven o'clock A. M. train.
Exeter, N. H.......Thursday evening, June 23d
Hampton, N. H.......Friday evening, June 24th
Rye.......Sabbath, June 26th
H. MUNGER.

P. S. If these Sabbath appointments conflict, please notify me. H. M.

Rochester, N. H.......Sabbath, June 5th
East Rochester, N. H.......Sabbath, June 12th
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works)...Sab., June 19th
Wyoming, R. I.......Sabbath, June 26th
C. H. SWEET.

East Grantham, N. H. (meeting-house) formerly called West Springfield, Sunday, June 5th.
E. COTTON.

New York, 24th Street.......Sunday, June 5th
New Haven, Ct.......Sunday, June 12th
Hartford, Ct.......Thursday evening, June 16th
Worcester, Mass.......Sundays, June 19th and 26th
Dover, N. H. (City Hall)...Sundays, July 3d and 10th
A. A. PHELPS.

Strafford, N.H., (Roberts' school-house) Sun., June 5th
J. H. F. VARNEY.

Vernon, Vt.......Sunday, June 12th
O. D. WOODRUFF.

East Haddam.......Sabbath, June 5th
G. L. WHITE.

Lowell, Mass.......Sunday, June 5th
Gosport, Isle Shoals.......Sunday, June 25th and over Sunday, the 26th.
New Durham Ridge, N. H.......Sunday, July 3d
Great Falls.......Sunday, July 10th
Dover.......Sunday, July 17th
J. PINKHAM.

Cushing, Me.......Sunday, June 5th
Conference at four o'clock Saturday, P. M. Any wanting to be baptized, can express their desires at the conference. H. S. MITCHELL.

Warehouse Point (at the Chapel)...Sunday, June 5th
South Windsor.......Sunday, June 12th
Scitico.......Sunday, June 19th
H. H. DICKINSON.

Waterbury, Ct.......Sabbath, June 12th
G. L. TEEPLE.

North Somers, Ct.......Sunday, June 5th
Wilbraham, Mass.......Sunday, June 12th
MARY E. OTIS.

Lovely Street, Ct.......Sunday, June 5th
Morris, Ct.......Sunday, June 12th
S. WOODRUFF.

Springfield, Mass.......Sundays, June 5th and 12th
Hartford, (Talcott and Post's Hall), Sunday, June 19th
Springfield, Mass.......Sunday, July 3d
W. N. PILE.

Waterbury, Ct.......Sunday, June 5th
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Rye, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
Lawrence, Mass.......Sunday, June 12th
Lowell, Mass.......Sunday, June 19th
J. G. SMITH.

Kennebunk Depot.......Sunday, June 5th
Cape Porpoise.......Sunday, June 12th
Kennebunkport.......Sunday, June 19th
Scarborough Blue Point.......Sunday, June 26th
Cape Porpoise.......Sunday, July 3d
Hollis Centre.......Sunday, July 10th
Bonny Eagle.......Sunday, July 17th
T. P. S. HAMPSON.

Lawrence, Mass.......Sabbath, June 5th
Lee, N. H.......Sunday, June 12th
Will Bro. Durgin meet me at New Market Depot, two o'clock train from Boston?
Lake Village, N. H. (North Church) Sabbath, June 19th. Also, Tuesday evening, June 21st.
Meredith Village, N. H...Thursday evening, June 23d
Meredith Center (Dolloff Hall)...evening, June 25th and Sabbath, 26th.
Will Bro. Vaasey meet me at the Village, Saturday, the 25th, and much oblige? B. P. MANNING.

Swanzey, Mass. (Deacon Woods' farm) Sun., June 5th
EDWIN S. STRAIGHT.

West Poland, Me. (Free Chapel)...Sunday, June 5th
Bryant's Pond.......Sunday, June 12th
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Warehousepoint, Ct. (Chapel).......Sunday, June 19th
H. K. STARK.

Lisbon (Salmon Hole school-house) Sabbath, June 5th
Center Haverhill, N. H.......Sunday, June 12th and once in two weeks.
East Landaff.......Sunday, June 19th and every fourth Sunday following.
North Haverhill.......Sunday, July 3d and each fourth Sunday successively.
A. A. HOYT.

Hartford, Me. (Stetson school-house)..Sab., June 12th
E. M. HAGGETT.

Sugar Hill, N. H.......once in two weeks
N. WHEELER.

North Haverhill (Brick house).......Sunday, June 5th
WM. H. SHAW.

North Dorchester, N. H. (Union school-house) evening, June 11th, and over Sunday.
C. H. WILLOUGHBY.
J. B. BROWN.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)...Sunday, June 5th
Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) evening, June 11th, and over Sunday. JOHN H. EVANS.

Nashua, N. H. (Beasom's Hall).......Sunday, June 12th
SIMEON ROBY.
JOHN H. DADMUN.

Blue Point, Scarboro.......Sunday, June 5th
Saco Ferry, Me.......Sunday, May 29th
Kennebunk Depot, Me.......Sunday, June 12th
Bonny Eagle, Me.......Sunday, June 19th
Hollis Centre, Me.......Sunday, June 26th
JER. HILL.

West Alton, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
A. M. TRIPP.

Corinna, Me.......Sunday, June 19th
A. H. WALKER.

Cabot, Vt.......Sunday, June 19th
W. V. SIBLEY.

East Abington (where Bro. Burrell may arrange), evening, June 4th.
West Abington.......Sunday, June 5th
B. WOODSIDE.

Melvin Village, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
Farmington Village, N. H.......Sunday, June 12th
East Rochester, N. H.......Sunday, June 19th
WM. BODGE.

Chicopee Falls, Mass.......Sunday, June 5th
Scitico, Ct.......Sunday, June 12th
Keene, N. H.......Sunday, June 19th
Vernon, Vt.......Sunday, June 26th
A. M. HIGGINS.

J. Hemenway.......Sunday, June 5th
A. Simpson.......Sunday, June 12th

River Point, R. I.......Sunday, June 5th
Every second Sunday in each month until further notice. A. DURFEE.

West Ossipee, N. H.......Sabbath, June 5th
East Canaan, N. H.......Sabbath, June 12th
Manchester, N. H.......Sabbath, June 26th
D. P. LEAVITT.

Rootville, Break Bread.......first Sunday in the month
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

CONCORD, N. H., (CENTRE STREET.)

A. Ross.......Sunday, June 5th
R. R. York.......Sunday, June 12th
J. Albert Libby.......Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th
M. Batchelor.......Sabbaths, July 3d and 10th

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)

T. W. Piper.......Sunday, June 5th
E. Owen.......Sunday, June 12th
Sr. L. M. Stoddard...Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
A. A. Phelps.......Sundays, July 24th and 31st

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

J. T. Dixon.......Sundays, June 5th and 12th
J. Pinkham.......Sunday, June 19th
J. Couch.......Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
Geo. W. Burnham.......Sunday, July 10th
C. H. Sweet.......Sunday, July 17th
Allen Damman.......Sundays, July 24th and 31st

PITTSFIELD, N. H. (at the Bethel.)

E. Owen.......Sunday, June 5th
C. Shattuck.......Sunday, June 12th
——— Morrell.......Sunday, June 19th
J. Parsons.......Sunday, June 26th

MANCHESTER, N. H.

J. Couch.......Sunday, June 12th
C. Shattuck.......Sunday, June 19th

DOVER, N. H.

Geo. W. Brown.......Sunday, June 5th
L. Boutell.......Sunday, June 12th
C. Goodrich.......Sunday, June 19th

HAMPTON, N. H.

J. G. Smith.......Sunday, June 26th

SOUTH ELLIOTT, ME.

Wm. C. Stewart.......Sunday, June 5th
Joseph Pinkham.......Sunday, June 12th

PORTLAND, ME.

J. S. White.......Sunday, June [illegible]

SOUTH WINDSOR, CT.

H. H. Dickenson.......Sabbath, June 12th

BRISTOL, CT.

R. K. Stark.......Sabbath, June 5th
Mary E. Otis.......Sabbath, June 19th

ABINGTON, CT.

A. P. Moore.......Sabbath, June 12th
A. Morse.......Sabbath, June 19th
C. H. Sweet.......Sabbath, June 26th

WOLCOTTVILLE, CT.

B. Hitchcock.......Sunday, June 5th
G. L. Teeple.......Sunday, June 12th

PLEASANT VALLEY, CT.

W. S. Campbell.......Sunday, June 12th
J. S. White.......Sunday, July 24th

Prospect, Conn.......Sunday, June 5th
Will Bro. Chandler meet me at the depot, at one o'clock, June 11th?
Cheshire Street.......Sunday, June 19th
Will Deacon Tuttle meet me at the Meriden depot, June 18th, at four o'clock P. M.? WM. STUART.

Poultney, Vt. (Stone Hall) Sundays, June 5th and 12th
J. B. COOK.

Hemlock Lake (as Bro. Owen and others may appoint) Sunday, July 3d. C. F. SWEET.

Holden, Me. (Chapel).......Sunday, June 5th
Bradley, Me.......Sunday, June 12th
GEO. W. BROWN.

South Hartford, Me. (Whiting's school house) Sabbath, June 5th.
Buckfield (Federal meeting-house) Sabbath, June 12th
ORRILL W. KIMBALL.

East Savoy, Mass.......Sunday, June 5th
H. K. FLAGG.

Ossipee, N. H., No. 400 Watter Village, (as the brethren may appoint) Sunday, June 12th.
Whitefield Conference.......Sunday, June 19th
Melvin Village.......Sunday, June 29th
T. W. PIPER.

Clarktown, N. H.......Sunday, June 5th
Barnstead, N. H., (Tuttle school-house) Sun., June 12th
Second Division of New Durham..Sunday, June 19th
C. H. WILLEY.
JOSEPH LIBBY.

FOR BRO. REIMER'S TRACT WORK.

John King	2.00
Trexler Lehigl	1.00
E. W.	1.00

Business.

Letters Received.

H C Willoughby, G Thomson, J Lovejoy, S Hall, G S Chase, W Ashwood, S Cook, G W Brown, C H Hurd, J Brooks, J Howarth, E G H., Geo. A Streeter, O Sherwin, A Gordon, J Porter, A W Taylor, M A Anderson, J Spear, E J Garland, W E Minard, G H Aldrich, N McCullock.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, post-paid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents. Postage 8 cts.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail; 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 13c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc., etc. Cloth, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Leather back, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World; and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.26c; Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? A Tract on War. Price 10c, postage 2c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 5c.

THE FIRST DAY SABBATH. By T. M. Preble. A new and interesting work. pp. 471. Price $1.50.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5 cts. single; by mail, 7 cts.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M. Preble. 15c. postage 2 cts., or by mail 17 cts.

TWO HUNDRED STORIES FOR CHILDREN. By Elder T. M. Preble. pp. 234. 80c. by mail.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. By Thomas Carlyle. 3c. single; 5c. by mail; 20c. per dozen.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR; or, Spiritualism; What it is, and what it is not. Paper covers, $1.00; by mail; cloth, $1.25 by mail.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

VOICE OF THE THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures, Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, Retribution, and Will all Men be Saved? By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man, with various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church; By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times to Daniel and John. On Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

THAT MAN OF SIN. By Eld. O. R. Fassett. To which is added "The Only Hope." Price, 5c. single; postage 2c. 50c. per dozen; postage 6c.

CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES examined in the light of History. By Prof. L. Gaussen, of Geneva, Switzerland. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

PREMATURE DECAY of American Youth. By Dr. A. Stone. 6c; by mail, 8c.

SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 3c.

THE MILLENNIUM. By Mrs. M. D. Wellcome. 60 pp. Single copy 15c.

CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c., postpaid.

DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 10c; by mail, 12c.

OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST. A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy, by mail; 40c. per dozen.

Any of the above will be sent by mail on receipt of the price.

NEW HYMN BOOK.

"Hymns of the Jubilee Harp."

WITHOUT THE MUSIC.

The above work, printed in large, clear type, on beautiful paper, we are ready to fill orders for, at the following prices:—

Bound in cloth, with sprinkled edges, 75 cents per copy; $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per 100.

Bound in leather, gilt edge, $1.00 per copy; $[illegible] per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; when sent by mail, 12 cts. additional postage.

MADAM RUMOR.

Who is this Madam Rumor, pray,
That daily passes through the street?
Is she the one they call they say,
Of whom we hear, but never meet?

Can lovely woman fall so low,
And spend her precious time and breath
In scandalizing all that go
Within her sphere of moral death?

This world might be a paradise,
When we in harmony might dwell,
Did not these demons in disguise
Make all around a perfect hell.

A foul-mouthed tattler we despise,
We care not whether queen or shrew,
Satan himself could not devise
Work mean enough for them to do.

And they should all be classed among
The lowest order of the brutes,
And then we would that all their tongues
Were palsied to the very roots.

Many a fair and lovely flower
Hath faded on its parent stalk,
And hath been doomed in one short hour,
By some vile woman's foolish talk.

There is a proverb known to all,
When one has sunk in guilt and shame,
They are the very first to call
All others by their loathsome name.

Perhaps our language is severe,
But why should we the truth conceal?
However harsh it may appear,
It don't express one half we feel.

For the World's Crisis.

THE PLAN OF GOD.

NUMBER TWO.

If man had never violated the divine law, the purpose of God would have been carried out the same as now—in the end. He would have access to the tree of life until the time came for God to change his nature to immortality, and give the world to his Son, for whom he made it. Then, of course, all would have been saved; but now only a few comparatively. Many, many will be lost; and to offset this the Lord said to the woman, "I will greatly multiply thy sorrow, and thy conception." Hence many more are born into the world than would have been had not man fallen; but the same elect number will be saved, and the "plan of God" be undisturbed.

We will now proceed to show that the Son of God had an existence before the foundation of the world, and that in consequence of sin he came down, clothed himself with our own nature, to redeem man from under the curse. In Rev. 3:14, he is called "the beginning of the creation of God." In Gen. 1:1 we read, "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." Now as the Son was the beginning of the creation of God, he must have been created before the heavens and the earth.

In 2 Cor. 8:9 we read, "For ye know the grace [charity—Macknight] of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich." I have seen this text disposed of something like this: Jesus was heir of the world; he divides his inheritance with his brethren, thus becoming comparatively poor, and making us comparatively rich. But there is no comparatively about it. He became poor; he was reduced to poverty. And I ask if dividing his inheritance has reduced him to poverty? If it be replied that he was reduced to poverty in order to redeem man to inherit it with him, then I inquire if his remaining share is not actually worth more than the whole earth would be under the curse, and no one to inherit it but himself? What would the world be worth to him were he to take up his abode here alone? I contend that his being reduced to poverty, if he had no riches prior to his existence eighteen hundred years ago, has increased the valuation of his own estate as much as it has ours.

But no; he was rich. But he was not born rich. He declares himself, "The foxes have holes, and the birds have nests; but the Son of man has not where to lay his head." Was he rich then? Who knows best? And if he was not then, when had he disposed of his riches? I aver that if he had any riches at all, it was before he was clothed with humanity. He left those riches, and became poor, that we through his poverty might be rich. But hear him again: "And now, O Father, glorify thou me with . . . . the glory which I had with thee before the world was."—John 17:5. Some have stuck up a theological reflector, and shot the glory here spoken of into the future, or after his suffering; because the prophets spoke of "his suffering, and the glory that should follow." But what glory was to follow his suffering? Ans. The same he "had with the Father before the world was." If Jesus had said, "The glory thou hadst in me," then we might reflect it; but it is, "The glory which I had with thee." Macknight makes it still plainer: "And now, Father, glorify thou me in thy own presence, with that glory which I enjoyed with thee before the world was."—John 17:5.—Macknight's Trans. The Son enjoyed the glory with the Father before the world was. He must, therefore, have had an existence.

In Phil. 2:6, we read, "Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God, but made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men." Macknight renders this: "Who, though he was in the form of God, did not affect to appear in divine majesty; but divested himself, taking upon him the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men." He was, according to Macknight, in the form of God, but did not appear in his divine majesty, but divested himself of the glory which he enjoyed with the Father before the world was, and took upon him the form of a servant; "for our sakes became poor." The Diaglott renders it nearly like Macknight.

When God said (Gen. 1:26), "Let us make man in our image," he was undoubtedly speaking to his Son, by whom and for whom he created all things. On a certain occasion Jesus said to the Jews, "Abraham, your father, rejoiced that he should see my day; and he did see it and was glad." They replied to him, "You are not yet fifty years old, and have you seen Abraham? Jesus answered, Most assuredly; I say to you, Before Abraham was born I am"; and what else he would have said we know not, but at that instant the sentence was broken by the Jews picking up stones and casting at him. He informs us, however, that he saw Abraham, and existed before he was born. See Macknight's translation. John 8:58.

Nebuchadnezzar saw him in the midst of the fire, with the three Hebrew children. "He answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt; and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God."—Dan. 3:25. Jesus says, "I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me."—John 6:38.

Thus it is fairly demonstrated that Jesus had an existence prior to his coming in the flesh, not merely as the "Word," but as a being capable of enjoying glory with the Father; and, in consequence of sin, he left the shining courts, divested himself of all his glory, and came down to earth to redeem man from under the curse of a violated law, and restore back to him that Paradise lost in consequence of disobedience.

What a Redeemer! how we ought to adore him; and what a joy it is to know that through his poverty we may be rich. Let us not fail to avail ourselves of his grace.

J. W. TAYLOR.

Christian Times, please copy.

AN UNPROFITABLE SERVANT.

"Ah!" said a gentleman, not looking nearly so humble as his language, and with a little sigh, "I am an unprofitable servant." He did not appear particularly distressed. In fact he seemed to feel some pleasure in the reflection, and so he dwelt with lingering emphasis on it, "an unprofitable servant, sir."

But, my dear sir, there were two unprofitable servants. With which of them do you identify yourself? There was the man to whom his departing lord gave one talent, who having but a poor opinion of his master's honesty, buried it in the earth, and handed it back, just as he got it, "There, thou hast that is thine." You read of him in the 25th chapter of Matthew. His lord said of him, "Cast ye the unprofitable servant into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth." Surely, my dear sir, you do not think yourself that unprofitable servant? You would be more concerned if you did. Instead of standing there playing with your watch-chain, and with religious phraseology too, you would be in your closet, on your knees in an agony, crying "God be merciful to me a sinner!" Then you must mean another. Then what other? In Luke 17:10, the Master said, "So, likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you say, 'We are unprofitable servants; we have done that which was our duty.'" Is it with these you place yourself? But you see these have done all those things which were commanded them. You dare not say that. Yet it was among these you were tacitly placing yourself, as you credited yourself with a little amiable humility and, "I am an unprofitable servant." Before you use this much abused language again, pause and consider in which connection you place yourself. The persons who may fitly say this, have done their duty; and if any one should laud and magnify them as charitable corporations and collecting agents are apt to do when "generosity" and "munificence" have been displayed, this is to be their modest renunciation of all merit. You do not stand there; and there is no other "unprofitable servant," but he who is doomed to outer darkness.

The fact is, we sometimes hide behind Scripture language, when we have no right to do it. "I have pleasure in adding my mite," says a contributor of ten dollars whose proper gift would be a hundred, complacently putting himself in the same category with the highly commended widow of the Gospel. But to begin with, she was a widow; she was, moreover, a poor widow. She gave two mites; and in the last place, "She of her want, did cast in all she had, even all her living." Reflect, my dear sir, from how large a store you took those ten dollars, and do not claim, even by the remotest suggestion, the commendation the Master bestowed upon her. If she had given just as you have done, He who sat over against the treasury—who sees still what is put therein—would never have pronounced that splendid eulogium to a little share of which you would fain help yourself. He had not one word for those who, like you, "cast in of their abundance."

And so we may meditate with advantage on that phrase . . . . "unprofitable servant." Bad men are described in various aspects of their character. God speaks to them, and on the side where faith ought to be, there is none; and so they are called "unbelievers." Jesus manifests the love of his Father as he dies for love of men, and they ought to love him back again, but they do not. On the side where affection ought to be, there is none; and so it is written, "If any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be anathema." God is supreme, and as our Creator entitled to our obedience. But on the side where service ought to be, there is none; and so it is said, "Cast the unprofitable servant into outer darkness." There are different sides of the same spirit, and that spirit is a unit. It is not that one side of the character is good while another is bad, as a lantern may give clear light on one side and none on the others. The want of loving is from want of believing; and the want of serving is for want of believing. Mark the arrogant and offensive form in which the "unprofitable servant" puts his case, and remember that He who described this, goes right to the heart of things, and reduces to tangible shape and expression that vague but criminal thinking which underlay the wrong course of action. "I know thee, that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou hast not strewed." The "unprofitableness" then is not an accident, or a venial omission of which one might say, "It never so happened that I was led to do anything." It is held to be the outgrowth of unbelief, and the conclusive proof of a heart without love and gratitude to the Almighty.

It will not do then to throw the responsibility on others as some do, in palliation of their unprofitableness. "Our minister somehow does not draw people out." "There is not much encouragement in our church to do anything." Is not the practical meaning of that statement that a little adroit management of you, perhaps a little humoring of your whims, would have drawn you into something? My dear sir, is that worthy of a christian? If the right spirit were in you, would not the love of Christ constrain you, irrespective of minister or people? It is really humiliating to see the little schemes and devices to which resort is had to draw professing christians into christian work, as if they were children to be coaxed with candies to a little self-denial. The time draws nigh when it will be proper to put that "charity" where it belongs which is only evoked by a dance, or a church fair, or some similar piece of self-pleasing. Christian people should do their work on a different set of principles altogether.—Evangelist.

— Mastery over the minds of others is never obtained by those who do not know their own mind. But when a fixed end is kept distinctly in view, and steadily and firmly sought, this always gives confidence to weaker natures, and supplies direction to subordinate help.

THE PLUNGE.

No steps in the divine life are more difficult than to cast ourselves perfectly upon Jesus, and to believe that we are accepted. Yet to be happy, to be satisfied, these two advances—consecration and belief—must be made. Souls that have wept, and prayed, and longed for full salvation, are finally obliged to quit depending on weeping, praying, longing, and anything and everything else, and just to do these two simple things, and keep doing them moment by moment till the assurance comes,—yea, continue them till death.

When we see souls brought to the place where they are convinced that only this will bring them into the light, we are reminded of an incident of boyhood.

An old mill stood on the bank of the river at Ipswich. Its foundation stones extended beyond the building, and made a fine and secluded place for boys to disrobe themselves for a bath. The rocks were so laid that there was no gaining the water but by a precipitous plunge. The stream was deep; the rocks high for boys to jump from; the waters looked cold. We wished for the bath, but dreaded the first plunge. We would stand shuddering on the brink, till finally the leap was taken, and then instantly every dread vanished, and the waters were such a luxury!

The great immensity of Jesus' love stretches itself before us. We are invited to plunge ourselves in—body, soul, spirit—and have every stain utterly cleansed, and be actually lost in him.

"And sinners plunged beneath that flood,
Lose all their guilty stains."

But it seems such an uncertain step. So many questions arise: "How shall I know that I have given up everything?" "Can Jesus accept me?" "Have I conviction enough, emotion enough?" "I don't doubt his ability to save, I don't doubt his love, but oh, does it reach me? can I have the assurance that it does?" Oh! Satan, Satan! Bewildering and devouring souls with these endless thoughts, and suggesting queries that thou never answerest. How hard it seems. A severe taskmaster is Satan. But while he perplexes with queries, the spirit breathes, "Only believe!"

"Can I be fully saved?"

"Only believe."

"Can I be saved with such a sinful heart?"

"Only believe."

Like a guide-board to glory, these words are printed on heart and brain,—only believe; and at last the resolution comes—"I will believe." The whole being is plunged into this great and precious ocean, and the salvation full, complete, is ours.

To bring the soul to this is like casting ourselves into the stream; but the wide spread arms of Jesus receive us. "I will receive you." 2 Cor. 6:17. "I went and washed, and I received sight." John 9:17. Cast thy burden [i. e. fears, troubles, crosses] upon the Lord, and he shall sustain thee." Psalm 55:22.—Guide to Holiness.

For the World's Crisis.

"YE SHALL NOT SURELY DIE."

We see in these words the seeds sown for the destruction of the human family by our great enemy, the devil—words in complete contradiction to the command of God to our first parents, in the garden of Eden, Gen. 2:17. The penalty attached for breaking the command was death; "In the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." But the devil comes in with his doctrine of immortality, taking advantage of man's ignorance of the life-giving nature of the tree of life, which God had placed within his reach if he had lived obedient to his will; and knowing the love of life which man has implanted in his very nature, tempted them in their weakest point, saying unto the woman, "Ye shall not surely die"; but in the day thou eatest, "ye shall be as gods," of course immortal, "knowing good and evil." How much like the teachings of spiritualism of these last days; that when we die we rise to a higher sphere of existence, knowing a great deal more than when in the body.

So we see that our first parents through the temptation of immortality promised by Satan in disobedience to God's command, fell, and lost all hopes of immortality, except through some other source, which was promised in the "seed of the woman," which was Christ, who should bruise the serpent's head. How good the Lord was after all their disobedience to promise a Savior, who hath come and hath "brought immortality to light" through the gospel and the resurrection of the dead. "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord." Rom. 6:23. We see that man accepted the doctrine of immortality, or spiritualism, as taught by the devil, and he died and returned to dust; "For dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." Thus saith the Lord.

God chose Abraham, the father of the faithful, to raise him up a people to serve him, who should look forward by faith to the seed of the woman, which should bruise the serpent's head; as we understand it, counteracting his doctrine of immortality at death, which was a lie, and had sent the whole human family to an eternal death, except the promised Redeemer should come to raise them from the dead, and to immortality, and to destroy him, and the last enemy, death. We find by reading the history of the children of Israel, that God, to rid his people of spiritualism, which had, no doubt, crept in among them from heathen nations in their sojourn in Egypt, commanded (Lev. 20:27): "A man also or woman, that hath a familiar spirit, or that is a wizard, shall surely be put to death." We find by reading 1 Sam. 28:1, that a familiar spirit was one that held communication with the dead, or a medium.

Christ taught the sleep of the dead, from which there is no awaking until the resurrection of the last day. It was also taught by his apostles, till we come to the great apostasy, when the church, to extend her power and influence, united with pagan Rome. Then the unclean spirit, spoken of by the revelator, came from the mouth of the dragon into the church (Rev. 16:13), and from the beast formed by uniting church and state, to the Protestant church, and from the mouth of the false prophet, Mahomet. We see according to their works that it is the ripe fruit of the seed sown in the garden of Eden, which was nourished and kept alive by heathen nations, or pagans, until the church backslid so far from God as to unite with the dragon, or paganism, and incorporated this false doctrine of devils into the Christian religion; and it has ripened into the spiritualism of these last days; for "they are the spirits of devils, working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth, and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of the great day of God Almighty."

"And when they shall say unto you, Seek unto them that have familiar spirits, and unto wizards that peep and mutter; should not a people seek unto their God for the living to the dead?" Isa. 8:19. How many kings of the earth, instead of going to God in these times of perplexity, consult a spirit medium, like Saul of old. How the whole world has been stirred by the lying wonders and miracles performed by the spirit-mediums of these last days; and it seems (if it were possible) they would deceive the very elect. How they are gathering them to the battle, both from an unconverted world and a lukewarm church. These spirits are like frogs, because they live in two elements; in the unconverted world, and among professed christians; for there is no command of God to the Gentile nations to put them to death.

O, may the Lord help us by his grace, who are looking for the second coming of Christ, to redeem his people from the grave, and change the living ones, and give them immortality, to be watchful and prayerful, that we be not led away by temptation, but be kept blameless till Jesus comes. J. S. JOHNSON.

TRUST.

I cannot see, with my short human sight,
Why God should lead this way or that for me;
I only know he saith, "Child, follow me."
But I can trust.

I know not why my path should be at times
So straitly hedged, so strangely barred before;
I only know God could keep wide the door.
But I can trust.

I find no answer, often, when beset
With questions fierce and subtle on my way,
And often have but strength to faintly pray.
But I can trust.

I often wonder, as with trembling hand
I cast the seed along the furrowed ground,
If ripened fruit for God will there be found.
But I can trust.

I cannot know why suddenly the storm
Should rage so fiercely round me in its wrath;
But this I know, God watches all my path.
And I can trust.

I may not draw aside the mystic veil
That hides the unknown future from my sight;
Nor know if for me waits the dark or light.
But I can trust.

I have no power to look across the tide,
To know, while here, the land beyond the river;
But this I know, I shall be God's forever.
So I can trust.

—Selected.

EVIL SPEAKING.

The wolf, when one of its kind is injured, rends it in pieces without compassion, and as though forgetful of the fellowship previously borne. Man, inconsiderate of his own frailty and imperfection, no sooner perceives a wound in his neighbor's reputation, than, wolf-like, he proceeds to tear down the whole fabric.

This moral cannibalism that neither elevates nor enriches, is not confined to any stage of life nor condition of society, but feeding on human error, permeates everywhere like an infectious disease. At home or abroad, at school or in business, the evil confronts us, breeding dissensions among friends, and cheapening character until, impatient with ourselves and those around us, we are prompted to say with one of old, "I have seen the end of all perfection."

It is strange that beings made in the image of their Creator—one to whom we assign the highest attributes in human conception—should so far forget their origin as, Satan-like, to defame each other and attempt to elevate themselves by standing on the necks of their fellows. . . .

There are those, however, who speak evil, not because they themselves are raised by their neighbor's abasement, but because of their own corruption of heart; because having fallen themselves, they desire all should occupy the same level, and they seek to drag others down.

With the anonymous "they say," mountains are made from mole hills, and none can be too careful of speech, either of or before any one. A careless assertion, an ambiguous remark, is often taken up and passed from one to another, each rolling it beneath the tongue as a sweet morsel, and giving more than received, until it returns to the originator, mis-shaped, disfigured, unrecognized; like a ball of snow rolled along the highway, growing larger, but gathering filth, and at last losing its identity and former purity.

Solomon says, "Devise not evil against thy neighbor," and tells us, "Him that soweth discord among brethren" the Lord hates. God and the good have for ages been commanding and entreating humanity to preserve purity of heart—and yet the life-blood of society is so tainted with the abomination, that men must shut up their thoughts even, and sympathies to themselves, and appear stern and reserved to those around, lest their treasures should be trodden in filth; and we have grown to say derisively, "Fools and children tell the truth."

We are often misjudged, and it appears that if ever so poor and obscure, the tongue of calumny will find us out; if ever so wise and distinguished, the spirit of invective will assault us. Neither church nor counting-house, forum nor fireside, is exempt. Our only redress is "revile not again," to practise a charity that speaketh no evil—the charity of silence—People's Journal.

HOW SHALL I DROP TOBACCO?

1. Don't trifle with the habit, as a thing of little consequence. Nothing is contemptible, nothing should be treated as puerile, which conquers you and your fellow-men.

2. Don't imagine that you can drop it by degrees. The idea of using less and less, till the habit tapers down to nothing, is well-nigh ridiculous.

3. Use no Substitutes. Men of distinction, whose names are at hand, have recommended spices, hemp, pitch-pine, paper saturated in tar, and even tobacco of bad quality. These gentlemen, for the most part, however, found them of no service in their own case; for, in spite of substitutes, they died as they lived, using tobacco.

4. Don't try to give it up. Unless you have considerable grit and a will of your own, you will find trying and doing different things in killing off this king of appetites.

Give it up! Yes, give it up! This you have not done, for trying is not doing. Give it up understandingly, in view of many and powerful motives. Give it up in the fear of God, and in the strength He imparts. Concentrate the whole man upon the resolve; give it up once for all, and, in solemn appeal to Heaven, say, "Live or die, survive or perish," I serve this master no longer!

A member of a church remonstrated with a preacher, and stated that he could not expect sinners would give up their sins, while he indulged in the sin of using tobacco. "I know it is wrong," said the minister. "I have often resolved to give up the habit, but I have not resolution enough to persevere."

"Why," said the other, "that is the very excuse the impenitent give for not forsaking their sins."

"Well, I'll think it over as I go home," observed the minister, "and perhaps I'll give it up."

"That will not do," replied the church-member; "we never allow this; we exhort the impenitent to repent on the spot; we never tell them to go home and repent."

"With the help of God, then," said the minister, "I will leave off the practice from this moment."

The good man did abandon the practice at once; and many clergymen, whom I might name, have of late done the same. John Q. Adams and Dr. Nott, abandoned it when on the "dry side" of fifty. You, my dear sir, can do it; you can "show yourself a man." Resolve with another, "I will drop this habit, if it takes the skin from my bones."

Or resolve with another, "I will master tobacco, if it costs me my life;" and conquer you will, as they conquered.—G. Trask.

For the World's Crisis.

TUMBLE-WEEDS.

There is a kind of weed which grows on the western prairies, called the tumble-weed. It grows large, and throws out long, low branches, or side stems, which make it round, so that it will roll before the wind. They vary in size from a man's head to a bushel basket, and when they are dead and dry in the fall, they break off from the root and go before the wind just where it happens.

There are miles of prairie unfenced, and it is very amusing on a windy day to see these weeds go jumping and tumbling along as if on a chase. In the distance you see them coming; they hurry by, now this side up, now that, and on they go like a thing of life, never tiring and never stopping until they strike a hedge or a fence.

The first one striking the fence stops and rests, and the next one also, and so on until hundreds of them lie piled up, filling to the top of the boards, and still others come bounding along, and, finding no impediment, they mount the pile and scale the fence, not stopping to say as much as "good bye," but rush on their headlong way, while their brethren who have lodged against the fence, stretch their arms through the spaces in vain effort as it were to follow them.

But once let the wind shift, and then see who is ahead. As soon as possible every tumble-weed leaves its corner and starts again on his wild career. Stop him—ask him where he is going—no answer; but restless and uneasy the moment you release him, he rushes on as though he would say, "I can't stop here; I must go further."

It is laughable to see these tumble-weeds, so restless, so headlong, and so independent. And yet I think they are a good representation of the movements of the world in the age in which we live; a time in which so many are rushing on, rolling and tumbling with the wind of fortune, all specially intent on moving on in a whirl of excitement, either politically, financially, or religiously, until something which they consider a fatality stops them in their course.

The world is reckless; man is but a rolling thing, careless of the future, impatient of delay; he rushes before the wind of speculation, and, as the tumble-weeds perish at last in the prairie fires, so will a reckless world in the fires of the last day.

Let us not be thus, but consider the future, and prepare for a higher destiny which awaits all who are faithful to God. F. BURR.

WHO PUT ICE IN THE PULPIT?—We find the following in an exchange, in answer to the question, "Who put ice in the pulpit?":

You, Deacon Jones: you put it there! At least you have done more to put it there than any one else in the parish. Your whole course for the last three years has constantly tended to put out the fire in your pastor's heart, and turn him into an iceberg. You have neglected or been slow to pay your portion of his salary, and fill his mind with the cares of the world; you have neglected the prayer-meeting, and have come late to church, and left your pastor to bear the whole burden of souls, and by your example have encouraged others to do the same, while you have given yourself up to successful money-getting.

If your pastor is frigid, good people, thaw him out. Do not try to break the ice. Melt it. Harshness and fault-finding will do the first. Sympathy and kindness will start any stream, no matter how long it has been frost-bound.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL HAND.—Two charming women were discussing one day what constitutes beauty in the hand. They differed in opinion as much as in the shape of the beautiful members whose merits they were discussing. A gentleman friend presented himself, and by common consent the question was referred to him. Glancing from one to the other of the beautiful white hands presented for his examination, he replied at last: "I give it up; the question is too hard for me: but ask the poor, and they will tell you the most beautiful in the world is the hand that gives."

Gems.

— Sorrow comes soon enough without despondency: it does a man no good to carry around a lightning-rod to attract trouble.

— Every act of sin is more injurious to him who commits it than it can possibly be to any other who suffers by it; it will return into the conscience and perform a strange work there.

—Labor is of noble birth, but prayer is the daughter of heaven. Labor has a place near the throne, but prayer touches the golden sceptre. Labor, Martha-like, is busy with much serving, but prayer sits with Mary at the feet of Jesus.

— Hours have wings and fly up to the Author of time, and carry news of our usage; all our prayers cannot entreat one of them to return or slacken his pace; the ill-usage of every minute is a new record against us in heaven.

Mortal, if life smile on thee, and thou find
All to thy mind,
Think who did once from heaven to hell descend,
Thee to befriend:
So shalt thou dare forego, at his dear call,
Thy best, thine all.
"O Father, not my will, but thine be done!"
So speaks the Son:
Be this our charm, mellowing earth's ruder noise
Of griefs and joys:
That we may cling forever to thy breast,
In perfect rest.

— The denial of God is the denial of a conviction which we bear within our minds, and hence a mental error which should be impossible. We are obliged to think of God. Consciousness of God is as essential an element of our mind as consciousness of the world or self-consciousness. The idea of God is a deep necessity of the mind.

— Nothing brings such peace to the heart as a calm trustfulness in God's overruling care.

— The flower of christian graces grows only under the shade of the cross, and the root of them all is humility.

— God hath two dwelling-places—the highest heavens and the lowest hearts: that is the habitation of his glory; this of his grace.

— Pleasure is like a hornet—generally ends with a sting.

— It is a blessed thing to stoop, when we do it to gather up spiritual manna for our souls.

PERSEVERE.—Persevere against discouragements. Keep your temper. Employ leisure hours in study, and always have some work in hand. Be punctual and methodical in business, and never procrastinate. Never be in a hurry. Preserve self-possession, and do not be talked out of conviction. Rise early, and be an economist of time. Maintain dignity, without the appearance of pride; manner is something with everybody, and everything with some. Be guarded in discourse, attentive, and slow to speak. Never acquiesce in immoral or pernicious opinions. Be not forward to assign reasons to those who have no right to ask. Think nothing in conduct unimportant or indifferent. Rather set than follow example. Practice strict temperance.

THE GREAT QUESTION.—John Newton, one evening at a party, mentioned that a young girl had died. "And how did she die?" asked a young lady. "You have forgotten to ask a far more important question." "Why, sir, what can be more important than how one dies?" "Yes," said he, "it is far more important how one lives." And so it is; if one lives well, God will take care that he dies well.

The Children's Corner.

PLEDGE OF THE TRY COMPANY.

We, the Undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from Tea, Coffee, Tobacco, and all Intoxicating Drinks as a Beverage.

TAKE CARE OF THE FOX.

"I am glad of one thing!" She spoke out suddenly, a sigh of relief following the sentence. It was little Helen. She had been sitting very still for a good while, holding a picture-book in her hand.

"Glad of what?"

"That I'm not a hen," she answered lifting her serious eyes to mine.

"Not a hen! why, darling, what do you mean?"

She brought me the book, and I saw at a glance what had disturbed the quiet of her mind. The picture of a mother-hen frightened at the appearance of a fox, was on the open page.

"Poor thing! How scared she is!" said the child tenderly. "Will the fox eat her up?"

"Unless she can escape him," I answered.

"Oh, I'm glad I'm not a hen to be frightened or killed by a fox! It is so dreadful!"

And I saw a little shiver run over her. "May be you are in as much danger as the hen," I said.

"Me? There are no foxes about here. Why do you say that, Mamma! And, anyhow, a fox wouldn't hurt a little girl?"

"I heard Mrs. Claire say something about foxes when she was here yesterday."

"What did she say, mamma!"

"She said, take care of the little foxes.'"

"Oh, yes! I remember now; and I couldn't help wondering what she meant."

"She didn't, of course, mean live foxes that run about in the woods."

"I knew she didn't mean them. Are there any other kinds of foxes?

"Yes."

"What kind? Where are they?"

"Inside of you."

"Oh, mother!" Helen exclaimed, a tremor of surprise in her voice. "Foxes inside of me?"

"Yes, my darling: and you are in as much danger as the bird you so pitied just now."

There was a half-scared, half-wondering expression in my little girl's face.

"Oh, I understand!" she said, a faint smile playing about her lips. "By foxes you mean naughty feelings."

"Yes, foxes are cruel and cunning. They hurt and destroy. You know how cruel Herod was; how he sent forth and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years and under; and how our Lord called him "that fox.'"

"Oh, yes! I remember. And was it because he was cruel that he was called a fox?"

"Yes. The evil and cruel feelings, represented by foxes in nature, had destroyed all the kind and compassionate feeling in his heart, and made him inwardly as cunning and cruel as a fox. And this same thing is happening now, and every day. I have seen a great many people—children even—who appeared to me more like foxes than lambs; more like hawks than doves, they were so full of anger and cruelty toward each other. Oh, my child, take care of the fox! Don't let him get in among the gentle and loving things of your soul, or he will hurt, and it may be destroy them."—Children's Hour.

HOW TO PUT AWAY OUR FAULTS.

Not long since, I was watching a great Newfoundland dog. He had been told by his young master to fetch him a basket of tools that the gardener had left in the shed. The great dog went to obey his young master. He took hold of the basket in his mouth; but he could not lift it. What did he do? give it up? No, never! One by one he took the things out of the basket, and carried them to his master.

One by one: that is what we must try to do with all our faults,—try and get rid of them one by one. Jesus knows how hard it is for you to do this: and so he has given you a word that will help you to do it; and that word is, "To-day." I will show you. Take one fault, —we will call it "bad temper,"—and in the morning, when you get out of bed, ask God, for Christ's sake, to help you "to-day" to overcome that bad temper. Perhaps, by and by, something will begin to make you feel angry: then remember your prayer, and try and drive away the angry feeling, and say, "Not to-day, not to-day; I will not be angry to-day."

If you have learned any bad, wicked words, like the poor children in the street, who don't know any better, than ask God, for Christ's to help you "to-day" not to say any wicked words: and then, when you are tempted to do so, remember, "Not to day, not to-day; I will not say a wicked word to-day."

And so the same with all your faults. Take them one by one, and try for one whole day not to give way to them. It will come so much easier!

A FRANK AND NOBLE BOY.

As I was taking a ride in our pleasant village, in which we have a few plague-spots left, I took up a lad of some seven years. As I had occasion to stop close to a rum-shop, I noticed the boy looked surprised; and I said, "Shall we go in and take a little whisky, as we may be cold before we get back?" I shall not soon forget the frankness with which he looked me in the face, and said, "My mother don't allow me to drink, sir." Then I said, "Won't you go in there and warm yourself?" and he honestly said, "I don't think my mother would allow me to go into such a place, sir."

Now, I want to say to all boys, Never be ashamed to follow the counsel and good advice of a pious mother; for it will be a shield and a safeguard to you through life.

And to mothers I would say, Be evermore vigilant to cast a good influence around the young; for it will aid them in fierce temptation's darkest hours, and save our country and world much sorrow.—Zion's Herald.

NEVER LATE.—A Sabbath-school in Albany, New-York, has had the same superintendent for forty years; and he was never a minute behind the time in all his forty years' service in the school. Think of that, boys.

Chief Justice Williams, of Hartford, Conn., was a teacher in the Sunday-school, and the superintendent always knew when it wanted three minutes of the time to open the school by seeing him enter. Think what punctuality that was!

Boys and girls, yes, and teachers too, who hurry in or creep into Sunday-school after it has begun, disturbing the prayer, or the reading, or the singing, had better note these fine examples of promptness in duty.

P. O. Address of Preaching Brethren.

Massachusetts.

C. Goodrich—No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.
Enoch Morrill—Crisis Office, Boston.
J. S. White—98 Decatur Street, East Boston.
L. K. Lombard—Chelsea.
L. Boutell—Chelsea.
S. W. Thurber—Chelsea.
T. M. Preble—Chelsea.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls.
Geo. A. Brown—Plymouth.
Geo. A. Cole—Plymouth.
D. Churchill—Lowell.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford.
S. S. Brewer—Ashburnham Depot.
H. Pratt—Springfield, 57 Cedar Street.
Z. Ford—Box 392, Springfield.
W. N. Pile—Springfield.
P. S. Butler—Collins Depot.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana.
Alvah Bean—Lowell.
J. W. Thomas—Lowell, 16 Rock Street.
Benj. Finney—Wakefield.
S. S. Brazee—Cold Spring.
W. R. Hathaway—North Carver.
Rufus Baker—Warren.
J. W. Brittan—Westboro.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—Palmer.
H. K. Flagg—Savoy.
E. Owen—Westfield, Lock Box 616.

Maine.

S. K. Partridge—North Whitefield.
I. C. Wellcome—Yarmouth.
H. D. Reed—Richmond.
H. S. Mitchell—Richmond.
J. Carr—South Albion.
Israel Damman—Corinna.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills.
C. Goud—Topsham.
Jesse Gay—Norway.
Thomas Smith—Bangor.
Thomas Rhynes—Augusta.
R. R. York—Portland.
M. B. Patterson—Richmond.
J. Albert Libby—West Poland.
J. T. Jordan—West Poland.
E. M. Haggett—Livermore.
F. A. Baker—Levant.
Jared Whitman—Mechanic Falls.
H. B. Sevey—Mt. Vernon.
M. W. Corliss—Milltown.
N. G. Reed—Bath.
Wm. H. Mitchell—Kennebunk.

New Hampshire.

L. C. McKinstry—Tamworth Iron Works.
A. W. Sibley—West Thornton.
J. Couch—Concord.
A. Simpson—Concord.
D. N. Chadsey—Whitefield.
Caleb Richardson—Salem Depot.
N. C. Twombly—Strafford Centre.
E. Cotton—Newport.
Daniel Eastman—East Canaan.
J. B. Brown—Laconia.
A. A. Hoyt—North Haverhill.
T. E. Lang, Jr.—Meredith Village.
E. S. Moulton—Whitefield.
Wm. C. Stewart—Exeter, Box 227.
John H. Evans—Holderness.
Levi Allen—Lake Village.
Allen Damon—Lake Village.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff.
Joseph Kimball—Unity.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover.
N. B. McMurphy—Gilmanton.
A. Ross—Amherst.
C. H. Fletcher—Newport.
T. L. Hall—Keene.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport.
S. S. Mooney—Pittsfield.
N. Wheeler—Sugar Hill.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426, Concord
Simeon Roby—Warner.
D. F. Leavitt—Loudon Ridge.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia.
J. G. Smith—Farmington.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth.
N. Glidden—Meredith Center.

Vermont.

H. F. Carpenter—North Springfield.
J. A. Cleaveland—North Hydepark.
A. Gordon—Canaan.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.

Rhode Island.

M. R. Phetteplace—West Gloucester.
D. O. Hopkins—North Foster.
B. Roberts—Knightsville.
A. Durfee—Westerly, Box 331.
J. T. Dixon—Rocky Brook.
C. H. Sweet—Natick.

Connecticut.

William J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley.
S. M. Tatro—No. 51 Windsor St., Hartford
H. H. Dickenson—Hartford.
P. S. Butler—West Woodstock.
W. S. Campbell—New Britain.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted.
Wm. A. Durand—Cheshire.
S. Woodruff—Unionville.
B. St. John—Wolcottville.
J. L. Wood—Collinsville.
Dr. Samuel Wellis Treat—Middlebury
Geo. L. Teeple—New Haven, 189 Orchard Street.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville.
A. D. Flagg—Torrington.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford.
E. Bellows—South Killingly.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville

New York.

Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
E. S. Jennings—Knowlesville, Orleans Co.
J. B. Cook—Brooklyn.
Wm. Ingmire—Lincklaen, Chenango Co
Jacob Blain—Buffalo, 79 Division Street.
Chas. P. Greenman—Rapids, Niagara Co.
Arthur King—145 Nassau Street, New York.
Wm. A. Fenn—Rochester.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester.
Z. Dubois Baird—N. Greenwich, Washington Co
C. Pike—Hebron, Washington Co.
C. H. Leverton—Honeoye, Ontario Co.
J. H. Whitmore—East Shelby, Orleans Co.
C. F. Sweet—Albion, Orleans Co.
Warren J. Hobbs—Honeoye Falls.
C. W. Low—Fredonia.
M. R. Miles—Wolcott, Wayne Co.
J. Wilbur—West Hoosick, Rensselaer Co.
A. C. Newell—Darien City.
C. H. Williams—West Martinsburg.
B. P. Stevens—South Butler.
D. Cogswell—Dansville.
Herbert H. Brown—Honeoye, Ontario Co.

New Jersey.

3. P. Babcock—Malaga.

Pennsylvania.

J. W. Taylor—Little Marsh, Tioga Co.
John T. Ongley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co.
Jonas Wendell—Edenboro, Erie Co.
Wm. Stuart—1814 Vineyard Street, Philadelphia.

Ohio.

H. G. McCulloch—Nevada, Wyandot Co.
G. W. Stetson—Olena.
E. McCulloch—Nevada.

Tennessee.

Dr. I. I. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis.
L. F. Cole—Memphis, Box 634.

Kentucky.

John B. Wadsworth—166 No. 2nd St., Louisville.

Indiana.

R. H. Scott—Scottsville, Floyd Co.
David Shankland—West Lebanon.
E. C. Andrus—Big Indian P. O.
Dr. N. Field—Jeffersonville.
S. A. Chaplin—Pierceton.
Edward Cordray—Lakeville.
Dr. C. H. Cass—Holton.
Dr. J. W. Warman—Muddy Fork P. O.
Dr Case—Nebraska.
G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co

Illinois.

George W. Foster—Victoria, Knox Co.
O. D. Gibson—Amboy.
J. W. Burroughs—Neponset.
F. Burr—New Rutland.
Wm. McCulloch—New Rutland.

Michigan.

J. R. Preston—Wallaceville, Wayne Co.
J. M. Snook—Romeo.
A. N. Seymour—Reading.
George Wright, Jr —Lexington.

Iowa.

Peter S. W. Deyo—Strawberry Point, Clayton Co.
A. F. Dugger—Simpson.
Ambrose H. Eggleston—Parkersburg
Dr. M. Chandler—Maquoketa, Jackson Co

Wisconsin.

Wm. Sheldon—Brodhead, Green Co.
N. A. Hitchcock—Dayton, Green Co.
George Thompson—Attica, Green Co.
P. W. Hough—Mendoro, La Cross Co.

Minnesota.

Edwin T. Himes—St. Paul, Box 258.
Wm. Sweet—Backsville, Brown Co.
Philip Ramer—Winona.
Thos. K. Allen—Box 241, Winona.
Ruth M. Rowell—Winona, Box 621.
O. R. Fassett—Minneapolis.

Nova Scotia.

Wm. M. Ingham—Clemensport.

D. D. Reed—Santa Clara, Cal.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.
TERMS:
If paid in advance....................$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address.......$5.00
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address.. .$10.00
Same rate for any number over ten.
CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cts. a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication write—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write—BUSINESS.
Over all articles for the paper. write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to
MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 764. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 8, 1870. VOL. XXXI.—NO. 12.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
150 HANOVER ST., BOSTON, MASS. } CORNER OF SALEM STREET. (☞ Entrance No. 7 Salem St.)

MILES GRANT, EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
D. MATHEWSON, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, H. H. DICKENSON.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

THE GOSPEL.

The following lines were suggested one Sunday morning as the church bells were ringing out their merry peals, calling to worship.

The Sabbath bells are ringing
In loud and joyful chimes;
The choirs are now all singing
Those sweet and melting rhymes;
God's saints are humbly kneeling
Before Jehovah's throne,
And sinners too are feeling,
Whose hearts are not of stone.

The gospel now is sounding
In every sinner's ear;
Old Satan thus confounding,
Who trembles sore with fear;
But many are not heeding
The solemn warnings given—
On worldly baubles feeding,
They vainly hope for heaven.

And so they are deceiving
Their hard and sinful hearts,
And Satan's lies believing
Through his deceptive arts
For he is yet proclaiming—
"Thou shalt not surely die,"
While thousands now are claiming
That Satan told a lie.

But Jesus still is waiting,
And knocking at the door,
While saints are oft relating
"The story" told of yore.
Why will they not come bending,
And let the Savior in,
With God no more contending,
No longer slaves of sin?

O soon you'll hear them wailing,
As Christ their Judge draws nigh,
Once bold, but now all quailing
Before his piercing eye.
They scoffed at his appearing,
Refused to yield their heart,
The sentence now are fearing—
"From me you must depart."

But hear the heavenly singing—
The saints are in the fold!
O hear the arches ringing,
And see the crowns of gold;
The angels all attending,
The saints victorious stand;
At Jesus' feet now bending,
All in the promised land.

Peru, Ind. H. H. HALL.

For the World's Crisis.

THE TREE OF LIFE.

What was the nature of the tree of life?
Why was it provided in Eden?

These are questions upon which good men may honestly differ as they view them from their various stand-points. All we can know definitely on these points is from the brief history of this tree given in the sacred Scriptures.

It is spoken of but six times in the Bible, three in Genesis, in its relation to Adam in Eden (Gen. 2: 9, and 3: 22, 24); and three times in Rev. in its relation to the saints redeemed. Rev. 2: 7, and 22: 2, 14. It is never located by inspiration any where except in Eden, and in the paradise of God, or the city of New Jerusalem, as in Rev.

No mortal man, saint or sinner, has been permitted to eat its fruit since Adam was driven from Eden (so far as we are informed), lest he should eat thereof and live forever, a mortal sinner. Gen. 3: 22. But whether Adam did or did not eat of it before he sinned, is quite another question; we do not affirm that he did, however reasonable such a conclusion might be, nor do we see any proof that he did not; and to claim the latter is as much assumption as it would be to claim the former, Scripture being silent upon that point. Nor do we conjecture that it was only designed to perpetuate life before the fall, but we do understand the inspired record to teach that it would prolong man's life (not make him immortal) forever, sin or no sin, if permitted to eat thereof, as originally commanded by "the Lord God." See Gen. 2: 16.

The claim being often set up that this tree was originally designed to make man immortal, or impart to him a deathless nature by once eating of it, we propose therefore to inquire what the Scriptures do say of this tree, and of man for whose use and benefit it was originally provided.

1. Man was made a living soul (Gen. 2: 7), susceptible of dying (Gen. 2: 17); hence,

2. He was mortal.

3. To sustain life he needed food, and God provided it. "And God said, Behold I have given you every herb bearing seed, ... and every tree in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat." Gen. 1: 29. "For thou mayest eat of them [the trees of the field]; and thou shalt not cut them down, for the tree of the field is man's life." Deut. 20: 19.

4. And the second commandment ever given to man, on record, was to eat freely of the tree of life as food. Gen. 2: 9, 16.

Thus far the sacred record is plain; and can it be true that God made man in the foregoing condition, and then on his first entrance into the garden of Eden commanded him to "freely eat" of a tree as food, the once eating of which would change him to immortality, or impart to him a deathless nature, and that too when he could at the same time, at the suggestion of the subtle serpent, put forth his hand and eat of the forbidden fruit, and become an immortal sinner, and thus the eternity of evil become a fixed fact? No, no; to our mind the idea is so preposterous we could not admit it for a moment. We cannot think that God's eternal sovereignty was ever left in such jeopardy.

Again, had God designed man should be immortal when on probation, multiplying, replenishing, and subduing the earth (Gen. 1: 28), we fail to see the most remote reason why he would not have thus created him, and not have left this important change to be brought about by once eating of the tree of life.

But it is claimed by some that living forever is the same thing as immortality. We do not see it so; the eating and living are inseparable; the latter is dependent on the former, and may mean so long as permitted to eat. Forever is time; immortality is the nature of the person or being, the innate power of eternal life, not dependent on the fruit of a tree. See John 5: 26.

If, while deprived of the tree of life, the fruit of the trees and herbs of the field, while under the curse, sustained Adam's life nine hundred and thirty years a mortal sinner, by a parity of reason, the tree of life being added, they would have sustained him forever a mortal sinner. But what saith the inspired record respecting the tree of life?

1. It was a product of the earth, and grew out of the ground. 2. It was pleasant to the sight. 3. It was good for food. "And out of the ground made the Lord God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight and good for food, the tree of life also in the midst of the garden." Gen. 1: 9. 4. It was medicinal. "And the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations." Rev. 22: 2. But immortal nations do not want healing; they "shall not say I am sick," showing very clearly that it was originally designed for food and medicine for mortal men, nations, such as would have "replenished the earth," if Adam had not sinned. See Gen. 1: 28.

The prime value and object of food for mortal man is in its nutritious and medicinal properties to counteract his natural tendency to waste and decay. True, it is pleasant to the sight and taste, but these do not sustain life; nay, with all these properties combined, it requires free and frequent eating to sustain life any considerable length of time. And even though mortality were sinless, and the earth free from the curse, in his trial or probation state man might, in process of time, sicken, faint and die but for the tree of life, which was perfectly adapted to the wants of his physical nature as food and medicine. Its name, therefore, like that of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, is expressive of its nature and design.

With the foregoing facts before us, we are prepared to inquire why "the Lord God" made this tree to grow in Eden? Was it to change man's nature to immortality at the first eating, and thereby render its properties, as a healer and life-preserver, ever afterward obsolete? For mark, immortality is the innate principle of deathless nature—hence eternal life. "For as the Father hath life in himself, so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself." John 5: 26.

Or was it by its healing and life-sustaining powers, as food and medicine, to perpetuate his life in his original nature, not by once eating, but by a free, regular, and seasonable succession of eating until his work was done (see Gen. 1: 28), his probation should close, and God give him immortality? What saith the inspired record? "And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat"; or, "eating thou shalt eat"—margin; not once eat and be immortal; but freely eat and live forever.

No distinction is here made between the tree of life and the other trees of the garden as food for the body. Can language be more plain to show that a continuous eating was meant? How can this language be twisted to mean once eat and be immortal? Surely a free, unrestricted eating, without limit to time or quantity, is meant. This commandment is the primary one, and must govern the reference to the eating of this tree in Gen. 3: 22.

But it is sometimes claimed that Adam ate of the tree of knowledge but once, and therefore the word also in Gen. 3: 22, "And now lest he put forth his hand and take also of the tree of life," teaches that once eating thereof would have enabled him to live forever, or made him immortal. We think this is assuming what is not so easily proved. The Bible says, "He did eat," but does not say how much or how often. But the fact of his eating made him a sinner, because it was forbidden. Not so with the tree of life; of this he might eat at pleasure "freely."

Again, after eating of the prohibited tree once, and feeling a sense of shame, they had ample time to devise and manufacture garments for a covering; and who can say they had not time to eat twice or thrice, or that they did not do so? The word also in Gen. 3: 22, has reference to taking and eating, not to quantity or the number of times.

But there is another word in this text that must not be overlooked. "And now lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat and live forever." That little word now places the emphasis in the present tense, under present circumstances. Man had rebelled against God in Eden, sin had entered into the world, God's law is violated, its penalty must be executed, man must die. These facts God in counsel summed thus—"Behold the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil; and now lest he put forth his hand and take also of the tree of life, and eat [as originally commanded, Gen. 2: 16] and live forever." Gen. 3: 22. Therefore, under these circumstances the original command to "freely eat" of the tree of life must be revoked. "Therefore the Lord God sent him forth from the garden of Eden."

Thus man was driven from the garden deprived of the tree of life, compelled to subsist on the less nutritious fruits of the earth under the curse, the cup of sorrow always at hand, subjected to sweat, toil, disease, and finally to sicken, waste and die. Tremendous train of facts! how they have borne down upon our race, and still we feel their weight.

But with Paul we exclaim, "But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Cor. 15: 57), we "may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city." Rev. 22: 14. Amen. C. GOUD.

Topsham, Me.

For the World's Crisis.

WHAT IS ETERNAL LIFE?

That sounds like a queer question to ask people who believe that words have a common meaning in the Bible, as well as out of it. When we speak of a "short life," no one is in doubt as to the import of the words; the simple meaning is, a life that endures a short time; so eternal life is a life that endures eternally. But finding that the Bible denies eternal life to the wicked, and simply offers it to man on stipulated conditions, theologians have insisted, without proof, that eternal life signifies eternal happiness. That eternal happiness will be interwoven with eternal life, we fully believe; but that it is eternal life itself, or any part of it, we utterly deny, because—

1. There is nothing in the language that even hints the thought; for neither "life," nor "eternal," signify happiness. Life is LIFE, whether there is happiness interwoven with it or not; and eternal gives its length. It may be safely said that eternal happiness involves eternal life, as happiness is impossible without life; but eternal life does not necessarily involve eternal happiness, for life is possible without happiness; but eternal life will be associated with eternal happiness, not because the two are identical, but because both are promised on the same conditions, and the man who secures one will secure both. In a word, eternal life is necessary to eternal happiness, but eternal happiness is not necessary to eternal life.

2. A deathless being must certainly live eternally; and to live eternally would be eternal life, with, or without happiness; and after Adam sinned, and lost happiness, he could have eaten of life's tree and have lived forever, if it had not been guarded. Query: Could the tree of life have given Adam eternal happiness while a sinner? If to live forever, or possess eternal life, signifies eternal happiness, then God acted strangely in keeping Adam away from eternal happiness; but if the tree of life was guarded in order to prevent Adam from living forever in a state of sin, then the possibility of eternal life without eternal happiness is clearly proved; thus showing that eternal life is not eternal happiness.

3. The precise import of the phrase "eternal life" is clearly defined by the Savior, in telling us the result of eating of the bread of heaven, which he makes synonymous with the eating of his flesh: "I am the living bread which came down from heaven; if any man eat of this bread, he shall live forever; and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world. . . . Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day."—John 6: 51, 54. Here "eternal life" and "live forever" are used to express the same result; hence "eternal life," instead of meaning eternal happiness, signifies to live forever; and another form of expressing the same result that follows eating this bread is given in verse 50,—"A man may eat thereof and not die"; so "eternal life," "live forever," and "not die," are identical in meaning. This is both the scriptural and common sense meaning of eternal life; but happiness will be enjoyed by its possessors also.

WM. SHELDON.

FOOLHARDINESS.

"A Swiss traveler," says a writer in the Edinburgh Review, "describes a village, situated on the slope of a great mountain, of which the strata shelve in the direction of the place. Huge crags, directly overhanging the village, and massive enough to sweep the whole of it into the torrent below, have become separated from the main body of the mountain, in the course of ages, by great fissures, and now scarce adhere to it. When they give way, the village must perish; it is only a question of time, and the catastrophe may happen any day. For years past, engineers have been sent to measure the width of the fissures, and report them constantly increasing. The villagers, for more than one generation, have been aware of their danger; subscriptions have been once or twice opened to enable them to remove; yet they live on in their doomed dwellings, from year to year, fortified against the ultimate certainty and daily probability of destruction, by the common sentiment: 'Things may last their time and longer.'"

This is a fair practical illustration of the recklessness to which we accustom ourselves even in the affairs of this life; but more especially in regard to our spiritual interests. "Because sentence against an evil work is not executed speedily, therefore the heart of the sons of men is fully set in them to do evil." We work hourly in the midst of dangers. The thread of life is brittle, and may be snapped in a moment. There is but a step between us and the awful realities of eternity. Men know, too, that the hand of retribution will visit them for their sins, and that if they do not abandon their wickedness, the day of vengeance will surely come. Now and then some startling providence reminds them afresh of their peril; they hear the premonitory groan and rumble of the approaching avalanche; yet as soon as it is found that the destruction is stayed, they settle down in renewed indifference, and sin on yet longer. Men give themselves to vices which they know must, sooner or later, bring a terrible harvest of shame, agony, and ruin. They see others in whom the awful results of a life of sin are exemplified, and for a moment they are alarmed; yet because their hour of retribution lingers, they yield anew to the infatuations of sin, and put from them the warnings of mercy and of truth. Even Lot and his family had to be dragged out of Sodom at the last moment.

What need have we to watch and pray—to guard against the almost brutal indifference with which men wander on the brink of ruin, and sport in the presence of danger and of death! Dwelling in the midst of these perils renders us reckless as to danger. The charms of sense bewitch us. The excitements of the hour absorb us. The ambitions of life carry us away, and we forget that we are mortal, until the crash of ruin comes suddenly, and the overhanging doom descends when we look not for it. Sinner! look up and see the ruin that is ready to fall, and flee for thy life to the refuge of God's mercy. Careless christian! the day of reckoning will come as a thief on them that are at ease in Zion—on all the carnal, and voluptuous, and proud, on all who, like Demas, "love this present world." Awake, thou that sleepest, and trim thy lamp, and put oil in thy vessel; for the Bridegroom will come, and the door will be closed against all the careless, and sudden destruction will come upon them.—Christian Standard.

ANGRY WORDS.

Angry words are lightly spoken
In a rash and thoughtless hour;
Brightest links of life are broken
By their deep, insidious power.
Hearts inspired by warmest feeling,
Ne'er before by anger stirred,
Oft are rent past human healing
By a single angry word.

Poison drops of care and sorrow,
Bitter poison drops are they,
Weaving for the coming morrow
Saddest memories of to-day.
Angry words, O let them never
From the tongue unbridled slip;
May the heart's best impulse ever
Check them, ere they soil the lip.

Love is much too pure and holy,
Friendship is too sacred far
For a moment's reckless folly,
Thus to desolate and mar.
Angry words are lightly spoken,
Bitterest thoughts are rashly stirred,
Brightest links in life are broken
By a single angry word.

For the World's Crisis.

THE PLAN OF GOD.

NUMBER THREE.

THE PENALTY OF THE LAW.

We shall not attempt to notice all the different theories with regard to the penalty of the divine law; it has been demonstrated time and again that the death threatened could not be a moral death, or a "death that never dies"; but a "corporeal death." But I remark that a corporeal death would be the legitimate result of man's nature, whether he violated the divine law or not, being created out of the elements of nature a mortal being.

Some have taken the position that man was created neither mortal nor immortal, but became mortal by transgression. But this is contrary to science. "The opposition of science, falsely so called," or falsely called science, is that which is opposite to true science. True science and revelation always agree, both emanating from the same source; and true science teaches us that anything must be either mortal or immortal. And as man was not created immortal, he must have been created mortal; and therefore, by nature, subject to physical decay, or death. And now, as God set "death" as the penalty of the law, and man by nature is subject to death whether he violates the law or not, it devolves upon the Creator, as we have before remarked, to provide a remedy which will protract his life as long as he lives in obedience to the law. And when the law is transgressed, all that is necessary to inflict the penalty is to remove the remedy, and man must die from natural causes.

And this is just the reason man dies to-day: because he cannot have access to the remedy which would protract his life. To say that the human family came under the condemnation of "eternal death" in consequence of Adam's transgression, is saying more than can be proved. I know that "in Adam all die"; but I have shown how: by being, in consequence of his transgression, driven from the "tree of life." Just the moment Adam died, the penalty was paid; and could his posterity have had access to the tree of life, they would not have had to die simply in consequence of his sin; but because he sinned the remedy was removed from them, as well as from him, and so, in consequence of his sin, they all die.

The position has been taken that if death merely was the penalty, and it was paid the moment Adam died, then there would have been no need of a Savior; for man paid the penalty himself; and now all he needed was a resurrection, and God surely had power to raise him from the dead without sending his Son to pay the penalty over again. Therefore, it is contended that the penalty was "eternal death"—an eternal forfeiture of mortal life. And as all Adam's posterity are now under the condemnation of eternal death in consequence of his transgression, they must die eternally unless an atonement is made by one whose life is not thus forfeited. Hence they claim Christ came with a life unforfeited by Adam's sin—a life which he received direct from God, although the same in kind; and this life he voluntarily lays down; the law grasps it, and lets go the life forfeited by Adam. And now God raises him from the dead, and gives him a new life, an immortal one, and the law holds the mortal one to all eternity. Thus the debt is paid, the law is satisfied, and man is redeemed.

But this theory is based on a false premise, viz: that there are two kinds of life—mortal and immortal. The fact is, there is but one kind of life, not two. Life is a result, not a quality. We can talk with propriety of a temporal life, and an eternal life; the one being the result of a mortal nature, and the other of an immortal nature. The Savior says, "I lay down my life that I may take it again." He does not say, "I lay down my mortal life that I may take an immortal one"; but he laid down his life that he might take it, the same life, again. But God, when he raised him from the dead, changed his nature so that his life can not again terminate in death.

And I would remark, by the way, that this position more effectually does away with the necessity of the atonement than the others. For if the law demanded a mortal life eternally, and if, after Christ had laid down his, God could raise him from the dead, giving him a new life, without usurping from the law, then he could just as easily have left the mortal life of the saints in the grave, and raised them to an immortal one, without usurping from the law, and left the wicked in the grave eternally.

But I understand, as before intimated, that the penalty of the law was merely a forfeiture of life, by being driven from the remedy that would protract it. Thus man is given over to die; and death is personated as an enemy, and demands now a legal atonement. And the only way a legal atonement can be effected is by the law being kept. And had there been one found among the offspring of Adam who could have kept the law, and thus conquered death by taking away its sting (1 Cor. 15: 56), an atonement might have been thus effected. But not one could be found, for "all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God"; all have received the sting of death, and thus been conquered by him instead of conquering. Hence God sends his own Son, by whom and for whom he made the world; and he, being made in the likeness of sinful man, or, in other words, taking upon him our own nature (see Heb. 2: 14,—Diaglott), is placed under the law, "being tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin;" and conquers the enemy on his own ground.

How the Son of God, once existing in the presence of the Father, could be reduced to an embryo state, and reproduced as the babe of Bethlehem, will perhaps remain a mystery until "the seventh angel begins to sound, and the mystery of God is finished." But it is no more of a mystery than it is that after man has been returned to his original elements he can be reproduced, and his identity restored. Remember, "Without faith it is impossible to please God."

The Son of God came, was clothed upon with our own nature, and placed under the law. Yes, he was tried in the severest manner, until the law was satisfied and the sting of death was taken away. And now by obedience to the law he becomes a conqueror, and has a right to his life; it is unforfeited by transgression; and if he lays it down, he has a right to take it up again. After he has thus conquered death by rendering strict obedience to the law, thus securing his own life, he voluntarily lays it down for the lost race. He goes down to the bars of the pit, and bursting them asunder opens the gate-way to life on the other side of the grave.

He redeems man from the death entailed upon him in consequence of being driven from Eden; and the monster being conquered, the "keys" of death are wrested from him, and the Savior has a right to unlock the tomb and let its unnumbered captives free.

The position has also been taken that, as Christ "was made perfect through suffering" (Heb. 2: 10), it must have been the suffering of death, his life being all that could have been imperfect, thus strengthening the idea of two kinds of life; for he possessed just as perfect a life before he suffered as after,—life being as we have shown a result, instead of a quality. The perfection could not have been his nature, for he possessed as perfect a nature before he came in the flesh as after he was glorified; for the glory which he received after his suffering was "that glory which he enjoyed with the Father before the world was." See Macknight's translation of John 17: 5.

But the perfection spoken of must have been the perfection of character which Adam by transgression failed to develop. Hence we read in Heb. 2: 18, "For in that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted." "He was tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin" (Heb. 4: 15), thus developing a perfect character by overcoming every temptation. And now, having ascended to the Father, he becomes our High Priest and Mediator, where his righteousness is declared for the remission of sins that are past; and through his merits we are saved, being unable to save ourselves by living obedient to the law.

Every child that has arrived to the age of accountability has transgressed the law, and thus received the sting of death; and infants dying before they arrive at the age of accountability, of course are not under the law, and therefore could not render obedience to it; and hence none could be saved except through the merits of Christ, who has been placed under the law, and kept it in every respect, thus conquering the enemy and purchasing redemption for the lost and ruined race.

And now, when the time appointed of the Father comes, having finished the work of redemption, Jesus will be manifested, as he would have been without once being manifested in the flesh, had man not transgressed the divine law, and thus needed a Savior. The works of the devil will then be destroyed, and earth now groaning under the curse will bloom again in its pristine beauty and glory.

Herein is briefly delineated our views of the plan of God in creating the world. We should be glad to say much more, but the columns of our paper should be filled with the products of abler pens than mine. J. W. TAYLOR.

Christian Times, please copy.

ASTONISHING ACCURACY OF THE BIBLE.

An astonishing feature of the word of God is, that notwithstanding the time at which its compositions were written, and the multitude of the topics to which it alludes, there is not one physical error, not one assertion or allusion disproved by the progress of modern science.

None of those mistakes which the science of each succeeding age discovered in the books of the preceding; above all, none of those absurdities which modern astronomy indicates in such great numbers in the writings of the ancients, in their sacred codes, in their philosophy, and even in the finest pages of the fathers of the church, not one of those errors is to be found in any of our sacred books. Nothing there will ever contradict that which, after so many ages, the investigations of the learned would have been able to reveal to us on the state of our globe, or on that of the heavens.

Peruse with care our Scriptures, from one end to the other, to find such spots; and whilst you apply yourself to this examination, remember that it is a book which speaks of everything, which describes nature, which recites its creation, which tells us of the water, of the atmosphere, of the mountains, of the animals, and of the plants. It is a book which teaches us the first revolutions of the world, and which also foretells its last; it recounts them in the sublimest strains of poetry, and it chants them in the charms of glowing song.

It is a book which is full of oriental raptures, elevation, variety, and boldness. It is a book which speaks of the earth and things visible. It is a book which nearly fifty writers, of every degree of cultivation, of every condition, and living through the course of fifteen hundred years, have concurred to make. It is a book which was written in the centre of Asia, in the sands of Arabia, and in the deserts of Judah, in the courts of the temple of the Jews, in the music schools of the prophets of Bethel and of Jericho, in the sumptuous palaces of Babylon, and the idolatrous banks of Chebar, and finally in the centre of the western civilization, in the midst of the Jews and of their ignorance, in the midst of polytheism and its idols, as also in the bosom of pantheism and of its sad philosophy. It is a book whose first writer had been forty years a pupil of the magicians of Egypt, in whose opinion the sun, the stars, and the elements, were endowed with intelligence, reacted on the elements, and governed the world by a perpetual alluvium.

It is a book whose first writer preceded, by more than nine hundred years, the most ancient philosophers of ancient Greece and Asia, the Zalucses and the Pythagoras, the Xenophons, and the Confuciuses. It is a book which carries its narrations even to the hierarchies of angels, even to the most distant epoch of the future, and the glorious scenes of the last day.

Well, search among its fifty authors, search among its sixty-six books, its 1189 chapters, and its 31,173 verses; search for any one of those thousand errors which the ancients and the moderns committed, when they speak of the heavens, or of the earth, of their revolutions, of the elements, search, but you will find none.—Selected by S. T. Wheelock.

For the World's Crisis.

FAMILIAR HYMNS.

We have loved them ever since we can remember; nor can recollect when we did not read and sing them with delight. They are so expressive, so full of pathos, they came home to our childhood as well as youthful days, and to mature years are associated with most precious memories. When truly scriptural, they not only inform but cheer the christian heart, lighten the burdens of earthly sorrow, and excite and call forth christian graces, that enable us with more alacrity to advance in heaven's pathway, singing as we go. How suggestive they are in bringing past scenes to mind, very dear to us; when we have heard on some particular occasion some sweet song of Zion; or, united with beloved friends (some who have passed away from earth) in the social circle; or, heard them read by a beloved pastor, and sung to some old and familiar tune, in the evening prayer meeting.

Some verse, or even line of a hymn, often speaks to us, as does some precious Scripture text, though not with new meaning, yet the sentiment so chimes in with present experience, or awakens some chord of sympathy with present reflections, that gives a new zest to what perhaps has been read before a thousand times.

Some of those old poets who wrote our sweet hymns, seem to have been inspired; and when conversant with their sentiments, the inspiration reaches our own hearts, like the soft tones of a lyre.

How often in a social meeting where apathy reigned, some one has struck out in voice singing some precious hymn with appropriate melody, and all became interested, and the attendants seemed to receive fresh unction in God's worship. How countless the number of christian hearts, who have had precious moments of joyful communion with Him whom their soul loveth, through the medium of some appropriate hymn; or in sorrow, received divine consolation from the embodied scriptural sentiments and truths, exactly suited to their feelings.

Christian parents desiring and aiming to train up their children in the love and fear of God, cannot adopt a better method (and it should be a primary one), than to imbue their young minds with a love for such an effectual aid, and awaken in them a desire to become familiar with hymns. Teach them early to commit them to memory, and sing them. They will never be forgotten; but be treasured remembrances, to which they will cling all through life's pathway, affording consolation in many dark and sorrowful hours. They will be food for the mind ofttimes, when the attention could not be riveted on subjects that would require closer concentration of thought.

We knew a young man, an invalid from childhood, who, before fifteen years of age, committed to memory over two hundred psalms and hymns. It was an unspeakable source of spiritual enjoyment when a friend would unite in singing some one of them with him, or to repeat them when alone, and often in his wakeful hours of night.

A dear aged friend, now passed away, whom we occasionally visited, would say, "Come, sit by me, and sing" such a hymn, mentioning one of her favorites; "I cannot go to the house of prayer to worship; and to hear a good hymn sung is one of the next best things to it."

We sang together in the family circle,

"From Greenland's icy mountains,"

the last time we united in worship with our dear friends, who were on the eve of sailing for India. Can those precious moments ever be forgotten? or when that hymn is heard, or sung, will it not ever bring that scene vividly again before us, with all its precious remembrances?

In the Scriptures singing is very frequently alluded to; and in the various books of the Bible there are many beautiful, figurative examples, in the different phases of nature, of singing. The trees of the wood sing, the valleys sing, etc., etc.

The prophets, as well as the apostles, make mention of singing unto the Lord; and it is evident the early christians practised and prized it as a part of devotion. David, more particularly, in very many of the Psalms, makes it a concomitant of praise. If he had not delighted in it, he would not have expressed so much love for its performance. Why should not christians of the present day magnify greatly this divine employment and be influenced by the man after God's own heart—being a type of the Savior, and follow the same delightful and cheering practice; making melody in our hearts unto God, in public and private devotion?

Our blessed Savior, always our pattern, has taught us by his own example how we should estimate the privilege of singing hymns, when socially together. O to have heard, or known the hymn he sung with his disciples, when contemplating his last sufferings, and just before he entered upon them. What an impress must have been left on their minds, never to be forgotten, even in the cycles of eternity!

May the time be hastened when the sleeping dust shall be awakened, at the sound of the trump of God, and each heart and voice of his children be tuned anew to sing the new song, "Unto Him who hath loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood."

M. C. ALLEN.

For the World's Crisis.

EXTRACT

FROM A LETTER OF DR. MARTIN LUTHER TO HIS AGED FATHER IN MANSFIELD.

"If it should be the will of God that you must yet a little while remain with us, in order to suffer with us in this land of sorrows and tears a little while longer, and behold and experience with us misery and persecution, or, with all true christians, help bear and overcome, he will give you grace to accept all this willingly and obediently. Consider that this cursed life is nothing more and nothing else but a vale of tears and sorrow, wherein we behold and experience a constant increase of sin and wickedness, sorrow and misery, which will follow us without ceasing to our grave. Here all misery will have an end, and must let us sweetly rest in Christ, until he comes to wake us up again to an endless joy. Amen. . . . .

The same Lord and Savior be and remain with you, that we may see each other again, either here or there, in joy and gladness. For our faith is firm, and we doubt not that we shall meet with Christ in a short time, as the departing from this life in the eyes of God is much less, than if I went from here to Mansfield, or you went from Mansfield to here [Wittenberg.] That is truly so! It is but a short hour of sleep, and then our condition will be a better one. . . . .

We send our love, and pray for you: my Kate, Hans, Lena, and the whole house. My love to my dear mother, and all the friends. The grace of God and his power be and abide with you forever. Amen.

At Wittenberg on the 15th of Feb., A. D. MD XXX [1530.]"

106 Chestnut St., Philad. L. REIMER.

FARTHING RUSHLIGHT.—A man in a blouse once said, "I have no more influence than a farthing rushlight." "Well," was the reply, "a farthing rushlight can do a good deal. It can set a hay-stack on fire; it can burn down a house; yea, more, it will enable a poor creature to read a chapter in God's book. Go your way, friend; let your farthing rushlight "so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

"FOR JESUS' SAKE.—There are many reasons why we should obey the will of God, but none so potent as that embraced in the words, "For Jesus' sake." It was by the love of Christ that our hearts are melted, and we constrained to yield to the ministry of his grace. Why do we love and labor in the cause of religion if it be not for the love we bear Him who first loved us. To be a disciple of the highest style, our motives must be of the most spiritual order—for Jesus' sake.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.
Boston, Wednesday, June 8, 1870.

☞ Take Notice!

☞ All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ Money Orders.

☞ Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ S. B. ENSIGN—Send on those that will pay.

☞ D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

☞ BRO. T. M. PREBLE having removed from Lynn, his P. O. address for a short time will be Chelsea, Mass., care of E. G. Kingsbury.

☞ BRO. NATHAN WHEELER'S P. O. address is Sugar Hill, N. H.

RUTLAND.

We closed our series of meetings at Rutland, Sabbath, May 29th. It was a precious day—the best of all the happy ones spent with that dear people. The forenoon was spent in a heavenly prayer-meeting, love-feast and Sabbath school. In the love-feast there were between seventy and eighty testimonies in about half an hour.

At noon we had another interesting baptism, and others are waiting for the next opportunity. The last one converted and baptized was the noble-hearted man to whom we referred last week, as saying he felt convinced he could not be a true christian till he quit the use of tobacco. This he did, received pardon from the Lord, and was made a new man in Christ Jesus. His former friends are astonished at the wonderful change that has been accomplished in this man. They are compelled to admit the reality of the christian religion; and some of them have a strong inclination to join him in the service of the Lord.

The revival in Rutland, taken as a whole, has been the most heavenly one we have ever enjoyed. Some of the prayer and conference meetings have been so blessed, that it seemed as though we had almost entered the kingdom of heaven. The last meeting was one of the best. The Lord has truly done a great work in Rutland. Brn. S. G. Mathewson and H. Pratt are to supply the church with preaching for some time to come. May the Lord bless their labors in a wonderful manner.

"LET THE SPIRIT OUT."

When a death occurs among the Hindoos, it is the custom for the nearest male relative to break the skull of the deceased, "in order to let the spirit out." This looks quite consistent, if we admit the theory that there is a spiritual man, who in some way gets out of the dead one at death, and goes away, leaving all his tangible, visible, material organs behind; and yet is said to be able to walk, talk, sing, eat, and perform all that he could before his death. Shall christian nations continue to uphold heathen theology, which stands most directly opposed to the Bible?

TO CHRISTIAN WOMEN.

In consequence of the fashions of the day being so far removed from christian modesty and simplicity, besides so extravagantly expensive, we think the time has come when devoted christian women, who have the leading influence among their sisters in Christ, should unite together and adopt a mode of dress that shall be modest, economical, and becoming to a true and humble follower of Jesus. We would urge such a course from the fact that it seems to be absolutely necessary to avoid backsliding through conformity to the world. Every year Satan manages to introduce new fashions a little further removed from the true christian standard. This he will continue to do, so long as respectable people will follow his unchristian fashions. The bare trimmings worn at the present day cost much more than the entire dress a few years since. Appearances might well lead one to come to conclude that woman's chief end was to be a walking fashion pole for the exhibition of milliners' goods; and that man's highest obligations consisted in earning funds sufficient to pay for them, and thus continue the exhibition. When we see the fashionable women on the street, judging from their appearance, we find it difficult to avoid the conclusion that they are out on purpose to be seen. How silly it looks. How childish, and unbecoming the dignity of a true woman, saying nothing about Christianity.

Shall the professed followers of the meek and humble Savior continue to ape such ridiculous fashions as are in keeping only with harlots, savages, and fools? Are there not a host of true women, who have courage and independence sufficient to dress in harmony with the Lord's instruction through his apostles, where they say:—

"In like manner, also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with broidered hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array; but, which becometh women professing godliness, with good works. Whose adorning, let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel; but let it be the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price. For after this manner in the old time the holy women also, who trusted in God, adorned themselves, being in subjection unto their own husbands: even as Sarah obeyed Abraham, calling him lord; whose daughters ye are, as long as ye do well, and are not afraid with any amazement." 1 Tim. 2: 9, 10; 1 Pet. 3: 3-6.

Who will take the lead in this important reform? Who will dare to be singular to please Jesus? Who will come out from the world and be separate?

Please read the following from the Living Church:—

"An American christian woman legislated for in a matter so near to her as her personal attire, in that which gives character to her appearance, and more or less bias to her innerself, by a French courtesan! What should we say to such incongruity were we not parties to it? But where lies any remedy for all this? It would require a combination of numbers to effect any radical and widespread reform. It is quite impossible to find these numbers? There are not a few of the first women of our community who are well alive to the enormities here glanced at. Why should not a hundred or two of these be found to join in a crusade against the tyrant, Fashion, by agreeing to inaugurate in their own persons another and similar style of dress, and thus enunciate a home born code of fashion which springing from christian principle, purity, delicacy, and that harmony of things which cultivated taste dictates, would, under the prestige of their position win its way into all grades of feminine toilettes until the French fashion hook sank into the contempt it merits.

Who will join such a crusade—truly a battle of the cross? For, think of the weak ones led away, and the precious souls lost through the baits of fashion and vanity. Again and again does some shipwrecked outcast confess that inordinate craving for dress first drew her from the course of womanly purity; and many a poor maiden, it is to be feared, imbibed her first and fatal lesson in vanity at the splendid toilette of her employer. Now, suppose it were the fashion for the highest ladies in the land to adorn themselves with scrupulous simplicity, nay, because of the present necessity, with extraordinary plainness, would not foreign fashions and gay attire, in the nature of things, grow to be esteemed coarse and vulgar and be eschewed accordingly?"

LOVERS OF PLEASURE.

In fashionable churches, at the present day, we find more lovers of pleasure than prayer; more lovers of the world than of Jesus. This state of things continues to advance, and pure religion is fast dying out of the great mass of professors, while a few are getting nearer to the Lord, and preparing to meet him at his coming.

The following speaks for itself:—

"An entertainment will be given by the ladies of the Congregational Church, of Appleton, Tuesday evening, April 12th, at Metropolitan Hall, consisting of the reading of selections from Evangeline, with a series of twenty-five tableaux. Admission forty cents; children twenty cents."

"I. O. OF G. T."

BRO. GRANT:—I have taken the Crisis for some time, and am greatly interested in the doctrine it advocates. Will you please inform me privately, or through the columns of the Crisis, what you think of the I. O. of G. T.? Is it right to belong to them? I should be pleased to know what you think about them. A. T. LEACH.

Our own conviction is quite strong that it will be best pleasing to Jesus to have his children keep out of all secret societies. We think Satan is very crafty in his efforts to persuade the Lord's children to unite with his. He well knows that it would be useless to ask them to unite with a church composed of swearers, liars, gamblers, thieves, defrauders, backbiters, drunkards, and licentious characters; but if he can persuade them to unite with such men against some one of these evils, saying nothing about the rest, he is quite pleased; especially if he can get the Lord's children to call his followers "brethren," and unite with them. The devil is quite willing that professors of religion should unite with his emissaries to oppose drunkenness, provided they will not say much about their other sins. He is sure of gaining more by a union than he will lose. He knows full well that but few can mingle long with ungodly men in such close, brotherly union, without being more or less put back in divine life. In the Scriptures we read, "Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, . . . and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty."

MINISTERS AT HORSE RACES.

In the day of John Wesley, we think events like the following were not common:—

"During the meeting of the two conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church in New York last week, it was estimated that two-thirds of the clergymen went out on Harlem lane to get a sight of Dexter and his famous owner. Bonner makes his appearance at a slow pace, apparently indifferent to the impression produced. He watches to see that the coast is clear. By common consent, when Bonner appears the road is cleared. A Dacotah Indian might take a lesson of Bonner in his yells. As Dexter starts on his course, his driver can be heard a half mile off. The excited throng shout, "That's Bonner," and all come to their feet. The team rushes by with the fleetness of the wind, and he is out of sight in an instant."

GIN AND MILK.

It appears that a new drink has been adopted to give vigor to a tired clergyman, as appears from the following:—

"Gin and milk as a Sunday beverage for clergymen has never been particularly popular with the profession. The Rev. C. B. Smythe, a Presbyterian minister of New York has, however, called public attention to the refreshing article, and he is now considerably talked about. The facts of the case are these: After a Sabbath morning service some time ago, he was about adjourning to a restaurant for his dinner, as he lived some distance from the church, when he was accosted by a Herald reporter, who desired to see the manuscript of his sermon for reference. The two were soon joined by a reporter of the Sun. The reverend gentleman invited both to the restaurant, and after ordering refreshments, ordered for himself a glass of gin and milk. One of the reporters, curious to know how the beverage tasted, ordered some for himself, while the other took ale. The Sun reporter gave the item to the city editor who worked it up for that paper in a sensational manner, and poor Mr. Smythe has been brought to trial in consequence. He asserts that it is strengthening for him after the exhaustive duties of the morning, and as preparatory for the heavy responsibilities of the Sabbath school. If the gentleman courted a publicity for his habit, he could not have taken a better course to secure it. Gin and milk is a new combination which we are unprepared to recommend until we ascertain the fate of the Rev. Mr. Smythe after partaking of it."

A BOOK FOR THE TIMES.

We have just received from the publisher a book of thrilling interest, which every body should read. It is entitled "The Broken Seal," or "Free-Masonry Developed." It is written by Samuel D. Green, a venerable old man, now eighty-two years of age, who is the only surviving member of the lodge of Free Masons that murdered Capt. Wm. Morgan, in 1826. We are personally acquainted with Mr. Green, who is an intelligent gentleman living near Boston, and we esteem him as a christian man, who belongs to the Congregational church. It is a book for the times. Common tales of fiction are meagre affairs beside this unvarnished narrative of facts. For sale by H. H. and T. W. Carter, 13 Beacon Street, Boston. Price $1.50. Can also be obtained at this office at the same price.

☞ All appointments, notices, obituaries, and proper names especially, should be written very plainly, if friends would see them correct in the paper.

RECEIVED.—"Good Words" for June, also "Good Words for the Young." Both excellent.

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."
By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

Sheldon's Four New Tracts.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

1. "LIFE AND DEATH THEOLOGY: or, The Scriptural Doctrine of 'Eternal Damnation' and 'Everlasting Punishment.'" Price 8 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 75 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $5.00 per hundred by express.

This work of forty-eight pages is the clearest and strongest document yet produced by Bro. Sheldon on this topic. It is just the thing to scatter among all classes.

2. IMMATERIALISM: or, The Doctrine of Soul-Immortality Refuted." Price 5 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $3.00 per hundred by express.

A tract of thirty-two pages, showing that fifteen cardinal errors spring out of the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and that those errors could not exist independent of that doctrine, thus showing it to be the main root of error. Let it be scattered widely.

3. "DEATH AND THE DEAD," 16 pages. Price 3 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1.50 per hundred by express. Just the thing to scatter everywhere.

4. "THE COMING JUDGMENT: Its Necessity and Result," Eight pages. 10 cts. per dozen, postpaid, or 75 cts. per hundred by express.

It will do much good. AG'T.

THREE NEW TRACTS.

We call the attention of our readers to the following tracts by S. S. Brewer:—

1. The Seven Messages of the Apocalypse. This work embraces arguments and historic testimony showing the war up on the saints, the beast, image, and murderous career of the monster of Rev. 13, are in the past. It contains also much important and instructive matter for those who delight in studying the book of Revelation. Sent by mail for 13 cts. Postage 2 cts. $1.20 per dozen by express.

2. Evangels of the Coming One. This work is particularly intended to show the literal fulfillment of prophecy; testimony from history, corroborative of the above fact, applied in such a manner that few can fail to see that we should even now expect the Lord from heaven. This is an excellent and cheap work for tent-meetings and new places. Price by mail, 10 cts. single copy; per doz., 70 cts.; per hundred by express, $5.00.

3. The Mystery of Iniquity. This is a work on the man of sin, as viewed in the light of historic testimony, under the following heads:

1. The mystery of iniquity in the apostles' day.
2. The taking away of the mystery of iniquity, and the revelation of the man of sin.
3. What is meant by his sitting in the temple of God?
4. The man of sin showing himself that he is God.
5. His exalting himself above all that is called God.
6. His claiming all power.
7. His deceivableness of all unrighteousness.
8. The immoral and degrading influence of Popery in all Roman Catholic countries.
9. The destiny of the man of sin.

Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage, 2 cts,; 50 cts. per dozen; $3.00 per hundred. AG'T.

For the World's Crisis.

REQUESTS PRAYERS.—Bro. Joseph Whitecar, a lover of Christ in Philadelphia, whose eyesight is being rapidly destroyed, requests the prayers of all who have faith in the great Physician's power to heal, that his disease may be rebuked, and his eyesight restored. This request is made known through his Bro. in Christ, F. H. BURBANK.

"CHRISTIAN UNION."

Bro. E. Owen says of the above work:—

"I am satisfied the general principle upon which the argument presented in this work rests, is the true one. I earnestly desire it may be considered and adopted, both in its general and special application. The effect would inevitably be to strengthen and confirm the faith of the scattered flock of Christ, and to awaken ardent desires for the attaining of a higher and broader type of Christian development; which may God grant."

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute according to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERRON, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments	$515.93
G. W. Ashdown	.85
S. Demick	1.50
Miles Grant	25.00

POOR FUND.
(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	$60.46
Mrs. H. Linden	.10

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 202, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$328.65
P. W. Higgins	5.00

For the World's Crisis.

DISTRIBUTION OF PAMPHLETS.

Bro. Grant:—I wish to give notice to brethren, through the Crisis, that I have just had 1500 more of "Death not Life" printed, to deal out this year in some way. I hope for donations, so as to let a part or most of them go free; but if I fail in this, brethren can have them at half price, or first cost. I do this, as heretofore, so that preachers can afford to keep them to deal out at tent and other meetings, and especially in new fields, as they can likely sell enough at retail to pay for them at this low price. Also brethren who wish them to give and lend, and send to their friends by mail, can afford to get the more, and so more light will be given. I have not as yet been disappointed by confiding in brethren in their giving and selling works at cost; and believe the Lord will still incline them to aid me, so that I shall not want for "food and raiment," which is all I crave of this worlds good's, having no desire to lay up for children, though I have three much beloved ones.

Our beloved brother Sidney Hall has sent me, to deal out with my own work, 300 of "Apostolic Doctrine relating to Future Punishment" (a new title to "Pauline Theology"). Experience has taught me they work well together when both get into a place.

A light paralytic shock this spring has lessened my strength, and my wife's health being very poor, it is doubtful as to my being able to travel much, if any, this year; but I can pack and send out our works. I realize that my work must soon end, even if time continues, and feeling I have been too slothful in part of my life, I have a strong desire for "redeeming the time" as far as possible. I feel to exhort brethren not to let the love, cares, and pleasures of the world plant thorns in their pillow in old age, as they have in mine; pardoning mercy may preserve hope of life, but will not yield the joy and reward of activity in God's vineyard, where he has in love called us to labor. Eld. John Leland of Cheshire, Mass., when old wrote his experience in a hymn, one verse of which I have retained in memory, as it so nearly suited my own case.

"How little have I done, but what has been done wrong;
Revivals have been short, and apostasies been long;
After five and fifty years I am greatly in the rears,
And have nothing to plead but sovereign grace alone."

April 17th, 1809, in Fairfield, Herkimer Co., N. Y., the Lord gave me "joy unspeakable and full of glory" in believing; yet today I feel to say, with mingled emotions of grief and joy, After one and sixty years, I am greatly in the rears, and my hope rests on sovereign love and mercy. But bless God, this "foundation standeth sure."

Brethren can send for copies of my work when they need them, if they cannot pay at the time. J. BLAIN.

Buffalo, May 31st, 1870.

For the World's Crisis.

"BEYOND THE BOUNDS OF TIME AND SPACE."

I have read considerable on the negative of the above subject, but as yet have seen nothing satisfactory to my mind; and from what I can gather, I think the matter is generally misunderstood. It has been my privilege to discuss its merits with modern theologians; hence I think that the real meaning and the great importance of the simple assertion, that anything can exist "beyond the bounds of time and space," is not generally understood. It is not my purpose in a short article like this to discuss the subject under consideration, but to open it in such a way as to give the reader a chance for investigation.

The assertion is made openly, and the position taken boldly, that God, spirits, and souls of men, live, exist, and have a being beyond the bounds of time and space. Neither is this position taken unwittingly by the ignorant; but it has been embraced by the philosophers of the nineteenth century; it is taught in theological institutions, and the sound thereof comes up from Notre Dame, Trinity, and Plymouth. It is sung, preached, and (strange to say) is reduced to practice, or rather is made practical.

It was Hume, the infidel, the atheist, who said that all existence, that all things animate or inanimate were but an "idea." Now we contend that this doctrine of living "beyond the bounds of time and space," reduces God and the universe of created things to Hume's "idea."

Space is infinite. Infinity means without end. To illustrate. We might start from any given point and travel through space in one direction to all eternity, and we should be no nearer an end, from the fact that space is endless, or infinite. Then space is boundless, certainly it is, and nothing can exist beyond the bounds of that which is boundless.

If we accept creation as it is, and if our senses do not deceive us, everything that exists must have room to exist in; and what is space but room? There are certain things existing which do not occupy, or fill up, the room or space in which they exist. But that does not demonstrate that those things can exist outside of that which they exist in. That which can exist independent of space must be nothing; otherwise our senses deceive us, and things are not what they seem.

The Rev. Dr. Ide, of Springfield, once intimated to me that Adventists made pretentions of knowing a great deal, whereas in fact they were very inconsistent and ignorant. The Dr. believes that man's future existence is beyond the bounds of time and space. In course of conversation the Dr. spoke of a book (a modern publication), the sentiments of which he fully endorsed, and this book located heaven in the centre of the universe,—a world among worlds, existing in space. The Dr. believes heaven to be the future dwelling-place of man. Can they have man's future dwelling-place in space, and man himself existing out of space? Is there consistency here?

I have been speaking of space, when in fact I ought to have been talking of time.

Time is a fragment of eternity. I understand from nature and revelation that eternity and space are co-existent with God. I must admit my inability to see how anything can live without embracing a certain amount of time to live in. If a man lives fifty years, that fifty years is a certain amount of time, or a part of eternity. Eternity, like space, is infinite in extent and duration, and exists of necessity. The angel which is depicted in John as swearing that time should be no longer, means nothing more nor less than that eternity shall be measured no longer. When we cease to measure eternity by or with days, months, and years, or centuries, then time will be no longer. It will then be one eternal day. Can anything have a being beyond or independent of that boundless, infinite eternity?

We have been introducing the subject according to our senses, or measured by the things that exist. We now look (and while we do so we expect to occupy both time and space) to the real meaning of this doctrine, as believed by its advocates. The reader will notice that the promulgators of this doctrine, while they say that things exist "beyond the bounds of time and space," tell us, at the same time, that time and space are infinite in extent and duration. This shows a deeper meaning than the general acceptation of the terms.

It is believed by spiritualists of all classes, that everything lives only in thought. But this doctrine is not easily understood. To illustrate. A person is dreaming. The individual sees things that never existed in reality; men who were never born, worlds that were never made, and things that never existed, appear to the eye of the mind. And these dreams are called realities by the knowing ones of this age. This dreamy life is called living "beyond the bounds of time and space." If the images of a night's dream are realities, then everything exists through the force of imagination; every thing is but an "idea." If anything can live beyond the bounds of time and space, then time and space are no longer realities. The great universe of created things exists only in thought. If this doctrine be true, matter would no longer be real; space might exist within space, time within time, and world within world. But when we come to think that mind cannot exist independent of matter, and that thought is a result arising from organized matter, animated with life, then we are willing to accept things as they are, and look upon God and his universe, not as a vapor of thought, not as an idle dream, but as a great and glorious reality.

Somersville, Ct. H. M. ROSE.

For the World's Crisis.

TWELVE ANSWERS.

Bro. Grant:—The following matter I think is very much needed at the present time, when christians are becoming so conformed to this present evil world. I have sent it to you with the desire that you would give it a place in the Crisis, and thereby assist in its circulation. May it be the means in the hands of God of opening the eyes of many to the terrible evils of fairs, festivals and bazars. For religion, yours in Christ, JOHN TEMPLE.

Hoosick Falls, N. Y.

Bazars for Religion: what are they?

1. A scheme for making God beg the patronage of Satan.
2. The children taking the place of the dogs; or, the church picking up the crumbs that fall from the world's table.
3. A church-egg hatched by the world.
4. Religious bread, buttered thick with worldliness.
5. Religious cake made palatable to the world by the spice and plums of vanity.
6. A vanity-fair got up in the name of God.
7. A shop in which the merchants often attract more than the merchandise.
8. A shop in which ministers and office-bearers are the shop-walkers.
9. A raffling-shop, alias a gambling-house.
10. A semi-musical entertainment, in which the religious character of the performers is nothing—their skill everything.
11. A direct temptation "to women professing godliness" to disobey God's commands respecting dress. 1 Tim. 2: 9, 10.
12. A disgraceful substitute for true Christian liberality.

"O, my soul! come not thou into their secret; unto their assembly, mine honor, be not thou united."—"Latter Rain."

For the World's Crisis.

THE POWER OF PRAYER.

In one of our visits recently, we found a dear old colored sister, whom we had met in our prayer-meetings, and to whose testimony we had listened with interest, very sick and suffering great pain. She was alone, and seemed to be mourning that she had no one to stay with her during her sickness. "But Jesus is with me," says she; "were it not for that, honeys, I should sink."

Sr. Mellen recommended that she should take hold on faith and apply to the Great Physician, who is able to make perfectly whole.

"O, no," she replied; "I don't expect to get about again." She seemed desponding, and almost determined to die. However, we prayed with her, promising to see her again. We afterwards took her some refreshment, but she was too weak to eat it, and took but little notice of us while we stopped.

On Sunday, at the close of our school, we visited her room again, where we found several christian friends assembled. Sr. M., according to promise, read a portion of the word of the Lord, which is always blest to those who hear, when mixed with faith; then a good season of prayer followed. The Lord poured out his Spirit abundantly, and in the midst of it the old lady threw up her hands, exclaiming,

"My pain is all gone! It seems I never had such a blessing. O glory! hallelujah!" She went on this way until we left. She gradually grew better of her disease, and the next time we called she was out.

I thank God there is yet power in prayer. The apostle James tells us, "The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." These words are just as true to-day as when first spoken. Then why not believe, and receive the things we ask for, and thus honor God?

While the world, and many of the professed church, are getting further from the Lord, let us, who claim to belong to the living church, strive to live up to our privilege, that we may be found ready to meet the King in his beauty. All that is taking place at the present time, both in the church and world, speaks loudly that his coming is very near at hand. Then hope will be changed to glad fruition, and faith to sight.

"Faint not, christian! Jesus is near,
Soon in glory he'll appear,
And his love will then bestow
Victory o'er every foe."

M. E. DOW.

Rear 169 Allen St., New York.

For the World's Crisis.

THE FINAL RESULT.

"Receiving the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls."—1 PETER 1: 9.

Let us have plain dealing, close work, and faithful work. If you are right in the sight of God, it is well for you to have that assurance; but if you are in a backslidden state, or self-deceived, or living below your privilege, and continually neglecting known duty, it is high time for you to awake, repent, and bring forth fruits meet for repentance. "He that hath ears to hear, let him hear." Soon the Master will shut the door, and then it will be too late to repent.

It is not enough that you "did run well for a season," but you must persevere even unto the end of the race. There are some who seem to have more knowledge than faith, and more faith than love.

Being puffed up with knowledge will not save you. "Be not wise in your own conceits." He that thinketh himself to be something when he is nothing, deceiveth himself. It is in vain for you to have all knowledge, and understand all mysteries, and even to speak with tongues of men and of angels, if you lack the spirit of Christ.

Examine yourself. Prove yourself, whether you be in the faith. Are you filled with "love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance"? Have you crucified the flesh, with the passions and lusts? If not, I would cry aloud in your ears, as the ancient ship-captain did in the ears of Jonah, "What meanest thou, O sleeper! Arise! call upon thy God," that thou perish not. Beware of being "vainly puffed up with a fleshly mind," and beware of resting in carnal security.

If I did not believe there was mercy yet in store for you, I would not disturb you. But though the day is far spent, and the shades of night are approaching, yet God waits to be gracious, and if you turn to him with full purpose of heart, you may yet find him, and know him, whom to know aright is life eternal. "Turn ye, turn ye, for why will ye die?" "Repent ye, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." Then ye shall have "your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life."—Rom. 6: 22. F. H. CHAMBERLAIN.

Webster, Mass.

MR. BEECHER ON THE OBSERVANCE OF THE SABBATH.

Every house of any consideration has in it a best room. It is usually furnished with the choicest things a man can afford. Whatever there is that stands apart from common uses, the parlor receives. It is the room of honor. Now, what the parlor is to the house, so is Sunday to the rest of the week. The week is a house, and Sunday is the best room in it. It is a day to be looked up to as the best day of the week.* In these words of Isaiah we see that Sunday was to be honorable; it was to be memorable. It was a declaration that if men will lay aside a day for worship, the Lord will bless them. It is not to be a day upon which a man shall afflict his soul. It must be a day upon which a man will say "it is a delight." We are to bear this in mind, that whatever you do on the Lord's Day, you may take this as its character—it must be pleasant; made pleasant by a higher manhood, by the enjoyment of christian joys. It is to be the one day of the week which is to act on our higher nature. It should, therefore, carry this feeling of joyfulness in a man's nature. The whole truth of the prophets words are, then, that you shall so employ the Sabbath-Day that your higher nature shall say it is a delight and honorable. As the cooper would never think of working at his barrel while entertaining company at his house, so the Sabbath is to be kept separate from the rest of the week. Keep your shavings and your dirt out of the Lord's day. It is not then to be a working day. I am not superstitious on this subject. I don't think that if a man, walking in his garden on the Sabbath, should see a weed and pull it up, it would be marked down against him in the Lord's book. I regard it as the one day in the week when a man can say, I am not a clerk, not an apprentice; I am not to crouch to any one to-day, I am a man. A man stands on his manhood that day. Wherefore, I say that Sunday should not be a working day, because it must be unlike other days. Sunday is the poor man's, it is your day, it is my day, it is liberty-day. It is not to be a visiting day. I am not superstitious about this either. I believe that the question is not, Can I, or can I not visit? but rather, What sort of visiting would do me good, make me better? I have known ministers going to preach on the Sabbath, after the service not to be asked even to go to dinner, from an over-scrupulousness on the part of their parishioners, who were afraid of breaking the Holy Day.

In arguing for a sacred Sabbath, I am arguing for the poor man. It is his day. It is his bulwark against oppression. Many have supposed that Christ set his face against the Sabbath. He did not. He explicitly declares that Sunday was made for man, not man for Sunday. Sunday is made to serve man. It is made to make man freer, nobler. I remark, secondly, that a negative Sabbath is as poor a way of keeping it as well can be. The prevalent idea of the Sabbath is that you must not do something. I remember in my childhood, at our home in Litchfield, how often upon the Sabbath I would see something to laugh at, and I would laugh. "Henry," my mother would say, (as good a woman as ever lived,) "Henry, you mustn't laugh." "Why not?" "Because it is Sunday." And I would stand at the western window, with my brother Charles, and watching the slowly declining sun, would nudge him and say, "Charlie, Sunday is most gone." And my mother would remark, "Henry, you ought not to wish that Sunday would be through." But I was glad when it was through; it hadn't made me in love with it. It was a restrictive day to me, a perpetual pruning day. Oh, that catechism that I couldn't learn, didn't learn, and can't say even now. Have you brought up your children so that they like the Sabbath? If you haven't so used the Sabbath-Day, then you have broken it. When you come to church, don't look in as if you was going into a sepulcher. Don't pause solemnly, and go up the aisle with a disconsolate visage. Ah! if our Lord was a crowned despot, this would be right; but he is not; he is a God of love, of mercy, of forgiveness. Men ought to be striving to make this day a more cheerful day, a pleasanter day than all the rest of the week. Brothers, friends, fellow-citizens, there is nothing that I care so much about as the sacredness of the Sabbath. But I don't think you can make it so by law; it must be supported by public opinion. Here is a day hallowed by four thousand years of observance. Let us keep it so that it may be a delight to the Lord. Be assured that not long after Sunday has been abolished will it be kept except by the sword and bayonet of the despot.

* Isa. 58: 13.

Correspondence.

From Sr. C. Case.

Jesus, after telling his disciples the signs which should precede his coming, "signs in the sun, moon, and stars; and upon the earth distress of nations with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things that are coming on the earth: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken"; and telling them, When ye see these signs ye shall see and know of your own selves that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand, as well as ye can tell that summer is nigh when the fig-tree puts forth its leaves; and seeing the extreme danger of those living in the time of the end, says, "Take heed, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares."

Is there any more danger in these last few years than formerly of surfeiting, eating to excess, living to excess, living to eat, instead of eating to live; making it our chief study to see who can get up a little the nicest dish: pampering the appetite to the detriment of our health, forgetting we are not our own but bought with a price; forgetting we are the temple of God, and that it is written, "Whether, therefore, ye eat or drink, or whatever ye do, do all to the glory of God"? Any danger from drunkenness—drinking to excess? We have only to look about us for an answer. Any danger of being overcharged with the cares of life; being conformed to the world in its fashions and maxims; seeking the honor that comes from men, instead of the honor that comes from God?

Is the language of Christ to the Scribes and Pharisees in any sense applicable to us: "This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoreth me with their lips, while their heart is far from me"? Any danger of being weighed in the balance, and found wanting? When the word declares positively that nothing impure can enter the kingdom, do we expect in some way to be admitted to the marriage supper of the Lamb, notwithstanding many unholy thoughts, words, and acts, are unrepented of and unforgiven? If so, we are mistaken.

When we look over our past lives, our short-comings, our errors in judgment, our omissions and commissions, are we not led to cry out—

"I the chief of sinners am,
But Jesus died for me"?

Belvidere, Ill. C. CASE.

BRO. L. BOUTELL writes:—"It is with pleasure that I learn that Bro. Charles E. Barnes, whom we set apart for the work of God and the gospel ministry at our last conference on Fast day, is prospering in Salem, where he labors the most of the time. We also learn that there is to be baptism there soon. Success to the Advent cause in old Salem. Bro. Barnes is at liberty, part of the time, to labor as in the providence of God the way opens. His address is Salem, Mass."

BRO. G. W. ASHDOWN writes May 24th:—"I have been over to South Butler twice. We had a meeting here yesterday; Bro. Stevens preached. The brethren from Butler were over, and I believe the influence was salutary. I expect and hope and pray that God may move the people here, and good be done in the name of Jesus. We have a meeting again in two weeks from last Sabbath, and prayer meetings at my house every Wednesday evening."

BRO. GEO. THOMSON writes:—"We had a blessed day last Lord's day at Paoli; twelve happy souls were buried in the likeness of the dear Savior's death and resurrection. Sickness and other causes prevented a number of others from obeying at that time."

Obituaries

BURNHAM. Fell asleep, at Portsmouth, N. H. May 21st, Samuel T. Burnham, son of Bro. Simon and Sr. Mary J. Burnham, aged nineteen years and seven months.

Bro. Samuel gave his heart to the Savior some four years since, and held fast the faith of the gospel until his death.

The funeral services were held in the Advent Chapel at Biddeford, Me. Sermon by the writer, by request, from Isaiah 40: 8.

JOSEPH W. WHITE.

[Western papers please copy.

MANSON. Died, in Philadelphia, May 21st, after an illness of thirty hours, Sr. Esther Manson, aged seventy-three years.

Two years ago, our deceased sister was baptized by Bro. J. G. Hook. She died in hope of eternal life through Jesus Christ. Elder Wm. Ashman preached the funeral discourse at the time of her burial. F. H. BURBANK.

JACOBS. Died, in South Windsor, April 25th, Bro. George Jacobs, aged fifty-five years.

The subject of this notice became identified with us during a revival in the winter of '60 and '61. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his loss. Words of comfort were spoken by Bro. H. H. Dickinson. H. T. HART.

WILLOUGHBY. Died, in Holderness, N. H., May 23d, 1870, after a short but distressing illness, our little daughter, Ellena Frances, aged six months and twenty-three days.

We expect in a little while, if faithful, to meet her on the new earth, there to enjoy her bright presence forever. Discourse on the funeral occasion by Bro. John H. Evans, from Matt. 18: 3.

H. C. WILLOUGHBY.

SHERMAN. Died, Sept. 14th, 1869, Bro. Joseph Sherman, aged seventy-nine years, eleven months, and twenty days.

He embraced religion when eighteen years of age, and united with the Baptists. He was ordained Deacon when twenty-five. When he came to Michigan he embraced the Advent faith. He leaves a wife to mourn his death.—Com.

MIX. Died, in Wolcottville, Ct., Jan. 25th, 1870, Eddie E. Mix, aged three weeks. Also, May 1st, 1870, Emma L. Mix, aged nineteen months; children of Edward M. and Sarah A. Mix.

They have laid them away in the land of the enemy to sleep, but they will come to their own borders, to live forever, when the trump of God shall sound. B. HITCHCOCK.

RUGG. Fell asleep in Jesus, April 15th, 1870, Sally C. Rugg, wife of Reuel L. Rugg, aged sixty-one years, three months, and nineteen days.

"Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep."

R. L. RUGG.

For the World's Crisis.

DIRGE.

To the Memory of Mrs. Hattie A. Sweet.

Mild Hattie, sweet Hattie, they have borne thee away,
They have piled on thy bosom the damp clinging clay;
They have wrapped thee in grave-clothes, and laid thee to rest
In the second dim cradle thy pure form has prest.

We ask not earth's verdure to cover thy grave,
We ask not its blossoms above thee to wave,
We ask not a chorus of birds in the Spring,
To crowd thy green grave, and over thee sing.

For thy grave is not with them—'tis dug in our hearts,
Where affection's thick verdure, that never departs,
Grows freshly above thee, and shelters the tomb
Where memories are warbling, and hopes are in bloom.

Then rest in thy cradle, as pure as the bed
That through infancy sheltered thy sinless young head;
For the hour is approaching, though night appear deep,
When thy Father eternal shall wake thee from sleep.

C. H. Sweet.

Married.

SANBORN—GEORGE. In North Dorchester, N. H., May 29th, 1870, by Elder John H. Evans, Mr. Morrison Sanborn, of Dorchester, N. H., and Miss Anna L. George, of South Wier, N. H.

EDWARDS—ALLEN. In Springfield, Mass., May 17th, 1870, at the residence of the bride's father, by A. D. Flagg, Mr. William A. Edwards and Miss Ella Allen, both of Springfield, Mass.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

Florence, May 31. The Government has determined on the thorough reorganization of the army immediately. The government is also making preparations for the construction of the St. Gothard Railway.

Constantinople, June 1. A fearful war caused by religious intolerance has broken out in the province of Roumelia, in the south of Europe. The Christians have for some time manifested a spirit of vindictiveness against the Jewish population, and a secret movement has been in progress for their extermination.

On Sunday last, by a preconcerted movement, the Christian populace rose, and the fearful work of butchery was inaugurated. At an early hour the houses of all Jews were invaded, and those of the occupants, who were unable to escape, were massacred in cold blood. The fleeing Israelites were pursued through the town by an armed force and murdered wherever caught.

Men, women and children were ruthlessly slain. The fury of the populace, inflamed with religious bigotry, only exhausted itself by want of victims.

In all of the principal towns the work of butchery prevailed. Thousands of the repugnant class were butchered in cold blood.

The work of slaughter still goes on in the interior, and nothing has been heard of any movement by the authorities to suppress it. The reigning prince is absent, but will hurry home.

Geneva, June 1. The Federal Council is alarmed at the threatened gatherings of the Italian refugees on the frontier. It is reliably ascertained that a simultaneous descent will be made into Sardinia and Lombardy. Strong detachments of gendarmes have been sent thither with strict orders to allow no one to cross the border and to compel the Mazzinists to retire into the interior of Switzerland.

Geneva, Switzerland, June 1. The Italian refugees on the frontier contemplate a simultaneous descent from the borders of Switzerland into the Provinces of Sardinia and Lombardy, and the Federal Council has sent a detachment of troops to compel the Mazzinists to retire into the interior of Switzerland.

St. Petersburg, May 31. The assassin of Prince D'Arenburg has been sentenced to fifteen years in the mines, and exiled to Siberia for the remainder of his life.

Orders have been received by Gen. Gortschakoff, and by him despatched to the various diplomatic representatives of Russia at the European courts, requesting ambassadors to proceed immediately to Ems and confer with the Emperor. The cause of such an assemblage is not known, but it is supposed that some matter of weighty importance will be brought to their attention.

London, June 1. The immense iron frigate Sultan, which has been in process of construction for a long while, has been completed, and was launched to day. She was built for the Turkish Government, being the most powerful armor-clad broadside frigate ever built. She is of 5200 tons barthen, with strong propelling force, the engine being capable of exerting a force of 7000 horse power. A novelty in her arrangement is the battery deck, which overhangs the upper deck. Her armament is of the most formidable character.

She mounts on the upper tier 8 eighteen ton 400 pounders; the central main deck, 2 twelve and one-half ton 300-pounders; the bow and stern, 1 300-pounders, as chasers. Under the forecastle will be a battery comprising 9 20-pound Armstrong guns. This armament is the most formidable ever placed in a vessel of war. The gun cartridges are of massive construction, and have been thoroughly tested. The Sultan will be got ready for sea service with rapidity.

Paris, June 1. Napoleon on his return from Chalons in July, will go to Munich.

The Gazette des Tribunaux says, that only twelve among the prisoners arrested for complicity in the regicide plot, will be brought before the High Court. The others will be discharged.

The American and English residents of Tours forwarded their congratulations to the Emperor on his escape from the plot of the assassins. The Emperor returned his thanks for their consideration.

It is reported that the Prince Imperial will soon be affianced to the Infanta of Spain.

Florence, June 1. The agents of Mazzini are very active in the neighborhood of Genoa. There is reason to believe that a seditious movement of considerable extent is on foot, and the Government is taking all needful precautions.

Athens, June 1. The investigation into the late massacre is progressing. The Court of Inquiry is in session every day. Ex-Prime Minister Sontzos has been summoned before the Court and will be subjected to a rigid examination as to his own course and the action of the government before and after the tragedy. The last surviving member of the band of brigands who perpetrated the slaughter has been captured.

Rome, June 2. The Ecumenical Council yesterday decided that the dogma of infallibility shall be proclaimed on June 29, in honor of the feast of St. Peter. Extensive preparations are being made to celebrate the occasion, and the display of pomp and pageantry will surpass any demonstration ever witnessed in Europe. The religious services will be of a most solemn and impressive character, and thousands of visitors from every city in Europe will be present to witness the display or take part in the ceremonies.

The Pope declines on any pretence to delay the deliberations of the Ecumenical Council, and urges industry on the part of the fathers, and suggests that the daily meetings begin an hour earlier.

London, June 2. The cholera is making fearful ravages among the natives of Bandoogen, Hindostan. Thousands of people have been attacked and hundreds of bodies are left lying above ground. There is great panic among the inhabitants.

Paris, June 2. It is rumored that a formidable republican demonstration has been made at both ends of Italy.

The force on the Swiss border seems to be acting in concert with the Neapolitan insurgents. It is said that twenty-five Greek brigands recently landed at Fana Di Lavoro and joined the insurgents.

Madrid, June 2. Captain General De Rodas informs the Government that the insurgent Generals in Cuba offer to surrender on the condition that their lives and property be spared, and asks for instructions.

The Government has replied by telegraph that it is their desire that the rebel officers sincerely desiring to give up the contest and to be reconciled to Spain be dealt with generously.

On Monday next the Cortes will commence to discuss the question of filling the throne, with the purpose of arriving at a final solution. The partisans of the Duke of Montpensier are very zealous and active, and have great hopes of securing his nomination. The Republican journals are extremely bitter against him. They declare that the country is in danger when such a name is proposed in connection with the crown, and urge unrelenting war against the "Frenchman," as they term the Duke. As the day for the debate approaches the agitation grows deeper.

Constantinople, June 6. Yesterday a fire broke out, which spread with alarming rapidity through the richest quarter of the city. The flames were discovered in an old building in Pera, on the north side of Golden Horn.

The efforts of the firemen and citizens to stop the flames were futile, and in a few hours the residences of the English, American and Portuguese Ambassadors and Consulates, Naom Theatre, many churches and Mosques, thousands of houses, and the richest stores and shops in the city, were reduced to ashes.

The loss of life by falling walls has been fearful. The loss will prove enormously heavy.

Italy.—We see no reason in the news from Italy to look for a serious Republican rising against Victor Emanuel, but the friends of the Italian Monarchy have at least grave cause for uneasiness. The outbreak of small insurrections one after another in all parts of the kingdom, apparently without concert and without the direction of any central revolutionary authority, is proof of a popular discontent which may be far more dangerous than the schemes of the secret societies. The disorder of the finances, the pressure of enormous taxes, starvation among the poor, prostration of trade, are the secrets of a general disaffection which has undoubtedly been long increasing, and the party of action will appeal to it in due season. That the opportune moment, in the judgment of the leaders, has not yet come, seems probable from the fact that in Lombardy, where the Republicans are strongest in number and most formidable in organization, there has been no disturbance.—Tribune.

DOMESTIC.

Red Cloud and his Band.—The arrival at Washington of this most influential chief of the most powerful tribe of Indians in the West, together with a number of chiefs of lesser note, has naturally drawn public attention toward one whose name has appeared so often in reports of Indian outrages and Indian powwows in the far West. In stature, Red Cloud is said to be a perfect Hercules, about 6¼ feet high and large in proportion. His garb is decidedly picturespue. He wears red leggins, beautifully worked and trimmed with ribbons and beads, while his shirt has as many colors as the rainbow. His robe is trimmed and crossed with silks and seal strips; his mocassins are beautifully wrought and very handsome. He is said to be the best rider, the best shot, and one of the most expert buffalo hunters among the Sioux. As the Warrior Chief, he has the most unbounded influence. He is about 45 years of age; is now and has been for more than twenty years the Head Chief of the Sioux nation. He (as are all the others) is of the Ogalalla tribe.

He has participated in eighty-seven battles, fought principally with the Pawnees, Snakes, Black Feet, Utes, Crows and Omahas. In a battle which occurred thirty-three years ago, when he was one of the youngest of the braves he was engaged with a party of one hundred and twenty-five warriors of his tribe, only twenty-five of whom escaped death. He was wounded twice, and so distinguished himself for bravery that he was made a chief, as a reward for his gallantry and prowess. From that time he rapidly rose in rank, until he obtained the eminent position which he holds to-day. He is looked upon by his people as one of the greatest warriors that ever wielded the death-dealing tomahawk, while in the councils his sagacity and eloquence have gained for him not only the admiration and respect, but the implicit obedience, of all his subjects.

The following extract from a recent letter by a correspondent on the Plains is interesting in this connection:

"When the forts, in 1866, were built in the Powder River country, Red Cloud peremptorily ordered them to be pulled down, and the troops to leave the country. His request not being complied with, he made war, and continued it until the Fort Kearney massacre, when the government consented to dismantle the forts and withdraw its troops south of the Platte. A gentleman, who afterward talked with Red Cloud, said it was a great wonder the government would consent to withdraw its forces from his lands, when the Chief replied proudly, 'I have more soldiers than the Great Father, and he cannot take my lands against my will.' The gentleman attempted to disabuse the Chief's mind and explained to him the vast power and resources of the United States, but the fierce warrior only said, 'Why didn't they send out their soldiers then and keep the forts on my land?' The dismantling of Forts Reno, Kearney and Smith evidently gave the Chief a false idea of his power and created in his mind the impression that the Sioux were the most numerous and powerful people in the world. What then must be the feelings of the great Indian as he travels East and sees the vast cities and millions of people the White Father has? Red Cloud is undoubtedly the most celebrated warrior now living on the American Continent. He has over ten thousand people in his camps, and he can put in the field 3000 warriors. He takes his name from the numbers of his warriors and their red blankets and paints. When he marches against the settlements he always goes in force, or, as he proudly says, 'My soldiers cover the hills like a red cloud.' A man of brains, a good ruler, an eloquent speaker, an able general and fair diplomat, the friendship of Red Cloud is of more importance to the whites than that of any other ten chiefs on the plains."—Journal.

Passing Events.

— Advices from Rome report that a violent scene occurred in the Council last week between Bishop Maret, the well known Galician prelate, and Cardinal Billo, during the discussion on the infallibility question. Bitter language was used and much excitement created among the fathers.

☞ The Prince of Wales intends to make his residence in Ireland.

☞ Immediately after the promulgation of the dogma of infallibility, June 29th, the Ecumenical Council will take a recess until October 15th.

☞ The Prussian government is now sending quantities of gabions and piles for palisades to the frontiers of the Rhine. This looks like defensive fortifications and tallies with the seacoast preparations.

☞ A train of twenty-three cars, filled with strawberries, arrived in Chicago Wednesday night over the Illinois Central Railroad. The whole cargo weighed over one hundred tons.

☞ The complete statement of the Fenian loss in the late raid gives 11 killed and 17 wounded, three mortally.

☞ The Tablet states that the Pope has, it is said, resolved on declaring Poland a missionary country, and so publicly, assimilating it with Japan, Caffraria, and other heathen countries.

☞ Two young women turned out with spades and hoes and paid their road tax in the town of Beloit, Wis., the other day.

☞ A general complaint of drouth and severe injury to the crops comes from all parts of Indiana, and in some localities the cut worm is entirely destroying the corn.

☞ The number of eggs imported into Great Britain during the year 1869 amounted to no less than four hundred and forty-two millions one hundred and sixty-five thousand and eighty!

☞ Most of the German emigrants to America this year are possessed of capital and are persons of education and intelligence.

☞ The grasshopper plague has re-appeared in Kansas.

☞ A company of negroes have organized for the purpose of building a colored hotel, at Indianapolis, Ind., to which no white persons will be admitted.

☞ There is a continuous steam communication round the world from San Francisco, and the circumterraneous trip by the shortest route, without stoppages, is eighty days.

☞ A Berlin letter-writer estimates the total available force of the chief continental armies on actual outbreak of hostilities, as follows:—Austria and Prussia 300,000 each, Italy 200,000, France 370,000, North Germany 546,000, South Germany 107,000, giving a total of 1, 823,000.

☞ The report is printed in the London papers as credited by many, that Queen Victoria will shortly marry a prince of the house of Schleswig-Holstein.

☞ Clara Lousia Kellogg lately penetrated to the interior of Utica lunatic asylum, and sang to the inmates. A few notes of her wonderful voice were sufficient to still the noise and call the unfortunates around her. They examined her curiously, turned her around, and finally all desired to kiss her, to which she gracefully submitted.

☞ Miss Lewis, the American sculptress at Rome, was born in a wigwam, her mother being an Indian, and her father a negro.

☞ Brigham Young has been admonishing the Saints in conference that if they chew tobacco and spit on the floor in meeting, they will be ejected from the tabernacle.

☞ Well authenticated intelligence has reached Pembina, that 4000 Sioux warriors had collected on Turtle Mountain, and an attack is expected on the settlement.

☞ The Cheyennes and Arapahoes are reported to be on the War-path in large numbers.

☞ Another destructive fire is raging in the woods, near Trinity Bay, in Sagumay, Lower Canada, and several others are reported higher up the river. If the present drought continues, much damage will be done.

☞ It appears from recent investigations that the Southern Methodist Church is rapidly losing its colored membership, there being but about nineteen thousand members this year, against thirty-two thousand last year.

☞ German astronomers assert that two stars—one in the constellation of the "Corona," and the other the "Ætha Argus" (generally marked on astronomical charts by the Greek letter H)—have taken fire.

Religious Items.

— A fearful excitement was made in the Council at Rome, when the eloquent Strossmayer braved the vast majority by dissenting from the curses on the Protestants, saying, "You know not how to write three lines like the Protestant Guizot, and yet you would condemn his works, and curse those who read them!" He was compelled to leave the platform without finishing his speech. The uproar within the chamber terrified those who heard it in the nave of St. Peter's, where a large crowd was assembled.

— There are many ways of paying church debts. In an Iowa church a member, well acquainted with the management of bees, proposes to take care, free of charge, of all that may be committed to him, for the benefit of the church.

— Some of the French papers report that Father Hyacinthe has become a Protestant, which is not true, but he has obtained this victory, that the Pope has released him from his monastic vows, and notwithstanding his liberal views, he is in good standing as priest.

— An exchange says that the most characteristic of all music among the Moravians is that of the trombone. In Moravian villages every death is announced by a dirge on the trombone, mostly from the belfry of the church. No soul escapes from its tenement of clay without this public signal to the denizens of the village.

— A Romish priest has recently embraced Protestantism publicly at Algiers, declaring that he had been studying the question, carefully and with prayer, for years.

Notices.

Meetings in Cambridgeport.

The new tent, "Evangelist," is pitched in Cambridgeport, corner of Hampshire and Columbia streets. Meetings every evening through the week, and over Sunday, June 12th. Leave the horse cars on any of the roads at Columbia street. It is on the same ground where the Mass. tent was pitched two years ago. We hope for a good turn-out. We want to see sinners saved. The judgment is at at hand. Brethren, pray for us.

Baptism Sunday, June 12th, at half-past twelve.

John G. Hook.

New Hampshire Quar. Conference.

The fourth quarterly session of the New Hampshire Christian Conference will be held at Whitefield, N. H., commencing Friday, at 10½ o'clock A. M., June 17th, 1870, and hold over the following Sunday. It is hoped that our preaching brethren will make a special effort to attend this meeting, and that all the lovers of truth in this region will come to this conference to work for God and the salvation of men.

T. W. Piper, A. W. Sibley, C. H. Fletcher, } Committee.

Grove Meeting.

A grove meeting will be held in Bartlett, N. H., (Middle District), in Bro. John B. Deering's grove, commencing Wednesday, June 22nd, and holding over the following Sabbath.

Bartlett is situated on the road from North Conway to the White Mountains. The mountains tower around, and the scenery generally is magnificently grand. We have held meetings in the place during the past winter, and although the truths we love have never been preached there, the people have been like the Bereans, and are favorable to the truth, and a good number have been converted. We know of no place where greater good can be done by a meeting than in Bartlett, and it is hoped that the brethren and sisters from the surrounding towns will be present. Come from Porter, Freedom, Melvin Village, Albany and adjoining towns in Maine. Come from Whitefield, Woodstock, and other places west of the mountains, and you will find entertainment, and have a glorious meeting. Brethren coming by the Notch will inquire for Nathan French, James Mead, or Levi Rogers; and those from other directions, for John B. Deering. Brn. T. W. Piper, N. Wheeler, Levi Allen, J. H. Evans, J. G. Smith, Bro. Kidder, and others who love the truth, and don't distract and divide, are invited. Provision will be made to accommodate all the brethren and sisters who may come. Pasturing will be furnished for horses. Let us have a good gathering of the saints in the name of the Lord. An ordination and a baptism may be expected.

In behalf of the brethren, L. C. McKinstry.

Notice.

As the time has come for us to start the Mass. Mission Tent, we shall need funds to carry forward the work; and we wish those who have subscribed would forward the amount to the Treasurer, C. Goodrich, No. 7 Salem Street, Boston, as soon as convenient.

S. W. Thurber, Pres of Conf.

Notice.

The tent meeting at Millville, Mass., will commence Wednesday evening, June 8th, and continue over Sunday, June 12th, and perhaps longer. Elders A. Ross, Geo. A Streeter, and others, will be present to preach the word.

L. Boutell.

Notice.

The Mission Tent will be pitched in the town of Warwick, R. I., between the villages of the Artic and Quidnic, near by the Hartford and Providence rail road, to commence June 15th, and continue as long as the interest demands. Any coming on the train to this meeting will stop at Quidnic. Come, brethren, let us make a little sacrifice and united effort to save souls, and get a people ready for the kingdom.

E. Bellows.

R. I. and East. Ct.

Our conference will hold its next session with the church at River Point, R. I., commencing Wednesday, June 29th, at two o'clock P. M. As this is a central locality, we shall expect to see a large number of preachers and delegates present. Let the clerks of those churches that do not send delegates remember their duty.

C. H. Sweet, Sec'y.

Notice.

The Vermont Mission Tent is engaged to be finished June 15th, all but the poles; and will be ready to be pitched in Middlesex June 23d, as it is wanted at that place for a conference. May great good be done in the name of the Lord Jesus.

R. N. Stetson.

N. B. I would like to engage some one to furnish the poles. We want two centre poles, twenty-eight feet long, and twenty-six seven feet long. If any Bro. can procure them, I wish he would write to me immediately. R. N. S.

Conference.

A quarterly conference will be held at the Bailey school-house, in Pittston, Me., four miles south of the city of Gardiner, on the east side of the Kennebec river, opposite Gardiner depot, at five o'clock, P. M., June 23d, and hold over Sunday. Let the brethren and sisters all attend who can to work for the Lord. Provision for all. Ministering brethren from abroad are invited. Those who come by cars will stop at South Gardiner, and the brethren will be there to take them over the river in a boat.

S. K. Partridge.

Maine Ministerial Conference.

EXTRA SESSION.

This conference will convene in the Second Advent Hall, Portland, on Tuesday, two o'clock P. M., June 21st, and close Friday. We desire to see present all the members of the conference, and all preachers who desire to join; likewise delegates from all the churches and societies, with as many other brethren and sisters as will come to work for the Lord, and the salvation of sinners. It is hoped the campmeeting committee will be prepared to report what decisions have been made in regard to a place, or places, for campmeetings in Maine this season; also the tent committee in regard to the tent mission. Brethren, let us come together once more in the Spirit of the Lord, praying his blessing upon the great work to which he has called us.

C. Goud, President.
I. C. Wellcome, Sec.

New York State Conference.

The annual meeting of the New York State Conference will be held at Lockport, Niagara Co., commencing Thursday evening, June 9th, 1870. Lockport is situated on the Niagara Falls branch of the N. Y. Central R. R., fifty-seven miles west of Rochester, and eighteen miles east of Niagara Falls. Fare from Rochester to Lockport, $1.15. Trains leave Rochester for Lockport at 9.50 A. M., 12.10 and 6 P. M. Trains leave Buffalo for Lockport at 6 A. M. and 4 P. M. Fare from Buffalo to Lockport, 40 cts.

Persons coming to the conference will go from the depot directly to the Advent Hall, on Main Street, when the committee of arrangements will see that they are provided for.

The church at Lockport have opened their doors wide, and extend a hearty invitation to the dear brethren and sisters to come and spend a few days with them; hoping to receive from the gathering a fresh impetus in the christian journey, as well as to make it pleasant for those who come. We want every one to take up the Crisis of April 27th and read the article from D. Cogswell, entitled "New York State Conference," and be sure to act in harmony with it.

D. Cogswell, Pres.
W. J. Hobbs, Sec'y.

Minnesota Campmeeting.

The second annual campmeeting for the State of Minnesota will commence on Monday, June 27th, at Ottawa, continuing one week. Ottawa is situated on the Minnesota river, five miles below St. Peter. The St. Paul and Sioux R. R. will carry passengers at half fare to and from this meeting. When buying tickets for Ottawa from any station on this road, ask for a return ticket, which will be good for ten days after June 27th. A refreshment and provision stand will be kept on the ground for the accommodation of the camp, where such articles of food as cannot be conveniently brought from home may be obtained. The committee will make every effort for the temporal comfort of those attending the meeting, and trust all will unite in striving, by the help of God, to make it a spiritual "feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined."

Committee:—G. W. Miller, L. C. Collins, P. Ramer, W. Ketzebock, E. Bacon, E. T. Himes.

Notice.

Having arranged to spend the summer in Chelsea, Mass., I hereby take this opportunity to inform those who would like my "Hymn Books" and "Admonitions," that I would have them address me there. I have got out the new edition to my hymn book, and will supply orders in cloth at 50 cts. single, $4.50 per doz. I will send them neatly bound in leather at 60 cts. single, $5.50 per doz., postage paid by me in all cases. They are neatly and firmly bound, and contain 453 hymns, embracing all those in general use among us. Those who take a dozen in cloth, will get them at 37½ cts. per copy; or if a dozen in leather, the rate will be 47 cts. per copy.

I. K. Lombard.

Notice.

The Advent brethren in Buffalo, N. Y., have hired a hall and established a prayer and conference meeting every Sabbath, at two o'clock P. M. The hall is on Maine Street, in the Arcade building, second floor, No. 9, and is large enough for preaching. Ministers passing this way who can spend a Sabbath with us, we will give notice of by our daily papers, if informed by Friday. They can expect but a small compensation at present, as most are poor, and we are just making an effort to gather the scattered flock. Some fifty in the city hold our views, and we hope, by a permanent meeting, some preaching, and God's blessing, we shall be able to form a stable church. Preachers can call on Wm. Shaw, 528 Eagle Street, or J. Blain, 79 North Division Street, H. Tanner, 255 Pearl street, and a home will be provided. We can have no meeting on week days at present, but hope to by and by.

For the brethren, J. Blain.

The Iowa Mission Tent.

Those who desire tent, camp, grove, or basket-meetings, will do well to correspond with me soon, so that I may make arrangements for summer work. In these meetings will be presented the gospel of Jesus Christ, with a view to do the people good. No party, sect, or hobby to build up, but to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Every lover of Jesus shall be free to work with us. All lovers of this pure christianity are requested to write soon. Direct to Peter S. W. Deyo, Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Notice.

There will be a grove meeting held in Jay, Bean's Corner, Me., commencing July 2d, at 5 o'clock P. M. and continuing over the Fourth. Come to this meeting to labor for the Lord. Bring your basket of food or not, as there will be provision made for all. The ordinance of baptism will be attended to. In behalf of the Brn.,

H. B. Sevey.

P. S. We have received pledges to the amount of $25.00 for our meeting-house in Vienna. Who wishes to help? H. B. S.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a grove meeting held July 3d and 4th, on Mann's hill, in Holden, Me., on the farm owned by Samuel Gilmore, in the same grove where it was held last year. We invite all christians who love gospel salvation and order, and will seek their neighbor's good, to come and help. Brn. A. H. Walker and I. Damman are expected to be there.

Notice.

To the brethren in New York State: Shall we have a general campmeeting in the old Empire State? Will the brethren think and pray about it, and when we meet at our June conference, decide when and where we will hold it, and appoint a committee to arrange for the meeting? We have strength enough in Western New York for a good campmeeting, if we will all take hold of the matter. The Lord is coming. Let us do all we can to strengthen each other, and save the perishing around us. Please write immediately.

Milton R. Miles, Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.

Notice.

Our annual grove meeting in Springwater, N. Y., will be held June 25th and 26th, 1870, commencing June 25th, at two o'clock P. M., in the grove, on the Morris farm, as usual. Come, now, brethren and sisters; let us all meet together and praise the world.

C. F. Sweet.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meeting on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's.

O. G. Trundy.

Notice.

The Advent Christian Church in Nashua, N. H., have hired a hall in Beasom's Block, corner of Maine and Factory Streets, up two flights of stairs, well fitted up, where we shall hold meetings three times on the Sabbath, and Thursday and Saturday evenings. For the brethren,

Nathaniel Eaton.

Notice.

The Mass. Tent will be pitched, the Lord willing, at Millville, on land owned by Dr. Southwick, and occupied by Bro. Wm. Boyden, about one mile from the village, and one mile from Slatersville, R. I. Meeting to commence June 8th, at 7½ P. M., to continue over Sunday, and longer if thought best. Preachers and all are invited. It is about half a mile from the depot on the B. H. & E. R. R., and one mile from the depot of the P. & W. R. R. Those coming from a distance will provide for themselves as far as they can. Let all help in having a good meeting, that sinners may be saved, and God's name glorified.

Geo. A. Streeter.
L. Boutell.

Conn. A. C. Conference.

The next session of the State Conference will be held with the church in Bristol, commencing Wednesday, June 8th, and continuing over Sunday.

H. H. Dickinson, Pres.
Geo. L. Teeple, Sec'y.

Conference in Nova Scotia.

The Lord willing, there will be a conference at Bear River, Annapolis Co., N. S., commencing Saturday, June 11th. All are invited. Preachers are requested to be present in the name of the Lord.

John Moore.

Notice.

Dear brethren and friends:—We have bought a brick house in Vienna, to fit up for a meeting-house. We lack funds to finish it. It will cost $100 to do the work inside. Some brethren have offered to assist us. If others who have the means will help, we should be glad. If we cannot get help, shall be obliged to sell. If brethren will send in what they will pay, we will give credit, and if enough is pledged we will notify when wanted. Direct all communications to

H. B. Sevey, S. W. Carr, H. C. Clifford, } Mt. Vernon, Me.

Notice.

The Advent brethren have rented the Temperance Hall on Maine St., in Brunswick, Me., and will hold meetings on Sunday regularly. Seats freee to all who are disposed to meet with us. Ministering brethren are invited to come over and help us. Per order,

C. Goud.

Notice.

Putney's Hall, Sutton, Mills, N. H. Meetings every Sabbath for the present. This is a new movement on the part of the Advent people of Sutton, and we think it is according to the will of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us.

A. Cressey, Frank Nelson, Sam'l Rowell, } Committee.

Notice.

All persons, rich or poor, wishing to have the Rhode Island Mission Tent pitched in any locality where there is an opportunity to get the great truths of the plan of salvation before the people, will address me by letter, at South Killingly, Ct.

E. Bellows.

Dedication.

We are intending, the Lord will, to dedicate our Chapel (Putnam, Ct.), Thursday, June 9th, at one o'clock.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston, corner of Causeway and Lowell Streets. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

Lowell Street Chapel.
S. W. Thurber..........Sunday, June 12th
Hiram Munger..........Sunday, July 3d

Boston, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.
Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.
Nathan Whiting..........Sunday, June 12th
N. M. Davis..........Sunday, June 19th

Meetings in South Boston on Wednesday evenings, at C. W. Huntress,' 3 Lowland street. On Friday evenings at J. N. Berry's, 227 E. street.

East Boston.
Meetings are held at Chase's Block, up two flights, at 154 Meridian Street, on Sundays, at the usual hours, also Monday and Thursday evenings.
Communion, Thursday evening, June 9th. A general invitation to all. Bro. Hook is expected.
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, June 12th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall.)
T. M. Preble..........Sabbath, June 12th
J. Couch..........Sunday, June 26th
I. B. Potter..........Sunday, July 3d
T. M. Preble..........Sabbath, July 10th
J. Hemenway..........Sunday, July 24th
J. Pinkham..........Sunday, July 31st

Charlestown.
Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.
Sr. L. M. Stoddard..........Sunday, June 12th
Sr. Anna E. Smith..........Sunday, June 19th
W. S. Campbell..........Sunday, June 26th

Cambridgeport tent meeting (corner of Hampshire and Columbia streets), on the same ground where the Mass. tent was pitched two years ago), every evening through the week, and over Sunday, June 12th. Baptism Sunday, at half past twelve.
John G. Hook.

Stoneham, Mass..........Sunday, June 26th
C. Goodrich.

Fitchburg, Mass..........Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th
Manchester, N. H..........Sabbath, July 3d
T. M. Preble.

Exeter, N. H..........Sunday, June 19th
L. Boutell.

Keene, N. H..........Friday evening, June 10th
Fitchburg, Mass..........Sunday, June 12th
North Springfield, Vt..........Sunday, June 19th
Bridgewater, Vt..........Sunday, June 26th
H. F. Carpenter.

North Springfield, Vt., Sunday, Jun. 5th, supplied by Bro. Dow, of Woodstock.
Bridgewater, Vt., Sunday, June 12th, I will supply by substitute. H. F. C.

Stoneham, Mass..........Sunday, June 12th
Sheldonville (Wrentham, Mass)..........Sunday, June 19th
Chicopee Falls, Mass..........Sunday, July 17th
Springfield..........July 19th
Warehouse Point..........July 20th
New Britain, Ct..........July 22nd
J S. White.

Palmer, Wed. and Thurs. evenings, June 8th and 9th
Worcester (Bethel)..........Friday evening, June 10th
Springfield, Sunday and Monday, June 12th and 13th
Chicopee Falls..Tues. and Wed., June 14th and 15th
Anna E. Smith.

Rye, N. H..........Sunday, July 3d
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works), Sunday, July 10th
Joseph W. White.

Wakefield, Mass..........Sabbath, June 12th
Alvah Bean.

Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house, near Deacon Merrill's) Sunday, June 12th. Levi Allen.

Week's Mills, China, Me..........Sunday, June 19th
L. D. Totman.

Warehousepoint, Conn..........Sunday, June 12th
Litchfield, Conn. (where Weaver Auston may appoint) Sunday, June 19th.
Newfield (where Wm. Grant may appoint) Sunday, June 29th.) W. W. Sutherland.

Cushing, Me..........Sunday, June 12th
Friendship, Me..........Sunday, June 19th
Northport, (as Bro. Pendleton may appoint) Sunday, June 26th.
Lincolnville Corner (Free House)....Sunday, July 3d
Jer. Carr.

Meredith, N. H., (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, June 12th
Upper Bartlett, N. H..........Sunday, June 19th
L. C. & M. McKinstry.

Nottingham, N. H. (baptism)......Sabbath, June 12th
Salisbury, (Union meeting-house) Sabbath, June 19th
Strafford, N. H., (Roberts' school-house), Sun., June 26th. S. S. Mooney.

Will Bro. Chandler meet me at the depot, at one o'clock, June 11th?
Cheshire Street..........Sunday, June 19th
Will Deacon Tuttle meet me at the Meriden depot, June 18th, at four o'clock P. M.? Wm. Stuart.

Poultney, Vt. (Stone Hall)..........Sunday, June 12th
J. B. Cook.

Hemlock Lake (as Bro. Owen and others may appoint) Sunday, July 3d. C. F. Sweet.

Bradley, Me..........Sunday, June 12th
Geo. W. Brown.

Buckfield (Federal meeting-house) Sabbath, June 12th
Orrill W. Kimball.

Ossipee, N. H., No. 400 Watter Village, (as the brethren may appoint) Sunday, June 12th.
Whitefield Conference..........Sunday, June 19th
Melvin Village..........Sunday, June 26th
T. W. Piper.

Barnstead, N. H., (Tuttle school-house) Sun., June 12th
Second Division of New Durham..Sunday, June 19th
C. H. Willey.
Joseph Libby.

Webster, N. H. (Old meeting house)...Sab., June 5th
Hampton, N. H..........Sunday, June 19th
Great Falls, N. H. (at the tent meeting) Sunday, June 26th. A. Simpson.

Danbury, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) June 11th, and over Sunday.
Warner, N. H. (where Bro. Haremon may appoint) Sunday, June 19th.
East Boston (Chase's Block..........evening, June 21st
Lynn..........evening, June 22nd
Lawrence..........evening, June 23d
Kennebunk Depot..........evening, June 24th
Kennebunkport..........Sunday, June 26th
Portland, Me..........evening, June 27th
Lewiston..........June 28th and 29th
Mechanic Falls..........evening, June 30th
Bryant's Pond..........evening, July 1st
Poland, Me. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, July 3d.
East Colebrook, Kiddersville..........Sunday, July 10th
U. G. Ladd.

If these appointments conflict with others, please write me at Lowell, Mass. U. G. L.

East Holderness, N. H..........Sunday, June 12th
John Parsons.

Rye, N. H..........Sunday, June 12th
West Kingston, N. H..........Sunday, June 19th
Lake Village, N. H..........Sunday, June 26th
Wm. C. Stewart.

Northwood Narrows, N. H..........Sabbath, June 26th
N. C. Twombly.

Lake Village, N. H..........Sabbath, June 12th
Rye, N. H..........Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th and evenings in the intervening week.
Seabrook, N. H..........Sundays, July 3d and 10th
Warner Village (Union Hall)....Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th. Allen Damon.

Acworth, N. H. (Town Hall)......Sabbath, June 12th
This is a new place. Come, brethren, and work for the Lord. T. L. Hall.

Lawrence, Mass..........evening, June 8th
Charlestown, Mass..........evening, June 9th
Lynn, Mass..........evening, June 10th
Providence, R. I..........Sunday, June 12th
S. W. Bishop.

Worcester, Mass..........Sunday, June 12th
Lawrence, Mass..........Sundays, June 19th and 26th
I. B. Potter.

Great Falls, N. H..........Sundays, June 12th and 19th
Great Works, Me..........Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
South Elliot, Me..........Sundays, July 10th and 17th
Seabrook, N. H..........Sundays, July 24th and 31st
E. S. Moulton.

Lowell, Mass..........Sunday, June 12th
New Bedford..........Sundays, June 19th and 26th
M. Batchelor.

Putnam, Ct..........Sabbath, June 12th
Webster, Mass..........Sabbath, June 19th
Woodstock Valley, Ct..........Sabbath, June 26th
P. S. Butler.

Greig, N. Y. (Union Chapel)..........Sunday, June 12th
C. H. Williams.

Burlington, Me. (if the meeting-house is not occupied by another), Sunday, June 12th.
In the vicinity of Lowell or Burlington, as may be thought best, Sunday, June 19th.
Thomas Smith.

Sutton Mills (Putney's Hall)..........Sabbath, June 12th
London Ridge..........Sunday, June 19th
L. E. Saulpaugh.

North Holden, Me...Saturday, two o'clock June 11th and over Lord's day, June 12th.
South Holden, as the brethren may arrange.
South Newburgh (Rich neighborhood), eve., June 15th
North Searsport..........Friday June 17th
Searsport Village..........Sunday, June 19th and baptize if desired.
Will meet the brethren on Saturday evening to make arrangements. Isaac Damman.

Lewiston, Me..........Wednesday evening, June 8th
South Poland, Me..........Thursday evening, June 9th
Mechanic Falls, Me..........Friday evening, June 10th
West Poland, Me..........Sabbath, June 12th
Mayberry Hill, Casco, Me..........Tuesday, June 14th
South Casco..........evenings, June 15th and 16th
Portland, Me..........Sabbath, June 19th
Cape Elizabeth (if desired) Monday evening, June 20th
South Berwick, (Great Works)....evening, June 21st
Lee, N. H..........Wednesday evening, June 22nd
Will be at Newmarket eleven o'clock A. M. train.
Exeter, N. H..........Thursday evening, June 23d
Hampton, N. H..........Friday evening, June 24th
Rye..........Sunday, June 26th
Portsmouth..........Tuesday evening, June 28th
Lawrence, Mass..........Wednesday, June 29th
Wakefield..........Thursday evening, June 30th
Lynn..........Friday, July 1st
Webster..........Sabbath, July 10th
Charlton (Chapel)..........Sunday, July 17th
Will be at Charlton depot 1½ P. M. H. Munger.
Shall be at liberty until after campmeeting to preach in the vicinity of home Sabbaths only. H. M.

East Rochester, N. H..........Sabbath, June 12th
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works)....Sab., June 19th
Lafayette, R. I..........evening, July 6th
Rocky Brook, R. I..........evening, July 7th
Wyoming, R. I..........Sabbath, July 10th
Seabrook, N. H..........evening, July 15th
Portland, Me..........Sabbaths, July 24th and 31st
Kennebunk Depot, Me..........Sabbath, Aug. 7th
C. H. Sweet.

North Somers, Ct..........Sabbath, June 19th
G. L. White.

Burnside, Ct..........Sunday, June 26th
R. R. Stark.

Charlton..........Sunday, June 12th
Springbeld..........Sunday, June 26th
Z. Ford.

Morris, Ct..........Sunday, June 12th
East Haddam, Ct..........Sunday, June 19th
Hartland (Town Hall)..........Sunday, June 26th
S. Woodruff.

Vernon, Vt..........Sunday, July 3d
Wm. Sutherland.

Montgomery..........Sunday, June 19th
Huntington (as Bro. Greenwood may arrange) Sunday, 5 P. M.
Westfield Farms..........Sunday, June 26th
E. Owen.

Jay, Me., Kennedy Corner..........Sunday, June 12th
Belgrade Depot..........Sunday, June 19th
H. B. Sevey.

Holderness, N. H. (Car school-house) Sun., June 26th
Campton, N. H. (Bump school-house), Sun., July 3d
West Ossipee, N. H..........Sunday, July 10th
C. Locke.
J. B. Brown.

Manchester, N. H..........Friday evening, June 10th
Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall) Sabbath, June 19th
Boscawen, N. H., (Gulf school-house) evening, June 18th, and Sabbath, June 26th.
Webster, N. H. (old meeting-house)....Sab., July 3d
Simeon Roby.

Holderness (Brick school-house)..evening, June 11th
True school-house, Sunday, June 19th.
Julia Buswell.

Rochester, N. H. (Gonic Chapel)..Sabbath, June 12th
S. Varney.

Wolfborough, N. H..........Sabbath, June 12th
Melvin Village, N. H..........Sabbath, June 19th
A. M. Tripp.

West Deerfield, N. H..........Sunday, June 12th
Chichester, N. H. (Dover school-house)....June 19th
Dover, N. H..........Sunday, June 26th
Alton Corner, N. H..........Sunday, July 10th
East Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, July 17th
H. M. Bryant.

New Haven, Ct..........Sunday, June 12th
Hartford, Ct..........Thursday evening, June 16th
Worcester, Mass..........Sundays, June 19th and 26th
Dover, N. H. (City Hall)..Sundays, July 3d and 10th
A. A. Phelps.

Vernon, Vt..........Sunday, June 12th
O. D. Woodruff.

Gosport, Isle Shoals..........evening, June 25th and over Sunday, the 26th.
New Durham Ridge, N. H..........Sunday, July 3d
Great Falls..........Sunday, July 10th
Dover..........Sunday, July 17th
J. Pinkham.

South Windsor..........Sunday, June 12th
Scitico..........Sunday, June 19th
H. H. Dickinson.

Waterbury, Ct..........Sabbath, June 12th
G. L. Teeple.

Wilbraham, Mass..........Sunday, June 12th
Mary E. Otis.

Lawrence, Mass..........Sunday, June 12th
Lowell, Mass..........Sunday, June 19th
J. G. Smith.

Cape Porpoise..........Sunday, June 12th
Kennebunkport..........Sunday, June 19th
Scarborough Blue Point..........Sunday, June 26th
Cape Porpoise..........Sunday, July 3d
Hollis Centre..........Sunday, July 10th
Bonny Eagle..........Sunday, July 17th
T. P. S. Hampson.

Lee, N. H..........Sunday, June 12th
Will Bro. Durgin meet me at New Market Depot, two o'clock train from Boston?
Lake Village, N. H. (North Church) Sabbath, June 19th. Also, Tuesday evening, June 21st.
Meredith Village, N. H..Thursday evening, June 23d
Meredith Center (Dolloff Hall)....evening, June 25th and Sabbath, 26th.
Will Bro. Vaasey meet me at the Village, Saturday, the 25th, and much oblige? B. P. Manning.

Bryant's Pond..........Sunday, June 12th
J. Albert Libby.

Warehousepoint, Ct. (Chapel)....Sunday, June 19th
R. K. Stark.

Hartford, Me. (Stetson school-house)..Sab., June 12th
E. M. Haggett.

Sugar Hill, N. H..........once in two weeks
N. Wheeler.

North Dorchester, N. H. (Union school-house) evening, June 11th, and over Sunday.
C. H. Willoughby.
J. B. Brown.

Nashua, N. H. (Beasom's Hall)....Sunday, June 12th
Simeon Roby.
John H. Dadmun.

Saco Ferry, Me..........Sunday, May 29th
Kennebunk Depot, Me..........Sunday, June 12th
Bonny Eagle, Me..........Sunday, June 19th
Hollis Centre, Me..........Sunday, June 26th
Jer. Hill.

Corinna, Me..........Sunday, June 19th
A. H. Walker.

Farmington Village, N. H..........Sunday, June 12th
East Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, June 19th
Wm. Bodge.

Scitico, Ct..........Sunday, June 12th
Keene, N. H..........Sunday, June 19th
Vernon, Vt..........Sunday, June 26th
A. M. Higgins.

A. Simpson..........Sunday, June 12th

River Point, R. I..........Sunday, June 12th
Every second Sunday in each month until further notice. A. Durfee.

East Canaan, N. H..........Sabbath, June 12th
Manchester, N. H..........Sabbath, June 26th
D. F. Leavitt.

Bootville, Break Bread.....first Sunday in the month
John T. Onoley.

Concord, N. H., (Centre Street.)
R. R. York..........Sabbath, June 12th
J. Albert Libby..........Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th
M. Batchelor..........Sabbath, July 10th

Concord, N. H., (at the Bethel.)
E. Owen..........Sunday, June 12th
Sr. L. M. Stoddard...Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
A. A. Phelps..........Sundays, July 24th and 31st

Portsmouth, N. H.
J. T. Dixon..........Sunday, June 12th
J. Pinkham..........Sunday, June 19th
N. Glidden..........Sunday, June 26th
J. Couch..........Sunday, July 3d
Geo. W. Burnham..........Sunday, July 10th
C. H. Sweet..........Sunday, July 17th
Allen Damman..........Sundays, July 24th and 31st
J. H. F. Varney..........Sunday, Aug. 7th

Loudon Ridge. N. H.
D. F. Leavitt..........Sunday, June 12th
L. E. Saulpaugh..........Sunday, June 19th
Joseph Harvey..........Sunday, June 26th

Pittsfield, N. H. (at the Bethel.)
C. Shattuck..........Sunday, June 12th
—— Morrell..........Sunday, June 19th
J. Parsons..........Sunday, June 26th

Manchester, N. H.
J. Couch..........Sunday, June 12th
C. Shattuck..........Sunday, June 19th

Dover, N. H.
L. Boutell..........Sunday, June 12th
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, June 19th

Hampton, N. H.
J. G. Smith..........Sunday, June 26th

South Elliott, Me.
Joseph Pinkham..........Sunday, June 12th

Scitico, Ct.
R. Starks..........Sunday, June 12th
G. L. White..........Sunday, June 19th
H. H. Dickinson..........Sunday, July 3d

South Windsor, Ct.
H. B. Dickenson..........Sabbath, June 12th

Bristol, Ct.
Mary E. Otis..........Sunday, June 19th

Abington, Ct.
A. P. Moore..........Sabbath, June 12th
A. Morse..........Sabbath, June 19th
C. H. Sweet..........Sabbath, July 3d

Wolcottville, Ct.
G. L. Teeple..........Sunday, June 19th

Pleasant Valley, Ct.
W. S. Campbell..........Sunday, June 12th
J. S. White..........Sunday, July 24th

Cabot, Vt..........Sunday, June 19th
A. W. Sibley.

Weld Village, Me..........Friday evening, June 10th and over the following Sabbath.
A. A. C. Abbott.
E. M. Haggett.

Millville, Mass., Wednesday, June 8th, and onward, at the tent meeting with the Mass. Mission Tent.
Enoch Morrill.

New Hampton, N. H. (Baptist meeting-house) Sabbath, June 12th. N. Glidden.

Brunswick, Me. (Temperance Hall) Sunday, June 26th
R. R. York.

Cumberland, Me. (Merrill school-house), Sunday, June 12th. C. Goud.

Portland, Me..........Sunday, June 12th
Lewiston, Me..........Sunday, June 19th
Jared Whitman.

Middleton Corner, N. H..........Sunday, June 12th
Water Village, N. H., for baptism..Sunday, June 19th
Mark Stevens, C. Colman, T. L. Churchill.

Springfield, Mass..........Sundays, June 5th and 12th
Hartford, (Talcott and Post's Hall), Sunday, June 19th
New Britain, Ct..........Sunday, June 26th
Springfield, Mass..........Sundays, July 3d and 10th
West Meriden, Ct..........Sunday, July 17th
W. N. Pile.

Collinsville..........Sunday, June 12th
Campville..........Sunday, June 19th
Wm. J. Ripley.

China, Week's Mills..........Sunday, June 12th
West Gardiner..........Sunday, June 19th
Lewiston..........Sunday, June 26th
N. G. Reed.

Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) evening, June 11th, and over Sunday.
Dorchester, N. H (Town House)...Sunday, June 19th
North Dorchester, N. H. (Union school-house) Sunday, June 26th. John H. Evans.

Haverhill, N. H. (Ladd St. school-house) five o'clock Sunday, June 12th, and once in two weeks successively at the same hour of the day.
Dansville..........five o'clock, Sunday, June 19th
Swift Water..........five o'clock, Sunday, July 3d
A. A. Hoyt.

Hartford, Ct..........Sunday, June 12th
C. E. Barnes.

Business.

Letters Received.

M E Glover, L Glover, J Lyle, Z Pike, E S Moulton, A Smith, M E Chute, C. W. Smith, C Case, D Winter, G. Thomson, B Hitchcock, E Owen, F. H. Chamberlain, G. A. Barker, J W White, G W Ashdown, R J Hoffner, H L Bragg, M D Peany, J Blain, C H Sweet, F H Burbank, H T Hart, J L Burringer, E A Libby, J H Evans, Z D Baird.

Cash received for Books and Tracts.

N H Reed $80.46, H L Hastings $3.50, S Roby 50c, W A Fenn $1.00, J C Emery 40c, Mrs. O Hill 35c, I. M Eccleston 60c, H Ridley 50c, N Wheeler 50c. I Latshaw $2.75, E. W. Husan $1.35, H McClary $1.00, A Fritz $1.10, G. Downing 35c, L. Reimer 50c, D. D. Reed $1.75, E P Sampson $1.25, S Leonard 35c, A A Hoyt 60c, E. C. Andrus 50c, F H Burbank $1.00, C. Marsh $2.00, A H Walker $1.57, E B Card $7 00, C. Delong $1.85, A E Fuller $1.10, E A Fullerton $1.30, L. Bean $2.00, J McCammon 60c, T B French $1.15, E L Crumb 40c, P Kelley 50c, C. Wilder $2.00, M A Potter $1.25, D S Clark 75c, H E Cowperthwaite 35c, J F Day 75c, R S Johnson $1.00, J M Garvan $6.00.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, post-paid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents. Postage 8 cts.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc., etc. Cloth, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Leather back, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Polities. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D.F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c; Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERYBODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail. 12c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? A Tract on War. Price 10c, postage 2c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 6c.

THE FIRST DAY SABBATH. By T. M. Preble. A new and interesting work. pp. 471. Price $1.50.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5 cts. single; by mail, 7 cts.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M Preble. 15c. postage 2 cts., or by mail 17 cts.

TWO HUNDRED STORIES FOR CHILDREN. By Elder T. M. Preble. pp. 234. 80c. by mail.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. By Thomas Carlyle. 3c. single; 5c. by mail; 20c. per dozen.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR; or, Spiritualism; What it is, and what it is not. Paper covers, $1.00; by mail; cloth, $1.25 by mail.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

VOICE OF THE THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures, Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, Retribution, and Will all Men be Saved? By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man, with various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church; By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times to Daniel and John. On Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

THAT MAN OF SIN. By Eld. O. R. Fassett. To which is added "The Only Hope." Price, 5c. single; postage 2c. 50c. per dozen; postage 6c.

Any of the above will be sent by mail on receipt of the price.

For the World's Crisis.

EARTH: ITS GLOOM AND COMING GLORY.

BY S. S. BREWER.

Long hath this earth been shrouded in mourning,
Rocked by the earthquake, and deluged by flood;
Its once lovely form defiled lies now groaning,
All marred and disfigured, and clotted with blood.
Sin hath long cursed it with blast, blight and mildew,
Fire, famine, pestilence, and noisome breath;
In darkness hath brooded, mid damp, sickly chill dew,
Sowing disease for harvests of death.

O'er the deep sounding sea, on the white crested wave,
Where hurricanes rage, mid old ocean's roar,
Ship fevers its victims have slain, and their graves
Are deep in its caverns, far, far from the shore.
Even heaven so mild is oft mantled in gloom,
And from its dark brow the chain lightnings stream;
The storms gather there, and the loud thunders boom,
Embattling the air with the roar and the gleam.

Now shrill shrieks the fierce wind, the landscape is dreary,
The snow whirls in eddies, and flies in the blast;
And through its deep banks the travelers plod weary,
While fiercer it comes more blinding and fast.
Oh, soon may the bright sun shine from the new heaven
Upon the new earth, pure, fresh and serene;
Let that bright blooming realm to the saints soon be given,
Where all is delight and the verdure is green.

Lord, haste the glad hour when this groaning creation
Its travail shall cease, and a blooming new earth
At thy fiat stand forth, with a pure, holy nation,
Immortal and perfect, the moment of birth.
Brief be the night now of weeping and sadness;
Short be the sleep of our loved in the grave;
Oh! let the day dawn, of joy and gladness;
Come quick, Emmanuel, mighty to save.

Soon shall the King, in his beauty descending,
Come to fulfill the promises made;
Angels of might, with bright myriads attending,
Will welcome the bride, all glorious arrayed.
Come, then, Redeemer, and bring life eternal,
Bid the dwellers in dust awaken and sing;
In an earth "filled with glory," a clime ever vernal,
The home of the ransomed, and Jesus their King.

For the World's Crisis.

THE PRE-EXISTENCE OF CHRIST.

That Christ did exist as a personal being before he became a man in the flesh, is a subject of divine revelation; and this is as clearly shown as is any truth revealed to man. "What is written in the law? How readest thou?"

In calling attention to this subject, I shall pass over the argument showing that Jehovah of the Old Testament is none other than Christ the eternal Son of God. I shall do but little more than to give the testimony of the sacred witnesses in their own language.

The testimony of the prophet Micah: "But thou, Bethlehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall come forth unto me that is to be ruler in Israel; whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting."—Micah 5: 2. This is clearly a prophecy of the advent of the Son of God into this world at the time of his incarnation. It is here plainly stated that our Savior was from everlasting, or from "the days of eternity"—margin.

To say that this statement means nothing more than that he was from everlasting in the mind or purpose of God, is a perversion of language. The same liberty taken with other portions of the Bible unsettles all faith in the word of God, and makes his revelation to man meaningless.

John's testimony: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made."—John 1: 1-3. John affirms that the Word, who became flesh, was with God in the beginning; and this he reaffirms. He also affirms that all things were made by him, and that without him was not anything made that was made. He further affirms: "John bare witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake, He that cometh after me is preferred before me; for he was before me."—v. 15.

Christ was not before John in his birth in this world; for John was six months older than Christ. Christ then was before John as a personal being. As he was younger than John in the flesh, to be before him he must have been before John was born. It is not true that the Word meant simply God's will or purpose or speech; for John uses the words he and him, and applies them to Christ. He says that "without him was not anything made." "He was in the world, and the world was made by him."—v. 10. Besides, in another place he says, "His name is called the Word of God."—Rev. 19: 13. Word is a name by which he who made the world was called. John's testimony is so plain and positive, if we had no other, it puts the question of Christ's pre-existence beyond the possibility of a reasonable doubt.

John, moreover, says: "God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him."—1 John 4: 9. Christ was a Son before he was sent. He did not become a Son by being sent; but was a Son to be sent. John was sent to the Jews to prepare the way of the Lord; but he was John thirty years before he went to the Jews to preach. Christ sent his disciples to preach the gospel; but they were his disciples before he sent them. So Christ was the Son of God before he came into the world. He came into the world at his incarnation.

The testimony of Christ: "Wherefore when he cometh into the world, he saith, Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but a body hast thou prepared me."—Heb. 10: 5.

Christ in the flesh was David's son. If he had no existence before he became David's son, how was a body prepared him more than for all David's seed? "In burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin thou hast had no pleasure. Then said I, Lo, I come (in the volume of the book it is written of me), to do thy will, O God."—vs. 6, 7. "I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world; again, I leave the world, and go to the Father. His disciples said unto him, Lo, now speakest thou plainly, and speakest no proverb. Now are we sure that thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man should ask thee; by this we believe that thou camest forth from God. Jesus answered them, Do ye now believe?"—John 16: 28-31.

Christ said, "I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world." If this does not show that Christ was with the Father before he came into the world, then his statement, "I leave the world and go to the Father," does not show that he is with the Father now. The reply of the disciples was, that he spake plainly, and spake no proverb. "By this we believe that thou camest forth from God." This is what Christ would have them believe as the objective point of their faith. Jesus answered them, "Do ye now believe?" To believe this, that Christ was with the Father before he came into this world, and that the Father sent him, is to believe that Christ is the Son of God.

It is an easy matter for the world to believe that Christ was born of Mary the wife of Joseph; but that is not faith in the Son of God. That God sent his Son to be begotten by the Holy Ghost in the flesh, is the faith he requires. To believe that God had a Son to send, and that he did send him to be manifested in the seed of David, is to believe as did the disciples. To believe this, is to honor the Son, and the Father who hath sent him. "He that honoreth not the Son, honoreth not the Father which hath sent him."—John 5: 23.

Jesus labored to convince the Jews that he was the Son of God, and that the Father sent him into the world. This is what his brethren did not believe. John 7: 5. "This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent."—John 6: 29. Christ prayed at the grave of Lazarus that the people might believe the Father had sent him. John 11: 42. Martha did believe. She said, "I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the world."—v. 27. Christ prayed that the disciples might be one; "that the world may believe that thou hast and me."—John 17: 21.

The Ethiopian's confession was, "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God."—Acts 8: 27. This is all that Philip required him to confess in order to be baptized. He was the Son of God before he was born of the Holy Ghost. His birth was the manifestation of his previous worship. He was declared to be the Son of God with power by his resurrection from the dead. Not that he was the Son of God by being raised from the dead: but being the Son, he had power to lay down his life, and power to take it again. This he did, and this declared him to be what he was. Christ said, "Before Abraham was I am." "Glorify thou me with the glory I had with thee before the world was." He is the root and offspring of David.

Jesus said, "For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven." "For I came down from heaven." "This is the bread which cometh down from heaven." See John 6. When Jesus knew that his disciples murmured at these sayings, he said to them, "What and if ye shall see the Son of man ascend up where he was before?" Yes, he has gone up where he was before he came down. If he were not there before, he may not be there now.

The testimony of Paul: "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich."—2 Cor. 8: 9. In this world he was poor, from the manger to the cross. Before his poverty he was rich. Then he must have been before he came here, or, in other words, before he came down from heaven. If this statement does not prove that Christ was a being when he was rich, then it does not prove that the saints will have a being when they become rich. "In whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins; who is the image of the invisible God, the first-born of every creature; for by him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers; all things were created by him, and for him; and he is before all things, and by him all things consist. And he is the head of the body, the church; who is the beginning, the first-born from the dead; that in all things he might have the pre-eminence. For it pleased the Father that in him should all fulness dwell." Col. 1: 14-19.

Paul affirms that Christ as the Son of God is the first-born of every creature. By him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible. All things were created by him and for him. And he is before all things, and by him all things consist. If these statements do not prove that the Son of God was, before he came into this world, what words can prove it? He is before all things, he created all things in heaven and in earth. He is the first-born of every creature, and has the pre-eminence in all things.

If, then, the Son of God did not exist before he was begotten by the Holy Ghost, he did not create the earth and all things; he was not the first-born of every creature; for Adam was made more than four thousand years before the Son of God was, and during all that time the human family were born before he had any being, and it is not true that Christ in all things has the pre-eminence; Adam and his children preceded him. If these statements are true, it follows that Paul's testimony is false. Which shall we believe, the affirmative, or negative? To admit that Paul spoke the truth, and then try to explain away his statements, is no better than to deny his statements outright.

God the Father's testimony: "And thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the work of thy hands."—Heb. 1: 10. Here God affirms that his Son laid the foundation of the earth, and with his hands made the heavens. This agrees with John, "All things were made by him, and without him was not anything made that was made." "He was in the world, and the world was made by him." And with Paul: "For by him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers; all things were created by him, and for him; and he is before all things, and by him all things consist." Again, "God hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds."—Heb. 1: 2.

This is the testimony that the Father hath given of his Son. There is no way to set aside this testimony but by impeaching the witnesses. To do this there must be, at least, an equal amount of testimony, and of equal authority to the contrary. "He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witness in himself; he that believeth not God hath made him a liar, because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son; and this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son."—1 John 5: 10-11.

We may believe in Christ as a being who commenced his existence in this world like other men; or we may believe that he was begotten by the Holy Ghost, making the Holy Ghost, the third person in the work of redemption, the Father, and so call him divine; and still have no faith in the Son of God of whom these witnesses testify. The record of God is, that eternal life is in his Son. He testifies that his Son was before all things, that he made all things, that he was with him in the beginning, that he made the earth and the heavens by his hands, that his goings forth have been from everlasting.

This is the Son of God in whom is eternal life. To believe in his Son, is to believe that God sent his Son into the world, and that this Son, who was with the Father before the world was, became flesh by the power of the Holy Ghost. This is the faith once delivered to the saints, and it is the faith the gospel requires. To believe this, is to believe in the Son of God.

Some thirty times Jesus affirmed that his Father sent him. "I came down from heaven not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me."—John 6: 38. "I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world; again I leave the world and go to the Father." John 16: 38. "He that honoreth not the Son, honoreth not the Father which hath sent him." To deny the pre-existence of the Son, is to dishonor the Father; for it is to disbelieve the record that God hath given of his Son. The Jews could readily believe that Christ was the Son of David; but he taught them that he was the Son of God prior to David, and outside of any relation to him; that he was the root of David, and that he was before Abraham. This they understood him to teach, and this they rejected, and so rejected eternal life.

He who was the Son of God took on him the seed of Abraham, and so became the seed of David, or David's son. This divine Sonship is what Peter confessed: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." Jesus said to him, "Upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."—Matt. 16. This is the rock or stumbling-stone over which the Jews fell. Rom. 9: 20. This great truth is the foundation stone of the whole structure of the plan of salvation. All religious theories not built on this foundation are on the sand, and must surely fall.

The common objection to the pre-existence of Christ is, We cannot see how this can be: we cannot understand it. This is the old stale objection of sceptics of every grade against every doctrine of the Bible which they wish to have untrue. The infidel says, he cannot see how there can be a self-existent, personal God; and as he cannot bring such a being down to his comprehension, he rejects him.

Another says, "I cannot see how Christ could exist as a being before the world was, and then become a child and be born in the seed of David." Because he cannot understand this, he rejects it. Can he see how God can exist, how he made the worlds, how he made man, how he created anything, how he can know everything, how he can control everything, how he can raise the dead, create new heavens and a new earth? If he cannot understand these things, why not reject them all, as he does Christ's pre-existence, and as does the more consistent sceptic who rejects both Father and Son? Can those who cannot understand this great truth see through or comprehend a single law in nature? Why, then, should he not say these laws do not exist? If his objection is good, it is equally so against everything involving a mystery. No man is able to comprehend how an acorn can become a tree, nor the growth of a single plant. This objection is the weakest, the most sceptical, and the most self-sufficient, that was ever brought to bear against any divine truth.

Is it objected that Christ is called the last Adam, therefore he could not have been before the first Adam? Christ, in the seed of Abraham which he took upon him, was not before the first Adam. As David's son he came into the world; but he was the Son of God before the first Adam was made, for he created Adam. God said, "Let us make man." John says that "without him was not anything made that was made." Paul says, "By him were all things created that are in heaven and in earth. All things were created by him and for him, and he is before all things." Then he was before the worlds were made. The Father says that his Son laid the foundation of the earth, and that the heavens are the work of his hands. The last Adam "is the Lord from heaven." "A body hast thou prepared me." In this body the Lord from heaven was manifested. This made him the "last Adam," or "second man." The Son, whom the Father calls God, was manifested in the flesh. This Paul calls a mystery; but he does not reject the fact.

When the heathen king ordered three men to be cast into the fire, he said, "Lo! I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire; and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God."—Dan. 3: 25. God opened the eyes of the king to see that he had a Son, and that he was present, making the fourth in the fire. Would that the Lord might open the eyes of others to see that he had a Son before he sent him into the world, and lead them to believe the record he hath given of him.

Much more can be said on this subject. But if this testimony can be rejected, any amount, expressed in any words that can be used, may be set aside as no proof of the pre-existence of the Son of God. If we will not believe this testimony of Micah, of John, of Christ, of Paul, and of "God the Father of all," we would not believe if one should rise from the dead. Let us not dishonor Christ by letting him down in the dignity of his being, and so dishonor the Father who sent his Son into the world. Let us not lay the foundation-stone of scepticism of every grade, by denying this record God hath given of his Son.

This great truth has troubled sceptics and infidels in all ages. It is the stone over which they have stumbled. If they can turn this out of the way, they see that the whole structure of the Scriptures falls. Accede this to them, and it is all they ask of you. They, then, assuming your position as correct, and using your own argument against the pre-existence of Christ, can easily set aside every doctrine of the Bible that troubles them. Let God be true, though it make every man a liar.

J. S. WHITE.

For the World's Crisis.

THE HAPPY FUTURE.

Subsequent to "the coming of the day of God," when earth shall receive a fiery baptism, we "look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness"; when "the tabernacle of God shall be with men," and when "the former things" shall have "passed away." Then a tearless, deathless, graveless, sorrowless, and painless state will forever gladden the inhabitants of a renovated world. No more sickness, no more sadness, no more bereavements, no more funeral processions, and no grave-yards to mar the peace of that happy realm.

Exhilarating thought! Earth restored! Earth freed from the curse! Earth made "new" and glorious, robed in its Edenic dress, peopled with deathless saints and holy angels, with countenances expressive of extatic joy, hearts overwhelmed with sweet peace, basking eternally in the glory of God. Paradise again blooms on earth, and saints are forever "delivered from the bondage of corruption," having experienced the "redemption of their bodies"; and the bodies of the saints being "changed," and fashioned like Christ's glorious body, will be adapted to the changed earth, which will then be recognized as a "new earth," having an immortal King, with immortal inhabitants.

The footprints of the enemy death will never be seen there to pain the eyes or sadden the hearts of the saints. There every tongue will sing in the sweetest strains. The good of all ages are there,—prophets, apostles, martyrs, and all the dear saints of ancient and modern times. Shall we be among them?

WM. SHELDON.

A SIX-YEAR OLD COMFORTER.

"Does not God reveal himself to and through babes?" asks Augusta Moore, as she sends us this little story in rhyme:—

Bertie, the darling of my heart,
Once on a winter's day,
Seemed filled with pensive thought, and grew
Forgetful of his play.
He lingered round, as wearily
My daily tasks I plied,
Whilst every way my footsteps turned,
The boy was at my side.

I heeded not the silent child,
Scarce knew that he was nigh,
Till from his little breast I heard
The echo of my sigh.
My heart was sad and sore, that time,
Under a load of care,
That grew more heavy day by day,
That none might help me bear.

I knew, but could not feel the truth
Of that consoling word,
"All things together work for good
To those that love the Lord."
I could not see beyond the clouds,
Nor o'er the rolling flood,
Where they are standing near the throne,
Whose robes are washed in blood.

'Twas then I heard my darling say,
Deep echoing my sigh,—
"*Auntie, if any one in heaven
Should ever want to cry,
God, even to the angels,
Not a single word would say,
But would with his own shiny hand
Wipe all their tears away.*" *

That little sympathizing face,
Tender and meek and pure;
That sweet voice, tremulous and low,
Those words so sweet, so sure—
Something more rare than Gilead's balm
O'er all my soul they shed;
I clasped my darling to my heart,
And I was comforted.

* Every word of it was spoken as here, except that it was not in rhyme, by the child of six summers.—Advance.

MISSIONARIES WANTED IN HIGH LIFE.

No truer sentiments, in our estimation, have been uttered lately on the subject of fashion, than those contained in the following paragraph, which we clip from an exchange. Let the question, found at the close, "Am not I to blame for this?" be carefully pondered, and conscientiously answered, by every woman. If found guilty, and a reformation induced, then, so far as she is concerned, she will help to hasten the period when all shall seek those things that will make purity and virtue the rule of earth:—

"What aimless lives thousands of our fashionable women lead, and how destructive to thousands of their sex are the extravagances to which they so willingly yield. As an illustration of this, and with the hope that the moral may not be lost upon some, at least fashionable, readers, Celia Burleigh says: 'At a fashionable party a few evenings since, a beautiful young woman turned sharply upon an elderly dowager, who was prosing about the Magdalens, and the hopelessness of doing anything for these lost women, with the assertion, "I know a class more hopelessly lost than they. We, fashionables, who murder time, and squander money, and lead women to become Magdalens that they may dress like us. Why does nobody send missionaries to us?" The bitter intensity of the utterance was eloquent of better possibilities.

No doubt there are more ways than one of being lost. The syrens are not all of one class, or confined to one locality.' Think of this, ye gaudy butterflies of fashion, and as you pass a poor 'lost girl' on the street, ask yourselves, 'Am not I to blame for this?'"—Home Guardian.

Gems.

— There is a whole sermon in the saying of the Persian, "In all thy quarrels leave open the door of reconciliation."

— The Christian's cup may be brimful of sorrow; but for him the overflowing drop is never added.

— He that speaks, sows; he that hears, reaps; hence we should be guarded as to how we speak, as to how we hear. "He that hath ears to hear, let him hear; but take heed how ye hear!"

— Despise not little temptations; rightly met they have often nerved the character for some fiery trial.

— Christ never designed his church to be a bushel for hiding of the lights, but a candlestick from which each light is to send forth its rays.

— The surest road to wealth is to bestow liberally where it is most needed.

— Deeds for others' happiness show the true foundation of our own character.

— He who can suppress a moment's anger may prevent many days' sorrow.

— The secret of a happy heart is keeping near the Master. Christ in the heart, a constant guest, can it but help to rejoice? Christ holding the hand, Christ making the path, Christ leading the disciple, can there be room for melancholy? Can troubles press heavily that are day by day and night by night rolled into the open sepulchre beside the cross?

— The sordid man knows nothing of the enjoyment of doing good.

— I would not deprive life of a single grace or a single enjoyment; but I would counteract what is pernicious in whatever is elegant. If among my flowers there is a snake, I would not root up my flowers—I would kill the snake.

— A loving heart and a pleasant countenance are commodities which a man should never fail to take home with him.

— Our impulses, our enthusiasms, our aspirations, require most of our circumstantial life to drop away before they can be true enough and refined enough to do their grandest.

— Wisdom like a fox requires not only long hunting, but often also deep digging.

— Trials being sanctified, increase faith, and faith being increased is again put to the trial.

— Never attempt to teach what you do not understand yourself.

— Some one said to a reformer, "the whole world is against you." He calmly replied, "Then I am against the whole world."

— The soldier wastes his strength who fights his shadow.

— Modesty is attended with profit; arrogance brings on destruction.

SAGE COUNSEL.

A minister, somewhat in years, awhile ago sent the following quaint epistle to a younger brother in the ministry. It may be good for others:

DEAR BROTHER: I sometimes write to young men because they are strong. Remember—

1. That human happiness, like Hebrew verbs, have no present tense.

2. That human friendship like glass, is easily broken; not easily mended.

3 When you know not what to do, never do you know not what.

Never covet high places, where 'tis difficult to stand and dangerous to fall. We never find the Savior on the pinnacle of the temple but once. What company had he there?

5. Be no respecter of great personages as such. Remember the figure 9, though the highest number, owes its consequence not to its head, but to its curved appendage. Without that it would be 0.

6. Desire no rapid growth. When the clock has struck twelve, it does not strike 13 next. The full moon grows no larger.

7. Be not over hasty to combat public opinion without pressing reason. He that spits against the wind, spits in his own face.

8. Never scare off a fly with a club when a feather will do as well, and remember that you can take more flies with a gill of molasses than with a gallon of vinegar.

9. Avoid debt. He that pays down will not be called upon to pay up.

10 Ministers must not only eat their bread by the sweat of their brow, but by the sweat of their brains.

11. Let not your sermons be like a serpent, smallest at the last end, but rather like a scorpion, whose sting is in his tail.

12. Have special care of those members who were born in a storm, as they are prone to want a storm to live in.

13. Never forget that a minister's work is to break hard hearts, and to mend broken ones.

14. I began with a verb; I will conclude with a case. May you never be found in the accusative and never come out in the vocative.

LET THE CHILDREN ALONE.

Let your children alone when they gather around the family table. It is a cruelty to hamper them with manifold rules and regulations about this, and the other. As long as their conduct is harmless as to others, encourage them in their cheeriness. If they do smack their lips, and their suppings of milk and other drinks can be heard across the street, it does not hurt the street; let them alone. What if they do take their soup with the wrong end of the fork, it is all the same to the fork; let them alone.

Suppose a child does not sit as straight as a ramrod at the table; suppose a cup or a tumbler slips through its little fingers and deluges the plate of food below, and the goblet is smashed, and the table-cloth is ruined, do not look a thousand scowls and thunders, and scare the poor thing to the balance of its death, for it was sacred half to death before. It "didn't go to do it." Did you never let a glass slip through your fingers since you were grown? Instead of sending the child away from the table in anger, if not even with a threat, for this or any other little nothing, be as generous as you would to an equal or superior guest, to whom you would say, with a more or less obsequious smile; "It's of no possible consequence." That would be the form of expression even to a stranger guest; and yet to your own child you remorselessly, revengefully, and angrily mete out a swift punishment, which for the time almost breaks its little heart and belittles you amazingly.

The proper and more efficient and more christian method of meeting the mishaps and delinquencies and improprieties of your children at the table is either to take no notice of them at the time, or to go further, and divert attention from them at the very instant, if possible, or make a kind apology for them. But afterward, in an hour or two, or, better still, next day, draw the child's attention to the fault, if fault it was, in a friendly and loving manner; point out the impropriety in some kindly way; show where it was wrong or rude, and appeal to the child's self-respect or manliness. This is the best way to correct all family errors. Sometimes it may not succeed; sometimes harsh measures may be required; but try the deprecating or the kindly method with perfect equanimity of mind, and failure. will be of rare occurrence.—From Dr. Hall's "Health by Good Living."

For the World's Crisis.

"IT IS I, BE NOT AFRAID!"

Clouds hang o'er our earthly pathway,
Draped in hues of midnight shade,
Savior, dear, dispel the darkness,
With the words—be not afraid.

Does the way look rough and thorny?
Are thy foes in strength arrayed?
I will help thee, yea, uphold thee,
Even I; be not afraid.

Though dark trials may surround thee,
Yet on me thy cares are laid;
I have trod the way before thee,
Follow me; be not afraid.

Does thy heart grow sad with waiting?
Has thy hope been long delayed?
Wait with patience; soon I'm coming,
Even I; be not afraid.

Have thy hopes, once bright as sunbeams,
Like the autumn leaves decayed?
Hope instead for richer treasures,
Trust in Me; be not afraid.

Then I'll bring thee home in triumph,
When life's last work thou hast surveyed;
Thou shalt know my joy and glory,
Even mine; be not afraid.

Lawrence, Mass. A. M. FOWLER.

CONFLAGRATION OF THE MATERIAL UNIVERSE.—The following is attributed to a writer in the Edinburg Review:

"It is absolutely certain that all planetary matter is inevitably gravitating toward the sun, which will be the common bourne of our system. 'As surely,' eloquently writes Sir William Thompson, 'as the weights of a clock run down to their lowest position, from which they can never rise again unless fresh energy is communicated to them from some source not yet exhausted, so surely must planet after planet creep in, age by age, toward the sun;' not one can escape its fiery end. In like manner the satellites of the planets must inevitably fall into their respective planets. As, then, it has been proved by geology that our earth had a fiery beginning, so it is shown, by an appeal to the laws of gravitation, that it will have a fiery end. . . . The earth passed from the incandescent into the habitable state, and will have its individuality annihilated by falling into the sun if it be true that it also is revolving around some enormously distant centre of attraction."

EDITORS' DISLIKE.—The following are only a few of the annoyances committed against an Editor:

Boring him when he is writing.

Boring him when he is reading proof for printers, who are waiting to correct it, and make up their "forms" in order to catch the mails.

Reading his exchanges without permission.

Carrying off exchanges before he has glanced over them.

Asking the name of the correspondent who sign "X," or "Quidnunc," or "Q in a Corner."

Asking him to say to the public that Smith or Brown may be classed among the most honorable merchants in the State; when the public knows that S. and B. should have been in States Prison for divers offences long ago.

Hygiene.

"This is for your health."—PAUL.

VARIOUS KINDS OF EXERCISE.

In an article on "Preserving Health," in "Good Health" for June, we find the following:—

Nature, if untrammelled, is sufficient for the physical development of the body; it is our artificial and luxurious state of civilization that opposes the natural tendency to active exercise; and in order to regain the lost advantages, we must return to first principles. Habits of bodily exercise should begin very early in life; fresh air, every and at all seasons, is less dangerous to the healthy infant than are accidental and occasional exposures to delicate children. As regards the sports of children, there is much truth in the following extract from an old paper: "We like mischievous children, and for this reason: they are apt to make old men. Good boys generally die in their fifth year; not because they are good, but their quiet habits make them strangers to mud-puddles, oxygen, dirt-pies, and outdoor exercise." While playing out of doors, the child should be properly and warmly clothed, to insure and keep up health; no bare legs, and arms, and chest, in winter and spring, under the absurd pretence of hardening the child, should be permitted; and flannel should be worn next the skin in our cold and changeable climate, for at least half of the year. If proper food, as the capacity of the stomach for the digestion of more and more solid substances increases, be added to the warm clothing, fresh air, and exercise, the doctors' bills would be very much lessened, and a large number of voters added annually to the country.

Leaving, then, out of the question the preventives of deformity in children, let us consider exercise in its relations to the adult man and woman.

Walking is beyond dispute, the best possible exercise, as it brings into play, in rapid succession, all the sets of muscles of the trunk and limbs. Says Jefferson: "The Europeans value themselves on having subdued the horse to the use of man; but I doubt whether we have not lost more than we have gained by the use of this animal. No one thing has occasioned so much degeneracy of the human body. An Indian goes on foot nearly as far in a day, for a long journey, as an enfeebled white does on his horse, and he will tire the best horses." * * *

A lady once consulted the eccentric John Abernethy respecting a nervous disorder, the particulars of which appeared to him so whimsical, that he interrupted the tedious details by holding out his hand for the fee. A one-pound note and a shilling were placed in it; he returned the shilling to the lady, with the exclamation, "There, ma'am! go and buy a skipping rope—that is all you want." And many a young woman in America may profit bp his advice.

Sydenham, an English physician, had such confidence in exercise on horseback, that, in one of his medical works, he says, "If any man was possessed of a remedy that would do equal service to the human constitution with riding gently on horseback, twice a day, he would be in possession of the philosopher's stone."

There can be no doubt that many cases of obscure nervous diseases, dyspepsias, gout, and neuralgia, require for their relief nothing more than a regulated diet and active exercise; and that the reply of Mr. Abernethy to an indolent and luxurious citizen, who asked what was the cure for gout, contains the simple and whole truth for the cure of the diseases of indulgence and laziness: namely, "Live on sixpence a day, sir, and earn it."

HOW TO BE HANDSOME.

Most people like to be handsome. Nobody denies the greater power which any person may have who has a good face, and who attracts you by good looks, even before a word has been spoken. And we see all sorts of devices in men and women to improve their good looks—paints and washes, and all kinds of cosmetics, including a plentiful anointing with dirty hair oil.

Now, not every one can have good features. They are as God made them; but almost any one can look well, especially with good health. It is hard to give rules in a very short space, but in brief these will do:

Keep clean—wash freely and universally with cool water. All the skin wants, is leave to act freely, and it will take care of itself. Its thousands of air holes must not be plugged up.

Eat regularly and simply. The stomach can no more work all the time, night and day, than a horse; it must have regular work and regular rest.

Good teeth are a help to good looks. Brush them with a soft brush, especially at night. Go to bed with the teeth clean. Of course, to have white teeth it is needful to let tobacco alone. Every woman knows that. And any powder or wash for the teeth should be very simple. Acids may whiten the teeth, but they take off the enamel or injure it.

Sleep in a cool room, in pure air. No one can have a clean skin who breathes bad air. But, more than all in order to look well, wake up the mind and soul. When the mind is awake, the dull sleepy look passes away from the eyes. I do not know that the brain expands, but it seems to. Think, read—not trashy novels, but books that have something in them. Talk with people who know something; hear lectures and learn by them.

This is one good of preaching. A man thinks and works, and tells us the result. And, if we listen, and hear, and understand, the mind and soul are waked up. If the spiritual nature is aroused, so much the better.

We have seen a plain face really glorified by the love of God and man which shone through it. Let us grow handsome.

Men say that can't afford books, and sometimes they don't even pay for their newspaper. In that case it does them little good, they must feel so mean while they are reading it.

But men can afford what they really choose. If all the money spent in self-indulgence, in hurtful indulgence, was spent in books, in self-improvement, we should see a change. Men would grow handsome, and women too. The soul would shine out through the eyes. We were not meant to be mere animals.

Let us have books and read them, and lectures and hear them, and sermons and heed them.—Selected.

TOBACCO A POISON.

Science says tobacco is a poison, a rank poison, as really a poison as ratsbane, Prussic acid, or any other deadly thing, which takes the name.

The Journal of Health says, tobacco is an absolute poison; a small quantity of which has been known to extinguish life very suddenly.

Rees' Cyclopedia says, a drop or two of the oil, placed on the tongue of a cat, produces convulsions and death in the space of a minute,

A college of physicians has said that not less than twenty thousand in our land annually die by the use of this poison.

A German periodical says, that of twenty deaths of men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five, one-half originate in the waste of the constitution by smoking. The same periodical says, tobacco burns out the blood, the teeth, the eyes, the brains.

Dr. Shaw names some eighty diseases, and says they may be attributed to tobacco.

Governor Sullivan says, "My brother, Gen. Sullivan, used snuff, and his snuff lodged him prematurely in the grave."

The French poet Santeuil, was killed by a little snuff being thrown into his wine-glass, at the Prince of Condé's table.

Bocarme, of Belgium, was murdered in two minutes and a half, by a little nicotine, or alkali of tobacco.

Dr. Twitchell believed that sudden deaths and tobacco, among men, were usually found together, and he sustained this opinion by an array of facts altogether conclusive.

Esq. McGill, of Covington, Ky., died recently of delirium tremens, from the excessive use of tobacco and coffee. Esq. McGill was a distinguished lawyer, a professor of religion, active in the cause of benevolence, and highly respected.

Three young men formed a smoking club, and they all died within two years of the time they formed it. The doctor was asked what they died of. He said they were smoked to death.

A little boy died in Bangor, Me., from the effects of using an old tobacco-pipe to blow soap-bubbles with. He was poisoned with the essential oil of tobacco, imbibed from the pipe.

A boy named West, residing in Swansey, picked up a piece of cigar in the road, and putting it in a pipe, smoked it; in consequence of which he was taken suddenly ill, fell into a state of insensibility, and died in a few hours. —George Trask.

THE SPARE BED.

The spare bed is generally to be found in some out-of-the-way-corner, or place, the farthest removed from fire, or the room occupied by the family; and once made up, clean and nice, is seldom touched or aired for weeks or months together; and, as a matter of course, it gathers dampness to that extent that one can almost wring water from it. And not only is the bed itself damp and unfit for any one to occupy, but the room that the bed occupies is quite as bad, the whole atmosphere being perfectly dead, and as unfit for the lungs, as rotten food, or food that has once served its purpose in the system is for the stomach. This is, indeed, a strong comparison, yet it is true; for the lungs sustain as intimate a relation to life and health as the stomach; and it is just as necessary that the lungs should be fed with their own proper food, fresh, pure air, as that the stomach should have healthy, nourishing food in order to the sustaining and building up of the body.

To sleep in such a bed as this, is out of the question. What is to be done? One would not wish to complain to the good woman of the house; neither can one take a blanket and go to the barn and sleep. Well, we will open the window and shutters, throw off the feather beds and pillows, and, having put underneath us the garments worn through the day, and a blanket over us, do what we can at resting—and a poor rest it is, indeed. Much could be said; and there is certainly great need of reform in this matter.—Health Reformer.

A DISINFECTANT WORTH KNOWING.—Very few persons are aware that coffee is a valuable disinfectant. Experiments, however, have proved that it is the most powerful means not only of rendering animal and vegetable effluvia innocuous, but of actually destroying them. A room in which meat in an advanced state of decomposition had been kept for some time, was instantly deprived of all smell on an open coffee roaster being carried through it, containing a pound of coffee newly roasted. In another room, exposed to the effluvium occasioned by the clearing of a manure pit, so that sulphurated hydrogen and ammonia in great quantities, could be chemically detected, the stench was completely removed in half a minute, on the employment of three ounces of fresh roasted coffee, while the other parts of the house were permanently cleared of the same smell by being simply traversed with the coffee roaster, although the cleansing of the pit continued for several hours after. The best mode of using the coffee as a disinfectant is to dry the raw bean, pound it in a mortar, and then roast the powder on a moderately heated iron plate, until it assumes a dark brown tint, when it is fit for use. Then sprinkle it in sinks of cesspools, or lay it on a plate in the room which you wish to have purified. Coffee acid or coffee oil acts more readily in minute quantities.

KEEPING FRUIT IN OUR ROOMS.—We should be chary of keeping ripe fruit in our sitting-rooms, and especially beware of laying it about a sick chamber for any length of time. That complaint which some people make about a faint sensation in the presence of fruit is not fanciful; they may be really affected by it. For two continental chemists have shown that, from the moment of plucking apples, cherries, currants, and other fruits are subject to incessant transformation. At first they absorb oxygen, thus robbing the surrounding air of its vital element; then they evolve carbonic acid, and this in far greater volume than the purer gas is absorbed, so that we have poison given us in the place of pure air, with compound interest. Temperature affects the rate of change, warmth accelerating it.—Ex.

CURE FOR CANCER.—A Portland man has cured one of the most dangerous cases of cancer by drinking red clover tea, and applying red clover compress, and thinks it will prove an infallible remedy in all cases.

HIGH-HEELED SHOES.—Reports of ladies under the surgeon's care for injury to the feet, caused by wearing high-heeled shoes are becoming very common throughout the country.

EARACHE.—Take a bit of cotton batting, put upon it a pinch of black pepper, gather it up, and tie it, dip in sweet oil, and insert it in the ear. Put a flannel bandage over the head to keep it warm.

CARE OF THE EYES.—Looking into a fire is very injurious to the eyes, particularly a coal fire. The stimulus of light and eat united destroys the eyes.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.
TERMS.
If paid in advance.................$2.50 a year
Five copies six months to one address. $9.00
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address. $10.00
Same rate for any number over ten.
CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.
POSTAGE.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cts. a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.
RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.
Over all matters not intended for publication write—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write—BUSINESS.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed, and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to
MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.
PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM.
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.
TERMS.
PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.
Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate for any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 765. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 15, 1870. VOL. XXXI.—NO. 13.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
160 HANOVER ST., } CORNER OF SALEM STREET.
BOSTON, Mass. } (☞ Entrance No. 7 Salem St.)

MILES GRANT, EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
D. MATHEWSON, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, H. H. DICKENSON.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

THE BRIDEGROOM AND THE BRIDE.

The day is breaking, longing soul,
And night's dark shades do flee;
Soon shall I drink of the new wine,
O, ransom'd soul, with thee.
'T is as new wine for me to hear
That night's dark shades do flee,
And that I soon shall drink thy wine
Unmingled, Lord, with thee.

Until the day in glory break,
And night's dark shades depart,
On mount of myrrh I'll dwell with thee,
And never from thee part.
Until the day in glory break,
And night's dark shades depart,
O cause me to abide with thee,
And fix my wandering heart.

As Sun of Righteousness I come
To make earth's darkness flee,
But in the Father's house our home
Shall be eternally.
Until in glory thou shalt come,
And all thy saints with thee,
As ivy to the wall shall cling
My waiting soul to thee.

"I WILL COME AGAIN."—John 14.

Nothing is more prominently brought forward in the New Testament than the second coming of the Lord Jesus Christ. This was the first comfort of the angels to the sorrowing disciples: "This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." Acts 1: 2. And if you turn to the first of Thessalonians you will find it presented in the end of every chapter as a common doctrine.

It was not at all a strange thing—immediately after conversion to the living God—"to wait for his Son from heaven, even Jesus, who delivered us from the wrath to come." Again, in Hebrews we read that "He appeared once in the end of the world, to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself. . . . and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation." In the second of Thessalonians it is presented in the way of warning, as well as the object of the blessed hope of the saints: "For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night. For when they shall say, Peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child, and they shall not escape."

From this we see the amazing difference between the coming of Christ for this world, and for those who trust in him. To the world he comes as a judge of both quick and dead (see Malachi); but in this 14th of John we find a wonderful difference in the whole principle and spirit of a believer's expectation of Christ. "Behold, he cometh with clouds, and every eye shall see him, and they also who pierced him; and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him." Rev. 1. "But who may abide the day of his coming? and who shall stand when he appeareth?" Mal. 3.

Dear reader, let me ask you, Can you stand before him at that day? Do you think that you would have confidence before him at his coming? Could you say, "Lo this is our God, we have waited for him?" This is he whom I have loved and longed for? Men always judge according to what is suited to themselves. In 1 Thess. it is said, "So shall we be ever with the Lord." Now, are you suited to be ever with the Lord? Have you this confidence? If it is founded on anything good in yourself it is a vain ground of confidence. Peter, as soon as he found himself in the presence of the Lord, felt that he was not suited for the Lord. I am too corrupt, he said. This was a true judgment of Peter; and love for the dignity of the Lord and for holiness. If you are content that holiness should be lowered that you may get off, you do not care for holiness, though you do for getting off. The moment I have seen the holiness of the Lord, and that happiness is in holiness, there is the immediate feeling of my unfitness for that holiness; though there may be the longing for it, which the Lord will doubtless in mercy answer.

Two things are needed thus to meet the Lord. First, the conscience must be right. I may have the kindest father, yet if my conscience is not right, I cannot be glad to meet him. And, secondly, affections must be there—the Lord must be my portion. If my heart is on literature, or on any thing else here, I shall not like to be where Jesus is. I shall rather be here for a time. If you like the world you are fit for the world. Heaven is just the contrary, and you know it; and therefore you do not want to go there, because it would take you from being here in the world. There is the comfort of the gospel. It did bring down to men's consciences all that could attract to God. But, alas! men no more desired the Lord's company here, than they do there. The coming and rejection of Christ here is the plain proof that the world is not fit for him, and he not fit for them.

But now turn to our chapter. We find persons here the opposite of all that is in the world. "Let not your heart be troubled." About what? His leaving them. Their happiness, comfort, and joy was in having Christ with them. But now he says, I am going, but I am not going to be happy without you. There is plenty of room for you. The thing with which he at once comforts their hearts is this, "I'll come again." I cannot stay down here in this vile place, I'm going to prepare a place for you, but I'll come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also. The Lord reckons on this satisfying their hearts; and their consciences did not hinder. "The Father's house!" Oh! they could go there. "I will receive you unto myself." He knew the chord that rung in their hearts; to be with himself, the source of all blessing. Thus we get the character of these disciples; they were persons whom the absence of Jesus distressed, and whom the presence of Jesus would comfort, not here, but with himself.

There we find what begot this character. It was all founded on his own word. We do not care for what does not concern us. But as soon we see a thing that concerns us, it becomes important; and then we want certainty. Now it is very blessed to have God's own word for the basis of our certainty.

For instance, I am a sinner—how then can I get into the Father's house? Because God has said, "Their sins and iniquities I will remember no more." Well, God is true, and he will not remember them. Do you say I am presumptuous to say so? I do not say so, God says so. And again in John 5: 24, "He that heareth my word and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation." And John 3: 33, "He that hath received his testimony hath set to his seal that God is true." Thus when the power of the Spirit brings home the word, I have certainty. Faith is in the word, but it is about something. Christ is presented, and man is brought to the test. People always judge by their inclination, and not by their reasoning. Now the effect of the testimony of the Spirit of God when Christ is revealed, is that men are not fit for him, and their hearts do not like to be with him.

These disciples had loved the Lord. Christ had attraction for their hearts. There, at once, we see the object or their hearts' affections. Christ had fixed their hearts. Take Mary Magdalene, for instance. She was all wrong in her intelligence, yet Christ had attraction for her heart. So with the rest of the disciples. They all ran away for fear; but it was love to Christ that brought them into the place of fear. Thus we see that Christ himself was the object of their hearts. They were the companions of Christ—all fear being gone—according to his love and grace. "Ye are they" he said, "who have continued with me in my temptations." Why? He had continued with them; but he speaks as if indebted to them for this fellowship. And being in companionship with Christ in heart, he brings them into all the joy into which he is going—nothing less than the Father's house. What attracts is found in Christ, and then it gets from him the certain assurance that he is coming—and coming for me. Now when the heart is on Christ, what a thing it is to know that he is coming. Am I afraid? No, I am looking for him. And it is to his Father's house he is to bring me. All that makes heaven a home to Christ, will make it a home to me. O come, Lord Jesus. If I have learned to love Christ, I have learned to love holiness, to love God. God in Christ, has brought down to my soul all that God is. What shall I get in heaven? Another Christ? Another God? No. It is the one we have seen and known. Whither I go ye know. I am going to the Father, and you have seen the Father in me.

Ah! but he has not given up his holiness, perhaps you reply? No, indeed, he has not. But Jesus knew all that is needed for me to be with him. And if he will make the heart to love, he will put the conscience perfectly at rest, that I may love him. Will he do that by dulling it? No. He will do something that will enable me to stand in the presence of God, in whose presence I am to find my joy. He reveals fully God in his holiness, and takes away the sin that would hinder my being in the presence of that holiness. And not only does he put sin away, but he purges the conscience here, so that I am enabled to enjoy God, in full, free, affection. Nothing is more attractive than the death of Christ; but besides that, it puts away the sin of which I was guilty: an act in which I had no part, an act the proof of perfect love, while it meets perfect righteousness. I had done the sins, and I could not undo them. Jesus said to Peter, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me." That touched Peter's heart. If you are not cleansed according to my cleansing, according to what suits God's presence, you have no part with me. O what a comfort! Instead of saying, Depart from me, Jesus said, "Now you are clean." And in Peter we see the proof of a good conscience. He said to the Jews, Ye denied the Holy One and the Just, the very thing he himself had done, fifty days before. Now a man will talk of every sin but that he is guilty of; he will shirk that. But here Peter was in perfect peace about the very sin he was guilty of. His conscience was perfectly purged.

The happiness of the heart that is touched, is to be with Christ; and conscience is purged for being in his presence. Between the Lord's saying this, and coming for them, he had put away sin from God's sight, and from their conscience. "I will come again, and take you unto myself, etc, and whither I go ye know." There is no uncertainty. We know where we are going to. The soul has found fully the object that has set it at rest, and that will satisfy it there without fear.

Could the Lord thus address you? Could you say, O that is what I am wanting? Or are you saying I've got here what I would like to enjoy? Is that being a christian? A christian may vary in strength of affection, never in object. I am sure I do not love the Lord enough, but I am sure it is the Lord I love. I have no confidence in my own heart, but all confidence in him. He has died for me; that is what I count on: he has put away my sins; that is what I need; he is coming again; that is what I am longing for.

Dear reader, let me ask you, was it ever a trouble to you that you had not Christ? Do you know where you are going? It may be you have hope; but have you certainty? Now we, christians, have; for Christ is known, and when he is known there is perfect rest in his word. "I will come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also." Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus.—Girdle of Truth.

CHRISTIAN UNION.*

Dear Brethren of the Advent Christian Conference of North America:—

The objects which have called us together, viewed from a gospel stand-point, are preeminently important, and worthy of the most devout and prayerful consideration of the friends of Jesus. When men engage in any work, the first great questions to be answered are,—What is necessary to be done? and, How shall it be accomplished? As servants of the Lord Jesus Christ, we must look to the gospel for the answer to these questions. The gospel answer is clear and emphatic. We are embassadors for Christ, and are therefore under obligation to attempt only what Christ has, by precept or example, authorized; and we are faithfully to do what he has commanded.

The work to be accomplished is the reconciliation of alienated man to God.

Reconciliation or unreconciliation imply association, in which there are parties united, or divided. In order to reconcile two parties alienated, it is necessary first to remove that which has destroyed harmony between them; for harmony in society can exist only where such principles prevail as will blend and unite together. The harmony of God's universe was broken when, by rebellion and sin, principles were introduced into the heavenly confederation of God's great family, antagonistic to the peaceful principles of the divine government; and the result was, the awful and perpetual discord and war which have already rolled their dark waves over uncounted millions of the universal brotherhood.

These principles are fundamental in the divine arrangement; which proves conclusively that the great essential element in the nature and constitution of all created beings is the social element. This principle is manifested prominently in Deity, and in all his creations down to the lowest reptiles that crawl upon his footstool. It is like a great planet in the midst of its satellites; as they revolve around it as its tributaries and dependencies, so do all other principles around the social principle, in all beings which God has made.

Love is its vitalizing power; through love it spreads and accomplishes its appointed work. When one begins to love another, the social principle immediately demands harmonious association with each other.

Law is the rule by which the acts of associated beings are governed; consequently law is entirely dependent upon association for its existence.

Justice is the balancing of associated acts, so that the act of one in an association shall exactly correspond to the act of another. If A taxes himself for the benefit of B, Justice says that B shall return an equivalent for it.

Righteousness is the principle which requires that every act of an associate be beneficial to all associated. Every act which is beneficial is right; and every act which is injurious is wrong. God's righteousness is perfect, but every act of his is in the highest degree beneficial to all associated with him; while Satan has no righteousness, because no act of his is beneficial to any associated being.

Mercy is that principle which will cause its possessor to voluntarily give to another unmerited favors.

Peace is that principle which will cause all in an association to acquiesce in the acts of all its members.

These great principles are made prominent and fundamental in the divine economy connected with the history of man. They are all dependent upon association for their existence, and cannot exist except in a latent state, until they are developed in social life.

If the position I have taken is correct, the subject is one of the most deeply interesting and infinitely important that mortals ever contemplated. Its truthfulness may be seen and read in every creature and object that God has introduced upon the stage of being, and in every sentence and idea that he has caused to be uttered. It was seen as a golden chain encircling and holding together, in one glorious harmony, the Creator and the vast regions and multitudes of the created.

As the first sweet morning of rest waves its mantle of light over the new and unmarred creation, the whole organized family of created beings arise in grand concert and divine harmony to worship the great head and Centre of the universe. Then all creation, animate and inanimate, unite to honor and praise the great Jehovah, in one all-inspiring strain of social adoration. See the admiring angels waiting in joyful suspense for the matchless scene to commence. Behold the waving light pouring forth from the glorious galaxy, while the morning stars, blending in sweetest melody, peal forth the celestial anthem. Hark to the swelling notes of answering harmony, breathed in concert by the sons of God, as they roll from the newly built orchestra and mingle in the chorus of universal praise to the God and Father of all. The earth, having wheeled into line, is found in perfect harmony with her sister planets, each moved by the same signals, and keeping time to the same music. Its moving, animated host, on that glorious morning, are not molested in their sweet rest and heavenly devotion. No thunder or earthquake disturbs them. No growl of the lion nor screech of the owl makes the innocent tremble. No midnight plottings of the Inquisition, no stealthy footsteps of the assassin nor thundering tramp of the warrior break the sweet devotions of the sacred hour.

But oh, the change, the terrible change, which has come over our once peaceful and harmonious world! No pencil can paint it; no tongue describe it; no emotion realize it. Angels retire in mournful silence, in view of it. They gladly would restore all things, but are powerless to do it. All heaven is moved with sympathy, as the piercing groan of creation sounds forth from the dark abyss of anarchy and confusion.

But the mighty deed is done. Rebellion and sin, principles antagonistic to the divine government, have destroyed the harmony of creation and brought strife, war and death into God's peaceful doninions. Is this warfare to continue forever? Shall the elements of this world ever again find their equilibrium, and rest in undisturbed harmony, as on their birthday? Shall human society ever be so elevated and restored as to be in harmony with God and at peace with itself? Yes. God has given the glorious assurance that the work of restoring peace and harmony in the universe shall be accomplished by Jesus Christ.

God gave the promise that Christ should destroy the works of the devil; he will therefore reverse the action and change the result. Satan brought rebellion; Christ will bring peace. Satan brought war; Christ will bring peace. Satan brought death; Christ will bring life. Satan brought the curse; Christ will bring the blessing, even the glorious restitution of all things.

As Satan first disturbed the harmony of human society by sin, so Christ will restore it by holiness.

Man was evidently designed by his Creator to occupy a high and glorious position in the world. God gave him rich endowments and great ability, elevating him to the most intimate and personal association with his Creator.

To show the intimate relations which the Creator evidently designed should exist between the different members of human society, God created the man a unit, and endowed him with certain principles and qualities, making him perfect in his place. Then the Creator threw the man into a deep sleep, or unconscious state, when he divided him, and, from a part of the man, made his first associate and companion. Thus was formed the first human society, with nothing to produce jealousy or strife by any argument of difference between them; for both had the same Creator, were made of the same material, had one body, one life, one heart, and sustained an indivisible relation to God and all his creation.

In the partition of man, God expressed the leading principle which caused him to perform the wonderful act when he said, "It is not good that the man should be alone." God had created a multitude of creatures, but no one of them all, excepting man, was found alone. All, excepting man, were enjoying the great blessing for which they were made—the society of beings of their own kind and grade.

God having first created human society a unit, in which there could have been no difference or distinction in their physical, moral and intellectual natures, and having made the partition (without a change of nature) only to introduce for humanity the social blessing, he did clearly and positively show that his design was to establish equality as a base for love, union and harmony in human society. If the partition of the first man did not change the nature of the parts, but each continued to possess all that the first enjoyed, then it will follow that in natural generation, equality between each succeeding generation will be perpetuated; for natural generation is simply a process of partition. Christ was a part or off-shoot of Abraham's and David's flesh, or body, so that he was entitled to all that God had given or promised to them. The first man lost his heirship to the kingdom which God had given him, by his personal transgression; therefore no heirship to the kingdom of God could be extracted from him by natural generation or birth, after he had lost it. See 1 Cor. 15: 50.

Viewing the subject from this stand-point, it appears that Christ, in restoring human society to its original status, will labor to break down all distinctions, gradations and partiality among men, so that in him there may be "neither Jew nor Greek," "male nor female," that all may be "one in Christ Jesus."

This glorious oneness is produced by all believers being born of or extracted from Christ as their second Father; for by faith we become "members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones." As the first father fell into a deep sleep that he might produce a numerous family, so Christ fell into the deep sleep of death, that he might produce a holy seed or family, a royal nation or loyal people.

The divine plan was evidently so arranged as to equalize the position and condition of all its members, so that no strife or contention about superiority and special privileges should ever exist. But sin produced a radical change through all the ranks of fallen beings, and division, strife and war arose and marched in terrible triumph over our world, putting to flight harmony and peace everywhere. Then among angels and men viewing and suffering these scenes of woe and mortal strife, the anxious inquiry arose, shall this anarchy, sorrow and desolation, continue through all coming ages? Is there any way by which peace can be restored? Can the marred and deranged social element ever again be brought back to its central position around which will revolve, in glorious God-like harmony, all parts and beings of the universe, through the endless ages of coming glory? Is there any being in heaven or earth sufficiently wise and powerful to undertake the mighty work of subduing the vast armies of rebellion, and restoring this revolted world in triumph to the divine government and to righteousness and peace? Is it possible that a pure language can again be spoken, and perfect harmony be established in such a Babel as this?

An answering voice sounds forth from the throne of Omnipotence, saying, Yea, verily! while amidst the heavenly host is seen a glorious Mighty One, upon whom the divine eye rests with pleasure, who volunteers to undertake the mighty work. God gives the most positive assurance to the world that the glorious work shall be accomplished, and he promises his Son Jesus Christ wisdom and power by which to subdue all enemies under his feet.

(To be continued.)

* A tract of 30 pp., by Eld. J. Couch, being an Address delivered before the National Advent Conference of North America, at Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 1869. For sale at this office.

For the World's Crisis.

"HOW IS THIS?"

The above inquiry is made by a correspondent, in a number of the Crisis published June 1st, in relation to a reported sermon of the Rev. Geo. P. Hepworth, pastor of the church of the Messiah, New York, in which he says:

"Some passages, both in the New Testament and the Old, are so badly translated as to wholly mislead the reader; while many interpolations were made in the heat of theological controversy on which to found a dogma."

"Again, after referring to the heavenly witnesses spoken of in 1 John 5: 7, he quotes the following: 'And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God.' Give this text its true translation, and behold what a beauteous light is shed over its meaning: 'And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet without my flesh shall I see God.' Here at once is beheld the distinction between mind and matter, and the glorious assurance that though this body be laid in the grave and perish, yet the soul shall live and look upon its God. For this and a thousand other reasons, the world should be given a new translation."

The correspondent then inquires, "If the Hebrew Scriptures any where affirm that men when dead can see God?" Although I do not lay claim to scholarship, yet I propose to offer a few suggestions, that may assist in giving a proper answer to the above inquiry. Public teachers are not only responsible to God, but also to their fellow men, for the principles they inculcate, and the doctrines they teach. They should be exceedingly careful how they lower the standard of God's word, or weaken its hold upon the community at large. Without the Bible we have no true standard of right and wrong; and the ever varying opinions of men would be quickly established in its stead. I shall not impeach the motives of the Rev. gentleman for giving utterance to the above remarks attributed to him, but briefly consider the teachings involved in them. I understand by the above extracts,

1. That there are many interpolations in our Bible, made knowingly, and purposely, on which to found dogmas.

2. That some passages, in both Testaments, are so badly translated as to wholly mislead the reader.

3. That the 25th, 26th and 27th verses of the 19th chapter of Job, when properly translated, teach that matter is distinct from mind; and the soul, at death, irrespective of a body, will continue to live, and look upon its God.

4. That a thousand reasons, besides these, demand that the world should be given a new translation.

If these charges against the Received Version are true, they certainly are great drawbacks to our faith; for one could never be assured, when reading the Bible, whether or not he were following the commands of God, or the precepts of men.

As our appeal for the truth of these charges must ultimately be made to history, we offer the following extracts from the Canon of the Holy Scriptures, by Prof. L. Gaussen, concerning the GENUINENESS OF THE TEXT.

"But a vital question meets us here: have we the genuine, original text? If we have not, the preservation of the names of the books is of no importance. For the last two centuries this question has been examined by men of critical science with herculean industry. Walton commenced this work in England by the preparation of his Polyglott in 1657, followed by Bishop Fell's Greek Testament in 1675, that of Mill in 1707, and of Bently in 1716. The task was undertaken to find all the manuscripts of the Greek Testament concealed in the libraries of Europe, and to compare them together. The effort startled the world. It was feared that it would result in diminishing men's confidence in the Scriptures. The Germans followed the English, and surpassed them in the vastness of their researches. We know that Griesbach alone in 1786 had compared 335 Greek manuscripts of the Gospel, and Scholz, five years later, 674, besides 200 of the Acts, 256 of the epistles of Paul, 93 of the Apocalypse, and still others of the Catholic epistles."

"In our 'Theophneusty' we have said: 'When it is remembered that the New Testament has been copied in every Christian country, and in every variety of circumstances, during a succession of fourteen hundred years; that it has passed through three centuries of pagan persecutions, in which men convicted of possessing it were thrown to wild beasts; that in the second, third, and fourth centuries, false books were multiplied in every direction; in the eighth, ninth, and tenth, false legends and false histories were made; in the tenth and eleventh, so few could read, even among the princes; in the twelfth and thirteenth, the use of the Scriptures in the vernacular was punished with death, and to promote error the writings of the Fathers and decrees of councils were altered; when it is remembered that the learned, not contented with the public and private libraries of the west, went to search even the convents of Mount Athos, of Asiatic Turkey, and of Egypt; . . . then it may be understood how at the beginning of these researches the friends of the sacred Word were alarmed for the integrity of our Scriptures.'"

"But what in fact has been the result? It is, that, on the contrary, by this gigantic labor, in which so many distinguished men have spent their lives, a new proof, striking and unexpected, has been furnished the world, of the Providence which watches over the oracles of God, throughout every age. The text has been found purer and better attested than the most pious men dared to believe. From this mass of thirteen or fifteen hundred Greek manuscripts, sought out in all the libraries of Europe and Asia, carefully compared together, word for word, letter by letter, by modern criticism, and compared also with all the ancient versions, Latin, Armenian, Syriac, Sahidic, Coptic, Ethiopic, Arabic, Sclavonic, Gothic, and Persian, as with all the quotations from the New Testament by the Fathers in their innumerable writings,—from this mass, we say, and from the gigantic labor, the enemies, astonished and confounded, have seen sacred criticism return covered with the dust of a thousand libraries, but unable after all to present the world any thing more than a trivial and valueless result; trivial, we say, with them; but we will say, with the friends of the Bible, immense in its nothingness, and mighty in its very insignificance."

"In fact, all the hopes of the enemies of religion from this quarter are confounded; and as Michaelis remarks: 'They have ceased now to hope for any thing from those critical researches which they so earnestly recommended at first.' And such, henceforth, has been the complete preservation of our Scriptures, that, to this hour, and everywhere, you shall see all the Christian sects, however opposed to each other, give us the same Greek New Testament, without even having founded one single school on the variations. In fact, all, Jesuits, ministers, popes, cardinals, pastors, or archimandrites; at Rome, as at Geneva, at Moscow as at Cambridge or Berlin, use the same manuscripts, quote the same editions, and produce the same texts, Griesbach and Scholz, Lachmann, Tregelles, and Tischendorf."

"In a word, in the 7959 verses of the New Testament there are but ten or twelve in which all the corrections proposed by Griesbach and so many others, at the end of their immense researches, have any importance. And eight of these corrections pertain to either single words or single letters. Such, therefore, has been the astonishing preservation of our sacred text through such a series of ages; such is the testimony of the manuscripts; and it is thus that science, which has collected them, has brought to our view a magnificent monument of Providence ever actively watching over the Scriptures."

These quotations must suffice for the New Testament; but the testimony of the same learned author is no less explicit, and equally conclusive, concerning the text of the Old Testament.

He says: "There is in the history of Israel a fact no less wonderful than that of the preservation of their race for more than three thousand years in the midst of other nations like one family, unmixed and imperishable. The fact is, the perfect and constant conservation of their canon for thirty-three and a half centuries. We behold among this incomparable people, from the days of Moses to the present time, notwithstanding all their wanderings and terrible sufferings, a constant unanimity in recognizing, without variation, the sacred collection of the Scriptures while it was being formed, and the whole volume since it was completed thirty-three hundred years ago."

"This canon, which our Bibles divide into thirty-nine books, but the Jews into twenty-two, in order to correspond with their twenty-two letters, as the Fathers did after them, this volume, we say, finished four hundred years before Jesus Christ was born, has never ceased from that time to be read in all their synagogues throughout the earth as the 'book of God.' The nation of Israel, before their final dispersion, was already scattered into every known country. James, speaking of the Gentiles, says: 'Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him.' Acts 15: 21. Josephus says: 'There is not a Grecian city and scarcely a barbarian city in which the rest of the Sabbath is not observed through the influence of the Jews.'

"Now, that all the Israelites received the same canon of the Scriptures with the most perfect unanimity, is a fact abundantly testified by the Jews of the apostles' time: Philo in Egypt, Josephus in Egypt and at Rome. And it is, moreover, another fact universally admitted, that, very long before the apostolical period, the Old Testament, both in Hebrew and in Greek, existed with its twenty-two books as we now possess them. The testimony of Josephus is worthy of notice here, for this historian was only thirty years old at the death of Paul. He says to Apion: 'Nothing can be better attested than the writings authorized among us. Indeed, they could not be subject to any discord; for only that which the prophets wrote ages ago is approved among us, taught as they were by the very inspiration of God.' 'We then avoid among us, as the Greeks have, a great number of books which are discordant and opposed to each other; we have only twenty-two which contain all that has passed among us, and which may reasonably be believed. Five are of Moses.' 'The prophets after Moses wrote thirteen other books describing what occurred after the death of Artaxerxes; . . . while the four other books contain hymns for the praise of God, and precepts to regulate our conduct.' 'They also wrote what has taken place from Artaxerxes to our day; but because there was not the exact succession of prophets as before, these have not been received with the same faith as the former.' 'Now, it appears from the facts how far we have believed in our own Scriptures; for, although already so many ages have passed, no one has ever dared either to remove, or add, or transpose any thing. And it is for all the Jews as a thought born with them from the first generation, to call them 'the teaching of God,' to abide in them, and, if necessary, to die with joy to maintain them.'"
. . . "And what Josephus said eighteen centuries ago, we may say now of the Jews, ever since the destruction of Jerusalem."

From these historic testimonies, and many more that might be adduced from undoubted authority, may be seen what little credence should be given to the loose statements made by popular preachers concerning the "many interpolations" contained in our Bible; which statements tend to bring darkness, doubt and death to the mind of the believer, instead of thoroughly furnishing him unto all good works.

In regard to the second charge, the true question is not, whether we have a perfect translation,—for all the works of man are imperfect,—but whether, under all the circumstances, amid the multiplicity of creeds, doctrines, and opinions that prevail in these latter days, men would give us a better translation than the one we already possess. Let us briefly examine this question.

"In 1611, the first edition of the authorized version was published in one large black-letter folio, 'Imprinted at London, by Robert Barker.' "Dr. Smith says in his preface: 'Truly we never thought from the beginning that we should need to make a new translation, nor yet to make a bad one a good one; but to make a good one better, or out of many good ones one principal good one, not justly to be excepted against—that hath been our endeavor, that our mark.' . . . 'Neither did we run over the work with that posting haste that the Septuagint did, if that be true which is reported of them, that they finished it in seventy-two days; neither were we barred or hindered from going over it again, having once done it. . . . None of these things; the work hath not been huddled up in seventy-two days, but hath cost the workmen the pains of twice seven times seventy-two days, and more.' The entire time spent upon it was about seven years. Three years, 1604–1607, were occupied in preliminary arrangements, and individual investigation on the part of the fifty-four scholars nominated, and numerous others whom they consulted.

"Three years more were occupied in the systematic and united work of the six classes; then the whole class met, and, after calm and thorough revision, adopted a common text; then that text was transmitted in succession to each of the other classes for revision; then a text of the whole Bible, appropriated by the entire six classes, was submitted to the final revision of six elected delegates, with six consulting assistants, and their approved manuscript was placed in the skillful hands of Dr. Smith, finally to examine and prepare it for the press. . . . It is the result of a century of toil and study. About the year 1511, Tyndal appears to have seriously turned his thoughts to the translation of the Scriptures; in the year 1611 the Authorized Version was published. During the interval the work not only occupied the attention of the ripest scholars in England, but it was aided, directly or indirectly, by the most accomplished Biblical critics in Europe. It is in no respect sectarian. It has seized and appropriated all that is best and purest, wherever its source. Its history, when known, cannot fail to infuse into the mind a deeper veneration for it, and a fuller confidence in its faithfulness.

"The Authorized Version has been examined by the ablest scholars and critics in this and other lands, and all have combined in bearing testimony to its general faithfulness, and extraordinary force and beauty. 'The style of our present version,' says Bishop Middleton, is 'incomparably superior to any thing which might be expected from the finical and perverted style of our age. It is simple, it is harmonious, it is energetic.' It has drawn forth glowing panegyrics even from Roman Catholic divines. Geddes thus writes: 'The highest eulogiums have been pronounced on the translation of James I., both by our own writers and by foreigners; and indeed if accuracy, fidelity, and the strictest attention to the letter of the text be supposed to constitute the qualities of an excellent version, this, of all versions, must in general be accounted the most excellent. Every word, every syllable, every letter and point, seem to have been weighed with the nicest exactitude, and expressed, either in the text, or margin, with the greatest precision.'"

In the light of these testimonies, is it reasonable to believe that there are passages, "both in the New Testament and the Old, so badly translated as to wholly mislead the reader"?

Having shown that we have a pure text and a faithful translation, we will now consider the criticism of Mr. Hepworth, of Job 19: 26.

1. In regard to the translation.
2. The doctrine which it teaches.

1. The Authorized Version reads thus: 'And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God.' Or, as it reads in the margin: 'After I shall awake, though this body be destroyed, yet out of my flesh shall I see God." This is one of the passages, undoubtedly, which Mr. H. would have us believe is "so badly translated as wholly to mislead the reader." For he gives us its "true translation," and exclaims, "What a beauteous light is shed over its meaning!" His translation is as follows: "And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet without my flesh shall I see God."

Now after a careful comparison of these translations, I appeal to intelligent readers to say which of them sheds the most light? Whatever new light is shed by Mr. K.'s translation must proceed from the preposition "without," and, wherein that word differs from "out of," as contained in the marginal reading of our Bible, I leave lexicographers to decide.

2. As to the doctrine of this text, does it, as Mr. H. asserts, teach the "distinction between mind and matter!" or, that the soul can live, see and enjoy God, as well without a body as with one? If so, according to what rules of interpretation is such a result arrived at? Certainly, the subject under discussion, in the 19th chapter of Job, is not concerning "mind and matter"; but, rather, concerning Job's great affliction. Job was a just man, and feared God; but Satan denied that he served God out of proper motives. Hence, God gave him into the hand of Satan, to afflict and try him. His three friends came to comfort him: but instead of offering words of consolation, they accused him of impiety towards God. Thereupon, Job, after recounting a long catalogue of his trials and sufferings, craves the pity of his friends, and declares his firm conviction that ample justice would be done him at the resurrection.

Job expected to see God; but he did not expect to see him previous to the resurrection. He expected to see him "out of" his flesh; or, if it suits any better, "without" any flesh; and this is in harmony with the apostle Paul's declaration: "Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption." 1 Cor. 15: 50.

The same apostle teaches that Job and all others will have bodies in the resurrection. In reply to the question, "How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come?" he replies: "That which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die: and that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or some other grain: but God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body. . . . It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body. . . Howbeit that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterwards that which is spiritual."—1 Cor. 15.

Our blessed Savior ascended to heaven in a body; and he will return to earth in a body, to judge the world and raise the dead. And, as believers will be like him, therefore they will have bodies. The apostle John says: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him."—1 John 3: 2.

Having already extended this article far beyond the limits I at first proposed for myself, I will conclude by saying that the "thousand and other reasons" why the world should have a new translation, not having been specified, can not be replied to.

JOHN A. KELLY.

Saco, Me., June 6th, 1870.

For the World's Crisis.

THE GLORY AND HONOR OF THE NATIONS.

O! how sublime in majesty is the picture drawn by the matchless pen, inspired on Patmos Isle. Before the eyes of assembled ages passes the panorama. "They shall bring the glory and the honor of the nations into it,"—into the city, whose temple is the eternal God, the author of love and life, the former of every living thing; the designer and fulness of heaven and earth, and the Lamb who is the "brightness of his Father's glory; the express image of his person."

Into this city, whose streets are gold, whose walls are jasper, whose temple is God, whose gates are open wide, where the river of life ever flows, and the tree of life blooms, passes a procession. It is the march of perfected riches and glory, honor and thanksgiving, from the first dawn, when the morning stars sang together, until that day of days, when He whose right it is shall reign, Prince of the kings of the earth; when she who wearily trod earth's sin-stained courts, shall have been made ready, to shine as the brightness of the firmament,—the church, the bride of Him who created all things unto praise and glory and honor.

Is it possible to conceive of the immensity of that glory and honor of which we see but the foreshadowings? Ah! it seems as though the present age was but an assemblage of the past. Well may the angel, having the everlasting gospel, now fly quickly. The harvest so rich, is ripening fast.. Let us be glad and rejoice. Lo! the winter is over and gone, the night of death and bondage past. The time of singing and rejoicing has come. Blessing, and honor, and dominion, riches and thanksgiving, be unto Him who sitteth upon the throne, and to the Lamb forever! The nations of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord and his Christ, and he shall reign forever! "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man the things that God hath prepared for those who love him." "Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." "Let not your heart be troubled." Only fear God and keep his commandments, and in his house are the many mansions prepared to receive all who know him, who is the author and finisher of our faith, and whose purposes cannot fail.

O let us take heed to the lamp of life—the holy word—that we may walk in the light, and keep fast the wisdom which walketh not in darkness; so shall we please Him who formed us for himself, and for the city where there is no more death, nor sorrow, nor darkness; no more sin nor unloveliness, but the Mount Zion, the perfection of beauty. The Lord reigneth. Let the people rejoice.

Warner, N.H. P. M. EATON.

THE ADVANCE.—This excellent paper, which Henry Ward Beecher says is now "standing fairly on the highest ground yet reached by religious journals in America," is offered, to the public for one dollar, from June until January next. To all who would be glad to try The Advance, an excellent opportunity is thus offered. Address The Advance Co., Chicago.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, June 15, 1870.

Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

Money Orders.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

N. McCULLOCK—Money received.

OCTAVIA HILL—Please give your P. O. address.

MARY HARPER—Please give us your P. O. address.

D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

BRO. T. M. PREBLE having removed from Lynn, his P. O. address for a short time will be Chelsea, Mass., care of E. G. Kingsbury.

BRO. NATHAN WHEELER'S P. O. address is Sugar Hill, N. H.

L. C. & M. McKINSTRY'S address is Lake Village, N. H.

I. K. LOMBARD'S P. O. address is Chelsea, Mass.

BILLS! BILLS!!

There are many of our subscribers who are largely in arrears in their payments for the Crisis. To such we are now sending bills of their indebtedness. We hope to have a prompt response by the brethren and sisters sending in the amount due without delay.

AG'T.

TRACTS.

It is feared that but few of our readers are aware of the importance of the tract enterprise. It is a very effectual means of reaching those who do not have the privilege of hearing preaching; and it also opens the way for the preacher. Tracts are successful pioneers, an advance guard in the cause of the Lord; and the time has come when thousands upon thousands of them should be sent out on picket duty. Every advancing foe should receive them. Let the preacher go out loaded with them, to scatter in all directions. It is an economical, yet powerful means by which the enemies of truth may be conquered. Come, ye lovers of Jesus, who feel indebted to him for blessings received, please send a gift for this important work. Do. Will you?

A special effort should be made at once in this direction. There is no time for delay. The cry for light comes in with power. Help us to send out a shower of blessings among those who are hungering for the good things on which we are daily feasting. Is it not a duty that we owe to our friends and neighbors around us? Will the Lord say welcome, if we neglect to do what we can?

WESTERN TRIP.

We are now, June 6th, at the campmeeting, in Wis., at Prairie du Sac., on the banks of the Wisconsin river, twelve miles from Mazomania, and thirty-five miles from Madison. We left home, Tuesday morning, May 31st. Was four days and nights on the cars, and arrived all fresh, as when we started. We made a short call in Chicago, and learned that Bro. Ramsey's faithful and earnest labors are still blest, and that there is an increased interest among the people to hear about the blessed hope. It is purposed to have a tent meeting there, commencing the latter part of this month.

Our present campmeeting is in a very beautiful grove, that leads one to think of paradise. It has no underbrush, is shaded by young oaks, and all covered with clean grass. We have never seen before a grove of its size, that looked more inviting. It is about a quarter of a mile from the Wisconsin river, which affords a nice place for baptism. Bro. Sheldon's large tent is pitched in the middle of the circle, and several small tents are surrounding. We had three profitable meetings yesterday. A goodly number confessed the Savior. The prospect is quite encouraging. Bro. Sheldon and others have been instrumental in leading many from darkness to light, from error to truth, from Satan to Christ, in this state. We find some noble-hearted men and women, who truly love the appearing of Jesus; and are ready to make generous sacrifices to assist in spreading the truth.

Bro. Sheldon has been much benefited in his health by his eastern trip, and feels anxious to return and spend more time, where he can inhale the sea air. He will find a hearty welcome in New England should he visit there again.

It has been quite dry in the west, and the pastures present a very barren aspect. The corn and wheat look promising, but not extra. The fruit prospect is good. In New England we have rarely seen the apple, pear, and other fruit trees present a more promising appearance of an abundant fruit crop than at the time of their blossoming. Of course there is yet no certainty that the blossoms will produce nice, ripe fruit.

The Wis. State Conference is to hold its annual session at the camp-ground, Thursday, June 9th. We find the preaching brethren in the west are self-denying, cross-bearing men, who are willing to suffer reproach and hardships for the sake of advancing the cause of Christ. Indeed it is a poor place for drones, and such as would like to be gentlemen preachers, living in an easy chair; but there is a wide field for true men of God, who love sinners more than money, home-comfort or reputation. None others need to expect very much success.

ROME.

Things are progressing slowly at Rome. There is now a prospect that the "Infallibity Dogma" will be proclaimed June 29th, and then the council propose to have a vacation till Oct. 15th. It is said that "extensive preparations are being made to celebrate the occasion, and that the display of pomp and pageantry will surpass any demonstration of the kind ever witnessed in Europe."

After the Pope is declared infallible, we may expect to see a stir among the nations. Should they assent and submit to the Pope's assumed infalibility, then, of course, nothing is final in state or church unless sanctioned by his authority. To this the nations will not submit without a terrible struggle. In describing the last part of the history of the "little horn," just before it was "given to the burning flame," Daniel says: "I beheld because of the great words which the horn spake." Dan. 7: 11. This implies a proclamation containing "great words," that will go forth just before its overthrow. Let us watch!

TENT MEETING.

We purpose in the Lord to commence a tent-meeting at Clinton, Iowa, June 12th, to continue till the 26th inst. Bro. C. C. Ramsey is to be present to assist in preaching the word. Clinton is on the west bank of the Mississippi river, and is the residence of Bro. R. W. Wilson, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., who went to Florida as a missionary in company with Bro. P. A. Smith. It is through Bro. Wilson's influence that the meeting is to be held at Clinton. We hope for happy results.

NAPOLEON'S POLICY.

It has been known for some time that Napoleon has been preparing for a bold resistance against Prussia, whenever the time shall arrive to test the strength of the two nations. He has not forgotten, nor passed over the snub he received from Bismarck in 1866. In the Paris special news by the Am. Press. Association, we have the following:—

"The appointment of Duke de Grammont as Minister of Foreign Affairs, is accepted as a proof of the resolution of the Emperor Napoleon to adopt a strong anti-Prussian policy. It is reported that the Emperor has intimated to his Cabinet his determination to resist the further encroachments by Prussia in Germany, even at the risk of a war. These rumors create much excitement in the city, as it is believed the Emperor seeks to divert the attention of the people from the recent elections, by a display of the military power of the Empire."

The storm-clouds seem to be gathering, and when they break, a terrible scene must follow. All are watching the words and deeds of "the wonderful man," as beasts of the forest scan the movements of the king of lions. They hide in terror at the sound of his roar, and in his playful mood, watch him with trembling admiration. None dare make war with him, for they know their weakness when compared with his unsubdued strength. Thus the Emperor of France stands among the nations of the earth. Apparently he is seated firmer today upon the throne of France than ever before since he was proclaimed Emperor.

PARENTAL EXAMPLES.

But few parents are aware of the influence their example has upon their children. Parents should be like a perfect mirror, reflecting at all times the character they would have their children imitate. Many a mother is unconsciously ruining her children by her unchristian examples. Children learn in very early life to imitate the manners of their parents. As a general rule, our habits are formed much earlier than most suppose, and those formed in our earliest days are usually the hardest to break. The following illustrates the point:—

"Three little girls were playing among the poppies and sage brush of the back yard. Two of them were making believe to keep house, a little way apart, as near neighbors might. At last one of them was overheard saying to the youngest of the lot, 'There now, Nelly, you go over to Sarah's house, and stop there a little while, and talk as fast as you can, and then you come back and tell me what she says about me, and then I'll talk about her; and then you go and tell her all I say, and then we'll get as mad as hornets, and won't speak when we meet, just as our mother's do, you know; and that'll be such fun—won't it?' Hadn't these little mischiefs lived to some purpose? and were they not close observers and apt scholars, charmingly trained for the chief business of life in a small neighborhood."

For the World's Crisis.

"YE HAVE DONE IT UNTO ME."

Received from "L. H. A. M. E.," Bridgeport, Ct., $1.00; "J. B.," Peacedale, R. I., $1.15; Brooklyn, Ct., 95 cts.; "A Friend," Syracuse, $2.10; "A Friend," Worcester, Mass., $1.00; "A Friend," Richmond Corner, Me., $1.00; "Young Convert," $2.00.

To those who have given their name and address, I have acknowledged by private letter; and I thank these kind friends, one and all, and I verily believe that they will be abundantly rewarded.

Having been out of employment part of the time during the past winter, I could not avoid getting in debt; but it is all paid now, and I am truly thankful. "Remember me" in your prayers, that I may not fail to lay up treasure where moth and rust cannot corrupt. Very gratefully your Bro.,

Webster, Mass. F. H. CHAMBERLAIN.

For the World's Crisis.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—I would say to Miss Minnie A. Parmly: her box of books and dress goods for the Freedmen has been received and distributed among them at Coolwell, Amherst Co., Va. ROSETTA LANNING, Layton's Point, Sussex Co., N. J.

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."
By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

Sheldon's Four New Tracts.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

1. "LIFE AND DEATH THEOLOGY: or, The Scriptural Doctrine of 'Eternal Damnation' and 'Everlasting Punishment.'" Price 8 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 75 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $5.00 per hundred by express.

This work of forty-eight pages is the clearest and strongest document yet produced by Bro. Sheldon on this topic. It is just the thing to scatter among all classes.

2. IMMATERIALISM: or, The Doctrine of Soul-Immortality Refuted." Price 5 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $3.00 per hundred by express.

A tract of thirty-two pages, showing that fifteen cardinal errors spring out of the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and that those errors could not exist independent of that doctrine, thus showing it to be the main root of error. Let it be scattered widely.

3. "DEATH AND THE DEAD," 16 pages. Price 3 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1.50 per hundred by express. Just the thing to scatter everywhere.

4. "THE COMING JUDGMENT: Its Necessity and Result," Eight pages. 10 cts. per dozen, postpaid, or 75 cts. per hundred by express.

It will do much good. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY. By Elder James H. Whitmore. Published by the Western Advent Christian Association.

This little volume of 300 pages is a valuable contribution to the literature of the subject on which it treats, and is worthy of a wide circulation, not only among those who hold to the views advocated therein, but among others who have not given them due thought and investigation.

For sale at this office. Price, single copy, postpaid, $1.00. Six copies, by mail, $5.00; by express, $4.20. AG'T.

For the World's Crisis.

THE TIME TO WORK.

This is the time to work for the perishing. The Lord calls upon us for action. Infidelity and Spiritualism are doing their best to unsettle and take away the confidence of men in the divinity of the Scriptures. And they have made rapid progress in this direction, undermining the faith of multitudes of professors of evangelical religion. This is indeed an apostate time.

Satan's deceivers are growing bold, lecturing, preaching, talking, and scattering tracts, ridiculing the Bible, calling it the work of designing men, thus blasphemously bringing it and its Author into disrepute, and substituting reason (or no reason) as the standard to guide the ship over the stormy ocean to the haven of endless day. By this means the multitude have made shipwreck of the Bible faith, the only means by which happiness here and life in the world to come can be obtained. Now let all Bible believers combine their influence and energies to counteract this baneful, soul-destroying influence.

The only weapon that can be successful is the power of God—the gospel contained in the revealed will or word of God—the Bible. The Lord attends the faithful proclamation of his word by the agency of the Spirit, that enlightens, comforts, and brings things to remembrance. Then we have the right weapon—the sword of the Spirit, the word of God.

How wofully blind those, who are looking for the conversion of the world, or a better day, before the coming of our blessed Lord. The rush is to perdition; only a few to be saved, and they are to be pulled out of the fire. The professors of religion, the greater number, have grown cold, the rest lukewarm, with only a few that are ready to bear reproach and stand up for Jesus, and in love with his appearing. Aggressive movements should be made wherever possible. Where a tent can be pitched, where a protracted meeting can be had, in the grove, meeting-house, hall, or school-house, there let an effort be made; and if the most able help cannot be obtained to fill the place, then get the best man, one full of faith and the Holy Spirit, one who is earnest in the work, full of grace and truth; then let all the members of Christ turn out and help—come up to the help of the Lord. The work is imperative. Woe is ours if we preach not the gospel. Let go of the world. "Come out from among them," and leave all for this soul-saving work.

This is the time for tent and out-door meetings. You will see the tents are up; and when you see a meeting advertised in your region, dismiss all your business possible and come to the meeting. The Lord and the preacher need your help and influence. Call out the impenitent. God will set his seal to the work, and you will get a blessing by lending a helping hand, and souls will be converted and saved in the day of the Lord Jesus.

The New Hampshire tent is in the field. They have been holding a meeting in Kittery, Me., and the result has been blessed. This I hear from one who is not of our faith, but who was in the village, and said there was great interest manifested; many awakened; others received Christ, and resolved to live in him.

Bro. John G. Hook's big tent has been unfurled in Cambridge, Mass., and the meeting is now going on with increasing interest. The people turn out well to hear the good news of life and redemption through Christ our Savior. Some express a desire for the prayers of God's people, and are solicitous for their personal salvation. The Lord revive his own work among the saints. Amen. The work and care of the tent is a great and responsible work. God grant our Pro. strength, wisdom and grace sufficient to the task.

The Mass. Conference Tent is now pitched in Millville, Mass., to continue through this week, and until after the 20th of this month. Brn. Ross, Streeter and Morrill are with it, to preach the word. Others are invited. Come to this meeting, one and all, with a heart to work. I hear the meeting has commenced well, and I expect the prosperity of the Lord will be with us.

Now, dearly beloved brethren, let your presence, your prayers, and your money, be freely bestowed to assist in this blessed work, this last work to save our dear ones, yea, our enemies, and all within the reach of heaven's hand. L. BOUTELL.

Chelsea, June 10th, 1870.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute acording to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERRON, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments	$543.28
J. B. Fuller	.50

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	$60.46

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 202, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$833.65

For the World's Crisis.

WHAT MAN LOST BY ADAM.

What did man lose by Adam's sin? He lost life. "And unto Adam he [the Lord God] said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it, cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life. Thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee. . . . In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return."—Gen. 3: 17-19. Here we have the penalty for man's disobedience—death; and death of the whole man; "thou"—the man, whom the Lord God made of the dust of the ground, shall return to the same; "for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return."

Some have supposed that Adam's sin exposed him to temporal and spiritual death, and to eternal torments. His transgression never did and never could have exposed him to eternal torments in hell; for if so, it would have rendered all his posterity subject to the same punishment. Would God punish men and infants, too, eternally in hell torments for an act which they never committed, and over which they had no control? This would be against the character of God. Infidelity is more consistent than such a libel on the character of the great Jehovah.

Man, then, lost his right and title to life by Adam; he lost his life, his very being, and nothing more; and all this is gained by the "second Adam," the Lord from heaven. And now his life, his being, can only be lost (eternally) by his own disobedience in rejecting the Lord Jesus Christ, who is our tree of life, who is the resurrection and the life eternal. "Blessed are they who do his commandments, that they [but not others] may have a right [or title] to the tree of life." When we come to view the whole matter in its true light, and see man, who was condemned to death in Adam, adjudged worthy of life by obedience through our Lord Jesus Christ, we have no difficulty in understanding how God is the Savior of all men, although multitudes will die "the second death"; not, however, in consequence of Adam's sin, but alone of their own willful rebellion.

Herein, also, do we see how strictly true it is that Christ is the "life of men." Since the race forfeited life in Adam, and by his offence no man is entitled to life but in and through the "second Adam," "who is the Lord from heaven." We see how the death of Christ has been undervalued. They have believed in the traditions of men, thereby making void the word of God. They tell us man has an "immortal soul," which cannot and does not die. At the funeral of a young lady in this place a few days since, the minister remarked, "The soul of this young lady is now in heaven. If I could, I would part the vail, and show her to you." His faith was strong in the immortality of the soul, and that "death is the gate to endless joys."

This pagan doctrine has been handed down through the dark ages, being transmitted from sire to son, from priest to people, from school to school, until the heads and hearts of mankind are filled with it. It is preached from every pulpit in the land, taught in every lecture room, inculcated in every school, and distilled into the youthful mind in almost every family. Every science is tinged with it. The astronomer contemplates the unnumbered worlds, revolving in the immensity of space, as the abode of his immortal soul, and talks of gaining worlds beyond the skies. He vainly thinks his departed spirit, on some errand of mercy, will pass from world to world, and be lost in the contemplation of the grandeur and beauty of Jehovah's works. The babe upon its mother's knee is taught that the soul goes to heaven at death.

But when we turn our attention to the word of God, to the testimony of prophets and apostles, we find no such teaching there. That good and true book points not to the day of one's death, as the time when the song of victory is sung; but to the period when the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and enter the kingdom of God. The apostle Paul fixes the time, when he says, "Christ the first fruits, afterwards they that are Christ's at his coming." "Then (not before) shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?" It is impossible for man to have victory over death, while death has the victory over him. All of Adam's race are under the dominion of death. Death is written upon every son and daughter of Adam; there is no hope for them except in and through Christ, the Life-giver. When he comes the second time, "he will destroy death and him that hath the power of it, which is the devil."

If the soul is immortal, or if man possesses an immortal spirit that enters heaven or glory at death, there is no need of a resurrection, as I can see. If this doctrine be true, we should never shed a tear when the righteous depart this life, seeing they go direct to glory. But when the wicked die (if it be true they go down to hell torments), we should then have reason to lament their death.

O the folly of mortals! When will they learn to believe the Bible, and look forward to the "times of the restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began," and that there is no life out of Christ? "He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him."

Christ is our tree of life. We must eat of him. We must drink of the waters of salvation in order to live eternally. God's fountain is ever opened. The invitation is to all, "Come ye!" "And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

Fair Haven, Ct. J. E. CLARK.

For the World's Crisis.

DOCTRINES.

In these days of many isms and numerous creeds, how many there are who are led away by false doctrines. "Now this I say, that every one of you saith, I am of Paul, and I of Apollos, and I of Cephas, and I of Christ." So now there are innumerable divisions and differences. Such things ought not to exist; but we look for no improvement until Christ Jesus our Lord shall set up his kingdom upon the new earth; then shall we be one with him; "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

Then, dear brethren, let us strive to make him first and last; let him be our all and in all. He should ever be held before us in such a manner as shall redound to his honor and glory; in a way that shall show forth his grace and mercy in rescuing us from our lost estate. We do not want that doctrine which tickles our ear and pleases our fancies, let it be ever so popular; we want the truth, plain and literal, as it is found in the Book of books.

The teachers in these perilous times seem to think that their words must be made consonant to men's minds; that it is better to speak heathen fables, than the direct Scripture testimony. They mystify the gospel by removing its literal sense, and seem to forget "if our gospel be hid, it is hid to them that are lost." Let each and every one of us search the Scriptures, having firm faith in the precious promises and glorious truths therein recorded; reading prayerfully, keeping our armor bright, waiting for our absent Lord to come in person even as he was seen to enter heaven by the men of Galilee. God help us to be wise virgins; and may we never forget the apostle Paul's injunction, "Wherefore, let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." Here we see the necessity for being humble and watchful, lest the evil in our natures gain the ascendancy; but with God's help we shall come off more than conquerors in that day. CYRUS MENDENHALL.

Wilmington.

Correspondence.

From Sr. E. J. S. Rice.

Dear Brn. and Srs. scattered abroad:—It is a long time since I conversed with you in the "silent language of the pen," through our invaluable paper. During that interval grief has restamped her dire signet on my brow, crushing my spirit, and leading me near the verge of the grave. But through the interposition of our kind Father, my frail life is spared a little longer, to give me opportunity to praise his holy name for the dangers he has carried me through. Our Father is good, and though he slay me, yet will I trust in him. He neither grieves nor afflicts the children of men willingly, but for their profit, that their affections may be weaned from mutable things, and be centred on himself. O how good it is to trust him and hope in his mercy. Surely he knoweth such, and will deliver them in the time of trouble that is coming on the earth to try the children of men.

Last December death entered our dwelling, and with his icy fingers chilled the life-blood of my sweetest bud, and which nestled closest to my heart—my lovely baby boy, whose very life was patience and goodness. Robust and promising, he was cut down with but a few hours' warning, and robed for the gloomy grave. O! the heart agony of that hour pen and words fail to describe. None but the Searcher of hearts could fathom its depth of grief. None but the great Physician can apply the balm of Gilead to solace broken hearts. Human sympathies, though called for, fail to give permanent relief to the heart stricken by bereavement. What a blessed relief to feel that Father knows it all. His dear Son has wept, and knows how to pity and solace all who who mourn. Yes,

"Whate'er the bruised spirit grieves,
No light distress will Jesus deem;
There's not a throb my bosom heaves,
But stirs a kindred pulse in him."

Many and varied are the promises and consolations in the sacred word to solace and encourage tried and stricken ones, applicable to all circumstances with which mortals have to contend while journeying through this vale of care and sorrow. O, how very grateful we should be to our heavenly Father, that he has chosen our "lines for us in pleasant places," and given us a "goodly heritage,"—not born in heathen lands to worship idols, ignorant of the blessed plan of salvation. We have the Bible to read, with intellect to receive and appreciate its blessed truths. Alas! how great will be our responsibilities if we do not duly regard its counsels, and square our lives by its precious precepts. What constant watchfulness and prayerfulness we need to make use of, to keep our minds and hearts aloof from the destructive snares of the three deadly foes we have to contend with; viz., "the world, the flesh, and the devil."

But thanks be to an all-wise Creator, we are not alone in this spiritual warfare; for we have a Mediator, even Jesus, who was tempted in all points like unto us, and thereby knows how to succor the tempted and afflicted under all circumstances. And, too, the cheering prospects we have to encourage us, above the church of ages past. We are fast passing the landmarks, and soon will be home. Blessed prospect! glorious anticipation! we soon shall taste the heaven-bought reality of "going home to die no more."

I want to go home, for I'm weary here,
And hear those glad songs my spirit to cheer;
For here, in deep anguish, my sad heart is crushed
For cherished ones gone, now sleeping in dust.

Greenvale, Minn. E. J. S. RICE.

From Sr. M. A. Miller.

Bro. Grant:—"Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God; therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not." O, how sweet it is to know God owns us for his children; how sweet to call him Father, and Jesus an Elder Brother. We can say it has been "good for us that we have been afflicted," when we bear persecutions meekly. After the trial is past, how blessed it is to think it was all for Jesus' sake. We must pass through trials, that we may be fitted for his kingdom. God help us not to murmur or complain, but to bear it all with patience, never get discouraged, but rather rejoice that we are counted worthy to suffer for Christ's sake, praying for wisdom to direct us, and much grace to enable us to endure hardness as good soldiers, looking unto Jesus, our soon coming King. We expect he will soon come to gather his elect. We mean to be ready, our lamps trimmed and burning, ready to go to meet the Bridegroom when he comes. May we all be faithful, and at last reap the reward that awaits all God's faithful children.

Brethren and sisters, let us pray for a stronger faith. God has blessed us in times past; oh, may he still pour out his Spirit, and may his name have all the praise now and forevermore. Yours in Christ,

Biddeford, Me. M. E. MILLER.

From Bro. Geo. A. Streeter.

BRO. GRANT:—Yesterday was a good day under the Mass. Mission Tent. A crowd of intelligent men and women gathered there. Intense interest was manifested, and much conviction rested on the people. There has been an ear to hear ever since the meeting began. We are to hold over Sunday, the 19th. Have meetings at two and half past seven P. M. every day. We hope and expect great results from this meeting.

Dear brethren and sisters, pray for the Mass. Mission Tent, that God's blessing may rest on the efforts put forth under it.

I would say, any coming on the P. & W. R. R. will find a coach there on the arrival of every train, to convey them to the ground. Thy Bro. in the field of labor, Millville, June 13th. G. A. STREETER.

BRO. E. D. KENTFIELD writes from Brandon, Vt.:—"I have just finished reading the Crisis, and feel rejoiced in my heart, for what should I do without it (aside from my precious Bible) in these last days of peril and darkness? But, thanks be to the Lord, the true light shineth, and his children can see it. I rejoice that God has a few faithful watchmen on the walls of Zion, who will not hold their peace till Jerusalem shall be made a praise in the earth, and Jesus our King reign on the throne of his father David. I rejoice to see the good work going on in Rutland, and in the noble stand the brethren and sisters take, especially those from other churches. The action of the M. E. church savors a little of the spirit of the old lady in scarlet. I thank God I am a free man in Christ, and I am radical enough to believe that a person has not put on Christ fully till he or she has been immersed into him."

For the World's Crisis.

NEWS FROM ALL THE WORLD.

THE DOGMA OF INFALLIBILITY.

You may remember that I ventured to suggest a doubt whether Louis Napoleon were really opposed to the adoption of the dogma, in view of an ultimate benefit which he might anticipate in his own and Lucien's behalf. Here is a straw afloat, of what value I know not:—

"Eugenie prays three times a day for the success of the dogma of infallibility in the ecumenical, and gets no end of indulgences for it."

The following from a report of debates in Congress, is another straw, showing that politicians are studying, in their way, the things coming on the earth:—

ROMAN CONFLICT.

Mr. Brooks (N. Y.) moved to strike out Guatemala and insert Rome as a place for a Minister Resident, and advocated the motion in behalf, as he said, of the most venerable city of theworld, in behalf of art and artists, and in behalf of American travelers, who wished to have their country represented there. The amendment was rejected.

Mr. Banks moved to insert Rome without striking out any other place. The omission of Rome would be considered by a portion of the American people intentional. He did not wish that. Besides that, one of the greatest religious convulsions of the world was approaching, and the United States should at least have a representative there to furnish accurate reports of those great events transpiring there."

I have collected some paragraphs of interests bearing on the question of the soul,—facts, opinions, and practices. The facts instruct, the opinions instruct or entertain, and the practices awaken horror. Here is something about bird instinct, showing the connection and dependence of all mental functions whatever on organization. This is from the debates in the N. Y. Farmer's Club.

"Mr. Curtis, about eight years ago, had a pear tree near his house, which was honeycombed from top to base by the woodpecker. His neighbors said the sap-sucker was at work, and would destroy the tree, therefore he would kill the bird. In this particular case the tree died, but it was found to be full of grubs, which was evidently what the bird was after. He would give the woodpecker credit for more wisdom than he himself possessed."

Next comes a case illustrating the total void incident to suspended or even greatly impaired brain function:—

"A lady in Michigan has recently recovered her reason after being insane twenty-three years. The interval has been a blank, but she remembers vividly whatever occurred before it, and sadly puzzles her new friends by her stories of 'what occurred a few weeks ago.'"

The following quotation is from a sermon of a college chaplain, transmitted by a Paris correspondent to the Courier de Estats Unis.

"At the death of the just, the locomotive of his soul, driven by the coal of faith, and the steam of hope, dashes along the rails of charity toward that immovable depot, where is found the eternal symbol, which is God."

Instead of the "blessing" of death, we conclude it is a curse, overcome and removed however by a resurrection to eternal life for the righteous. And the Bible seems to teach such a thing as a translation of living saints at the coming of Christ. But this with some is somewhat lightly regarded.

I believe the Crisis had a short paragraph relating to the horrible transaction narrated below. But here is a more detailed account. It exhibits another frightful shoot from a bad root:—

THE "MORELSYCHICKS."

Sectarianism in Russia is of a particular kind and bears a gloomy character of barbarism fanaticism. The aggregate of the great numbers of sects whose principles are the negation of all instincts of human nature is really appalling. Persecuted by the orthodox church and government with the utmost severity, the secret doings and doctrines of these wide-spread sects are generally little known, and only now and then the news reaches us of some atrocity perpetrated on their part, or of the severe punishment inflicted upon the sectarians by the authorities.

The Morelstchicks—self-sacrificing saints—are a sect widely spread through the country. Their doctrines are almost unknown to the world, but every now and then acts of the wildest barbarism, which they have committed in the northern departments of Saratoff or in Siberia are heard of. It seems that they dig, with strangely fantastic ceremonies, a deep hole in some remote place, around which they pile wood, brush, straw and other combustibles in great quantity. Then they enter the hole in solemn procession, set fire to these materials and burn themselves to death, chanting dying hymns, and without uttering a cry of pain. Others assemble in some house, around which they have packed combustibles up to the very roof. The house, like all Russian isbas, built of logs, is in a few minutes enveloped in flames, and the fanatics perish in them, undisturbed by the spectators, in what they consider a religious duty. They are thought to be saints who give themselves the baptism of fire. These "saints" are mentioned in the writings of some travelers as Gmelin, Palles, Georgia, Lechupin and others.

Not long ago the peasants inhabiting the domains of M. de Garieff, on the left bank of the Volga, concluded eventually to sacrifice themselves. They quietly made their preparation for the act, and methodically butchered one another. One, a young wife, whose love of life was too powerful, wrestled the knife from the man who wanted to immolate her, and escaped to the nearest village, where she gave the alarm. When the people of this village came to the scene of carnage, they found only two persons alive, surrounded by forty-seven corpses. The two were condemned to the knout, but at each blow they shouted triumphantly, as being martyrs.

Forty Morelstchicks in another place had come to the conviction that they had attained to a condition of perfect purity, which, however, might be endangered if they remained any longer upon earth. In order, therefore to insure their salvation, they agreed to sacrifice each other's life. They proceeded to a barn situated at some distance from the village, taking with them a block of wood, a cleaver and a rope. When all had formed in solemn array around the block, one stepped forward and laid his head upon the block; another came up, seized the cleaver and cut his head off; the second was decapitated by the third, and so on. Not a cry of agony was heard, and thirty-nine victims lay weltering in their blood. The fortieth of these fanatics—a merchant—was yet alive; two of his sons lay dead at his feet; it was his turn to die, and for him the rope was reserved. When he had already put the noose around his neck he was overcome by remorse, as he had told his wife nothing of what was going on, and he felt troubled at leaving her alone on earth. He went back to the village, whence he conducted his wife to the barn. When she saw the horrible spectacle, and her sons dead on the ground, her cries and lamentations attracted some persons who chanced to be near by. They reported the facts to the authorities, and the survivor of the forty was sent to Siberia.

Married.

MARTER—PERRY. At Edinboro, Pa., June 7th, by Rev. Wm. Grassie, Mr. REUBEN VAN MARTER, of Blooming Valley, Pa., and Miss EUNICE PERRY, of Edinboro.

Obituaries.

GLOVER. Died, in New Hampton, N. H., of consumption, April 26th, 1870, David M. Glover, aged twenty-four years.

He obtained a hope in Christ during his sickness, and died in the triumphs of faith. He leaves a wife, father and mother, and other relatives, to mourn their loss. Words of comfort were spoken on the occasion from Heb. 9: 27, by Elder N. Glidden. M. E. GLOVER.

NICHOLS. Died, in Hoosick, N. Y., May 25th, Caleb Nichols (my wife's grandfather), in the eighty-fourth year of his age.

He sleeps till Jesus comes. JACOB WILBUR.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

ROME, June 8. The Ecumenical Council is now discussing the schema of primacy and infallibility by sections. The debate on the preamble has closed, and there have been one or two exciting passages, but at present the minority is silent and passive.

A great demonstration was made yesterday in favor of Papal infallibility. The Jesuits were the prime movers in the affair. A large procession marched through the streets, bearing banners inscribed, "Viva Popa Infallible."

The fathers opposed to infallibility have presented an address to the Pope through Cardinal Legate, remonstrating against the violent proceedings by which the meeting of the 3d inst. was dissolved and the debate on the preamble of the schema brought to an abrupt close. They complain that fifty members who have given notice of an intention to speak remain unheard, among them Duponloup, and protest against the vote by which the debate was terminated, declaring that it was carried by surprise. The address received the signatures of one hundred members of the Council. It is asserted that about the 1st of May M. Ollivier sent a dispatch to the French embassador here, instructing him to make no more efforts to restrain the action of the Council. The Marquis of Bonneville accordingly suspended negotiations on the subject with the Papal Government, but told the French Bishops it was their duty to defend the opinion of their Government, and advised them to do all in their power to obtain the modifications of the schema. It is now added that the Duke de Grammont, since his accession to the ministry of Foreign Affairs, has confirmed the instructions of M. Ollivier.

LONDON, June 8. Wolff's Continental Telegraphic Company of Berlin, with sub-agencies in all the principal cities of Europe, knows nothing about any recent disturbances in Roumania. The manager of that company declares the telegram to Cremilux to be an exaggeration, and says that all the reports concerning the slaughter or banishment of the Roumanian Jews are baseless. Diligent inquiry here and on the continent fails to discover any foundation for the terrible stories which have been published.

PARIS, June 8. La Opinione Nationale speculates on the prospects of the minority in the Ecumenical Council, and asks if such Bishops as Dupanloup and Strossmeyer and the Archbishops of Paris and Reims are to allow the supremacy of the Jesuits and be struck dumb in their presence.

The Pope has written a letter to the newly-consecrated Bishop of Tarbes, in which he sustains in positive terms the dogma of infallibility.

PARIS, June 9. The Empress Eugenie has sent 10,000 francs to Constantinople for the relief of the sufferers by the great fire. Duke de Grammont has contributed 5,000 francs for the same object.

FLORENCE, June 7. The discovery of a secret political movement in Leghorn led to prompt action for its suppression. Twenty-two persons implicated in the affair have been arrested and the police are searching for other parties. All needful precautions have been taken by the officer in command of the garrison.

PARIS, June 7. Owing to the long continued dry weather, fires in the woods have occurred quite frequently throughout Europe lately. These have been attended in many cases with loss of life and property. Yesterday a fire occurred in the beautiful forest of Fontainebleau, a few miles from this city, raged fiercely nearly all day, sweeping over hundreds of acres, and causing much damage. The people of the vicinity of Fontainebleau turned out in large force, and succeeded in checking the flames.

The small pox is decreasing in this city, and the type of the disease is not so bad as at first.

The Paris journals are attacking M. Ollivier for his course toward the party of the left.

ROME, June 7. The American delegates in the Ecumenical Council show a growing disinclination to the Papal infallibility dogma, and are disgusted with the sophistry and sycophancy of its advocates.

FLORENCE, June 8. It is reported that the Italian government has in its possession conclusive evidence that Mazzini was personally implicated in the rebel movement on the Swiss frontier. The fact will be brought to the attention of the Swiss government and a demand made for the surrender of the agitator or his expulsion from Switzerland.

CORK, June 8. An extensive seizure has been made of arms and ammunition, concealed by Fenians, in this city and surrounding country.

LONDON, June 10—3 A. M. Charles Dickens died at twenty minutes past six o'clock last evening of paralysis.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 9. The fire in the Pera district has been fully subdued and order reigns again. By a careful count, over 7000 buildings of all sorts have been destroyed, and many of them were the best in the city. The loss of life greatly exceeded the estimate previously made. The remains of over 150 persons have been discovered, and it is supposed that this is about one-half of the actual number. The total loss by the fire is computed at £25,000,000 sterling. The English underwriters suffer heavy losses. The archives of the British Embassy were saved. The Armenian Church of the Immaculate Conception was on fire several times and considerably damaged, but the Gobelin tapestry, gift of the Empress Eugenie, with which the church was decorated, was saved unharmed.

The loss of life here by the conflagration is frightful. At some points whole families were hemmed in by the flames, and perished in full view of the spectators, who were unable to rescue them. The panic among the people was terrible, and many who might have escaped lost all presence of mind, and were unable to save themselves. Others, in their despair, made no effort to fly and were lost. Some of the Turks, owing to their belief in fatalism, shut themselves up in their burning houses and refused assistance, and met their death without a murmur. It has been ascertained that two hundred and fifty persons were burned to death or killed by the falling walls, and many more are missing.

FENIANS IN LONDON.—The English capital is suffering a little once more from terrorism of Fenians. It is feared that there are large deposits of arms at Birmingham, Sheffield and Manchester, and that the Fenians are anticipating some sort of outbreak. The London Fenians have almost entirely ceased their public meetings and are reticent and apparently tranquil. Yet it is well known to the police that great numbers of the London Irish have armed themselves recently, their favorite weapon being the revolver, and that Fenians from Ireland are hanging about all the arms manufacturing establishments in the Lancashire district. The recent attempt to seize arms at Birmingham has been traced directly to Fenian agency, although it was first thought the workingmen were guilty.

AN ANCIENT RELIC OF METHODISM.—The Rev. N. H. Boole of New York has come into possession of an ancient and interesting relic of Methodism. It is the old church Bible from which the Rev. Samuel Wesley, the founder of Methodism, preached in Epworth, and which remained in their parish for over one hundred years. It was presented by one of the trustees of that church to a successor of John Wesley, a Rev. Mr. Aiken, and by him was sold to the antiquarian Methodist bookseller of London, George Stephenson, from whom Philip Phillips purchased it recently for Mr. Boole at a cost of $300. It is in an excellent state of preservation, considering its age. It is bound in thick, unpolished leather, the edges and corners fastened with brass, and the covers kept together by an iron clasp.

Passing Events.

— The International Convention of Young Men's Christian Associations is to be held in Indianapolis, Ind., June 22 to 26, inclusive. It will probably be the largest gathering of these associations ever held. There are over 700 of these institutions, with 100,000 members, on this continent. Massachusetts leads, having 112 associations, with 15,000 members.

— The Brotherhood of the Holy Cross, an institution whose object is to unite young men in colleges and elsewhere in defence of the more advanced principles and liturgical services of Episcopacy, has branches not only in nearly all the Episcopal institutions, but in Yale, Princetown, Columbia and Brown.

— The Roman Catholic Archbishop of Quebec has made an appeal for aid for the Saguenay sufferers by the late disastrous fire, saying that 655 families, making 4585 souls, have lost their houses, barns, furniture, clothes, agricultural implements, animals, etc., not even saving the grain sown in the earth.

— The New Haven Journal says: "The first time, we believe, in the history of the good old State of Connecticut, prayer was offered at the opening of the House, on Friday, by a woman—Mrs. Phœbe A. Hanaford. The lady appeared to advantage, and made a most commendable invocation, and won the good opinion of all present."

— German savants record that great changes are apparently taking place on the surface of the planet Jupiter. Recent observation seems to confirm the theory that this planet has an individual brilliancy of its own quite independent of the sun.

☞ The canker worms, which have caused such havoc among the apple trees for the last few years, are reported to be disappearing, and are succeeded by the currant worm, which are equally destructive of the smaller fruit.

☞ To keep crime in check and punish infractions of the laws costs Philadelphia over $1,000,000 yearly. The police department involves an expenditure of over $850,000.

A child—a girl—born near Waverly, Iowa, last week, has three tongues, six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot.

— A hundred women are preparing themselves for the bar, in America.

— Pius the Ninth has occupied the Pontifical seat two years longer than any predecessor.

— In the Hungarian Empire they are about to celebrate the feast of the 1,000 years' Jubilee,

☞ There are twenty-two millions of grape vines set out in vineyards in California.

☞ Thomas Carlyle is coming to America.

☞ Five negroes were elected to the Petersburg, Va., City Council last week.

☞ It appears that there are more than a million paupers in England and Wales.

Notices.

Tent Meeting.

The A. A. Mission Tent, the Lord willing, will be pitched at Prairie Avenue, near Broad Street, South Providence, R. I., June 20th, and remain through the week, and over the following Sabbath. Brethren and sisters, come and help. Meetings afternoons and evenings. ENOCH MORRILL.

Notice.

"The Levant Union Bethel Association" are engaged in building a house, in which to worship the living God, at Levant Village, Me. This house is called "The Levant Union Bethel." It is open and free to all denominations. Will cost about twenty-five hundred dollars, of which our late and lamented Bro. Joseph Turner paid one thousand dollars, and is the first and only meeting-house erected in the town. We have contracted to have the building finished July 1st, 1870. It will be dedicated Saturday, July 2d, at ten o'clock A. M., by the ministers of the various denominations, Bro. H. L. Hastings, of Boston, associating. Bro. Hastings, assisted by others, will continue to hold services in the same house on the 2d, 3d, and 4th of July. F. A. BAKER.

Notice.

Bro. Hook's new tent, "Evangelist," will be pitched, if the Lord will, in Philadelphia, Sunday, June 26th, in the Skating Park, Broad and Wallace Streets (if it can be obtained), and continue as long as the Lord may direct. Bro. S. W. Thurber will commence the meetings. Brethren, pray for the meeting. I. N. WILFONG.

New Hampshire Quar. Conference.

The fourth quarterly session of the New Hampshire Christian Conference will be held at Whitefield, N. H., commencing Friday, at 10½ o'clock A. M., June 17th, 1870, and hold over the following Sunday. It is hoped that our preaching brethren will make a special effort to attend this meeting, and that all the lovers of truth in this region will come to this conference to work for God and the salvation of men.

T. W. PIPER, A. W. SIBLEY, C. H. FLETCHER, } Committee.

Conference.

A quarterly conference will be held at the Bailey school-house, in Pittston, Me., four miles south of the city of Gardiner, on the east side of the Kennebec river, opposite Gardiner depot, at five o'clock, P. M., June 23d, and hold over Sunday. Let the brethren and sisters all attend who can to work for the Lord. Provision for all. Ministering brethren from abroad are invited. Those who come by cars will stop at South Gardiner, and the brethren will be there to take them over the river in a boat. S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Grove Meeting.

A grove meeting will be held in Bartlett, N. H., (Middle District), in Bro. John B. Deering's grove, commencing Wednesday, June 22nd, and holding over the following Sabbath.

Bartlett is situated on the road from North Conway to the White Mountains. The mountains tower around, and the scenery generally is magnificently grand. We have held meetings in the place during the past winter, and although the truths we love have never been preached there, the people have been like the Bereans, and are favorable to the truth, and a good number have been converted. We know of no place where greater good can be done by a meeting than in Bartlett, and it is hoped that the brethren and sisters from the surrounding towns will be present. Come from Porter, Freedom, Melvin Village, Albany and adjoining towns in Maine. Come from Whitefield, Woodstock, and other places west of the mountains, and you will find entertainment, and have a glorious meeting. Brethren coming by the Notch will inquire for Nathan French, James Mead, or Levi Rogers; and those from other directions, for John B. Deering. Brn. T. W. Piper, N. Wheeler, Levi Allen, J. H. Evans, J. G. Smith, Bro. Kidder, and others who love the truth, and don't distract and divide, are invited. Provision will be made to accommodate all the brethren and sisters who may come. Pasturing will be furnished for horses. Let us have a good gathering of the saints in the name of the Lord. An ordination and a baptism may be expected.

In behalf of the brethren, L. C. MCKINSTRY.

Notice.

The Mass. Tent will be pitched, the Lord willing, at Millville, on land owned by Dr. Southwick, and occupied by Bro. Wm. Boyden, about one mile from the village, and one mile from Slatersville, R. I. Meeting to commence June 8th, at 7½ P. M., to continue over Sunday, and longer if thought best. Preachers and all are invited. It is about half a mile from the depot on the B. H. & E. R. R., and one mile from the depot of the P. & W. R. R. Those coming from a distance will provide for themselves as far as they can. Let all help in having a good meeting, that sinners may be saved, and God's name glorified.

GEO. A. STREETER.
L. BOUTELL.

Maine Ministerial Conference.

EXTRA SESSION.

This conference will convene in the Second Advent Hall, Portland, on Tuesday, two o'clock P. M., June 21st, and close Friday. We desire to see present all the members of the conference, and all preachers who desire to join; likewise delegates from all the churches and societies, with as many other brethren and sisters as will come to work for the Lord, and the salvation of sinners. It is hoped the campmeeting committee will be prepared to report what decisions have been made in regard to a place, or places, for campmeetings in Maine this season; also the tent committee in regard to the tent mission. Brethren, let us come together once more in the Spirit of the Lord, praying his blessing upon the great work to which he has called us. C. GOUD, President.
I. C. WELLCOME, Sec.

Michigan Campmeeting and Conf.

The annual campmeeting of the Michigan Advent Christian Conference will be held on the Fair ground in Jackson, commencing June 27th, and continuing over Lord's day. Preliminary meetings will begin June 18th, by Eld. J. M. Snook, in the Antioch tent, on the same ground.

Jackson is a central R. R. point, and easily reached from nearly all directions. All trains stop here. The Fair ground is only half a mile from the depot. Ample accommodations on the ground for teams, etc. Those coming to camp should bring their own bed clothes.

Let us rally and come together in the name and Spirit of the Lord. Let all preparation by prayer and fasting be made before the time to camp; and those who cannot come, do not forget to pray that God's blessing and Spirit may be in the camp, and that this meeting may redound to the glory of his blessed name. In behalf of the Board,
J. M. SNOOK, Sec.

New York State Tent Meeting.

Providence permitting, the New York State Mission Tent will be pitched at Randolph, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., June 23d. The brethren and sisters who can attend said meeting, are earnestly invited to do so. Randolph is on the A. and G. Western R. R. All trains stop there.
J. WENDELL.

Notice.

As the time has come for us to start the Mass. Mission Tent, we shall need funds to carry forward the work; and we wish those who have subscribed would forward the amount to the Treasurer, C. GOODRICH, No. 7 Salem Street, Boston, as soon as convenient.
S. W. THURBER, Pres. of Conf.

Notice.

The Mission Tent will be pitched in the town of Warwick, R. I., between the villages of the Artic and Quidnic, near by the Hartford and Providence rail road, to commence June 15th, and continue as long as the interest demands. Any coming on the train to this meeting will stop at Quidnic. Come, brethren, let us make a little sacrifice and united effort to save souls, and get a people ready for the kingdom. E. BELLOWS.

R. I. and East. Ct.

Our conference will hold its next session with the church at River Point, R. I., commencing Wednesday, June 29th, at two o'clock P. M. As this is a central locality, we shall expect to see a large number of preachers and delegates present. Let the clerks of those churches that do not send delegates remember their duty.
C. H. SWEET, Sec'y.

Notice.

The Vermont Mission Tent is engaged to be finished June 15th, all but the poles; and will be ready to be pitched in Middlesex June 23d, as it is wanted at that place for a conference. May great good be done in the name of the Lord Jesus.
R. N. STETSON.

N. B. I would like to engage some one to furnish the poles. We want two centre poles, twenty-eight feet long, and twenty-six seven feet long. If any Bro. can procure them, I wish he would write to me immediately. R. N. S.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a grove meeting held July 3d and 4th, on Mann's hill, in Holden, Me., on the farm owned by Samuel Gilmore, in the same grove where it was held last year. We invite all christians who love gospel salvation and order, and will seek their neighbor's good, to come and help. Brn. A. H. Walker and I. Damman are expected to be there.

Notice.

To the brethren in New York State: Shall we have a general campmeeting in the old Empire State? Will the brethren think and pray about it, and when we meet at our June conference, decide when and where we will hold it, and appoint a committee to arrange for the meeting? We have strength enough in Western New York for a good campmeeting, if we will all take hold of the matter. The Lord is coming. Let us do all we can to strengthen each other, and save the perishing around us. Please write immediately.
MILTON R. MILES, Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.

Notice.

Our annual grove meeting in Springwater, N. Y., will be held June 25th and 26th, 1870, commencing June 25th, at two o'clock P. M., in the grove, on the Morris farm, as usual. Come, now, brethren and sisters; let us all meet together and praise the world. C. F. SWEET.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meetings on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's. O. G. TRUNDY.

Grove Meeting at West Kingston, N. H.

Providence permitting, there will be a meeting in Sargent's grove, near the great pond, on Sunday and Monday, July 3d and 4th. Brethren living in adjoining towns are invited. Strangers can call on Brn. Reuben Currier, Otis Tucker, or Geo. Goodwin. C. W. SARGENT.

Conn. State Tent.

Parties desiring the tent pitched in their vicinity, will please correspond with the Chairman of the Committee, H. H. DICKINSON, Hartford, Ct.

Conn. A. C. Conference.

The next session of the State Conference will be held with the church in Bristol, commencing Wednesday, June 8th, and continuing over Sunday.
H. H. DICKINSON, Pres.
GEO. L. TEEPLE, Sec'y.

Grove Meeting.

A grove meeting may be expected in E. G. Kimball's grove, in Hopkinton, N. H., July 4th, 1870. Particulars hereafter. E. G. KIMBALL.

Minnesota Campmeeting.

The second annual campmeeting for the State of Minnesota will commence on Monday, June 27th, at Ottawa, continuing one week. Ottawa is situated on the Minnesota river, five miles below St. Peter. The St. Paul and Sioux R. R. will carry passengers at half fare to and from this meeting. When buying tickets for Ottawa from any station on this road, ask for a return ticket, which will be good for ten days after June 27th. A refreshment and provision stand will be kept on the ground for the accommodation of the camp, where such articles of food as cannot be conveniently brought from home may be obtained. The committee will make every effort for the temporal comfort of those attending the meeting, and trust all will unite in striving, by the help of God, to make it a spiritual "feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined."

COMMITTEE:—G. W. Miller, L. C. Collins, P. Ramer, W. Ketzebock, E. Bacon, E. T. Himes.

Notice.

The Advent brethren in Buffalo, N. Y., have hired a hall and established a prayer and conference meeting every Sabbath, at two o'clock P. M. The hall is on Maine Street, in the Arcade building, second floor, No. 9, and is large enough for preaching. Ministers passing this way who can spend a Sabbath with us, we will give notice of by our daily papers, if informed by Friday. They can expect but a small compensation at present, as most are poor, and we are just making an effort to gather the scattered flock. Some fifty in the city hold our views, and we hope, by a permanent meeting, some preaching, and God's blessing, we shall be able to form a stable church. Preachers can call on Wm. Shaw, 528 Eagle Street, or J. Blain, 79 North Division Street, H. Tanner, 255 Pearl street, and a home will be provided. We can have no meeting on week days at present, but hope to by and by.
For the brethren, J. BLAIN.

The Iowa Mission Tent.

Those who desire tent, camp, grove, or basket-meetings, will do well to correspond with me soon, so that I may make arrangements for summer work. In these meetings will be presented the gospel of Jesus Christ, with a view to do the people good. No party, sect, or hobby to build up, but to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Every lover of Jesus shall be free to work with us. All lovers of this pure christianity are requested to write soon. Direct to Peter S. W. Deyo, Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Notice.

There will be a grove meeting held in Jay, Bean's Corner, Me., commencing July 2d, at 5 o'clock P. M. and continuing over the Fourth. Come to this meeting to labor for the Lord. Bring your basket of food or not, as there will be provision made for all. The ordinance of baptism will be attended to. In behalf of the Brn.,
H. B. SEVEY.

P. S. We have received pledges to the amount of $25.00 for our meeting-house in Vienna. Who wishes to help? H. B. S.

Conference in Nova Scotia.

The Lord willing, there will be a conference at Bear River, Annapolis Co., N. S., commencing Saturday, June 11th. All are invited. Preachers are requested to be present in the name of the Lord. JOHN MOORE.

Notice.

The Advent Christian Church in Nashua, N. H., have hired a hall in Beasom's Block, corner of Maine and Factory Streets, up two flights of stairs, well fitted up, where we shall hold meetings three times on the Sabbath, and Thursday and Saturday evenings. For the brethren,
NATHANIEL EATON.

Notice.

Dear brethren and friends:—We have bought a brick house in Vienna, to fit up for a meeting-house. We lack funds to finish it. It will cost $100 to do the work inside. Some brethren have offered to assist us. If others who have the means will help, we should be glad. If we cannot get help, shall be obliged to sell. If brethren will send in what they will pay, we will give credit, and if enough is pledged we will notify when wanted. Direct all communications to

H. B. SEVEY, S. W. CARR, H. C. CLIFFORD, } Mt. Vernon, Me.

Notice.

The Advent brethren have rented the Temperance Hall on Maine St., in Brunswick, Me., and will hold meetings on Sunday regularly. Seats free to all who are disposed to meet with us. Ministering brethren are invited to come over and help us. Per order, C. GOUD.

Notice.

Putney's Hall, Sutton Mills, N. H. Meetings every Sabbath for the present. This is a new movement on the part of the Advent people of Sutton, and we think it is according to the will of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us.

A. CRESSEY, FRANK NELSON, SAM'L ROWELL, } Committee.

Notice.

All persons, rich or poor, wishing to have the Rhode Island Mission Tent pitched in any locality where there is an opportunity to get the great truths of the plan of salvation before the people, will address me by letter, at South Killingly, Ct.
E. BELLOWS.

Wanted.

A copy of the "Constitution and By-Laws" of the R. I., and East Conn. Conference, as printed at the time V. P. Simmons was Secretary. I will return it after examining it, if desired.
C. H. SWEET, Natick, Mass.

German Tracts.

Bro. Reimer has a good supply. Send your orders to L. REIMER, 1006 Chesnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

For Sale.

A lot of second-hand Sunday School books, some of them nearly new. For particulars, address A. C. GREENE, River Point, R. I.

Notice.

I would say that persons desiring practical treatment with the Resuscitator for diseases, may address me at 43 Revere Street, Boston.
W. C. STONE.

Inquiry.

Brethren and sisters of Sutton, Bradford, and Warner: Can we join together and have a tent meeting? We in Bradford think we can.

☞ To Preaching Brethren.

Those wishing to preach in	Correspond with
Westfield, Mass.	E. A. Eggleston.
Savoy, Mass	Daniel Miller, or A. E. Bliss.
Wakefield, Mass.	G. R. Tyzzer.
Worcester, Mass.	H. M. Blackmer, Willard M. Hall, or Willard G. Ruggles.
Portsmouth, N. H.	T. E. Wood, Box 1445.
Hampton, N. H	Joseph A. Philbrook.
Manchester, N. H.	A. J. Mahew, S. R. Davidson, or O. Proctor.
London Ridge, N. H.	Daniel L. Moore, Wm. Batchelder, Edward Mudget. Fourth Sabbath engaged.
Seabrook, N. H.	R. S. Johnson, of Hampton, N. H., or Chs. Barton, of Seabrook.
Goshen, N. H	O. F. Cain.
Rye, N. H.	Moses C. Philbrick or Samuel Smart.
Pittsfield, N. H. (Belhel)	C. S. Emerson.
Portland, Me.	R. R. York, S. K. Dyer, D. F. Scamman.
Lewiston, Me.	Albert Burgess.
South Berwick, (Great Works), Me.	Harrison Dow.
Kennebunk Depot, Me.	Rufus Duran.
Vernon, Vt.	J. C. Allen.
Bristol, Ct.	B. Hitchcock, Forestville, Ct.
West Glocester, R. I.	Geo. A. Hawkins, Putnam, Ct.
New Haven, Ct.	W. F. Carpenter, 73 State St.
Pleasant Valley, Ct.	Reuel O. White, New Hartford, Ct.
Meriden, Ct.	E. J. Whitehead, West Meriden, Conn., Box 4.
New Britain, Conn	A. Powell.
Wrightville, Ct.	D. A. Grant, Torrington, Ct.
Newfield, Ct.	Wm. Ripley, Pleasant Valley, Ct.
New Milford, Ct.	J. Coggswell.
Morris, Ct.	Joseph Curtis.
Rochester, N. Y.	J. R. Cooper, 4 Hickory St.
Philadelphia, Pa.	Frank E. Davis, 1715 Markham Street, or I. N. Wilfong, 135 N. 22d St.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.35 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 15 cts. per copy additional, when sent by mail.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL.
S. W. Thurber....Sunday, June 19th
Hiram Munger....Sunday, July 3d
J. Couch....Sunday, July 17th

BOSTON, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.
Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.
N. M. Davis. John G. Hook. } ..(Baptism)....Sunday, June 19th

Meetings in South Boston on Wednesday evenings, at C. W. Huntress,' 3 Lowland street. On Friday evenings at J. N. Berry's, 227 E. street.

EAST BOSTON.
Meetings are held at Chase's Block, up two flights, at 154 Meridian Street, on Sundays, at the usual hours, also Monday and Thursday evenings.

CHELSEA, MASS., (LIBRARY HALL.)
J. Couch....Sunday, June 26th
I. B. Potter....Sunday, July 3d
T. M. Preble....Sabbath, July 10th
M. Batchelor....Sunday, July 17th
J. Hemenway....Sunday, July 24th
J. Pinkham....Sunday, July 31st

CHARLESTOWN.
Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.
Sr. Anna E. Smith....Sunday, June 19th
W. S. Campbell....Sunday, June 26th

Stoneham, Mass....Sunday, June 26th
C. GOODRICH.

Fitchburg, Mass....Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th
Manchester, N. H....Sabbath, July 3d
T. M. PREBLE.

Exeter, N. H....Sunday, June 19th
L. BOUTELL.

North Springfield, Vt....Sunday, June 19th
Bridgewater, Vt....Sunday, June 26th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Sheldonville (Wrentham, Mass)....Sunday, June 19th
Holden, Mass....Sunday, June 26th
Chicopee Falls, Mass....Sunday, July 17th
Springfield....July 19th
Warehouse Point, Ct....July 20th
New Britain, Ct....July 22nd
J S. WHITE.

Dover, N. H....Sunday, June 26th
Rye, N. H....Sunday, July 3d
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works), Sunday, July 10th
JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Hudson, Mass., Saturday evening, June 25th, and Sunday A. M., June 26th.
Marlboro, Mass....June 26th, P. M. and evening
H. L. HASTINGS.

Sunapee Harbor, N. H....Sunday, June 19th
C. H. FLETCHER.

Exeter, N. H....Sunday, June 26th
BURLEY EMERY.

Pittston, Me. (conference)..July 23d and over Sunday
Cushing, Me....Sunday, July 3d, and baptize
H. S. MITCHELL.

Chicopee Falls, Mass....Sunday, June 19th
WM. A. & M. L. DURAND.

Southville, Ct....Sunday, June 19th
Bridgewater, Ct. (Platt Dist. school-house) June 19th
New Milford, Ct....Sunday, June 26th
Roxbury, Ct. (L. R. Teeple's)....Sunday, July 3d
New Milford, Ct....Sunday, July 10th
Bridgewater, Ct. (at Sr. Strong's)..Sunday, July 10th
Southville, Ct....Sunday, July 17th
Platt Dist. school-house, July 17th.
Roxbury, Ct. (at Sr. Teeple's)....Sunday, July 24th
New Milford....Sunday, July 31st
H. K. WALLING.

South Elliot, Me....Sunday, June 26th
Barnstead, N. H....Sunday, July 3d
East Rochester....Sunday, July 10th
J. H. F. VARNEY.

Wallingford, Ct. (grove meeting near Bro. Dudley's) Sabbath, June 19th. O. D. WOODRUFF.

Loudon Ridge, N. H....Sabbath, June 19th
A. KIDDER.

Minot Corner, Me....Sunday, June 19th
South Casco....Sunday, July 3d
J. T. JORDAN.

Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school-house) for baptism, Sunday, July 3d. JOHN PARSONS.

Bristol, R. I....Sunday, June 26th
J. T. DIXON.

Ossian, Livingston Co., N. Y. (school-house) Sunday, June 26th, one o'clock P. M. D. COGSWELL.

Holderness, N. H. (Carr school-house) Sab., June 19th
Ellsworth, N. H., (Freewill Baptist meeting-house) about four miles from Silver's store, Sab., June 26th
C. W. NELSON.

Stoneham, Mass....Thursday evening, June 16th and Friday evening, June 17th.
ANNA E. SMITH.

Week's Mills, China, Me....Sunday, June 19th
L. D. TOTMAN.

Litchfield, Conn. (where Weaver Auston may appoint) Sunday, June 19th.
Newfield (where Wm. Grant may appoint) Sunday, June 29th.) W. W. SUTHERLAND.

Friendship, Me....Sunday, June 19th
Northport, (as Bro. Pendleton may appoint) Sunday, June 26th.
Lincolnville Corner (Free House)....Sunday, July 3d
JER. CARR.

Upper Bartlett, N. H....Sunday, June 19th
L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Salisbury, (Union meeting-house) Sabbath, June 19th
Strafford, N. H., (Roberts' school-house), Sun., June 26th. S. S. MOONEY.

Cheshire Street....Sunday, June 19th
Will Deacon Tuttle meet me at the Meriden depot, June 18th, at four o'clock P. M.? WM. STUART.

Hemlock Lake (as Bro. Owen and others may appoint) Sunday, July 3d. C. F. SWEET.

Whitefield Conference....Sunday, June 19th
Melvin Village....Sunday, June 29th
T. W. PIPER.

Second Division of New Durham..Sunday, June 19th
C. H. WILLEY.
JOSEPH LIBBY.

Hampton, N. H....Sunday, June 19th
Great Falls, N. H. (at the tent meeting) Sunday, June 26th. A. SIMPSON.

Warner, N. H. (where Bro. Haremon may appoint) Sunday, June 19th.
East Boston (Chase's Block....evening, June 21st
Lynn....evening, June 22nd
Lawrence....evening, June 23d
Kennebunk Depot....evening, June 24th
Kennebunkport....Sunday, June 26th
Portland, Me....evening, June 27th
Lewiston....June 28th and 29th
Mechanic Falls....evening, June 30th
Bryant's Pond....evening, July 1st
Poland, Me. (where the brethren may appoint) Sunday, July 3d.
East Colebrook, Kiddersville....Sunday, July 10th
U. G. LADD.
If these appointments conflict with others, please write me at Lowell, Mass. U. G. L.

West Kingston, N. H....Sunday, June 19th
Lake Village, N. H....Sunday, June 26th
WM. C. STEWART.

Northwood Narrows, N. H....Sabbath, June 26th
N. C. TWOMBLY.

Rye, N. H....Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th and evenings in the intervening week.
Seabrook, N. H....Sundays, July 3d and 10th
Warner Village (Union Hall)....Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th. ALLEN DAMON.

Lawrence, Mass....Sundays, June 19th and 26th
I. B. POTTER.

Great Works, Me....Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
South Elliot, Me....Sundays, July 10th and 17th
Seabrook, N. H....Sundays, July 24th and 31st
E. S. MOULTON.

Great Falls, N. H....Sunday, June 19th
New Bedford....Sundays, June 19th and 26th
M. Batchelor....Sunday, July 3d
M. BATCHELOR.

Webster, Mass....Sabbath, June 19th
Woodstock Valley, Ct....Sabbath, June 26th
P. S. BUTLER.

In the vicinity of Lowell or Burlington, as may be thought best, Sunday, June 19th.
THOMAS SMITH.

Loudon Ridge....Sunday, June 19th
L. E. SAULPAUGH.

North Searsport....Friday June 17th
Searsport Village....Sunday, June 19th and baptize if desired.
Will meet the brethren on Saturday evening to make arrangements. ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Holderness (True school-house)....Sunday, June 19th
JULIA BUSWELL.

Southington, Ct....Sunday, June 19th
S. C. HANCOCK.

North Scituate, R. I....Sunday, June 19th
ENOCH MORRILL.

Plainfield Pond, Mass....Sunday, June 11th
Charlemont, Mass....Thursday evening, June 23d
Northfield, Mass....Sunday, June 26th
Subject at Northfield—The 1335 days the only period reaching to the end of Daniel's vision.
H. K. FLAGG.

Portland, Me....Sabbath, June 19th
Cape Elizabeth (if desired) Monday evening, June 20th
South Berwick, (Great Works)....evening, June 21st
Lee, N. H....Wednesday evening, June 22nd
Will be at Newmarket eleven o'clock A. M. train.
Exeter, N. H....Thursday evening, June 23d
Hampton, N. H....Friday evening, June 24th
Rye....Sunday, June 26th
Portsmouth....Tuesday evening, June 28th
Lawrence, Mass....Wednesday, June 29th
Wakefield....Thursday evening, June 30th
Lynn....Friday, July 1st
Webster....Sabbath, July 10th
Charlton (Chapel)....Sunday, July 17th
Will be at Charlton depot 1½ P. M. H. MUNGER.
Shall be at liberty until after campmeeting to preach vicinity of home Sabbaths only. H. M.

South Berwick, Me. (Great Works)....Sab., June 19th
Lafayette, R. I....evening, July 6th
Rocky Brook, R. I....evening, July 7th
Wyoming, R. I....Sabbath, July 10th
Seabrook, N. H....evening, July 15th
Portland, Me....Sabbaths, July 24th and 31st
Kennebunk Depot, Me....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
C. H. SWEET.

North Somers, Ct....Sabbath, June 19th
G. L. WHITE.

Springfield....Sunday, June 26th
Z. FORD.

East Haddam, Ct....Sunday, June 19th
Hartland (Town Hall)....Sunday, June 26th
S. WOODRUFF.

Vernon, Vt....Sunday, July 3d
WM. SUTHERLAND.

Montgomery....Sunday, June 19th
Huntington (as Bro. Greenwood may arrange) Sunday, 5 P. M.
Westfield Farms....Sunday, June 26th
E. OWEN.

Belgrade Depot....Sunday, June 19th
H. B. SEVEY.

Holderness, N. H. (Car school-house) Sun., June 26th
Campton, N. H. (Bump school-house), Sun., July 3d
West Ossipee, N. H....Sunday, July 10th
C. LOCKE.
J. B. BROWN.

Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall) Sabbath, June 19th
Boscawen, N. H., (Gulf school-house) evening, June 18th, and Sabbath, June 26th.
Webster, N. H. (old meeting-house)....Sab., July 3d
SIMEON ROBY.

Melvin Village, N. H....Sabbath, June 19th
A. M. TRIPP.

Chichester, N. H. (Dover school-house)....June 19th
Dover, N. H....Sunday, June 26th
Alton Corner, N. H....Sunday, July 10th
East Rochester, N. H....Sunday, July 17th
H. M. BRYANT.

Hartford, Ct....Thursday evening, June 16th
Worcester, Mass....Sundays, June 19th and 26th
Dover, N. H. (City Hall)...Sundays, July 3d and 10th
A. A. PHELPS.

Gosport, Isle Shoals....evening, June 25th and over Sunday, the 26th.
New Durham Ridge, N. H....Sunday, July 3d
Great Falls....Sunday, July 10th
Dover....Sunday, July 17th
J. PINKHAM.

Scitico....Sunday, June 19th
H. H. DICKINSON.

Lowell, Mass....Sunday, June 19th
J. G. SMITH.

Kennebunkport....Sunday, June 19th
Scarborough Blue Point....Sunday, June 26th
Cape Porpoise....Sunday, July 3d
Hollis Centre....Sunday, July 10th
Bonny Eagle....Sunday, July 17th
T. P. S. HAMPSON.

Lake Village, N. H. (North Church) Sabbath, June 19th. Also, Tuesday evening, June 21st.
Meredith Village, N. H..Thursday evening, June 23d
Meredith Center (Dolloff Hall)....evening, June 25th and Sabbath, 26th.
Will Bro. Veasey meet me at the Village, Saturday, the 25th, and much oblige? B. P. MANNING.

Warehousepoint, Ct. (Chapel)....Sunday, June 19th
South Windsor, Ct....Sunday, June 26th
R. K. STARK.

Sugar Hill, N. H....once in two weeks
N. WHEELER.

Bonny Eagle, Me....Sunday, June 19th
Hollis Centre, Me....Sunday, June 26th
JER. HILL.

Corinna, Me....Sunday, June 19th
A. H. WALKER.

East Rochester, N. H....Sunday, June 19th
WM. BODGE.

Keene, N. H....Sunday, June 19th
Vernon, Vt....Sunday, June 26th
A. M. HIGGINS.

Belmont, N. H....Sabbath, June 19th
Manchester, N. H....Sabbath, June 26th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Rootville, Break Bread....first Sunday in the month
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Cabot, Vt....Sunday, June 19th
A. W. SIBLEY.

Brunswick, Me. (Temperance Hall) Sunday, June 26th
R. R. YORK.

Lewiston, Me....Sunday, June 19th
JARED WHITMAN.

Water Village, N. H., for baptism..Sunday, June 19th
MARK STEVENS, C. COLMAN, T. L. CHURCHILL.

Hartford, (Talcott and Post's Hall), Sunday, June 19th
New Britain, Ct....Sunday, June 26th
Springfield, Mass....Sundays, July 3d and 10th
West Meriden, Ct....Sunday, July 17th
W. N. PILE.

Campville....Sunday, June 19th
WM. J. RIPLEY.

West Gardiner....Sunday, June 19th
Lewiston....Sunday, June 26th
N. G. REED.

Dorchester, N. H (Town House)...Sunday, June 19th
North Dorchester, N. H. (Union school-house) Sunday, June 26th. JOHN H. EVANS.

Dansville....five o'clock, Sunday, June 19th
Swift Water....five o'clock, Sunday, July 3d
A. A. HOYT.

LOWELL, MASS.
J. G. Smith....Sunday, June 19th
J. W. Thomas....Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
Wm. H. Mitchell....Sunday, July 10th

CONCORD, N. H., (CENTRE STREET.)
J. Albert Libby....Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th
M. Batchelor....Sabbath, July 10th

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)
Sr. L. M. Stoddard...Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
A. A. Phelps....Sundays, July 24th and 31st

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
J. Pinkham....Sunday, June 19th
N. Glidden....Sunday, June 26th
J. Couch....Sunday, July 3d
Geo. W. Burnham....Sunday, July 10th
C. H. Sweet....Sunday, July 17th
Allen Damman....Sundays, July 24th and 31st
J. H. F. Varney....Sunday, Aug. 7th

EAST ROCHESTER, N. H.
Wm. Bodge....Sabbath, June 19th
Wm. H. Mitchell..Sabbath, July 3d and Mon., July 4th

LOUDON RIDGE. N. H.
L. E. Saulpaugh....Sunday, June 19th
Joseph Harvey....Sunday, June 26th

PITTSFIELD, N. H. (at the Bethel.)
—— Morrell....Sunday, June 19th
J. Parsons....Sunday, June 26th

MANCHESTER, N. H.
C. Shattuck....Sunday, June 19th

DOVER, N. H.
C. Goodrich....Sunday, June 19th

HAMPTON, N. H.
J. G. Smith....Sunday, June 26th

HARTFORD, CT.
Wm. A. & M. L. Durand....Sabbath, June 26th
S. Woodruff....Sabbath, July 3d

NEW BRITAIN, CT.
A. Simpson....Sunday, June 19th
Wm. N. Pile....Sunday, June 26th
C. C. Barker....Sunday, July 10th
J. S. White....Sunday, July 31st

SCITICO, CT.
G. L. White....Sunday, June 26th
H. H. Dickinson....Sunday, July 3d

BRISTOL, CT.
Mary E. Otis....Sunday, June 19th
H. H. Dickinson....Sabbath, July 3d
R. K. Stark....Sabbath, July 17th
M. L. Durand....Sabbath, July 31st

ABINGTON, CT.
A. Morse....Sabbath, June 19th
C. H. Sweet....Sabbath, July 3d

WOLCOTTVILLE, CT.
G. L. Teeple....Sunday, June 19th

PLEASANT VALLEY, CT.
J. S. White....Sunday, July 24th

HOOSICK, N. Y.
Z. D. Baird....Sunday, June 19th
E. Towsly....Sunday, June 26th
J. Wilbur....Sunday, July 3d

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED.
WHAT IS MAN?
THE SOUL—WHAT IS IT?
THE SPIRIT—WHAT IS IT?
THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.

All the above works in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

Business.

Letters Received.

E J S Rice, J L Porter, Wm Hobbs, M E Otis, A E McEllister, J Wilbur, R Lanning, F H Chamberlain, S S Chamberlain, J C Stoddard, W A Jarrel, D N Smith, M L Lawrence, J A Kelly, C H Sweet.

Cash received for Books and Tracts.

C W Sargent $2.75, J Hemenway $9.00, S Stearns 35c, G W Ashdown $1.15, G W Work 60c, C R Parsons $1.00, N Banning 75c, S S Gardner $1.50, Mrs. H Ingalls 50c, G A Hawkins $3.65, O Stannard $5.00, A S Albee $1.25, R O White 35c, B Eastman $1.00, H Rude 70c, A. Rice $1.65, G. King 35c, J V Himes $3.50, H T Hart $2.70, J S Arnold 45c, J L Buringer 60c, W H Davis 45c, G W Henson $1.00, E Bellows $8.40, W Tefft $4.75, A B Swainsburg $1.75, W C Peck $1.00.

Books and Tracts Sent.

By Mail—J S Placker, Office "Hope of Israel," M A Patten, J W Nelson, W C Sherman, I A Spafford, R S Johnson, J T Day, H E Hooperthwaite, E D Kentfield, G T Work, G W Ashdown, Sally Stearns, C R Parsons, N Banning, J A Cleaveland, D C Day, Mrs M H Elmer, Miss H Ingalls, W Bradbury, A M Taylor, J R Sands, C F Lathrop, R O White, R H Austin, A S Albee, H Rude, A Rice, F H Bruce, J Harding, E A Prescott, S Denich, J S Arnold.

By Express—J M Garwin, S Roby, S S Gardner, Geo Wright, O Stannard, W Tefft, O F Yale, H T Hart, R L Harrison, R Geyer, Sch. Planter, Capt. Thompson.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents. Postage 8 cts.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc., etc. Cloth, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Leather back, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c; Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERYBODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? A Tract on War. Price 10c, postage 2c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 6c.

THE FIRST DAY SABBATH. By T. M. Preble. A new and interesting work. pp. 471. Price $1.50.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5 cts. single; by mail, 7 cts.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M Preble. 15c postage 2 cts., or by mail 17 cts.

TWO HUNDRED STORIES FOR CHILDREN. By Elder T. M. Preble. pp. 234. 80c. by mail.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 22pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. By Thomas Carlyle. 3c. single; 5c. by mail; 20c. per dozen.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR; or, Spiritualism; What it is, and what it is not. Paper covers, $1.00; by mail; cloth, $1.25 by mail.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

VOICE OF THE THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.60.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THR SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, Retribution, and Will all Men be Saved? By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man, with various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper, 50c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church; By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times to Daniel and John. On Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

THAT MAN OF SIN. By Eld. O. R. Fassett. To which is added "The Only Hope." Price, 5c. single; postage 2c. 50c. per dozen; postage 6c.

Any of the above will be sent by mail on receipt of the price.

LIST OF ENGLISH BIBLES.

We have received and keep on hand the following English Reference Bibles:

Minion, 8vo., marg. ref., large type, circuit binding, $4.50; postage 28 cts. Do. plain binding, $4.00; postage 28 cts.

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., circuit binding, $3.50; postage 20 cts. (Best size for preachers.)

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., plain, $2.25; postage 20 cts. Do. ref. between verses, $2.25; postage 24 cts.

Pearl, 8 vo., marg. ref., circuit, $3.25; postage 20 cts. Do. plain, $1.75; postage 20 cts.

SPIRITUALISM CONDEMNED

BY THE TESTIMONY OF THE BIBLE AND ITS OWN WITNESSES.

BY M. D. WELLCOME.

Price 10 cents single copy. Twenty copies for $1.00; $3.50 per one hundred copies.

"Historic Echoes of the Voice of God."

AN EXPOSITION OF THE ELEVENTH CHAPTER OF DANIEL.

BY ELDER J. COUCH.

Price 15 cents single copy. $1.50 per dozen. $10.00 per one hundred.

"ADVENTISM."

We have a supply of this valuable work.
Price in cloth....75 cts., postage 12 cts.
Flexible covers....60 cts., postage 12 cts.
Paper covers....50 cts., postage 6 cts.
In paper covers by the dozen, by express, $4.75.

For the World's Crisis.

CONSECRATION.

WRITTEN ON HEARING ELDER A. A. PHELPS, DISCOURSE ON ROMANS 12: 1.

Father, thy grace in Christ revealed,
Rises before my wond'ring eyes
Like a vast mountain, which hath fill'd
The earth, and reaches to the skies:
Though sin our fallen world surrounds,
Yet sovereign grace much more abounds.

O Lamb of God, the bitter cup,
Which was our due, was drained by thee;
By faith I view thee lifted up,
The Substitute that sets me free:
Henceforth I'll know no other boast
But Jesus died to save the lost.

O Spirit of the living God,
Let me be sealed and sanctified;
Apply to me the cleansing blood,
That I may in thy will abide,—
A living, loving sacrifice
For Him who bought me with a price.

Great God, Supreme, Unsearchable,
Thou dwellest in eternity!
And yet thou deignst to come and dwell
With contrite ones who wait on thee.
Come, wondrous Guest, thy waiting one
Invites thee to thy lowly throne.

Newark, N. J. JOHN LYLE.

For the World's Crisis.

THE PRE-EXISTENCE OF CHRIST.

"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made. In him was life; and the life was the light of men."—John 1: 1-4.

The most important truth in divine revelation is, to know Christ in all his relations to the fallen sons of Adam. In the above text we have brought to our view his pre-existence, his creative power, and that he is the source of life and light to all the children of men.

The doctrine of the pre-existence of Christ was the principal question that agitated the Christian church from the second century until the end of the sixth. It is very easy to see where the doctrine of the literal restitution and the materiality of the Bible began to give way, through the introduction of heathen mythology. The Catholics have a small book called "The History of the Fathers," or bishops, of the primitive church, from the apostle Peter down for several centuries; which shows that they were nearly all most profound heathen philosophers who had embraced the Christian religion. At a very early date those fathers established a theological school in Alexandria, called the Eclectic school, for the education of the ministry. It was the design of this school to select from all the different systems of heathen philosophy, and harmonize those selections with divine revelation.

Origen was a teacher in this school, and it is said of him that he "interpreted the divine truths of religion according to the tenor of the Platonic philosophy. He believed in the pre-existence of souls, and says 'the nature of the soul is such as to make her capable of existing eternally backward as well as forward, because her spiritual essence, as such, makes it impossible that she should, either through age or violence, be dissolved." He said also "that souls were condemned to animate mortal bodies, in order to expiate faults they had committed in a pre-existent state." Origen did a great deal towards laying the foundation of spiritualism, if it be proper to use the word foundation with immateriality.

Not long after Origen, Arius arose, and revived the doctrine of the literal interpretation. He commenced his defense of the material doctrine in the proper place, in denying the trinity and unity of three Gods composed of one divine, spiritual essence. He maintained that Christ in his pre-existence had a separate and distinct personality from the Father, and that he was the first and chief of all created intelligences, to whom God committed the word of creative power. The faith of Arius is in keeping with the testimony of Paul. In Col. 1 : 15, speaking of Christ, he says, "Who is the image of the invisible God, the first-born of every creature." And in the same chapter (v. 18) he declared him to be the "first-born from the dead, that in all things he might have the pre-eminence." John brings the same truth to view in writing to the seven churches which are in Asia; and it is worthy of notice that Christ is represented under a different name to every one of those churches. To the Laodiceans he says, "Write; These things saith the Amen, the faithful and true witness, the beginning of the creation of God," or, as Murdock has it, "the chief of the creation of God."

Although Arius was condemned as a heretic, by two councils of Bishops, one in 320, at Alexandria, and the other at the Council of Nice in 325; yet notwithstanding the decision of those bishops, the doctrine was triumphant under the Vandals in Africa, and also under the Goths in Italy, Gaul, and Spain, and had a strong hold also on the eastern empire. But papacy was like the wolf and the lamb in fable: when she obtained the aid of the civil arm, all her reasoning was done by the sword. It is very easy to see, from the fact of Protestant writers endorsing the fabulous stories of Catholics respecting the Arians, that they have been tasting of the old mother's wine. One story is, that the Arians cut out the tongues of the Catholic bishops by the roots, and they spoke just as well without their tongues as with them. Gibbon says this is a hard story, and it is none the more true from the fact of a Catholic bishop being its author. Another Catholic story is, that when the friends of Arius were carrying him in triumph to the great church of Constantinople, that he expired on the spot, and his bowels gushed out; thus trying to make him a second Judas.

One truth stands out prominently (both in history and prophecy), that the vengeance of the Catholic church was aimed at the material doctrine of Christ's pre-existence as held by the Arians. When the eastern empire had decided not to go to war with the Vandals in Africa, a Catholic bishop exhorted them by no means to abandon their holy enterprise; that the God of battles would go in front of their standard, and they should have no trouble in vanquishing the enemies of the Son of God. This bishop not only changed the decision of the government, but gave them the plan to raise the money; which plan was, to compel all classes to become Catholics inside of three months, or flee the empire, leaving all they had behind them. This well-aimed blow against the Arian church proved effectual in destroying her, both in the east and in the south.

We might ask the question, Why was this little horn to destroy three kingdoms? The answer is very plain; because they were all Arian governments, namely, the Vandals, the Ostrogoths, and the Burgundians, which were all three destroyed by the influence of papacy. But this little horn was to "cast down the truth to the ground," which shows clearly that there was an object in destroying those three Arian kingdoms, because they held the truth on the very foundation stone of our hope. Besides, it was this truth respecting Christ that was then agitating the church throughout the whole Roman empire.

We should think none would fail to see the vast importance of Christ (before the foundation of the world) being a divinely organized entity, separate and distinct from the Father, having both body, parts, and passions. For to deny this, our foundation of materiality is gone, and we launch out upon a wide ocean of uncertainty, without harbor or shore.

If it is once admitted that Christ existed from all eternity without form, tangibility, or materiality, would it be unreasonable to suppose that, after he had finished the work of redemption, he should resume his former mode of living, without being encumbered with an organization? And if this be so, may not the doctrine of heathen philosophers be true after all, that we must remain in these tenements of clay until we shall be sufficiently chastised; then the prison-house will fall, and the prisoners flee away through the uttermost bounds of space?

The pre-existence of Christ has been a subject of much discussion in the past, especially for the first six centuries. Two of the greatest men in the Methodist church differed widely on this question; the one was Dr. A. Clarke, and the other Richard Watson. Mr. Watson held the view that the sonship of Christ was from all eternity. Dr. Clarke said it was eternal nonsense to make a son as old as his father, and it confounded the use of all language. These two learned divines were driven to two great extremes on this question, because of their belief in the trinity and in natural immortality. These doctrines, which were taken from heathen philosophy, and were forced upon the nations by the sword, strange to say, were never questioned in the Reformation; which doctrines have proved effectual in shaking the entire fabric of material theology.

Some of our brethren hold the same view as Dr. Clarke on the sonship of Christ; that he only existed as the word, or spirit, before his incarnation. But Jesus says they were called gods, to whom the word or spirit of God came. If the prophets were called gods because the word of God dwelt in them, no one would pretend to say there was nothing of them but the word. Jesus says, "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life." He says also, "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you." This was the word of power that dwelt in the first-born Son of every creature.

OUR LIFE.

The second part of our text reads, "In him was life, and the life was the light of men." These words contain the very essence of Bible truth, when received by faith into good and honest hearts in all their simplicity. But in order to understand the life referred to in the text, we should first consider the life which we inherit from our first parents. Moses says (Lev. 17 : 11), "For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar, to make an atonement for your soul," or life. If a man or woman under the law committed the crime of eating blood, they were to be cut off from among the people, because it contained the life both of man and beast. It has been believed for many centuries that the life was in the nerves; but Dr. Harvey and Dr. John Hunter, two great anatomists, have fully demonstrated the truth of Moses by many experiments, proving the vitality of the blood. They say when the nerves going to any part are tied or cut, the part becomes paralyzed, and loses all the power of motion; but it does not mortify. But let the artery be cut, and the part dies, and mortification ensues.

Paul adds his testimony in support of the blood life, which reads as follows: "And hath made of one blood all nations of men."—Acts 17 : 26. Dr. A. Clarke, in his Notes on Lev. 17, fully substantiates the truth of Moses and Paul. He says: "That the human being proceeded originally from the blood, admits of no doubt; and it is natural and reasonable to suppose that, as it was the cause under God which generated all the other parts of the body, so it still continues to be the principle of life, and by it alone all the wastes of the system are repaired." The Doctor fully proves that all the solids, as well as the fluids, of the human body are derived from blood. From this fact it is proper to apply the word translated soul, or life, either to the whole man, or to the vital fluids. It is immaterial whether the word soul in Scripture is applied to the solids or fluids of the human body, or both, since all come from and are generated by blood. Therefore the primary meaning of the word soul, as found in the Scriptures, is life, or blood.

When the priests under the law offered the blood of many victims upon the altar, the Lord received the offering as a substitute for the lives of the people, until the atonement was made. Besides, the whole scheme of human redemption, in every place, is attributed to the blood of the everlasting covenant, which Christ fulfilled upon the cross. Jesus says, "What is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" or life.—Matt. 16 : 26. This question of our Lord is an important one, and the answer is very simple, which involves a choice between two lives. If we save the Adamic blood life, we shall lose it, and perish; but if we are willing to lose this life, and suffer with Christ, we exchange it for the life of the second Adam, who is a quickening spirit.

Paul makes the human system to be composed of three parts, which are spirit, soul, and body, and prays for these parts, that they may be preserved blameless unto the coming of Christ. The first is the spirit, which cannot be the spirit of Christ, as that never errs; it must therefore mean our mental faculties, such as motives, desires, and hopes, with all the exercises of the mind. The second is the soul, which cannot mean the spirit, or body, and must be the blood. But, says one, are we to be blamed for the impurity of our blood? Certainly, we are, if we have been the means of making it so, either by eating or drinking, or anything else that injures our physical constitution. Blood is the vital principle of human life, and by it alone all the wastes of the system are repaired.

The third part to be kept blameless is the body, which is composed of many members, of which the tongue is perhaps the most unruly and hard to conquer. We have also the lusts of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life to contend with, and, as Paul says, to "keep under." How important that this habitation, or temple of God, should be holy and undefiled, and that we keep the very best apartment in it well furnished for our divine Housekeeper, and never give him reason to leave.

"In Him was life." We have been reviewing the natural life through the first Adam, and we now come to notice the spiritual life through the second Adam. Jesus says, "He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me and I in him"; but as this saying troubled the Jews, he explained to them, saying, "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life." Under the law, they were only to eat the flesh of the victim, and to sprinkle the blood upon the altar; thus showing that the body was to be restored; but the blood, which is the Adamic life, was not, because the second Adam is a quickening spirit. Our Lord has selected the vine as a fit representation of the spirit life, both in its juice and its sap. When you make an incision in this plant in the spring, the sap pours forth a stream, showing the abundance of the spirit, which flows from the living vine to his suffering church. We make an incision in the vine, and insert the scion, so that the sap can freely flow from the stock to the graft, and it becomes a living branch. There was an incision made in the side of Jesus, which no doubt pierced his heart, the seat of life, and all the Adamic blood was poured upon the altar, which blood he never took again, but was quickened by the Spirit of God. After his resurrection, he told unbelieving Thomas to thrust his hand into his side; so that the incision was still there sufficient to engraft a world, if they would only believe.

It is from the side of Jesus that the whole family of God are taken, as so many branches of this living vine; just as the mother of our race was taken from the side of the first Adam, from whom we have all received our natural life. The life we receive through the second Adam is supernatural, and is brought to view under the figure of engrafting; as it reads: "Receiving with meekness the engrafted word," or spirit. This brings the true church into perfect union with her Head, just as the scion, or graft, receives the free circulation of the sap, when it is united to the literal vine. The church thus receives the spirit of adoption, which raises her above all fear, and with which she is commanded to be filled.

Beloved brethren and sisters, whatever else we may be mistaken in, let us not be mistaken in having this spiritual life invigorating our entire being, and circulating as freely through every branch, as the sap does through the literal vine. Let none of us be deceived in putting off the reception of this spiritual life until the resurrection; for just as certain as we do, we shall have neither part nor lot in this matter. Jesus could not have expressed his willingness in stronger terms than he has, to give the Holy Spirit freely to all that ask him. Let us therefore ask and receive, that our joy may be full.

ABRAHAM FLAVELLE.

For the World's Crisis.

WORDS OF CHEER FOR DESPONDING DISCIPLES.

"In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world."—John 16 : 33.

How encouraging are these words. They fall like sweet balm on the ear. They lift the heart from the depths of its sadness, and bid us rejoice in the midst of tribulation. Earth is a dreary place. Ever since sin entered the portals of fair Eden, sorrow and tears have been the heritage of mankind. The waves of sin and death have rolled and swelled for nearly six thousand years. Many a little barque has been foundered on the rocks and shoals, and the lee-shore of time is lined with their scattered fragments. Still the storm rushes, the night is dark, and the perils grow thicker on every side. Were it not for the voice of Him who can say, "Peace, be still," we should sometimes despair of ever reaching the port of endless peace; but, blessed be God, there is hope. We are not left without any hope to cheer us, nor sound to guide us. Through the mists and gloom, there beams a radiant light. Above the noise and confusion there rings a sweet and heavenly voice. We shall yet reach the shore.

I have read of an island in a distant sea, from whose shores the fishermen sail in tiny crafts to procure the treasures of the deep. During their absence thick mists often descend and cover highland, cliff, and beacon, with so thick a veil, that these hardy mariners are left without a mark by which to steer their laden barques. But in these dull hours they are not left unguided on the pathless sea. When the time for their return arrives, the women of that islet—mothers, wives, sisters and daughters—descend to the shores and raise the voice of song. Borne on the quiet air, their voices soon fall sweetly on the ears of the loved ones on the sea. Guided by the well-known sounds, they steer their boats in safety to the shore. And thus to thee, oh christian, comes the voice of love from the heavenly shore, as thou wanderest, a bewildered child of tribulation, on the misty sea of life. Hearken! "Be of good cheer," is the cry that greets thee. It comes from Jesus, who has overcome this very world which is the scene and source of your trials. His conquest of your adversary is the pledge of your victory. Therefore, "be of good cheer."

There is no person living who does not, at times, feel a spirit of discouragement stealing over him. As a cloud obscures the moon, as mists shroud the sunbeams, so despondency spreads a curtain before the mental eye, and everything in and about the individual assumes a dull, sombre, threatening aspect. Clouds and storms frown loweringly from above; difficulties wall up life's path; dangers, like spectral faces, with large, malignant eyes, gaze fiercely through the gloaming; and the person, shuddering with terror, and shrinking from further conflict, gives up almost in despair.

This spirit is not peculiar to one class, but is common to all. It assails the weary and feeble woman, borne to the dust by bodily affliction, oppressed with a multitude of domestic perplexities, harrassed with innumerable petty but consuming cares; and, if she submit to it, she loses heart and hope. The sun of her life sets untimely, and she weeps away her existence in self-consuming sadness. It is equally powerful in its sway over the high-minded merchant and the lusty artisan, who, in their dark days, seem walled in by forebodings of bankruptcy, poverty, and the poor-house. It often affects christians, too; and, hiding the cross from their vision, leads them to contemplate their past sins and remaining corruptions, until their redemption seems hopeless. And, more mendacious still, it stalks into the pulpit, whispers in the ear of the minister, insinuating that he does not enjoy the confidence of his people; that he is not appreciated; that his gifts are diminishing; and that he had better secularize himself as speedily as possible. Thus a despondent spirit assails all classes and professions, and no man who suffers from it need deem himself peculiarly tried. As it assails him, so it assails all.

But there is a vast difference between different persons in the degrees of power which this spirit attains over them. In some, owing to natural temperaments, to the state of the health, or, more frequently, to the absence of a prompt and vigorous resistance to its influence, it gains the empire of the mind. Such persons, like the unfortunate Cowper, sink into settled melancholy. They become the victims of a morbid sensitiveness. They acquire a marvelous power to discern evil in everything, but are blind to all that is lovely and beautiful in life. Its thorns they diligently gather, and hug with unnatural fondness to their pierced bosoms, fascinated, it would seem, by the ills which so cruelly lacerate them. But on the flowers which bloom in beauty at their feet, they refuse even to gaze.

There is scarcely anything in human life, except guilt, more to be dreaded than such a state as this. To avoid it, its incipient symptoms must be manfully resisted. To prevent its first shadows from falling darkly on the mind is impossible. Those shadows fall unbidden, suddenly, apparently without cause, and often in the midst of our most sunny hours. Even the mighty spirit of Napoleon felt them. When he stood before his pavilion, to witness his grand army cross the Nieman on its way to Moscow—and a grave; and, after its almost innumerable battalions, with their standards floating proudly in the breeze, their helmets and bayonets glistening in the sun, had defiled in his presence, and presented to his gaze an army such as no previous commander had ever led into the field, he is said to have suddenly assumed a grave and gloomy aspect. Turning from the spectacle before him, he hummed a martial air and hastened within the imperial tent. What did this act signify, if not that dark shadows fell on his heart, and that he inwardly trembled before some spectral evils, like a common man?

What these shadows are, and whence they come, are mysterious. Perhaps they proceed from the mind itself, which, in the midst of its most glowing triumphs, remembers its inherent weakness, beholds itself a mere spark, glimmering like the tiny glow-worm, amidst the Infinite, and liable to be trodden into dust by the foot of Almighty power. Or, perhaps, they fall from the earthly objects we almost unconsciously choose, as suns and stars, to light us on our pilgrimage, instead of deriving all our light from God. But no sooner do we look for light, than, lo! the shadows come—merciful shadows, if we understood their meaning. They teach us our creature suns are opaques. They bid us fly from them to Him who liveth in light—who is Light, whose presence casts no shadow on a trustful mind, and who crieth to us from afar, "Be of good cheer."

To fly from a despondent spirit into the light, becomes, therefore, a first duty. To yield to it is the death of happiness and usefulness. A life of darkness is wretchedness. And who, with despondency preying like a ghoul upon his spirit, can achieve any great result in life? No man; for melancholy robs the mind of strength. It is as rottenness to the bones; it is a mental marasmus, under whose influence the noblest powers will pine away into disuetude and desiccation.

There was once an eccentric instructor of youth, who, instead of following the ancient and approved fashion of beating knowledge into unwilling skulls with a rod, was accustomed to help a perplexed scholar through a crooked problem by a word of explanation, and by urging him to a successful effort with the exclamation, "Never despair!" This "never despair" became the battle-cry of his school, and the source of many an algebraic victory.

How much more should the "be of good cheer" of the blessed Christ become thy battle-cry, O christian, and thy charm against despondency in the great strifes of life. It possesses a mystic force, beyond all the amulets of oriental fame. "Be of good cheer"; "never despair." How cheerfully it echoes along the chambers of the mind. What a call to its sinking energies. How it silences the silly prattle of fear. How it revives the silent, drooping heart of hope!

"Never despair?" No, never! Be of good cheer always? Yes, always! "What! not when one has failed, as I have done after ten thousand efforts, to rise into spiritual triumph? What can I do but despair?" Is this your inquiry, discouraging disciple? Do? You can trust. As when one is fainting, he falls into the open arms of a friend, so you, in your perfect weakness, can leave all other aids alone, and sink in self-despair into Christ's bosom. "But he will let me utterly fall!" Hush! that saying is an insult to Christ. It exposes a conviction on your part that Christ can be guilty of falsehood and lying. Forbear that doubt, therefore. You can sink into Christ and rise to spiritual life and victory. Therefore, "be of good cheer."

"But what can I do but despair?" exclaims a mercantile reader; "I have failed in business, and have thereby lost the confidence of my brethren. I am poor now, and I see no ground for hope." Tush! man; never despair. Great powers lie slumbering in your soul. They only wait your summons. Rise, therefore, in the majesty of an unconquered will. Be superior to your misfortunes. Assert the supremacy of mind over circumstances. Begin life anew. Assault your obstacles with sturdy blows, and look well to Him who says, "Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in him, and he shall bring it to pass." "Be of good cheer!"

But I hear another voice. It comes from the delicate invalid—the exhausted mother. "I have nothing to hope for," is her language; "my health is gone, my hopes crushed. Motion is toil to me, and existence pain. Darkness is in my soul, and I am weary of life. Must I not despair?" No, child of affliction, no! Even you must hope. Never despair! Jesus loves you. That thought is a cheerful ray of light, in which you may rejoice. True, you are a physical sufferer; perhaps you always will be; yet—

"Look yonder at that cloud, which, through the sky
Sailing along, doth cross in her career
The rolling moon. I watched it as it came,
And deemed the dark opaque would blot her beams;
But, melting like a wreath of snow, it hangs
In folds of many silver round, and clothes
The orb with richer beauties than her own;
Then passing, leaves her in light serene."

Do you understand the poet, lady? As that cloud clothes the moon in richer beauty, so shall your afflictions, patiently borne, robe your suffering spirit in lustre which will make it all the more precious to its Redeemer forever—yes, forever! Can you not then endure a little hour of suffering, for an eternity of increased bliss? Ay, you can. Then let hope sing its songs once more in your drooping heart, and whatever may be your pangs, bear them, saying, "Lord, I will never despair."

Thus applied, this motto has force to keep the mind from falling into confirmed melancholy; and to lead it to the height of its power to achieve great and good things. For, while despondency unmans it, a hopeful spirit, by creating a consciousness of power, sets all its faculties into vigorous motion. Thus, the artist Correggio, when young, saw a painting by Raphael. Long and ardently did the thoughtful boy gaze on that picture. His soul drank in its beauty, as flowers drink moisture from the mist. It waked to the consciousness of artistic power. Burning with the enthusiasm of enkindled genius, the blood rushing to his brow, and fire flashing from his eyes, he cried out, "I also am a painter!" That conviction carried him through his initial studies, it blended the colors on his pallet, it guided his pencil, it shone on his canvass, until the glorious Titian, on witnessing his production, exclaimed, "Were I not Titian, I should wish to be Correggio."

Thus by refusing to despair of success, and by a summons to his powers, Correggio drew them forth, and triumphed.

And it must be so with thee, O christian, if you ever attain to happiness, holiness, and usefulness. "Be of good cheer," must be your watchword in every strife. If you are borne down to-day by force or guile, you must shout your battle-cry, and resume the contest tomorrow. If the whelming waves overflow you, and you sink in deep waters, you must gather fresh strength from the mysterious depths of your own mind, and from God, and once more mount the surface and rejoice.

However oppressed, hindered, crushed, tried, walled in, or tempted, still let your eye be fixed on God, and your cry be heard echoing above all your foes, "I will be of good cheer." Do this, and you are sure to win some spoils, and to attain the glorious goal toward which you run.

The kingdom is nearing. Thank God, we shall not wander here but a little longer. The snow-capped mountains of Vermont will be changed into the glorious verdure of the Paradise of God. Old groaning earth shall be delivered. Sorrow, tears and death will be forever banished. The saints from every age and clime will meet. Tears shall be wiped from all faces, and loved ones shall be reunited to part no more. Then let us "be of good cheer."

"Onward, Christian, though the region
Where thou art be drear and lone;
God hath set a guardian legion
Very near thee,—press thee on!"

J. W. THOMAS.

West Fairlee, Vt., March 9th.

For the World's Crisis.

CHASING A REVIVAL.—No. 2.

The importance attached to the issues of the negative of this question demand a more thorough discussion of the subject. The main idea contained in the article referred to in a former communication was, that revivals come like showers of the natural rain; or that after the church had been revived and quickened for a season, it had no power to longer retain this blessing.

So thought Dr. Beecher; but can this theory be sustained by the word of God? Dr. Beecher was a predestinarian, and hence, as we think, these erroneous views. In reviewing this subject, let us go back to the baptism of the Holy Spirit upon the day of Pentecost. And we infer that it was given in answer to prayer, notwithstanding Christ had promised it, and the prophets had foretold it. And we doubt whether the church or an individual christian has ever felt its reviving influences but in answer to prayer.

It is much like the water supplied to the city of Boston, or other cities: when the inhabitants desire water, they have only to go to the hydrant and draw. And the important question we wish to solve is, How has the church got into the habit of drawing so seldom and sparingly at this fountain of water of life? We infer from the Acts of the Apostles, and the history of the church, that there was a continuous revival for many years after the ascension of our Lord. The work of preparing a people for his kingdom went steadily on until the dark ages began to cast their shadows over the church, and there its aggressive force was weakened, and it became crippled in its labor; and when it had passed through the wilderness, and emerged again into the light, it commenced a new era in its history; but during this period it lost its discriminating power to discern between truth and error, hence its adoption of many creeds and doctrines of men.

The rite of infant and adult sprinkling for baptism, a sky-kingdom for the "kingdom under the whole heavens," and many other doctrines which seem to be the standard theology of many of the churches, were not taught by Christ or his apostles. But I have wandered somewhat from the main subject in hand. I shall not be able in this article to sufficiently digest this subject; for we consider the work of turning man to righteousness, or a revival, to be the most important work the church can be engaged in at this time; and there is significance in this word. Men may be turned from one doctrine, or creed, either true or false, to another, and not be turned to righteousness; and it is to be feared that multitudes are hoping to be saved merely by adopting some peculiar doctrine, or creed. But we have the sure word of God that "without holiness no man shall see the Lord." So if we present anything to Christ but his own blood, and our souls cleansed in it, it will be but a stench in his nostrils.

D. N. SMITH.

— God's word is like God's world—varied, very rich, very beautiful: You never know when you have exhausted all its secrets. The Bible, like nature, has something for every class of mind. Look at the Bible in a new light, and straightway you see some new charms.

— The man who owns whole blocks of real estate, and great ships on the sea, does not own one moment of to-morrow! To morrow is a mysterious possibility not yet born.

— Nothing is great enough for Him to admire, who is infinite majesty; nothing is mean enough for Him to despise, who is infinite mercy.

— The selfishness of the world understands the grace that is in the christian which can forgive; but in principle that grace is foolishness to him.

The Children's Corner.

PLEDGE OF THE TRY COMPANY.

We, the Undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from Tea, Coffee, Tobacco, and all Intoxicating Drinks as a Beverage.

RIGHT AWAY.

I will come to Jesus right away,
'Tis his Spirit calls me, I obey;
Jesus will receive me, he will never leave me,
I will come to Jesus right away.

I will pray to Jesus right away,
I will seek his blessing every day;
While my heart is pleading, he is interceding,
I will pray to Jesus right away.

I will live for Jesus right away,
'Tis my Savior calls me, I obey;
Now in childhood's morning is the gentle warning,
I will live for Jesus right away.

I will work for Jesus right away,
Labor in his vineyard every day;
With my heart pursuing what my hands are doing,
I will work for Jesus right away.

I will wait for Jesus every day,
And for his coming I will pray,
Glad that it is nearing, loving his appearing;
I will wait for Jesus every day.

—Selected by Geo. Thomson.

LITTLE ORPHANS.

I was very lonely: a great and desolate void had suddenly been made in my heart and home, and day and night I listened for a sweet baby voice that never would thrill my soul again, or waken the echoes of the great rooms that once had been made merry by that dear presence.

Every mother who has lost her darling will know how I missed my little four-year old pet, how at every sound I started up as if to welcome her to my arms again, only to return to a more solitary vigil.

One night I retired to rest feeling a greater depression of spirits than ever; selfishly brooding upon my sorrow, I closed my eyes to a troubled slumber, and in a dream my angel-child seemed to appear before me. I reached forth my arms, calling her by name, but her voice checked me, and in a tone of ineffable sadness she said, "O, mamma, there are poor little orphan children!" That was all, and the vision faded. In the morning, as I threw open my window and the sunlight streamed through the room, I thought how I had been shutting out the light from my soul, and there seemed to come again the words, "There are poor little orphan children."

I am not naturally superstitious, but somehow the thought would come that my dream was sent as a warning and reproof. Poor little orphan children in the world, and I, widowed, childless, and alone, dwelling in the midst of every luxury.

My determination was soon formed, and that morning I visited the orphan asylum, telling the matron that I wished to adopt one of the children.

Passing around and looking into each little face, I prayed silently that God would aid me in my selection.

"You have seen all the children but one," at last said the matron, "but that one, I know, madam, you will never select for adoption; we have great trouble with her; she will not obey, no matter how sternly we speak, and even after severe punishment her will seems more unsubdued than ever. Her history is rather an obscure one; she was brought here by an Irish woman, who said that in a small room in the house where she lived, a lady (she called her lady) had died a few nights before, and that this child was the only one with her; they tore the poor exhausted little creature from the cold form, but she screamed so pitifully, 'mother, mother, let me die too; O, mamma, speak to me,' that the woman's kind heart was touched, and she took a tender care of her until she could bring her here.

"I cannot tell why it is, but the child seems to regard us as enemies; she has a violent temper, and at one time was actually found striking a girl larger than herself, but she would give no explanation of her conduct; the children said the girl had been tormenting her little sister, but we never believed it, for she was one of the best-behaved girls in the house."

"I should like to see this child," said I, breaking in on the matron's narrative; for as she proceeded I felt that the little orphan was misunderstood, and that unless a different course of education were pursued, her disposition would be ruined.

They led her in—a small, delicate-looking child with a pale, sad face, large, mournful, beseeching eyes, as if in wondering bewilderment that the world should have brought her so much sorrow; the hands were small and beautifully formed, and in every movement an indescribable grace was visible.

I observed that her apron was much soiled, and as the eye of the matron fell upon it, she said, not unkindly, but with a frigid indifference, "I am sorry to see you have been careless again."

The child's eyes changed from their mournfulness to defiance, and a fierce and bitter look crept over her features.

"What is your name, dear?" "I inquired.

She looked up quickly, reading my face with a searching glance, and seeing only kindness there, the bitter look went out of her face, and her answer came in such a clear bird-like voice that my heart was won instantly.

"So your name is Alice," I returned, drawing her toward me; "would you like to go and take a ride with me this morning, Alice?"

Her face flushed with pleasure, and she answered, eagerly, "Oh, yes, ma'am, if you please."

When we were seated in the carriage, she said,

"I hope you will excuse me for coming in the parlor with that soiled apron on this morning; a little girl fell down, and I was trying to stop her from crying, and forgot that her hands were all muddy."

"How did you try, dear?" I said.

"Well," was the artless rejoinder, "I hugged her up close to me, and I couldn't help crying too; and when they came for me, I didn't look at my apron,—but I'm real sorry."

I told her I was glad she comforted the little girl, and that we must always do all the good we can in this world; and from that moment I felt that I would love to train this young life with God's help in a path of usefulness and strength.

As we returned toward the asylum she said, sadly, "O, you make me think of my mother." I drew the little form to my arms, and told her I would be a mother to her, and she would be my little girl.

"And may I always live with you? and will you love me and teach me?" she said.

I told her yes, and Heaven knows I have never been sorry.

Once again my stately home echoed to a child's laughter; the long mirrors gave back the reflection of a tiny form daily becoming more graceful, and so I watched her growing up into a beautiful womanhood.

No mother ever loved her own daughter any more than I loved her, and no daughter ever was more faithful and affectionate than this dear child of adoption.

When pain has racked my body, she has watched by me night and day; and when adversity came sweeping away my long enjoyed wealth, with a fortitude and energy I never dreamed her to possess, she became our chief support, laboring with a cheerful determination, and keeping away every care and trouble from my anxious heart.

I am growing old now; silver threads are coming thick and fast, weaving their story of a chequered life.

But the frosts cannot touch my heart, there are so many loving hands to keep it away; my daughter's affection never diminishes, and her noble husband is one of the best of sons, while our hearts are all knit together by the children.

And so in my serene old age I clasp my weakening hands and thank God that He led me to care for one of the "poor litttle orphan children."—Phrenological Journal.

A CHILD IN COURT.

The following beautiful illustration of the simplicity and power of truth is from an eye-witness of the scene in one of our courts:

A little girl, nine years of age, was offered as a witness against a prisoner who was on trial for felony committed in her father's house.

"Now, Emily," said the counsel for the prisoner, upon her being offered as a witness, "I desire to know if you understand the nature of an oath."

"I don't know what you mean," was the simple answer.

"There, your honor," said the counsel, addressing the court, "is anything further necessary to demonstrate the validity of my objection? This witness should be rejected. She does not comprehend the nature of an oath."

"Let us see," said the judge. "Come here, my daughter."

Assured by the kind tone and manner of the judge, the child stepped toward him and looked confidently up in his face, with a calm, clear eye, and in a manner so artless and frank, that it went straight to the heart.

"Did you ever take an oath?" inquired the judge.

The little girl stepped back with a look of horror, and the red blood mantled in a blush all over her face and neck as she answered:

"No, sir."

She thought he intended to inquire if she ever blasphemed.

"I do not mean that," said the judge, who saw her mistake. "I mean, were you ever a witness before?"

"No, sir, I never was in court before," was the answer.

He handed her an open Bible.

"Do you know that book, my daughter?"

She looked at and answered, "Yes, sir, it is the Bible."

"Do you ever read it?" he asked.

"Yes, sir, every evening."

"Can you tell me what the Bible is?" inquired the judge.

"It is the word of the great God," she answered.

"Well, place your hand upon this Bible and listen to what I say," and he repeated slowly and solemnly the oath usually administered to witnesses.

"Now, said the judge," you have sworn as a witness. Will you tell me what will become of you if you do not tell the truth?"

"I shall be shut up in the state prison," answered the child.

"Anything else," asked the judge.

"I shall never go to heaven," said the child.

"How do you know this," asked the judge again.

The child took the Bible, and turning rapidly to the chapter containing the commandments, pointed to the injunction, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

"I learned that before I could read."

"Has any one talked with you about your being a witness in the court here against this man?" inquired the judge.

"Yes, sir," she replied. "My mother heard they wanted me to be a witness, and last night she called me to tell her the ten commandments, and then we kneeled down together, and she prayed that I might understand how wicked it was to bear false witness against my neighbor, and that God would help me, a little child, to tell the truth as it was before him. And when I came up here with my father, she kissed me and told me to remember the ninth commandment, and that God would hear every word that I said."

"Do you believe this?" asked the jugde, while a tear glistened in his eye, and his lips quivered with emotion.

"Yes, sir," said the child, with a voice and manner that showed her conviction of truth was perfect.

"God bless you, my child," said the judge, "you have a good mother. This witness is competent," he continued.

"Were I on trial for my life, and innocent of the charge against me, I would pray to God to give me such a witness as this. Let her be examined."

She told her story with the simplicity of a child, as she was, but there was a directness about it which carried conviction in every heart. She was rigidly cross-examined. The counsel plied her with infinite and ingenious questions, but she varied in nothing. The truth as spoken by the child was sublime. Falsehood and perjury had preceded her testimony. The prisoner had intrenched himself in lies until he deemed himself impregnable. Witnesses had falsified facts in his favor, and villainy had manufactured for him a sham defense. But before her testimony falsehoods were scattered like chaff. The little child, for whom a mother had prayed for strength to be given her to speak the truth as it was before God, broke the cunning devices of matured villainy to pieces like a potter's vessel. The strength that her mother had prayed for was given her, and the sublime and terrible simplicity—terrible, I mean, to the prisoner and his associates—with which she spoke, was like a revelation from God himself.

TRUTHFUL LINES.

"This world is full of beauty, as other worlds above,
And if we did our duty, it might be full of love."

Children, commit these lines to memory, and when you feel, cross repeat them. Then do the duty which is wanting to be done, and see how nice you will feel, and how beautiful every thing will appear.

☞ Coleridge says that there are four classes of readers. The first is like the hour-glass; and their reading being on the sand, it runs in and runs out, and leaves no vestige behind. A second is like the sponge, which imbibes everything, and returns it in the same state, only a little dirtier. A third is like a jelly bag, allowing all that is pure to pass away. The fourth is like the slaves in the diamond mines of Golconda, who, casting aside all that is worthless, obtain only pure gems.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance.................... $2.50 a year
Five copies six months to one address...... $5.60.
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address...... $10.00.
Same rate for any number over ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cts. a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication write—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write—BUSINESS.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,

Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM,

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS.

PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate for any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 766. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 22, 1870. VOL. XXXI.—NO. 14.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
150 HANOVER ST., BOSTON, MASS. } CORNER OF SALEM STREET. (☞ Entrance No. 7 Salem St.)

MILES GRANT, EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
D. MATHEWSON, H. V. DAVIS, M BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, H. H. DICKENSON.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

"I WILL FOLLOW THEE WHITHERSOEVER THOU GOEST."—Matt. 8 : 19.

Gracious Master, I will follow
Wheresoever thou dost go;
I have seen thy deeds of kindness,
And thy power full well I know.
I would choose thee for my leader,
For I know whate'er betide,
Thou canst rescue from the danger,
Through all perils safely guide.

* * * * * * *

Birds of the air and foxes have their place,
Not where have I my weary head to lay;
Alone I wander with no place of rest,
In mountains drear at midnight's hour I pray.
Worldlings gaze on me with a withering scorn,
My soul is hunted like a beast of prey,
And yet upon my brow a thorny crown
Shall rest, when life for thee shall ebb away.

Follow thou me? then thou must all forsake,
Part with thy wealth, thy friends and earthly fame,
A daily cross with thee thou too must take,
And share with me my toil, and woe and shame.
And follow now; I suffer e'en not first
To care for kindred, or thyself prepare;
Come while I call, or else from thee I go,
In vain thou then mayest seek me everywhere.

Even thy life thou mayest lay down for me,
But having lost shalt surely find again;
For e'en eternal life I give to those
Who follow through the vale of toil and pain;
For I go further than the vale of tears,
Even beyond the gloom of death and hell,
To realms of glory and unending bliss,
And there with me my followers shall dwell.

* * * * * * * *

Then, my Master, I will follow,
Still undaunted is my zeal;
I'll relinquish earthly comfort,
Share with thee unceasing toil;
I will follow through thy suffering,
And, if need be, lay life down;
For I feign would share thy glory,
And be decked with life's fair crown.

MERCY.

AN APOLOGY.

BY JOSHUA V. HIMES.*

During the summer of 1868, I received the following letter:—

DEAR BROTHER IN CHRIST: We are strangers to each other. I am a Free Methodist preacher, stationed in Rochester, N. Y. I am in sympathy with earnest Christianity, and am striving to promote it. My attention has been turned of late toward some of the special planks in your theological platform. I am an honest inquirer after truth. But I cannot leap to conclusions. I want a rocky foundation on which to stand. I am committed to follow Jesus whithersoever he may lead me. I have been wonderfully saved from sectarian bigotry. I think more of God than of all the churches combined. I am after truth—goodness—purity—salvation—eternal life! It occurred to me that you might help me by your own experience. I undertand that you are one of the oldest Advent preachers. Also, that you only quite recently embraced the theory that the wicked will be exterminated. I will be very much obliged if you will answer a few queries:

1. Are you now fully settled that the wicked will be stricken out of existence?

2. If this is the true Scripture doctrine, why did you not embrace it sooner? Perhaps you see the point of difficulty in my mind. If it took you years to reach a settled belief, does it not seem that there are at least two sides to the subject, with strong arguments and strong objections on either hand?

3. Can you harmonize your present views with the entire Bible? Do you not find real difficulties that you have to pass over without a solution?

4. It is evident that in your mind, at least, there were, for many years, formidable barriers in the way of adopting some of the views now common among the Advent people. How did you get through those difficulties? is the question that especially interests me. A full, explicit answer would be hailed with special gratitude. This letter is not designed for controversy or speculation, but to bring out the light, and, if possible, help an anxious heart. Does it look all clear and harmonious to you now? Are you sure you are on the Bible platform? Please go over the ground, and meet my solicitudes as best you can.

A. A. PHELPS.

Rochester, N. Y., July 20th, 1868.

To these inquiries I gave a private reply; but similar interrogations from strangers, and old fellow laborers in the Advent cause, concerning my change of views upon this awful subject, seem to demand a more particular and public answer. This answer I have long intended to make, in a work that should give an extended view of the considerations which led me to make a re-examination of this question, and the arguments which revolutionized my opinions concerning it.

This work, of which this article was designed to form the opening chapter, has been written at intervals, during tours in different sections of the country, amid the perplexity of onerous cares and duties in other directions, but is now nearly completed, and may, I hope, be published soon.

I. To Eld. Phelps' first question, I reply: I am "fully settled" that the final doom of the ungodly is extinction of being.

And I may here remark, that the author of the above questions, formerly an elder in the Free Methodist connection, a Christian minister of rare spirit and worth, has himself now become "fully settled" on this question, and is thoroughly convinced that man is a mortal being, and that the doom of wicked men is, literally, "everlasting destruction." *

II. That the Christian Church and doctrine were early corrupted by the influence of converts made from the schoolmen, both Greeks and Latins, of the Platonic and other philosophies, is not a disputed point. But I also am sure, though as yet comparatively few admit it, that among these corruptions are to be numbered the doctrines of the immortality of the soul, a conscious intermediate state, and the everlasting suffering of the finally impenitent. The influence of the Platonic philosophy, and its spiritualizing system of Biblical interpretation, has been such that for centuries the above doctrines, though nowhere stated in plain terms in the Bible, and with only a few passages of Scripture apparently reading in their favor, while hundreds of passages in the plain letter of their language are decidedly against them, have been made a test of Orthodoxy.

Now while I make no pretensions to the learning of the schools, I do confess that in the past I have had too much confidence in many of their teachings, which I followed for nearly forty years.

I made a profession of religion, and joined the Christian Church in New Bedford, Mass., in 1824. This body was at that time divided in sentiment in their views of the nature of man. Some held with Eld. Elias Smith, one of the founders of that denomination, who taught that man was a mortal being, and that the doom of the sinner was, to be destroyed forever.† Others, with Eld. Abner Jones, another prominent leader of that sect, held to the common view of the immortality of the soul and the eternal misery of the lost.

I was by some train of circumstances and associations, which I cannot now recall, much prejudiced against Eld. Smith's views, and embraced those of his opponents. So that my first impressions on this important subject favored the common theology.

In 1830 I was settled over the First Christian Church of Boston. As there was considerable affinity between the Christians and Unitarians of Boston and Cambridge, chiefly on account of the anti-Trinitarian views of the former, I was brought into fraternal relations with the last named body. I had the regard of all, but received special attentions from Drs. Channing and Gannett, and Prof. Henry Ware, Jun., and others at Harvard University. As I was not an educated man, they afforded me many facilities for the prosecution of certain studies, which I could pursue in connection with my pastoral duties. By these associations I became more fully educated in the theory, and confirmed in the belief of the doctrines of the immortality of the soul.

In 1839 I sought and made the acquaintance of William Miller, and heard from him the argument for the personal return of Christ, and his reign on the earth in a renewed condition. He also taught the immortality of the soul, and the usual attendant doctrines of that dogma; so that while his arguments induced me to change my views of the nature of the Millennium and the divinity of Christ, I was still further confirmed in my erroneous opinions of the nature of man and the destiny of the lost.

In 1840 the subject of the mortality of man and the destruction of the wicked was introduced among the Adventists by the writings of Henry Grew, one of the ablest of the many writers who have treated upon that question. The same views were put into a popular form by Eld. Geo. Storrs, in six sermons, which he published and scattered widely, with no little success in making converts to the views he then held. But they made no impression upon my mind. I had read long before the works of Elias Smith and Henry Grew, and being strongly entrenched in the popular theology, was not prepared to look with interest or favor on later productions; more especially as I felt the responsibility of a work which occupied my entire strength and attention, viz: to publish the news of the speedy coming of Christ and his kingdom.

Occupied as I was with the imminence of the Second Advent, these other views seemed to me to be a side issue, and of no special importance. Jesus was at hand, and it was in my estimation of more importance to prepare a people for his coming, than to enlighten them on these other questions. Whether men slept or were conscious in death, and were destroyed or suffered eternally for sin, were questions of minor importance to me. God would do right; and we should soon know all about it. My business was to proclaim the glorious coming and kingdom of Christ, and prepare myself and others to meet the Judge.

How far these opinions and feelings were justifiable, in view of my early education, sympathies or prejudices, if the reader pleases, and the pressing responsibilities of the time, I will not here discuss. Others shared them with me, and I held them without misgivings or doubt up to about the year 1860, when I was led to make a

RE-EXAMINATION OF THE SUBJECT.

I have said that up to 1860 I was not impressed with the importance of the so-called Life and Death question as a vital issue in Christian theology. It was, I think, in that year that I was led to commence an earnest re-examination of the subject, as the result of a deeply interesting conversation and discussion with Dr. O. R. Fassett, who was then residing in Westboro, Mass.

Our conversation turned on the eternal suffering of the wicked, and the consistency of its relations to the revealed attributes of God, particularly his love and his justice. Elder Fassett argued that the Almighty could not consistently doom a frail, weak, though sinning creature to eternal, indescribable anguish, without one ray of life or hope as to the future. He appealed to my sympathies, declaring his belief that I could not, at heart, as a man or a christian, seriously believe a dogma so horrifying. Previous to this, I had always taken the ground that human sympathy had nothing to do with the truth on this question, but his appeal now produced an impression I could not rid myself of. I felt that I was touched as never before, and that the subject demanded my most serious attention.

In pursuing the subject I found no relief from the arguments or considerations advanced by the advocates of eternal woe respecting the sympathies of the righteous. Take for example the sentiments uttered by Jonathan Edwards:—

"The woes of sinners in hell will not be a cause of grief to the saints in heaven—but of rejoicing. This rejoicing will be the fruit of an amiable disposition, and a perfect holiness, and conformity to Christ. At the judgment you may be ready to fly to some godly friend, but you will see them unconcerned for you, with joy ascending to meet the Lord, and not less joyful for the horror in which they see you. When they hear you groan and sigh and gnash your teeth, these things will not move them at all to pity you. After your godly parents shall have seen you lie in hell millions of years, or ages, in torment day and night, they will not begin to pity you then. They will praise God that his justice appears in the eternity of your misery."

My soul sickened at such sentiments. It seemed to me that none but a monomaniac upon the subject could so write or believe; and I soon dismissed once and forever the Orthodox views on the question of sympathy with the lost.

I know that Landis, while ingeniously avoiding the real force of this question, attempts to cover his evasion of it by coarse denunciations of those who have examined the dogma of deathless agony, for the lost in the light of human sympathy, styling their reasoning "mawkish," "namby-pamby sentimentalism;" but we doubt if either he or any of his fellows in the Orthodox ministry of to-day dare give utterance in their pulpits to the sentiments quoted above from Edwards. The demands of human sympathy have undeniably greatly modified Orthodox doctrine. It is not now what it was even a few years since. Still in writing and preaching, this question of sympathy is evaded, or passed over in silence. But we cannot evade the fact, that if the lost are to lie in gehenna suffering eternally concentrating agony as long as God and his saints live, those saints, in order to happiness, must become so utterly callous to all claims for pity as to be utterly unmoved by the deathless pangs of their former companions, children, friends, and fellow-beings, though fully conscious of what they are enduring, and also aware that the passage of ages of sufferings so far from bringing them nearer a termination, must in the very nature of the case add intensity to their wo.

Scholastic theology, dealing with dogmas and "immortal souls" as mere abstractions, may calmly reason of eternal wo; but when we examine the subject in the light of the fact that we, our families, friends, and fellow-men, as beings of sensitive natures, keenly alive to mental and physical suffering, are exposed to such a peril as the dogma of eternal misery asserts, one may indeed attempt to receive, or imagine it as true; but as Bishop Newton has well said, "seriously believe it you cannot!" It would be a perversion of human nature to do so, to say nothing of the spirit of Christianity.

Our heavenly Father has taught us by both precept and example to be "kind to the unthankful and the unholy" in this life, and our hearts are easily roused by the sufferings of our common humanity. But, we are told, in the world to come we shall behold countless myriads of the lost in the torments of hell, as "in an unfathomable sea of liquid fire, where the wicked must drink in everlasting torture," and not feel one sympathetic emotion, or our happiness be for a moment marred by the terrible scene!

I know that our sympathies, of themselves, cannot, and should not, settle this question; yet they furnish a presumptive argument against the doctrine of deathless wo much stronger than many of the arguments from reason, so-called, which Immaterialists offer for the immortality of the soul; for instance, those drawn from the powers of the mind, its desires, etc.

But it is said, that our symyathy has nothing to do with the justice of God. Allowing the claim to be a just one, for the sake of the argument, the question would still arise, "What is justice in the case of the lost?" In my meditations, my mind would recall the horrid descriptions I had heard and read of the future of the lost. I seemed to be placed among them, and beheld in imagination untold millions writhing in unutterable anguish, eternity before them, with no hope of release, but filled with a horrible despair at the prospect of ever-increasing, as well as ever-during suffering—shipwrecked, and drifting upon a shoreless sea of wo.

Such reflections continually forced themselves upon me. I could not divest myself of them, as I had put aside the consideration of the subject in other days, by the thought that the question was a side-issue, and that "God would do right" in any case; but I felt that I must satisfy myself that there was no mistake in that interpretation of Scripture whose issue was now so revolting to my whole nature. And thus I was led to, I believe, a candid and thorough re-examination of the entire subject, as presented in the word of God, which I recognized as my only rule of faith in regard to this, or any other doctrine. I would bow to the sacred word; but I must re-examine its utterances on the doom awaiting, perhaps, the larger portion of mankind.

Immediately other influences began to affect me. As a public teacher I had long stood opposed to the doctrine of the sleep of the dead and destruction of the wicked, and I must now meet a large circle of companions and friends, endeared by many ties in the past, who had received the views I now questioned from both my lips and pen; who looked to me for a sturdy defence of a doctrine the truth of which I was fairly beginning to doubt. They had learned of me, taken my counsel in upholding the Orthodox views, and opposing the "annihilationists, as they were, and are, popularly called. I must be prepared to have my motives impugned, and my words, spoken and written before my mind was assailed by doubts, or convicted of my error, "cast in my teeth," while many who had been my friends would walk with me no more. I had to count the cost. I must pass through a severe conflict in the midst of onerous labors in another department of a great cause. But my mind was made up. I was determined to know for myself if there was not a more consistent and harmonious interpretation of the word of God, and to stand by the convictions of truth which should result from my investigations at whatever cost.

III. As to the inquiry concerning present difficulties, I find no perplexity in my own mind in harmonizing the Scripture testimony concerning the penalty of sin. To say that I am fully satisfied of the exact meaning of every passage of Scripture involved in the question at issue would perhaps seem like arrogating too much to myself; but I have learned, at least, not to give to any one passage standing by itself a gloss that shall contradict the general tenor of Scripture. And every fresh examination of any branch of this great question of life and death eternal, strengthens my convictions that eternal life is "the gift of God," while "the wages of sin is death."

IV. In answer to the fourth query advanced by my interlocutor, I would say, there were "formidable barriers" in the way of my reception of this doctrine. Chief among these, and beside the considerations already named, was the authority of the Christian fathers.

I took it for granted, first of all, that the early fathers of the church were to be relied upon in their expositions of apostolic teaching. Associated with the apostles or their immediate disciples, I reasoned that they must have understood the construction which the personal disciples of Jesus Christ gave to his words concerning the awful doom of the finally impenitent. It was long a question how many of the fathers of the second century and onward could advance such sentiments as they did concerning the immortality of the soul and future punishment, unless they had received them from the apostles, or apostolic converts. But the spell (and it is a spell that still holds many in bondage to a dreadful theology) was at last broken by the Savior's teaching: "Call no man father upon earth," he said to his church. And this destroys all claims to authority in matters of faith and doctrine of the writings of uninspired men, even though they lived near or in the apostles' days.

Besides this, on examination I soon saw the defectiveness of their teachings on other questions, and the additions made by them to the testimony of the Scriptures on various points of doctrine. Take for instance the intermediate state, and the use of the word hades—the grave, or rather the general state of the dead. Most of the fathers adopted the heathen view of hades, in brief, as follows: Hades was located in the deep—under, or in the bowels of the earth. It was divided into two apartments, Elysium—the Fathers' Paradise—and Tartarus. Here were gathered the shades, or ghosts, or souls of the dead, awaiting the resurrection; the righteous "comforted," while the wicked were "tormented" in the flames of tartarus.*

But neither Christ nor his apostles ever taught such doctrine. It is simply a heathen fable engrafted upon the pure teachings of the New Testament. True, a few passages are perverted to sustain this fabulous theory; and the perverted sense of these passages is made a standard by which the entire word is interpreted, and made to mean in some hundreds of instances precisely the opposite of what it says.

I know these are, as they stand here, mere assertions; but they are assertions, I am confident, which cannot be successfully controverted. The teachings of the fathers concerning the intermediate state, or any other point, have no claim upon our faith except as they harmonize with the oracles of God; and of their meaning we are, in most respects, in this day, probably even better qualified to judge than the fathers were.

Here I pause, having carried out, so far as my limits would admit, the design of this article. I did not intend to consider in it the arguments and reasons for my present faith, but, rather, to give my experience in reaching the conclusions in which my mind is now settled. The arguments which have forced me as an honest man and a Christian to take a decided stand, and exert a vigorous opposition against the views I once held, will be forthcoming, either in these pages, or elsewhere.

* First published in the Advent Quarterly.

* See his article, "Settled at Last," in Voice of the West for April 13, 1869.

† In the Herald of Gospel Liberty, Vol. 3, No. 75, speaking of "thousands in the western country," he said: "They also discard the popular and pagan doctrine of eternal misery, believing that the end of the wicked is destruction, according to the words of Solomon, 'As the whirlwind passeth, so is the wicked no more.'"

* It is to be observed that if the fathers are authority for our faith in the matter of a conscious intermediate state, they are equally so on the torments of souls by literal fire in hades, which is now almost universally denied by leading Orthodox teachers.

☞ Honor is a pair of gloves, which a worldly man puts on when he goes abroad, to hide the color of his hands, and pulls off, when he is alone, to get at his object more conveniently. True religion is a time-piece, which a man of sense puts in his pocket when he is in the street, and draws out and lays upon his desk when he comes in, to direct him in his private business.

For the World's Crisis.

THE BLESSED HOPE.

It is good to trust in the Lord, and to feel that we belong to him, and that he knoweth all our weakness; "he remembereth that we are dust." He does not look merely on the outward appearance, and he sees not as man sees; but he is full of compassion and tender mercy; as we read, "His tender mercies are over all his works."

Sometimes we may ask for things that he does not bestow at once; yet he will not withhold what is best for us. His way is the best way, and his time the best time. We thank and praise him for what he has done for us, and that he has raised up so many friends who seem ready and willing to help us; and we read in his holy word, that he loveth a cheerful giver.

What a "blessed hope" is ours! We hope for that we see not, and with patience wait for it. We hope to be delivered from all the evils that surround us here, and to be safely landed at last on the glorified shore.

We hope to meet Jesus, and to rejoice evermore in his presence. We hope to meet all our friends who sleep in the dust, those dear ones whom we have laid away in sadness and tears, we hope to meet them, and never be parted from them again. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Praise the Lord. We will praise him now, and we hope and expect to praise him forever in glory.

Truly "He doeth all things well." Praise his name for the blessed hope of soon seeing Jesus, and being made like him.

Your Sister, SUSAN S. CHAMBERLAIN.

Webster, Mass.

"AS THY DAY THY STRENGTH SHALL BE."

Mourner, weeping o'er the bier,
Holding all on earth that's dear;
Now bowed down with grief and sorrow,
Look above, and comfort borrow;
God himself saith unto thee,
"As thy day thy strength shall be."

Thou who feel'st the tempter's power,
Courage take in this dark hour;
Give not up to sin and sorrow,
There yet dawns a brighter morrow;
The Lord thy God saith unto thee,
"As thy day thy strength shall be."

Thou who feel'st as Jesus knew,
"Days are dark, and friends are few";
Let not the sad thought grieve thy heart,
God can happiness impart.
He is thy friend, and says to thee,
"As thy day thy strength shall be."

Thou who feel'st the chast'ning rod
Falling heavily from thy God;
On a sick bed long hast lain,
Suffering days and nights of pain;
He who suffered, says to thee,
"As thy day thy strength shall be."

Thou who feel'st that death's dark door
Soon will close forevermore,
Let not thy soul despond or fear;
God thy spirit then will cheer,
Then, as now, will say to thee,
"As thy day thy strength shall be."

—Selected by J. N. B.

For the World's Crisis.

THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.
Luke 16 : 19--31.

In getting to a right understanding of our question, it will be necessary to go back to the commencement of the fifteenth chapter, where Jesus commences a series of parables, of which, we think, the rich man and Lazarus forms a part. And here we would remark, that Jesus used parables the more fully to explain and impress on the minds of his hearers the great doctrine which he taught.

He commences the fifteenth chapter on this wise: "Then drew near unto him all the publicans and sinners for to hear him; and the Pharisees and Scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth sinners and eateth with them." He then commenced the parable of the lost sheep, to defend himself, and to explain why he receiveth sinners and eateth with them, recognizing them as lost sheep; and he uses this parable to show the Pharisees that he was doing the same to save sinners spiritually as they would to save lost sheep literally.

Again he introduces the parable of the lost pieces of silver, to show the diligent search and effort that ought to be made to save lost sinners, and the joy there is in heaven among the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth. And again the parable of a certain man who had two sons; and the younger son desired his father to give him the portion of goods that fell to him, which having received he went into a far country and spent it in riotous living, while the elder son remained at home.

It is thought by many that the younger son represents the Gentiles. We think not. The elder son repesents the Scribes and Pharisees, who claimed to have always done the will of God, and who only were by virtue of their good deeds the children of God. Hence the Pharisee thanked God that he was not as other men, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican.

We think the younger son represents the publicans and sinners named in the first verse of this chapter. Who were the publicans and sinners in Judea? They were Jews, who under the Roman rule were tax-gatherers, as we find in the case of Zacheus. Luke 19 : 2–9. In Kitto's "Cyclopedia of Biblical Literature" (p. 687), we have the following:—

"Those Jews who accepted the office of publican were executed by their own nation equally with the heathen. ('Let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican.'—Matt. 18 : 17.) It was said they were not allowed to enter the temple or synagogues to engage in the public prayers, fill offices of judicature, or even give testimony in courts of justice. According to the Rabbins, it was a maxim that a religious man who became a publican was to be driven out of the religious society. They would not receive their presents at the temple any more than the price of prostitution, of blood, or of anything wicked or offensive."

Hence we see that the Pharisees regarded the publicans and sinners (such as harlots, and all Jews who committed any such crimes) unworthy of their notice, as outcasts, to whom they refused the salvation of God or any right to return to their Father's house. They are the ones represented as going into a far country and spending all their substance in riotous living. But now in their lost condition they are ready to return to their Father's house through Jesus Christ. Said Jesus, "The publicans and harlots go into the kingdom of God before you."—Matt. 21 : 31.

These publicans and sinners were not Gentiles, but Jews, who had become corrupted by sin; who, though once belonging to the one common family, had now departed from home, and are represented as lost; and Jesus said he came into the world to seek and save that which was lost. Luke 17 : 10. Again,—"I am not sent but to the lost sheep of the house of Israel."—Matt. 15 : 24. They are fitly represented by the "younger son."

Again, he introduces the parable of the unjust steward, who was charged with wasting his employer's goods. This, we think, represents the same Pharisees (and more especially the priesthood); and so they understood it; for when they heard all these things they derided him. (I shall have occasion to refer to this parable again.) Jesus, in answer to their derision, said: "Ye are they which justify yourselves before men; but God knoweth your hearts; for that which is highly esteemed among men is abomination in the sight of God." The derision of the Pharisees and the remarks of Jesus, as found in the fifteenth verse, are the cause of all the succeeding remarks in this chapter, as we shall see in the exposition of this parable.

We now come to the parable of the rich man and Lazarus; and I would here remark, if this parable proves the immortality of man, it proves that he is immortal bodily; for what died was buried, and what was buried lifted up his eyes. On the other hand, what died was carried to Abraham's bosom, and that is more than any one will want to claim.

The claim that the soul of the rich man went to hell, and that of Lazarus to heaven, is all assumption, and is another gospel, and not the gospel of prophets, of Christ, or of his apostles; for there is not one testimony in the whole Bible that says the soul is immortal, or can exist without the body, or lives when man is dead. On the other hand, the Bible positively affirms, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die."—Ezek. 18 : 20. "If any man preach any other gospel, let him be accursed." Gal. 1 : 8, 9.

That this parable fitly represents the priesthood, no one will deny, both as to their clothing and sumptuous fare. By turning to Ex. 28 : 2–6, we have a description of their rich apparel; and as to their rich living, they not only had a tenth part of all the products of the land, but in Christ's day they went into money brokerage on an extensive scale; and so much so, that they carried it into the very temple. And they not only had temporal riches, but they had God's spiritual riches committed to their trust. "To them were committed the oracles of God" (Rom. 3 : 2); and with which, as we shall show, they dealt unjustly.

"There was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at the rich man's gate full of sores; and desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table." It is worthy of note that the beggar was dependent on the rich man for the sustenance of life, by receiving the crumbs which fell from his table. The poor beggar, we think, represents the publicans and sinners named in the first verse of the fifteenth chapter, and are the same as represented by the younger son, poor and hungry, and were dependent on the priesthood for spiritual support, as by and through them God dispensed his spiritual blessings to them.

But the priesthood were unjust in their stewardship, as shown in the previous parable, and utterly refused the publicans and sinners the right to come into the temple, or to offer sacrifice to God; hence, denying them the right to spiritual life. In this sad dilemma of the poor beggar, the dogs came and licked his sores; fitly representing the Gentiles, who sympathized with the publicans and sinners, and were ready to associate with them and help them, when the priesthood cast them out as unworthy of their notice.

"The beggar died." This death is not literal, but spiritual; hence it will be readily seen how they died. The law and the prophets were until John." v. 16. The law and the prophets were the source from and through which they derived their spiritual life; and now the law having ceased to exist, their source of spiritual life is cut off, and they die. But they are not said to be buried, for immediately on their death, by the law having ceased to impart life, they believe on Christ; hence they are said to be carried by angels to Abraham's bosom. Christ was an angel or messenger from God, and so were his disciples. They carried them into the Abrahamic covenant. "In thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed." Gen. 22 : 18; Acts 3 : 25. Christ being the seed (Gal. 3 : 16), and they through him having found access to God, became heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ to eternal life, and an inheritance that never shall fade away. Hence they are comforted.

"The rich man also died." The same cause that brought about the death of the one, resulted in the death of the other. The law and the prophets by and through which they obtained their spiritual life had now ceased to exist, God no more revealing himself to them through that source; and upon their utter rejection of Christ they have no means of spiritual life; hence they die, and are represented as being buried; for they continue in the same state of unbelief without any means of life.

Jesus told them that the law and the prophets were until John; since that time the kingdom of God is preached. Instead of their receiving that message, and believing on Christ that they might have life, he tells them that every man presseth into or upon it.

Let me here introduce a parable to show the force of this text. "Hear another parable. There was a certain householder which planted a vineyard and hedged it round about, and digged a wine-press in it, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a far country. And when the time of the fruit drew near he sent his servants to the husbandmen, that they might receive the fruit of it. And the husbandmen took his servants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another. Again he sent other servants more than the first, and they did unto them likewise. But last of all he sent unto them his son, saying, They will reverence my son; but when the husbandmen saw him, they said among themselves, This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and let us seize on the inheritance." Matt. 21 : 33–38. Mark says, "That the inheritance may be ours." Mar. 12 : 7.

Christ charges them with adultery. The law having ceased as a means by which they were united to God, they are left without a husband; hence without a protector; and, instead of becoming wedded to God by the Lord Jesus, the legitimate means which God had provided, they became adulterers by wedding themselves to the governments of earth, and to the world and worldly policy, and they realized not their condition any more than a dead man would his condition, until their beautiful temple and city were burned, and they themselves scattered among all nations, literally, as well as figuratively, suffering torment.

They now begin to realize the great separation there is between them and God. As the rich man saw Abraham afar off and Lazarus in his bosom, so they see those very publicans and sinners comforted and in the enjoyment of peace; and now they desire that these very ones whom they had cast out might be sent to alleviate their condition; but they are reminded that they in their lifetime (during the law) received their good things, and Lazarus evil things; but now he is comforted, and they are tormented. They are told they cannot be helped, for there is a great gulf between them, so that they who would go from hence cannot.

This, we think, illustrates the condition of those who are brought into the Abrahamic covenant through Christ, and saved from their sins. They are the Lord's. They are bought with the blood of Christ. They are no longer their own. 1 Cor. 6 : 19. They are not free to do as they please. On the other hand, they that would come from thence cannot. Those Pharisees not only rejected Christ, but said he had an unclean spirit (Mark 3 : 30), and sinned against the Holy Ghost. Mark 3 : 29. Hence, though they might desire to return to God, they cannot. And now, finding there is no help for themselves, they want Lazarus sent to their father's house (this implies a possible chance to save some), and testify to them, lest they come into their place of torment. They are then told that they have Moses and the prophets.

To prove that Jesus is the Christ, we must first take the predictions of Moses and the prophets, and if we see them all fulfilled in the person of Christ, then we can believe that he is the Christ that should come into the world. Hence Christ told the Jews, "If ye believed Moses, ye would believe me; for he wrote of me."—John 5 : 46. Hence, so long as they disbelieve the writings of Moses relative to Christ, they will not believe that he is the Christ, or the source of eternal life, though one rose from the dead.

Note. We believe that the Scribes and the Pharisees, and the publicans and sinners, in the commencement of these series of parables, form the subject matter of the entire series, and show the different relations they sustain toward God and toward each other. John testified of Jesus, that "he came unto his own, and his own received him not. But as many as received him, to them gave he power [or privilege] to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name."—John 1 : 11, 12. The Scribes and Pharisees did not believe; the publicans and sinners did.

B. WOODSIDE.

DO YOU PRAY IN THE MORNING?

As you leave your bed, is your very first act to kneel by your bed-side, and give your heavenly Father thanks for your protection during the night? Surely hours of sound sleep, the health enabling you to rise, the protection of your family from sickness, and of your property from fire, with numberless other things we cannot mention, are things for which to be thankful. They are certainly worth thanking God for, if they are worth anything at all.

When some of your household have been very sick, you have been but too thankful to obtain their recovery by nights of weary watching, and by expensive fees to physicians. Is it worth less to have them and yourself kept entirely from sickness? For keeping you from pain and calamity, all that God asks of you is thankfulness and prayer—thankfulness for what he has done, prayer that the same divine goodness be continued.

If your were raised from the dead, you would think it but a small return to thank God for such a mercy. But for your rising from sleep every morning is an act of less kindness on the part of God, and less importance to yourself, only because it is so common and familiar. It is not less deserving of gratitude. And there is pleasure in expressing our thankfulness—no pleasure more delightful to the right-toned heart. It keeps open the springs of noble feeling, and gives a high and generous tone to all the other affections.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.
Boston, Wednesday, June 22, 1870.

Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

Money Orders.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

BRO. J. COUCH'S P. O. address is now Chelsea, Mass.

BRO. F. BURR'S P. O. address is changed from New Rutland to DeKalb, Ill.

BRO. T. M. PREBLE having removed from Lynn, his P. O. address for a short time will be Chelsea, Mass., care of E. G. Kingsbury.

BRO. NATHAN WHEELER'S P. O. address is Sugar Hill, N. H.

L. C. & M. McKINSTRY'S address is Lake Village, N. H.

I. K. LOMBARD'S P. O. address is Chelsea, Mass.

BILLS! BILLS!!

There are many of our subscribers who are largely in arrears in their payments for the Crisis. To such we are now sending bills of their indebtedness. We hope to have a prompt response by the brethren and sisters sending in the amount due without delay.

AG'T.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING.

In accordance with a vote passed at the last meeting, the Campmeeting Committee are requested to meet in Springfield (at the Depot) Wednesday, July 6th, at 12 M.

GEO. T. ADAMS, Secretary.

WISCONSIN CAMPMEETING.

We take pleasure in speaking of the campmeeting at Prairie du Sac, in Wisconsin. It was the largest campmeeting we have ever attended in the west. Those living in New England, who can reach the camp-ground so easily, can hardly appreciate the efforts made in the west to attend a campmeeting. We think but few in the east would be willing to travel four or five days by private conveyance to reach the camp-ground. Nearly all who attend the meetings in Wisconsin come by private conveyance. Yet with all these obstructions, during this busy season of the year, twenty-seven tents, besides the large one, encircled the beautiful ground. We have been on many camp-grounds, but have seen none so lovely—so pleasant—as the one at Prairie du Sac. The longer we remained, the more we admired the spot. We would gladly spend our summer days in such a place till Jesus comes. It keeps thoughts of paradise fresh in the mind, and leads us to feel more like pressing on to the saints' happy home.

The meeting is in a grove with no underbrush, and covered with nice clean grass, looking as neat as a door-yard, and special pains are taken to keep it clean. This added much to the comfort of the meeting. Those who were present will long remember with much pleasure the happy scenes there enjoyed. It was a heavenly feast. A goodly number started in the service of the Lord, and twenty were baptized in the Wisconsin river. This river is of sufficient size for steamboats on their way from the Mississippi river to Green bay.

We formed pleasant acquaintances with the dear saints in Wisconsin. They are a noble, true-hearted people, who are in earnest in the service of the Lord. They have counted the cost, and are willing to bear reproach for Jesus' sake. In consequence of their isolated condition, they are more free from selfishness and pride than those who live in the large eastern towns. They love the simplicity of the christian religion, and have no desire for any but the genuine. They have no taste for shams, or a religion that exists only in a kind of outside veneering. The preachers are self-denying men, among whom Bro. Sheldon holds a conspicuous position. Where he is best known, he is the most highly esteemed. We are rejoiced to say that his health is still improving. Let prayer be still offered for his complete recovery. His labors have been greatly blest in the west, and there is still special need of his services.

Sabbath, the last day of our meeting, passed most delightfully. A large audience assembled, and observed the best order. During the entire encampment we had no disturbance. We had no watchmen, nor officers on the ground. There was no work for them to do. We did not hear an oath, nor a disturbing sound during the eight days of the encampment. Everybody seemed friendly, and willing to do what they could for our comfort. The meeting has been a glorious success, in every respect relating to a campmeeting. The love-feast Sabbath morning was a heavenly one. One hundred and sixty-five spoke in fifty-five minutes. In the evening one hundred and sixty-two gathered around the table of the Lord. The occasion was precious to the saints. We parted Monday morning, thankful to the Lord for his very rich blessings, rejoicing in hope of soon meeting in the kingdom.

WHO SHALL BE GREATEST?

How little of the spirit of Jesus is witnessed in the current religion of the day. If the same ratio of progress continues in the churches for twenty years, there will be but little, if any evidence, that they are any wise connected with Jesus. Already, the city churches have become but little else than fashionable resorts for the rich and proud. No devoted christian can feel at home in such places. It is actually dangerous for young converts to unite with them, because the standard is so low, and because there are so many things to lead them away from the simplicity of the christian religion. The whole thing appears to be only worldliness clothed with a religious cloak with which to deceive the unsuspecting. Satan has no war with such associations. This matter is carried so far as to attract the attention and censure of the secular press.

The following from the Chicago Times of June 7th, 1870, shows what worldly people think of these things:—

"Considering its age, Chicago has many developments fully equal to those of cities a dozen times its age. Particularly is this so in the matter of churches. We not only have more churches, but many finer ones, than any modern city not greatly our superior in population. In some respects, this fact is commendable; in other respects, it is indicative, we think, of weakness and vanity, rather than of a substantial religious growth.

On Monday, the Times contained an elaborate account of the Congregational church and its dedication, on West Washington street. This new structure is a granite palace. In many respects, its architecture is superior, while, generally, the pile is a credit to Chicago. Its cost is not much below $200,000.

Just a little west of this, on Reuben street, is another Congregational church, which is not yet completed. It is an enormous and costly affair. It is designed to be, if not the largest, the most expensive and handsome church in the west. Just how much it will cost when completed, nobody knows. A good deal more than a quarter of a million will be required to meet the principal and interest of this investment.

Both these churches will seat not less than five thousand people. The actual membership of both is considerably less than one-fifth this number. The building of one has been a severe strain upon the congregation of one church; and it will be a very lucky thing if the completion of the other does not bankrupt the corporation most interested. In view of the nearness of these churches to each other,—the question arises as to whether these two church edifices are constructed for religious purposes, or in response to the vanity of the two congregations. Both would not constitute a very extensive congregation if consolidated; and either of the church buildings would contain both congregations and have abundant room to spare for outsiders.

These extraordinary outlays would seem to indicate that these edifices have been erected, not because there is one God, but because there are two pastors. In other words, there were two pastors; they could not very well occupy the same pulpit; and, hence, they must have two pulpits. One costly church was put up to give Mr. Godwin a situation; and another to give Mr. Helmer a situation. Logically, both churches should be dedicated, not by, but to, their pastors. Deity may have been interested, but it was very indirectly."

Can it be expected that the common people will go to such places to worship the Lord, or to inquire what they shall do to be saved? It is high time that the true followers of Christ cry aloud against such perversions of the gospel of the meek and humble Jesus. The whole thing is only a system of solemn mockery—a worldly institution employed to ease the consciences of backsliders, and well calculated to keep the people away from Christ.

THE GREAT TRIBULATION.

BRO. GRANT:—I wish to ask you a few questions.

1. In Matthew 24: 15, in his answer to the disciples' question in relation to what would be the sign of his coming, Jesus says, "When ye, therefore, shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, stand in the holy place, then, ... let them which be in . . . Judea flee into the mountains, for then (ver. 21) shall be great tribulation, such as was not from the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be." The question is this: Did this tribulation fall upon the Jews, and if so, when did it end? or has it ended yet?

2. In Daniel 12: 1, we read, "And at that time shall Michael stand up, . . . and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation, even to that same time, and at that time thy people shall be delivered." If the signs which Jesus gave his disciples,—the darkening of the sun and moon, falling stars, etc., are passed, then it follows that the tribulation of Matthew 24 is passed; and if so, how can there ever be any other tribulation, since there is never to be another; and in Daniel 12: 1, we read, "At that time thy people shall be delivered, . . . and many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake; some to everlasting life." This event seems clearly future; and if so, how can we reconcile the idea of two periods, or times of trouble, such as never was, or can be again?

3. In Daniel 4: 32, seven times are used to express seven years. By what authority do writers claim that times, in Daniel 12: 7, are to be differently understood?

CHESTER MURPHY.

There are some reasons for believing that the tribulation mentioned in Matt. 24: 21 was to be upon the Jews, and has been continued from the destruction of their city, in A. D. 70, till near the close of the last century, when most of the nations who had been treading them under foot, gave them civil, religious, and political privileges, such as they had not enjoyed before for many centuries. Those who apply the tribulation to the Christian church, end it at the same time. Our own views are in favor of applying the great tribulation in Matthew to the persecution of the Christian church during the dark ages, when from fifty to seventy-five millions of saints were put to death.

2. We believe the "time of trouble," mentioned in Dan. 12: 1, is to come upon the living wicked at the coming of Christ, and will surpass any thing ever experienced by them before since "there was a nation. "At that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book." Dan. 12: 1. The language intimates the saints escape from the "time of trouble" experienced by the wicked. The time of great tribulation on the saints is passed. It is evident there cannot be two times of tribulation on the same class of people, each of which should surpass any one before or after it. There can be one on the saints exceeding all others; and one on the wicked. With this view we have no difficulty in harmonizing the Scriptures.

3. It is not doubted that the "time, times, and an half," of Dan. 12: 7, signify three years and a half; but it is a question whether the time is literal. As we find symbolical time in Dan. 9: 24, 25, 26, 27, and in other parts of Daniel's prophecy, it is believed that the same is true of Dan. 12: 7; yet we do not consider the evidence so clear as in Dan. 9: 24–27. Some able expositors of the prophecy believe that the time in Dan. 12 is all literal. We hope to see more light soon on this subject.

NAPOLEON AND THE POPE.

It is very evident that Napoleon is not a true friend of the Pope. His friendship extends as far as his own selfish policy, and no further. When it is for his interest to afford friendly aid to Pius IX., he is ever willing to act accordingly; but when it is otherwise his acts correspond. Said M. Veuillot:—

"We cannot forget that Napoleon III., as Emperor, has allowed to be stolen from the Holy See three-fourths of the States which Louis Napoleon, President of the Republic, had helped it to recover. The freedom of teaching, instead of being completed, has received some grave assaults; obstacles have been placed in the way of the meeting of the provincial councils; works of charity have been attacked in the person of the Society of St. Vincent-de-Paul. Every innovation has taken the same direction."

The Tent Meeting noticed last week for Philadelphia, is changed to Camden, N. J., opposite Philadelphia.

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."
By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

Sheldon's Four New Tracts.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

1. "LIFE AND DEATH THEOLOGY: or, The Scriptural Doctrine of 'Eternal Damnation' and 'Everlasting Punishment.'" Price 8 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 75 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $5.00 per hundred by express.

This work of forty-eight pages is the clearest and strongest document yet produced by Bro. Sheldon on this topic. It is just the thing to scatter among all classes.

2. IMMATERIALISM: or, The Doctrine of Soul-Immortality Refuted." Price 5 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $3.00 per hundred by express.

A tract of thirty-two pages, showing that fifteen cardinal errors spring out of the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and that those errors could not exist independent of that doctrine, thus showing it to be the main root of error. Let it be scattered widely.

3. "DEATH AND THE DEAD," 16 pages. Price 3 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1.50 per hundred by express.

Just the thing to scatter everywhere.

4. "THE COMING JUDGMENT: Its Necessity and Result," Eight pages. 10 cts. per dozen, postpaid, or 75 cts. per hundred by express.

It will do much good. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY. By Elder James H. Whitmore. Published by the Western Advent Christian Association.

This little volume of 300 pages is a valuable contribution to the literature of the subject on which it treats, and is worthy of a wide circulation, not only among those who hold to the views advocated therein, but among others who have not given them due thought and investigation.

For sale at this office. Price, single copy, postpaid, $1.00. Six copies, by mail, $5.00; by express, $4.20. AG'T.

NEW MUSIC.

Six pieces, entitled "Jesus is coming again," "I love thee still," "Hoist every sail," "Sweetly sleeping," "He is coming," and "Home." Sent postpaid for 20 cents. Single sheet 5 cents. For sale at this office, or by the author, Geo. E. Lee, Brimfield, Mass.

ROME'S ANSWER TO FRANCE.

The 29th of last February, Count Daru, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, addressed a despatch to Marquis de Blannetville, the French Ambassador at Rome, relating to the action of the Ecumenical Council, which caused a marked sensation among the leaders of that venerable body, and made the Pope feel rather uneasy. In the communication sent to the Council by Count Daru, he takes occasion to say that the Council is expected to confine its action to matters entirely ecclesiastical, and leave political affairs in the hands of political men. This recommendation was very unpalatable to the Pope and his Council. The 19th of March, a response was sent from Cardinal Antonelli to the Nuncio at Paris, from which we make the following extract:—

"In this communication, which the ambassador was good enough to leave me a duplicate copy of, the honorable minister recalls to mind the resolve of the French Government to take no part whatever in the deliberations of the general council, and to guarantee its full and absolute freedom; declares that this determination was based upon the supposition that the venerable assembly would exclusively occupy itself with the sacred interests of the faith, and would abstain from touching upon questions of a purely political nature. But the Gazette d' Augsbourg having given publicity to the canons relating to the projected constitution of the Roman church and Pontiff, and having made it evident that the question to be decided was, whether the power of the church and its head included and extended over all political rights, the government firmly resolved, even on this point, to leave the deliberations of the august assembly at perfect liberty, proposed by itself to exercise the right appertaining to it by virtue of the concordat, and to let the council know its opinion upon questions of this nature. Passing next to the examination of the above named canons, the despatch summed up the substance in the two following propositions:

First, the infallibility of the church extends not merely to the depository of the faith, but to all that is necessary to preserve this depository.

Secondly, the church is a divine and perfect association; its power is to be exercised simultaneously in external and internal courts; it is absolute in legislative, judiciary, and coercive measures; and should by right move on in perfect liberty and entire independence of all civil authority.

From these two propositions is deduced as a corollary that the infallibility of the church extends to all that is reputed necessary to the defence of revealed truth. And within this domain fall all historical, philosophical, and scientific facts, foreign to revelation; thence, also, the subordination due to the supreme authority of the church, of the constitutional principles of civil society, of the rights and duties of governments, of political rights and duties, whether electoral or citizen municipalities; of all that treats of judicial and legislative business, equally in its relations to persons and things; of the rules of public administration, of those which determine the rights and duties of corporations; in a word, of all the rights of state—comprehending rights of conquest, peace and war. The minister then points out the profound impression that the mere announcement of this doctrine must produce throughout the world. . . . . .

Such is the sense of the despatch communicated to me by the Marquis de Banneville. I have thought it opportune to inform your most illustrious and most reverend lordship on the matter, having also the intention of submitting to you a few brief considerations, which are, I think, necessary to clear up the points touched on by the minister, and to answer the deductions drawn by him from the propositions submitted to the deliberations of the council. . . .

The subordination of the civil to the religious power arises thus from the pre-eminence of the priesthood over the empire with respect to the end and aim of the one as compared with those of the other. Thus the authority of the empire depends upon that of the sacerdocy, as human affairs depend upon the divine, and temporal upon spiritual matters.

No society can exist without a supreme principle as regulator of the morality of its actions and its laws. Such is the sublime mission confided by God to the church, with a view to the happiness of nations, and without requiring for the accomplishment of this ministry interference with the free and prompt action of government. It is, in fact, the church that, inculcating the principle of rendering to God the things that belong to God, and to Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, imposes at the same time upon her children an obligation to obey conscientiously the authority of princes. But these should in their turn remember that, if they issue laws contrary to the principles of eternal justice, to obey them would not be to render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, but to purloin from God the things that are his.

I have now to say a few words regarding the profound impression which, according to the ideas of the Minister, would be felt throughout the world at the mere announcement of the principles developed in the project of the constitution, the subject of his despatch. Truth to tell, it is not easy to persuade one's self that the doctrines contained in this plan, and understood in the manner alluded to, could cause the profound impression spoken of by the Minister. Either their spirit or object must be completely misunderstood or these persons must be alluded to, who, professing principles differing from the doctrines of the Catholic Church could not certainly approve of these principles being inculcated and sanctioned anew.

I say anew, for, as I have already remarked the doctrines contained in the above-named document, far from being new and unheard, are not, as a whole, other than the Catholic teachings profess in all ages by the whole church, as all the pastors of Catholicism summoned by the supreme head of the hierarchy to render authentic testimony in the bosom of the council to the faith and tradition of the universal church solemnly attest. On the other hand, we must hope that Catholic doctrine receiving new and solemn confirmation from the fathers of the Council of the Vatican will be received by a faithful people as the rainbow of peace and the dawn of a better future.

The sole aim of the confirmation of these doctrines is, in fact, to recall to modern society the principles of justice and honesty, and thus to restore to the world that peace and prosperity which the perfect observance of the divine laws alone can produce. Such is the steady hope of all the worthy people who hailed with joy the annoucement of a council: such is the conviction of the fathers of the church, hastening hither rejoicing at the voice of the supreme pastor; such is the prayer that the Vicar of Jesus Christ continually addresses to God in the midst of the troubles and difficulties of his pontificate. Then one does not comprehend wherefore the bishops should have to renounce their episcopal authority as a consequence of the definition of papal infallibility. Not only is this prerogative as ancient as the church herself, but it has ever been practically exercised in the Roman Church, without the slightest injury to the authority and the rights conferred by God upon the pastors of the church. The definition of this infallibility would therefore in no wise alter the relations existent between the bishops and their head. The rights of the one and the prerogatives of the other are well defined in the divine constitution of the church. The confirmation of the magistracy and supreme authority of the Roman Pontiff, far from prejudging the rights of the bishops, would become a new support for their magistracy and authority, since the members acquire so much more force and vigor, as the head becomes more capable of communicating these to them.

By an analogous motive—the authority of bishops being strengthened by the solemn confirmation of the Papal infallibility, that of princes, and of Catholic princes particularly, will become no less so. The prosperity of the church and the tranquility of the state depend upon the strict and intimate union of the two supreme powers. Who does not perceive from this that not only the authority of princes will suffer no diminution from the supremacy of the Pontiff, but that it will, on the contrary, find therein a firm support? What obedience, what respect, what protection do not the sons of the church owe to the authority established by God to direct princes and people to the supreme end of eternal salvation? These monarchs cannot ignore that the royal power has been given them for the defence and patronage of Christian society. But precisely because the principle of authority shall have been confirmed in the church and her head, a new force and impulse will be communicated to the sovereign power, which has the same divine origin and common interest. Thus, if the perversity of the period has separated these two powers and placed the one and the other in a difficult and painful position, to the great prejudice of human society, relations of the closest nature shall come to unite both by an indissoluble tie for the defence of the great religious and social interests, and the path be opened up leading to a more joyful and prosperous future."

It will be seen from the foregoing that the Pope still claims the right to control political as well as ecclesiastical matters; and that he vainly expects when the infallibility dogma is accepted, that the political powers will again bow to his mandate. Instead of this, the time is at hand when he must make his final surrender to the Prince of Peace.

NUMBER OF SPIRITUALISTS.

Those who think that Spiritualism is dying out, are not familiar with the facts relating to its progress. Its poisonous sentiments are now spreading in all directions, and are embraced by many church members. They have lost their enjoyment in the service of Christ, and hence turn to the Satanic fables of Spiritualism, hoping to find relief for an uneasy conscience. Spiritualism is like a great drag net, gathering up every thing that is unlike Jesus. Infidels, Atheists, Shakers, Hindoos, Deists, liars, libertines, swearers, drunkards, murderers, and all classes of wicked men and women find an asylum in Spiritualism. The numbers who are believing in this corrupt system, or giving it their sympathy, is very large. The following is a question put to a spirit, and the answer follows. They were published in the Banner of Light, Feb. 13th, 1869:

QUES.—It has been asserted by many prominent Spiritualists, and by Catholic Bishops even, that there are nearly eleven millions of believers in Spiritualism in the United States. But we find in the daily papers of to-day the following, viz: that Andrew Jackson Davis, the Poughkeepsie seer, thinks there are but four million two hundred and thirty thousand individuals of this persuasion. Can you, from your stand-point, give us the facts in the case?

ANS. Yes, we can. It would be absolutely impossible for an Andrew Jackson Davis, or any other man in the body, to determine correctly concerning this point, because there are so many believers that are believers in the dark; that is to say, that keep their belief strictly within their own bosoms. Many do not even dare admit their belief to their nearest and dearest friends. Now it is positively known, by that class of spirits who have investigated the subject, that there are between twelve and thirteen millions of Spiritualists at heart right here amongst you. We have set the figures low—you may be sure of that."

THE PROPHETIC KEY

Is the title of a new monthly, published and edited by P. S. G. Watson and A. F. Baker, at Versailles, Ky., for $2.50 a year. The first number was issued this June, and is ably conducted, containing 48 pp. of interesting matter. It has the following table of contents: "Salutatory, The Key to Prophecy, Archangel, Study of the prophetic Scriptures enjoined, Take the Bible as it reads, Familiar Conversation." It is well calculated to awaken a new interest in the study of the prophetic Scriptures.

We have just received the following from the son of Bro. W. S. Campbell:—

"Bro. Grant:—My father is dangerously ill at his daughter's in Meriden, suffering from felon and fever. The doctor thinks now there may be a chance of his recovery. Father wishes me to write you, and through your paper ask the church to make his case one of special prayer, if it should please our heavenly Father to spare him to his disconsolate wife and family. Very truly yours,

FRED. H. CAMPBELL."

For the World's Crisis.

TENT MEETINGS.

The new tent, "Evangelist," pitched at Cambridgeport for the last ten days, was dedicated to the Lord, Sunday, June 5th, and his divine presence was powerfully manifested and felt from the first hour of the meeting,—and continued to the last. The interest increased at every meeting. Sinners were convicted and rose for prayers at the first meeting, and others continued to rise at almost every meeting, numbering in all some twenty souls who wanted to find the Lord and commence a new life. One poor sinner, between seventy and eighty years old, wanted to find Christ, and asked the prayers of christians. Backsliders started anew. God's children were blest, and many deeply interested in God's truth preached by Elds. Boutell, Thurber, Hook, Ross, and others.

It was a blessed time, long to be remembered by many. The numbers were large at all the meetings, amounting to hundreds. The sacrifice was accepted by the Lord. Bless his dear name.

The Lord willing, the new tent will be pitched in Philadelphia in the large skating park, Broad and Wallace Sts., Sunday, June 26th, and remain as long as the Lord directs, prior to going to Jersey, Delaware, Washington, and other fields. Elder S. W. Thurber will commence the meetings. Bro. Hook will be on hand in a few days; also Brn. Couch, Ross, and others are expected during the meeting to preach the word and labor for the salvation of souls.

Friends of Jesus, pray that God's blessing and Holy Spirit may go with the new tent, and that it may be the means in his hands of bringing hundreds to the knowledge of the truth, and saving them through Jesus in the day of God. Your unworthy Bro. in Christ,

Boston, June 15th. J. N. WILFONG.

For the World's Crisis.

HOLD GROVE MEETINGS.

Why? Because of economy and ease of fitting up for a meeting. Obtain one near a school-house, or some other building where a meeting could be held in case of stormy weather on the day of appointment. A grove on a side-hill, or on rising ground, is preferable. I have seen a grove fitted up in two hours, by half a dozen wide-awake brethren, well enough to accommodate three or five hundred persons to better seats than they often have in many of our New Hampshire school-houses. With a little care, one can be arranged for permanent use.

Our brethren in Hopkinton have a grove where a meeting is to be held July 4th, which will be the beginning of the fourth year since the grove was first fitted up. In Bow, grove meetings were held last summer, once a fortnight. The example might be followed in many other places.

Now is the time to look around for a suitable place, and fit it up at once. Try it. The cost is but a trifle, and the results (I speak from my own experience) are generally satisfactory. By this class of meetings we draw out more unbelievers than we can by any other method, excepting camp and tent meetings. C. W. SARGENT.

Concord, N. H., June, 1870.

— Whatever makes the world happy in spite of God, is in the spirit and course of Babylon, and for a christian to be there is to be in Babylon.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute according to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERRON, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments	$543.78
E. Merrill	.35

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	$60.46

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 202, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$833.65

Correspondence.

From Bro. W. O. Swinnerton.

BRO. GRANT:—For the first time in my life I would address you a few lines through the Crisis, and may they cause all who read them to rejoice. The truth has found its way to California, and is doing its work. Through the goodness of God, Bro. D. D. Reed was sent to this coast with the word of life, and after reading some tracts on the state of the dead, saints' inheritance, eternal torment, etc., and then searching the word to see if these things were so, I became thoroughly convinced that "he that hath not the Son, hath not life"; that "the meek shall inherit the earth," and that "the day cometh that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble; and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch."

Although but twenty years of age, I immediately began speaking of these tremendous truths to my brethren and sisters in the Baptist church, of which I am at present a member. They were startled—shocked. My pastor denounced me as infidel, led astray, tempted of the devil. But still I hold on, and the Bible becomes a brighter lamp to my feet the more I peruse its sacred pages. Oh, what a moment of strange and thrilling joy to my poor bewildered mind and heart it was when I saw the truth as it is in Jesus. Perhaps this is disconnected, but my heart is so full I can but feebly express my thoughts.

Brethren and sisters, all who love the appearing of Jesus, lift up, proclaim, cry aloud, the glorious, the awful fact, that the Lord Jesus Christ will ere long descend from heaven with a shout, to give his servants eternal life, and to take vengeance on them that know not God and obey not the gospel. Let us be up and doing, endeavoring by every possible means to at least save some. The churches here are considerably exercised, and are astonished at the boldness and zeal with which those "soul-sleepers, Adventists, or fanatics," preach their abominable "heresies."

Some listen, and honestly inquire the way of truth; some rage, and wish the Lord would kill every one of us; some mock, while some turn pale and tremble with astonishment and fear when a few solemn, pungent sayings of our Lord are brought to bear on their darkened minds. Let the truth roll on. While the ungodly scoff and jeer; while the Pharisees rage; while popular theology lulls to sleep the fears of men and the conscience of the professor; while the professed followers of Jesus continue to eat and drink with the drunken, and begin to smite their fellow servants; while the nations tremble with perplexity; let the truth sweep like a purging fire throughout the world.

Let us raise the midnight cry—"Behold, the Bridegroom cometh! go ye out to meet him." But as we cry, let us be sure that our lamps are well trimmed, filled with oil, and burning brightly. As for myself, it is meat and drink to learn and speak the blessed Bible truths. Come joy or sorrow, evil or good report, I am for the Bible. Let the rains descend, let the floods come, let the winds blow and beat upon my house; it cannot fall, it is founded upon a rock!

How thankful I am that Bro. Reed ever came to this place with the words of eternal life through Christ alone. O how blind I was! but now how sweet the light. What a glorious, precious, exalting faith is ours! Eternal life beyond the resurrection; individual, tangible, enjoyable life! We shall meet and know each other there. We shall gather flowers on the hill of Zion. We shall mount up as eagles; we shall run and not be weary, we shall walk and not faint. O, the great, eternal, golden city; how it looms up before my gaze, thrilling me with ecstasy and joy, that he has been the means of lifting a poor, doubting, stumbling, blinded boy from the mire, and placing his feet upon the Rock of ages. Yours in hope and joy unspeakable,

W. O. SWINNERTON.

Santa Clara, Cal., April 9th, 1870.

From Bro. W. Forrester.

BRO. GRANT:—I feel to praise the Lord that I am able to write you again a few lines, in common with the many other brethren and sisters who are writing so many excellent communications for our paper, the Crisis. Myself and family feel that we could not serve our Lord and Master as faithfully without it as we now can.

Much is being said and written on the subject of our Lord's return. I am trying to keep in constant readiness, and to help others as far as I can. It does not make any difference to what church or society a person belongs. I feel it is my duty to obey the teaching of Bro. Paul in Heb. 12: 14, by following "peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." Many of us seem to forget that scripture, or neglect to obey it. In view of the judgment, I feel that it is our duty to teach or warn every person, that we may present every person perfect in Christ. We are not to suffer sin upon ourselves, nor our neighbor, in any wise, in word or deed. I am well aware if we take this course, as directed by our Master, we are accounted meddlers in other men's matters; so was He, and his twelve and seventy disciples; and so are we who thus live in these last days, which is a most prominent proof of our Master's soon coming back. I long to see him, that I may be made like him, as the apostle John tells us: "That, when he shall appear, we shall be like him." Then this mortal shall put on immortality.

"The dead shall be raised incorruptible." By this I think the apostle means, that all who are thus raised at his coming will be made incorruptible, or immortal; and consequently cannot die any more, being "children of the resurrection," as described in Matt. 22, Mark 12, and Luke 20; also in many other scriptures. I am well aware that we do not see eye to eye in many of these things; and one general reason which hinders us is much the same as our Savior told the Jews: "Ye do err, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God." We ought, then, to search the Bible more closely, and on our knees before God.

I am much pleased to see that some of my brethren have recently spoken out in the Crisis on the subject of temperance, or abstinence in the use of liquor and tobacco; as I really think I am prepared to prove to every humble, christian person, that the excessive use of either one will certainly expel any person from the kingdom of heaven; so, in short, it is the only safe way to touch not, handle not, anything whereby we or our brother stumbleth, or is made weak. St. Paul says, in 2 Cor. 6: 17, 18, "Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty." Also Matt. 5: 5, Jas. 1: 21–27; and we have many other similar texts.

I have been a professing christian man for over fifty years, and have always found that "wisdom's ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace," accompanied with holiness invariably. I was last fall and a few months prior canvassing for good books in my section, and in the time sold over seventy boxes of the "Tobacco Antidote." It proved to be an almost sovereign cure for the use of tobacco. I have now the certificates of several of the best farmers in this section, that they were wholly cured of all appetite for tobacco. Some men have stamina and firmness enough to obey the teaching of reason and the Bible; and others seem to need helps. But God's word is one rule for us all; if we want to be holy here, and happy hereafter in the world to come.

I was talking with a Presbyterian man a few weeks ago. I found him using a long white pipe, at a depot. I felt it my duty to warn him of his filthy, immoral habit. I showed him the bad influence his habits were having in the country at large. He very soon emptied his pipe, and put it in his pocket. I quoted several texts of Scripture; the cars came, and I had to go. I saw him some six weeks after. He was truly happy to see me. He said he had not used his pipe since he saw me, and I had done him more good than any man for years.

So we can work like the leaven in the meal, if we only obey the Master. Your Bro. in Christ, WM. FORRESTER.

Dundee, N. Y.

From Bro. D. Sheridan.

BRO. GRANT:—I hear much said of late in favor of short sermons, short prayers, and short communications. I am in favor of the system. But as I do not write often, and do have many things to say, I hope you will bear with me while I write a few words for the Crisis.

I will introduce the subject by relating the circumstance of a stranger who chanced to stop over night with me a short time ago. In a conversation with him on the subject—"The nature and future destiny of man," he made a remark that appeared somewhat novel at first, yet I could not avoid seeing the force of it, after all. It was this: "Human nature is about the same now that it has been in all past ages." I find it so. When men start for the kingdom, if they are truly humble, and so long as they remain in that position, things run well, and they are able to fight a strong battle with the enemy and come off more than conquerors; but the moment pride steps in, the enemy has the advantage, and the battle is lost, or, at least, reverses must follow.

This morning, while reading a part of the history of king Saul, I was forcibly impressed with the fact that his case would apply to our own times.

When Saul was informed that he was chosen to rule over Israel as their king, he manifested great humility; claimed to be of the smallest of all the tribes, and of the least family of that tribe. It appears "God gave him another heart." 1 Sam. 10: 9. Truly he was prospered while he kept in the true position; and he did remain humble and forgiving for a short time, as the history of his treatment of the sons of Belial shows, who "despised him," and had not honored him with presents at the time of his elevation to the throne. After the first great victory was won over the Amorites, the people proposed to destroy all those who were not willing to acknowledge him as their king.

But Saul refused to gratify their wishes; but when pride and disobedience took possession of his heart, how soon reverses follow. You have only to read the story to see.

Also in the past history of the church, during the dark ages of ignorance, pride, and superstition, persecution followed; and as a result, during the ninth century full one half was lost or separated from the other; at the same time the spirit of intolerance and pride continued to increase; and, as a final result, during the sixteenth century she sustained another loss of at least one-third of the remaining half; or so I saw it computed by one of the fathers of the church—the Bishop of Orleans.

How is it with the little flock who have so recently started for the kingdom? Are we all united in the "true Vine"? and do we dwell in harmony, peace, and good will together? Or, in the absence of that noble, christian quality, humility, has not the enemy been allowed to creep in and scatter the seeds of contention and division among us? The so-called Second Advent views, as I understand them, I fully endorse; and although I am not with you in name, as to sect, yet my whole soul is with you; and when taunts, jeers, harsh epithets, and persecution, are pressed upon me from outsiders and unbelievers, I am prepared, and expect it all. "If ye were of the world, the world would love his own; but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you."—John 15: 19. And although I am nearly alone here, and as times feel lonely, yet I am permitted to see some bright spots, which encourage me on my way, especially when I hear of the good success of those who are laboring in the vineyard in other places. J. D. SHERIDAN.

Three Rivers, April 26th, 1870.

Extracts from Letters.

BRO. B. P. MANNING writes:—"I am trying to do the best I can, and to live every day according to the word of the Lord; but I have to suffer much pain with my poor hands and feet, so that I am unable to do any labor to help support myself yet; but God has raised me up, so that I am able to be mouth for the Holy Ghost to speak through me, to hold up the truth to the people, and let them know that Jesus is soon coming to take his dear saints to himself. I have been able to spend one day in Nashua, and attended our State Conference at Portsmouth. Then I went to Kennebunkport, and preached two Sabbaths. There are some blessed children in that place. Then I came to Portsmouth and preached one evening.

I praise the Lord for what he has done for me; and I feel thankful to my brethren for a 'certificate,' and that I am in good standing in the State Conference; but this does not make me a Christian; the Spirit of Jesus Christ makes people Christians, by living up to the word of God, and being filled with love to Him."

SR. A. M. S. BEMENT writes:—"We are hastening to the judgment, the great day of accounts. Some are trimming their lamps, having oil in their vessels, with the wedding garment on, for the heavenly Bridegroom's return to earth; while the great mass are rushing down the broad road to perdition, unmindful of the great prize they are losing by their sad neglect. Saints and angels weep. But the time is soon coming when they will say, 'The harvest is past, the summer ended, and I am not saved.' A few in this place are struggling to gain the everlasting kingdom, but through much opposition. I am glad there are yet some faithful watchmen on the walls of Zion."

BRO. J. H. WILSON writes, June 5th:—"The N. H. Tent has been pitched in Kittery, and the Lord has blessed the efforts and crowned them with success. Great opposition prevailed among many minds, but it has given way in a great measure. Thank the Lord. One man arose and remarked, he had been to sea many years, and had stood amid storm and dangers unmoved; 'but,' said he, 'the word of the Lord has moved me.' Those who have not been out for years came to hear, and were interested. My prayer is, that God will continue to bless the labors of Brn. Leavitt and Shorey, in the salvation of many souls."

BRO. P. A. SMITH writes, June 8th:—"I leave Jacksonville next Friday night (10th) to go toward home. I am to stop at Homerville, and other places in Georgia, to preach for a little over two weeks, and expect to arrive at home July 2nd or 3d. Correspondents will please address me after this—No. 4, Frank St., Rochester, N. Y."

Married.

REED—FISHER. At the depot, in Richmond, April 16th, 1870, by B. F. Tallman, Esq., ELD. H. D. REED, of Richmond, and MRS. KATIE FISHER, of Bath.

Obituaries.

BAILEY. Died, in Monticello, Minn., May 19th, Bro. Noah Bailey, formerly of Vermont, in the fiftieth year of his age.

For the last twenty years Bro. Bailey had been a firm believer in, and earnest preacher of, the Advent faith. He came west for his health, and though feeble in body, he still labored incessantly in preaching the word, and his labors were blest to the good of many. Bro. Bailey was a man of ability and deep piety, of strong faith, great self-denial, living in close communion with God, and loving ardently the appearing of Christ. He had a great desire, and it caused him a hard struggle to give up this hope, of living till Christ should come. His faith bore him up, and greatly prolonged his life. When he reached the 19th he said, "This is the day that I shall die." He was perfectly patient under great bodily suffering, and a future life in the reresurrection from the dead opened before him intensely beautiful and bright. He selected Psalm 17: 15 for the text of his funeral sermon. L. C. COLLINS.

WADLEIGH. Fell asleep in Jesus, May 20th, 1870, Bro. Wm. S. Wadleigh, of Pleasant Hill, Jo Davis Co., Ill., in the sixtieth year of his age.

Bro. W. was converted in '46, united with the Baptist church, and remained with them until he heard the blessed doctrines of the speedy coming of Christ, and the resurrection of the dead, which he gladly embraced, and cherished them until his death. He leaves a wife, two sons, and a daughter, with a large circle of relatives and friends, to mourn their loss; but we sorrow not as those which have no hope, for we have the blessed assurance that our dear brother will have part in the first resurrection.

A large number assembled to pay the last respects to one highly esteemed by all who knew him, when a consoling discourse was delivered by Eld. L. A. Pilcher, from John 5: 28, 29.

ANNA B. PILCHER.

YOUNGS. Died, May 5th, the youngest daughter of Bro. J. S. and Sr. L. Youngs, aged seventeen years.

She lives cherished in the memory of mourning friends and a numerous acquaintance. In her closing moments great peace from the Lord rested upon her. Her last words were, "Farewell to a world of suffering and death," peacefully falling asleep in Jesus. Funeral services were held at the Congregationalist church. Sermon by the writer, assisted by the pastor. E. BELLOWS.

SPARKS. Died, at Rouseville, Venango Co., Pa., May 30th, 1870, Eveline Sparks, aged two years, two months and fourteen days.

A little more than a year ago dear Bro. and Sr. Sparks laid away in the grave their little boy, about six years old; but they "sorrow not as others who have no hope." With Rachel they expect their children to come again from the land of the enemy. J. WENDELL.

ROPER. Died, in Camden, June 8th, Wm. Roper, aged seventy-two years and five months.

Bro. R. gave his heart to Christ at the age of sixty. Last summer he embraced the glorious truth of "immortality through Christ alone," at the tent meeting in Camden. He died in hope of eternal life. Funeral services conducted by Eld. H. Taylor, and F. H. BURBANK.

STOWELL. Fell asleep in Jesus, June 17th, at Granby, Mass., Ella Jane, daughter of Lewis and Elizabeth D. Stowell, aged eighteen years.

She waited for many weeks for her release from this world of suffering. She longed for the rest of the grave till Jesus her Savior shall appear.

E. D. STOWELL.

LEROY. Died, in Westbury, N. Y., March 24th, 1860, of consumption, Bro. Walter Leroy, aged forty years.

He gave evidence of a good hope in Christ, which comforts those who mourn. Services at the funeral by the writer. B. P. STEVENS.

PROTESTANT CHRISTIANITY is spreading rapidly in Mexico. One missionary writes:—"Give the Bible and Bible institutions to Mexico, and there will soon be peace within her borders. Mexico may ere long become the champion of Protestant Christianity in Spanish America." Another writes: "Mexico is coming to Christ slowly, but surely. I and my coadjutors have lately received one hundred and fifty Mexicans on profession of their faith in Christ alone; in every case solicited by themselves, and I hope in the true faith, taking the word of God for their sole director."

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

ROME, June 14. The preamble of the infallibility decree is still under consideration. In the Ecumenical Council, His Holiness is certain of a majority in favor of the measure. Several of the members of the minority repeat their resolution to retire in case the proposition is successful. Fathers who are in favor of infallibility are contributing heavily to make up a purse for the Pope. The minority decline to subscribe anything.

June 16. The Ecumenical Council will commence the discussion of the last chapter of infallibility scheme to-day.

The Pope has fixed July 22d as the utmost limit which will be allowed Americans to make their submission to the Holy See. If by that time they have not reconciled themselves with Rome, ex-communication will be pronounced against them.

LONDON, June 16. The abolitionists here are urging the government to insist on the emancipation of slaves in the Cuban colonies.

MADRID, June 16. Gen. Prim announces as a candidate for the Spanish throne, Prince William Alexander of Orange.

DOMESTIC.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15. A violent earthquake had occurred in Japan, severest since 1855. The accounts of disaster are meagre, but several villages were destroyed.

The great volcano of Asamayama, in the interior of the island of Nippon, which has been quiet for centuries, is in violent eruption, accompanied by frequent earthquakes, and destroying the neighboring villages.

The captain of the barque Benefactress observed an active volcano at sea, two hundred miles from Yokohama. Some portions of the crater were above the sea, and clouds of steam were issuing therefrom. The water around the volcano appeared to be in a boiling condition.

WESTERN CROP PROSPECT—Our Western exchanges for the most part speak favorably of the crop prospects in that prolific region. Wheat in Southern Illinois is reported looking better than it did some weeks ago. The harvest has begun. Late rains in the northern part of the State have greatly benefited the crops. Winter wheat, corn and oats promise well. The Wisconsin papers are jubilant over the recent rains. The crop prospects are greatly improved. Grass and late sowed grains will be light, it is said, but other crops and fruits give abundant promise. The rye crop in Polk county is a total failure. In Michigan, potatoes are said to be much injured by the ravages of the Colorado bug. The papers do not anticipate more than half a crop of wheat and hay. Oats and corn will be backward, but the prospect is good for an average crop. "Iowa crops," says the Des Moines Register, "never looked better, and were never as forward as now. The best young corn the State ever had is growing faster, and is cleaner than any corn we have ever seen in the State, and there is more of it." Fruit promises to be abundant. There is but one report in regard to crops in Kansas, and that is, everything indicates an abundant harvest.—Journal.

Passing Events.

☞ So plentiful are the grasshoppers in Salt Lake City that the stench arising from the accumulation of their dead carcasses is terrible, and is seriously affecting the health of the city.

☞ Horace Greeley is seriously although not dangerously ill. He has been growing worse since his return from Nassau, and his physicians say that he is threatened with typhoid fever. He has been confined to his bed for several days, and sees only a few intimate friends.

☞ The drouth in France continues and causes great distress and loss of property. Cattle are perishing for want of fodder and water, and fears are entertained that the crops will all be ruined.

☞ The Emperor is ill, suffering from the gout, but is not dangerous. The court goes to St. Cloud next week.

☞ A colored theological seminary is to be established at St. Louis.

☞ Relapsing fever has reappeared in New York.

☞ The Porte has granted about six hundred acres of land near Jaffa for a Jewish model farm, with exemption from land tax.

☞ George Muller's orphans cost him but $65 each year.

Notices.

Prayer Requested.

I earnestly request the prayers of the brethren in behalf of my wife, who is now sick, and has been all this spring. We believe God can heal her, and have faith in the prayers of the brethren. We believe in the promises of God, and are trying to live faithful to him. Ye faithful ones, pray for me and mine. GEO. W. HOWARD.

Sister A. L. Piper, wife of Bro. S. A. Piper, of Lake Village, is very low from heart disease. She feels there is no help for her but from the Lord, and desires the brethren and sisters, who read the Crisis, to make her case a subject of special prayer, that she may be made whole, and serve and praise the Lord with her little family till he comes. Brethren, pray as the Lord directs. A. D.

Grove Meeting.

There will be a grove meeting at Salem Depot, N. H., in the Granite State Grove, Sunday, July 3d, and (if we can have the grove) will hold over Monday, the 4th. Bro. C. Goodrich, and perhaps others, will be present to preach the word.

C. RICHARDSON.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a meeting held in the grove on my place, in Hopkinton, N. H., July 4th, at ten o'clock A. M. Sister L. M. Stoddard, of Worcester, Mass., is expected to be present. Brethren and sisters, pray for us, that good may be done, and the Lord get glory.

ELBRIDGE G. KIMBALL.

Vermont Tent.

The Vermont Mission Tent will be pitched, the Lord willing, at Middlesex, near the red school-house, three miles from Montpelier depot. Meeting to commence June 23d, at one o'clock, P. M., to continue over Sunday, and longer, if thought best. Preachers and all are invited in the name of the Lord. We expect the Master to be there and feed the multitude. Let there be a general rally. D. BRALEY.

Grove Meeting.

The Lord willing, there will be a meeting in the pine grove near the depot, at West Bethel, Me., on the 3d and 4th of July. Brethren and friends are cordially invited to attend. Bro. J. A. Libby, or some one else, will be there to help preach the word. Brethren, let us make one more effort to save the perishing. For the brethren,

JESSE GAY.

Tent Meeting.

The A. A. Mission Tent is pitched between Prairie and Broad Sts., near the horse-car stable, South Providence, R. I. Meetings will be held (the Lord willing) day and evening through the week, and over Sunday, June 26th, and longer if duty. Brethren and sisters, come and help. The South Providence horse-cars run to the ground where the tent is pitched. ENOCH MORRILL.

Grove Meeting.

Providence permitting, there will be a grove meeting in Holderness, N. H., near the True school-house, on Sunday, July 3d, and Monday, the 4th. An ordination is expected Sunday. Elds. J. Harvey and J. Morse will be present to preach and attend to the ordination. Other preachers are expected to be there.

For the committee, DANIEL SMITH.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a grove meeting held in Guilford, N. H., in the grove near Davis Island, July 3d. All are invited to come who love the Lord, and may good be done in the name of the Lord Jesus. N. GLIDDEN.

Notice.

As the time has come for us to start the Mass. Mission Tent, we shall need funds to carry forward the work; and we wish those who have subscribed would forward the amount to the Treasurer, C. GOODRICH, No. 7 Salem Street, Boston, as soon as convenient.

S. W. THURBER, Pres. of Conf.

R. I. and East. Ct.

Our conference will hold its next session with the church at River Point, R. I., commencing Wednesday, June 29th, at two o'clock P. M. As this is a central locality, we shall expect to see a large number of preachers and delegates present. Let the clerks of those churches that do not send delegates remember their duty.

C. H. SWEET, Sec'y.

Conference.

A quarterly conference will be held at the Bailey school-house, in Pittston, Me., four miles south of the city of Gardiner, on the east side of the Kennebec river, opposite Gardiner depot, at five o'clock, P. M., June 23d, and hold over Sunday. Let the brethren and sisters all attend who can to work for the Lord. Provision for all. Ministering brethren from abroad are invited. Those who come by cars will stop at South Gardiner, and the brethren will be there to take them over the river in a boat.

S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Notice.

"The Levant Union Bethel Association" are engaged in building a house, in which to worship the living God, at Levant Village, Me. This house is called "The Levant Union Bethel." It is open and free to all denominations. Will cost about twenty-five hundred dollars, of which our late and lamented Bro. Joseph Turner paid one thousand dollars, and is the first and only meeting-house erected in the town. We have contracted to have the building finished July 1st, 1870. It will be dedicated Saturday, July 2d, at ten o'clock A. M., by the ministers of the various denominations, Bro. H. L. Hastings, of Boston, associating. Bro. Hastings, assisted by others, will continue to hold services in the same house on the 2d, 3d, and 4th of July. F. A. BAKER.

Notice.

Bro. Hook's new tent, "Evangelist," will be pitched, if the Lord will, in Camden, N. J., opposite Philadelphia, Sunday, June 26th, and continue as long as the Lord may direct. Bro. S. W. Thurber will commence the meetings. Brethren, pray for the meeting. I. N. WILFONG.

Notice.

Our annual meeting will be held in Kingston, as usual, on the 3d and 4th of July next (Sunday and Monday), in the grove. It is expected that Elders Laning, W. Burnham, G. W. Burnham, C. Cunningham, B. D. Haskell and W. M. Mellen will be present. We hope to see a general gathering to this feast. In behalf of the committee,

F. GALE.

Grove Meeting.

A grove meeting will be held in Bartlett, N. H., (Middle District), in Bro. John B. Deering's grove, commencing Wednesday, June 22nd, and holding over the following Sabbath.

Bartlett is situated on the road from North Conway to the White Mountains. The mountains tower around, and the scenery generally is magnificently grand. We have held meetings in the place during the past winter, and although the truths we love have never been preached there, the people have been like the Bereans, and are favorable to the truth, and a good number have been converted. We know of no place where greater good can be done by a meeting than in Bartlett, and it is hoped that the brethren and sisters from the surrounding towns will be present. Come from Porter, Freedom, Melvin Village, Albany and adjoining towns in Maine. Come from Whitefield, Woodstock, and other places west of the mountains, and you will find entertainment, and have a glorious meeting. Brethren coming by the Notch will inquire for Nathan French, James Mead, or Levi Rogers; and those from other directions, for John B. Deering. Brn. T. W. Piper, N. Wheeler, Levi Allen, J. H. Evans, J. G. Smith, Bro. Kidder, and others who love the truth, and don't distract and divide, are invited. Provision will be made to accommodate all the brethren and sisters who may come. Pasturing will be furnished for horses. Let us have a good gathering of the saints in the name of the Lord. An ordination and a baptism may be expected.

In behalf of the brethren, L. C. MCKINSTRY.

Michigan Campmeeting and Conf.

The annual campmeeting of the Michigan Advent Christian Conference will be held on the Fair ground in Jackson, commencing June 27th, and continuing over Lord's day. Preliminary meetings will begin June 18th, by Eld. J. M. Snook, in the Antioch tent, on the same ground.

Jackson is a central R. R. point, and easily reached from nearly all directions. All trains stop here. The Fair ground is only half a mile from the depot. Ample accommodations on the ground for teams, etc. Those coming to camp should bring their own bed clothes.

Let us rally and come together in the name and Spirit of the Lord. Let all preparation by prayer and fasting be made before the time to camp; and those who cannot come, do not forget to pray that God's blessing and Spirit may be in the camp, and that this meeting may redound to the glory of his blessed name. In behalf of the Board,

J. M. SNOOK, Sec.

New York State Tent Meeting.

Providence permitting, the New York State Mission Tent will be pitched at Randolph, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., June 23d. The brethren and sisters who can attend said meeting, are earnestly invited to do so. Randolph is on the A. and G. Western R. R. All trains stop there.

J. WENDELL.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a grove meeting held July 3d and 4th, on Mann's hill, in Holden, Me., on the farm owned by Samuel Gilmore, in the same grove where it was held last year. We invite all christians who love gospel salvation and order, and will seek their neighbor's good, to come and help. Brn. A. H. Walker and I. Damman are expected to be there.

Notice.

To the brethren in New York State: Shall we have a general campmeeting in the old Empire State? Will the brethren think and pray about it, and when we meet at our June conference, decide when and where we will hold it, and appoint a committee to arrange for the meeting? We have strength enough in Western New York for a good campmeeting, if we will all take hold of the matter. The Lord is coming. Let us do all we can to strengthen each other, and save the perishing around us. Please write immediately.

MILTON R. MILES, Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.

Notice.

The Advent brethren in Buffalo, N. Y., have hired a hall and established a prayer and conference meeting every Sabbath, at two o'clock P. M. The hall is on Maine Street, in the Arcade building, second floor, No. 9, and is large enough for preaching. Ministers passing this way who can spend a Sabbath with us, we will give notice of by our daily papers, if informed by Friday. They can expect but a small compensation at present, as most are poor, and we are just making an effort to gather the scattered flock. Some fifty in the city hold our views, and we hope, by a permanent meeting, some preaching, and God's blessing, we shall be able to form a stable church. Preachers can call on Wm. Shaw, 528 Eagle Street, or J. Blain, 79 North Division Street, H. Tanner, 255 Pearl street, and a home will be provided. We can have no meeting on week days at present, but hope to by and by.

For the brethren, J. BLAIN.

Minnesota Campmeeting.

The second annual campmeeting for the State of Minnesota will commence on Monday, June 27th, at Ottawa, continuing one week. Ottawa is situated on the Minnesota river, five miles below St. Peter. The St. Paul and Sioux R. R. will carry passengers at half fare to and from this meeting. When buying tickets for Ottawa from any station on this road, ask for a return ticket, which will be good for ten days after June 27th. A refreshment and provision stand will be kept on the ground for the accommodation of the camp, where such articles of food as cannot be conveniently brought from home may be obtained. The committee will make every effort for the temporal comfort of those attending the meeting, and trust all will unite in striving, by the help of God, to make it a spiritual "feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined."

COMMITTEE:—G. W. Miller, L. C. Collins, P. Ramer, W. Ketzebock, E. Bacon, E. T. Himes.

The Iowa Mission Tent.

Those who desire tent, camp, grove, or basket-meetings, will do well to correspond with me soon, so that I may make arrangements for summer work. In these meetings will be presented the gospel of Jesus Christ, with a view to do the people good. No party, sect, or hobby to build up, but to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Every lover of Jesus shall be free to work with us. All lovers of this pure christianity are requested to write soon. Direct to Peter S. W. Deyo, Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Notice.

There will be a grove meeting held in Jay, Bean's Corner, Me., commencing July 2d, at 5 o'clock P. M. and continuing over the Fourth. Come to this meeting to labor for the Lord. Bring your basket of food or not, as there will be provision made for all. The ordinance of baptism will be attended to. In behalf of the Brn.,

H. B. SEVEY.

P. S. We have received pledges to the amount of $25.00 for our meeting-house in Vienna. Who wishes to help? H. B. S.

Grove Meeting at West Kingston, N. H.

Providence permitting, there will be a meeting in Sargent's grove, near the great pond, on Sunday and Monday, July 3d and 4th. Brethren living in adjoining towns are invited. Strangers can call on Brn. Reuben Currier, Otis Tucker, or Geo. Goodwin. C. W. SARGENT.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meeting on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's. O. G. TRUNDY.

Notice.

The Advent Christian Church in Nashua, N. H., have hired a hall in Beasom's Block, corner of Maine and Factory Streets, up two flights of stairs, well fitted up, where we shall hold meetings three times on the Sabbath, and Thursday and Saturday evenings. For the brethren,

NATHANIEL EATON.

Notice.

Dear brethren and friends:—We have bought a brick house in Vienna, to fit up for a meeting-house. We lack funds to finish it. It will cost $100 to do the work inside. Some brethren have offered to assist us. If others who have the means will help, we should be glad. If we cannot get help, shall be obliged to sell. If brethren will send in what they will pay, we will give credit, and if enough is pledged we will notify when wanted. Direct all communications to

H. B. SEVEY,
S. W. CARR, } Mt. Vernon, Me.
H. C. CLIFFORD,

Notice.

Our annual grove meeting in Springwater, N. Y., will be held June 25th and 26th, 1870, commencing June 25th, at two o'clock P. M., in the grove, on the Morris farm, as usual. Come, now, brethren and sisters; let us all meet together and praise the world. C. F. SWEET.

Conn. State Tent.

Parties desiring the tent pitched in their vicinity, will please correspond with the Chairman of the Committee, H. H. DICKINSON, Hartford, Ct.

Notice.

The Advent brethren have rented the Temperance Hall on Maine St., in Brunswick, Me., and will hold meetings on Sunday regularly. Seats free to all who are disposed to meet with us. Ministering brethren are invited to come over and help us. Per order, C. GOUD.

Notice.

Putney's Hall, Sutton Mills, N. H. Meetings every Sabbath for the present. This is a new movement on the part of the Advent people of Sutton, and we think it is according to the will of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us.

A. CRESSEY,
FRANK NELSON, } Committee.
SAM'L ROWELL,

Notice.

All persons, rich or poor, wishing to have the Rhode Island Mission Tent pitched in any locality where there is an opportunity to get the great truths of the plan of salvation before the people, will address me by letter, at South Killingly, Ct.

E. BELLOWS.

Notice.

Any brother wishing to communicate with a brother who is in a low state of health, without home or means, and is looking to God in prayer as his only hope, can do so by writing to TIMOTHY E. COTTLE, Rochester, N. Y.

Notice.

Brethren in Conn. wishing my labors between now and the 20th of July, will please address me at once at Forestville, Conn., and appoint for me accordingly through the Crisis.

S. C. HANCOCK.

Wanted.

A copy of the "Constitution and By-Laws" of the R. I., and East Conn. Conference, as printed at the time V. P. Simmons was Secretary. I will return it after examining it, if desired.

C. H. SWEET, Natick, Mass.

German Tracts.

Bro. Reimer has a good supply. Send your orders to L. REIMER, 1006 Chesnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

For Sale.

A lot of second-hand Sunday School books, some of them nearly new. For particulars, address A. C. GREENE, River Point, R. I.

Notice.

I would say that persons desiring practical treatment with the Resuscitator for diseases, may address me at 43 Revere Street, Boston.

W. C. STONE.

Inquiry.

Brethren and sisters of Sutton, Bradford, and Warner: Can we join together and have a tent meeting? We in Bradford think we can.

Notice.

As the piece of music entitled "Sweet by-and by" cannot be obtained in sheet form, I will send the book containing words and music, post-paid, for 35 cents. "The Pilgrim's Harp," 60 cts., post-paid. GEORGE E. LEE, Brimfield, Mass.

☞ A short poem, "The Blissful Vision," may be had for 30 cts. per dozen, of the author, J. Albert Libby, West Poland, Me.

☞ To Preaching Brethren.

Those wishing to preach in — Correspond with

Westfield, Mass. .... E. A. Eggleston.
Savoy, Mass .... Daniel Miller, or A. E. Bliss.
Wakefield, Mass. .... G. R. Tyzzer.
Worcester, Mass. ....H. M. Blackmer, Willard M. Hall, or Willard G. Ruggles.
Portsmouth, N. H. .... T. E. Wood, Box 1445.
Hampton, N. H. .... Joseph A. Philbrook.
Manchester, N. H. ....A. J. Mahew, S. R. Davidson, or O. Proctor.
Loudon Ridge, N. H. ....Daniel L. Moore, Wm. Batchelder, Edward Mudget. Fourth Sabbath engaged.
Seabrook, N. H. .... R. S. Johnson, of Hampton, N. H., or Chs. Barton, of Seabrook.
Goshen, N. H. .... O. F. Cain.
Rye, N. H. .... Moses C. Philbrick or Samuel Smart.
Pittsfield, N. H (Bethel) .... C. S. Emerson.
Portland, Me. .... R. R. York, S. K. Dyer, D. F. Scamman.
Lewiston, Me. .... Albert Burgess.
South Berwick, (Great Works), Me. .. Harrison Dow.
Kennebunk Depot, Me. .... Rufus Duran.
Vernon, Vt. .... J. C. Allen.
Bristol, Ct. .... B. Hitchcock, Forestville, Ct.
West Glocester, R. I. .... Geo. A. Hawkins, Putnam, Ct.
New Haven, Ct. .... W. F. Carpenter, 73 State St.
Pleasant Valley, Ct. .... Reuel O. White, New Hartford, Ct.
Meriden, Ct. .... E. J. Whitehead, West Meriden, Conn., Box 4.
New Britain, Conn. .... A. Powell.
Wrightville, Ct. .... D. A. Grant, Torrington, Ct.
Newfield, Ct. .... Wm. Ripley, Pleasant Valley, Ct.
New Milford, Ct. .... J. Coggswell.
Morris, Ct. .... Joseph Curtis.
Rochester, N. Y. .... J. R. Cooper, 4 Hickory St.
Philadelphia, Pa. .... Frank E. Davis, 1715 Markham Street, or I. N. Wilfong, 135 N. 22d St.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 15 cts. per copy additional, when sent by mail.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR.

A WORK THAT THOROUGHLY VENTILATES SPIRITUALISM.

376 pages. Price by mail, $1.25.

The above works for sale at this office.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED.
WHAT IS MAN?
THE SOUL—WHAT IS IT?
THE SPIRIT—WHAT IS IT?
THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.

All the above works in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL.

A. Ross .... Sunday, June 26th
A. A. Phelps .... Tuesday evening, June 28th
Hiram Munger .... Sunday, July 3d
J. Couch .... Sunday, July 17th
M. Batchelor .... Sunday, July 24th

BOSTON, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.

John G. Hook .... Sunday, June 26th
Communion in the evening. All Christians invited.
Nathan Whiting, N. M. Davis } .... Friday evening, June 24th

Meetings in South Boston on Wednesday evenings, at C. W. Huntress,' 3 Lowland street. On Friday evenings at J. N. Berry's, 227 E. street.

EAST BOSTON.

Meetings are held at Chase's Block, up two flights, at 154 Meridian Street, on Sundays, at the usual hours, also Monday and Thursday evenings.

CHELSEA, MASS., (LIBRARY HALL.)

J. Couch .... Sunday, June 26th
I. B. Potter .... Sunday, July 3d
T. M. Preble .... Sabbath, July 10th
M. Batchelor .... Sunday, July 17th
J. Hemenway .... Sunday, July 24th
J. Pinkham .... Sunday, July 31st

CHARLESTOWN.

Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.

W. S. Campbell .... Sunday, June 26th

Stoneham, Mass .... Sunday, June 26th
C. GOODRICH.

Fitchburg, Mass .... Sabbath, June 26th
Manchester, N. H .... Sabbath, July 3d
T. M. PREBLE.

Bridgewater, Vt .... Sunday, June 26th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Holden, Mass .... Sunday, June 26th
Stoneham, Mass .... Sunday, July 10th
Chicopee Falls, Mass .... Sunday, July 17th
Springfield .... July 19th
Warehouse Point, Ct .... July 20th
New Britain, Ct .... July 22nd
J. S. WHITE.

New Bedford .... Sundays, June 26th
M. Batchelor .... Sunday, July 3d
M. BATCHELOR.

Rye, N. H .... Sunday, July 3d
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works), Sunday, July 10th
JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Hudson, Mass., Saturday evening, June 25th, and Sunday A. M., June 26th.
Marlboro, Mass .... June 26th, P. M. and evening
H. L. HASTINGS.

Exeter, N. H .... Sunday, June 26th
BURLEY EMERY.

Pittston, Me. (conference) .. July 23d and over Sunday
Cushing, Me .... Sunday, July 3d, and baptize
H. S. MITCHELL.

New Milford, Ct .... Sunday, June 26th
Roxbury, Ct. (L. R. Teeple's) .... Sunday, July 3d
New Milford, Ct .... Sunday, July 10th
Bridgewater, Ct. (at Sr. Strong's) .. Sunday, July 10th
Southville, Ct .... Sunday, July 17th
Platt Dist. school-house, July 17th.
Roxbury, Ct. (at Sr. Teeple's) .... Sunday, July 24th
New Milford .... Sunday, July 31st
H. K. WALLING.

South Elliot, Me .... Sunday, June 26th
Barnstead, N. H .... Sunday, July 3d
East Rochester .... Sunday, July 10th
J. H. F. VARNEY.

Lower Gilmanton, N. H. (Chapel) Sunday, June 26th
N. B. MCMURPHY.

Great Falls, N. H. (at the tent meeting) Sunday, June 26th.
Dover, N. H .... evenings, June 28th and 29th
Rochester Village, N. H .... evenings, June 30th and July 1st.
Alton Corner, N. H .... Sunday, July 3d
Melvin Village, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
Meredith, N. H., (Dolloff Hall) .... Sunday, July 17th
Lake Village, N. H. (North Church) Sun., July 24th
Manchester, N. H .... Sunday, July 31st
A. SIMPSON.

Campton, N. H. (Bump school-house) Sun., June 24th
JULIA BUSWELL.

North Hartford, Me. (Thomas school house) Sunday, June 26th. ORRILL W. KIMBALL.

Lincolnville, Me. (Young Town) .. Sunday, June 26th
Lincolnville, Me. (Ratlof school-house) Sun., July 3d
THOMAS SMITH.

Pittston, Me. (conference) .... June 23d
H. B. SEVEY.

Prospect, Conn .... Sunday, June 26th
Terryville, Conn. (in Bro. O. T. Yales' neighborhood, or where he may appoint) Sunday, July 3d.
☞ NO NAME.

South Casco .... Sunday, July 3d
J. T. JORDAN.

Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school-house) for baptism, Sunday, July 3d. JOHN PARSONS.

Bristol, R. I .... Sunday, June 26th
J. T. DIXON.

Ossian, Livingston Co., N. Y. (☞ Bisbee school-house) Sunday, June 26th, one o'clock P. M.
D. COGSWELL.

Ellsworth, N. H., (Freewill Baptist meeting-house) about four miles from Silver's store, Sab., June 26th
C. W. NELSON.

Newfield (where Wm. Grant may appoint) Sunday, June 29th.) W. W. SUTHERLAND.

Northport, (as Bro. Pendleton may appoint) Sunday, June 26th.
Lincolnville Corner (Free House) .... Sunday, July 3d
JER. CARR.

Strafford, N. H., (Roberts' school-house), Sun., June 26th. S. S. MOONEY.

Hemlock Lake (as Bro. Owen and others may appoint) Sunday, July 3d. C. F. SWEET.

Melvin Village .... Sunday, June 29th
T. W. PIPER.

Kennebunkport .... Sunday, June 26th
Portland, Me .... evening, June 27th
Lewiston .... June 28th and 29th
Mechanic Falls .... evening, June 30th
Bryant's Pond .... evening, July 1st
Colebrook Corner, N. H. (where Bro. J. Little may appoint) Sunday, July 3d.
East Colebrook, Kiddersville .... Sunday, July 10th
U. G. LADD.

If these appointments conflict with others, please write me at Lowell, Mass. U. G. L.

Lake Village, N. H .... Sunday, June 26th
WM. C. STEWART.

Northwood Narrows, N. H .... Sabbath, June 26th
N. C. TWOMBLY.

Rye, N. H .... Sabbath, June 26th and evenings in the intervening week.
Seabrook, N. H .... Sundays, July 3d and 10th
Warner Village (Union Hall) .... Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th. ALLEN DAMON.

Lawrence, Mass .... Sunday, June 26th
L. B. POTTER.

Great Works, Me .... Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
South Elliot, Me .... Sundays, July 10th and 17th
Seabrook, N. H .... Sundays, July 24th and 31st
E. S. MOULTON.

Woodstock Valley, Ct .... Sabbath, June 26th
P. S. BUTLER.

Charlemont, Mass .... Thursday evening, June 23d
Northfield, Mass .... Sunday, June 26th
Subject at Northfield—The 1335 days the only period reaching to the end of Daniel's vision.
H. K. FLAGG.

Montgomery, Mass .... Sunday, July 3d
ENOCH PHELPS, JR.

East Otis, Mass .... Sunday, June 26th
Waterbury, Ct .... Sunday, July 3d
WM. J. RIPLEY.

North Dana, Mass .... Sunday, June 26th
GEO. A. STREETER.

Springfield, Mass .... evening, June 28th
Worcester .... evening, June 29th
Boston (Lowell St. Chapel) .... evening, June 30th
Portland .... evening, July 1st
South Windham .... Sunday, July 3d
Windham Hill .... evening, July 4th
H. M. ROSE.

Swanzey, Mass. (Deacon Wood's farm) Sun., July 3d
EDWIN S. STRAIGHT.

North Dorchester, N. H .... Sunday, June 26th
Dorchester, N. H (Town House) .... Sunday, July 3d
Holderness, N. H. (Carr school-house) Sun., July 10th
Will some Bro. meet me at the Plymouth depot, noon train?
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall) .... Sunday, July 17th
Some Bro. meet me at the Meredith depot, second down train?
East Orford, N. H. (Davis town school-house) Sunday, July 24th. Will Bro. Hockings meet me at Wentworth, July 21st, two o'clock P. M., at G. Deans?
Keene, N. H .... Sunday, July 31st
Hinsdale, N. H .... Sunday, Aug. 7th
Will Bro. Streeter meet me at the Hinsdale depot Aug. 5th, first down train?
Northfield, Mass. (where Bro. Streeter may appoint) Sunday, Aug. 14th.
If any of these appointments conflict, write me immediately at West Rumney, N. H. E. COTTON.

Exeter, N. H .... Thursday evening, June 23d
Hampton, N. H .... Friday evening, June 24th
Rye .... Sunday, June 26th
Portsmouth .... Tuesday evening, June 28th
Lawrence, Mass .... Wednesday, June 29th
Wakefield .... Thursday evening, June 30th
Lynn .... Friday, July 1st
Webster .... Sabbath, July 10th
Charlton (Chapel) .... Sunday, July 17th
Will be at Charlton depot 1½ P. M. H. MUNGER.

West Greenwich, R. I. (as Bro. Green may arrange) Sabbath, June 26th.
Lafayette, R. I .... evening, July 6th
Rocky Brook, R. I .... evening, July 7th
Wyoming, R. I .... Sabbath, July 10th
Seabrook, N. H .... evening, July 15th
Portland, Me .... Sabbaths, July 24th and 31st
Kennebunk Depot, Me .... Sabbath, Aug. 7th
South Berwick, Me., (Great Works) .... Sab., Aug. 14th
Seabrook, N. H .... Sabbath, Aug. 21st
C. H. SWEET.

Springfield .... Sunday, June 26th
Charlton, Mass., Milward .... Sunday, July 3d
Southington, Ct .... Sunday, July 17th
Holden, Mass .... Sunday, July 24th
Z. FORD.

Hartland (Town Hall) .... Sunday, June 26th
S. WOODRUFF.

Vernon, Vt .... Sunday, July 3d
WM. SUTHERLAND.

Westfield Farms .... Sunday, June 26th
E. OWEN.

Holderness, N. H. (Car school-house) Sun., June 26th
Campton, N. H. (Bump school-house), Sun., July 3d
West Ossipee, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
C. LOCKE.
J. B. BROWN.

Boscawen, N. H., (Gulf school-house) evening, June 18th, and Sabbath, June 26th.
Webster, N. H. (old meeting-house) .... Sab., July 3d
Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall) Sabbath, July 10th
SIMEON ROBY.

Dover, N. H .... Sunday, June 26th
Alton Corner, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
East Rochester, N. H .... Sunday, July 17th
H. M. BRYANT.

Worcester, Mass .... Sunday, June 26th
Wakefield, Mass .... Thursday and Friday evenings, June 30th and July 1st.
Dover, N. H. (City Hall) .. Sundays, July 3d and 10th
A. A. PHELPS.

Gosport, Isle Shoals .... evening, June 25th and over Sunday, the 26th.
New Durham Ridge, N. H .... Sunday, July 3d
Great Falls .... Sunday, July 10th
Dover .... Sunday, July 17th
Wakefield, Mass .... Sunday, July 24th
Stoneham, Mass .. evenings, July 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th
J. PINKHAM.

Scarborough Blue Point .... Sunday, June 26th
Cape Porpoise .... Sunday, July 3d
Hollis Centre .... Sunday, July 10th
Bonuy Eagle .... Sunday, July 17th
T. P. S. HAMPSON.

Meredith Village, N. H .. Thursday evening, June 23d
Meredith Center (Dolloff Hall) .... evening, June 25th and Sabbath, 26th.
Will Bro. Veasey meet me at the Village, Saturday, the 25th, and much oblige? B. P. MANNING.

Farmington, N. H. (Ricker school-house) .... July 3d
Nottingham, N. H. (where Bro. Rendall may appoint) Sunday, July 10th.
Rye, N. H .... Sunday, July 17th
J. G. SMITH.

Effingham Centre, N. H. (school-house) for baptism, Sunday, July 3d. MARK STEVENS.

Bartlett, N. H., (with Bro. McKinstry and others) Sunday, June 26th.
Moultonborough Neck (Middle school-house) Sunday, July 3d.
East Holderness .... Sunday, July 10th
LEVI ALLEN.

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., July 3d
D. W. DAVIS.

Sutton Mills, N. H. (Putney's Hall) .... Sabbath, July 3d
L. E. SAULPAUGH.

Pittsfield, N. H .... Sunday, June 26th
Farmington Village, N. H .... Sunday, July 3d
Strafford, N. H. (Roberts' school-house) Sun., July 10th
North Narrows, N. H .... Sunday, July 17th
East Rochester, N. H .... Sunday, July 24th
WM. BODGE.

Sutton, N. H. (Putney's Hall) .... Sunday, June 26th
Nashua, N. H .... Sunday, July 3d
JOSEPH KIMBALL.

Meredith Centre, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
Meredith Neck .... Sunday, July 17th
N. GLIDDEN.

Will meet Bro. Evans at North Dorchester, N. H., Sunday, June 26th. J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

Hopkinton, N. H. (Sugar Hill school-house) Sabbath, July 3d. FRANK NELSON.

Wallingford, Ct. (in grove near Bro. Dudley's) Sunday, June 26th. O. D. WOODRUFF.

Pleasant Valley, Ct .... Sunday, July 3d
Greenwich, Mass. (North West Dist.) Sun., July 10th
E. OWEN.

Providence, R. I .... Sunday, June 26th
New York City (Cooper Institute) .... Sunday, July 3d
New Britain, Ct .... Sunday, July 10th
Terryville, Ct. (Bro. Yale's neighborhood) July 17th
Wolcottville, Ct .... Sunday, July 24th
CHAS. C. BARKER.

South Providence, R. I., (at the tent meeting) through the week, and over Sunday, June 26th.
Millville, Mass. (at Bro. Boyden's) .... June 28th
South Boston, Mass. (No. 2 Lowland Street) Wednesday evening, June 29th.
East Boston .... Thursday evening, June 30th
ENOCH MORRILL.

South Windsor, Ct .... Sunday, June 26th
Worcester, Mass .... Sunday, July 3d
R. K. STARK.

Sugar Hill, N. H .... once in two weeks
N. WHEELER.

Hollis Centre, Me .... Sunday, June 26th
JER. HILL.

Vernon, Vt .... Sunday, June 26th
A. M. HIGGINS.

Manchester, N. H .... Sabbath, June 26th
Rye, N. H .... Sabbath, July 10th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Rootville, Break Bread .... first Sunday in the month
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Brunswick, Me. (Temperance Hall) Sunday, June 26th
R. R. YORK.

New Britain, Ct .... Sunday, June 26th
Springfield, Mass .... Sundays, July 3d and 10th
West Meriden, Ct .... Sunday, July 17th
W. N. PILE.

Lewiston .... Sunday, June 26th
N. G. REED.

North Dorchester, N. H. (Union school-house) Sunday, June 26th. JOHN H. EVANS.

Swift Water .... five o'clock, Sunday, July 3d
A. A. HOYT.

LOWELL, MASS.

J. W. Thomas .... Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
Wm. H. Mitchell .... Sunday, July 10th
J. Pinkham .... Sunday, Aug. 7th

CONCORD, N. H., (CENTRE STREET.)

J. Albert Libby .... Sabbath, June 26th
C. H. Fletcher .... Sabbath, July 3d
M. Batchelor .... Sabbath, July 10th
A. Ross .... Sabbath, Aug. 7th

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)

Sr. L. M. Stoddard .... Sundays, June 26th and July 3d
A. A. Phelps .... Sundays, July 24th and 31st

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

N. Glidden .... Sunday, June 26th
J. Couch .... Sunday, July 3d
Geo. W. Burnham .... Sunday, July 10th
C. H. Sweet .... Sunday, July 17th
Allen Damman .... Sundays, July 24th and 31st
J. H. F. Varney .... Sunday, Aug. 7th

DOVER, N. H.

H. M. Bryant .... Sunday, June 26th
A. A. Phelps .... Sundays, July 3d and 10th
J. Pinkham .... Sunday, July 17th
T. W. Piper .... Sunday, July 24th
Dover, N. H .... Sunday, July 31st

EAST ROCHESTER, N. H.

Wm. H. Mitchell .. Sabbath, July 3d and Mon., July 4th

LOUDON RIDGE, N. H.

Joseph Harvey .... Sunday, June 26th

PITTSFIELD, N. H. (at the Bethel.)

J. Parsons .... Sunday, June 26th

HAMPTON, N. H.

J. G. Smith .... Sunday, June 26th
Edwin Wells .... Sunday, July 3d
Joseph W. White .... Sunday, July 17th

HARTFORD, CT.

Wm. A. & M. L. Durand .... Sabbath, June 26th
S. Woodruff .... Sabbath, July 3d
C. K. Barnes .... Sunday, July 10th
A. Ross .... Sunday, July 17th

NEW BRITAIN, CT.

Wm. N. Pile .... Sunday, June 26th
C. C. Barker .... Sunday, July 10th
J. S. White .... Sunday, July 31st

SCITICO, CT.

G. L. White .... Sunday, June 26th
H. H. Dickinson .... Sunday, July 3d

BRISTOL, CT.

H. H. Dickinson .... Sabbath, July 3d
R. K. Stark .... Sabbath, July 17th
M. L. Durand .... Sabbath, July 31st

ABINGTON, CT.

O. H. Sweet .... Sabbath, July 3d

PLEASANT VALLEY, CT.

J. S. White .... Sunday, July 24th

HOOSICK, N. Y.

E. Towsly .... Sunday, June 26th
J. Wilbur .... Sunday, July 3d

I shall be at West Sterling, Mass., June 28th to July 12th. Will preach near that section any evening during that time. Please address me at West Sterling, Mass. H. K. FLAGG.

Plymouth, Vt .... Sunday, June 26th
Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., July 10th
Z. T. WOOD.

Farmington, Me .... Sunday, June 26th
G. W. BROWN.

Dixfield Center, Me .... Sabbath, June 26th
ORRILL W. KIMBALL.

Business.

Letters Received.

A Greely, M E Chute, A D Flagg, J Whitman, J. Ridley, Z B Chase, T J Delano, N Grant, A M S Bement, T C Cottle, E D Stowell, C H Sweet, D Braley, F H Burbank, A B Pilcher, I Lamb, G L Teeple, J C Bywater, B. P. Stevens, J H Wilson, F U Campbell, C Mendenhall, J Wendell, C W Sargent, L C Collins, M. Howard, E. Bellows, J N Bellows, J N Wilfong, B P Manning, A A Phelps, D N Kidder, P A Smith, H. Hauxhurst, A. E. McEllister, W E Brown, C W Bixby, E M Ripley, D N Smith, W A Fenn, S L Manley.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents. Postage 8 cts.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc., etc. Cloth, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Leather back, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c; Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERYBODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? A Tract on War. Price 10c, postage 2c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 6c.

THE FIRST DAY SABBATH. By T. M. Preble. A new and interesting work. pp. 471. Price $1.50.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5 cts. single; by mail, 7 cts.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M Preble. 15c. postage 2 cts., or by mail 17 cts.

TWO HUNDRED STORIES FOR CHILDREN. By Elder T. M. Preble. pp. 234. 80c. by mail.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. By Thomas Carlyle. 3c. single; 5c. by mail; 20c. per dozen.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR; or, Spiritualism; What it is, and what it is not. Paper covers, $1.00; by mail; cloth, $1.25 by mail.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 60c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

VOICE OF THE THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper, 50c.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, Retribution, and Will all Men be Saved? By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man, with various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper, 50c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church; By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times to Daniel and John. On Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

THAT MAN OF SIN. By Eld. O. R. Fassett. To which is added "The Only Hope." Price, 5c. single; postage 2c. 50c. per dozen; postage 6c.

Any of the above will be sent by mail on receipt of the price.

THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley. 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.

"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.

LIST OF ENGLISH BIBLES.

We have received and keep on hand the following English Reference Bibles:

Minion, 8vo., marg. ref., large type, circuit binding, $4.50; postage 28 cts. Do. plain binding, $4.00; postage 28 cts.

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., circuit binding, $3.50; postage 20 cts. (Best size for preachers.)

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., plain, $2.25; postage 20 cts. Do. ref. between verses, $2.25; postage 24 cts.

Pearl, 8 vo., marg. ref., circuit, $3.25; postage 20 cts. Do. plain, $1.75; postage 20 cts.

SPIRITUALISM CONDEMNED

BY THE TESTIMONY OF THE BIBLE AND ITS OWN WITNESSES.

BY M. D. WELLCOME.

Price 10 cents single copy. Twenty copies for $1.00; $3.50 per one hundred copies.

"Historic Echoes of the Voice of God."

AN EXPOSITION OF THE ELEVENTH CHAPTER OF DANIEL.

BY ELDER J. COUCH.

Price 15 cents single copy. $1.50 per dozen. $10.00 per one hundred.

"ADVENTISM."

We have a supply of this valuable work.
Price in cloth .... 75 cts., postage 12 cts.
Flexible covers .... 60 cts., postage 12 cts.
Paper covers .... 50 cts., postage 6 cts.
In paper covers by the dozen, by express, $4.75.

"ABBA, FATHER."

"And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father."—Gal. 4: 6.

Father! by that dear name my heart is stirr'd,
And child-like homage renders at the word;
No other name can give such sweet repose,
So full a solace for our many woes.
With joy unspeakable I hear thy voice,
Which says, "At all times in my love rejoice."
I need not bring thee words—"My son, thy heart"
Is thy demand. And often when apart
In sorrow, brooding o'er some heavy care,
'T is soothing and relief to feel thee near;
And though in broken tones my utterance be,
Father! I call, and thou dost answer me.
Draw me! I will run after thee—will seek
To hear obediently what thou wilt speak,
And step by step the blessed path would trace
Of thy beloved—full of truth and grace.
Thou hast but One who ever pleased thee well,
Of him we love to hear, and thou to tell;
Our deep desire, our highest aim to grow
Into his likeness—all his grace to know.
The grace that brought him from thy bosom, where
The fount of life is, and all pleasures are
To gain a name, our hearts adoring own
The name of Jesus and a royal crown.
His and our Father! oh, the depth and height,
The love surpassing knowledge, 't is too bright.
Faith nearly staggers at the mystery—
The mystery of love; yet though o'erpower'd,
Our trembling hearts can trust thy faithful word,
The Spirit with our spirit witnesses—
Children we are, and he our Father is.

CHRISTIAN UNION.*

(Continued.)

The great work of Christ, therefore, in restoring the social condition of the world to its normal state, is the reconciliation and harmonizing of all principles and beings to the immutable and eternal government of Deity.

As Satan was the instigator and leader of the rebellion against God, which resulted in division and war in this world; so Christ has become the leader in restoring loyalty to God, which will as certainly result in union and peace. When Satan saw the first man and his companion, as the head and germ of a coming multitude; when he saw the union and harmony which they enjoyed with their God, and between themselves; and when he saw that their numerous descendants would enjoy the same, he was envious and jealous, and at once determined to break that union and destroy that harmony, and thus rob them of the happiness and glory which their God had purposed that they should enjoy.

The first man was constituted by his Creator the head of this world, and he became the direct link which associated it with its Maker. He also became the constituted medium through which the principles of the divine government should be communicated to all the world over which he was placed. When the link was broken by sin, and man was severed from his God and united with Satan (which is always the effect of sin), he could no longer receive from the heavenly fountain nor communicate to the world, the principles of peace and good will for the communication of which he was made. But being connected with the fountain of evil, he could communicate only the principles of evil, which are at war with the divine government. To make restitution of this world to its original position, it became necessary to find a new link which could support and hold it in connection with its God, and in harmony with his government.

As the purposes and plans of God are immutable, and as he purposed that man should stand between himself and his earthly dominions as his representative and governor, no being except man can possibly occupy that position. When Adam proved himself unworthy of the high office he filled, he was deposed, and the office vacated; so that this world drifted off from the government and control of heaven, and was usurped by the devil, who has since claimed it as his kingdom. But that office must be filled, and be filled by a man, or the divine purpose has failed. That office must be filled by a man who can hold this world in its original position, in harmony with the government of heaven, so that there shall be no jar between it and its Creator; or, the immutability of God's plan has failed.

But is there one among the sons of Adam who can do this mighty work? Not one; not one who has come upon the stage of life by natural generation; for the first man, by sin, became constitutionally disqualified for the position. How, then, could he produce a son constitutionally qualified for that place? Can a stream rise above its fountain?

The angels are excluded also, for they do not belong to the class of beings eligible to the office. How, then, can the office be filled by a man, unless God, independent of the laws of generation, shall once more produce a man who shall have a constitutional fitness for the position, which he cannot have by the laws of natural generation?

God has produced such a man, in the person of Jesus Christ. Did God suspend the laws of natural generation, in producing the man Christ Jesus? He did; for Christ's mother was a virgin, and he had no fallen, sinful man for a father. God became Christ's father by as direct an interposition of creative power as in the case of "the first man," which makes Christ "the second man;" that is, the second man having no father but God.

But as God had established a law that all men, after the first man, should be "made of a woman," that law, also, is immutable, and cannot be broken; consequently, to produce a being who can fill the highest office of humanity, and to make him eligible to that office, he must be "made of a woman," in order to belong to humanity. And to give him a constitutional nature and character sufficiently elevated for that high office, he must derive that nature and character from his father; but as man by sin had disqualified himself to transmit such a nature and character, there was then but one being—God—who could as father, with woman as mother, bring into existence one who should be qualified to be the Redeemer and Governor of the world. Hence the necessity of his human parentage,—woman his mother, and God his father.

Having ascertained that Christ is the constituted connecting link, through whom this world is again to be associated with God and his government, I enquire, What is necessary in order that Christ may produce that result, and how will he accomplish it? The principles that governed the first man's action must be changed, and his action reversed; for wrong principles always produce bad acts and disastrous results, and such consequences are never the result of right principles.

The first wrong principle which Adam acted upon, according to Bible history, was in adopting a false rule of interpretation. He first falsely interpreted the character of the beings—God and Satan—with whom he was associated, which necessarily resulted in the misinterpretation of their communications. These beings appeared before him as his teachers and leaders, both professing to teach him doctrines which they declared were necessary for his future well-being and happiness.

But how should the character of these beings have been interpreted? Which should have been regarded as the friend, and which as the foe? It is manifest that the teaching of foes should be regarded as dangerous and ensnaring, while the instruction of friends is for our safety and welfare. He is an enemy who brings evil upon us; and he who secures our happiness is our friend.

How wonderfully grand and momentous were the scenes and events when the mighty actors—God, Satan and man,—were upon the stage, each wielding the power of destiny in certain departments of creation, and the culminating scene drew near when man must cast the deciding vote between the contending parties before him.

God had taught the man that by his eating the fruit of a certain tree he would "surely die." But Satan had appeared and taught him that God was either ignorant or a liar, by positively contradicting what God had said, and instructing him that by eating the fruit of the forbidden tree he would not "surely die," but only change his mode of existence and "be as gods."

Under these circumstances, it was necessary for man to decide for one, and against the other. He could not say that both had told the truth, nor that both had lied; hence he must decide which had told the truth, and which had lied. The decision to be made was of vast importance. The interests of a world were hinged upon it. It involved the happiness or woe of uncounted millions.

That the man might be perfectly prepared to decide correctly, and thus secure the harmony and peace of a world, God had condescended to associate with him as a friend, and gave him every possible assurance of his love and good will. He had manifested himself as his Creator and Benefactor; showing him that through the infinity of his wisdom and love, he had given him his being and endowments. He had surrounded him with objects of infinite delight, and provided him a home answering his highest aspirations and fitted to make him perfectly happy. He manifested for him the most perfect friendship and union, making him personal visits, and appearing before him, associating with him face to face. He expressed to him his paternal solicitude for his future well-being, in giving him timely warning of a fatal snare which would be laid to destroy him.

Under these circumstances, Satan stole his way into the garden, and appeared before the man as a friend. But to establish friendship between himself and man, he knew that he must first destroy the friendship between man and God. To do this without delay, in his first communication with man, by insinuation, he charges God with a lie.

With these parties and their representations of friendship before him, the moment had come when the man must decide which of the two he would accept as his friend and follow as his leader and teacher. The fatal decision is now to be made—the decisive act to be done. He must either eat, or refuse to eat. By eating, he accepts Satan as his leader, and decides that what God has said is not true. By refusing to eat, he accepts God as his leader, and pronounces Satan a liar. The decision is made. The fatal deed is done. The commandment of God is broken, Satan triumphs, and God, by this act of man, is charged with ignorance and falsehood. That awful deed broke the union between man and God, and established affinity between man and Satan.

Christ, "the second man," having come as the Redeemer and prospective Ruler of the world, to fill the vacated position of "the first man," it was necessary that he should begin the duties of his office where his predecessor had failed.

By an act of disobedience Adam broke his allegiance to God, and formed an alliance with God's enemy; in consequence, he lost the rulership of the world. So Christ, "the second Adam," by obedience, is exalted in his stead to be King over all the earth." He enters upon the duties of "the second Adam" at his baptism, when the anointing Spirit descends upon him like a dove, and the voice of God proclaims from heaven his relationship,—"This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased"; and immediately he is made to undergo a trial, similar to that of the first Adam, in order to test his allegiance to God. Satan, "the prince of this world," comes again upon the scene, at the time of Christ's greatest weakness, from fasting and hunger, and by an artful appeal to his personal ambition for honor and glory, tempts him with the promise of all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them, if (like the first Adam) he will acknowledge him as master, by falling down and worshiping him.

The crisis of the second Adam is come. His eternal Kingship of the world, and the destiny of the race, hang upon his decision. Will he maintain his allegiance to "the God of heaven," or go over to "the god of this world?" Satan says:—"Fall down and worship me." God says:—"Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God; and him only shalt thou serve." There is but one alternative. He must decide for God or for Satan. If he worships Satan, he breaks the commandment of God, and becomes a sinner, like the first Adam. If he refuses to worship Satan, he will keep the commandment, and maintain his allegiance to God.

O, momentous scene of infinite magnitude! Angels wait in breathless silence to hear from the lips of that meek One, standing on the summit of earth's rugged mountain, the wonderful decision that shall fix the destiny of a world. Hark! the decisive sentence peals forth with commanding tone, "Get thee hence, Satan!" The curtain of darkness is drawn aside, and the glorious light of promise beams forth, as the Son of God hurls back upon the usurper the Satanic imputation,—"He is a liar!" Christ having thus triumphantly proved his ability and power to govern this world under God, could truthfully say, "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth;" that is, all power for this purpose. "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations. . . . teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you."

Thus, we see that the broken link in the chain which holds together the sundered parts of God's creation has been restored, so that earth with all her happy multitudes will at last wheel into line, and be as perfectly governed by God, through his Christ, as he now governs the worshiping myriads around his throne.

(To be continued.)

* A tract of 60 pp., by Eld. J. Couch, being an Address delivered before the National Advent Conference of North America, at Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 1869. For sale at this office.

— Those who have suffered much are like those who know many languages; they have learned to understand and be understood by all.

FOR GOD OR FOR SELF.

The following incident illustrates the broad difference between working for our own glory and for the glory of God: A certain king would build a cathedral, and that the credit of it might be all his own, he forbade any from contributing to its erection in the least degree. A tablet was placed in the side of the building, and on it his name was carved, as the builder. But that night he saw in a dream an angel, who came down and erased his name, and the name of a poor widow appeared in its stead. This was three times repeated, when the enraged king summoned the woman before him and demanded, "What have you been doing? and why have you broken my commandment?" The trembling widow replied, "I love the Lord, and long to do something for his name and for the building up of his church. I was forbidden to touch it in any way; so, in my poverty, I brought a wisp of hay for the horses that brought the stone." And the king saw that he had labored for his own glory, but the widow for the glory of God, and he commanded that her name should be inscribed upon the tablet.

ALONE WITH GOD.

Alone with thee, my God! alone with thee!
Thus wouldst thou have it still—thus let it be,
There is a secret chamber in each mind,
Which none can find
But He who made it—none beside can know
Its joy or woe.
Oft may I enter it, oppressed by care,
So full of watchful love, thou knowest the why
Of every sigh.
Then all thy righteous dealing shall I see,
Alone with thee, my God! alone with thee.

The joys of earth are like a summer's day,
Fading away;
But in the twilight we may better trace
Thy wondrous grace.
The homes of earth are emptied oft by death,
With chilling breath;
The loved departed guest may ope no more
The well-known door;
Still in that chamber seal'd, thou 'lt dwell with me,
And I with thee, my God! alone with thee.

The world's false voice would bid me enter not
That hallowed spot;
And earthly thoughts would follow on the track
To hold me back,
Or seek to break the sacred peace within
With this world's din.
But, by thy grace, I'll cast them all aside,
Whate'er betide;
And never let that cell deserted be,
Where I may dwell alone, my God, with thee.

The war may rage!—keep thou the citadel,
And all is well;
And when I learn the fullness of thy love
With thee above—
When every heart oppressed by hidden grief
Shall gain relief—
When every weary soul shall find its rest
Amidst the blest—
Then all my heart, from sin and sorrow free,
Shall be a temple meet, my God, for thee!

SOLAR PHENOMENA—PREDICTION OF THE END.

It is stated that the spots on the surface of the sun which have so long interested scientific men, are now widening out into gulfs large enough apparently to swallow our small earth without difficulty. Those spots seem to be on the increase, and it is suggested that the same catastrophe which is declared by the astronomers to have overtaken the suns of other systems, may be the fate of our own. A recent writer describes the sun as "a hurricane of flame, the disturbances of which might, perhaps, be best represented to our imagination by the occasional explosion of a planet or two of nitro-glycerine." These disturbances, which cause a magnetic thrill to course through the earth, adding materially to the mysterious influences that are supposed to cause earthquakes, were predicted months ago. Once in every eleven years the sun exhibits these phenomena, and, on their last occurrence, the telegraph apparatus all over the world was seriously damaged.

The New York Times, referring in an editorial article to these perturbations, says: "We are lost in a region of conjecture, and can only feel that the fate which was foretold of old for the earth may at any moment overtake it." This brings down a deal of good-humored raillery from the New York Journal of Commerce, though we must confess that we should not have expected to see the matter treated in a New York Herald vein by a Journal of the general sobriety of the New York Journal of Commerce. That paper should leave to infidel prints the congenial work of scoffing at every suggestion that physical phenomena, like those referred to, may possibly have some connection with the fate which Inspiration expressly declares is in reserve for the world. If journals like the Times, which do not profess special respect for religion, choose to refer reverentially to what they may consider a sign in the heavens above, it does not become other journals, professing veneration for sacred things, to endeavor to jeer at them as alarmists.

Far be it from us to undertake the interpretation of any extraordinary phenomena of nature, as indicative of an approaching dissolution of the universe. The times and the seasons are known only to the Omniscient. We only know that it is the duty of all christians to be looking for and hastening to the coming of the Son of God. We only know that it behoves all the inhabitants of the globe to live in readiness for a moment when the earth shall be on fire and the elements shall melt with fervent heat. Even if we had no faith in divine revelation, yet the book of nature would teach us to apprehend that, sooner or later, this orb of ours may disappear, as all things earthly disappear, and stars larger than this have disappeared and left no sign. The eye of the astronomer has not long ago beheld in the far off heavens an orb which gave every indication of being wrapped in flames, and which was finally extinguished in the obscure darkness. Even setting aside the written word of God, who shall say that this experience may not be our own? Who can be certain that these volcanic forces, which rage within the centre of the earth, and ever anon pant with flaming breath through mountain tops, may not some day burst the thin crust of their prison house, and swallow up in a fiery deluge the habitations of man?

If the earth's destruction is possible at any time, as no man of science will deny, then it is as possible this century as a century hence; or this year as in any future year. And, if this be true, it is no mark of superior wisdom to smile complacently at the apprehensions which are sometimes awakened when the very centre of our solar system exhibits unusual perturbations, and a responsive, magnetic thrill runs through the sympathetic globe. Thus much upon the hypothesis that an unknown God reigns supreme in the heavens; a God who may light up the candles of the sky for his own amusement, and put them out, or suffer them to burn out one by one, as it suits his caprice. Thus much, even upon the idiotic theory that there is no God; that from chance all proceeded, and by chance all may end! But surely those who confide in Christian revelation, who profess to believe that the end of the last dispensation cannot be indefinitely remote, and that the earth and all that is therein shall be burned up, may well refrain from scoffing at those who look seriously at what they think are signals in the heavens above and in the earth beneath of a coming wrath. Even if these expectations be unfounded, they are shared by many sober christians, who, in the moral, intellectual and physical phenomena of the present era; in the increasing spread both of knowledge and of vice; in the very feebleness of the faith of men, and the profound absorption of the human soil in the things of time and sense, think that they behold presages of a coming change; glimmerings of approaching, unearthly lights, and hear sounds of strange footfalls, so that not knowing what time the good man of the house may come, but knowing that he has told them to watch, they are girding up their loins, trimming their lamps, and ready at any time for that cry, so full of joy to them, so full of woe to others,—"Behold, the Bridegroom cometh!"

No! we know not when the Lord may come! Ages more may roll away before that period. The hand that writes these lines, the eye that reads, may have long mouldered in the dust. Yet, though it is not certain that we shall live to see this coming, it is as little certain that we shall die before it occurs. Who but God can tell? But, from our heart of hearts, looking around upon this sorrow-stricken globe; upon Dives in his palace and Lazarus in his rags; upon wickedness and oppression in high places, and virtue and justice in chains—this we pray, Lord Jesus, come quickly!—Baltimore Episcopal Methodist.

EXTRACTS

From the "Life, Sufferings, and Martrydom of George Wishart."

"Mr. George Wishart was born in Scotland, and after receiving a grammatical education at a private school, he left that place, and finished his studies at the university at Cambridge. The following character of him, during his residence at that university, was written by one of his scholars, and contains so just a picture of this excellent man, that we give it at length:—

'About the year of our Lord 1543, there was at the university of Cambridge one Mr. George Wishart, commonly called Mr. George of Bennet's college, who was a man of tall stature, bald-headed, and on the same wore a round French cap; judged to be of melancholy complexion by his physiognomy; black-haired, long-bearded, comely of personage; well spoken after his country of Scotland; courteous, lowly, lovely, glad to teach, desirous to learn; and was well traveled, having on him for his habit of clothing never but a mantle of frieze down to the shoes, a black millian fustian doublet, and plain black hose, coarse, new canvass for his shirts, and white falling bands and cuffs at his hands. All of which apparel he gave to the poor, some weekly, some monthly, some quarterly, as he liked, saving his French cap, which he kept the whole year of my being with him.

'He was a man modest, temperate, fearing God, hating covetousness; for his charity had never end, night, noon, or day; he forbare one meal in three, one day in four, for the most part, except something to comfort nature. He lay hard upon a puff of straw, and coarse new canvass sheets, which when changed he gave away. He had commonly by his bed-side a tub of water, in which (his people being in bed, the candle put out, and all quiet) he used to bathe himself; as I being very young, being assured, often heard him, and in one light night discerned him. He loved me tenderly, and I him, for my age as effectually. He taught with great modesty and gravity, so that some of his people thought him severe, and would have slain him, but the Lord was his defense. And he, after due correction for their malice, by good exhortation amended them, and went his way.

'O that the Lord had left him to me his poor boy, that he might have finished that he had begun! for in his religion he was as you see here in the rest of his life; when he went into Scotland with divers of the nobility, that came for a treaty to king Henry the Eighth. His learning was no less sufficient than his desire; always pressed and ready to do in that he was able, both in the house privately, and in the school publicly, professing and reading divers authors. If I should declare his love to me, and to all men, his charity to the poor in giving, relieving, caring, helping, providing, yea, infinitely studying how to do good unto all, and to hurt none, I should sooner want words than just cause to commend him.

'All this I testify with my whole heart and truth of this godly man. He that made all, governeth all, and shall judge all, knoweth that I speak the truth, that the simple may be satisfied, the arrogant confounded, the hypocrite disclosed.'—Emery Tylney.

"In order to improve himself as much as possible in the knowledge of literature, he traveled into various foreign countries, where he distinguished himself for his great learning and abilities, both in philosophy and divinity. . . . . Being desirous of propagating the true gospel in his own country, he left Cambridge in 1544, and on his way to Scotland preached in most of the principal towns, to the great satisfaction of his hearers. . . . . In Dundee 'he made a public exposition of the epistle to the Romans, which he went through with such grace, eloquence and freedom, as delighted the Reformers, and alarmed the papists.' . . . In consequence of this, one Robert Milan . . . went by the command of Cardinal Beaton, . . . and in the midst of his discourse publicly told him 'not to trouble the town any more, for he was determined not to suffer it.' . . Surprised at this, Wishart replied that he 'never intended their trouble, but their comfort. . . . But I am assured, to refuse God's word, and to chase from you his messenger, . . . shall bring you into trouble. . . . For God shall send you ministers that shall neither fear burning nor banishment. . . . If it be long prosperous with you, I am not led by the Spirit of truth; but if unlooked for trouble come upon you, acknowledge the cause, and turn to God. But if you turn not at the first warning, he will visit you with fire and sword.' He then left the pulpit, and retired.

"At Macklene he was by force kept out of the church. Some of his followers would have broken in; upon which he said to one of them, 'Brother, Jesus Christ is as mighty in the fields as in the church'; and himself often preached in the desert, at the sea-side, and at other places. The like word of peace God sends by me; the blood of none shall be shed this day for preaching it.'

"He then went into the fields, where he preached to the people for above three hours; and such an impression did his sermon make on the minds of his hearers, that many of the most wicked men in the country became converts to the truths of the gospel.

"A short time after this, Mr. Wishart heard that the plague had broken out in Dundee. It began four days after he was prohibited from preaching there, and raged so extremely that incredible numbers died in the space of twenty-four hours. . . . He determined to return, saying, 'They are now in trouble and need comfort. Perhaps this hand of God will make them now magnify and reverence the word of God, which before they lightly esteemed.' Here he was received with joy by the godly. He chose the east-gate for the place of his preaching; so that the healthy were within, and the sick were without the gate. He took for his text these words, 'He sent his word and healed them.' After this the plague abated. He also preached at Inberesk; he had a great concourse of people. Among others who came to hear him preach were two gray friars, who standing at the church door, whispered to such as came in, which Wishart observing, said to the people, 'I pray you, make room for these two men; it may be they come to learn'; and turning to them he said, 'Come near, for I assure you, you shall hear the word of truth, which this day shall seal up to you either your salvation or damnation.' He then proceeded with his sermon, supposing that they would be quiet. But as they continued to disturb those who stood near, he said to them the second time, with an angry countenance, 'O, ministers of Satan, and deceivers of the souls of men, will ye neither hear God's truth yourselves, nor suffer others to hear it? Depart, and take this for your portion. God shall shortly confound and disclose your hypocrisy with this kingdom; ye shall be abominable unto men, and your palaces and habitations shall be desolate.' He spoke this with much vehemancy; then turning to the people, said, 'These men have provoked the spirit of God to anger'; after which he proceeded with his sermon.

"Soon after this, at the instigation of Cardinal Beaton, he was arrested, and notwithstanding promises of safety made to him and his friends, he was committed a prisoner to the castle. At his trial no less than eighteen articles were exhibited against him, one of which was, That 'he had avowed his disbelief of purgatory,' and said 'the soul of man should sleep till the last day, and should not obtain immortal life till that time? Mr. Wishart answered these respective articles with great composure of mind, and in so learned and clear a manner, as greatly to surprise most of those who were present. In consequence of this, the archbishop pronounced on him the dreadful sentence of death, which he ordered should be put into execution on the following day.

"On this, Mr. Wishart fell on his knees and thus exclaimed:—'O, immortal God, how long wilt thou suffer the rage and cruelty of the ungodly to exercise their fury upon thy servants, which do further thy word in this world? Whereas they, on the contrary, seek to destroy the truth, whereby thou hast revealed thyself to the world. O Lord, we know certainly that thy true servants must needs suffer, for thy name's sake, persecutions, afflictions and troubles, in this present world; yet, we desire that thou wouldst preserve and defend thy church, which thou hast chosen, ... and give thy people grace to hear thy word, and to be thy true servants in this present life.'

"He was again conducted by the officers to the prison from whence he was brought, after which he was visited by two friars, who told him that he must make confession to them; to whom he replied, 'I will not make any confession to you'; on which they immediately departed. On the morning of his execution, there came to him two friars from the cardinal; one of whom put on him a black linen coat, and the other brought several bags of gunpowder, which they tied about different parts of his body. The windows and balconies of the castle, opposite the place where he was to suffer, were all hung with tapestry and silk hangings, with cushions for the cardinal and his train, who were from thence to feast their eyes with the torments of this innocent man. All the preparations being completed, Wishart, after having his hands tied behind him, was conducted to the fatal spot. As soon as he arrived at the stake, the executioner put a chain about his middle, and a rope about his neck; upon which he fell upon his knees and thus exclaimed:—'O, thou Savior of the world, have mercy upon me! Father of heaven, I commend my spirit into thy holy hands.' He then addressed the spectators as follows: 'Christian brethren and sisters, I beseech you, be not offended at the word of God for the torments which you see prepared for me; but I exhort you, that ye love the word of God for your salvation, and suffer patiently, and with a comfortable heart, for the word's sake, which is your undoubted salvation, and everlasting comfort. I pray you, also, show my brethren and sisters, who have often heard me, that they cease not to learn the word of God, which I taught them, according to the measure of grace given me, but to hold fast to it with the strictest attention; and show them that the doctrine was no old wives' fables, but the truth of God; for if I had taught men's doctrine, I should have had greater thanks from men; but for the word of God's sake I now suffer, not sorrowfully, but with a glad heart and mind. For this cause I was sent, that I should suffer this fire for Christ's sake; behold my face, you shall not see me change my countenance. I fear not the fire; and if persecution come to you for the word's sake, I pray you fear not them that can kill the body, and have no power over the soul.'

"After this, he prayed for his accusers, saying, 'I beseech thee, Father of heaven, forgive them that have, from ignorance, or an evil mind, forged lies of me; I forgive them with all my heart. I beseech Christ to forgive them that have ignorantly condemned me.'

"Then turning himself again to the spectators, he said, 'I beseech you, brethren, exhort your prelates to learn the word of God, that they may be ashamed to do evil, and learn to do good; or there will come upon them the wrath of God, which they shall not eschew.' As soon as he had finished this speech, the executioner fell on his knees before him, and said, 'Sir, I pray you forgive me, for I am not the cause of your death.' In return to this, Wishart cordially took the man by the hand, and kissed him, saying, 'Lo, here is a token that I forgive thee; my heart, do thine office.' He was then fastened to the stake, and the faggots being lighted, immediately set fire to the powder that was tied about him, and which blew into a flame and smoke. The governor of the castle, who stood so near that he was singed with the flame, exhorted our martyr, in a few words, to be of good cheer, and to ask pardon of God for his offences. To which he replied, 'This flame occasions trouble to my body, indeed, but it has in no wise broken my spirit. But he who now so proudly looks down upon me from yonder place,' pointing to the cardinal, 'shall ere long be as ignominiously thrown down as he now proudly lolls at his ease.'

"When he had said this, the executioner pulled the rope with great violence, so that he was soon strangled; and the fire getting strength, burnt with such rapidity that in less than an hour his body was totally consumed.

"Thus died, in confirmation of the gospel of Christ, a sincere believer, whose fortitude and constancy during his sufferings, can only be imputed to the support of that divine aid, in order to fulfill that memorable promise, 'As thy day is, so shall thy strength be also.'" —Selected by Geo. U. Lewis.

DO THE RIGHT THING.

Whenever you are in doubt which of two things to do, let your decision be for that which is right. Do not waver, do not parley; but square up to the mark, and do the right thing. Boy! when you divide that apple with your little sister, be careful not to keep the largest half for yourself. Young man! don't sneak out of the basement door because you wish to escape your father's eyes. Maiden! let not the most trifling deceit pass current in those little acts which make the sum of your life.

No matter who you are, what your lot, or where you live, you cannot afford to do that which is wrong. The only way to obtain happiness and pleasure yourself, is to do the right thing. You may not always hit the mark; but you should, nevertheless, always aim at it, and with every trial your skill will increase. Whether you are to be praised or blamed for it by others; whether it will seemingly make you richer or poorer, or whether no other person than yourself knows of your action, still, always and in all cases do the right thing. Your first lessons in this will grow easier, until finally doing the right thing will become a habit, and to do wrong will seem an absolute impossibility.

HINTS TO MINISTERS.

The following items, picked up "at sundry times" and "in divers places," are now strung together for the special benefit of brethren in the ministry. They will be found suggestive and useful:—

THE PREACHER.

He took a shaft both strong and straight,
A shaft he had polished with labor great.

He winged it with great eloquence,
With learning and with subtle sense.

Boldly he drew, and he aimed with care;
But it wounded only the idle air.

A second he took, both straight and strong,
Winged with a passionate sense of wrong.

He drew it stoutly, and aimed it true;
The mark he aimed at was plain to view.

Swift it fled, yet it lighted wide;
For it touched on a rock, and it swerved aside.

He reached his hand, and took from above
A slender arrow barbed with love.

He aimed it with but little art,
Yet it touched and wounded a human heart.

His last, his lightest, was winged with prayer,
And he shot it forth through the yielding air.

No careful aim the preacher took,
For he turned to heaven his upward look.

Yet it pierced a heart both hard and proud,
The hardest heart in all the crowd.

—Sunday at Home.

A Punctuation Puzzle.—The following article forcibly illustrates the necessity of punctuation. It can be read it two ways, making a very bad man, or a very good man, the result depending on the manner in which it is punctuated:—

"He is an old and experienced man in vice and wickedness he is never found opposing the works of iniquity he takes delight in the downfall of the neighbors he never rejoices in the prosperity of any of his fellow creatures he is always ready to assist in destroying the peace of society he takes no pleasure in serving the Lord he is uncommonly diligent in sowing discord among his friends and acquaintances he takes no pride in laboring to promote the cause of Christianity he has not been negligent in endeavoring to stigmatize all public teachers he makes no exertions to subdue his evil passions he strives hard to build up Satan's kingdom he lends no aid for the support of the gospel among the heathen he contributes largely to the evil adversary he pays no attention to good advice he gives great heed to the Devil he will never go to heaven he must go where he will receive the just recompense of reward."

Gems.

— The more we fear God, the less we shall fear men.

— So far as the christian enters into the ways of the world, it is a complete prostitution.

— Prophecy is a revelation of future things, to act on my conscience now.

— The Lord is far from the wicked; but he heareth the prayer of the righteous.

— Some hearts, like primroses, open most beautifully in the shadow of life.

— Never make that man your friend who hates music or the laugh of a child.

"Not many lives, but only one have we,
One, only one;
How sacred should that one life ever be,
That narrow span!
Day after day filled up with blessed toil,
Hour after hour still bringing in new spoil."

— We shall never walk well here below, even in the smallest details, if the great end is not constantly before our eyes.

— A soul that is unconverted, has no idea of a God, tender, gentle, who "wipes away tears."

— Happy is the man whose religion is not morose, but elevated, exempt from severity in speculation and practice.

— Surely the confidence of life in perpetuity ought to countervail the mere contingent expectation of temporal enjoyment.

— We want faith to lose our fortune and to forgive; but if it is coming out of the society of man, it is entering into that of God.

— Never was a man blessed with a will to be delivered from sin, but that deliverance was sure to come.

— The christian who acts from conscience will avoid a thousand snares, of which he is not at all aware.

— Prayer and praise are the lungs of a christian; by the one he draws in a happy life from heaven, and by the other he breathes it back to Him who gave it.

— If I were sure God would pardon me, and men would not know my sin, yet I should be ashamed to sin, because of its essential baseness.

— He is a happy man who, in the test time, whenever that may be, can look upon his possessions, be they few or many, and say, "There is not one dirty shilling among them all."

Hygiene.

"This is for your health."—Paul.

SUNNY ROOMS.

Every woman is wise enough and careful enough to secure for her house-plants every bit of available sunshine during the cold winter months. Great care is taken to get a southern exposure for them. Indeed if one can secure no other than a north window for her plants, she has too much love for these unconscious, animate things, to keep them at all. She would rather leave them out in the cold to die outright, than linger out a martyr existence in the shade.

Folks need sunshine quite as much as plants do. Men and women who have a fair degree of strength, and the use of their legs, can get out into the world and get a glimpse of the sunshine now and then, and if they choose to do so, let them live in rooms with only a northern exposure; but if it is possible, let us secure rooms into which every ray of sunshine that falls in winter may enter, for the little babies who are shut up in the house, invalids who cannot leave their rooms, and aged people who are too infirm to get out of doors.

Let us reflect for a moment that these classes of persons if kept in rooms with only north windows will suffer just as much from the absence of sunshine, as green, growing plants would do in the same rooms, and their suffering is of account in proportion as a human being is better than a geranium or a fuschia. Everybody knows how a bright, sunny day in winter gladdens every one who is situated so as to enjoy it. Let us make some sacrifices, if need be, in order to give the feeble ones their measure of sunshine.—Laws of Life.

AN ERECT GAIT.

To bend forward or downward while walking, indicates debility, depression, or mental trouble, and always aggravates itself and promotes disease. Pads and supporters are all pernicious, and worse than useless, because they teach the system to rely on them, and cannot support one part of the body without causing an unnatural strain on some other part, and, to that extent, tend to disease that part.

There is always one easily available and successful method of acquiring an erect, manly gait, without any material effort, or feeling of awkwardness. Let the chin be a little above a horizontal line, which is easily done by keeping the eye fixed on the top of some person's hat or bonnet in front of you.

The habit of this erect carriage may be facilitated by accustoming yourself, when at home, in the garden, or other places, to walk with the hands behind, held in one another, and the head thrown up, as is done in smoking a cigar or singing a tune.—Hall's Journal of Health.

HOW TO RISE REFRESHED.

Every person who toils daily at any kind of labor requiring great physical or mental exertion, should be extremely careful to practice a regular system of ablution at the close of each day's work. Sometimes a person may become so completely exhausted as to render this anything but an inviting performance; yet by its omission a great deal of refreshment which the hours of repose are designed to impart is lost. To be cleanly is a strictly religious duty, and is absolutely essential to sound and refreshing slumber; hence the labor of keeping one's person clean is amply repaid by the elasticity which follows nightly ablutions before retiring. Heed this advice, and the reader will sleep soundly; disregard it—go to bed unwashed—and you will rise in the morning unrefreshed, with feelings of lassitude which the exertions of the day will hardly be able to move.

Dyspeptic Ministers.—It is unfortunate for a minister to have the dyspepsia. It is no means of grace. It rarely assists in clearing his spiritual sky. It gives but little sunshine to the countenance, and but few smiles to the lips. It prompts but few pleasant words, and does but little in expanding the mind, and in imparting charity, magnanimity, and greatness to the heart. What a pity that a minister must ever go into his library, his closet, or the pulpit, with the dyspepsia! Or, that he should carry new gloom into circles where the old gloom is insufferable and unconquerable! But the remedy, what is it? The sovereign balm must be found in a cheerful heart, a sound theology, pure air, plenty of labor, cold water, soap, and sleep, and well-regulated mental and physical exercise. There is a special virtue in sawing up the wood-piles of widows and sick families. Great benefits are experienced from the first dose.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

Tobacco a Poison.—Dr. Willard Parker, the distinguished christian physiologist of New York, in a letter written last year, speaks plainly and strongly concerning tobacco.

That tobacco is a poison is proved beyond a question. It is now many years since my attention was called to the insiduous but positively destructive effects of tobacco on the human system. I have seen a great deal of its influence upon those who use it, and work on it or in it. Cigar-makers, snuff-manufacturers, etc., have come under my care in hospitals and in private practice; and such persons can never recover soon, and in a healthy manner, from any case of injury or fever. They are more apt to die in epidemics, and more prone to apoplexy and paralysis. The same is true, also, of all who chew or smoke much.

Neuralgia and Toothache are sometimes speedily relieved by applying to the wrist a quantity of bruised or grated horse-radish. So says an exchange.

Bruises are relieved by applying warm water.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance..............$2.50 a year
Five copies six months to one address...... $5.60
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address......$10.00
Same rate for any number over ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cts. a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication write—Private.
Over all business matters, write—Business.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's Name, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
Private Letters.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,

Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM.

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS.

PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Single copy, 60 cts. a year; and at the same rate for any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 767. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29, 1870. VOL. XXXI.—NO. 15.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
160 HANOVER ST., BOSTON, Mass. } CORNER OF SALEM STREET. (☞ Entrance No. 7 Salem St.)

MILES GRANT, EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
D. MATHEWSON, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, H. H. DICKENSON.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

THE LAST DAY.

BY MISS M. EMMA MEREDITH.

The seals of that mysterious book
Unfolded one by one,
And from the sixth there fell a vail
Of blackness o'er the sun.
While at the seventh all heaven was still,
Pale silence had command—
The angels stood around the throne,
Seven trumpets all in hand.

Their deep-toned voice like thunders swept
The empyrean kingdom o'er,
And as the last sound rolled away,
An equal number bore
Their vials filled with boiling wrath,
Then raising them on high,
And leaning o'er the walls of heaven
They poured them down the sky.

There stood an angel in the sun,
Robed in waving flame,
And far o'er countless rolling worlds
Christ's coming did proclaim.
Clouds in rainbow glory fell
Around the world's dark tomb,
While spirits, like a stream of stars,
Came darting through the gloom.

A thousand years, like a bridge of light
That stretches to the end,
Is but a golden Sabbath day
That righteous spirits spend.
Then, Hades' fiery gates unbarred,
On creaking hinges swung,
And high o'er hissing streams of air
The prince of darkness hung.

'Mid swinging orbs and meteor's flash
To earth he took his flight,
And brooding o'er with sombre wings,
He palled old earth in night.
The world stood still; around his bier
Creation slowly came;
The mountains fled, the hills were gone,
The streams were melting flame;
The moon, with hosts of glittering stars,
Fell down like worlds of fire;
The sun threw off his burning crown,
Sunk down and did expire.

A flashing sea of glory rolled
Around the Almighty's throne;
Each wave, a world of spirits stood,
Each to be judged alone.
The books of heaven were opened wide,
Bright angels paused to see;
The thundering sentence fell and swept
Through all eternity.
The righteous stood like new-made sun,
Their brightness gleaming higher,
The guilty, doomed, hurled down, were plung'd
In seas of quenchless fire.

The heavens parted like a scroll,
Rolled back in endless night,
And down through chaos' kingdom came
A sea of gushing light.
Angels circled like the sun,
In robes of burnished gold—
The city of the heavenly King,
Its glory to behold.

Its precious walls and pearl-wreathed gates,
And all inclosed in them,
Shone brighter than the noonday sun,
This New Jerusalem.
No temple reared by human hands
Within its sacred wall—
Almighty God the temple was,
And Christ was all in all.

—Observer & Reporter.

For the World's Crisis.

WHAT IS LIFE?

Is it an entity? Is it a principle? Is it a state or condition? Or is it the result of fixed laws in nature?

We hear much said about mortal life and immortal life, spirit life and blood life. What is the truth of the matter?

Every thing is all alive; God, angels, men, beasts, birds, fishes, reptiles, insects, trees, plants, the green sward,—all are alive. But do all live from the same causes, or upon the same principles? No; each has its own element. The tree lives and man lives, and both live from natural causes; of which God is the careful superintendent. But is there no difference in the life of man, and the life of the tree? Yes. In what does the difference inhere? Both have life. The common reply is, One is animal, and the other is vegetable life.

But this does not satisfy us and answer the question, "What is life?" We shall presume upon an answer that is satisfactory to us, and hope it is true. We think life is a state, or condition; and it must be defined agreeable to the state or condition enjoyed. Is it proper to say mortal life? We think it is the most appropriate term that can be used to describe the present life. "Why not call it a temporal life?" says one. Because, while both are qualifying terms, viz., temporal and mortal; the one has the precedence of the other. The life of man is temporal, because its condition is mortal; and death is a natural result of mortal existence; hence man's life is temporal. The term mortal expresses at once its nature, while the term temporal only relates to duration.

Again, the term mortal covers all and more than the term temporal; while the term temporal life does not (according to the use of language) embrace as much as the term mortal life. Why so? Because we might not express the character of man's present existence, or state, which is absolutely a mortal one.

"What kind of life did Adam have?" A mortal life. Why so? Because he was subject to death. But was his life necessarily a temporal one? No; for he could have lived forever as an obedient subject; hence his life was not necessarily temporal by being mortal; but an immortal life is necessarily eternal.

But is there no difference in a mortal and an immortal life? Yes. In what does the difference inhere? Both in nature and duration. One is the blood or mortal life, rendered temporal by prohibition; and the other is immortal, rendered eternal by virtue of condition or state in nature.

Again, one is a living, mortal being; and the other is a living, immortal being. There is no such thing as life abstractly. Life is a state commensurate with our nature, and that is mortal; hence the life is mortal. The question is often asked, What kind of a life did Christ lay down? That would depend upon what his nature was: if he was divine in nature, and immortal, then he must have laid down an immortal life, or the whole thing would be a deception; but if he could not lay down an immortal or divine life, then, of course, he never had it to lay down, as he sacrificed such as he had. "He took not on him the nature of angels; but he took on him the seed of Abraham."—Heb. 2: 16. Again: "But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels."—Heb. 2: 9. Is there any nature between men and angels? If not, then Jesus was made like unto men, as he was made lower than the angels.

Again. "When the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons."—Gal. 4: 4, 5. In this we see the woman's seed bruising the serpent's head. Gen. 3: 15.

"Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us; for it is written, Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree."—Gal. 3: 13.

How does Christ redeem us?

He redeems us by taking upon him our natures and obeying the law, and suffering the penalty for sin.

Why does he suffer the penalty for sin, while he was obedient?

That he might redeem man who was under the penalty. He establishes his right to live forever by obeying the law; and after this work is perfected, he steps forward with a life the law had no claims on, and relinquishes it as the price of man's redemption. What was the penalty without a substitute? Eternal death. Why was it eternal death? Because man had forfeited his right to live; and the law knows no forgiveness; so he must remain dead without a substitute is furnished. What kind of life was forfeited? A mortal or blood life, as man had no other.

Will the substitute have a right to live again after he relinquishes his life, in that the penalty was eternal death?

Yes; for he never forfeited his right to live; while Adam did.

But could not God have given Adam another life (if he had repented), and left the blood life untouched?

No; for he had not presented any other than a blood life before him, and this he had forfeited; and it would be useless to propose anything further, till reparation had been made for the first offence.

But was not justice satisfied after man had died? and could not justice have retained his dignity, and raised man immediately after he died?

He could not, from the simple fact that the penalty was eternal death. Had the penalty been limited to even ten thousand million years, or more, when the time had expired justice would have been satisfied, and man had a right to live again.

The penalty being eternal death, how does the substitute live again after he relinquishes his life?

The facts are these: a mortal life, or state, is by man eternally forfeited; and Christ comes in the same state, and with the same life in kind, and proves his right to an eternal preservation and perpetuation of that life and state, but freely relinquishes it for the sake of man; justice accepts the offering, and thus man is transferred from under the law to the hands of Christ, who has purchased him by his blood; and unless that mortal life and state is restored to Christ (which he had a perfect right to), justice must be satisfied. Again, the essential feature in the mortal state was the blood, in which this life inhered; hence, "without the shedding of blood is no remission."—Heb. 9: 22.

"But Christ being come, an high priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say; not of this building; neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us."—Heb. 9: 11, 12. What is this eternal redemption from? The Adamic penalty.

Why does man die, then? Because he is mortal.

Why does not Christ give his immortality now? Because he will have the requisite complement of voluntary subjects, and then stop the wheels of mortality, and immortalize the righteous; and the wicked will die for the want of means to live, which the righteous have.

Then the purchase price of man's redemption is the blood of Christ, is it? Yes. "Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, . . . but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot; who verily was foreordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifest in these last times for you."—1 Pet. 1: 18-20. That blood has sprinkled the eternal mercy seat for the race, the penalty for the Adamic sin is paid, and all the race are entitled to what? The Adamic life, by virtue of this purchase. But can they get any other? Yes. How do they obtain it? By patient continuance in well-doing, seeking for glory, honor, and immortality, they get eternal life. Rom. 2: 7. When do they get it? At the sounding of the last trump, and the resurrection of the dead, they will all be changed from mortality to immortality, "and fashioned like unto his [Christ's] glorious body."—1 Cor. 15: 25; Phil. 3: 21.

But do they not get an immortal life directly from the sacrifice Christ made? As he sacrificed a mortal, blood life, the sacrifice does not call for what was not forfeited; as redemption was the work to be accomplished, it would be only necessary to provide a sacrifice that was equivalent to the forfeiture; and the life forfeited being a mortal, blood-life, so the necessity of the case only requires that the same life in kind shall be sacrificed to redeem the one forfeited; and if the one sacrificed by Christ was a mortal, or blood life (and he could not sacrifice any other), then it calls for the redemption of a mortal, or blood life only. What man gets over and beyond what he lost, is not redemption, but a gift, or reward for other considerations than that embraced in the sacrifice of Christ; else universal salvation would be true. In other words, if the sacrifice Christ made calls for an immortal life, then the race get it; for the race is represented in the sin of Adam, and the race is represented in the gift of Christ. "Therefore indeed, as through one offence, sentence came on all men to condemnation; so also, through one righteous act, sentence came on all men to justification of life."—Rom. 5: 18.—Emphatic Diaglott.

W. A. FENN.

(Concluded next week.)

IS THE AGE OF PAGANISM REVIVED?

The nineteenth century is remarkable for innovation, for change in everything. It is eminently an aggressive age, and faith and reverence form no part of its spirit. Reason and science are arrayed against tradition and authority. Nothing is accepted because it is old, or because it is held sacred by any number of minds. Investigation, speculation, research and analysis go everywhere, and forms and theories and pretensions are forced to give way before them. This is emphatically the era of iconoclasm in things temporal and things spiritual; and what was honored and revered half a century ago is now despised and ridiculed. What men understand to be, or at least goes by the name of religion, has been assailed and mercilessly criticised within the last five and twenty years, as it has never been before. Religion is not permitted, as it was until recently, to hold itself superior to logic, or to claim exemption from discussion. The theologies have suffered severely from constant attacks and have been greatly modified from what they were. The evangelical think that Christianity is in danger from this war upon authority; while the rationalists insist that the sharp struggle between opposing elements will result in a clearer perception of truth. Every pulpit echoes with lamentations over the loss of faith and the steady advances of infidelity. It would be curious and interesting to have each and every clergyman define what he means by skepticism, infidelity or atheism—terms that are used as if they were synonymous. When the definitions were rendered it would be found, we suspect, that the infidel or atheist was one who simply differed in opinion from a reverend egotist who set himself up for an oracle. The time has forever passed when men could be swayed by the calling of names, and empty words had power to frighten.

Churches may grieve and preachers may deplore the fact that creed and dogma are no longer respected; but neither church nor preacher can make it otherwise. The largest liberality in all theologies marks the thinking mind of the present day. The tendency is to take religion out of the affairs of life, and leave it to each individual conscience for determination. The enlightened world is weary of being told what is sound and what is false doctrine; what is right, and what is wrong belief. The average of intelligence is too high to seek for guidance even in matters that assume to be divine. What renders men best in their relations to their fellows is commended, whether it comes from much belief or no belief. What men do rather than what they think is now the test of worth. Independent thought and individual responsibility are valued beyond any conventional teaching, and the work of soul-saving is left to those who have the souls to save. Whether this tendency is fortunate or otherwise, the churches are privileged to declare. Their approval and denunciation are by leading minds regarded as much alike. But that impatience of dictation and restraint, from a few who pretend to be wiser and better than the rest of the world, is extending more and more into all ranks of society, cannot be questioned. The barriers between churches are being broken down; the distinctions in creeds are waxing less and less. Few members, even of the same ecclesiastical organization, can be found who do not differ in their theological views. Everything is running to individuality; and indications are that within a hundred years sects as such will have no determined boundaries. The human mind is like a pendulum. When it does not rest—it does rest in its average state—it swings between two points of an arc, and the extremes of the arc are mere authority and pure reason. The one represents Romanism; the other rationalism or skepticism. The intermediate spaces seem to be occupied by the Protestant creeds, which may be a golden medium wherein truth is supposed to lie. We will let others make conclusion as to that. We are merely noting symptoms and tendencies.

Of theological belief of any sort there is really much less than appears on the surface. Moral regulations have largely usurped the place once held by doctrinal systems; and it is idle to pretend that people concern themselves about that which is declared to comprehend their eternal welfare. It would not be too strong a statement to say that the spirit of paganism is revived, if by paganism we mean the absence of belief of any divine direction or any faith in the truth of what is called revelation. Few men have the moral courage to say openly what they secretly think. The things they assume to hold sacred they privately ridicule and scoff at. A species of formalism is widely observed, and certain professions of religion are still held to be respectable. There are to day, as in the time of ancient Greece, the exoteric and the esoteric doctrines. The former are taught; the latter are believed. During the prosperity of the Roman empire the philosophers knew that their mythology was absurd, and with each other made merry over it. A second class doubted, but thought absolute belief needful for the masses, and so kept their own counsel. The only sincere and zealous advocates of the national religion were the common people, whose reverence sprang from fear, and whose belief came from superstition.

Have we not some analogy to this in our own time? Our philosophers and thinkers are bolder than those of old. They avow their skepticism openly, but preserve a theological terminology which rounds rhetorical phrases, and has no significance. Many of the ablest minds in this country and in Europe discard the Bible, so far as its divine origin is concerned, from creation and the future, as effectually as they do the rhapsodies of astrologers from the researches of science. The clear-headed and intelligent but not scholarly circles subscribe outwardly to what they inwardly reject; imagining it would be unsafe for the vast crowd below them to know that their fears of the invisible were as the bugbears of children. As to the great throng who, incapable of becoming individuals, will always be governed, they are most earnest in their opinions because they do not realize that every truth has two sides. They are often lawless and vicious; but they have more dread of law and violated morals, through a narrow apprehension of what lies beyond them, than their superiors have. Romanism, we repeat, represents authority, and is the stronghold of all superstitions. At the other extreme, on the opposite side, is mere reason—paganism if you will—but the pervading influence, whether right or wrong, and the forming power of this generation. That reason and skepticism have pushed authority and faith out of active agency may and probably ought to be regretted; but that they have clearly done so an unbiased mind can hardly fail to perceive.—Rochester Chronicle.

For the World's Crisis.

SONG OF TRUST.

I'm not afraid to trust the Lord,
To follow where he leads;
I can rely upon his word,—
The prayer of faith he heeds.
Once I was filled with doubts and fears,
Till his chastisements sore,
Had taught my soul in grief-wrung tears,
To trust and doubt no more.

The cup of bliss he offered me,
My soul dared not receive,
A Father's hand I could not see,
I could not then believe.
Through dangers known and snares unseen,
His hand hath safely led;
The shadow of his wing hath been,
The covert for my head.

In trusting faith I look above,
Through hope's bright smiling tears,
And view a tender Father's love,
In sorrow's darkest years.
O fainting, doubting soul, look up,
In trusting faith receive,
Of blessing or of grief the cup,
A Father's hand would give.

Moorestown, N. J. ANNA E. MCELLISTER.

For the World's Crisis.

CHRISTIANITY: WHAT IS IT?

The above heading is a question of some importance, when we take into consideration what it involves to be, or profess to be, a christian. To profess to be a christian, does not make one so; though we might think it did, were we to judge people by their actions.

We read, that the disciples were first called Christians at Antioch. Then it is to the disciples of the Lord Jesus that the title belongs, and people may profess till the judgment sits; it will avail them nothing, unless they have a rightful claim to the name disciple.

What is it to be a disciple? St. John 8: 31; "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed. 13: 35; "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." 15; 8; "Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples."

Disciple means a learner. Therefore to be a christian, is to be an obedient scholar in the school of Christ. The term is easy of explanation; but is it as easy to illustrate by precept and example, as it is to explain? Is it as simple a thing to walk from Boston to New York, as it is to spell the words, or explain them? If it is, then Christianity is just as easy of practical illustration. If you wished to go from B. to N. Y., you would have to start, and go in the right direction, too. And if you hope ever to gain the kingdom of God, you must start as a learner at the feet of the great Teacher, by confessing and forsaking your sins, and "grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." See 2 Pet. 3: 18.

How many professing christians are doing it to-day? Are they doing it in their daily life in the store, the shop, or elsewhere? Do they show forth the Lord Jesus even in the splendid synagogue, where, clothed in costly array, they listen, while a salaried minister deals out minimum doses of truth, mixed with large quantities of eloquence and sophistry, by which he succeeds in dulling the sensitiveness of the already hardened consciences of his hearers? What would the Savior say to such an audience? As he did of old, methinks. "O hypocrites! ye make clean the outside, but inwardly ye are full of all uncleanliness."

Well, thanks to the holy One of Israel, there is a people on the earth that are learning, and growing in grace and in knowledge. They will come out at the appointed time, from the east and west, north and south, from every kindred, nation and tongue. They will come with victorious shout, with songs of redeeming love, and, with Jesus their Savior and King, inherit the city of our God. Oh! to be among that blood-washed company, will be well worth our every effort.

Then let us walk with Jesus, and learn of him, that we may be christians in deed and in truth.

E. M. RIPLEY.

For the World's Crisis.

THE "SEVENTH-DAY" SABBATH.

It is first mentioned in Gen. 2: 2-3: "On the seventh day God ended his work . . . and rested, . . . and blessed the seventh day, . . . because that in it he rested." Twenty-five hundred years after creation the ten commandments were given. See Ex. 20: 3-17. In Ex. 23: 1-19, sundry commands are given in addition to keeping the seventh day,—just as binding, no more, or less. In Ex. 31: 12-18 we read: "And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak thou also unto the children of Israel, saying, Verily my Sabbaths ye shall keep; for it is a sign between me and you throughout your generations; that ye may know that I am the Lord that doth sanctify you. Ye shall keep the Sabbath therefore; for it is holy unto you. . . . Wherefore the children of Israel shall keep the Sabbath, to observe the Sabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant." ☞ "It is a sign between me and the"—see now who it is—"children of Israel for ever." Not a word about any other "children" keeping it.

Ex. 35: 1-3,—"And Moses gathered all the children of Israel together, and said to them, These are the words which the Lord hath commanded, that ye should do them. Six days shall work be done, but on the seventh day there shall be to you an holy day, a Sabbath of rest to the Lord; whosoever doeth work therein shall be put to death. Ye shall kindle no fire throughout your habitations upon the Sabbath day."

This is very plain talk. For doing work, the penalty was death; kindling fire was forbidden. Common sense teaches that the command was for the children of Israel who lived where fire might not be needed every day. It could not apply to any people in a colder climate. God knew that at some time people would dwell where fire would be required every day in the week, and he is too just to ask us to do what we can not; and I guess that some of our seventh-day-Sabbath keepers find it necessary to kindle a fire even upon the Sabbath day; and this duty requires "work," and "whosoever doeth work therein shall be put to death."—Ex. 35: 2. So if the fourth commandment is now binding, why not its penalty? Or if the penalty is binding, why not enforce it?

Lev. 23: 2-3: "Speak unto the children of Israel, . . . six days shall work be done; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of rest." Here it is again; Moses is commanded to speak unto the "children of Israel,"—nobody else named. See also 27th to 31st verses.

In Deut. 4: 12-14, the Lord spoke unto Israel again concerning commandments; and many places can be cited showing that Israel was commanded to do thus and so, over and over again; it does not say other people must keep these commandments.

About 1500 years after the ten commandments were given to the Jews, a lawyer asked Jesus (see Matt. 22: 34-40), "Which is the great commandment in the law? Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets." Here Jesus took the liberty to say (as he had authority to) what the commandments might be condensed into, and he did not say a word about keeping the fourth commandment either; and he knew as much about it as any modern theological teacher, I think.

Jesus and his disciples went through the cornfields on the Sabbath, and they took some corn (see Mark 2: 23-27), at which the Pharisees made a fuss, because he broke the Sabbath, according to their ideas. Jesus went into the synagogue on a Sabbath day (Mark 3: 1-7); and a man there had a withered hand; so they watched to see if he would heal him; he having done so, they plotted with others bad as themselves, to see how they could destroy him. They were strict Sabbath-keepers. Jesus was good as could be, and yet he broke the commandment to keep the day holy, and had a perfect right to do it, too.

It was his custom to enter the synagogue on the Sabbath (Luke 4: 16); no doubt he could have entered them other days, had they been open as on that day; and yet he broke the Sabbath, according to the whims of the Jews (Luke 6: 1-11), and they were mad with him for it. He healed a man sick with the dropsy on the Sabbath (Luke 14: 1-4), and the lawyers and Pharisees did not like it probably, but he confounded their "legality" with a few words of common sense. He said (Luke 16: 16), "The law and the prophets were until John; since that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man presseth into it." Is this law referred to, the Jewish law, I wonder? If so, can we not take the liberty to disobey it?

I will not say that those who keep the fourth commandment will be lost, or that they are not christians; but some of them have said, and do say, that we "never shall get into the kingdom unless we keep the fourth commandment," and have the unblushing effrontery to come to a social prayer-meeting, where all is well, and get up to add their testimony, warning us as above. Well, I will not be so bigoted as to kick any one out of the road to the kingdom, whatever he may believe, for though in opinions we differ, yet in faith we are one.

In John 5: 5-12, is an account of a sick man who was healed on the Sabbath by Jesus, and who carried off his bed. This was breaking the Jewish fourth commandment; but Jesus had power to heal a man when and how he pleased, and it was nobody's business what he did. See Luke 20: 2-8. The Jews sought to kill him because he broke the Sabbath. John 5: 18. He said to the Jews (John 7: 19), "Did not Moses give you the law, and yet none of you keepeth the law? Why go ye about to kill me?" They would have killed him at once if they could have done so. They had more of the "killing" spirit than some Sabbath-keepers have now.

Jesus said he was "the light of the world." John 8: 12. He did not leave us any light about keeping the Sabbath, as the Jews desired it to be done. Let us not be afraid to follow his example, even if it does consist in breaking the Jewish law concerning Sabbath keeping on the seventh day. Jesus put some clay on a blind man's eyes, told him to wash in a certain pool and receive his sight, on the Sabbath day; and the Jews made a fuss about it. John 9: 14. Having broken the fourth Jewish command, and the grievous burdens of the law, with an undoubted right, he said (John 13: 34), "A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another." A new command is supposed and conceded to be better than the old, if it does not even supersede it altogether. Paul was a sound reasoner, and preached sound doctrine, and said (Acts 20: 20), "I kept back nothing that was profitable." He "kept back" advising any one keeping the Sabbath, and of course it was not profitable doctrine, or he would have preached it. Paul advised Titus (chap. 3: 9) to avoid foolish questions about the law. He was once a Pharisee, and was posted as well as any modern teachers.

No man is justified by keeping the law. Gal. 2: 16-21, and 5: 4. Paul told the Romans (chap. 6: 14) they were not under the law. He knew all about it. Rom. 13: 8-10, reads thus: "Owe no man anything, but to love one another; for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law. For this, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet; and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, namely, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law."

Paul understood the law as well as the preachers and reasoners (?) of this age, and did not pull wool over men's eyes, so they could not see that one and one made two, nor stuff cotton in their ears lest they might hear the voice of reason, or throw a mesmeric spell over susceptible minds to compel them to see through his glasses that snow was green, or black was white; and I think if he were here now, he would knock this seventh-day Sabbath question with the sledge-hammer of truth, so there would not be a piece of the flimsy shanty left big enough for Satan himself to make a toothpick of.

He says in Gal. 1: 8, 9, after complaining that others had been preaching "another gospel" and caused trouble—"But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed. As we said before, so say I now again, If any . . . preach any other gospel unto you, than that ye have received, let him be accursed." Did the gospel he preached have anything in it about keeping the Jewish fourth commandment, as an essential point towards being a christian? Are people preaching "any other gospel" different from what Paul did? Who doubts it? Well, Paul said, let such "be accursed." "And let all the people say, Amen!"

Some say they delight in doing work on the Pope's Sabbath, or Sunday. They ought to know that to keep this day is in commemoration of Christ's resurrection, and that people as good as any of them dare claim to be met to celebrate the event on Sundays, and do it now. It is not necessary to misquote or garble history to prove any question. Suppose men do quote Scripture in support of this question? Satan quoted Scripture, and did it fairly, too, in support of his proposition when tempting the Savior in the wilderness and at Jerusalem (Luke 4: 2-11); but Jesus understood the Scriptures better, and cited a passage that smashed Satan's soap-bubble theory at a blow. Almost anybody can get up a theory, and quote or misquote, and apply or misapply, texts in its support. Even now-a-days, an old sinner named Noyes, the head man in the Oneida, N. Y., free-love Community of vile men and women,—who disgrace the ground under their feet, and who ought to be put in the House of Correction, every one of them,—has the barefaced assurance to quote Bible in support of his conduct, claiming his course as worthy of general imitation, and far superior to anything yet got up. The audacious wretch! No wonder a public print, in exposing this hot-bed of vice, asks, "Are there no thunderbolts in heaven?"

Centuries ago, a fanatic arose, and raised up hundreds of followers who proclaimed themselves "Fifth-monarchy men," and sword in hand marched forth to subdue the world to their power; but the time had not come for the "Fifth monarchy" to be set up, and so they perished, notwithstanding they quoted Bible in support of their theory.

A certain minister advocated baptism, or sprinkling, as essential to infant salvation, quoting Bible in its support. Another, in objecting to this, said he could prove as fairly from the Scriptures that it was right to commit suicide, as follows: "And Judas went out and hanged himself." . . . "Go thou and do likewise." This is bringing Scripture proof with a vengeance—"here a little, and there a little." But such quoting and reasoning will not do; it is unfair, false, and pernicious.

Now, you good, honest souls, who are in doubt on this Sabbath question, just think; did Jesus take the liberty to break the Jewish fourth commandment? He did. Then do not be afraid to do so. Do not be afraid to do right on any day; be good, and do good, every day. Do not do any more than the Lord asks you to; and if he does not ask you to keep the seventh-day Sabbath, do not do it; no matter if men shout in your ears the echoes of Sinai's rolling thunder to "remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." No matter if they print before your eyes in letters of chain lightning, on the black clouds of Jewish midnight forms and ceremonies so misty and musty—"Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." Do not do it. Do not worry about it. It never was said to you by God; you are not a Jew, therefore let it pass. Do not believe all that men tell you, however good or learned or polite they may be. Remember Jesus said to his disciples after his resurrection (Mark 14: 15, 16), "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." And if the gospel does not require you to keep the fourth commandment, do not do it, even though "the mark of the beast" may be attempted to be stamped on your forehead with a red-hot iron; do not fear; the man who tries to do that, has the hot end of the iron in his hand, and will get the mark. Do not fear you will not have "the patience of the saints," nor "keep the commandments of Jesus." Obeying the fourth commandment will never give you "the patience of the saints"; and Jesus never commanded you to keep the Jewish Sabbath.

Do not borrow trouble lest you will not be numbered among the "hundred and forty-four thousand," for not keeping the seventh day. You just "be a lover of the Lord, and you will reign with Jesus when he comes," and will be among the "great multitude that no man can number," who will dwell upon the new earth forever, and walk the golden streets of the New Jerusalem, pass through its pearly gates, look upon its walls of precious, glittering stones, and walk in the light of its glory; you shall drink of life's crystal river, and walk beneath the trees that grow on its banks. There the tree of life shall flourish, whose leaves are for the healing of the nations. There all tears will be wiped away forever, and no sorrow, pain or death will ever come again; "for the former things are passed away."

And may you and I so live in mortal life that the immortal King of glory will give us immortality when the redeemed shall
"Crown him Lord of all."

J. N. BERRY.

For the World's Crisis.

"HE LEADETH ME."

"He calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out."—JOHN 10: 3.

If we are the disciples of Christ, we follow him whithersoever he leads; even as Jesus said, "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me." Sometimes through green pastures, and beside still waters, while he speaks comfortably to us; but more often through pathless wilds and tangled thicket, up the bleak mountain side, and across the desert waste; by many weary paths we had not known; yet through all safely and surely, ever toward the desired haven; the fair and beauteous land of promised rest, enduring peace and overflowing joy.

He calls himself the "Good Shepherd," and how tenderly he leads his little flock. With many loving words, "exceeding great and precious promises," he bids us follow on in the path he has chosen for us, assuring us that though he may lead us "about," he will not lead us wrong. "He will keep the feet of his saints."

Whatever the condition to which he brings us, we know that he will bear us safely through. The lowly vale, the steep ascent, the clouds and darkness, and even the furnace heated; through good report and evil report, in perils on the land and on the sea, "in weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, in hunger, and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness," whatever our extremity, we know that He who keepeth us "doth not slumber nor sleep."

And he doth not put us forth alone. "He goeth before," and he saith, "By me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture;" and again, "I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any pluck them out of my hand."

Well may we trust in him, for he saith, "I lay down my life for the sheep." "Greater love hath no man than this." Let us not grieve his loving heart by our distrust or discontent. Let us not murmur or repine; but let us listen to his voice, follow where he directs, commit the keeping of our souls to him in well-doing, in all our ways acknowledge him, and he will direct our path, and at his coming he will receive us to himself.

CARRIE W. BIXBY.

A PILLOW FOR THE NIGHT.—To sleep well, lay these things under your head:
1. A precious promise out of the Scripture.
2. A sweet verse of some evangelical hymn.
3. A hearty prayer to God.
4. A good conscience purified with Christ's blood.
5. A feeling of forgiveness and charity to all mankind.
6. A resolution to serve God on the morrow.
7. A glance of faith at the Cross.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, June 29, 1870.

☞ Take Notice!

☞ All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ Money Orders.

☞ Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ E. S. MOULTON—Send 25 cents more.

☞ J. W. TAYLOR—You forgot to enclose 30 cts. for postage.

☞ C. H. WILLIAMS—Money received.

☞ G. H. BUNDY—We credit the $1.25 to L. Curtis, though not received.

☞ MURDOCK'S TESTAMENT—We can now furnish Murdock's Translation of the Testament from the Syriac, for $2.50.

☞ "DEBT & GRACE"—We have a few copies of "Debt & Grace" in good condition, which we have gathered, and will send it for $1.50. Some have been very anxious to get it.

☞ D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

☞ BRO. J. COUCH'S P. O. address is now Chelsea, Mass.

☞ BRO. F. BURR'S P. O. address is changed from New Rutland to DeKalb, Ill.

☞ BRO. T. M. PREBLE having removed from Lynn, his P. O. address for a short time will be Chelsea, Mass., care of E. G. Kingsbury.

☞ BILLS! BILLS!!

There are many of our subscribers who are largely in arrears in their payments for the Crisis. To such we are now sending bills of their indebtedness. We hope to have a prompt response by the brethren and sisters sending in the amount due without delay.

AG'T.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING.

In accordance with a vote passed at the last meeting, the Campmeeting Committee are requested to meet in Springfield (at the Depot) Wednesday, July 6th, at 12 M.

GEO. T. ADAMS, Secretary.

WESTERN NOTES.

At the close of the campmeeting at Prairie du Sac, we went to Chicago, then to Clinton, Iowa, one hundred and thirty-eight miles west of Chicago, to attend a tent meeting, commenced June 5th, by Bro. Ramsey in the Chicago tent. We arrived Tuesday afternoon, and received a hearty welcome by Brn. R. W. Wilson and Ramsey. We found Bro. R. had made a good beginning. Clinton is on the west bank of the Mississippi, and contains some seven thousand inhabitants. The people are enterprising, and the place is growing rapidly.

On our way there, through Ill., we passed over a rich farming district, containing thousands upon thousands of acres of flat prairie land, without a single tree, only what has been set out by the farmers about their homes. These groups of trees around the farm houses are a great relief from the winter winds and summer sun, besides adding much to the beauty of the homestead. They have rows of trees set out by the road-side, and also as boundary lines. It is said that the reason why there is no timber on their vast prairies is because the Indians burnt over the land every year, so that there was only an annual crop of tall grass, ready for the autumnal fires.

We think the rolling prairies much more pleasant for homes than the flat ones. In all our travels we have seen no farming district that we like so much as portions of Iowa; and the best of all is the "seed-farm" in Clinton, occupied by Bro. R. W. Wilson. It consists of two hundred and sixty-four acres, worth one hundred dollars an acre. The soil is the best, the situation quite elevated, commanding a fine view of the surrounding country for many miles in all directions. This is the largest seed-farm in America, with one exception. Two hundred acres of it are devoted to the raising of garden seeds for Briggs & Bro.'s, of Rochester, N. Y. They are the owners of the farm, and are doing the largest seed business of any firm in America. They sent out Bro. Wilson to purchase a farm where he pleased, best adapted to the business, in a healthy location. All interested are delighted with this situation. Bro. Wilson is a true man, and if his health would admit, he would devote all of his time to the preaching of the gospel. He has had much experience in the seed business, and for this reason consents to spend a portion of his time in superintending their noted seed-farm. This is the second year that it has been occupied for this purpose. He has now some two acres of peppers, three acres of parsnips, four acres of tomatoes, four acres of radishes, six acres of lettuce, six of onions, fifteen of squashes, twenty of melons, twenty of dwarf peas, thirty-six acres of beets, and forty of cucumbers. He expects to raise some twelve tons of beet seed this year. The farm is worth visiting. Bro. Wilson's labors in spiritual things have been much blest. Several of his workmen have been converted, and a number of his neighbors. He is one of those men who lets his light shine, wherever he is called to spend his time. His heart is in the service of the Lord, and he is competent to defend the truth in any situation. We enjoyed our visit in his happy family.

Our meetings in the city of Clinton are very interesting. The tent is well filled every evening with a very attentive audience. The order is excellent, and we are meeting with warm sympathy from the friends of Jesus. Quite an effort is made by some to keep people away from the meetings, but their efforts do not meet with very startling success. We have commenced a bold attack upon the strongholds of popular theology, and see good reasons for rejoicing over the results. Three ministers have been out to hear. We have had the tent crowded, and many listening outside. Yesterday (Sabbath, June 19th) was a day of much interest. The weather was quite warm, but many came from four to eight miles. We met a number who had heard our preaching in New England, and several who love the blessed hope. We find many such in the western states, who heard and believed before they came west. It affords them great comfort to hear again. For years they have been praying to the Lord for help. Tears of joy filled their eyes yesterday when we met under the tent to worship the God of our fathers. It seemed like other days.

A NEW WAY TO RAISE MONEY.

When in Iowa, we stopped one evening near a new meeting-house, built by the M. E. church, in which was being held a strawberry festival for the purpose of raising funds to pay for the house. It was about eleven o'clock when we retired, and at that time we could hear the voices of the merry party, though the meeting-house was about a quarter of a mile away. Among other devices to raise money was the following: Two handsome young ladies were selected, and then the party was called on to vote in relation to the comparative beauty of the two ladies. Each one who voted paid ten cents. Of course the friends and admirers of each lady made no small effort to secure the largest number of votes for their respective candidates. The father of one of the young ladies, fearing that his daughter would be defeated, hired persons to vote for her, and thus secured the majority in favor of her superior beauty. We learn that some fifteen hundred dollars were added to the treasury of the Lord (?) by this device.

Can any one tell what John Wesley would say about such proceedings, if he were now alive? Did it enter his mind that there would ever be such a way devised to raise money to pay for a meeting-house? He was a devoted man, an excellent organizer, and financier; but we very much question whether he ever thought of raising money for church purposes by voting on handsome young ladies. It is very probable that the vote did not make a hair white or black, while it might have made a change in the countenances of the fair ones. Truly, this is a "progressive age,"—an age of discoveries and inventions. We can hardly guess what will be the next happy device for raising money at strawberry festivals, and other church pleasure parties. We presume, however, that there will be new improvements and discoveries made in this direction. We will wait for further developments, as may be expected, according to 2 Tim. 3: 1–5.

IMPROVED CONDITION.

In the love-feast at the Prairie du Sac campmeeting, in Wis., June 12th, a sister, who had received much benefit from the meeting, made the following statement:—

"Dear friends, I enjoy this religion. I enjoyed this same religion five years, while associated with a different people from this. On account of accepting these prophetic truths, which we have heard here, I received injury in the house of those I esteemed as friends. I was grieved, but I love them yet. I was puzzled. I did not know whether to accept the truth, or to listen to "the old prophet," who claimed to be directed by an angel. Because I accepted these truths, it seemed to cause a separation between brothers and sisters in the church. It certainly appeared to be an evil fruit. I am now convinced that the separation was right, under the circumstances. Although if there had not been a persecuting spirit manifested in the church, I would have remained with that people longer, waiting for more light; as it is, I can say with David, 'It is good for me that I have been afflicted; before I was afflicted I went astray.' I stand now on the platform of which Bro. Grant spoke, and am giving my support to a church who are willing that the whole of God's truth should be proclaimed to a judgment-bound people.

A good Methodist Bro.—my former class-leader—said it would not do to preach these things, if they were true. I think quite differently. It does not make infidels of people. Right the reverse; it will make christians of infidels. Dear brother or sister, Methodist, Presbyterian and all, as ye receive the light walk ye in it. Be faithful to God and to yourselves, and you and I will meet on the fair banks of deliverance, where these old hateful sectarian walls will be thrown down, and the rubbish removed; also the line between popularity and unpopularity. All of God's truth will then be popular. It is written, Christ shall come the second time without sin unto salvation. Soon, we believe, this event will be in the past, and stand beside these other historical facts, that correspond with the prophetic word, and we shall say, He has come without sin unto salvation. Don't you think that will be a popular truth then?"

INQUIRY.

BRO. GRANT:—Please give through the Crisis your views of Luke 22: 32, where the Lord says to Peter, "When thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren." It seems that he had told him to go and preach, and gave him power to heal the sick and raise the dead. Matt. 10: 7; Luke 9: 20. Did Christ send Peter to preach before he was converted? Please give us what light you have on the subject. A. J. GOODWIN.

The word rendered "converted" is from epistrepho, which signifies "to return," "to turn back from," "to return to one's self," as well as to be "converted." Peter had been a disciple of Jesus, but in the hour of temptation he yielded, and denied his Lord. After he was led "to return" to his Savior, then Jesus said to him, "Strengthen thy brethren," that they may not "turn back" as Peter had done.

OPPOSITION.

It is quite generally believed by the mass of professors of religion at the present day, that opposition to pure christianity has nearly closed. We believe this to be a great mistake. Human nature has not improved since the days of the martyrs. Then why is there no more opposition, or persecution? For the simple reason that the professed church is sleeping so near the pleasure gardens of Satan that he is careful not to do anything to arouse her from her stupid condition. There is a familiar interchange between church members and the followers of Satan, in marriage, business, politics, music, fashion, literature, amusement, and all other social relations, thus neutralizing all the church power, and preventing her from exerting any positive influence for good. But let a living christian or church begin to do what the Lord requires of his children, and the spirit of opposition will be at once manifested.

The following, from Mr. Spurgeon, sets forth the subject in its true light:—

"As surely as God glorifies his truth, and gives seals to the Christian ministry, opposition is aroused. If the preacher is supposed to live in the middle ages, his history will be told in a few words. He preaches at first to a crowd. Converts are made. The priests hear of it; he is abhorred. He resorts to lone places among the hills; he preaches in cottages and private assemblies; converts are still brought in. The hunt grows hotter; the hell-hounds are out, eager for blood. The man is secreted; he takes his pen to write, if he cannot use his tongue to speak. At last he is seized. He is dragged before the tribunals; he burns and blazes with sacred eloquence before his judges, but he is condemned to die; and now he stands upon a fiery pulpit, the fagots blazing all about him; and if he utters not a single word, yet is his death eloquent. The fire of his earnestness is met by the fire of their malice; we know which of the two fires will win the day.

In these times we are screened by a gracious Providence from the Satanic cruelty of persecution. Now-a-days it takes another shape; the preacher is no sooner successful than it is reported that he is actuated either by covetous or ambitious designs. There are some who heard him say what he never dreamed of, and others stand prepared to be godfathers to the lie, and add another of their own invention; and so abroad the slander flies, and opposition finds barbed shafts to fling at the too valiant champion. Parties are made, and sides taken for and against, and thus again is fulfilled the Master's saying, 'I come not to send peace, but a sword. For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law.'

You may depend upon it there is no good doing if the devil does not howl. When there is no opposition from the infernal powers, it is because there is nothing to oppose. 'Let be,' saith Satan, 'let be! a comfortable congregation, a sober minister; all asleep—let be! Drive on!' says he to his charioteer, 'I need not alight here. Another small congregation; more pews than people; somnolent divine; drive on!' saith he, 'no trouble here for my empire; drive on to yonder meeting-house, where there is an earnest preacher, and a people much given to prayer. Stop,' says he. 'I must use my best endeavors to stay this invasion of my kingdom.' Straightway Satan comes to do his best or his worst to hinder the kingdom of Christ. In hell's opposition we discern a sign of hopefulness, for where the fire of malice burns against the gospel, there God's fire of grace is burning also."

PERSONAL. We are glad to learn that Bro. W. S. Campbell is slowly recovering, but it will be some weeks before he will be about again. Pray for him and his.

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."

By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

Sheldon's Four New Tracts.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

1. "LIFE AND DEATH THEOLOGY: or, The Scriptural Doctrine of 'Eternal Damnation' and 'Everlasting Punishment.'" Price 8 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 75 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $5.00 per hundred by express.

This work of forty-eight pages is the clearest and strongest document yet produced by Bro. Sheldon on this topic. It is just the thing to scatter among all classes.

2. IMMATERIALISM: or, The Doctrine of Soul-Immortality Refuted." Price 5 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $3.00 per hundred by express.

A tract of thirty-two pages, showing that fifteen cardinal errors spring out of the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and that those errors could not exist independent of that doctrine, thus showing it to be the main root of error. Let it be scattered widely.

3. "DEATH AND THE DEAD," 16 pages. Price 3 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1.50 per hundred by express.

Just the thing to scatter everywhere.

4. "THE COMING JUDGMENT: Its Necessity and Result," Eight pages. 10 cts. per dozen, postpaid, or 75 cts. per hundred by express.

It will do much good. A'GT.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY. By Elder James H. Whitmore. Published by the Western Advent Christian Association.

This little volume of 300 pages is a valuable contribution to the literature of the subject on which it treats, and is worthy of a wide circulation, not only among those who hold to the views advocated therein, but among others who have not given them due thought and investigation.

For sale at this office. Price, single copy, postpaid, $1.00. Six copies, by mail, $5.00; by express, $4.20. AG'T.

NEW MUSIC.

Six pieces, entitled "Jesus is coming again," "I love thee still," "Hoist every sail," "Sweetly sleeping," "He is coming," and "Home." Sent postpaid for 20 cents. Single sheet 5 cents. For sale at this office, or by the author, Geo. E. Lee, Brimfield, Mass.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute according to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERRICK, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments	$544.13
A Subscriber	.40

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	$60.46
Mrs. H. Linden	.10

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 203, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$833.65

For the World's Crisis.

"WHO IS ANTI-CHRIST"?

BRO. GRANT:—Having read an article in the Crisis of May 25th on this subject, claiming that Spiritualism is that Anti-Christ spoken of in John 2, 22, will you permit me through the Crisis to give another view of this important subject? The text says, "He is anti-Christ that denieth the Father and the Son." Now we think the true meaning of this passage is, that the words or testimony of the Father and the Son are denied and not their existence. Suppose I and my son should tell of a circumstance that had occurred, and it would be truthful in every particular, and when we had finished, you should turn around and say, I deny you both; would it not be clear that you meant to deny what had been spoken, and not that we ourselves existed?

We claim that the Roman Catholic power is that wicked system spoken of, and fills the picture completely; for example, on this point in John 2: 23, we find "he that denieth the Son, also believeth not the Father." (Syriac). Is'nt it a fact that this wicked power has denied and does deny almost every fundamental doctrine of the word of God? They deny the testimony of God in regard to the nature of man, that he is mortal, and claim that he is immortal; they deny, too, the state of the dead, and say that he is alive, when God declares "that the dead know not anything." They deny also the testimony of God and of his Son Jesus Christ, that salvation can only be obtained by repentance and faith in God and our Savior Jesus Christ, and say it can be obtained by works and the interposition of this wicked power. Do they not deny that "God so loved the world that he sent his only begotten Son to give life to the world," and claim that it was God himself that was incarnate?

Peter in his second epistle gives further testimony in regard to this power. "But in the world there have been also false prophets, as there will likewise be false teachers among you, who will bring in destructive heresies, denying the Lord [his words] that bought them." "And many will go after their profaneness on account of whom the way of truth will be reproached." "And in the cupidity of raving words they will make merchandise of you." Is it not a notorious fact that the existence of this wicked power was brought about by the incorporation of destructive heresies into christianity; and do they not maintain their corrupt institutions by oppression and fraud, and the whole system of christianity has been corrupted by it; our heavenly Father slandered, and his holy word evil spoken of, turning the truth of God into a lie?

Again, in 2 Thess. 2, Paul gives still further information in regard to what this wicked power would do. "Let no man deceive you in any way, because that day will not come unless there previously come a defection, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition; who is an opposer, and exalteth himself above all that is called God and Worshipful; so that he also sitteth in the temple of God, as a God, and displayeth himself as if he were God" (Syriac); for he claims the prerogative of God himself to change the condition of departed souls from hell to heaven.

Is not this a true picture of the Roman Catholic church? Has she not claimed to be in the place of God, and demands worship from her devotees as a God, and exercises the power of a God to work miracles, to forgive sins, to change the condition of the dead from a state of torment to that of happiness and heaven? Truly the picture could not be more complete. How could Spiritualism sit in the temple of God as a God, and exercise the authority of a God, when it is claimed that they do not believe there is a God? I do rejoice that the anti-Christ has had its day, and the true Messiah will soon appear in his glory, when this wicked anti-christian power will go down like a mighty mill-stone, and the Lord's martyred millions will rejoice, and say "Alleluiah! for the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth."

Your brother in this blessed hope,

Philad., Pa. JOHN M. STETLER.

For the World's Crisis.

BOOK NOTICE.

I have again obtained a good supply of Dr. J. H. McCulloh's work of 800 royal octavo pages—two volumes, on the Credibility of the Scriptures, which I will sell at $1.50 per copy, where I have no postage or expressage to pay. The author, of Baltimore (who died last December), held them at $4.00, but as it briefly advocated destruction, and the sleep of the dead, it was unpopular, especially South, and this is the reason I have them to sell at this low price. The postage is 50 cts., but they can generally be sent for so as to save this expense. Expressage to Boston is only ten cts., and it can be had there for $1.60 at the Crisis office.

I have heretofore sold about one hundred of this work, and so many know what it is; and to those who have not seen it, I would say—it not only shows the truth of the Bible, but expounds it, and gives a history of doctrines under the Patriarchal, Jewish, and Christian dispensations. It is properly a system of divinity, written by a learned and deep thinker, free from the influence of creeds or popular opinions, and so exposes many of the sad mistakes of the Christian world.

Independent writers are scarce in our day, except among Advent brethren, and we still need more large works to obtain a consistent Bible system of doctrines. The coming and kingdom of Christ, the state of the dead, and doom of the wicked, are not the only points in theology which need correction, as this writer plainly shows. Bro. Grant has long had this work, and two years ago when I had copies he gave it a good recommend in the Crisis, as some may remember. I will have it at Springfield campmeeting for any who may want and cannot get it before.

Buffalo, June 20th. J. BLAIN.

For the World's Crisis.

REPORT

Of the Fifth Annual Session of the New York State Adv. Chris. Conf.

HELD IN LOCKPORT, N. Y., JUNE 9TH TO 12TH.

There were heavy showers during the afternoon of Thursday, and the arrivals being rather more than is usual for the first day, caused some inconvenience in getting the comers to the several places of entertainment; but we received warm welcomes, and while the parched earth was eagerly drinking in the falling rain, all hearts seemed lifted up "to our bountiful Father above" for the timely blessing. And with the praise many earnest prayers arose for more copious showers of heavenly grace to descend upon the assembling saints, that the conference might be a great success, and become an efficient power in carrying on in this State the great work incumbent on the waiting people of God. The hall used on the occasion is the same one occupied by our people in 1844. It is large and convenient. A goodly number of brethren and sisters came together in the evening, although it rained, and we enjoyed a heavenly sitting together in Christ.

Friday A. M. The first business session was called to order at 9 o'clock, Bro. Cogswell in the chair. Prayer by Bro. C. W. Low. Minutes of last conference read and approved. Committee appointed by the President, on credentials: B. P. Stevens, Wm. A. Fenn, W. J. Hobbs. On nominations and business: M. R. Miles, B. C. Simonds, A. Riggs, J. S. Beeman, W. J. Hobbs. Delegates received: B. C. Simonds, J. S. Beeman, Wm. M. Steele, A. C. West, B. F. Brownell, N. McCullock. Churches: Darien, Honeoye, Alton, So. Butler, Brockport, Rochester.

By a unanimous vote, all brethren and sisters in fellowship and sympathy with the conference, were invited to take part in its deliberations. Report of the business and nominating committee being called for, the chairman presented the following list of nominations: President, B. P. Stevens, So. Butler. Vice President, D. Cogswell, Dansville. Secretary, Wm. E. Brown, So. Butler. Treasurer, B. C. Simonds, Darien. Board of Trustees: D. Cogswell, Aaron Riggs, Lockport; Stephen Finck, Westbury; John S. Beeman, Honeoye; N. T. Withington, Springwater; B. C. Simonds, Darien; N. McCullock, Rochester.

The report was accepted, and afterward adopted; electing the entire nomination at a single vote. The subject of ministers' certificates being called up, some unparliamentary discussion was indulged; it was finally voted to rescind former action requiring yearly renewal of certificates—the same to be non-forfeiting except in case of misdemeanor.

On motion of Bro. Fenn, certificates were given to Brn. Wm. Ingmire of Lincklaen, and J. Blain of Buffalo. Adjourned to Saturday, 9 A. M.

At 2 o'clock Bro. C. W. Low gave a discourse on the destiny of the wicked, combining his text from the following scriptures: "Take heed what ye hear"—"how ye hear." "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good." Convened again at seven o'clock for prayer and conference; several earnest prayers and many warm testimonies were given, the whole occupying one and one half hours, when it was difficult, though necessary, to change the order of meeting; and we listened to a discourse from Bro. A. C. Newell.

Saturday, 9 A. M. Prayer by Bro. C. F. Sweet. The following delegates presented certificates and were accepted: Sr. E. S. Jennings, Knowlesville; Brn. J. E. Wells, Rochester, and N. T. Withington, Springwater. Ministers present: D. Cogswell, Dansville; B. P. Stevens, South Butler; A. C. Newell, Darien; M. R. Miles, Wolcott; C. W. Low, Fredonia; W. J. Hobbs, Honeoye Falls; C. F. Sweet, Albion; J. H. Whitmore, East Shelby; William A. Fenn, Rochester; C. P. Greenman, Rapids; J. Blain, Buffalo; Wm. Ingmire, Lincklaen; A. Guthrie, C. Colegrove, J. Wendell, Edinboro, Penn.; J. W. Taylor, Little Marsh, Penn.; E. S. Jennings, Knowlesville. Unordained: G. A. Sergisson, J. E. Wells, Rochester; Wm. Morrell, E. A. Esserine, — Vreeland.

The Treasurer's report was called for and given. Only $2.00 in the treasury! [O New York! rich Empire State, whose are "the cattle on a thousand hills," that the cause of God should languish in these fertile countries, for lack of something laid by "in store"? Ah! "the silver is mine, saith the Lord of hosts." "Labor not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man SHALL GIVE unto you."—John 6: 27].

The report of the Board of Trustees in regard to tent matters was called for and responded to by the chairman, Bro. Cogswell. Having audited the accounts of Bro. J. Wendell, and found them satisfactory, they unanimously allowed the justness of his claim for $100, for unpaid services with the tent last summer. On motion, a collection was made the next order of business, and $92 were raised on the spot. Some money had been raised previous to this, the amounts not given to the Secretary, but probably fifty or sixty dollars, for Sr. C. B. Turner, and to procure a cow for those aged veterans in the Advent cause, Bro. and Sr. Ongley, of Pa. ["Gather my saints together unto me," saith the Lord, "those that have made a covenant with me by sacrifice."—Ps. 50: 5].

The following resolutions, offered by Bro. H. Tanner, were then passed:

Resolved, That every church connected with this conference be, and they are hereby, requested to take up at least four collections in each conference year, after giving one week's notice, and send the same to the Treasurer as often as collected, to be used in the interests of the cause as the Board may direct.

Resolved, That the Secretary be requested to send a copy of these resolutions to all churches in sympathy and fellowship with the conference, for their action.

The following, offered by Bro. Fenn, was also passed:

Resolved, That the tent be submitted solely into the hands of the Board of Trustees, to be conducted in such manner as their judgments shall indicate.

Some feeling remarks were addressed to the conference by Bro. G. W. Ashdown, of Port Byron, Cayuga Co., relating to the cause in that place. He also made an earnest appeal for help, by way of tent or other meetings. The following resolution passed:

Resolved, That the Board of Trustees be requested to consider the propriety of holding a campmeeting in this State this summer, and if thought practicable, appoint the time and place, and publish the proper notice.

Bro. H. Tanner offered the following:

Resolved, 1st, That a committee of three be appointed by the President to prepare and submit to this conference, at its next regular meeting, as its first business, a set of well-defined rules to govern its action. 2nd, That to this committee be submitted the duty of preparing the business for the next session. 3d, That to this committee be submitted the propriety of bringing in a new constitution for the consideration of conference, as the first business of the second day's session.

The following amendment was accepted by the mover, viz: "The order of business adopted by the So. Indiana A. C. C., as reported in the A. C. Times, May 31st, 1870, shall be adopted to govern the quarterly conferences until the next annual meeting." The resolution then passed.

The President appointed as committee, C. F. Sweet, Wm. A. Fenn, Jas. H. Whitmore. Reports of delegates were now listened to until noon. Adjourned until after afternoon services. At two o'clock Bro. Whitmore preached to a good congregation during a drenching rain outside.

Business meeting convened again after the sermon, and the reports of delegates and isolated brethren finished. Adjourned. At 7 o'clock assembled for prayer and conference. Had a very interesting meeting. The hall was well filled, and surely the Spirit of the Lord was there. Prayers, testimonies, and songs, evinced particularly the "patient waiting" but longing desire for the coming of Jesus our King. Bro. J. Wendell afterward spoke to a very attentive audience from Eph. 4: 1–6.

On Sunday morning the weather was fine, and a large number of brethren and sisters assembled at half-past eight for a love-feast. This was a very spirited meeting—a heavenly season; love and unity prevailed. When the hour arrived for preaching, some fifty or more arose to manifest a desire also to speak in honor of Christ and the cause, did time permit; another meeting was therefore appointed at six o'clock P. M., to give them the opportunity to do so. After prayer by Bro. Fenn, Bro. C. F. Swret gave a discourse on the prodigal son. He was followed by Brn. Fenn and Wendell in touching appeals to the ungodly; they were deeply moved; and while Bro. Newell sang, "I'll die no more for bread," opportunity was given to "arise" and return to Father's house. Among others one youngerly man arose, who had never professed religion, and expressed his desire to become a christian, and to follow Christ in baptism. The ordinance was administered at 1 o'clock.

At two o'clock Bro. Hobbs spoke to a large audience from Rom. 8: 18, 19. At half-past six the adjourned love-feast of the morning was continued with great zeal and interest. All felt that the Lord was there by his Spirit, and we were encouraged and strengthened. The audience increased until the hour for preaching, when the hall was well filled. Prayer by Sr. E. A. Esserine, after which Sr. E. S. Jennings spoke about twenty minutes. Bro. M. R. Miles occupied the remaining time.

After the sermon two arose for prayer. The Lord's Supper was then celebrated, when about one hundred and fifty united to "show the Lord's death till he come." It was a solemn and profitable time.

And thus we have passed another of those spiritual oases which gladden our hearts anon as we journey through a desert of sin towards the heavenly land. A good spirit prevailed throughout the meeting, and all felt it was good to be there. A short business meeting was now called. Bro. Cogswell presented a form of certificate to be given Sr. Emily A. Esserine, in which the conference recognizes her as a worthy and useful laborer in the vineyard of the Lord. It was voted to present the same properly endorsed. Bro. Edward Kingsworth having lost the certificate of recommendation given him by this body three years ago, the Secretary was instructed to furnish a new copy.

The chairman of the campmeeting committee reported the prospect unfavorable in the minds of the committee. [It is hoped the matter will be re-considered.] Bro. B. C. Simonds invited the next conference to Darien. Bro. Miles moved a vote of thanks to the friends of Lockport for their kind and generous entertainment. Adjourned to meet at Darien, N. Y., Sept. 9th, 1870.

WM. E. BROWN, Secretary.

A. C. Times, please copy.

PAPAL INFALLIBILITY.

In the twelfth century a work was produced by the celebrated philosopher and theologian, Abelard, on the contradictions and discrepancies that may be found in the writings of the fathers of the Church. Supposing this eminent scholar were still alive, what would he say about the impending resolution of the Ecumenical Council, by which the personal infallibility of the Pope is to be solemnly proclaimed? We need not search long for an answer to this question. With the honest and uncompromising boldness for which he was distinguished, Abelard would most probably have declared: "If the Papacy be now pronounced infallible, all the predecessors of Pius IX. must have been so too. But in the face of history who can maintain such a proposition, unless he has made the credo quia absurdum the great maxim of his life?" And then we can easily imagine the learned monk, with a causticity which we cannot imitate, adduce in support of his position such historical details as those we here subjoin:

Pope Julius I. embraced the views of Athanasius regarding the Father and Son, but these same opinions were condemned by his successor Liberius. Innocent I. anathematized Pelagius and all his followers as heretics; while Zosimus, who succeeded, recognized him as orthodox, but subsequently altered his views at the command of the Emperor Theodosius. The infallible Vicar of Christ, Hormisdas, declared it to be an abominable belief that one of the three persons of the Trinity had been crucified; while John II. and Agapetus, his successors, both pronounced this decision to be impious and absurd.

Leo the Great considered the use of bread and wine in the Holy Eucharist as a "divine command and an apostolical institution,"—confirming in this respect the judgment of Julius I.—and wished to excommunicate every one who "demanded the body of Christ without drinking his blood." Pope Gelasius, in 495, likewise declared all those to be heretics who refrained from the cup in the Holy Communion. Now, if these three Popes were infallible, how did it happen that in the twelfth century the chalice was withdrawn from the laity, who had to be satisfied with the bread alone, and an anathema was hurled against those who desired to retain the practice of communicating under both forms?

Pope Virgilius, in accordance with the Council of Chalcedon, accepted as orthodox the writings of the fathers of the Church. The Emperor Justinian, however, maintained that these books contained heretical doctrines; and the infallible Virgilius hereupon accepted the imperial decision. After some time the Pope returned to his former views, and the fathers who had been proclaimed heterodox were rehabilitated and restored to their places among the orthodox writers. Justinian, enraged at this conduct, threatened the Pope with deposition, and the infallibility of Rome again yielded to the menaces of Byzantium, the result being that the books in question were after all definitely condemned as heretical productions.

John XXII. established the doctrine that the Holy Virgin, the Apostles, and the saints were not to be partakers of the joys of Paradise, nor to be admitted into the presence of God before the day of judgment. As this new dogma, however, was likely to deprive the clergy of a rich source of profit in the supposed intercession of Mary and the saints, John revoked the bull in which it had been announced, and tacitly admitted his error.

Pope Urban VII. (1642) strictly forbade the use of snuff in churches, and Innocent XII. threatened obstinate misdemeanants with his anathema; but Benedict XII., who himself always carried a snuff-box in his pocket, revoked the interdiction, and permitted the faithful to refresh themselves with a pinch during the hours of divine service.

Many more curious and interesting historical questions, connected with Papal infallibility, might be raised, such as: Is it admitted that Leo X. was infallible when, declining to have Luther burnt as a heretic, he observed: "I think Brother Martin has a capital head; all this comes from the envy of the monks;" or when, on another occasion, he jocularly remarked to Cardinal Bembo: "Really, it must be acknowledged that this fable of the Gospel has done us good service." Was Clement VII. infallible, who declared himself in favor of the irresistibility of divine grace, as inculcated by St. Augustine; or Urban VIII., who entered the lists against this doctrine? Innocent X., who wished to see the same dogma accepted anew by the Church, or Clement XI., by whom it was again unconditionally rejected?

Are we perhaps to assume that it is a characteristic of infallibility to decide successfully for and against? Can this be the solution of the problem, the foundation-stone of this Papal mystery? In that case the Jesuits, whom we see zealously endeavoring to negotiate this latest ultramontane draft on human credulity, are laboring in their own cause; for after Pius V. had eulogized the Society of Jesus as a pillar of the Church and conferred on the order great and exceptional privileges, Clement XIV. decreed that as the Jesuits were corrupting the world and preparing the Church's ruin, he had resolved to abolish the order forever. To Pius IX. belongs the merit of restoring them to their lost position of guard of honor and favorite ecclesiastical corps of the Papacy; and in this character they are now perhaps more powerful and influential than even in the time of Loyola and his immediate successors.

Correspondence.

From Sr. A. E. McEllistor.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:—Will you pray for me? for my life draws nigh to the grave. There is mighty power in faith's prevailing prayer. Twice have I been raised up from the brink of the grave by faith's all-prevailing prayer. And still the God of Jacob lives, and when we wrestle with him in earnest, believing prayer, he will bless. Like Jacob, we believe the Lord has power to bless, and we feel as our strength fails day by day to cry, while we wrestle in prayer with God—"We cannot let thee go, unless thou bless us."

O sons and daughters of the King of kings, will you cry to the Lord mightily for me? You who believe in the healing power of God, will you ask the Lord to deliver me yet again? O pray in faith believing! He will hear your heart-offered, faith-given petition for me. Do not pass this by as a little thing, but lay down the Crisis and go to your closet, and lift up your soul to God for me in agonizing prayer. I beseech you, pray for me.

ANNA E. MCELLISTER.

Moorestown, Burlington Co., N. J.

From Bro. and Sr. J. Ashley.

Brn. and Srs.:—It gives us great pleasure to read in the columns of the dear Crisis the experience of those of like precious faith, who are scattered through our land. And I do believe that these little articles of experience serve to strengthen one another on our journey towards the kingdom.

It was at the campmeeting held in Springfield, Mass., last September, that myself and companion became interested in the doctrine of the personal coming of Christ. At that time my companion was a Catholic, and always had been. I was a wanderer from God, having once received some light, by the influence of the Holy Spirit; an interest had been awakened in my mind, but I had not the right understanding of God's character; I did not understand his word; it was filled with mysteries; and whenever I had made inquiries of ministers relative to certain passages of Scripture, I was often left in total darkness.

I never for once doubted that I had a never-dying soul, that would live after this body had passed away; and I began to be a sincere believer in spiritualism. I thought that, according to the doctrine of natural immortality, it looked to be the most reasonable of all the different doctrines I had heard preached. I believed that spiritualism was the highest order of religion. And why? you may ask. I had heard ministers, in preaching funeral sermons, declare that the spirit of the deceased was in the room. If such was true, why could they not communicate? I believed they did.

I had been told that I was a medium. I had told fortunes and believed in them, but I was ignorant of the influence; supposed it was a good spirit instead of demons; but, thank God, the vail is lifted; and it was done by a sermon preached by John G. Hook. I saw the error, and, assisted by the Holy Spirit, was led from the fatal delusion, embraced Christ, and, thank God, I see clearly that if I ever have immortality it will be at the coming of the Lord; and then the body will be made immortal. Thank God, how plain it is. The vail, which had always hung over the word of God, has been lifted, and now it is plain. The Bible harmonizes. I love His precious word, and the glorious appearing of Jesus.

My companion, who was a Catholic, is with me in the faith, heart and hand. I left off using tobacco, a habit which I had formed eight years before. I had left it off twice before, but did not have strength to carry through my determination; but since I have found Jesus precious to my soul, I have had no desire to use the weed. God always helps those who help themselves.

We are alone here in Bricksburg, as believers in the glorious truths of the Bible. Our great comfort is the word of God and the precious Crisis. God has blessed us abundantly with the Holy Spirit. My companion has been healed of a severe lung difficulty. She had taken medicine some weeks, but still suffered much pain. She finally concluded to lay all medicine aside, and carry her complaint right to the Lord in prayer; and from that day she has not had a pain in either lung, and her lungs to all appearance are as well now as ever. Thanks be to Him who is a prayer-hearing and a prayer-answering God.

Bro. John G. Hook has been here and spent a week with us, holding evening meetings. We were abundantly strengthened by his visit. My companion and one of our neighbors and his companion were buried with Christ in baptism, and are rejoicing in his love.

"The road is strait and narrow,
But the end is growing bright;
Soon the city of our Savior
Will be coming into sight.

May we all be watching, praying,
As the heavens roll aside,
And the Bridegroom comes in glory
To receive his waiting bride."

JOHN & JULIA ASHLEY.

Bricksburg, N. J.

BRO. D. EASTMAN writes:—"I am happy to inform you that the Lord is still at work in Dorchester (N. H.), and some twenty-six or eight have been baptized, and next Sabbath some fifteen more are expecting to be. The work commenced eight months ago, with much opposition from a professed minister of the gospel. The truth was what the people wanted. Bro. J. H. Evans is still in the field driving the enemy at every point. He goes in for the whole work, and is not ashamed of the whole gospel. Many adjoining towns have received much benefit from the refreshing showers in Dorchester. May God continue to bless."

BRO. L. BOUTELL writes:—"Our tent meeting in South Providence is prospering. Yesterday (26th) was a favored day. Our love-feast commenced at nine, and continued till half past twelve. The big tent was crowded. It was a rare season. Good order prevails. The meeting continues through the coming week and over Sunday. Brethren, pray for us."

Married.

WISE—CAMPBELL. In Clinton, Iowa, June 12th, by Eld. C. C. Ramsay, Mr. B. F. WISE and Miss MATILDA CAMPBELL, both of Clinton, Iowa.

DREW—ELWELL. At the residence of the bride's parents, in East Bridgeport, Conn., June 15th, 1870, by Rev. W. W. Bowditch, Mr. LEVI S. DREW and Miss LIZZIE H. ELWELL, both of Bridgeport.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

ROME, June 21. The desire of the Fathers to express their opinions in speeches before the Council is so great that the closing of the debate will be postponed to the 6th of July. Immediately after the adjournment the Consistory will assemble and bestow Cardinalates on fifteen of the Fathers, selected from among the active champions of infallibility.

June, 23. In the debate in the Ecumenical Council, Archbishop Purcell of Cincinnati and Bishop Connelly of Halifax assailed the dogma of infallibility with vigor, fearlessly denouncing it as impracticable and hurtful to the interests of the Church.

ATHENS, June 21. Five more of the Athens brigands have been executed.

MADRID, June, 21. Senor Castellar delivered a brilliant speech in the Cortes to-day in favor of the immediate abolition of slavery in the colonies.

June, 22. A fleet, consisting of two frigates and a corvette, sailed from Cadiz yesterday. Its destination is unknown.

June, 23. Senor Moretz's bill for the gradual emancipation of slaves was adopted last night. Castellar's amendment, providing for the immediate abolition of slavery, was rejected. The bill provides that children born of slaves since 1868 shall be free, the government paying an indemnity of fifty dollars for each, and all those born after the promulgation of this law shall be unconditionally free. The slaves who have fought in the Spanish service, and all over 65 years of age, are to be immediately set free.

PARIS, June, 22. Additional arrests are being made for complicity in the plot against the Emperor. Many vessels have left Marseilles for the Black Sea, to load with grain.

LONDON, June 23. All the great powers of Europe are in concord in demanding of Greece a permanent guarantee for the protection of foreign citizens temporarily residing in Greek territory. The powers have unanimously agreed on the construction of a joint note to be despatched to the Greek Government referring to the late catastrophe and calling upon her to prevent similar powers in future.

ROME, June 26. It is officially stated that all the Hungarian Bishops now in attendance upon the sessions of the Ecumenical Council, have formed the positive determination of departing from the Papal city immediately, upon the promulgation of the dogma of infallibility.

PARIS, June 25. The Emperor Napoleon has written a letter to M. Ollivier, Minister of Justice, in which he expresses the desire that the government should at once adopt some measure which would put an end to the present exile of the Bourbon family from France. He considers that the stability of the government has been insured by the recent elections, in which the people had declared their confidence overwhelming, and therefore no schemes of political enemies can for the future disturb it. The necessity for their exile has for the time passed away.

The Papal Nuncio here having by order of the Pope published answers to addresses from France to Rome, in regard to the Ecumenical Council, the Minister of Foreign Affairs has informed the Nuncio that he is considered Ambassador, and exceeds his functions in replying to such addresses. The Nuncio promises not to repeat the irregularity.

PARIS, June 25. It is reported that ex-Queen Isabella of Spain will sign her solemn abdication to-day. Marshal Bazaire and others will be present as witnesses.

LONDON, June 24. The Hungarian Bishops have reconsidered their intention of quitting Rome in the event of a proclamation of Papal infallibility.

The morning journals publish interesting details of the riots which occurred at Cork yesterday and the day before. Barricades were erected in the streets and defended obstinately. The cavalry charged and carried them. Many of the police were wounded, but so far as known only one of the soldiers was seriously hurt. The latter's skull was fractured by a stone hurled by one of the rioters. The police are still actively at work and many of the leaders of the disorder are in custody.

The commission to revise the Bible version held a meeting yesterday and resolved to reassemble July 13 for a three days' session.

The Spectator to-day has a long article on the recent affairs in Canada, and argues for the maintenance of the colonial empire.

LONDON, June 27. Great excitement prevails in Madrid in consequence of the discovery of a plot to blow up the powder magazine of the Fortress of Gibraltar. Fenianism is supposed to be at the bottom of the conspiracy. The ringleader has been arrested.

PARIS, June 27. It is reported that the Emperor has had another attack of rheumatism, brought on by the sudden change of the temperature.

☞ Events in Prussia indicate that the autumn in Europe will not be peaceful. Bismarck's pretended illness is an excuse for absence from Berlin, when he is really needed there, an absence which he is improving, to put Prussia upon a better war footing than she is even now. The dissatisfaction in the French army was clearly shown during the plebiscite excitement, caused great delight in Germany, and the warriors of the Rhine no longer conceal their desire for an immediate beginning of hostilities.

☞ Two hundred and sixty-five women are employed in the Russian telegraph offices, and have done so well that all departments are to be thrown open for them. Some are to be appointed to signal stations.

☞ In Vienna, 680 persons of both sexes have abjured Christianity and embraced Judaism within less than two years.

DOMESTIC.

Chicago, June 21. Colonel Barron, of the Thirteenth infantry, arrived at Sioux City from Fort Benton yesterday, and reports an attack by five hundred Indians upon the Buford woodchoppers, nearly all of them. The colonel thinks this is the opening of the long meditated war.

Worcester, June 23. A fearful explosion occurred in this city about ten o'clock this forenoon. A can containing nitro glycerine, powder, or some other explosive material near the Junction was blown to atoms, killing and wounding a large number of people, and completely demolishing twelve or fifteen houses in the vicinity. The explosion fairly shook the whole city.

Havana, June 23. Advices from St. Thomas to the 15th inst. have been received.

The Governor of the Island had issued a proclamation placing the Island again under the protection of Denmark, in consequence of the United States failing to ratify the treaty of transfer. The Governor promises important reforms in the administration of the Island.

A STORM IN THE HIGHLANDS OF THE HUDSON. A storm in the Highlands of the Hudson is sometimes attended with effects not witnessed elsewhere. A passenger on the propeller D. S. Miller was passing Cro' Nest Mountain, which looms almost perpendicularly up from the water one solid mass of rock, an awful explosion of thunder occurred, immediately followed by a vivid sheet of lightning, from which a fire-bolt descended and struck the mountain top, splitting off an immense piece of rock, weighing probably a thousand tons, which was hurled into the air and plunged with a fearful momentum into the river at the base of the mountain. The smell of brimstone was for the time almost overwhelming, and the hiss of the water as the heated rock plunged in was plainly heard.

Besides this grand sight, the display of lightning was terrific, the hill-tops were lighted up like one vast bonfire, the river like a molten sea; at times the bottom of the river was plainly seen, and all the steamers and sailing vessels were tipped with the electric fluid.

Passing Events.

☞ The Viceroy of Egypt will visit Constantinople in July to make his peace with the Sultan.

☞ A plague of small brown beetles has destroyed the Swedish turnip crop in Yorkshire, England.

☞ Letters from Prague say:—"The anti-Roman movement is daily assuming more considerable proportions in Bohemia, and the clergy are beginning to join earnestly in it. Cardinal Schwarzenberg is receiving letters of adhesion on all sides. The clergy of the diocese of Czaslau have sent him a message inviting him to persevere in his conflict against Papal infallibility. The Germans canons, Hußer and Jaudouret, have left for Rome on an identical mission."

☞ The Baden government has decided upon the formation of a camp for military drill in the neighborhood of Constance. To facilitate the prompt arrival of the troops the Carisune Cabinet has obtained permission from the Swiss Federal Council to make use of the railway which goes through the cantons of Bale and Schaffhausen.

☞ The Czar is thus described by a writer who saw him pass through Berlin:—"I was astonished to see the change which has occurred in two years. His late illness and, still more, the cares of government have made terrific ravages in this sovereign not long since so robust. His complexion is rather yellow than pale, or, to speak more correctly, strongly bilious, while the cheeks are hollow and the eyes sunken and surrounded with dark rings."

☞ Much anxious speculation prevailed among the English farmers as to the character of the forthcoming crops.

☞ The eldest son of the Viceroy of Egypt is about to make a tour in Western Europe, and will visit more particularly the Court of Austria, to respond to the invitation which his Apostolic Majesty gave him orally at the inauguration of the Isthmus of Suez. A similar compliment was paid him by the Empress of the French, who has preserved the most agreeable remembrance of the magnificent hospitality she received at the hands of the Viceroy.

☞ The United States steamer Palos sailed from Washington Tuesday for the East India squadron. The commanding officer has been directed to go through the Suez Canal. This will be the first war vessel belonging to this country that is to pass through the canal.

☞ The Catholic priests of the Vincennes (Ind.) Diocese held a meeting at New Albany lately, and ordered a cable despatch sent to Rome, expressing their wish that a definition of Papal infallibility be forwarded to them.

☞ There is promise of fruit of all kinds in great abundance.

☞ Reports at hand, from Mexico and Japan, show that in the earthquake of May, half of the globe was shaken.

☞ The International society of Belgian Workmen held a great meeting at Brussels two weeks since, at which they discussed a project for the representation of labor in the great state bodies. They are going to push the effort for an entry into Parliamentary life to the utmost. At Geneva the Swiss ladies have organized a woman's right society and have issued a flaming circular, in which they appeal to all the world to help them.

☞ Elihu Burritt is about to return to his home at New Britain, Ct.

☞ The largest refracting telescope ever constructed, has, it is asserted, just been finished by a firm of astronomical instrument makers in New York. The telescope is 32 feet long, 10 feet 6 inches in circumference, with an object glass 25 inches in diameter. It is to be set up in an observatory at the Island of Madeira.

☞ Telegraphic communication with Europe now hangs on the wire of 1866. The wire of 1865 is rotten and beyond repair, the old cable (the first) is used up, and the French cable is broken off the east coast of Massachusetts.

☞ The population of Great Britain is estimated at 30,800,000.

Religious Items.

— The pastor of the little mission church in Palu, Easter Turkey, makes his monthly converts interesting by calling for reports from the laymen who have been visiting the villages about, in a region about the size of Rhode Island, which they have undertaken to evangelize. Mr. Barnum says that at a late meeting, reports were given from thirteen villages.

— The Methodists have established a mission in Salt Lake City.

— It is estimated that 7,500,000 people in this country are under the spiritual provision of Methodism.

— In the direct religious teaching of the millions of India, 25 missionary societies expend a sum of $1,500,000 a year, and employ more than 500 European and American missionaries—a fourth of the missionary agency working in all parts of the world.

— In Dr. Wood's church in Pittsburg, a young lady interprets the services to a company of about twenty mutes. They are seated in the gallery, and she takes such a position as not to be noticed by the general audience.

— The English Bishop of Colombo, Ceylon, writes that Bishop Colenso's writings are being used vigorously against the religious work of the missionaries by the Buddhists there. They have printed tracts made up of the Bishop of Natal's objections to the Pentateuch, and use them in attack of the Bishop of Colombo. They have excited some considerable feeling of alarm among the Christian converts.

— A Jew in Montery has bought for $5000 in gold, one of the finest Jesuit churches in Monterey, and given it to the Protestants.

— The Advent church at Waterbury, Vt., was damaged to the amount of $500 by lightning on Monday, and several persons standing near the building were rendered insensible by the shock.

— The report that the Rev. Leonard W. Bacon has gone over to the communion of the Roman Catholic church is without any sort of foundation.

— The Methodist preachers' Association of Cincinnati are discussing the propriety of licensing women to preach.

— Some Chinese converts have appealed to a Missionary Board for "men of hot hearts to tell of the love of Jesus." Such men are needed everywhere.

— Madagascar is open for Christian labor, and the people are everywhere calling for the gospel.

— Cheering intelligence from Chili reports Protestant Christianity as making great progress.

— West Point is showing signs of religious improvement. A cadet prayer meeting has been started, and is well attended.

— To Chinese converts are preaching in the streets of San Francisco to large assemblies.

— The Archbishop of Seville said recently, in anticipation of the new form of infallibility to be proclaimed at Rome in the coming Council, that, "apart from obedience to the Pope there is no salvation nor even hope of gaining eternal life!"

— The Roman Catholic clergy of England have increased the past year from 1,690 to 1,727. The churches and chapels have increased from 1,899 to 1,851. During the year there were sixty-nine ordinations.

Notices.

Grove Meeting.

There will be a grove meeting at Salem Depot, N. H., in the Granite State Grove, Sunday, July 3d, and (if we can have the grove) will hold over Monday, the 4th. Bro. C. Goodrich, and perhaps others, will be present to preach the word.

C. RICHARDSON.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a meeting held in the grove on my place, in Hopkinton, N. H., July 4th, at ten o'clock A. M. Sister L. M. Stoddard, of Worcester, Mass., is expected to be present. Brethren and sisters, pray for us, that good may be done, and the Lord get glory.

ELBRIDGE G. KIMBALL.

Tent Meeting.

The tent meeting in South Providence, R. I., will continue (the Lord willing) through the week, and over Sunday, July 3d. The Lord is blessing. Brethren and sisters, come and help. Take the South Providence horse-cars, and ride to the end of the route, and there you will find the tent.

ENOCH MORRILL.

Notice.

There will be a meeting at the Haskell school-house, near Sherman's Corner, in Liberty, Me., the 3d and 4th of July. All those interested to work for the Lord and save the perishing, are invited to attend. For the brethren,

E. D. FOWLER.

Notice.

Will our brethren, who wish the campmeeting committee to build their tents at Alton Bay, send to me at once (at Farmington, Me.), the plan, or how they wish them built?

J. G. SMITH.

To the King's Servants.

Some of the brethren and sisters in Warner Village, N. H., and vicinity, have decided to have preaching one half of the time at Union Hall, the second and third Sabbaths of July, and after that the first two Sabbaths of each month.

Correspond with B. S. COLBY, Warner Village, N. H.

In behalf of the congregation worshiping at Warner Village.

ALLEN DAMON.

Tent Meeting.

The Lord willing, the New Hampshire Mission Tent will be pitched at Beach Ridge, York, Me., July 2nd, and hold over two Sundays, on land of Charles C. Barrell. Elliott Depot is the nearest station; three miles from the tent.

J. C. SHOREY.

Grove Meeting.

The Lord willing, there will be a meeting in the pine grove near the depot, at West Bethel, Me., on the 3d and 4th of July. Brethren and friends are cordially invited to attend. Bro. J. A. Libby, or some one else, will be there to help preach the word. Brethren, let us make one more effort to save the perishing. For the brethren,

JESSE GAY.

Grove Meeting.

Providence permitting, there will be a grove meeting in Holderness, N. H., near the True school-house, on Sunday, July 3d, and Monday, the 4th. An ordination is expected Sunday. Elds. J. Harvey and J. Morse will be present to preach and attend to the ordination. Other preachers are expected to be there.

For the committee, DANIEL SMITH.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a grove meeting held in Guilford, N. H., in the grove near Davis Island, July 3d. All are invited to come who love the Lord, and may good be done in the name of the Lord Jesus.

N. GLIDDEN.

R. I. and East. Ct.

Our conference will hold its next session with the church at River Point, R. I., commencing Wednesday, June 29th, at two o'clock P. M. As this is a central locality, we shall expect to see a large number of preachers and delegates present. Let the clerks of those churches that do not send delegates remember their duty.

C. H. SWEET, Sec'y.

Notice.

As the time has come for us to start the Mass. Mission Tent, we shall need funds to carry forward the work; and we wish those who have subscribed would forward the amount to the Treasurer, C. GOODRICH, No. 7 Salem Street, Boston, as soon as convenient.

S. W. THURBER, Pres. of Conf.

Notice.

Our annual meeting will be held in Kingston, as usual, on the 3d and 4th of July next (Sunday and Monday), in the grove. It is expected that Elders Laning, W. Burnham, G. W. Burnham, C. Cunningham, B. D. Haskell and W. M. Mellen will be present. We hope to see a general gathering to this feast. In behalf of the committee,

F. GALE.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a grove meeting held July 3d and 4th, on Mann's hill, in Holden, Me., on the farm owned by Samuel Gilmore, in the same grove where it was held last year. We invite all christians who love gospel salvation and order, and will seek their neighbor's good, to come and help. Brn. A. H. Walker and I. Damman are expected to be there.

Notice.

There will be a grove meeting held in Jay, Bean's Corner, Me., commencing July 2d, at 5 o'clock P. M. and continuing over the Fourth. Come to this meeting to labor for the Lord. Bring your basket of food or not, as there will be provision made for all. The ordinance of baptism will be attended to. In behalf of the Brn.,

H. B. SEVEY.

P. S. We have received pledges to the amount of $25.00 for our meeting-house in Vienna. Who wishes to help?

H. B. S.

Notice.

"The Levant Union Bethel Association" are engaged in building a house, in which to worship the living God, at Levant Village, Me. This house is called "The Levant Union Bethel." It is open and free to all denominations. Will cost about twenty-five hundred dollars, of which our late and lamented Bro. Joseph Turner paid one thousand dollars, and is the first and only meeting-house erected in the town. We have contracted to have the building finished July 1st, 1870. It will be dedicated Saturday, July 2d, at ten o'clock A. M., by the ministers of the various denominations, Bro. H. L. Hastings, of Boston, associating. Bro. Hastings, assisted by others, will continue to hold services in the same house on the 2d, 3d, and 4th of July.

F. A. BAKER.

Notice.

To the brethren in New York State: Shall we have a general campmeeting in the old Empire State? Will the brethren think and pray about it, and when we meet at our June conference, decide when and where we will hold it, and appoint a committee to arrange for the meeting? We have strength enough in Western New York for a good campmeeting, if we will all take hold of the matter. The Lord is coming. Let us do all we can to strengthen each other, and save the perishing around us. Please write immediately.

MILTON R. MILES, Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.

Notice.

The Advent brethren in Buffalo, N. Y., have hired a hall and established a prayer and conference meeting every Sabbath, at two o'clock P. M. The hall is on Maine Street, in the Arcade building, second floor, No. 9, and is large enough for preaching. Ministers passing this way who can spend a Sabbath with us, we will give notice of by our daily papers, if informed by Friday. They can expect but a small compensation at present, as most are poor, and we are just making an effort to gather the scattered flock. Some fifty in the city hold our views, and we hope, by a permanent meeting, some preaching, and God's blessing, we shall be able to form a stable church. Preachers can call on Wm. Shaw, 528 Eagle Street, or J. Blain, 79 North Division Street, H. Tanner, 255 Pearl street, and a home will be provided. We can have no meeting on week days at present, but hope to by and by.

For the brethren, J. BLAIN.

The Iowa Mission Tent.

Those who desire tent, camp, grove, or basket-meetings, will do well to correspond with me soon, so that I may make arrangements for summer work. In these meetings will be presented the gospel of Jesus Christ, with a view to do the people good. No party, sect, or hobby to build up, but to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Every lover of Jesus shall be free to work with us. All lovers of this pure christianity are requested to write soon. Direct to Peter S. W. Daye, Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Special Notice.

To all interested in having a State Conference organized in Ohio: Beloved brethren in Christ,—Believing that the end of all things is at hand, and what we do must be done quickly, and that the Lord has raised us up as a people to herald the coming kingdom, and to lift our warning voice, and cry aloud, and spare not, and in earnest tones bid the slumbering myriads of earth's sons and daughters to prepare for solemn judgment; and believing we can better accomplish the great work allotted us to do, we have, after advising with brethren, thought best to appeal to every Advent church in the State, and where there is no church, to individuals, who are interested in forming such a conference, to write at once to Eld. E. McCullock, Pastor of the Advent Church in Nevada, Ohio; and, if sufficient interest is manifest, we shall issue a call for a conference, to be held immediately after the campmeetings are over. Come, brethren, let us hear from you at once relative to this matter, and may heavenly wisdom guide your hearts aright. For the Brethren,

E. MCCULLOCK.

Tent Meeting.

The Lord willing, there will be a tent meeting in Springwater Valley, commencing June 28th, to continue as long as the interest may demand. A cordial invitation is extended to all who can come. Brn. B. P. Stevens, Warren J. Hobbs, and Wm. A. Fenn, are expected to be present and preach the word. Let us all pray earnestly for the success of this meeting, in enlightening the people on the great truths of the Bible.

S. H. WITHINGTON.

Not able to Go.

I wish to say to the many inquiries, that my vocal organs have considerably improved, but I am not yet able to preach; shall not be able to labor in the tent this season. Others will doubtless engage in that important mission work with the Maine tent. Brethren, pray for its success, and for me, that I may yet be able to preach the "gospel of the kingdom."

I. C. WELLCOME.

Grove Meeting at West Kingston, N. H.

Providence permitting, there will be a meeting in Sargent's grove, near the great pond, on Sunday and Monday, July 3d and 4th. Brethren living in adjoining towns are invited. Strangers can call on Brn. Reuben Currier, Otis Tucker, or Geo. Goodwin.

C. W. SARGENT.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meeting on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's.

O. G. TRUNDY.

Notice.

The Advent Christian Church in Nashua, N. H., have hired a hall in Beasom's Block, corner of Maine and Factory Streets, up two flights of stairs, well fitted up, where we shall hold meetings three times on the Sabbath, and Thursday and Saturday evenings. For the brethren,

NATHANIEL EATON.

Notice.

Dear brethren and friends:—We have bought a brick house in Vienna, to fit up for a meeting-house. We lack funds to finish it. It will cost $100 to do the work inside. Some brethren have offered to assist us. If others who have the means will help, we should be glad. If we cannot get help, shall be obliged to sell. If brethren will send in what they will pay, we will give credit, and if enough is pledged we will notify when wanted. Direct all communications to

H. B. SEVEY,
S. W. CARR, } Mt. Vernon, Me.
H. C. CLIFFORD,

Conn. State Tent.

Parties desiring the tent pitched in their vicinity, will please correspond with the Chairman of the Committee, H. H. DICKINSON, Hartford, Ct.

Notice.

The Advent brethren have rented the Temperance Hall on Maine St., in Brunswick, Me., and will hold meetings on Sunday regularly. Seats free to all who are disposed to meet with us. Ministering brethren are invited to come over and help us. Per order,

C. GOUD.

Notice.

Putney's Hall, Sutton Mills, N. H. Meetings every Sabbath for the present. This is a new movement on the part of the Advent people of Sutton, and we think it is according to the will of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us.

A. CRESSEY,
FRANK NELSON, } Committee.
SAM'L ROWELL,

Notice.

All persons, rich or poor, wishing to have the Rhode Island Mission Tent pitched in any locality where there is an opportunity to get the great truths of the plan of salvation before the people, will address me by letter, at South Killingly, Ct.

E. BELLOWS.

Notice.

Brethren in Conn. wishing my labors between now and the 20th of July, will please address me at once at Forestville, Conn., and appoint for me accordingly through the Crisis,

S. C. HANCOCK.

German Tracts.

Bro. Reimer has a good supply. Send your orders to L. REIMER, 1006 Chesnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Notice.

I would say that persons desiring practical treatment with the Resuscitator for diseases, may address me at 43 Revere Street, Boston.

W. C. STONE.

Inquiry.

Brethren and sisters of Sutton, Bradford, and Warner: Can we join together and have a tent meeting? We in Bradford think we can.

Notice.

As the piece of music entitled "Sweet by-and by" cannot be obtained in sheet form, I will send the book containing words and music, post-paid, for 35 cents. "The Pilgrim's Harp," 60 cts., post-paid.

GEORGE E. LEE, Brimfield, Mass.

☞ A short poem, "The Blissful Vision," may be had for 30 cts. per dozen, of the author, J. Albert Libby, West Poland, Me.

☞ To Preaching Brethren.

Those wishing to preach in ... Correspond with
Westfield, Mass. ... E. A. Eggleston.
Savoy, Mass ... Daniel Miller, or A. E. Bliss.
Wakefield, Mass. ... G. R. Tyzzer.
Worcester, Mass. ... H. M. Blackmer, Willard M. Hall, or Willard G. Ruggles.
Portsmouth, N. H. ... T. E. Wood, Box 1445.
Hampton, N. H. ... Joseph A. Philbrook.
Manchester, N. H. ... A. J. Mahew, S. R. Davidson, or O. Proctor.
Loudon Ridge, N. H. ... Daniel L. Moore, Wm. Batchelder, Edward Mudget. Fourth Sabbath engaged.
Seabrook, N. H. ... R. S. Johnson, of Hampton, N. H., or Chs. Barton, of Seabrook.
Goshen, N. H. ... O. F. Cain.
Rye, N. H. ... Moses C. Philbrick or Samuel Smart.
Pittsfield, N. H (Belbel) ... C. S. Emerson.
Portland, Me. ... R. R. York, S. K. Dyer D. F. Scamman.
Lewiston, Me. ... Albert Burgess.
South Berwick, (Great Works), Me. ... Harrison Dow.
Kennebunk Depot, Me. ... Rufus Duran.
Vernon, Vt. ... J. C. Allen.
Bristol, Ct. ... B. Hitchcock, Forestville, Ct.
West Glocester, R. I. ... Geo. A. Hawkins, Putnam, Ct.
New Haven, Ct. ... W. F. Carpenter, 73 State St.
Pleasant Valley, Ct. ... Reuel O. White, New Hartford, Ct.
Meriden, Ct. ... E. J. Whitehead, West Meriden, Conn., Box 4.
New Britain, Conn ... A. Powell.
Wrightville, Ct. ... D. A. Grant, Torrington, Ct.
Newfield, Ct. ... Wm. Ripley, Pleasant Valley, Ct.
New Milford, Ct. ... J. Coggswell.
Morris, Ct. ... Joseph Curtis.
Rochester, N. Y. ... J. R. Cooper, 4 Hickory St.
Philadelphia, Pa. ... Frank E. Davis, 1715 Markham Street, or L. N. Wilfong, 135 N. 22d St.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—
Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.
Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.
Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and cypress, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.
☞ Postage 16 cts per copy additional, when sent by mail.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL.
A. A. Phelps ... Tuesday evening, June 28th
Hiram Munger ... Sunday, July 3d
J. Couch ... Sunday, July 17th
M. Batchelor ... Sunday, July 24th

BOSTON, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.
Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.
John G. Hook ... Friday evening, July 1st
Nathan Whiting ... Sunday, July 3d
N. M. Davis ... Sunday, July 10th

Meetings in South Boston on Wednesday evenings, at C. W. Huntress,' 3 Lowland street. On Friday evenings at J. N. Berry's, 227 E. street.

EAST BOSTON.
Meetings are held at Chase's Block, up two flights, at 154 Meridian Street, on Sundays, at the usual hours, also Monday and Thursday evenings.
George A. Streeter ... Sunday, July 10th

CHELSEA, MASS., (LIBRARY HALL.)
I. B. Potter ... Sunday, July 3d
T. M. Preble ... Sabbath, July 10th
M. Batchelor ... Sunday, July 17th
J. Hemenway ... Sunday, July 24th
J. Pinkham ... Sunday, July 31st

CHARLESTOWN.
Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.
Rufus Wendell ... Sunday, July 3d
Dr. A. M. Higgins ... Sunday, July 10th
L. Boutell ... Sunday, July 17th
T. M. Preble ... Sunday, July 24th

Camden, N. J. (Tent Meeting) ... Sunday, July 3d
JOHN G. HOOK.

Burlington, Iowa ... Tuesday evening, June 28th and onward to July 8th.
MILES GRANT.

Herd's Corner, Mass ... Sunday, July 10th
Kennebunkport, Me ... Sunday, July 17th
C. GOODRICH.

Fitchburg, Mass ... Sabbath, July 3d
Ashburnham, Mass ... Tuesday evening, July 5th
Athol, Mass ... Wednesday evening, July 6th
Northfield, Mass ... Friday evening, July 8th
Vernon, Vt ... Sabbath, July 10th
Chicopee Falls, Mass ... Monday evening, July 11th
Springfield, Mass ... Tuesday evening, July 12th
Westfield, Mass ... Wednesday evening, July 13th
Westfield Farms, Mass ... Thurs. evening, July 14th
Hartford, Ct ... Sabbath, July 17th
New Britain, Ct ... Tuesday evening, July 19th
Bristol, Ct ... Wednesday evening, July 20th
New Preston, Ct ... evenings, July 21st and 22d
Where Bro. Morgan may arrange ... Sabbath, July 24th
A. ROSS.

Feeding Hill, Mass. (tent meeting) ... Sunday, July 3d
Springfield (on Hill) ... Sunday July 10th
Wrightville, Conn ... Sunday, July 17th
New Milford, Conn ... July 20th, and over the 24th
A. D. FLAGG.

Clinton, Mass ... Sunday, July 3d
Worcester, Mass ... July 5th
GEO. A. STREETER.

Loudon Ridge ... Sunday, July 3d
Melvin Village ... Sunday, July 10th
West Ossipee ... Sunday, July 17th
Lake Village (North Church) ... Sunday, July 24th
T. E. LANG, JR.

West Deerfield, N. H ... Sunday, July 3d
G. W. RANDALL.

Dorchester, N. H. (Town House) ... Sunday, July 3d
JOHN H. EVANS.

North Haverhill, N. H. (at the brick house) Sunday, July 17th.
W. H. SHAW.

Loudon Ridge, N. H. ... Sundays, Aug. 14th and 15th
Will some one meet me at Lake Village Depot, at two P. M., Saturday, Aug. 13th?
E. S. MOULTON.

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., July 10th
Rawsonville, Vt ... Sunday, July 17th
Z. T. WOOD.

Dixfield Centre ... from June 26th to July 3d
ORRILL W. KIMBALL.

Gilmanton, N. H. (Osgood school-house) Sun., July 3d
Lower Gilmanton (Chapel) ... Sunday, July 10th
N. B. MCMURPHY.

West Alton, N. H ... Sabbath, July 3d
Rochester, N. H. (Chapel) ... Sabbath, July 10th
Barnstead, N. H., (Lock's Corner) Sabbath, July 17th
Barnstead, N. H., Oak Ground, (Tuttle school-house) Sabbath, July 24th.
Loudon Ridge ... Sabbath, July 31st
Lower Gilmanton (where Eld. J. G. Munsey may appoint) evening, July 29th.
Guilford Village (Universalist meeting-house) Sabbath, Aug. 7th.
ABIGAIL M. TRIPP.

Manchester, N. H ... Sabbath, July 3d
T. M. PREBLE.

Worcester ... evening, June 29th
Boston (Lowell St. Chapel) ... evening, June 30th
Portland ... evening, July 1st
South Windham ... Sunday, July 3d
Windham Hill ... evening, July 4th
H. M. ROSE.

Stoneham, Mass ... Sunday, July 10th
Chicopee Falls, Mass ... Sunday, July 17th
Springfield ... July 19th
Warehouse Point, Ct ... July 20th
New Britain, Ct ... July 22nd
J. S. WHITE.

M. Batchelor ... Sunday, July 3d
M. BATCHELOR.

Rye, N. H ... Sunday, July 3d
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works) ... Sunday, July 10th
JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Pittston, Me. (conference) ... July 23d and over Sunday
Cushing, Me ... Sunday, July 3d, and baptize
H. S. MITCHELL.

Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., July 3d
Manchester, N. H. (Merrimac Hall) Sunday, July 10th
Porter, Me ... Sunday, July 17th
Melvin Village, N. H. ... Sunday, July 31st
T. W. PIPER.

North Springfield, Vt ... Sundays, July 3d and 17th
Bridgewater, Vt ... Sundays, July 10th and 24th
Plymouth, Vt., at 7½ o'clock ... Sabbath eve., July 10th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Roxbury, Ct. (L. R. Teeple's) ... Sunday, July 3d
New Milford, Ct ... Sunday, July 10th
Bridgewater, Ct. (at Sr. Strong's) ... Sunday, July 10th
Southville, Ct ... Sunday, July 17th
Platt Dist. school-house, July 17th.
Roxbury, Ct. (at Sr. Teeple's) ... Sunday, July 24th
New Milford ... Sunday, July 31st
H. K. WALLING.

Barnstead, N. H ... Sunday, July 3d
East Rochester ... Sunday, July 10th
J. H. F. VARNEY.

Alton Corner, N. H ... Sunday, July 3d
Melvin Village, N. H ... Sunday, July 10th
Meredith, N. H., (Dolloff Hall) ... Sunday, July 17th
Lake Village, N. H. (North Church) Sun., July 24th
Manchester, N. H ... Sunday, July 31st
A. SIMPSON.

Lincolnville, Me. (Batlof school-house) Sun., July 3d
THOMAS SMITH.

Terryville, Conn. (in Bro. O. T. Yales' neighborhood, or where he may appoint) Sunday, July 3d.
☞ NO NAME.

South Casco ... Sunday, July 3d
J. T. JORDAN.

Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school-house) for baptism, Sunday, July 3d.
JOHN PARSONS.

Bryant's Pond ... evening, July 1st
Colebrook Corner, N. H. (where Bro. J. Little may appoint) Sunday, July 3d.
East Colebrook, Kiddersville ... Sunday, July 10th
U. G. LADD.

If these appointments conflict with others, please write me at Lowell, Mass.
U. G. L.

Seabrook, N. H ... Sundays, July 3d and 10th
Warner Village (Union Hall) ... Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th.
ALLEN DAMON.

Great Works, Me ... Sunday, July 3d
South Elliot, Me ... Sundays, July 10th and 17th
Seabrook, N. H ... Sundays, July 24th and 31st
E. S. MOULTON.

Montgomery, Mass ... Sunday, July 3d
ENOCH PHELPS, JR.

Waterbury, Ct ... Sunday, July 3d
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Swanzey, Mass. (Deacon Wood's farm) Sun., July 3d
EDWIN S. STRAIGHT.

Lincolnville Corner (Free House) ... Sunday, July 3d
JER. CARR.

Hemlock Lake (as Bro. Owen and others may appoint) Sunday, July 3d.
C. F. SWEET.

Dorchester, N. H (Town House) ... Sunday, July 3d
Holderness, N. H. (Carr school-house) Sun., July 10th
Will some Bro. meet me at the Plymouth depot, noon train?
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall) ... Sunday, July 17th
Some Bro. meet me at the Meredith depot, second down train.
East Orford, N. H. (Davis town school-house) Sunday, July 24th. Will Bro. Huckings meet me at Wentworth, July 21st, two o'clock P. M., at G. Deans?
Keene, N. H ... Sunday, July 31st
Hinsdale, N. H ... Sunday, Aug. 7th
Will Bro. Streeter meet me at the Hinsdale depot Aug. 5th, first down train?
Northfield, Mass. (where Bro. Streeter may appoint) Sunday, Aug. 14th.
If any of these appointments conflict, write me immediately at West Rumney, N. H. [illegible]

Lafayette, R. I ... evening, July 6th
Rocky Brook, R. I ... evening, July 7th
Wyoming, R. I ... Sabbath, July 10th
Seabrook, N. H ... evening, July 15th
Portland, Me ... Sabbaths, July 24th and 31st
Kennebunk Depot, Me ... Sabbath, Aug. 7th
South Berwick, Me., (Great Works) ... Sab., Aug. 14th
Seabrook, N. H ... Sabbath, Aug. 21st
C. H. SWEET.

Lawrence, Mass ... Wednesday, June 29th
Wakefield ... Thursday evening, June 30th
Lynn ... Friday, July 1st
Webster ... Sabbath, July 10th
Charlton (Chapel) ... Sunday, July 17th
Will be at Charlton depot 1½ P. M.
H. MUNGER.

I shall be at West Sterling, Mass., June 28th to July 12th. Will preach near that section any evening during that time. Please address me at West Sterling, Mass.
H. K. FLAGG.

Charlton, Mass., Milward ... Sunday, July 3d
Southington, Ct ... Sunday, July 17th
Holden, Mass ... Sunday, July 24th
Z. FORD.

Vernon, Vt ... Sunday, July 3d
WM. SUTHERLAND.

Campton, N. H. (Bump school-house), Sun., July 3d
West Ossipee, N. H ... Sunday, July 10th
C. LOCKE.
J. B. BROWN.

Webster, N. H. (old meeting-house) ... Sab., July 3d
Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall) Sabbath, July 10th
SIMEON ROBY.

Alton Corner, N. H ... Sunday, July 10th
East Rochester, N. H ... Sunday, July 17th
H. M. BRYANT.

Seabrook, N. H ... Thursday evening, June 30th
Portsmouth, N. H ... Friday evening, July 1st
Dover, N. H. (City Hall) ... Sundays, July 3d and 10th
A. A. PHELPS.

New Durham Ridge, N. H ... Sunday, July 3d
Great Falls ... Sunday, July 10th
Dover ... Sunday, July 17th
Wakefield, Mass ... Sunday, July 24th
Stoneham, Mass ... evenings, July 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th
J. PINKHAM.

Cape Porpoise ... Sunday, July 3d
Hollis Centre ... Sunday, July 10th
Bonny Eagle ... Sunday, July 17th
T. P. S. HAMPSON.

Farmington, N. H. (Ricker school-house) ... July 3d
Nottingham, N. H. (where Bro. Rendall may appoint) Sunday, July 10th.
Rye, N. H ... Sunday, July 17th
J. G. SMITH.

Effingham Centre, N. H. (school-house) for baptism, Sunday, July 3d.
MARK STEVENS.

Moultonborough Neck (Middle school-house) Sunday, July 3d.
East Holderness ... Sunday, July 10th
LEVI ALLEN.

Southington, Ct ... Sunday, July 3d
SR. F. A. BOYNTON.

Scitico (Advent Chapel) ... Sunday, July 3d
W. W. ANDREWS.

Putnam, Ct ... Sabbath, July 3d
Square Pond, Ct ... Sabbath, July 10th
Webster, Mass ... Sabbath, July 17th
Woodstock Valley, Ct ... Sabbath, July 24th
P. S. BUTLER.

North Somers, Ct ... Sunday, July 3d
Woodstock Valley, Ct ... Sunday, July 10th
Abington, Ct ... Sunday, July 17th
Square Pond, Ct ... Sunday, July 24th
A. MORSE.

Terryville, Ct. (Bro. O. T Yale's neighborhood) Sunday, July 10th.
Cheshire Street, Ct ... Sunday, July 17th
Meriden, Ct ... Sunday, July 31st
WM. STUART.

Bristol, R. I ... Sabbath, July 3d
J. T. DIXON.

Burlington, Me., Friday, 6 P. M., July 8th, and Sunday, 10th.
Will Mr. Daniel Tibbetts meet me at Lincoln Station on arrival of train from Bangor, about noon?
Folsom's Ridge (Burlington) Tues., 5 P. M., July 12th
At Falls (where Bro. Charles B. Littlefield may appoint), Wednes., July 13th.
Lowell (near tannery of Mr. Webb) Friday, July 15th
Burlington (meeting-house) ... Sunday, July 17th
THOMAS SMITH.

New York City (Cooper Institute) ... Sunday, July 3d
New Britain, Ct ... Sunday, July 10th
Terryville, Ct. (Bro. Yale's neighborhood) July 17th
Wolcottville, Ct ... Sunday, July 24th
CHAS. C. BARKER.

Worcester, Mass ... Sunday, July 3d
R. K. STARK.

Sugar Hill, N. H ... once in two weeks
N. WHEELER.

Springfield, Mass ... Sundays, July 3d and 10th
West Meriden, Ct ... Sunday, July 17th
W. N. PILE.

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., July 3d
D. W. DAVIS.

Sutton Mills, N. H. (Putney's Hall) ... Sabbath, July 3d
L. E. SAULPAUGH.

Nashua, N. H ... Sunday, July 3d
JOSEPH KIMBALL.

Meredith Centre, N. H ... Sunday, July 10th
Meredith Neck ... Sunday, July 17th
N. GLIDDEN.

Hopkinton, N. H. (Sugar Hill school-house) Sabbath, July 3d.
FRANK NELSON.

Farmington Village, N. H ... Sunday, July 3d
Strafford, N. H. (Roberts' school-house) Sun., July 10th
North Narrows, N. H ... Sunday, July 17th
East Rochester, N. H ... Sunday, July 24th
WM. BODGE.

Pleasant Valley, Ct ... Sunday, July 3d
Greenwich, Mass. (North West Dist.) Sun., July 10th
E. OWEN.

Rye, N. H ... Sabbath, July 10th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Edenboro, Erie Co., Pa ... Sunday, July 17th
Rootville, Break Bread ... first Sunday in the month
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Harrisburg, N. Y. (in a grove on the south line of the town) Sunday, July 3d, at 10½ A. M. and 1 P. M.
Greig, N. Y. (Otter Creek school-house) eve., July 5th
Harrisburg, N. Y. Hall Dist.) ... evening, July 7th
Barns' Corners, N. Y ... evening, July 8th
C. H. WILLIAMS.

Swift Water ... five o'clock, Sunday, July 3d
A. A. HOYT.

LOWELL, MASS.
J. W. Thomas ... Sunday, July 3d
Wm. H. Mitchell ... Sunday, July 10th
J. Pinkham ... Sunday, Aug. 7th

CONCORD, N. H., (CENTRE STREET.)
C. H. Fletcher ... Sabbath, July 3d
M. Batchelor ... Sabbath, July 10th
A. Ross ... Sabbath, Aug. 7th

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)
Sr. L. M. Stoddard ... Sunday, July 3d
A. A. Phelps ... Sundays, July 24th and 31st

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
J. Couch ... Sunday, July 3d
Geo. W. Burnham ... Sunday, July 10th
C. H. Sweet ... Sunday, July 17th
Allen Damman ... Sundays, July 24th and 31st
J. H. F. Varney ... Sunday, Aug. 7th

DOVER, N. H.
A. A. Phelps ... Sundays, July 3d and 10th
J. Pinkham ... Sunday, July 17th
T. W. Piper ... Sunday, July 24th
J. W. White ... Sunday, July 31st

LOUDON RIDGE, N. H.
T. E. Lang, Jr ... Sunday, July 3d
L. E. Saulpaugh ... Sunday, July 10th
D. F. Leavitt ... Sunday, July 17th
Joseph Harvey ... Sunday, July 24th
A. Kidder ... Sunday, July 31st

EAST ROCHESTER, N. H.
Wm. H. Mitchell ... Sabbath, July 3d and Mon., July 4th

HAMPTON, N. H.
Edwin Wells ... Sunday, July 3d
Joseph W. White ... Sunday, July 17th

BIDDEFORD, ME.
L. Boutell ... Sabbath, July 3d
Jared Whitman ... Sabbath, July 10th
R. R. York ... Sabbath, July 17th
Geo. W. Burnham ... Sabbath, July 24th

HARTFORD, CT.
S. Woodruff ... Sabbath, July 3d
C. E. Barnes ... Sunday, July 10th
A. Ross ... Sunday, July 17th

WALLINGFORD, CT. (Grove near Bro. Dudley's.)
Wm. A. & M. L. Durand ... Sunday, July 3d
S. C. Hancock ... Sunday, July 10th

PLEASANT VALLEY, CT.
J. S. White ... Sunday, July 24th
H. H. Dickinson ... Sunday, July 10th
R. K. Stark ... Sunday, Aug. 7th
G. L. White ... Sunday, Aug. 21st

SCITICO, CT.
Dr. A. M. Higgins ... Sunday, July 3d
R. K. Stark ... Sunday, July 10th
G. L. White ... Sunday, July 17th
A. D. Flagg ... Sunday, July 24th

NEW BRITAIN, CT.
C. C. Barker ... Sunday, July 10th
A. M. Higgins ... Sunday, July 17th
Wm. Stuart ... Sunday, July 24th
J. S. White ... Sunday, July 31st

BRISTOL, CT.
H. H. Dickinson ... Sabbath, July 3d
R. K. Stark ... Sabbath, July 17th
M. L. Durand ... Sabbath, July 31st

ABINGTON, CT.
C. H. Sweet ... Sabbath, July 3d

HOOSICK, N. Y.
J. Wats[illegible] ... Sunday, July 3d

Business.

Letters Received.

J B Cook, E Owen, J Bickford, L Boutell, M A Elwell, Geo Thomson, E McCullock, F H Bolles, P M Eaton, F H Chamberlain, I Downing, R D Pease, J M Stetler, B Irish, J T Ongley, U N Beardsley, C A Sumner, L E Saulpaugh, H E Willoughby, H N Rose, B L Clark, I C Wellcome, M B Steele, J Blain, B Mathewson.

Cash received for Books and Tracts.

C W Sargent $2.75, J Hemenway $9.00, S Stearns 35c, G W Ashdown $1.15, G W Work 60c, C R Parsons $1.00, N Banning 75c, S S Gardner $1.50, Mrs H Ingalls 50c, G A Hawkins $3.65, O Stannard $5.00, A S Albee $1.25, B O White 35c, B Eastman $1.00, H Rude 70c, A Rice $1.65, G King 35c, J V Himes $3.50, H T Hart $2.70, J S Arnold 45c, J L Buvinger 60c, W H Davis 45c, G W Henson $1.00, E Bellows $3.40, W Tefft $4.75, A B Swainsburg $1.75, W C Peck $1.00, J Dealing $1.15, W Banton $1.50, J Stevens 50c, S L Snell 50c, J Richardson 50c, W J Ketchum $2.00, J M M Gernard $1.35, C S Bushnell 50c, J Underhill 50c, E Pond 50c, L E Pendleton $3.50, M H Manson 35c, Barclay & Co. 40c, C M Keach 35c, R Geyer $5.10, E S Moulton $1.00, R W Wilson $5.00, G Ridler 50c, H T Hart $2.40, W G Churchill $1.00, J Taylor 35c, S E Brown 50c, J Bean 35c, W H Davis 50c, W W Wiley 75c, R V Lyon $1.00, E Urich $2.25, F S Ainsworth $2.70, T Maguire 35c, E S Gage $4.00, R L Harrison $17.75, E N Merriam 50c, W Marlatt 35c, E Miller 50c, J Downing 50c, O F Yale $5.25, C E Barnes 50c, S Roby $1.50, J C Shorey $7.00, M M Darrow 35c, J W Taylor $1.50, J H Hawkins 35c, G Miller $1.50, M Smith 50c, J Hill 50c, A Fiko $2.50.

Books and Tracts Sent.

By Mail—W C Peck, G W Henson, W H Davis 2, J L Buvinger, M Bellemy, H T Hart 2, B Perham, J Dealing, J M M Gernard, B Knepper, L M Adams, J B Woodruff, J A Varney, J Richardson, E E Boyden, H A Purviance, J Underhill, C S Bushnell, S L Snell J Stevens, W Banton, F Burr, J Pine, F Reynolds 2, E N Whitford, Barkley & Co, A N Dagger, N W Smith, A A Christenson, W M Rankin, E C Pease, J P Townsend, R Holden, J V Himes, Mrs A Baldwin, J Lemester, J H Bruce, S L Julian, E Pond, R Pike, M H Manson, G S Haynes, J R Hazzard, W G Churchill, S E Brown, J Taylor, G Ridleon, C M Keach, J Maxim, A Flavell, T Hodges, J Bean, E Urch, C H McCarty, R V Lyon, W W Wiley, A H Walker, E S Moulton, C B Litchfield, T Maguire, Mrs. O E Newman, E N Merriam, E Miller, L H Bingham, J Downing.

By Express—H E Pendleton, R W Wilson, F S Ainsworth, E S Gage, E Morrill, R L Harrison.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents. Postage 8 cts.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be; in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc., etc. Cloth, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Leather back, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.26c; Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERYBODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? A Tract on War. Price 10c, postage 2c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 6c.

THE FIRST DAY SABBATH. By T. M. Preble. A new and interesting work. pp. 471. Price $1.50.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5 cts. single; by mail, 7 cts.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M Preble. 15c. postage 2 cts., or by mail 17 cts.

TWO HUNDRED STORIES FOR CHILDREN. By Elder T. M. Preble. pp. 234. 80c. by mail.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. By Thomas Carlyle. 3c. single; 5c. by mail; 20c. per dozen.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR; or, Spiritualism; What it is, and what it is not. Paper covers, $1.00; by mail; cloth, $1.25 by mail.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

VOICE OF THE THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, Retribution, and Will all Men be Saved? By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man, with various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper, 50c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church; By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times to Daniel and John. On Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

THAT MAN OF SIN. By Eld. O. R. Fassett. To which is added "The Only Hope." Price, 5c. single; postage 2c. 50c. per dozen; postage 6c.

Any of the above will be sent by mail on receipt of the price.

THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley. 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.

"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages By mail, 25c. per 100 copies.

"Historic Echoes of the Voice of God."

AN EXPOSITION OF THE ELEVENTH CHAPTER OF DANIEL.

BY ELDER J. COUCH.

Price 15 cents single copy. $1.50 per dozen. $10.00 per one hundred.

"ADVENTISM."

We have a supply of this valuable work.
Price in cloth ... 75 cts., postage 12 cts.
Flexible covers ... 60 cts., postage 12 cts.
Paper covers ... 50 cts., postage 6 cts.
In paper covers by the dozen, by express, $4.75.

For the World's Crisis.

ONLY WAITING.

Only waiting for the dawning
Of that bright and glorious day,
When the shadows shall be banished,
And the darkness flee away.

Only waiting till its brightness
Shall illumine all the earth,
And our sorrows and our weakness
Flee as though they ne'er had birth.

In that day the skies shall kindle
With a new and radiant flame,
In the clouds "our Life" appeareth,
And we with him then shall reign.

Watch and wait, for when He cometh,
Those who're watching will he claim;
Then his saints shall triumph gloriously,
On their brows have his new name.

Through the gates, into the city,
They shall then be ushered in,
From their hearts all care be banished,
Tears no more their eyes shall dim.

In that bright and beauteous city,
There shall ne'er be known a night;
Jesus' face shall make it radiant,
Our Lord God shall be its light.

Watch and wait, then, for the coming
Of the long expected King,
And we shall with those who've waited,
Join the song which then shall ring

In a glad and joyful chorus,—
Glory, blessing, honor, power,
Be unto the Lamb who sitteth
On the throne forevermore.

Philad. R. J. HOFFNER.

CHRISTIAN UNION.*

(Continued.)

The glorious plan of restitution, with Jesus for its Head and Executive, has in every stage of its development manifested, as its central characteristic, the great principle of social harmony and peace. This was the alpha and omega with Christ. It was heard in every utterance, and seen in every act.

The oneness which existed between Christ and the Father was perfect, and was presented in the Gospel as a pattern of the oneness which should exist between the followers of Christ. Christ's life and experience here was a series of temptations and trials, to prove to whom he would yield obedience and associate with in harmony and union—the God of heaven, or the god of this world. The difference between the two may be known by the contrast between the two worlds, for each world will manifest the spirit and character of its head and ruler. God is a being of harmony and peace; Satan, of discord and strife. This world is full of contention and war; the next world will be full of union and peace. God is the author of life; Satan, of death. Death triumphs in this world; in the next world there will be no death.

Jesus, in his trials and temptations, was found in perfect oneness with his Father; as he said, "I and my Father are one." Again, to show this great truth more fully, Jesus says, "He that hath seen me, hath seen the Father"; that is, hath seen the Father clearly and truly represented, as appears from the context, in which he says, "The words that I speak unto you, I speak not of myself, but the Father that dwelleth in me, he speaketh the words." Christ has therefore become the divinely appointed exponent of God's law, and the qualified revealer of eternal truth.

God's law and truth are immutable, like himself; therefore the laws which in the beginning were given and established for the government of his earthly kingdom, must be the same as these which regulate that kingdom when it shall be restored by Christ. The great work of Christ, as revealed in the Gospel, is, to restore that kingdom to its original status, as established by Jehovah.

The first part of that work is, to provide the means by which its subjects shall be prepared to come into union and harmony with the King, the laws, and everything pertaining to the kingdom. To prepare men for the kingdom of God, is to remove from them that which has caused separation and broken the harmony existing between man and his Creator. The cause of that separation was sin. Therefore sin, and its effects, must be removed. Sin and the sinner are bound together by a violated and immutable law, which holds the transgressor under its penalty until that penalty is fully executed.

The penalty of the divine law against sin is the taking of the blood and life of the sinner, so that he can never be separated from his sins or released from the penalty, until the law is either broken, or its demands on the sinner met. The law could not possibly be made dishonorable by being broken in releasing the sinner without taking his life. There was then but one alternative by which the sinner could be separated from his sins, and prepared for the kingdom of God; and that was in having Christ meet the penalty of the law by a sacrifice of his own life. But who can become the sinner's sacrifice? Who can answer the demands of the law, in his stead, so that the blood and life of the sacrifice can be accepted as the sinner's blood and life, and thus the sinner be discharged?

When the sinner meets the penalty himself, he has only paid it by losing his life and being, which deprives him of the privilege of being restored; for when his life and existence are gone, so that "he shall be as though" he "had not been," how can he have oneness with God?

But some may say that if Christ died for all, as a sacrifice, then he paid the penalty for all; the law will have no demand against them, and therefore all sinners will be saved. But remember this, that the Scriptures clearly teach that Christ's death avails for sinners conditionally. Do they not teach that Christ died for all, and also that he died "in vain" for some? If Christ died for all, then all could be benefited by that death; for it is a paradox, to say that he died for those who could not be saved by his death. If Christ died "in vain" for some, then they will not be benefited by the death which could have saved them; consequently, the salvation which comes through the death of Christ is conditional.

The first condition upon which Christ's death is made available for the salvation of the sinner, is, that he shall by faith accept of Christ's death as a substitute, reckoning Christ as "our passover," "redemption," "sacrifice," "and priest." What is a passover? In the type it is a lamb slain, not for the benefit of itself, but to save the life of men, on condition that they appropriate "the blood" for that purpose. Redemption is the act of delivering from the bondage of sin, and from its penalty, making the enslaved one free. Christ hath redeemed us from the curse (or penalty) of the law (having suffered that penalty himself, for "cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree"); "being made a curse for us." Gal. 3:13. Sacrifice is an offering made for sin, and when Christ became our sacrifice, he must have been offered for our sins, and not for his own. A priest is one who offers "gifts and sacrifices" for others; "wherefore, it is of necessity that this man have somewhat also to offer," and this he did, when "once, in the end of the world, . . . he appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself."

The second condition upon which the death of Christ is substituted for ours, is, that we give ourselves to Christ and become his in the most unqualified and absolute sense. We must acknowledge his right to use and dispose of us according to his own will, admitting that "he hath purchased us with his own blood." We must also acknowledge Christ as our Redeemer from a hopeless condition, in which we had bartered away our right to exist, and forfeited our being. We owe to Jesus, then, our very existence, and have no right to claim as our own anything that we have or are, or use it contrary to his will. We have no right to serve ourselves, or our dearest friends, in any way contrary to Jesus' bidding; not even to go and bury a father, when Christ requires us in another place.

Jesus having opened the way by which he can save a fallen and ruined world, has commenced the work by first raising sinful humanity out of the pit of discord, war and death, into which they had sunk by transgression. Their fall consists first in breaking the social relations which existed between man and his God, and between the sons of men. That social relation was designed to be manifested prominently in worship.

Worship is a series of acts performed by two parties, the worshiper and the worshiped, each occupying different positions in the social relations. The being who is worshiped must be esteemed by the worshipers as their glorious superior, so that their acts of worship will be controlled by the principles of love and adoration; while the being who is worshiped must look upon his worshipers as friends, the objects of his care and love. The result must be a glorious oneness and harmony between the parties.

As the great central object and purpose of God in the creation of man was, evidently, to produce the most happy and intimate relations between himself and his creatures, man was made to express that oneness and union in words of holy devotion and songs of purest love.

The perfection of the work of restoring fallen men to their original happy position in union and harmony with God, can always be tested by the perfection of their worship. If their union with Christ is only nominal, and their union with Satan is real, then their worship will be controlled by the spirit and customs of this world, of which Satan is "the prince"; but if they are truly Christ's, their worship will be controlled by the Spirit and commandments of God, and be a true type of worship in the kingdom of heaven.

As our union with God is manifested in our worship, so, in the same way, is our Christian union with each other manifested. If two are united to Christ as their Teacher, they must be united to each other in his teaching; and if they each accept of Christ as their Leader, they will surely walk in the same way, doing the same things.

We can accept of Christ only when we acknowledge him to be God's Son and representative; for, if we deny this, we make Christ and his Father both false teachers, and so reject them both. We can accept of God only when we acknowledge him the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ; for, by inspiration, he said of Jesus, "Thou art my Son," and, at the baptismal waters, with an audible voice he said, "This is my beloved Son." If we say Christ is not God's Son, we make God a liar, and no God; for "God cannot lie."

Christ and the Father are one and indivisible, and cannot be separated in our faith, love and worship; for, if we believe in one, we shall believe in the other; if we reject one, we reject the other. The union is perfect and indivisible. This is the first and sample link of the great chain of restored harmonies in the kingdom of God.

The second link in the chain, is the union between Christ and his people; for, as Christ and the Father are one, so Christ and his people are one.

The third link in the heavenly harmony, is the oneness between the followers of Christ, as Jesus prayed, "That they may be one, even as we are one."

How do we know that Christ and the Father are one, and perfectly united? Because Jesus came, and in every particular filled the prophetic picture which God had given of his Son; doing all the work which the Father had purposed that he should do, and doing it willingly, proving thereby that they had but one will and one spirit, and were moved by the same great principles in the divine oneness.

By this we prove that Mary's Son was the predicted Messiah, and that all who have since come professing to be the Messiah, and not filling the picture nor doing the work, were false Christs.

In the same way we prove that Christ and his people are one. Christ has given in the gospel as perfect a picture of his people, as God by Moses and the prophets had given of his Son. Christ has also given to his church as perfect instruction of his will as God had given to his Son. The rule, therefore, by which we test the Messiahship of Jesus will also test our christianity. Jesus said, "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." It follows, therefore, that if love is the proof of discipleship, strife and hatred among the professed followers of Christ must disprove their discipleship.

Again, Jesus says of his people, "I have given them thy word, and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world." John 17:14. Will Christ's people answer the description given of them by the Saviour in these passages and many others of the same class? I answer, they will, if Jesus gave a correct description of them; and if his people do not correspond with the picture, that fact would prove that the Father did not send him. "That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me and I in thee; that they also may be one in us; that the world may believe that thou has sent me" John 17:21. The evidence that Christ was the sent of God consists in the oneness which he produces in his people.

Therefore, if the people who put themselves under the control of Christ and the power of his gospel, are not made one, it would prove that Christ had failed to accomplish the work which the Father had designed to be done; consequently, that the Father had not sent and empowered him to do it.

From this it appears that, if we accept Christ as the predicted Saviour, because he answers the description given of him in the divine record, by the same rule we must accept those of his disciples who answer the description given of them in the same record; for, if the testimony is valid in its application to one, it is equally valid in its application to the other. Therefore whoever receives Jesus Christ, by faith in the word of God, receives his disciples also; and whoever despises and rejects his disciples, despises and rejects him;—as he said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Matt. 25:40. How wonderful the expression! How grand the sentiment! No language could more beautifully and sweetly tell the story of holy union and heavenly oneness, than is here used by the great Teacher.

Let us, then, dear brethren, walk softly and prayerfully in the midst of Jesus' friends. Make no heart throb with sorrow, by strife and contention; make no tears fall from christian eyes, by adopting unscriptural rules or Babylonish measures, for Jesus' great heart feels it all.

(To be continued.)

* A tract of 50 pp., by Eld. J. Couch, being an Address delivered before the National Advent Conference of North America, at Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 1869. For sale at this office.

DARE TO BE RIGHT.

Dare to be right, dare to be true,
You have a work that no other can do;
Do it so bravely, so kindly, so well,
Angels will hasten the story to tell.

Dare to be right, dare to be true,
Other men's failures can never save you;
Stand by your conscience, your honor, your faith,
Stand like a hero and battle till death.

Dare to be right, dare to be true,
Love may deny you the sunshine and dew;
Let the dew fail, for then showers will be given;
Dew is from earth, but the showers are from heaven.

Dare to be right, dare to be true,
God who created you cares for you too;
Treasures the tears that his striving ones shed,
Counts and protects every hair of your head.

Dare to be right, dare to be true,
Cannot Omnipotence carry you through?
City, and mansion, and throne all in sight,
Can you not dare to be true and be right?

Dare to be right, dare to be true,
Keep the great judgment seat always in view;
Look at your work as you'll look at it then,
Scanned by Jehovah, and angels, and men.

Dare to be right, dare to be true,
Prayerfully, lovingly, firmly pursue
The pathway by saints and by seraphim trod,
The pathway that climbs to the city of God.

—Selected by Carrie W. Bixby.

For the World's Crisis.

THE YOUNG MINISTER.

Heaven succor and sustain him! Premising that God's modus operandi in calling men to fill this sacred office, is not changed from what it was eighteen hundred years since, let us consider some of the difficulties he necessarily encounters, and I think we shall be satisfied he needs the prayers and sympathy of the church, as well as the compassion of the great Eternal.

His age may be twenty, thirty, forty, or even fifty years, ere the mighty mandate like an unbidden guest forces itself upon him. At first, he answers negatively, saying, I am in no condition to fulfill so responsible a commission, as he takes a mental glance of his education, business, family, etc. The Holy Reprover then reminds him of his consecration vow, when God spake peace to his wounded spirit, and freely forgave him all with the promise of prompt obedience to the voice of the great Shepherd. His agitated and troubled breast heaves the deep drawn sigh—Oh, Lord! It may be he is a merchant, with what is termed a good business education, fair position in society, etc.

Memory calls upon him to reflect upon the scrutinizing criticism passed upon ministers, especially when they first enter the functions of their sacred office; and his wounded heart declares I cannot preach; for in this day it is considered indispensable for ministers to spend years in theological schools, becoming familiar with biblical language, exegesis, etc. How humiliating and crushingly embarassing to commence here, especially if he be of middle age or past; people will expect more of me on account of my age, forgetting the public speaker has a painful alphabet to learn, and a severe grapple with the awkwardness of a new beginner.

Then, there is my family to be educated. Wife willingly relinquishes comforts that I may avert the impending woe; but my children, so buoyant with hope and life, cannot appreciate such a call. O my God! cannot I be saved and continue as I am? Most willingly I will impart of my substance to support the dispensation of thy word; but do, I pray thee, excuse me from a work I feel so incompetent to perform.

Like a faithful parent to the incorrigible child, the Spirit has a threatening aspect; bringing to his mind Scripture of like import with the following: "And that servant, which knew his Lord's will, and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes." He reflects, and makes up his mind that he cannot forego the joys of the coming kingdom; and as implicit obedience is the only alternative, if he will be in Eden restored, he humbles himself, and ventures forward, singing, "Jesus, I my cross have taken."

Again, it may be a professional man, young, just about to enter upon the duties of his profession; has labored hard to fit himself for the honorable calling, when the Spirit's voice whispers in his ear—Go preach the coming kingdom, to rescue souls from death. He attends meetings more frequently—exhorts, and prays earnestly, but still his conscience is ill at ease, while the faithful Spirit opportunely reproves. He considers and hesitates, as he looks at the responsibility of being a savor of life unto life, or of death unto death.

He weighs the matter once more, and finally ventures to mention it to his family and friends, who have assisted him to procure his education. They are disappointed, and manifest by word and gesture strong marks of disapprobation. The load sinks heavy upon him as he breathes out, Ah, Lord! must I leave all? Here are my colleagues and acquaintance allowed to pursue their callings, while ever and anon they turn a doubtful glance upon me as though I were a weak-minded enthusiast, or fanatic. But the sacred rejoinder is, "What is that to thee? follow thou me."

After passing through a few more similar ordeals he makes his debut. Though he has tasted much of classic lore, he finds it no easy matter to arrange sermons for all occasions. He finds human wisdom, be it never so deep, inadequate to reach the hearts and consciences of men. He is brought low, and often feels the necessity of frequent attendance upon the same kind of school in which the fishermen of Galilee were educated. Happy the man who has learned the entrance into this holy institution, relying upon the promise—"If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him." If he keep his eye fixed on his Master, holding frequent communion with him, he will succeed in maintaining a happy adieu to worldly honors and luxurious comforts. But if he allow the lust of the eye to possess his heart, he will probably murmur and complain when he sees others with richer equipage than himself.

Then there is the farmer or mechanic, who has sometime enjoyed the evidence of sins forgiven, as he draws a little nearer the Divine presence feels pressed in spirit to go out into contiguous districts and hold meetings. But by no means does he concede the fact that he is called to preach. O no, that cannot be possible. But something within constrains him; he cannot rest unless he will hold meetings. This excites no particular opposition from friends or foes; lay members often do as much. But when the sacred monitor suggests another step onward, a conflict ensues, and one of no ordinary nature. If he dare open his heart to any one, it would be a relief; but he is ashamed to say that one so incompetent as himself feels called to preach. He recollects that even the educated and inspired Paul wistfully inquired, "Who is sufficient for these things?" All the day long his heart is oppressed, and aggravated with the load, but anticipates a little relief when night shall wrap earth in her sable mantle. He thus comforts himself—"My bed shall comfort me, my couch shall ease my complaint." But are his anticipations realized? Nay, verily. "He is full of tossings to and fro unto the dawning of the day."

At last he ventures to relieve his overburdened heart by speaking to some christian friend upon the subject. This friend confers with other kindred spirits, and prayerful sympathy is elicited in his behalf, and an appointment for preaching is given out in the school-house. Neighbors A, B, and C, con the thing over, animadverting freely upon his moral and intellectual qualities, determining to gratify their curiosity by listening to the debutant; while he, poor fellow, almost worn out with moral war, is partly incited to this step by threatenings, as well as promises, the faithful monitor having indelibly written it upon the tablet of his memory, "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel." And Esther-like he says, "I can but perish," therefore I'll try; so committing his perturbed being once more into the hands of a faithful Creator, he goes to the place of appointment.

As he arises to speak, his family and personal friends sit with downcast eyes and palpitating heart, imploring meanwhile divine help in his behalf. He hurries through his little sermon the best he can, and when he thinks the time has arrived to step upon the platform of exhortation, he is at home, breathes more freely, his whole contour is more natural, and gladsome eyes look hopefully upon him as he sits down. That sweet monitor which has menaced as well as encouraged him, whispers in his ear, "Be of good courage," for "lo, I am with you alway." A few speak encouragingly, and close with one of the most exhilarating of Zion's songs, and he retires to his home to enjoy sweeter sleep than has been experienced for months.

But do his trials end here? Nay, verily. He has only just commenced learning how to be abased and how to abound; to be full and to be hungry; to be buffeted and despised. 1 Cor. 4:11-13; Eph. 4:12. Though that Being on Patmos Isle who filled the beloved disciple with holy awe, informs us that he walks in the midst of the churches, and holds his ministers in his right hand, yet he does not promise an exit of perplexities, and an entire banishment of human infirmities, but shows conclusively that all are to expect tribulation in the world, but peace in Christ.

This young messenger understands something of this teaching, and thus continues to hold forth in the school-house, until some friend thinks it time he should take another step; and knowing the pastor in —— is going to be absent, he inquires of Bro. Intellectual if it would not be best to invite this young minister to fill the desk? "What! that young ——? I think we have several in our church who can do as well as he." A few words on the duty of encouraging young ministers, and it is conceded that he shall be invited to fill the desk. One brother helps the matter forward by stating he once was present, when he followed the minister with most touching pathos, and for his part he should like to hear him. Another had heard him exhort at camp-meeting when filled with triumphant zeal, and thus hope was inspired for the occasion.

He came; but the people accustomed to riper talent, soon observed his tremulous hesitancy, which somewhat dampened their appreciation of his subject; forgetting that many of superior talent are often abashed at a change, though the change may not require half the ability. For instance, let the minister who has preached to large congregations for years, be called upon to repeat a little short ceremony in solemnizing matrimony, with perhaps no more than fifteen or twenty present; ten to one if he does not feel the necessity of considerable exertion to keep himself well poised.

Again, one who has prayed in the family may and very likely will feel trepidation the first time he returns thanks at table. What marvel then, if one should not manifest self-possession the first time he mounts the sacred rostrum? If he is suitably affected with the importance of the awful message he is to carry to sinful men, will he not tremble? But the question is, Will the church do their duty in encouraging young ministers? Will they succor and nourish them in word and deed? If so, they themselves shall be fed. But if they think it a light matter whether they receive whom God has sent, notwithstanding he have some human infirmities, let them beware! I am glad this young messenger did not hear the animadversions on his efforts when he supplied the desk at ——. The brethren who had heard him exhort were somewhat disappointed, though they owned he talked tolerably well.

But, Bro. Intellectual, next time the desk is vacated, let it be understood you will fill it, or call upon some of your well-to-do brethren, and see if it be an easy matter. I would like to be one of your congregation. My opinion is, it would beget more sympathy for the young minister. Well, Heaven will pity him, whether you and I do or not; and what if we are not in sympathy with Heaven? Echo answers, What?

BEULAH MATHEWSON.
Castleton, Vt., June, 1870.

For the World's Crisis.

CHASING A REVIVAL.—No. 3.

In the further pursuit of this subject, we wish to ascertain the cause of the incontinence of revival work; and we will quote a few sentences from an article upon the Lay Work Era in the Christian History, from the Christian World.

Described in the phraseology of ecclesiasticism, Christianity itself was, in its origin, a lay movement. Jesus of Nazareth, related to the ecclesiasticism of his day, was a layman. . . . His disciples were also laymen, until he, a layman, ordained them by mere appointment. . . . If the leaders were laymen, of course their converts mainly were. . . . The ferment of testimony, and the ferment of work, pervaded the whole mass and body of believers. They all talked 'Jesus and the resurrection.' It was an age of mighty preaching, but the preaching was the consummate flower of a more consummate fruit of work which followed it, re-enforced it, conserved its results, and wrought out its instructions into facts and results. Every page of early Christian history attests this description. The whole laity was a host of work, and its ranks furnished martyrs by the thousand. Then came the secularization of Christianity under and subsequent to Constantine, quickly followed by the incipiency of the Roman Papacy in the assertions of the Metropolitan See.

From this age began the slow, long, and finally general decline of Christianity, which culminated in the dark ages. What was the great characteristic of the masses of nominal christian membership, the Papal population of Europe, during that medieval darkness? Was it not emphatically the absence of all lay activity in the practical life of Christianity? There was not even room for it. The very place for it in the economy of the church was destroyed. The practical worship and expression of Christianity had been so completely perverted, that they contained nothing for ordinary laymen to do. Priestly pageants, mummeries, and manipulations, made up the whole. Such a working laity as marked the apostolic age would have been burned; yea, was burned at the stake, whenever it chanced to crop out in sundry incipient reformations.

As we have before stated, when the church emerged out of this darkness it left its apostolic usages behind, and a new order of tactics was instituted; and then commenced the era of periodical revivals.

The formalities and ceremonies of the papacy had rendered the masses of mankind passive, and without spiritual life or vitality. It was like the waters of the sea to which mankind is sometimes compared; but when Martin Luther launched his bark upon its placid waters, there was first a ripple, then a commotion, then a storm, and then a terrible whirlwind; but in time it died away, and a calm ensued.

Then the Wesleys came upon the stage of action, and remarkable revivals followed their labors; and we think that these and other reformers, evangelists, and revivalists, have done much to indoctrinate mankind into the belief that revivals must necessarily be periodical, and accompanied by the labors of revivalists.

We admit that in all reformatory movements, either social, political, or religious, there must be leaders, order, and system; but Christianity in this enlightened land is common to all, and whoever has been born of the Spirit into this new life, should emphatically be a revivalist.

But my motto is—Short prayers, exhortations, and communications. So I will charge again hereafter. D. N. SMITH.

Gems.

— Hard as it is to understand the difficult parts of the Bible, it is a great deal harder to practise the simple parts.

— Attention is the duty we owe to others, cleanliness that which we owe to ourselves.

— Handle rough-sided men carefully. It pays to take a little time when you are opening chestnut-burs.

— Keep yourselves from opportunities, and God will keep you from sin.

— Men often boast of progress when they are only moving in a circle; and are sure they are in the right path, because with every circuit the foot-prints multiply, when they are only following their own tracks.

— Weigh right if you sell dear.

— Hope is the dawn of joy, and memory its twilight.

— No character can be lastingly injured by a fearless discharge of duty. Calumny or prejudice may obscure it for a time, but in the end it will shine the brighter for the clouds which obscure it.

— If one would get at the bottom of the counsels of God, one must look at his glory.

— It is not the station that we fill which is of importance, so much as the light we send forth from it. There is no condition, however humble, which precludes the zealous christian from doing something to the honor and praise of his God.

— Death is deaf and hears no denial.

— The man who loves truth with all his heart, likewise loves those who suffer for the sake of truth.

— There is no exclusive truth in poetry. It belongs to him who recognizes it.

— Happiness is in the taste, not in the thing; and we are made happy possessing what we ourselves love, not what others think lovely.

— Jesus had the taste of heaven in every thing he did, and the world cannot bear this.

— There are always warnings that we have neglected previous to chastisements.

— The Bible is a light-house, not designed to give particular information in regard to the country where it stands, but to enable tempest-tossed mariners to gain a safe harbor.

— In the current of life beware of the gulf of intemperance.

— As the best tempered sword is the most flexible, so the truly generous are the most pliant and courteous to their inferiors.

— We often omit the good we might do in consequence of thinking about that which it is out of our power to do.

— Divine consolations are those nearest to us when human assistances are furthest from us.

— A man without discretion is a vessel without a helm, which, however rich the cargo, is in continual danger of being wrecked.

— Years do not make sages; they only make old men.

— A good rule—to keep good company, and be one of the number.

— We hear the rain fall, but not the snow. Bitter grief is loud, calm grief is silent.

— Imprudence frequently arises from a desire to please, and the fear of not succeeding.

— Education begins the gentleman; but reading, good company and reflection, must finish him.

— Regret not a golden age that is behind you. There is one before, and it beckons to you.

The Children's Corner.

PLEDGE OF THE TRY COMPANY.

We, the Undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from Tea, Coffee, Tobacco, and all Intoxicating Drinks as a Beverage.

THE CREATION.

All things bright and beautiful,
All creatures great and small,
All things wise and wonderful,
The Lord God made them all.

Each little flower that opens,
Each little bird that sings,
He made their glowing colors,
He made their tiny wings.

The rich man in his castle,
The poor man at his gate,
God made them, high or lowly,
And ordered their estate.

The purple-headed mountain,
The river running by,
The sunset and the morning
That brightens up the sky;

The tall trees in the greenwood,
The meadows where we play,
The rushes by the water
We gather every day;

He gave us eyes to see them,
And lips, that we might tell
How great is God Almighty,
Who has made all things well.

—School-Day Visitor.

ABOUT SILENT LIES.

There were prizes to be given in Willie's school, and he was very anxious to merit one of them. Willie was behind the other boys in all his studies except writing. As he had no hope to excel in anything but writing, he made up his mind to try for the special prize for that with all his might. And he did try so that his copy-book would have done honor to a boy twice his age. When the prizes were awarded, the chairman of the committee held up two copy-books, and said: "It would be difficult to say which of these two books is better than the other, but for one copy in Willie's, which is not only superior to Charlie's, but to every other copy in the same book. This copy, therefore, gains the prize."

Willie's heart beat high with hope, which was not unmixed with fear. Blushing to his temples, he said: "Please, sir, may I see that copy?"

"Certainly," replied the chairman, looking somewhat surprised.

Willie glanced at the copy, and then handing the book back, said, "Please, sir, that is not my writing. It was written by an upper class boy, who took my book by mistake one day, instead of his own."

"Oh, oh," said the chairman, "that may alter the case." The two books went back to the committee, who, after comparing them carefully, awarded the prize to Charlie. The boys laughed at Willie. One said he was silly to say anything about the mistake.

"I wouldn't have told," said another.

"Nor I," added a third boy, laughing. "The copy was in your book, and you had a right to enjoy the benefit of it."

But in spite of all their quizzing Willie felt that he was right. "It would not have been the truth," he replied, "if I had not told who wrote the copy. I would rather hold fast the truth than have the prize, for the truth is better than gold."

"Hurrah for Willie!" "Three cheers for Willie! Well done, Willie!" shouted the boys, and Willie went home to his work happier than he could have done if by means of a silent lie he had won the prize.—The Children's Friend.

THE RETURNING ANSWERS.

Hear the story of the child which went forth into the mountain ravine. Whilst the child wandered there, he called aloud to break the loneliness, and heard a voice which called to him in the same tone. He called again, and, as he thought, the voice again mocked him. Flushed with anger, he rushed to find the boy who insulted him, but found none. He then called out to him in anger, and with all abusive epithets—all of which was faithfully returned to him. Choking with rage, the child ran to his mother, and complained that a boy in the woods had abused and insulted him with many vile words. But the mother took her child by the hand, and said; "My child, these names were but the echoes of thine own voice. Whatever thou didst call was returned to thee from the hill-side. Hadst thou called out pleasant words, pleasant words had returned to thee. Let this be thy lesson through life. The world will be the echo of thine own spirit. Treat thy fellows with unkindness and they will answer with unkindness; with love, and thou shalt have love. Send forth sunshine from thy spirit, and thou shalt never have a clouded day; carry about a vindictive spirit, and even in the flowers shall lurk curses. Thou shalt receive ever what thou givest, and that alone." Always, said the speaker, is that child in the mountain passes—and every man and every woman is that child.

PEARLS OF LIFE.

One afternoon, many years ago, a pleasant-faced man came into our school-room. We can remember but little of his appearance, except the sweet smile that played about his lips and that seemed to spread out all over his face as he spoke. Our teacher requested him to talk to us a little while. He complied, and his words have been as treasured jewels ever since. We think that the bright smile and the calm, winning voice had much to do with our remembering them so distinctly. This was his speech:

"Would it not please you, dear little ones, to pick up strings of pearls, drops of gold and diamonds, as you pass along the street? It would make you happy, I know, to do so. And you may do it, but you ask me how? I will tell you. By dropping sweet words, kind actions, and pleasant smiles, as you pass along. These are the true pearls and precious stones. Speak to that poor orphan child; see! the diamond drops from her cheek. Take the hand of that friendless boy—bright pearls flash from his eyes; smile on the sad and careworn, a joy suffuses the cheek, more brilliant than the most precious gems. Try it, dear children, and you will feel happier when resting on your pillow at the close of the day, than if you had picked up a score of glistening jewels. The brightness of the one will fade while the brilliancy of the other will grow brighter and brighter with the years of our lives."

"I WILL NOT GAMBLE."—Two boys had each ten cents. "Come, Charlie," said Tommy, "let us have a game of marbles, and stake our ten cents."

"Charlie, Charlie, show me your colors!" cried a third boy.

"I will not gamble, Tommy," said Charlie, "for it is a sin. If you win my ten cents, I shall feel bad, and if I win yours, you will feel bad, and I shall be sorry; so let us keep our money till we can spend it for something we want, or, at any rate, for something to show for it."

BEING PUSHED TO JESUS.—A christian mother was showing her little girl a picture of Jesus holding an infant in his arms, while the mothers were crowding their children toward him.

"There, Carrie," said her mother, "that is what I would have done with you if I had been there."

"I wouldn't be pushed to Jesus," said little Carrie, with touching earnestness; "I'd go to him without pushing."

☞ A bright little boy while gazing at the starry sky, one night exclaimed: "Mother, if the wrong side of heaven is so beautiful, what will the right side be!"

☞ A guilty conscience stings far deeper than the keenest lash.

P. O. Address of Preaching Brethren.

Massachusetts.

C. Goodrich—No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.
Enoch Morrill—Crisis Office, Boston.
J. S. White—98 Decatur Street, East Boston.
J. Couch—Chelsea.
I. K. Lombard—Chelsea.
L. Boswell—Chelsea.
S. W. Thurber—Chelsea.
T. M. Preble—Chelsea.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls.
Geo. A. Brown—Plymouth.
D. Churchill—Lowell.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford.
S. S. Brewer—Ashburnham Depot.
H. Pratt—Springfield, 57 Cedar Street.
Z. Ford—Box 202, Springfield.
W. N. Pile—Springfield.
P. S. Butler—Collins Depot.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana.
Alvah Bean—Lowell.
J. W. Thomas—Lowell, 15 Rock Street.
Benj. Finney—Wakefield.
S. S. Brazee—Cold Spring.
W. H. Hathaway—North Carver.
Rufus Baker—Warren.
J. W. Brittan—Westboro.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—Palmer.
H. K. Flagg—Savoy.
E. Owen—Westfield, Lock Box 616.

Maine.

S. K. Partridge—North Whitefield.
I. C. Wellcome—Yarmouth.
H. D. Reed—Richmond.
H. S. Mitchell—Richmond.
J. Carr—South Albion.
Israel Damman—Corinna.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills.
C. Goud—Topsham.
Jesse Gay—Norway.
Thomas Smith—Bangor.
Thomas Rhynes—Augusta.
R. R. York—Portland.
M. B. Patterson—Richmond.
J. Albert Libby—West Poland.
J. T. Jordan—West Poland.
E. M. Haggett—Livermore.
F. A. Baker—Levant.
Jared Whitman—Mechanic Falls.
H. B. Berry—Mt. Vernon.
M. W. Corliss—Milltown.
N. G. Reed—Bath.
Wm. H. Mitchell—Kennebunk.

New Hampshire.

L. C. & M. McKinstry—Lake Village.
A. W. Sibley—West Thornton.
A. Simpson—Concord.
D. N. Chadsey—Whitefield.
Caleb Richardson—Salem Depot.
N. C. Twombly—Strafford Center.
E. Cotton—Newport.
Daniel Eastman—East Canaan.
J. B. Brown—Laconia.
A. A. Hoyt—North Haverhill.
T. R. Lang, Jr.—Meredith Village.
E. S. Moulton—Whitefield.
Wm. C. Stewart—Exeter, Box 227.
John H. Evans—Holderness.
Levi Allen—Lake Village.
Allen Damon—Lake Village.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff.
Joseph Kimball—Unity.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover.
N. B. McMurphy—Gilmanton.
A. Ross—Amherst.
C. H. Fletcher—Newport.
T. L. Hall—Keene.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport.
S. S. Mooney—Pittsfield.
N. Wheeler—Sugar Hill.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426, Concord
Simeon Roby—Warner.
D. F. Leavitt—London Ridge.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia.
J. G. Smith—Farmington.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth.
N. Glidden—Meredith Center.

Vermont.

H. F. Carpenter—North Springfield.
Z. T. Wood—Springfield.
J. A. Cleaveland—North Hydepark.
A. Gordon—Canaan.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
U. G. Ladd—Barnston, Ways Mills, P. Q.

Rhode Island.

M. R. Phetteplace—West Gloucester.
D. O. Hopkins—North Foster.
B. Roberts—Knightsville.
A. Durfee—Westerly, Box 334.
J. T. Dixon—Rocky Brook.
C. H. Sweet—Natick.
Geo. A. Cole—317 No. Main St., Providence.

Connecticut.

William J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley.
S. M. Tatro—No. 51 Windsor St., Hartford
H. H. Dickenson—Hartford.
P. S. Butler—West Woodstock.
W. S. Campbell—New Britain.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted.
Wm. A. Durand—Cheshire.
S. Woodruff—Unionville.
B. St. John—Wolcottville.
J. L. Wood—Collinsville.
Dr. Samuel Wellis Treat—Middlebury
Geo. L. Teeple—New Haven, 189 Orchard Street.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville.
A. D. Flagg—Terrington.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford.
E. Bellows—South Killingly.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville

New York.

Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
E. S. Jennings—Knowlesville, Orleans Co.
J. B. Cook—Brooklyn.
Wm. Ingmire—Lincklaen, Chenango Co.
Jacob Blain—Buffalo, 79 Division Street.
Chas. P. Greenman—Rapids, Niagara Co.
Arthur King—146 Nassau Street, New York.
R. V. Lyon—Suspension Bridge.
Wm. A. Fenn—Rochester.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester.
Z. Dubois Baird—N. Greenwich, Washington Co.
C. Pike—Hebron, Washington Co.
C. H. Leverton—Honeoye, Ontario Co.
J. H. Whitmore—East Shelby, Orleans Co.
C. F. Sweet—Albion, Orleans Co.
Warren J. Hobbs—Honeoye Falls.
C. W. Low—Fredonia.
M. R. Miles—Wolcott, Wayne Co.
J. Wilbur—West Hoosick, Rensselaer Co.
A. C. Newell—Darien City.
C. H. Williams—West Martinsburg.
B. P. Stevens—South Butler.
D. Cogswell—Danville.
Herbert H. Brown—Honeoye, Ontario Co.

New Jersey.

S. P. Babcock—Malaga.

Pennsylvania.

J. W. Taylor—Little Marsh, Tioga Co.
John T. Ongley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co.
Jonas Wendell—Edenboro, Erie Co.
Wm. Stuart—1814 Vineyard Street, Philadelphia.

Ohio.

H. G. McCulloch—Nevada, Wyandot Co.
G. W. Stetson—Olena.
E. McCulloch—Nevada.

Tennessee.

Dr. I. L. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis.
L. F. Cole—Memphis, Box 634.

Kentucky.

John B. Wadsworth—166 No. 2nd St., Louisville.

Indiana.

R. H. Scott—Scottsville, Floyd Co.
David Shankland—West Lebanon.
E. C. Andrus—Big Indian P. O.
Dr. N. Field—Jeffersonville.
S. A. Chaplin—Pierceton.
Edward Cordray—Lakeville.
Dr. C. H. Case—Holton.
Dr. J. W. Warman—Muddy Fork P. O.
Dr. Case—Nebraska.
G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co.

Illinois.

George W. Foster—Victoria, Knox Co.
O. D. Gibson—Amboy.
J. W. Burroughs—Neponset.
F. Burr—DeKalb.
Wm. McCulloch—New Rutland.

Michigan.

J. B. Preston—Wallaceville, Wayne Co.
J. M. Snook—Romeo.
A. N. Seymour—Reading.
George Wright, Jr.—Lexington.

Iowa.

Peter S. W. Deyo—Strawberry Point, Clayton Co.
A. F. Dugger—Simpson.
Ambrose B. Eggleston—Parkersburg
Dr. M. Chandler—Maquoketa, Jackson Co.

Wisconsin.

Wm. Sheldon—Brodhead, Green Co.
N. A. Hitchcock—Dayton, Green Co.
George Thompson—Attica, Green Co.
P. W. Hough—Mradoro, La Cross Co.

Minnesota.

Edwin T. Himes—St. Paul, Box 258.
Wm. Sweet—Sacksville, Brown Co.
Philip Ramer—Winona.
Thos. K. Allen—Box 241, Winona.
Ruth M. Rowell—Winona, Box 621.
O. R. Fassett—Minneapolis.

Nova Scotia.

Wm. M. Ingham—Clementsport.

D. D. Reed—Santa Clara, Cal.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance .... $2.50 a year
Five copies six months to one address .... $5.00.
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address .... $10.00.
Same rate for any number over ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cts. a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication write—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write—BUSINESS.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 768. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 6, 1870. VOL. XXXI.—NO. 16.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
160 HANOVER ST., BOSTON, Mass. } CORNER OF SALEM STREET. (☞ Entrance No. 7 Salem St.)

MILES GRANT, EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
D. MATHEWSON, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, H. H. DICKENSON.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

THOU KNOWEST ALL.

"For if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things."

The night is long; the heavy moments fall,
Each slain as soon as born,
Yet hasteneth not the morn.
The avenging angel Memory doth appall,
My soul with ingrate sins foregone,
She stands between me and the dawn,
In her right hand a flaming sword—
My heart condemns me, Lord,
But thou art greater than my heart, thou knowest all.

The past is still the past—beyond recall,
But fearful shadows creep
From out that misty deep,
And show me where my heedless feet did fall,
Where I forgot my love supreme,
Or wasted in a morning dream
The hours that cannot be restored,—
My heart condemns me, Lord,
But thou art greater than my heart, thou knowest all.

Through nights when thou did'st wake in prayer for all
That should believe on thee,
Thou still rememberedst me,
Thy love shrunk not from stripes, and cross, and gall;
But I have sat in slothful ease,
Then brought some light excuse to please
Thee—Savior, Crucified, Adored!
My heart condemns me, Lord,
But thou art greater than my heart, thou knowest all.

Thou knowest: darker than a funeral pall,
In thy pure sight may be
What fairest seems to me.
My sight is dim to read life's blotted scrawl,
Tell what was sin, and what was pain,
And what were dreams of fevered brain,
And what but feebleness of will;
My heart condemns me still,
But thou art greater than my heart, thou knowest all.

Thou knowest all and lovest, spite of all;
In that strong faith I rest;
In spite of all!—my Best,
My Love, my King! However dark the pall
My gathered sins may weave for me,
Still, still, my soul finds light in thee!
Thy smile turns back the flaming sword,—
My heart condemns me, Lord,
But thou art greater than my heart, thou knowest all.
—Advance.

For the World's Crisis.

WHAT IS LIFE?

(Concluded.)

We see, then, that all men are embraced in the "one offence," and suffer the penalty of death, or they are cut off from the tree of life as the result of one offence; and, until by some means they are again restored to access to the tree of life, they must die. So the entire race are embraced in the "one righteous act," and all are again justified to life.

The inquiry comes, Why are not all entitled to "eternal life," if the debt is paid for all? For the following reasons: The "one righteous act" is only applied to the "one offence," and other offences having since been committed by the race, as individuals, reconciliation for these individual offences must be produced by some practical way that will not disturb the attribute of justice.

Why does justice require the death of the race for one sin, or offence, and then make it possible for a thousand or more offences to be forgiven?

The only answer to this question is, "Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law [justice], being made a curse for us." By this transfer we sustain a new relationship to the law. Being purchased by Christ, we are relieved from the curse of the law, and are at the disposal of grace; consequently we are favored with pardon for a thousand offences, or more. Law punishes; grace pardons. "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us. Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him. For if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son; much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life. And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ; by whom we have now received the atonement" (reconciliation.)—Rom. 5: 8–11.

The apostle is here considering man's condition relative to the unconditional atonement as applied to the race, in that Christ died for us "when we were yet enemies." Being now justified by his blood, we may hope to be pardoned for individual sins, through faith in him; which faith is reckoned as righteousness. "For the promise that he should be the heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith."—Rom. 4: 13. "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ."—5: 1.

The justification of the sinner from individual sins comes through faith. Abraham had faith in the promise of a seed to come; we have faith in the seed (Christ) as having come. The promise to Abraham was, that his seed should be heir of the world; and his faith grasped the promise, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness. Our faith grasps the same promise, and we regard Christ as the promised seed. "Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many, but as of one; and to thy seed, which is Christ."—Gal. 3: 16.

Is Paul correct, that the seed of Abraham is the heir of the world? If so, what has a pre-existent Christ to do with this heirship? The plan of redemption presents no analogy for a pre-existent Christ, whatever the facts relative to that idea may be.

Faith in a promised seed (not a pre-existent Christ) forms the basis of the faith which justified the father of the faithful. The types and offerings of the law system developed faith in the seed to come, through the genealogy of Abraham; rather than pointing back to a pre-existent son.

But enough on this point. Let us look once more to the idea of life. What was it? what is it? and what is it to be? Life is the animate state of man; when every avenue of his being is vitalized with sensation, and each part is beating time to the grand centre of his being. It is no abstract principle transmitted at any given period, and again withdrawn, leaving man dead. It is man that lives, not an abstract life put into man that lives. It is a living man that constitutes life, not a living abstraction that constitutes life. The combination of the essential elements of man's being, properly adjusted and placed under the necessary conditions, results in life to the whole man. Of course some parts seem to be more prominently active in carrying forward this state of life; yet amid the different classes of elements composing our being, no one of them can be displaced without reducing the whole to a state of death.

There are, however, leading and superior elements which seem to supply the furnaces of our being with fresh fuel; viz., air and food; and these elements come from external sources, and, after performing their legitimate work upon the body, they pass off, leaving room for new supplies. These are properly termed the "bread of life," and the "breath of life." The breath of life seems to be more constantly needed than the bread of life; hence the Creator has placed us in a fountain of air, where we can draw with ease upon its resources; and our being is so adjusted that we involuntarily and without effort obtain the necessary quantity of air to keep up life's fire, while the body is in its normal condition. Through the air the blood receives its vitality and fire; and by the heart the blood is driven to every extremity of our being; and from the intricate and innumerable arteries, vessels, and nerves, the blood permeates every part, so that the point of a cambric needle, if allowed to pierce the skin, will come in contact with some one of these little blood canals, wherever the insertion is made. The blood becomes the vitalizer of the nervous system then; and this is so interwoven with the being, that all becomes active, sensitive, and living. We see from this that the blood appears the grand centre of living existence. It receives the requisite elements to keep up its force from the food we eat and the air we breathe. The air is the life of the blood, and the blood is the life of the body; and all together constitute a living man (or soul).

The intimate and important relation the blood sustains to the rest of our being is, doubtless, the ground upon which God has made it so important in the redemption of man. The blood of atonement under the old covenant pointed directly to this fact; and while that blood was typical of the blood of Christ, it follows that the same principle is observed all through; hence it is proper to say blood life, or flesh life, or mortal life; as these terms are all adequate to express the nature of this life.

Allow us to look at another point, viz., "Did Christ have the same life after his resurrection that he did before?" We think not, for the following reasons: "For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit."—1 Pet. 3: 18. "But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies, by his Spirit that dwelleth in you." Rom. 8; 11. "Who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body."—Phil. 3: 21.

There is manifestly a change wrought in Christ, through his death and resurrection. He was to be a "lamb" for slaughter, and then a "King in his beauty." As he is changed in his mission, so he seems changed in his nature. Before his resurrection, his approach and departure are like other men. But after his resurrection he comes and goes mysteriously.

Again, if he took the same life in kind that he poured out, matters would stand just where they were before he died. Furthermore, the nature of a sacrifice forbids the idea of a restoration of the thing sacrificed; and if Christ sacrificed a mortal blood life, and that was again restored, the sacrifice was without effect; as an eternal relinquishment of the thing sacrificed is the only principle upon which a sacrifice could be made. Did Christ offer a sacrifice? "But this man [Christ], after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God."—Heb. 10: 12. Yes, he paid the price; even his precious blood was sacrificed, and sprinkles now the mercy-seat.

As an obedient son, he stood the fiery trials of a prophet's life, and came to the altar of sacrifice with a life and existence that no law in heaven or earth had any just claim on. Heaven's hosts of angels stood ready to defend him at his call. No man could take that life against his will. He had power (or right) to lay it down, and he had power (right) to take it again.

But did he take it again, though he had the power to do it? No; from his wounded side the crimson stream hath flowed, and into death he falls, God-forsaken. Matt. 27: 46. Taking the sinner's place before God, he must die as the sinner dies—God-forsaken. But is he to be forever left in the grave? No; the eye of God is upon him; and after three days and nights the Spirit of God electrifies his blessed form, and quickened thereby he comes forth as the turnkey of death's prison, declaring, "I am he that liveth and was dead; and, behold, I am alive forevermore, amen; and have the keys of hell and of death."—Rev. 1: 18.

How came he by these keys? He purchased them by his blood. A key is a symbol of power; and by the sacrifice of his blood life he has purchased the right of redemption for the race, and their future destiny is in his hands from that time; and it becomes optional with him when he uses the keys, and he has the right to keep the gates of death closed as long as he pleases. We can make no demands on him. We can only appeal to his mercy; which may we all do before it is too late.

WM. A. FENN.

For the World's Crisis.

"LET NOT SIN, THEREFORE, REIGN IN YOUR MORTAL BODY."

ROMANS 6: 12.

Faith in Christ is not only the means of justification, but of sanctification, and produces a change not of state and condition only, but of character and conduct. It leads a person to live not unto himself, but unto Him who died for him and rose again. Our salvation consists in the remission of our sins for Jesus Christ's sake, and therein our righteousness before God is implied. We are justified freely by his grace, through the redemption which is in Jesus Christ.

Faith in the atoning sacrifice of Christ, is the proper and the only way by which we can be justified. Abel, for instance, believed in the atoning sacrifice of Jesus, and by believing, or having faith in that sacrifice, he obtained the inward witness of his justification and pardon. We read in Heb. 11: 4, "By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, by which he obtained witness that he was righteous, God testifying of his gifts." Here the word testifying signifies witnessing. Abel obtained the inward witness. How? By the witness of the Holy Spirit, whose province it is to assure our conscience of its part in the Redeemer's blood. This is the only way to God, and coming thus you shall in no wise be cast out. If a man seeks pardon evangelically, he cannot fail of obtaining it; but he must fail if he seeks it by the deeds of the law, or by any other than the divinely appointed way, through Jesus Christ; for the Scripture saith, "Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed." Rom. 10: 11 "Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation, he that believeth shall not make haste." Isaiah 28: 16. That is, whosoever believeth in Jesus, his confidence in the Saviour shall not be disappointed.

Every person daily chooses the service of self and sin, or Christ and holiness. One leads to life, the other to death. Both, God sets before men, and invites them to choose life by taking the way which leads to it, and promises that if they do, they shall live. Deut. 13: 19; Josh. 24: 15. "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon." Isa. 55: 7. "Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body." Consider its deceitfulness, and guard against its deception.

We read of those who are hardened through the deceitfulness of sin; and God himself represents the sinful heart as not only desperately wicked, but "deceitful above all things." Sin deceives millions of its victims which it ruins, and many are the modes in which this system is conducted. Virtue is stigmatized as vice, and vice is extolled as virtue. A formal, nominal christian, with a heart as cold as Nova Zembla's eternal ice, is deemed a warm-hearted, rational christian; and a zealous disciple of the Lord Jesus Christ is pronounced an enthusiast or a fanatic. Soft names are affixed to crimes of an odious character. An abandoned profligate or seducer, with the falsehood of Satan on his lips, is called a man of pleasure. A man so full of infernal pride that he would risk his own life, or take his fellow man's for an offensive word, is called a man of honor. Revenge assumes the name of justice. Flattery is termed courtesy. Covetousness cloaks itself under the name of frugality, and while adopting for its golden maxim the hackneyed remark that "charity begins at home," take good care that it shall end there too. Atheism and infidelity are free thinking or free inquiry.

Thus the darkest crimes which men commit, are softened down and represented as pleasing and honorable by some specious and delusive name. While thus called to duties so important, yet so difficult, lean not upon a human arm. Trust not in your own ability or might. No inherent powers of yours will ever accomplish the momentous work of mortifying sin. The Scriptures direct your view to a mightier agent—to the Holy Spirit of God. For "if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live." As the Holy Spirit is the source of peace and hope, and joy and love, so by his influence and aid, sin must be mortified and subdued. Look to Him who sanctifies, renews, and carries on the work of grace until death. O, look to him for heavenly influence, to strike at the very root of sin.

Sin is hateful in the sight of God. Sin is the root of all human miseries. But for sin, Satan would have been a child of God; had there been no sin, there would have been no devil. O, could an infernal spirit appear to you, glaring with hideous woe and hellish dispositions, what alarm would seize you. If power remained to flee, how would you flee from the horrid being. Flee, then, from sin, the parent of devils and the author of hell.

Sin is most infectious. Like a contagious pestilence it pollutes and destroys all it touches. All within the reach of its infection die. The first sin polluted all the sons and daughters of Adam, from the hour when he sinned in Paradise to that when time shall be no more. Think of the mighty multitudes that have lived on earth since then. Think of the swarming millions that now people the earth —perhaps eleven hundred thousand millions of mortal beings. Think how soon these must be swept away and give place to other generations, and these to others, if God sees fit to let the world ~~stand; and then,~~ if you can, estimate the malignity of one sin's infection, that infection which has spread a deadly poison through the veins of generation after generation, for nearly six thousand years; which has defiled them to such a degree that man is altogether corrupt; which has ruined them so completely, that it has made them all the heirs of death, and dug a grave for all mankind.

While such is the effect of one sin, who can describe sin's malignity, or estimate its evil? By one sin was the whole race of man rendered corrupt and wretched; by one sin was all this lower creation made subject to vanity; and now if but one sin lie lurking and hidden in the heart, unpardoned, and unrepented of, it pollutes all man's words, affections, thoughts, and actions; blasts all his knowledge, kills all his hopes, and in the end will damn his soul. "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord." Rom. 6: 23.

Therefore, my fellow traveler to eternity, choose now the better part. Let not sin reign in your mortal body, but come to Jesus, come in faith believing; come now; come to those outstretched arms of mercy. O, turn, and run with zealous haste to the sinner's only Refuge. Turn from purposes of self-righteousness, and by future obedience as the only ground of your hope, simply cling to the horns of the altar, to the merits of Christ, and there you shall be safe; for there no penitent sinner ever yet perished. "Let not sin, therefore, reign in your mortal body."

Z. D. BAIRD.

UNDER THE CROSS.

A weary weight laid on feeble shoulders—
A labor lasting from sun to sun;
A toil ne'er ceasing, yet still beginning—
Never ending, and never done!
Only o'er rocks go our weary footsteps,
Ever dark clouds still obscure our sky;
Till, in our blindness, we can but wonder
If naught but thorns in our pathway lie.

Only pale flowers bloom here in our pathway,
Only through clouds do the sunbeams shine,
All that we pass through is but to lead us,
Step by step, to our rest divine.
Unto each hand is some toil appointed—
On every heart is some burden laid;
All of our trials are but to bring us
Under the cross where our hope is stayed.

What, then, will matter earth's fading flowers?
What will we care for life's weary days?
More will we prize that heavenly kingdom
That we have won it through toilsome ways—
When, at the last, freed from sin's dominion,
Free from all stain and earthly dross,
Come we, all humbly, in childlike meekness,
To our resting place, under the Cross!

Oh! what will matter life's dreary journey,
Our weary hearts, or our bleeding feet?
Though over rocks and 'neath storms it lead us,
Still, at the last, will our rest be sweet!
If, at the end, through life's tribulation,
Winning a crown through our earthly loss,
All of our trials but surely bring us
To our resting place, under the Cross!

Why need we faint 'neath life's weighty burden,
Under the cross that we all must bear?
Guided by faith, we move gladly onward,
Wearing the thorn-crown that all must wear;
For at the last all our toils are forgotten,
Healed our wounds, cast away our dross;
Safe we shall lie, crowned with bliss unending,
In our resting place, under the Cross!

—Selected by Mrs. Fannie H. Bolles, Mattapoisett, Mass.

CHRISTIAN UNION.*

(Continued.)

As Christ and his people are one, so are Christ's children one. Oneness consists in union, harmony, association, organization and concert of action. As in military life, a hundred men are united and organized into one company, all having the same captain, the same discipline, the same dangers, and the same reward,—such is the oneness of Christ's people.

In all associated bodies there are certain circumstances and principles which serve as cords to bind and hold together in harmony its different members. In the illustration, the principle necessary for union is, that all possess the same spirit of loyalty and patriotism to the government for which they fight; but the circumstance which is the strongest to produce the desired union is personal association. When the men meet at their rendezvous and behold each other face to face, speaking words of fraternal sympathy and love, the strongest circumstances ever found to consolidate society then exist. Let the company be furnished with ten shelter tents, and let ten men occupy each tent, the ten thus personally associated, all other things being equal, will feel a stronger attachment to each other than they can possibly feel if separated in different tents.

This principle is fundamental and universal in the government of God, running through all ranks of his creatures in the universe. It is clearly seen through revelation, in heavenly society around the throne of Deity, and also in all ranks of earthly association, from the highest grade of humanity to the lowest reptiles that crawl in the dust. To dispute it, is to express ignorance of the most common principles controlling our experience.

It is true, as I have intimated in the illustration to produce gospel union, that there are principles pre-requisite to personal association. We are never drawn together in true Christian union except by the powerful influences of God's truth, Spirit and love. There lies the foundation for union; while association builds upon it and perpetuates it. These God-established principles in the divine economy, so wisely arranged to produce the most glorious and happy results in the concentration and harmony of all classes of his creatures, are well understood by Satan. He takes advantage of his knowledge of the philosophy and operation of these principles, and he not only labors to apply them to his subjects, and thus increase their efficiency in doing his Satanic work; but, to weaken and defeat Christ's people in accomplishing their work, he labors as ardently to blind their eyes so that they may not see these principles and their importance, and thus divide them, and make them powerless to do the bidding of Jesus. When Satan designed to make a fatal raid on Christ, he united Pilate and Herod as his servants, and succeeded in separating Jesus from his people, and thus accomplished the terrible deed.

Again, when any number of men are united with one man as their leader, their union with him will produce a union among themselves, if no other influences prevent. If two influential men in England should rise up and advocate a change in the English government,—A, advocating an autocratic, and B, a democratic government, both agreeing in the importance of a change, but differing as to what the change shall be,—and if the movement should become so extensive and wide-spread that the people of the whole nation were divided upon it, what would be the result? They would be like their leaders; united as to the necessity of change, and divided as to what the change should be.

The principles illustrated are universal and immutable, and the effect will always follow the cause.

The Scriptures clearly teach that Christ and his Father are associated in the great work of salvation, as Leaders and Teachers; therefore the union of their people will depend upon their oneness; or, in other words, the oneness of Christ and the Father will produce a union among their followers. This principle is clearly expressed by Jesus in his prayer (John 17: 11:) "Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are." The passage proves four things:—(1) That believers are "given" into the hands of Christ. (2) That the Father retains them in his own hands, as their "keeper." (3) That Christ and the Father are jointly associated in the work of saving men. (4) That the work of grace wrought in the hearts of the followers of Christ, will unite them together as Christ and the Father are united; therefore, if we are united with God and his Son, we shall be united with all who follow them and possess the divine Spirit. Christ taught that he and his Father were perfectly united in the principles and work of the gospel for the restoration of men to the original oneness and union for which they were made, and that he was sent by the Father to act in harmony with him for its accomplishment. Therefore, if the Gospel, as introduced by Christ, fails to unite the people who are put under its direct influence, that failure would prove that Christ and the Father were not united in the work; consequently, that the Father had not sent Jesus to accomplish it. But if the gospel succeeds in producing the union which was lost by sin, then the world will have the practical proof before them that the Father had sent him, as he prayed, "That they all may be one, as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee; that they may be one in us, that the world may believe that thou hast sent me."

Then, dear brethren, how awfully fearful our position when, by our divisions and strife, we suffer ourselves to be used as instruments of Satan, an enemy of Jesus, to disprove Christ's mission to the world, and thus show him to be a false teacher, an enemy of God, and no friend to man.

O, then, ye servants of Christ, I entreat you to pray and labor earnestly in this convocation that we may speak no word nor introduce any measure which shall tend to break the union or disturb the harmony of Christ's church. Thus shall we defeat the devil in his purpose to defame the Savior and ruin his cause by our divisions and strife.

The infinite importance of the renewal of the social principle to bind in perfect unity all the beings of God's creation, is uttered in every sentence of divine inspiration, and felt in every emotion of the Holy Spirit in our hearts. In all the promises of God relating to the glorious future, it is presented in the foreground as the central, universal and eternal principle, uniting, in unbroken harmony, God the Father and our Immanuel, all the holy angels and saints, in one holy and undisturbed communion.

The threatenings of the Amighty expressed in his word culminate in the utter destruction and perpetual end of all beings in the universe who are not brought, according to his plan, into harmony, peace and eternal oneness with himself and his Christ.

War cannot exist in heaven between God and any of the heavenly beings, but perfect love and peace reign supreme through all the heavenly ranks Therefore to be prepared for heavenly society, men must be purged from the spirit of strife and war, and receive the spirit of Christ's peace, which he gave to his disciples when about to leave them:—"My peace I give unto you;" that peace which he brought from the heavenly world and maintained triumphantly through all the persecution with which Satan pursued him. When we are in possession of that peace, we shall not strive and contend with each other, and thus divide the flock of Christ, but shall feel the awful weight of the apostle's expression: "If any man say, I love God, and hate his brother, he is a liar;" and, "Every one that loveth him that begat, loveth him also that is begotten of him."

The work of bringing rebellious men into harmony and peace with God, is Christ's work; for we are directed to pray, in Christ's stead, that men may be reconciled to God. No human efforts of worldly policy can change the obstinate, sinful heart of man, so as to make it pulsate in harmony with perfect love and heavenly peace. It is the work of the Second Man; a part of the work of restitution. No associations or organizations among professed Christians can make any gospel union, or plant any heavenly peace in the hearts of men. It is the work of Christ, through the transforming power of the gospel and the renewing energies of the divine Spirit. But association and order, or organization, are clearly presented in the gospel as the ways and means by which we are required to express, strengthen, perpetuate and guard the union and peace Christ has given us.

In the great plan of salvation, it has been clearly revealed in all the dispensations, that the first work to be accomplished in the salvation of men is to restore them to the favor, love and communion of God, through the atonement and intercession of Christ.

To maintain the glorious social oneness gained by faith in Christ, God saw it necessary, in all the dispensations of his government, to give his people rules and laws by which to govern their associated acts, so that their union might not be broken or their harmony destroyed.

When we worship God, we associate with him by faith; for "he that cometh to God must believe that he is." Therefore, faith is designed to supply the deficiency of personal presence, which was lost by sin. By the power of faith, the christian is carried in his worship to God, and, in mind and spirit, beholds his glory, hears his expressions of paternal love and kindness, opens his heart and pours out his confessions of sorrow for sin and unfaithfulness, and entreats the divine compassion and favor; while responsive answers seem to be whispered by the lips of a gracious and forgiving God, giving strong assurance of love, good will, and eternal blessedness. Such worship is the foretaste of coming glory, when the separation caused by sin shall have a perpetual end, when God and his redeemed people shall meet face to face, and voice shall answer to voice, and eye to eye, as the unnumbered host of blood-bought worshipers adoringly blend heart and voice in the universal song of heavenly harmony and infinite unity.

(To be continued.)

* A tract of 50 pp., by Eld. J. Couch, being an Address delivered before the National Advent Conference of North America, at Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 1869. For sale at this office.

SUMMER RELIGION.

We have reason to suspect the genuineness of piety that changes with the seasons; that glows with intense zeal at certain times, and suddenly cools to an icy chilliness at others; that exhibits remarkable activity in some places, and relapses into positive indifference when situations are changed. . . .

There are in the most of churches a few faithful souls on whom the pastor can rely at all times. . . . There are others, however, who are seldom found in such meetings unless there is some unusual interest manifested. Instead of going regularly, as all christians ought, they usually stay away; whereas, in place of complaining of want of interest in the meetings, they ought to go, and by their presence make them interesting.

Now, we do not mean to say that attendance on prayer-meeting is an absolute test of piety, since vile hypocrites may attend such meetings; but while this is true, it is also true that the really pious delight in these meetings, are present whenever they can be, and regret the necessity which occasionally compels their absence. Wherever such are, they carry with them as a part of their moral being a truly religious spirit, which keeps them pure amid the corruptions of the world.

To all such, the rare attendance of many who belong to the church is a source of pain and of anxiety; to the others who neglect, the habit becomes chronic, until months are permitted to pass without their presence among the people of God. This is especially true of the summer season. Many christians take a vacation so far as religious privileges are concerned—a vacation which lasts from three to six months, according to circumstances. Not content with a little necessary relaxation from business, of which no reasonable person can complain, they take a much larger relaxation from religious duties and privileges. These persons, be it remembered, are not to be found among those who have labored hard in the church, and who might, therefore, be supposed to need rest, so much as among those who have toiled the least; and another singular fact is, that when their long spiritual vacation ends, they do not return to church-work with the same vigor and elasticity with which they engage in worldly concerns. Morally speaking, their muscles are rigid, and their joints manifest a sad lack of lubrication, as though they had been badly used in some rough encountre with spiritual foes. It takes a long time, and painfully taxes the resources of the church and the skill of the pastor, to get them into good working condition again.

We know that to a certain extent religious services in the summer, especially on week nights, are more sparsely attended than in winter, from legitimate and uncontrollable causes; but we firmly believe that this extent does not reach so far as many imagine. If the pleasure-seeker can go, at the end of a long summer day, to a hot, stifling place of amusement, the child of God ought to be able to meet his brethren in his Father's house. "Where there's a will there's a way" is as true here as in many other cases.

It is common in some of our large cities to close many of the churches during one or two months of the summer. We have never been able to see the necessity for this. Admitting that the great majority of the congregation are out of town, what are the minority to do? What are strangers to do who transiently visit the city and desire some place where they can worship? The house of God ought never to be closed, save for necessary cleansing or repairs. If only a few can come, let them have the privilege, and let there be some one there to lead their devotions. The devil has no vacation; the houses that lead to hell are always open, and so should always be the house of God.—Methodist.

For the World's Crisis.

A DIALOGUE.

L. How is it, Bro. M., that we are all to stand before the judgment seat of Christ, if a part of the dead will never rise? For we read that we must all appear there to be judged according to our works.

M. The dead may come forth and stand there without being made alive. You know John saw the dead, small and great, stand before God. He does not say that they are alive, but dead.

L. Well, but how can the dead give an account of themselves? For "every one of us shall give account of himself to God." Rom. 14: 12. According to your view it is optional with us whether we give account of ourselves or not. If we choose the way of death, we shall entirely avoid the judgment, and the account.

M. If I had time enough, and certain books of reference at hand, I could show you how that can be explained; but, as I am now situated, it is difficult for me to reply to that point.

L. It would seem that one needs a great deal of time and many books of reference to defend a doctrine that is both unscriptural and unreasonable. Solomon says that "God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil." Eccl. 12: 14. And all persons are to be judged; and not only so, but every one must give account of himself, and in order to do that the dead must be made alive.

M. I confess that I am not able to reply to you now. I think that this ground has all been examined, and all your points have been met.

L. Yes; Satan has met the truth with a lie; and to say that every sound argument has been turned aside, and every Scripture declaration has been wrested, does not after all prove that the dead will not rise, or that living they will not die again. When God told Adam that he should surely die, Satan said "ye shall not surely die." And when Jesus says that all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, the enemy says they shall not all hear; when Jesus says they that hear shall live, the enemy says they shall not all live. Which will you believe, Jesus, or the enemy?

M. If you will permit me to pass on without giving a direct answer to your last question, I have another idea to offer in defense of my position. I admit that the Bible as it stands, especially the common translation, favors your view. But I ask whether these strong passages on which you rely may not after all be interpolations?

L. Satan would not put in interpolations, to help on the truth. If you take the liberty to guess in regard to interpolations, of course I may have the same privilege. Interpolations are doubtless the work of the enemy, and omissions also. Now how do you know but there are interpolations which favor your view, and omissions of words or passages which would weigh heavily against you? But I am satisfied to drop this whole question of interpolations.

M. So am I.

L. Bible evidence is as clear and as strong as language can make it on this point. "The dead in Christ shall rise first." It would seem that others are to rise afterward. "All that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil unto the resurrection of damnation." Those that have done good shall come forth; and the testimony is just as plain and direct and positive in regard to those that have done evil. When the multitudes that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some of them come forth to "everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt." This is the language of the angel to Daniel. (See Dan. 12.) Permit me to be plain with you, and to ask you a direct question—a question which is of vital importance. Do you pray?

M. No. I used to have a form of prayer, but I gave it up long ago, for it was merely formal. Yet I have desires, and I suppose that desires are prayers.

L. There is a difference between desire and prayer. Prayer is the expression of desire. Prayer is the act of one who is awake. Desire may possess one who is asleep. In order to live in this world we must breathe. In order to live as a christian we must pray. You must wake up and be in earnest. The breathing of one just recovering from a state of syncope (apparent death), or fainting, may be labored and painful, and so with your beginning to pray. Your words may be few, and it is better to have it so if they are earnest. As the first gasp of breath shows returning life, so the first attempt at prayer shows a return of spiritual life. And the more you pray the more life you will have. Pray for the Holy Spirit. Jesus says He "will guide you into all truth."

There is no blessing so essential to our understanding the truth, as the presence and influence of the Holy Spirit. And God is ready and willing to grant this blessing to all who desire and ask for it. I trust you are willing to give up error and embrace truth as fast as it is made clear to you. You cannot avoid knowing that the doctrine we have been considering has made a marked division among us as a people. Instead of "life and union," it is death and division. Let us examine, and ask with the high priest in Acts 7: 1, "Are these things so?"

Webster, Mass. F. H. CHAMBERLAIN.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, July 6, 1870.

☞ Take Notice!

☞ All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ Money Orders.

☞ Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ S. F. PIKE—The money is received, and we have now changed the date from May to Oct.

☞ MRS. E. PARKS—46 Kneeland Street, Boston.

☞ E. T. HIMES—Your letter was forwarded.

☞ D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

☞ BRO. J. COUCH'S P. O. address is now Chelsea, Mass.

☞ BRO. T. M. PREBLE having removed from Lynn, his P. O. address will now be North Cambridge, Mass.

☞ N. S. KETCHUM'S P. O. address is Ionia, Dixon Co., Nebraska.

☞ A. D. FLAGG'S P. O. address for the present will be Chicopee, Mass.

☞ J. L. WOOD'S P. O. address is New Milford, Ct.

☞ E. S. STRAIGHT'S P. O. address is Watchemoket, R. I.

☞ MURDOCK'S TESTAMENT—We can now furnish Murdock's Translation of the Testament from the Syriac, for $2.50.

☞ "DEBT & GRACE"—We have a few copies of "Debt & Grace" in good condition, which we have gathered, and will send it for $1.50. Some have been very anxious to get it.

☞ BILLS! BILLS!!

There are many of our subscribers who are largely in arrears in their payments for the Crisis. To such we are now sending bills of their indebtedness. We hope to have a prompt response by the brethren and sisters sending in the amount due without delay.

AG'T.

CLINTON.

Our tent-meetings in Clinton, Iowa, have been blest by the Lord. The weather was very warm and dry, but the meetings were well attended every evening. We had perfect order, and excellent attention. Five ministers attended, but we suppose they did not conclude to unite with us in declaring the blessed hope of soon seeing Jesus, when he will come to raise the dead, and set up his kingdom. Bro. A. Phelps did a good work here last winter, leading a number to see the truth. During our meetings we took occasion to speak out plainly against the fables of these last days, showing that the Bible harmoniously teaches that man is a mortal being, who dies and sleeps in the grave till the second coming of Christ, when the saints will be raised to possess the kingdom.

The Sabbath before our tent-meeting began, a minister took occasion to preach two sermons in favor of the immortality of the soul. His sermons were reported, and reviewed. Those who had been in the dark were brought to rejoice in the light and truth. There is an open door in Clinton. Eleven were baptized in the noble Mississippi river, called also the "Father of Waters." It was a precious season. A large audience assembled on the bank, and observed most excellent order. Earnest shouts of praise arose from the happy souls who were baptized. During the day and evening several new ones requested prayers. The prospect is quite encouraging. At the close of the Sabbath evening meeting, we bade the dear saints farewell, then went to Steamboat office, and waited till about two o'clock in the morning for the boat to Burlington, Iowa.

WHAT IS THE MIND?

It is often said, "The soul is the mind." Hence we hear persons speak of "the immortal mind." The term "mind" is used in a general sense to represent all the mental faculties, taken as a whole. A thought is a single mental manifestation, and all the thoughts of an individual on any particular theme would constitute his mind on that subject.

It is very gravely asserted that thought is not a property of matter, and therefore there must be an immortal soul in man to do the thinking; and that this soul continues to live and think when the body is dead. Let us look at this with the eye of candor, in connection with well known mental phenomena and physiological facts.

It is asserted that, inasmuch as there is no thought in a single atom of matter, therefore there can be none in any given combination of atoms. Is this sound logic? A single atom of matter will not keep time; neither a single wheel of a watch, nor any two or three of them; shall we therefore conclude that no combination of wheels can keep time? If the logic should be considered sound, facts would prove it false, when the beautiful chronometer watch was presented. So when it is asserted that matter can not think, and therefore man must have an immortal soul to do the thinking, we turn from man to the dog, the horse, the elephant, and other animals, and behold they think too; remember, love, hate, etc., as truly as man. Then it follows, if organized matter cannot think, and there is no thought without the existence of an immortal soul, that all the beasts are immortal as well as man. Are we prepared to adopt premises that legitimately and unavoidably bring us to such a conclusion?

When it is asserted that thought is not a property of matter, and cannot be under any circumstances, we would inquire, Is pain a property of matter? When we saw the board, or chop the tree, does it feel pain? Certainly not. Shall we then conclude that no organized matter can feel pain, and, accordingly, when a piece of beef is wanted, step up to the ox feeding in his stall, and cut out a piece of sirloin steak, and a nice baking piece, because pain is not a property of matter? It is to be feared that such logic would get a severe kicking from the abused and tortured animal.

The Creator has so organized living matter in the animal creation, including man, that it can and does feel pain; and it is absurd to argue to the contrary. But the same logic that would deny thought to organized matter, would also deny that it could feel pain. But we know it does feel pain; and we think the evidence is equally clear that it has been so organized by the wisdom of the Creator, as to love, hate, remember, reason, and accomplish all that is covered in the term mind in the human race. We do not see that thought is any more mysterious, or wonderful, as the result of organized matter, than is pain, which we know is produced by the action of such an organization. Pain is common to the whole system, but this is not the case with thought, which is confined to a particular part of the animal organism.

There are certain physiological facts, which we think demonstrate that the brain is the organ of thought in man, and in all thinking animals. If the brain is diseased, then insanity is likely to follow. Is it reasonable to say that an immortal soul could be deranged? If the brain is the thinking organ, then, when it is but partially developed, as in the infant, the mental faculties would be weak. This is known to be the case. In infancy the brain is soft, and impressions are easily made upon it, but they are not remembered. It is like writing upon soft clay; the impression is soon gone. In old age, when the brain becomes hardened, it is difficult to make an impression upon it, hence only some very remarkable occurrences are remembered; and at length the statesman becomes a second child.

When the reasoning faculties are deficient, as in the idiot, the man does not possess as much intelligence as the dog, the horse, or the elephant. Why is this, if the brain is not the thinking organ? Why is the Hottentot inferior to the Englishman? Is it because an inferior soul lives in his body? or is it because he has an inferior brain? The answer to these inquiries is sometimes given by those who believe that man has an independent soul that does the thinking, and is the prompter of every action performed by man, that the disordered mental phenomena occur because the brain is out of order. Then how could the soul think, when the brain is dead? Who can tell? If an imperfect living brain produces imperfect thought, a deranged brain deranged thought, an infant or an idiotic brain little or no thought, is it reasonable to suppose that a man can do his best thinking when his brain is lifeless and buried in the grave? "What saith the Scripture?" "How readest thou?" "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest." Eccl. 9: 10. "His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth; in that very day his thoughts perish." Ps. 146: 4. "The living know that they shall die, but the dead know not any thing." Eccl. 9: 5. Thus the Bible, philosophy, reason, and common sense all harmonize in their testimony.

From the facts before us, we are driven to the conclusion that thought in men, and in all lower animals, is the result of an active brain. Thought is not a personality any more than pain. Neither exist, or are produced, independent of a personal organism. In other words, man never feels pain, nor thinks, only while his brain is active. When it can be proved that man can breathe without lungs, talk vocally without the organs of speech, see without eyes, hear without ears, feel without nerves; then it may do to assume that he can think without a brain.

It is a well known fact that the form, size, and quality of the brain are definite means by which to determine the intellectual ability of men and animals. So far as we know, all mental phenomena are in harmony with this position; therefore all attempts to show that there is a personal immortal soul in every man and animal, living distinct from the physical organism, that does all the thinking, must be considered unphilosophical, unreasonable, and consequently opposed to facts, common sense and the Bible.

INFALLIBILITY.

The whole civilized world is agitated by the infallibility question. The Pope is persistent, determined to be declared infallible as soon as possible. He meets with strong opposition in the Council, but his courage is good. The following is from a correspondent of the New York Herald, dated June 4th, 1870:—

"With reference to the infallibility question, you may rest assured of the Pope's resolution to have the fathers here until they dispose of it. He said on Monday last that 'he hoped they (the fathers) would be able to end it on the 29th of June.' A Bishop remarked to him that it was not possible to finish it by that time. The Pope remarked that, if not, by the end of July, or, at the furthest, on the 15th of August.

The Pope knows, as does any one else, that there is a majority of the Bishops in favor of the dogma. The minority, however, represent great and important dioceses. It is not the custom to pass dogmas by a mere majority, and the Pope wants the dogma passed as near unanimity as possible. When he finds that the minority must yield, not being inspired to vote on his side by the Holy Spirit, he is determined to assume the responsibility, and by the aid of a majority vote declare himself infallible and all his successors when speaking ex cathedra.

The moment he does so, do not be astonished if several distinguished Bishops of European and American countries hand him their resignations and mitres. Place as little confidence as you choose upon the above, but there are determined men in Rome, speaking our tongue, who have spent half a century in the service of the Church, and who are thoroughly alive to the requirements of the times, and are bitterly opposed to any further Italian juggling. When Pius IX. proclaims himself infallible on the strength of a majority vote, as he intends to do, you will hear something that will cause no little excitement in England, Ireland and the United States. For the present verbum sap.

The past six sessions of the council have been used by the English speaking Bishops.

Archbishop Manning delivered a powerful and beautiful speech in favor of the dogma. Bishop Varet, of Florida, followed him in opposition. Archbishop Spalding, of Baltimore, made a poor speech in support of Manning's views.

The Patriarch of Jerusalem spoke long and ably in support of the schema. He was followed by Archbishop Purcell, of Cincinnati, who made a point on the Patriarch which all admitted to be well taken. There was a little laugh at the expense of Jerusalem. It is admitted by all that the most truly republican speech ever delivered in Rome in this century, or out of the council, was delivered on the 1st inst. In the course of his speech in opposition to the dogma, he startled some of the 'old fogies' on account of the liberality of his ideas. The 'divine right of kings' he treated as a thing of the past. He fearlessly stated that kings were made by the people, for and to the use of the people, and not the people for kings, and that among the people, and with them alone, rested the sovereign power.

The late pamphlet of Archbishop Kenrick caused a great deal of excitement here. His brother Bishops from America are anxious to hear what he has to say in opposition to the dogma, and will enter a solemn protest against it that will cause many Italians to pause before they vote."

THE EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE.

The Evangelical Alliance, to be held in New York next Sept., will be a meeting of special interest to Protestants. It is to be their Ecumenical Council. Such meetings must either accomplish much good or evil. If the leading men are filled with the spirit of Christ, adorned with christian meekness, having hearts warm with perfect love to God, then the fruits must be valuable; but if they are clad in a sectarian armor, with prominent self-esteem, love of the world and public applause, then much evil may arise from the meeting.

The problem is yet to be solved. We will hope for the best. Such a gathering seems to be needed at this time, provided it can be directed to the glory of the Lord, in uniting his servants to the proclamation of the great truths now shining forth from the sacred Scriptures in relation to the mortality of man, the coming of Christ, the end of sin, the saints' inheritance, and in presenting a bold, uncompromising opposition to Spiritualism, the chief enemy of God and man, Christ and Christianity, and the promoter of whatever will lead men to reject the Bible, and support the interests of the arch deceiver. We are not speaking at random. We know whereof we affirm.

The following from the Pittsburgh Commercial, affords some items of interest in relation to the meeting of the Evangelical Alliance:—

"The delegation from Great Britain will consist of twenty-five or more leading divines and laymen, both from the Established and Free Churches. Among those expected are Dean Alford, the distinguished commentator, and the Earl of Shaftesbury. The expenses of the English delegation will be met by the English branch of the Alliance. The expenses of the Continental Delegates invited are to be paid by the American branch, and for this purpose some $25,000 or $30,000 will be required. The proposition in regard to expenses originated with the American branch, and accompanied their invitations chiefly for the reason that so many of the distinguished scholars whose presence was desired, being engaged as professors, teachers or students, have but little wealth and no constituency which could send them at much cost. It is expected that during the conference, besides the general meetings, three or more sections will hold meetings simultaneously for the consideration of special topics, using as many different languages. The following is the basis of agreement adopted by the American branch of the alliance, and is the same as that of the original society in London, adopted in 1846:

1. The divine inspiration, authority, and efficiency of the Holy Scriptures.
2. The right and duty of private judgment in the interpretation of the Holy Scriptures.
3. The Unity of the Godhead and the Trinity of the persons therein.
4. The utter depravity of human nature in consequence of the fall.
5. The incarnation of the Son of God, his work of atonement for sins of mankind, and his mediatorial intercession and reign.
6. The justification of the sinner by faith alone.
7. The work of the Holy Spirit in the justification and sanctification of the sinner.
8. The immortality of the soul, the resurrection of the body, the judgment of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ, with the eternal blessedness of the righteous and the eternal punishment of the wicked.
9. The divine institution of the Christian ministry, the obligation and perpetuity of the ordinances of baptism and the Lord's Supper.

It being, however, distinctly declared, that this brief summary is not to be regarded in any formal or ecclesiastical sense, as a creed or confession, nor the adoption of it as involving an assumption of the right authoritatively to define the limits of Christian brotherhood, but simply as an indication of the class of persons whom it is desirable to embrace within the Alliance."

☞ All appointments, notices, obituaries, and proper names especially, should be written very plainly, if friends would see them correct in the paper.

"FESTIVAL.—On the 4th day of May next, a festival will be held for the benefit of White Marsh church, at the store house of Mr. Joshua T. Clarke, near Collington, Prince George Co. There will be on the occasion a band of music, and a spacious pavillion for dancing. There will be on the same day also, a tournament, and all those wishing to participate in the contest for the honors of the ring, will please forward their names to Dr. C. Clarke, at Collington. Dinner and supper will be served up in good style, together with refreshments of all kinds. Fair to commence at ten o'clock A. M."

The above is cut from the Marlborough Gazette, Prince George Co., Md. When the pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock, they little thought that professors of religion would ever publish such notices as the foregoing. What a change! It is one of the last day signs. Only here and there do we find a professor of religion who does not love pleasure more than God. The perils of the last days are upon us. Let us come out from the world and be separate.

THINGS IN ROME.

The Ecumenical Council at Rome is approaching an interesting point in its history. Before this is read, the Pope may be declared infallible. What a thought! A weak, erring, sinful man—nothing more—declared infallible! Have men lost their reason, their common sense, and become so blind as to believe that the majority vote of a few frail mortals can make one of their number infallible? Can it be possible that such a thing is to be done for the first time in the history of this world, in 1870? Well, it is a progressive age. Who can dispute the fact? But what next?

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."

By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

Sheldon's Four New Tracts.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

1. "LIFE AND DEATH THEOLOGY: or, The Scriptural Doctrine of 'Eternal Damnation' and 'Everlasting Punishment.'" Price 8 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 75 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $5.00 per hundred by express.

This work of forty-eight pages is the clearest and strongest document yet produced by Bro. Sheldon on this topic. It is just the thing to scatter among all classes.

2. IMMATERIALISM: or, The Doctrine of Soul-Immortality Refuted." Price 5 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $3.00 per hundred by express.

A tract of thirty-two pages, showing that fifteen cardinal errors spring out of the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and that those errors could not exist independent of that doctrine, thus showing it to be the main root of error. Let it be scattered widely.

3. "DEATH AND THE DEAD," 16 pages. Price 3 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1.50 per hundred by express.

Just the thing to scatter everywhere.

4. "THE COMING JUDGMENT: Its Necessity and Result," Eight pages. 10 cts. per dozen, postpaid, or 75 cts. per hundred by express.

It will do much good. A'GT.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY. By Elder James H. Whitmore. Published by the Western Advent Christian Association.

This little volume of 300 pages is a valuable contribution to the literature of the subject on which it treats, and is worthy of a wide circulation, not only among those who hold to the views advocated therein, but among others who have not given them due thought and investigation.

For sale at this office. Price, single copy, postpaid, $1.00. Six copies, by mail, $5.00; by express, $4.20. AG'T.

NEW MUSIC.

Six pieces, entitled "Jesus is coming again," "I love thee still," "Hoist every sail," "Sweetly sleeping," "He is coming," and "Home." Sent postpaid for 20 cents. Single sheet 5 cents. For sale at this office, or by the author, Geo. E. Lee, Brimfield, Mass.

"SPIRITUAL MELODIES."—Bro. Wm. Sheldon says of this little hymn book, by I. K. Lombard: "It is really a choice compilation, in a very convenient form."

A Pneumatic Tube 400 Miles Long.

Few persons in this country were aware, we are sure, that a pneumatic tube is working between Glasgow and London, but the following letter from Glasgow to a Boston gentleman shows there is one; "I had occasion to send a telegram to London the other day, and in a few minutes received a reply which led me to suppose that a serious error had been committed by my agents, involving many thousand pounds. I immediately went to the telegraph office and asked to see my message. The clerk said, 'We can't show it to you, as we have sent it to London.' 'But,' I replied, 'you must have the original paper here; I wish to see that.' He again said, 'No, we have not got it, it is in the post office at London.' 'What do you mean?' I asked. Pray, let me see the paper I left here half an hour ago.' 'Well,' said he, 'if you must see it we will get it back in a few minutes, but it is now in London.' He rang a bell and in five minutes or so produced my message, rolled up in pasteboard.

It seems that for some months there has existed a pneumatic telegraph betwixt Glasgow and London, and betwixt London and other principal cities of the kingdom, which consists of an iron tube, into which the messages are thrown and sent to their destination. I inquired if I might see a message sent. 'Oh, yes; come round here.' He slipped a number of messages into the pasteboard scroll, popped it into the tube, and made a signal. I put my ear to the tube and heard a slight rumbling noise for seventeen seconds, when a bell rang beside me, indicating that the scroll had arrived at the general post office, four hundred miles off! It almost took my breath away to think of it. If I could only go to Boston with the same relative speed, you might count upon my passing an evening every week at No. 124 Beacon street, and returning home to sleep. Who knows but that we may be conveyed in this marvelous manner before many years?

Perhaps you are aware that there has been a large tube between the general post office in London and the station in Eustace Square, in operation for a number of years. The mail bags for the north are all sent by this conveyance, so that the post office receives letters up to a few minutes before the train leaves, three miles off. The transit takes less than two seconds! Surely this is an age of wonders.

WHO IS THE SCHISMATIC?—The guilt of schism may be on him who least thinks it; he being rather the schismatic who makes unnecessary and inconvenient impositions, than he who disobeys them, because he cannot do otherwise without violating his conscience.—Jeremy Taylor.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute according to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERRON, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments..............$544.53
H. J. Benedick.............................. .55

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments..............$60.56

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 202, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments..............$833.65
P. W. Higgins.............................. 5.00

For the World's Crisis.

WANTS COMPANY.

Who wants company? One whom I have been pained to see stand as a lone sentinel in almost every number of the Crisis for a number of weeks past. Who is it? A Friend to the Poor. A Friend to the Mission cause. A Friend to the Tract cause. O how lonely! Will not some of my dear brethren and sisters relieve that loneliness? I think you will. I wish to stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance.

But you are all inquiring, Who is it? Well, I will give the name—"Previous Acknowledgments." Now, dear friends, you who have a little to spare, and you who have much, let your hearts expand, and your purse-strings relax. Eternity alone can reveal the amount of good effected by the dimes and dollars contributed to those funds by willing hearts. Let "Previous Acknowledgments" no longer stand alone. GEO. THOMSON.

For the World's Crisis.

PLAIN TALKS.

A WORD TO PREACHERS.

Dear Brethren:—Suffer a few suggestions from one who agrees to subject himself to every test which he applies to you. As ministers are permitted to hear so little oral preaching, you will the more readily excuse this method of communicating a few practical hints.

1. Have we been clearly called to preach the gospel? "How shall they preach, except they be sent?" There is a general sense in which every child of God is authorized to proclaim the glad tidings of redeeming love; but in every age of the world some have been distinctively called to the special office of teachers and preachers. Under the present dispensation, this divine commission generally comes with such clearness and authority as to produce the conviction—"Woe is me if I preach not the gospel!" At the same time the heart is burdened with a solemn sense of responsibility, and cries out—"Who is sufficient for these things?" Have we felt that burden, and heard that voice divine? It would be a sad thing to mistake our calling where such momentous interests are at stake. No man has any right to invest himself with sacerdotal robes. Unless God calls him to the work, let him not dare to assume the responsibilities of the Christian ministry. Let no conceit of natural or acquired ability; no love of ease, honor, or money; no desire for popularity or position, ever tempt him to preach, when God would be better pleased to have him plow.

The question of a man's call to preach the gospel is not to be settled according to human philosophy and personal inclination, but wholly according to the will of God. Prejudice and preference must be laid aside. If the Master rings out the clear commission—"Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature," that must be the decisive word. We can afford to go when the Lord himself makes out our papers. But when this is really the case, God's children will generally recognize the call so promptly as to supersede the necessity of begging for a license.

2. Are we preaching the whole gospel? The multiplied hobbies and crotchets of the day prove the pertinency of the question. It is not enough to preach,—we must preach the gospel; not in snatches and fragments, but in all its blessed fulness and saving power. Shall we preach doctrine? Yes; the doctrine of Christ, including all its parts. No single truth, however vital, is sufficient to develope a symmetrical christian character. We must present, not only Christ crucified, but Christ risen and glorified; not only Christ the Intercessor, but Christ the coming Judge. The people need both the baptism of "water unto repentance," and the baptism of the Holy Ghost. Many lay great stress on the former, while they ignore the latter. Faith is all-important; for "without faith it is impossible to please God"; but a faith that does not purify the heart, and regulate the life, is dead. Hence we must insist on good works, as the practical proof of a genuine faith. The great truths pertaining to the coming of Christ, the resurrection of the dead, the glorification of the saints, and the destruction of sinners, must be frequently and forcibly presented.

But is this the whole of our message? It is not the future alone that concerns us. The living present has its pressing claims. Christianity furnishes something more than glowing hopes of future blessedness; it opens the rich treasure-house of God's grace, and grants us a present feast of redeeming love. Nor is it optional with us whether we seek for ourselves, and hold up to others, a deep and vital experience of salvation from sin. Head-development is not enough; we must have heart-development also. Vital godliness is the greatest want of the hour. Thousands are drying up and starving out. They have been theorized nearly to death. Religious speculations will not and can not meet the wants of their nature. Many have been living on such food until they are reduced to mere walking skeletons. They must have a change of air and a change of diet!

O, brethren in the ministry! join me in one earnest effort to bring these puny and starving dyspeptics into a more healthy condition. The demand upon us is urgent; and so much the more, as many of them have been brought to this deplorable state by our own quack prescriptions and criminal neglect. Let us be quick to undo this terrible work, and from this hour employ our best energies in feeding the flock with such aliment as shall promote health and vitality. How much we need the divine anointing to qualify us for our work! May God take the cringing cowardice all out of us, and give us that moral heroism which will enable us to deal faithfully with our fellow men! Logic is good, but logic on fire is better. When the whole counsel of God is delivered, it will not only enlighten the intellect, but probe the conscience, and purify the heart and life. If such fruits do not follow our labors, it is to be feared that our message is mutilated.

3. Do we work for God out of the pulpit as well as in it? It is readily granted that some are better adapted to the pastoral work than others. But can we not all do something in this direction? If we have pure hearts and sanctified lips, our example will be sacred and our words seasoned with grace. How many ministers nullify their efforts in the pulpit, by the general looseness of their lives out of the pulpit. Such a result can easily be produced by indulging in pride or passion, vanity or levity, pampering the appetite or peddling slander. Angelic eloquence cannot bear the burden of a careless and unconsecrated life. Some ministers, who are always deploring their want of ability to converse on the subject of religion, become adepts in all that pertains to merry-making sociality. The philosophy of such cases can easily be explained. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." O, may not the carelessness of our conversation crush out the conviction produced by our pulpit performances!

Brethren, if we really believe what we preach, we ought to be irreproachable in our lives and earnest in our efforts. If myriads of sinners all around us are exposed to eternal death; if our time to labor is contracted within the compass of a few rolling years; if we are commissioned from heaven to sound the alarm and awaken the dreaming masses from their death-like repose; surely we ought to be brave soldiers and zealous workers. Let us watch for opportunities to be useful, and sow beside all waters. A kind word, a searching question, a solemn appeal, a sweet invitation, or a heart-felt prayer, may be the means of untold benefit to the individuals and families with whom we mingle. Let no one who comes within the circle of our influence be permitted to plead, in the great day of destiny, "No man cared for my soul!"

June 16th, 1870. A. A. PHELPS.

For the World's Crisis.

MINUTES OF THE ADV. CHRIS. CONF. OF WISCONSIN.

ITS LOCATION.

This Annual State Conference was held in connection with the State Campmeeting, at Upper Sauk, beginning June 5th. The ground on which the meeting was held is regarded one of the prettiest in the world. It looks as though the Lord made it on purpose for a camp-ground. Here twenty-eight tents were pitched, in a circle, the large tent being in the centre, seated for a meeting-house, the circle being four or five rods back, with two eating establishments a few rods further back than the circle, making thirty tents in all on the ground; presenting a vivid contrast between this meeting and one here five years ago, when we had only one tent beside the large one. And many came this year without tents who resolved to bring them next year. The Wisconsin campmeeting has ceased to be an experiment, and has become a fixture, and will continue to grow, though it has already become nearly large enough for working purposes. An army can be so large that only a part of it can be brought into action; so with campmeetings.

THE ATTENDANCE.

Our congregations were good, being estimated by some as high as two thousand on Sunday. The best of order was observed through the entire meeting. We all retired at night as we would at our own homes, without fear. There being no symptoms of "rowdyism," we had no watch on the ground, except the holy angels which encamped round about us. Though encamped within a mile of a village, every person not belonging to the encampment left the ground as soon as our services were over, without once being invited to do so. We could not have been treated with more respect by the citizens.

THE MEETINGS.

The prayer-meetings were spirited, often more than one hundred prayers and testimonies being heard within an hour and a half. These were melting seasons, in which old backsliders were roused to action, and sinners broken down. The preaching from Bro. Grant and others was good. A goodly number were converted during the meeting, and twenty were baptized. In the love-feast on Sunday morning, one hundred and sixty-five testimonies were given within fifty-five minutes, and one hundred and sixty-two sat down at the Lord's table in the evening. It was a season of special interest.

On Wednesday, June 8th, a business session of the conference convened. We spent as little time in deliberations as we could get along with, so as to give more attention to the campmeeting. The result of several brief sessions was as follows:

1. O. S. Knapp was chosen President, and Wm. Sheldon, Secretary of the Conference. Business committee: G. G. Godfrey, O. Thomas, and Wm. Sheldon.

2. The churches at Cross Plains and Monticello were received into the conference.

3. The examination of ministers was attended to, but no cases were presented for trial.

4. A resolution was presented, and carried, requesting ministers to report by letter without fail at each annual meeting, if not able to be present in person.

5. We listened to a report from the churches of Wisconsin through their delegates, and by letter, in which were some things to gladden our hearts, but too lengthy to report.

6. Our ministers also reported many things to cheer us, some in person, and some by letter. The cause is onward in Wisconsin, though not without some local declensions, which we hope are only temporary.

7. Voted to send the following delegates to the next General Western Ministerial Conference: Wm. Sheldon, N. A. Hitchcock, and G. W. Turner.

8. Voted to send the following delegates to the Advent-Christian Conference of North America: Wm. Sheldon, O. S. Knapp, and Peter W. Matts, with the proviso that the following substitutes be chosen to fill vacancies, in the order named, in case any delegate should not be able to attend: N. A. Hitchcock, G. Thompson, and G. G. Godfrey. The delegate unable to go must notify his substitute in season.

9. Voted to request each church, before that conference convenes, to contribute its share of funds to send the delegates or their substitutes.

10. Voted to re-elect the old Campmeeting Committee.

Resolved, That it shall be the duty of the applicant for membership in this body, to procure, before such application, a recommendation from the church of which he is a member; and if not a member of any church, then from the Christian friends where he may have preached and labored. Carried.

Resolved, That we recommend the disuse of tobacco in any form by our ministers and members. Carried.

Voted to hold the next quarterly meeting in the vicinity of Belleville, either in connection with a fall campmeeting, or otherwise, leaving the precise time in the hands of the Secretary. Those wishing the second Q. M. held in their midst, must either bring their requests to this meeting, or send by letter.

The following ministers were present: Miles Grant, E. P. Graves, Geo. Thomson, A. C. Huyke, M. D. Peavy, N. A. Hitchcock, Wm. S. Shears, Philo Hitchcock, I Adrian, G. G. Godfrey, S. J. Adams, Sr. R. M. Rowell, F. J. Groat, G. W. Turner, and others.

The young people's prayer-meetings, held once a day on the ground under the supervision of Bro. Godfrey, were productive of much good.

The influence of this meeting will be felt all through Wisconsin.

WM. SHELDON, Secretary.

For the World's Crisis.

BRO. W. S. CAMPBELL.

BRO. GRANT:—The following information is derived from a letter just received from Bro. C.'s daughter, relative to his present condition:—

"His hand and arm are improving almost miraculously. His fever seems to be the most difficult to control at the present time. It is a regular wound fever. He is yet delirious at times. The story of his suffering cannot be told. He suffers from a cough, and raises much bad matter. Dr. N. says that the disease in his hand has gone through his whole system. He does not murmur or complain, and when not delirious, appears hopeful and cheerful. The doctor has been fearful of the hand becoming mortified, and wonders that it has not. It is still a loathsome sight; but he says that through the blessing of God he means to save it. . . . . Father says it is the precious prayers of the saints that will avail to save him if he is saved."

I trust that many have gone up in his behalf. Bro. C.'s address for the present is—"Meriden, Ct., care of Nelson H. Ives." Let substantial sympathy be offered.

L. S. LUDINGTON, M. D.

DEATH OF ELDER I. E. JONES.

Fell asleep in Jesus, at Wilmington, Ill., June 3d, 1870, Elder Israel E. Jones, aged fifty-eight years and six months. Disease, pulmonary consumption.

The subject of this notice was converted to God in early life, and began his ministry in connection with the Methodist Episcopal church. When the proclamation of the second coming of our Lord (about 1843) was being made by William Miller and others, our brother embraced the doctrine, and became associated with the Advent people in its promulgation. His services were eminently useful, both as a preacher and counsellor, in building up the Advent cause. His influence was extensively felt throughout the entire body. He possessed many noble traits of character, which won for him many warm-hearted friends. Genial in his nature, one could not help but feel at home and happy in his presence. Generous and true, with a heart full of sympathy for the poor, the afflicted, and the oppressed; liberal, unselfish, and unassuming; conscientious—scrupulous even in the most minute matters; a man of sterling integrity—these were some of the traits which marked his character. He had, however, his faults (and who has not?); but whatever may have been his defects, I am convinced they were of the head and not of the heart. I think he sometimes erred in judgment, but his honesty of purpose I never doubted.

As a preacher he possessed rare talents. His manner of delivery was very impressive, and his reasoning logical. At times he was really eloquent. When speaking on judgment scenes he would rivet the attention of his hearers, and make them feel as if they were in the presence of the Judge. While dwelling upon the rapture of the saints, he would often carry his hearers (by a vivid imagination) with shouts of rapture right into the kingdom of God.

The writer first became acquainted with him in the spring of 1847. At this time he was pastor of the Advent church in New York city. Under his labors, the church had attained to a high state of spirituality. On the 11th of April, eight happy souls were baptized by him, and "came up out of the water" shouting the praises of God. I was one of the number. O how I love to think of the many precious seasons we have enjoyed together.

In 1850 he published a monthly in Brooklyn, called The Monitor; and in 1853 one in Newark, N. J., entitled, The Christian Messenger. Both of these papers contained excellent articles on the fundamental doctrines of the Bible, and other interesting matter; but never attained to a very extensive circulation.

He continued with the Adventists until 1854, when feeling that his influence was in a great measure crippled, and believing that he could be more useful in another field of labor, he joined the Baptists—soon after which he removed with his family to the state of Illinois, where he resided until the day of his death. While there, he became pastor of several churches, but most of the time was prevented from preaching on account of ill health.

The following letter from his son (though not designed for publication,) will be of interest to his many friends as showing both his physical and spiritual state, toward the close of his life:—

Wilmington, June 4, 1870.

Dear brother:—My father and your friend, is at rest. He left us and his suffering yesterday, at 7–20 P. M., for a world where pain and dying are not found. He suffered very much at times, and for two weeks took no nourishment to any amount, having an exhausting diarrhea. His disease was begun in the fall of 1865, and has progressed variably, but very slowly since. About a year since he nearly recovered. Last winter a protracted meeting was being held a few miles from here, where I had been preaching, and he became extremely anxious to attend. He did so, and the Lord was wonderfully with him; the solemnity of things eternal deeply impressed the people, and an influence was exerted, an effect produced, which with God's blessing will be seen, I believe, in the future world. He bore the exertion wonderfully, and seemingly without being made worse. But from the next week, he took a downward turn, and more rapidly declined. Still he went slowly; he was able to ride out Sabbath before last, his cough was better than for many months, and his voice not weak. But his appetite failed him, and it became only a question of time. The last week he changed beyond all we had ever seen. The crisis came on yesterday, and it became evident that he could not rise. We gave him chloroform, when he entered the last struggle. For a while he nearly slept, while nature went on with her work. Once he opened his eyes and said, "O how thankful I am for this relief!" At last he quietly and easily sunk to rest. So much for the body. It will trouble him no more. But his spiritual state will be of greater interest to you.

Father was always more inclined, by nature and education, to the law than to the gospel; and such minds are liable to despair. Several weeks ago he had a struggle of mind which lasted some days. He saw himself as he never did before, because the Lord was placing his secret sins in the light of his countenance. Everything upon which he had before prided himself became as filthy rags indeed; the only difficulty was, he had not faith sufficient to appropriate the perfect robe of Jesus. He felt that he had deeply, terribly failed in his duty since he came West, and his repentance was deep and sincere. He saw how Christ could (and had faith to believe he would) save the vilest sinner; but the passage in Hebrews, respecting those who have experienced "the powers of the world to come,"—that if they fall away it would be "impossible to renew them again unto repentance" (chap. 10: 26, 27; 6: 5–6),—troubled him much. This latter portion he did not for a while notice; but when he saw it did not apply to his case—for he certainly had "repentance"—he came forth from this state of darkness into the largest, fullest surrender of his own merit, and into a most complete, childlike trust in Jesus. . . . Tears of joy fill my eyes as I think of the tender love, forgiveness of injuries, trust in, and love of Christ which he manifested. His heart yearned for the spiritual benefit of others, and when at last, when battling with the enemy, hearing me tell a young boy that I must postpone a Sabbath School because my services were needed in the house, he made a struggling effort to remonstrate, saying it was nearly over, and I would be free to attend to this work.

A great vacancy exists in our home, and great sorrow fills my heart. Yet I know he is at rest. O how much and often he quoted those texts pointing to rest in heaven—he had so little here, I would not for worlds wish him back in his miseries, yet our loss is very great and hard. Pray for us, my brother. My father loved you much, do not forget the children he has left. Yours in affliction,

CHALES M. JONES.

Thus it will be seen that our brother triumphed even in death. Having passed through all his sufferings, he now awaits the morning of the resurrection, when a crown of life and glory shall be given to all who overcome. The Lord grant to hasten it in its time.

A. H. BROWN.—Advent Herald.

Correspondence.

From Bro. J. Bickford.

BRO. GRANT:—The New Hampshire Mission Tent was pitched here in Great Falls, June 18th, under the auspices of D. M. Leavitt and J. C. Shorey, and struck to-day, the 29th. The weather has been all one could wish, and the attendance beyond all expectation. Most of the time the tent has been filled to its utmost capacity. Sunday, 19th, we had the pleasure of listening to two discourses presented by Bro. J. Couch, and we believe the force of his argument was sent to the hearts of the people, for it was manifested in their profound silence and attention.

During the week, afternoons were devoted to prayer and conference meetings, where all seemed anxious either to take part, or watch with an anxious heart. In the evenings God's truth was presented by D. M. Leavitt, E. S. Moulton, and G. W. Brown. Their preaching was pointed and effective; the arrow was well directed, and sinners began to inquire the way to Christ; backsliders began to retrace their steps, and there was a general rejoicing among the saints of God. Praise his name forever.

Sunday, 26th, in the afternoon, sermon by A. Simpson, on prophecy, showing that America was foretold by the prophet Isaiah. In the evening a spirited discourse by D. M. Leavitt, showing when the thief would be rewarded, and all the faithful would be gathered from every land and clime to their Eden home. Many are convinced we have the truth, and if it was not for the reproach of the last-day message, would be identified with us, and rejoice in the truth of God.

J. BICKFORD.

BRO. WM. SHELDON writes:—"I am about visiting the East again, to remain a few weeks, intending to spend the most of my time on or near the sea-coast, where churches may wish my services for a Sunday or two in a place; hoping thereby to reap an improvement in health. My recent short trip was beneficial. Friends may address me at Worcester, Mass., till July 30th, unless differently notified."

Solar Disturbances.

THE GREATEST OF ALL FUTURE POSSIBILITIES.

The sun is beginning to be an object of great anxiety to many scientific men. Spots on that orb are not at all uncommon, as may be ascertained by any one who will take trouble to look through a bit of smoked glass. But those phenomena have of late assumed an appearance which astonishes astronomers and is calculated to alarm that class which fancies it can detect portents of the future in the heavens. There are great gulfs now to be seen in the sun, each much larger than this earth, which we think of so much consequence in the universe. They increase at a prodigious rate, and sometimes seem destined to work a convulsion similar to that which has undoubtedly overtaken other solar systems. Suns as vast as that which lights and warms this world have been shattered to pieces or disappeared, and only the philosopher in his roving glance over the sky has detected the change. The inhabitants of other planets would not notice the disappearance of the planet we inhabit any more than we can see a speck of sand carried off by the wind on the seashore.

It is not a mere theory, but an ascertained fact, that the sun is always in a highly fluid condition—as one recent writer describes it, "a hurricane of flame, the disturbances of which might be best represented to our imaginations by the occasional explosion of a planet or two of nitro-glycerine." It is, moreover, subject to "magnetic storms," produced, as many suppose, by the movements of the planets around it. The great disturbance which is now going on was predicted months ago by scientific men. That we are much more concerned in the event than many people suppose, is quite certain. Self-registering magnetic instruments have revealed the fact that whenever a spot breaks out on the sun, the earth thrills under a mysterious magnetic influence.

In one case, a few years ago, it is upon record that the telegraphic machinery was set on fire, and the "pen of Bain's telegraph was followed by a flame," at this very instant a sudden burst of light showed itself in the sun. "In the telegraph stations at Washington and Philadelphia, the signal-men received strong electric shocks." . . . In fact, the electric condition of the earth was changed, though by what precise agency none can fully explain. We are at once lost in a region of conjecture, and can only feel that the fate which was foretold of old for the earth may at any moment overtake it. The forces are all in existence by which, in the solemn language of holy writ, the "heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat; the earth also, and the works that are therein, shall be burned up."

Once in every eleven years the sun exhibits the stupendous phenomena which are at present engaging the attention of philosophers. In 1850, "chasms and abysses," similar to those which are now reported, were seen by many observers. Their recurrence was predicted for 1870. Great disturbances in the world have usually accompanied these outbreaks, though why it should happen is another of the unfathomable mysteries of the universe. In 1848 there were magnetic storms, and we had a French Revolution. Again in 1859 they occurred, and we saw wars and rumors of wars in Europe.

The electrical condition of the atmosphere is thought to exert a greater influence upon the minds of men and nations than many are willing to believe, or than any one is able to explain. The telegraphs denote the changed condition of the earth, but they cannot indicate the change. In the language of the astronomer whose description of the sun we have just quoted, "the pens of all our telegraphic wires may some day trace in flame a handwriting more ominous of human destiny than was the handwriting which, during Belshazzar's feast, traced a warning on the wall of the fall of the Babylonian dynasty."—New York Times.

Obituaries.

SEVERANCE. Died, in Vernon, Vt., June 20th, Patience L., wife of Bro. Curtis D. Severance, aged fifty-one years.

In recording the death of this beloved sister, I am forcibly reminded of Dr. Judson's words a few days previous to his death. "There is no doubt resting upon my future." So to the surviving friends of our deceased sister her life for many years furnishes abundant proofs of her supreme love to Christ and devotion to his service, consequently her heirship to the "heavenly inheritance." In her character was blended a rare combination of qualities, constituting her the true woman that she was—true in every relation of life. In her death the church in this place sustains the loss of one who desired above all things her prosperity, and was a peacemaker in the same. A numerous circle of relatives deeply mourn her exit, as they miss the cheerful greeting of her who will come again as she was wont no more; but in no heart will the bitterness of this bereavement be felt like the companionless one, to whom she was as the light of the eye, and in whom his heart safely trusted.

The occasion of her funeral was improved by Dr. A. M. Higgins, in words of comfort from the text above alluded to, and recorded in Rom. 8: 18.

May we meet beyond the river—
We who linger breast the waves;
Greet her in that glad forever,
Where is found no place of graves.

C. O. S.

POLAND. Died, in South Casco, Me., March 26th, 1870, very suddenly, of apoplexy, Bro. Wm. M. Jordan, of Poland, aged fifty-five years.

Since early manhood he has sought to maintain the gospel faith, and a godly walk, and has left, we think, on the hearts of all his acquaintances the influence of an honest man. He was a kind husband and father, and to all human appearances could not well be spared. But the all-wise One knoweth best, and we must meekly bow to what he permits. May his grace sustain the widow, and his hands of love lead up the little ones to a noble life.

He was buried at Buxton, where appropriate services were held, Eld. D. A. Maddox presiding.

J. ALBERT LIBBY.

STAPLES. Died, in South Casco, Me., March 27th, 1870, Eld. Peter Staples, aged seventy-four years.

During the earlier part of his ministerial life he was associated with the F. W. Baptists, but for the last twenty or more years has been an active believer (though he has preached but little) with those who look for redemption when Jesus comes. He loved to meet with christians, and his voice was ever heard with counsel for the saints and admonition for sinners. He was always happy in the society of friends, and his home was made pleasant to visitors by a kindly greeting, and a feeling that they were welcome. A wife, son, and two daughters, are left to mourn.

Remarks at the funeral by the writer, from Matt. 11: 28.

J. ALBERT LIBBY.

A. C. Times, please copy.

ROBERTS. Died, in Erie, Pa., May 31st, 1870, Bro. J. W. Roberts, aged seventy years.

Bro. Roberts had been an Advent believer twenty-eight years. He died in strong faith in the soon coming of Jesus, and with the full hope of coming forth in the resurrection of the just. He was the only Advent believer in Erie for many years.

The funeral was attended by Mr. Knapp of the Baptist church. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."—Com.

FOSS. Died, in Barnstead, N. H., June 2d, 1870, Dorothy Foss, wife of Bro. Simon Foss, aged fifty-four years and nine months.

She leaves a husband and three children, and a large circle of other relatives, to mourn. Words of comfort were spoken on the funeral occasion by the writer, from Isa. 25: 7, 8.

S. S. MOONEY.

Married.

GILMAN—SEAVEY. At the residence of the bride's parents, in Boston, Mass., June 29th, 1870, by Elder John G. Hook, Mr. GEORGE E. GILMAN and Miss ORRISSA J. SEAVEY, both of Boston.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

VIENNA, June 30. The Provincial Correspondence thinks that an important guarantee of European peace has been lost in the death of the Earl of Clarendon.

ROME, June 30. Tuesday and yesterday were distinguised by a series of the grandest and most impressive ecclesiastical festivals that have been witnessed in Rome during the present century. The Anniversary of the Corpus Domini falling upon Tuesday was appropriately celebrated by processions, music and salutes concluding with vesper services at St. Peter's. The procession was of unusual length, and numbered thousands of devotees. The procession of the Bishops and prelates of the Cathedral was of great length. The high dignitaries of the church taking seats in the chancel beneath the grand altar while the grand choir augmented by many celebrated voices rolled forth the glorious notes of praise. The devotions were conducted with the utmost magnificence, and pompous display. The immense nave of St. Peters was filled to repletion. In the chancel were six hundred Bishops in full canonicals. The entire priesthood participated in the ceremony of the vespers. The interior of the Cathedral was georgeously decorated with festoons, wreaths, etc. The ceremony of the blessing of the pallium designed for presentation to the most zealous, and worthy Archbishop was performed yesterday. In the evening there were grand illuminations in the various churches and public buildings. The mighty dome of St. Peter's stood out in the sky as one mass of fire presenting a sublime spectacle. A grand exhibition of fireworks concluded the festivities. The Ecumenical Council resumed its sittings to-day.

PARIS, July 1. An exciting discussion took place in the Corps Legislatif last evening. The debate was incited by the introduction of the Government proposition, fixing the strength of the army contingent at 90,000 men. The bill provoked the opposition of the republican deputies, who sharply attacked the ministry of M. Ollivier for its measures. One of the deputies vehemently called on Ollivier to maintain his principles or resign. Great excitement followed.

PARIS, June 29. Ex-Queen Isabella, of Spain, has caused to be promulgated a manifesto in which she justifies all her actions during her reign upon the throne. She announces in conclusion, that she distransposes of her crown to her son, Prince Alphonso, the twelfth heir of a hundred kings.

The Empress Carlotta is in the last stages of insanity. Her death, it is expected, will occur at an early day.

June 30. The Emperor Napoleon is still afflicted with rheumatic pains. He takes frequent short walks in the gardens surrounding the palace of St. Cloud. He also rises early, and after luncheon receives visitors and grants audiences until 10 A. M. Afterwards, he indulges in light drive, but labors little.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, June 30. The Khedive will go to Constantinople in consequence of the pressing advices from Paris.

VIENNA, July 2. A sharp shock of an earthquake was experienced throughout Greece yesterday. The town of Sartoria is a heap of ruins. An island in that neighborhood suddenly disappeared at the time of the shock.

St. Petersburg, July 3. The Czech Catholics residing here publicly announce their determination to adopt the Greek faith should the dogma of papal infallibility be adopted.

DOMESTIC.

San Francisco, June 30. Tucson (Arizona) advices to June 12th have been received. Governor Safford reports that he has had a conference with a number of chiefs representing 2,000 of the most ferocious Indians. They desire peace. Governor Safford intimates that an organized and paid force of volunteers would effectually subdue the Indians. He says the loss of whites the past month has been about twelve, and the Indians eighty.

Passing Events.

☞ The public debt statement for July 1st, 1870, is one of the most remarkable exhibits yet presented from the Treasury Department. The reduction in the national debt during the past month was over $20,000,000, according to the figures of M. Boutwell, who, in the calculation, makes allowance for the accrued interest. The reduction in actual figures, however, is over $28,000,000.

☞ Red Cloud's visit to his Great Father appears to have somewhat nettled the noble savage. It is believed that he is preparing for the warpath and that he will indulge his native talent in cultivating scalp locks to its fullest extent. Gen. Sheridan reports the posts on the frontier to be in wretched condition and incapable of protecting the country from the inroads of the savages.

☞ A correspondent of the Ploughman reports strawberries grown in Barnesville, Ohio, of which ten handsomely filled a quart measure.

☞ A Western farmer predicts that the immense quantity of wheat this year will bring flour down to four dollars per barrel.

☞ Mr. Spurgeon recently announced his intention of delivering a sermon to rich men. None will be admitted to the hall unless worth $200,000.

Religious Items.

— The Grand Catholic Cathedral to be built in London will rival St. Paul's, and will be among the most magnificent ecclesiastical structures in the world. A portion of land in the vicinity of Westminster Abbey has been purchased for about £550,000. Its extent is between three and four acres, and the price is said to be extraordinarily low for such a tract in the centre of London.

— The Methodists propose to erect, in one of their Philadelphia churches, a stained glass window, thirty feet high by fifteen wide, in honor of George Whitefield, under whose influence the congregation was gathered.

— The other day, in speaking of the trials which he experienced from the opposition party, Pope Pius said: "Jesus Christ has chosen that my life should greatly resemble His; but he had but one Judas about him; about me there are scores."

— Pope Pius IX. will commence the twenty-fifth year of his Pontificate on June 17. Tradition gives 25 years, 2 months, and 7 days to the Pontificate of St. Peter, and the Roman proverb says that no Pope shall see the years of Peter. Some say that Pius intends to resign before that limit is reached, which will be the 24th of August, 1871.

— There are, in New York city, 240 Protestant churches, with a membership of 72,000. There are also 140 Protestant missions, with Sabbath schools, etc. There are 40 Roman Catholic churches.

— The Pays (French paper) of Montreal has a letter from St. Hyacinthe, Canada, saying that twenty-six Catholic families of the parish of St. Ephrem d' Upton have abjured their religion, and it is expected that others will follow.

— The Jewish Messenger says that out of 200 Jewish congregations in this country not more than thirty belong to the Jewish Reform Party.

— The Pope's constitution has been greatly strained by his unusual exertions. His last epileptic fit continued twenty-four hours.

— Father Cleveland, the veteran City Missionary of Boston, retires from all secular concerns on his 98th birth-day.

— A pamphlet has appeared at Rome, denouncing acquiescence in the dogma of the personal infallibility of the Pope as a mortal sin. It is supposed to have been written by the Bishop of St. Brieux, and has produced an extraordinary sensation.

— A very singular revival occurred at Batavia, Ill., a few weeks since. Some fifteen irreligious persons waited on Rev. Isaac Lineburger, of the Methodist Church, and requested him to hold some extra meetings as they desired to be converted. The meetings were promptly held, and the fifteen were the first fruits of a very gracious work.

Notices.

Tent Meeting.

The tent meeting in South Providence, R. I., will continue (the Lord willing) through the week, and over Sunday, July 10th. The Lord is blessing. Brethren and sisters, come and help. Take the South Providence horse-cars, and ride to the end of the route, and there you will find the tent. Bro. L. Boutell is expected to be with me.

ENOCH MORRILL.

Grove Meeting.

A grove meeting will be held (D. V.) at Chamberlain's grove, in Foxcroft, Me., opposite Dover, Saturday, P. M., and Sunday, July 9th and 10th. Preaching by H. L. HASTINGS.

Maine Mission Tent.

The "Maine Mission Tent," under the charge of Bro. and Sr. Taylor, will probably be in the field for service in a few days. All desiring tent meetings in any locality in this State are requested to write as soon as possible to either of the undersigned. W. H. MITCHELL, Kennebunkport. R. R. YORK, Portland.

Grove Meeting.

I will hold a grove meeting at Old Point, on Sodus Bay, Wayne Co., commencing July 7th, at half past ten A. M., and hold over Sunday, the 10th. Come, brethren, and sisters, with your baskets well filled, your hearts burning with the love of God. Come praying, and the Lord will bless us. We expect others to help preach the word.

M. R. MILES.

Notice.

I will hold a two days meeting in Island City, commencing July 16th, and continue over the Sabbath. Can Bro. Denslow, of Lovina, Putnam Co., attend this meeting? A. F. DUGGER.

Notice.

Friends writing either of the Clinton Arch Missionaries through July, will please direct to the care of G. W. Smith, No. 273 West 22d St., New York City. M. E. DOW.

Conn. State Tent.

Parties desiring the tent pitched in their vicinity, will please correspond with the Chairman of the Committee, H. H. DICKINSON, Hartford, Ct.

To the King's Servants.

Some of the brethren and sisters in Warner Village, N. H., and vicinity, have decided to have preaching one half of the time at Union Hall, the second and third Sabbaths of July, and after that the first two Sabbaths of each month.

Correspond with B. S. COLBY, Warner Village, N. H.

In behalf of the congregation worshiping at Warner Village. ALLEN DAMON.

Notice.

As the time has come for us to start the Mass. Mission Tent, we shall need funds to carry forward the work; and we wish those who have subscribed would forward the amount to the Treasurer, C. GOODRICH, No. 7 Salem Street, Boston, as soon as convenient.

S. W. THURBER, Pres. of Conf.

Notice.

"The Levant Union Bethel Association" are engaged in building a house, in which to worship the living God, at Levant Village, Me. This house is called "The Levant Union Bethel." It is open and free to all denominations. Will cost about twenty-five hundred dollars, of which our late and lamented Bro. Joseph Turner paid one thousand dollars, and is the first and only meeting-house erected in the town. We have contracted to have the building finished July 1st, 1870. It will be dedicated Saturday, July 2d, at ten o'clock A. M., by the ministers of the various denominations, Bro. H. L. Hastings, of Boston, associating. Bro. Hastings, assisted by others, will continue to hold services in the same house on the 2d, 3d, and 4th of July. F. A. BAKER.

Special Notice.

To all interested in having a State Conference organized in Ohio: Beloved brethren in Christ,—Believing that the end of all things is at hand, and that what we do must be done quickly, and that the Lord has raised us up as a people to herald the coming kingdom, and to lift our warning voice, and cry aloud, and spare not, and in earnest tones bid the slumbering myriads of earth's sons and daughters to prepare for solemn judgment; and believing we can better accomplish the great work allotted us to do, we have, after advising with brethren, thought best to appeal to every Advent church in the State, and where there is no church, to individuals, who are interested in forming such a conference, to write at once to Eld. E. McCullock, Pastor of the Advent Church in Nevada, Ohio; and, if sufficient interest is manifest, we shall issue a call for a conference, to be held immediately after the campmeetings are over. Come, brethren, let us hear from you at once relative to this matter, and may heavenly wisdom guide your hearts aright. For the Brethren,

E. MCCULLOCK.

Notice.

The Advent brethren in Buffalo, N. Y., have hired a hall and established a prayer and conference meeting every Sabbath, at two o'clock P. M. The hall is on Maine Street, in the Arcade building, second floor, No. 9, and is large enough for preaching. Ministers passing this way who can spend a Sabbath with us, we will give notice of by our daily papers, if informed by Friday. They can expect but a small compensation at present, as most are poor, and we are just making an effort to gather the scattered flock. Some fifty in the city hold our views, and we hope, by a permanent meeting, some preaching, and God's blessing, we shall be able to form a stable church. Preachers can call on Wm. Shaw, 528 Eagle Street, or J. Blain, 79 North Division Street, H. Tanner, 255 Pearl street, and a home will be provided. We can have no meeting on week days at present, but hope to by and by.

For the brethren, J. BLAIN.

The Iowa Mission Tent.

Those who desire tent, camp, grove, or basket-meetings, will do well to correspond with me soon, so that I may make arrangements for summer work. In these meetings will be presented the gospel of Jesus Christ, with a view to do the people good. No party, sect, or hobby to build up, but to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Every lover of Jesus shall be free to work with us. All lovers of this pure christianity are requested to write soon. Direct to Peter S. W. Deyo, Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meeting on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's. O. G. TRUNDY.

Notice.

The Advent Christian Church in Nashua, N. H., have hired a hall in Beasom's Block, corner of Maine and Factory Streets, up two flights of stairs, well fitted up, where we shall hold meetings three times on the Sabbath, and Thursday and Saturday evenings. For the brethren,

NATHANIEL EATON.

Notice.

To the brethren in New York State: Shall we have a general campmeeting in the old Empire State? Will the brethren think and pray about it, and when we meet at our June conference, decide when and where we will hold it, and appoint a committee to arrange for the meeting? We have strength enough in Western New York for a good campmeeting, if we will all take hold of the matter. The Lord is coming. Let us do all we can to strengthen each other, and save the perishing around us. Please write immediately. MILTON R. MILES, Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.

Notice.

Will our brethren, who wish the campmeeting committee to build their tents at Alton Bay, send to me at once (at Farmington, N. H.), the plan, or how they wish them built? J. G. SMITH.

Notice.

The Advent brethren have rented the Temperance Hall on Maine St., in Brunswick, Me., and will hold meetings on Sunday regularly. Seats free to all who are disposed to meet with us. Ministering brethren are invited to come over and help us. Per order, C. GOUD.

Notice.

Putney's Hall, Sutton Mills, N. H. Meetings every Sabbath for the present. This is a new movement on the part of the Advent people of Sutton, and we think it is according to the will of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us.

A. CRESSEY, FRANK NELSON, SAM'L ROWELL, } Committee.

Notice.

We gave $78 for our meeting-house in Vienna, all in good repair outside. We need more to finish it inside. Some have pledged to help us to the amount of $30. We want $70 more. If not obtained, shall be obliged to sell it.

H. B. SEVEY.

Notice.

All persons, rich or poor, wishing to have the Rhode Island Mission Tent pitched in any locality where there is an opportunity to get the great truths of the plan of salvation before the people, will address me by letter, at South Killingly, Ct.

E. BELLOWS.

Notice.

Brethren in Conn. wishing my labors between now and the 20th of July, will please address me at once at Forestville, Conn., and appoint for me accordingly through the Crisis.

S. C. HANCOCL.

German Tracts.

Bro. Reimer has a good supply. Send your orders to L. REIMER, 1006 Chesnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Notice.

I would say that persons desiring practical treatment with the Resuscitator for diseases, may address me at 43 Revere Street, Boston.

W. C. STONE.

Inquiry.

Brethren and sisters of Sutton, Bradford, and Warner: Can we join together and have a tent meeting? We in Bradford think we can.

Notice.

As the piece of music entitled "Sweet by-and by" cannot be obtained in sheet form, I will send the book containing words and music, post-paid, for 35 cents. "The Pilgrim's Harp," 60 cts., post-paid. GEORGE E. LEE, Brimfield, Mass.

☞ A short poem, "The Blissful Vision," may be had for 30 cts. per dozen, of the author, J. Albert Libby, West Poland, Me.

☞ To Preaching Brethren.

Those wishing to preach in — Correspond with

Westfield, Mass. .... E. A. Eggleston.
Savoy, Mass .... Daniel Miller, or A. E. Bliss.
Wakefield, Mass. .... G. R. Tyzzer.
Worcester, Mass. .... H. M. Blackmer, Willard M. Hall, or Willard G. Ruggles.
Portsmouth, N. H. .... T. E. Wood, Box 1445.
Hampton, N. H. .... Joseph A. Philbrook.
Manchester, N. H. .. A. J. Mahew, S. R. Davidson, or O. Proctor.
London Ridge, N. H. .. Daniel L. Moore, Wm. Batchelder, Edward Mudget. Fourth Sabbath engaged.
Seabrook, N. H. ...... R. S. Johnson, of Hampton, N. H., or Chs. Barton, of Seabrook.
Chichester, N. H. .... C. R. Knowles.
Goshen, N. H. .... O. F. Cain.
Rye, N. H. .... Moses C. Philbrick or Samuel Smart.
Pittsfield, N. H. (Bethel) .... C. S. Emerson.
Portland, Me. .... R. R. York, S. K. Dyer D. F. Scamman.
Lewiston, Me. .... Albert Burgess.
South Berwick, (Great Works), Me. .. Harrison Dow.
Kennebunk Depot, Me. .... Rufus Duran.
Vernon, Vt. .... J. O. Allen.
Bristol, Ct. ...... B. Hitchcock, Forestville, Ct.
West Glocester, R. I. .... Geo. A. Hawkins, Putnam, Ct.
New Haven, Ct. .... W. F. Carpenter, 73 State St.
Pleasant Valley, Ct. .... Reuel O. White, New Hartford, Ct.
Meriden, Ct. .... E. J. Whitehead, West Meriden, Conn., Box 4.
New Britain, Conn .... A. Powell.
Wrightville, Ct. .... D. A. Grant, Torrington, Ct.
Newfield, Ct. .... Wm. Ripley, Pleasant Valley, Ct.
New Milford, Ct. .... J. Coggswell.
Morris, Ct. .... Joseph Curtis.
Rochester, N. Y. .... J. R. Cooper, 4 Hickory St.
Philadelphia, Pa. .... Frank B. Davis, 1715 Markham Street, or I. N. Wilfong, 125 N. 2nd St.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL.

J. Couch .... Sunday, July 17th
M. Batchelor .... Sunday, July 24th

BOSTON, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.

N. M. Davis .... Sunday, July 10th
Nathan Whiting .... Sunday, July 17th

Meetings in South Boston on Wednesday evenings, at C. W. Huntress', 3 Lowland street. On Friday evenings at J. N. Berry's, 227 E. street.

EAST BOSTON.

Meetings are held at Chase's Block, up two flights, at 154 Meridian Street, on Sundays, at the usual hours, also Monday and Thursday evenings.

George A. Streeter .... Sunday, July 10th
C. Goodrich .... Sunday, July 24th

CHELSEA, MASS., (LIBRARY HALL.)

T. M. Preble .... Sabbath, July 10th
M. Batchelor .... Sunday, July 17th
J. Hemenway .... Sunday, July 24th
J. Pinkham .... Sunday, July 31st

CHARLESTOWN.

Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.

Dr. A. M. Higgins .... Sunday, July 10th
L. Boutell .... Sunday, July 17th
T. M. Preble .... Sunday, July 24th

Herd's Corner, Mass .... Sunday, July 10th
Kennebunkport, Me .... Sunday, July 17th
North Carver .... Sunday, July 31st
C. GOODRICH.

Lynn, Mass .... Sunday, July 10th
Lowell, Mass .... Sunday, July 24th
J. COUCH.

Northfield, Mass .... Friday evening, July 8th
Vernon, Vt .... Sabbath, July 10th
Chicopee Falls, Mass .... Monday evening, July 11th
Springfield, Mass .... Tuesday evening, July 12th
Westfield, Mass .... Wednesday evening, July 13th
Westfield Farms, Mass .... Thurs. evening, July 14th
Hartford, Ct .... Sabbath, July 17th
New Britain, Ct .... Tuesday evening, July 19th
Bristol, Ct .... Wednesday evening, July 20th
New Preston, Ct .... evenings, July 21st and 22d
Where Bro. Morgan may arrange .. Sabbath, July 24th
A. ROSS.

Dover, N. H. (City Hall) .... Sunday, July 10th
Manchester, N. H .... Sunday, July 17th
Lowell, Mass .... Sunday, Aug. 21st
A. A. PHELPS.

Lawrence, Mass .... Sunday, July 10th
T. L. CHURCHILL.

Worcester, Mass .... Sunday, July 10th
I. B. POTTER.

Lawrence, Mass .... evenings, July 12th and 13th
Portsmouth .... evenings, July 14th and 15th
Kennebunk Depot, Me .... evening, July 19th
Kennebunkport .... July 20th, and over Sunday and as much longer as the Lord may direct.
B. P. MANNING.

Chatham, N. H. (Eastman's school-house) ... July 10th
Denmark Corner, Me .... Sabbath, July 17th
East Stoneham, Me .... Sabbath, July 31st
West Stoneham .... Sabbath, Aug. 7th
Brownfield, Me .... Sabbath, Aug. 28th
GEO. W. HOWARD.

Albany, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
Subject in the P. M. the redemption of the race from the Adamic penalty, necessary to a subsequent offer of special salvation by faith.
Bartlett, N. H. (in Bro. Deering's grove) .... July 17th
West Ossipee, N. H .... Sunday, July 24th
Belmout, N. H. (Factory Village) .... Sunday, July 31st
Manchester, N. H .... Sunday, Aug. 7th
Stoneham, Mass .... Sunday, Aug. 14th
Woburn, Mass. (on the Common) at five o'clock P. M., or at such time as Bro. Marcy may arrange, Aug. 14th.
L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Marden's Corners .... Sunday, July 10th
Salisbury (Union meeting-house) .... Sunday, July 17th
Nottingham .... Sunday, July 24th
S. S. MOONEY.

Chichester, N. H .... Sunday, July 17th and once in two weeks until further notice.
C. R. PARSONS.

Middleton Corner, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
MARK STEVENS.

Water Village, N. H .... Sunday, July 17th
MARK STEVENS.
C. COLMAN.

Campton, N. H. (Bump school-house) Sun., July 10th
Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house) Sun., July 17th
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Portland, Me .... Sabbath, July 17th
G. W. BURNHAM.

Bryant's Pond, Me .... Sunday, July 10th
Great Falls, Windham, Me. (as Bro. Wheeler may arrange) Sunday, July 17th.
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Weld, Me. (Town House) .... Sunday, July 10th
Peru, Me. (Wait school-house) .... Sunday, July 17th
Carthage, Me .... Sunday, July 24th
A. A. C. ABBOTT.

Rome (yellow school-house) .... Sunday, July 10th
Belgrade Depot .... Sunday, July 17th
H. B. SEVEY.

Springfield (on Hill) .... Sunday July 10th
Wrightville, Conn .... Sunday, July 17th
New Milford, Conn .... July 20th, and over the 24th
A. D. FLAGG.

Melvin Village .... Sunday, July 10th
West Ossipee .... Sunday, July 17th
Lake Village (North Church) .... Sunday, July 24th
T. E. LANG, JR.

North Haverhill, N. H. (at the brick house) Sunday, July 17th.
W. H. SHAW.

Loudon Ridge, N. H. .... Sundays, Aug. 14th and 15th
Will some one meet me at Lake Village Depot, at two P. M., Saturday, Aug. 13th?
E. S. MOULTON.

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., July 10th
Rawsonville, Vt .... Sunday, July 17th
Z. T. WOOD.

Lower Gilmanton (Chapel) .... Sunday, July 10th
N. B. MCMURPHY.

Rochester, N. H. (Chapel) .... Sabbath, July 10th
Barnstead, N. H., (Lock's Corner) Sabbath, July 17th
Barnstead, N. H., Oak Ground, (Tuttle school-house) Sabbath, July 24th.
Loudon Ridge .... Sabbath, July 31st
Lower Gilmanton (where Eld. J. G. Munsey may appoint) evening, July 29th.
Guilford Village (Universalist meeting-house) Sabbath, Aug. 7th.
ABIGAIL M. TRIPP.

Stoneham, Mass .... Sunday, July 10th
Chicopee Falls, Mass .... Sunday, July 17th
Springfield .... July 19th
Warehouse Point, Ct .... July 20th
New Britain, Ct .... July 22nd
J S. WHITE.

South Berwick, Me. (Great Works), Sunday, July 10th
JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Pittston, Me. (conference) .. July 23d and over Sunday
Cushing, Me .... Sunday, July 3d, and baptize
H. S. MITCHELL.

Manchester, N. H. (Merrimac Hall) Sunday, July 10th
Porter, Me .... Sunday, July 17th
Melvin Village, N. H .... Sunday, July 31st
T. W. PIPER.

North Springfield, Vt .... Sunday, July 17th
Bridgewater, Vt .... Sundays, July 10th and 24th
Plymouth, Vt., at 7½ o'clock .. Sabbath eve., July 10th
H. F. CARPENTER.

New Milford, Ct .... Sunday, July 10th
Bridgewater, Ct. (at Sr. Strong's) .. Sunday, July 10th
Southville, Ct .... Sunday, July 17th
Platt Dist. school-house, July 17th.
Roxbury, Ct. (at Sr. Teeple's) .... Sunday, July 24th
New Milford .... Sunday, July 31st
H. K. WALLING.

East Rochester .... Sunday, July 10th
J. H. F. VARNEY.

Melvin Village, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
Meredith, N. H., (Dolloff Hall) .... Sunday, July 17th
Lake Village, N. H. (North Church) Sun., July 24th
Manchester, N. H .... Sunday, July 31st
Dover, N. H .... Sunday, Aug. 7th
Great Falls, N. H .... Sunday, Aug. 14th
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works) Sunday, Aug. 21st
Hampton, N. H .... Sunday, Aug. 28th
A. SIMPSON.

East Colebrook, Kiddersville .... Sunday, July 10th
U. G. LADD.

Seabrook, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
Warner Village (Union Hall) .... Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th.
ALLEN DAMON.

South Elliot, Me .... Sundays, July 10th and 17th
Seabrook, N. H .... Sundays, July 24th and 31st
E. S. MOULTON.

Holderness, N. H. (Carr school-house) Sun., July 10th
Will some Bro. meet me at the Plymouth depot, noon train?
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall) .... Sunday, July 17th
Some Bro. meet me at the Meredith depot, second down train.
East Orford, N. H. (Davis town school-house) Sunday, July 24th. Will Bro. Hackings meet me at Wentworth, July 21st, two o'clock P. M., at G. Deans?
Keene, N. H .... Sunday, July 31st
Hinsdale, N. H .... Sunday, Aug. 7th
Will Bro. Streeter meet me at the Hinsdale depot Aug. 5th, first down train?
Northfield, Mass. (where Bro. Streeter may appoint) Sunday, Aug. 14th.
If any of these appointments conflict, write me immediately at West [illegible], N. H. [illegible]

Wyoming, R. I. .... Sabbath, July 10th
Seabrook, N. H. .... evening, July 15th
Portland, Me. .... Sabbaths, July 24th and 31st
Kennebunk Depot, Me. .... Sabbath, Aug. 7th
South Berwick, Me., (Great Works) ... Sab., Aug. 14th
Seabrook, N. H. .... Sabbath, Aug. 21st
C. H. SWEET.

Lawrence, Mass. .... Wednesday, June 29th
Wakefield .... Thursday evening, June 30th
Lynn .... Friday, July 1st
Webster .... Sabbath, July 10th
Charlton (Chapel) .... Sunday, July 17th
Will be at Charlton depot 1½ P. M. H. MUNGER.

I shall be at West Sterling, Mass., June 28th to July 12th. Will preach near that section any evening during that time. Please address me at West Sterling, Mass. H. K. FLAGG.

Springfield, Mass. (on the hill) .... Sunday, July 10th
Southington, Ct .... Sunday, July 17th
Holden, Mass .... Sunday, July 24th
Z. FORD.

West Ossipee, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
C. LOCKE.
J. B. BROWN.

Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall) Sabbath, July 10th
SIMEON ROBY.

Alton Corner, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
East Rochester, N. H .... Sunday, July 17th
H. M. BRYANT.

Great Falls .... Sunday, July 10th
Dover .... Sunday, July 17th
Wakefield, Mass .... Sunday, July 24th
Stoneham, Mass .... evenings, July 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th
J. PINKHAM.

Richmond, Me. (as Bro. H. D. Reed may arrange) Sabbath, July 17th. T. M. PREBLE.

Cape Porpoise, Me .... Sunday, July 10th
Will some friend meet me at Kennebunkport, Saturday noon, at the stage office?
Gonic, N. H. (Chapel) .... Sunday, July 24th
ALMIRA A. MARSTON.

Stowe, South Hollow, Vt. (school-house) .... July 17th
Brethren from Waterbury and other places are requested to attend. J. A. CLEAVELAND.

Warehouse Point (at the Chapel) .. Sabbath, July 17th
Scitico .... Sabbath, July 24th
G. L. WHITE.

Ansonia, Ct .... July 10th, and onward
Chicopee Falls, Mass .... Sunday, July 24th
WM. A. & M. L. DURAND.

Cabot, Vt .... Sunday, July 10th
E. N. MORSE.

Oneida, N. Y. (as Brn. Morrill and Post may arrange) Sunday, July 10th.
Springfield, Mass. (on the hill) .... Sunday, July 17th
Charlton, Mass. (Chapel) .... Sunday, July 24th
Will be at Charlton Depot at 1½ P. M.
CHAS. P. GREENMAN.

Lorrain, N. Y. (in a grove owned by Mr. Asa Randall), Sunday, July 10th, at 10½ A. M., and one P. M. Baptism in the Gulf at nine A. M.
Boylston, N. Y. (Spruce Dist.) evenings, July 11th and 12th.
Greenboro, N. Y .... evening, July 13th
West Monroe, Oswego Co., N. Y. (grove meeting) Sunday, July 17th, at 10½ A. M. and one P. M.
South Butler, N. Y .... Sunday, July 24th
Port Byron, N. Y .... evenings, July 27th and 28th
Fish-Creek Landing, N. Y., Sun., July 31st, at one P. M.
Glenmore, N. Y .... evening, Aug. 1st
C. H. WILLIAMS.

Hollis Centre .... Sunday, July 10th
Bonny Eagle .... Sunday, July 17th
T. P. S. HAMPSON.

Nottingham, N. H. (where Bro. Rendall may appoint) Sunday, July 10th.
Rye, N. H .... Sunday, July 17th
J. G. SMITH.

East Holderness .... Sunday, July 10th
LEVI ALLEN.

Square Pond, Ct .... Sabbath, July 10th
Webster, Mass .... Sabbath, July 17th
Woodstock Valley, Ct .... Sabbath, July 24th
P. S. BUTLER.

Woodstock Valley, Ct .... Sunday, July 10th
Abington, Ct .... Sunday, July 17th
Square Pond, Ct .... Sunday, July 24th
A. MORSE.

Terryville, Ct. (Bro. O. T Yale's neighborhood) Sunday, July 10th.
Cheshire Street, Ct .... Sunday, July 17th
Meriden, Ct .... Sunday, July 31st
WM. STUART.

Burlington, Me., Friday, 6 P. M., July 8th, and Sunday, 10th.
Will Mr. Daniel Tibbetts meet me at Lincoln Station on arrival of train from Bangor, about noon?
Folsom's Ridge (Burlington) Tues., 5 P. M., July 12th
At Falls (where Bro. Charles B. Littlefield may appoint), Wednes., July 13th.
Lowell (near tannery of Mr. Webb) Friday, July 15th
Burlington (meeting-house) .... Sunday, July 17th
THOMAS SMITH.

New Britain, Ct .... Sunday, July 10th
Terryville, Ct. (Bro. Yale's neighborhood) July 17th
Wolcottville, Ct .... Sunday, July 24th
CHAS. C. BARKER.

Sugar Hill, N. H .... once in two weeks
N. WHEELER.

Springfield, Mass .... Sunday, July 10th
West Meriden, Ct .... Sunday, July 17th
W. N. PILE.

Meredith Centre, N. H .... Sunday, July 10th
Meredith Neck .... Sunday, July 17th
N. GLIDDEN.

Strafford, N. H. (Roberts' school-house) Sun., July 10th
North Narrows, N. H .... Sunday, July 17th
East Rochester, N. H .... Sunday, July 24th
WM. BODGE.

Greenwich, Mass. (North West Dist.) Sun., July 10th
E. OWEN.

Rye, N. H .... Sabbath, July 10th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Edenboro, Erie Co., Pa .... Sunday, July 17th
Rootville, Break Bread .... first Sunday in the month
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

LOWELL, MASS.

Wm. H. Mitchell .... Sunday, July 10th
J. Pinkham .... Sunday, Aug. 7th

CONCORD, N. H., (CENTRE STREET.)

M. Batchelor .... Sabbath, July 10th
Allen Damon .... Sabbath, July 17th
A. Ross .... Sabbath, Aug. 7th

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)

A. A. Phelps .... Sundays, July 24th and 31st

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

Geo. W. Burnham .... Sunday, July 10th
C. H. Sweet .... Sunday, July 17th
Allen Damman .... Sundays, July 24th and 31st
J. H. F. Varney .... Sunday, Aug. 7th

DOVER, N. H.

A. A. Phelps .... Sunday, July 10th
J. Pinkham .... Sunday, July 17th
T. W. Piper .... Sunday, July 24th
J. W. White .... Sunday, July 31st

LOUDON RIDGE, N. H.

L. E. Saulpaugh .... Sunday, July 10th
D. F. Leavitt .... Sunday, July 17th
Joseph Harvey .... Sunday, July 24th
A. Kidder .... Sunday, July 31st

HAMPTON, N. H.

Joseph W. White .... Sunday, July 17th

BIDDEFORD, ME.

Jared Whitman .... Sabbath, July 10th
R. R. York .... Sabbath, July 17th
Geo. W. Burnham .... Sabbath, July 24th

HARTFORD, CT.

C. K. Barnes .... Sunday, July 10th
A. Ross .... Sunday, July 17th

WALLINGFORD, CT. (Grove near Bro. Dudley's.)

S. C. Hancock .... Sunday, July 10th

PLEASANT VALLEY, CT.

J. S. White .... Sunday, July 24th
H. H. Dickinson .... Sunday, July 10th
R. K. Stark .... Sunday, Aug. 7th
G. L. White .... Sunday, Aug. 21st

SCITICO, CT.

R. K. Stark .... Sunday, July 10th
G. L. White .... Sunday, July 17th
A. D. Flagg .... Sunday, July 24th

NEW BRITAIN, CT.

C. C. Barker .... Sunday, July 10th
A. M. Higgins .... Sunday, July 17th
Wm. Stuart .... Sunday, July 24th
J. S. White .... Sunday, July 31st

BRISTOL, CT.

R. K. Stark .... Sabbath, July 17th
M. L. Durand .... Sabbath, July 31st

ROCHESTER, N. H.

There will be preaching in the chapel, near the brick school-house, in Rochester, N. H., on the first Lord's day in each month. Others can appoint so as not to conflict.

NEW YORK CITY.

The Advent Church formerly meeting at Grand and Allen Streets, have removed to 405 Grand Street, one door above Clinton. Preaching every Sunday for the present. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening, at the house of J. K. Bellows, 19 Orchard Street.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION, 14 LAURENS STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Sunday morning, prayer and conference, six o'clock. Sunday School, two o'clock P. M. Love feast, four o'clock P. M. Preaching, seven o'clock P. M. Monday, (class meeting), seven o'clock P. M. Wednesday, (preaching), seven o'clock P. M. Friday, (prayer and conference), seven o'clock P. M. Come one, come all. A. E. SMITH, Principal.

PORTLAND, ME.

Meetings are held in Advent Hall, Cushman's Block, 353½ [illegible] street, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday [illegible] evenings, at 7½ o'clock.

Business.

Letters Received.

W Sheldon, H B Sevey, D Eastman, S S Mooney, A W Sibley, A W Palmer, L S Ludington, P Randall, J A Libby, C W Bixby, C Colegrove, B Knepper, H W Clark, S T Wheelock.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, post-paid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 60c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents. Postage 8 cts.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc., etc. Cloth, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Leather back, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c; Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERYBODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? A Tract on War. Price 10c, postage 2c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 6c.

THE FIRST DAY SABBATH. By T. M. Preble. A new and interesting work. pp. 471. Price $1.50.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5 cts. single; by mail, 7 cts.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M Preble. 15c. postage 2 cts., or by mail 17 cts.

TWO HUNDRED STORIES FOR CHILDREN. [By Elder T. M. Preble. pp. 234. 80c. by mail.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Bally. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. By Thomas Carlyle. 3c. single; 5c. by mail; 20c. per dozen.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR; or, Spiritualism; What it is, and what it is not. Paper covers, $1.00; by mail; cloth, $1.25 by mail.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 60c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

VOICE OF THE THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth. $1.00; paper. 50c.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, Retribution, and Will all Men be Saved? By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man, with various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper, 50c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church; By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times to Daniel and John. On Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

THAT MAN OF SIN. By Eld. O. R. Fassett. To which is added "The Only Hope." Price, 5c. single; postage 2c. 50c. per dozen; postage 6c.

Any of the above will be sent by mail on receipt of the price.

THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley. 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.

"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.

"Historic Echoes of the Voice of God."

AN EXPOSITION OF THE ELEVENTH CHAPTER OF DANIEL.

BY ELDER J. COUCH.

Price 15 cents single copy. $1.50 per dozen. $10.00 per one hundred.

"ADVENTISM."

We have a supply of this valuable work.
Price in cloth .... 75 cts., postage 12 cts.
Flexible covers .... 60 cts., postage 12 cts.
Paper covers .... 50 cts., postage 8 cts.
In paper covers by the dozen, by express, $4.75.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 15 cts. per copy additional, when sent by mail.

LIST OF ENGLISH BIBLES.

We have received and keep on hand the following English Reference Bibles:

Minion, 8vo., marg. ref., large type, circuit binding, $4.50; postage 28 cts. Do. plain binding, $4.00; postage 28 cts.

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., circuit binding, $3.50; postage 20 cts. (Best size for preachers.)

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., plain, $2.25; postage 20 cts. Do. ref. between verses, $2.25; postage 24 cts.

Pearl, 8 vo., marg. ref., circuit, $2.25; postage [illegible] cts. Do. plain, $1.75; postage 20 cts.

SPIRITUALISM CONDEMNED

BY THE TESTIMONY OF THE BIBLE AND ITS OWN WITNESSES.

BY M. D. WELLCOME.

Price 10 cents single copy. Twenty copies for $1.00; $3.60 per one hundred copies.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR.

A WORK THAT THOROUGHLY VENTILATES SPIRITUALISM.

376 pages. Price by mail, $1.25.

The above works for sale at this office.

SOWING.

Are we sowing seeds of kindness?
They shall blossom bright ere long.
Are we sowing seeds of discord?
They shall ripen into wrong.
Are we sowing seeds of honor?
They shall bring forth golden grain.
Are we sowing seeds of falsehood?
We shall yet reap bitter pain.
Whatsoe'er our sowing be,
Reaping, we its fruits must see.

We can never be too careful
What the seed our hands shall sow;
Love from love is sure to ripen,
Hate from hate is sure to grow.
Seeds of good or ill we scatter
Heedlessly along our way;
But a glad or grievous fruitage
Waits us at the harvest day.
Whatsoe'er our sowing be,
Reaping, we its fruits must see.

For the World's Crisis.

SCIENCE FALSELY SO CALLED.

"That your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God" (1 Cor. 2 : 5); and that you should not "seek after wisdom" as the Greeks did, I am constrained to write unto you. "Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."—1 Cor. 1 : 10. H. W. Beecher in his paper tells you, that "unity of faith is neither possible nor desirable." Judge ye of yourselves which is right, Paul, or Beecher. They cannot both be right. Then why the difference? Only this: Paul preached the gospel unadulterated, as he received it from God, and as it was taught by Christ, and by the apostles who were contemporary with Paul; and he believed the Scriptures to teach literally what they mean, and to mean literally what they express; and warned the disciples not to believe any other gospel than that he taught; and that if even an angel from heaven should teach any other gospel, "let him be accursed."

"Unity of faith" was very "desirable" with Paul. Indeed, he tolerated no other view of the subject; and while he commended charity as the greatest virtue, he did not possess so much of it, nor that quality, which admitted of heresies and fellowshiped those who perverted the truth. He considered it important that the gospel should be kept pure and whole, as he knew only faith in it could avail for salvation; that "a gospel" has—if it be or contain anything contrary to the gospel—vitiated it, and only served to allure men to their destruction. But under such men as Philetus and Hymeneus, an apostasy began in Paul's time and continued down to the setting up of the man of sin (papacy), a mixture of paganism with some truth to commend it, a spurious christianity adapted to the (Gnostics) "science falsely so called" of the Greeks. By their philosophy they pretended to have found out God, as our rationalists do at this day. They departed from the faith, and the source of it, the word of God; and having done so, they entered the field of speculations.

By the power of the sword this apostasy flourished, crushing out all opposition, till, in the providence of God, the time of its judgment came. Dissensions arose, and protestation resulted in fragmentary dissolution. These fragments, however, partake of the essential characteristics of the mass from whence they proceed; they refuse to believe all that the prophets have spoken; they cannot endure sound doctrine; they teach for the word the traditions of men, and by them make the word of God of none effect; they are the adversaries of God, and their name is becoming legion. Paul desired, because he could see the possibility of, the "unity of faith"; as the word of God taught but one faith, and could teach no more. But Beecher does not desire it, because from his standpoint he sees it is impossible. It is impossible for men who have trusted in fables, and whose God is the god of this world; who put their worldly wisdom in the place of God's word; who set aside the Pentateuch, and adopt the philosophy of men; who reject the words of God through Moses, and believe Agassiz, Miller, and Hitchcock instead.

The world by wisdom knew not God (1 Cor. 1 : 21), no, nor ever will. "Hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this world?" 1 Cor. 1 : 20. Yet how "puffed up," "wise in their own conceit," are those rationalistic christians (save the mark!) and other infidel philosophers, who attempt to set aside the word of God by their theories and alleged philosophical demonstrations, and mark out paths for themselves that accord with science (falsely so called). They talk of the God of nature, and deny the "God of their fathers" and "the Lord that bought them"; "they shall bring upon themselves swift destruction." They despise the account of the creation by Moses, as well as the prophecies, as also any and all things that are contained in the blessed Bible which conflict with their opinions, gained "every one from his neighbor"—"the fathers"—not from the word of truth.

Oh, dear brethren, read Paul carefully on this subject, then read the Psalms in their praises of the wisdom and power of God, and with me you will ask the question, Why do these so-called christians run after and subscribe to the doctrines and traditions of these deluded men who "know not the power of God"? We see preachers of evangelical churches stand up and try to compromise the Scriptures with these men and their doctrines, or theories. Moses' account of creation they torture into all manner of shapes, to make it fit the modern science of geology. These geologists tell you that the primary or azoic rocks exist, as do other formations, in the earth, by the intervention of certain laws in the economy of nature, which have required many ages for their results, and that all that we find and behold is the result of this gradual development; and as between these specious and plausible theories, which appeal to our finite reason on the one hand, and the requirement of faith in the word of God on the other, there must be a choice; and the two being essentially different, the modern soothsayer tries to harmonize them (as well try to make a mitre of fire and gunpowder), and invariably makes the word of God bend to suit the uninspired theory, trying to force an apparent consistency to justify himself before a gainsaying world. By his wisdom, instead of through the word, he is trying to find out God. The word is not sufficient for such men. They look to the great, the wise, the mighty, for wisdom; they must have ocular demonstration for their belief. "What they know naturally as brute beasts, in these things they corrupt themselves." Jude 10.

These men deny the literal account given by Moses, so far as the points of time are concerned, because it is impossible, according to their theories, for those things to have been done in any such time as a literal day; yet they hold the things spoken of to be literal, and are conscious that Moses marks the length of the day by the evening and morning in each case. And when they wish to enforce their dogma of the Sabbath, they refer you to the seventh day on which God rested, as a literal day. It would not do for them to make that "millions of years" to have been the seventh; it must have been another like the sixth. To be consistent they should either give up their Sabbath, or acknowledge Moses' account of creation as literally true.

They justify themselves in their opposition to Moses, not only on geological grounds, but astronomy too must be accommodated. But to do this is not so easy. The astronomer says that the sun is the source of our light. Moses says that light was created on the first day, and the sun not till the fourth day; hence some dispute the whole account of creation as given by Moses, and they regard him either as an ignoramus or an impostor. These men have not faith in God or his word. Like the children in the wilderness, they trust in strange gods, and seek diviners and spirits that mutter and peep: they are turned unto fables.

To deny Moses is to deny Christ, for he endorses Moses. Hear him. Luke 16 : 29-31,—"Abraham saith unto him, They have Moses and the prophets, let them hear them. And he said, Nay, father Abraham, but if one went from the dead they will repent. And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded though one rose from the dead." Again (Luke 24 : 27), "And beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning himself." Also see John 5 : 45-47,—"Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father; there is one that accuses you, even Moses, in whom ye trust. For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me. But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?" And in Christ's Revelation to John on the isle of Patmos, we hear the resurrected saints singing the song of Moses and the Lamb. It might do some of those men good to turn to Ex. 14, and read the song; it might help their unbelief.

Christ and Moses stand or fall together; if they reject one, they reject the other necessarily, and, as Jude predicts at the eleventh verse, they will perish in the gainsayings of Core. See Num. 16, where two hundred and fifty Korah-ites undertook to presume against Moses, and the ground opened and swallowed them up.

Man by wisdom cannot know God. Man must not undertake to account for the power of God by his finite powers of comprehension. God's ways are past finding out; his wisdom is infinite. "Great is our Lord, and of great power; his understanding is infinite."—Ps. 147 : 5. "Ah, Lord God! behold, thou hast made the heavens and the earth by thy great power and stretched out arm, and there is nothing too hard for thee."—Jer. 32 : 17. "And God said unto him [Jacob], I am God Almighty."—Gen. 35 : 11.

If men, instead of running counter to the word of God, would consult it as a basis of science, it would be well for them. Here is taught the true science of life—the circulation of the blood, that the scientific world waited until Harvey's day, in the seventeenth century, to obtain. Having adopted the dogma and abominable error of inherent immortality, they could not see the truth, although this same Moses gave it to them nearly four thousand years ago. Infidel astronomers and thousands of so-called christians to-day, boasting of their knowledge, laugh derisively at the ignorance of Joshua, because he commanded the sun to stand still; they wholly discredit the account given, because, say they, the science of astronomy forbids it. They believe Copernicus and Kepler, but disbelieve God. These are those who "have a form of godliness, but deny the power thereof."

They probably forget that the Ptolemaic system stood eight times as long as the present, or Copernican system has stood; and now the gravest doubts exist as to the correctness of the latter. Very astute philosophers claim to have discovered beyond cavil that it is all an illusion; that the supposed motion of the earth and moon is extremely erroneous; that the exactness with which astronomers are able to calculate eclipses beforehand, with the rising and setting of the sun and moon, the position of the planets, etc., popularly regarded as very conclusive proof of the correctness of the current theories, Dr. Trastom de Varaus disposes of by showing that all these things are no more dependent on the Copernican system than on the Ptolemaic, or his own. He says that the orbits of the earth and planets are circles, and not ellipses, as supposed now; that Kepler has mistaken illusions for realities, in ascribing to the ellipsis a power in space which it does not and can not possess. That the moon does not revolve around the earth, while the latter is said to revolve around the sun. That the precession of the equinoxes, upon which the most important works of modern astronomy are based, is something that does not exist. That no comet ever precipitated itself into any sun whatever in the realms of space, or can in any event come in collision with the earth. That Kepler's laws are pure illusions, as it is only necessary to study them experimentally in order to recognize the fact that they have not the least connection with the fundamental law of celestial mechanism. That Newton's theory of gravitation offers neither evidence nor probability; it is a fantastic commentary built upon the chimerical ideas of Kepler, radically foreign to all mathematical truth, and even transgressing the limits of common sense; and says that Newton stepped beyond the sphere of the difficult, only to enter into impossibilities.

For the last two hundred years it has been rank heterodoxy to question the Copernican doctrine, as much so as it was in the days of the schoolmen to refuse assent to the authority of Aristotle. If there is any thing supposed to be absolutely settled in the sciences, it is the popularly received view of the solar system, its motions and its laws, as set forth by Copernicus, Kepler, and Newton. All religious and theological difficulties on this score have long since been lost sight of; even the seeming evidence of our senses is contradicted without further objection, in the light of high scientific demonstrations, which few understand.

The great philosopher, Hegel, and other eminent men, have presented their objections as to the present system, and have new theories, some asserting that the sun and planetary orbs do revolve around the earth; that the great distances from the earth of the sun and other heavenly bodies, are great exaggerations and illusions. Hegel disputes Newton's conclusions, and throws doubts on the whole astronomical business. All these things are in direct contradiction of the theories now held.

Only since the last annular eclipse an entirely new theory concerning the sun's composition and density is advanced, which of course unsettles many things hitherto held, and which affects seriously many calculations supposed to be correct. Now let the christian, who has forsaken his Bible, and striven to compromise with infidels, reflect a moment. Has he learned God any better through the wisdom of men? What have they got that is sure, to give us in exchange for a "Thus saith the Lord"? They say they consult the God of Nature, but they do not seem to have acquired much that is reliable, if their own testimony is to be believed.

Then, too, see the geologist trying to deny the inspired word of God by his sophistries. This earth (as all bodies of like character in the heavens) is the result of natural laws, says he. The fiat of God and all miracles, he says, are preposterous, and the Bible student and the preachers try to find some plea wherewith to adapt the Bible to the popular theory. The preachers "teach lies, and the people love to have it so." But let us see what this bombast comes to. We are told in the good book that God, the great Jehovah, created the worlds, and all that is therein, by his word. The unbeliever says nay, yet does not inform us by any positively satisfactory exposition to the contrary, but urges an hypothesis that contradicts several others that are equally well believed in the minds of their authors and votaries. They talk very learnedly, and exhaust the languages for terms to express their ideas of the series of rocks, their positions, depths, derangements, causes, changes, thermal and otherwise. By the aid of chemistry they will give you the constituents of rocks, metals, and precious stones. They will even resolve them all into thin air, or gases, and tell you all their equivalents in oxygen, carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, etc., and this is paraded as superior wisdom and matchless skill, to the gaping and admiring multitude. In the language of the poet, they

"Wrap nonsense round,
In pomp and darkness, till it seem profound;
Play on the hopes, the terrors of mankind,
With changeful skill,
Till reason like a grave-faced mummy stands
With its arms swathed in heiroglyphic bands."

They are "ever learning and never able to come to a knowledge of the truth." Well, says the objector, you will surely not pretend to say that these recent discoveries are unimportant? Certainly not; but you might have discovered it many centuries ago, if you had gone to the word of God for information. Moses and the prophets, whom Christ endorses, all told you that God created the heavens and the earth by his almighty power and his word, saying, "Let there be," "and there was"; and Paul tells you from what they were created. Heb. 11 : 3,—"Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things that are seen were not made of things that do appear."

Again the objector asks, Do you mean to say that the worlds were made of nothing? No! Paul does not say so; but that things that are seen, as the sun, moon, stars, and the earth, and all in them, were not originated from substances tangible to sight, but from things that do not appear—gases, the original elements, the same as you found when you reduced them in your analysis. These are somethings, not nothings, although they do not appear. Water is only less dense than earth, and any "Bridget" can reduce it to vapor; a little more knowledge would enable her to reduce the hardest rock. Man can destroy this earth, but only God can create instantaneously the hardest rock, the diamond, and all things whatsoever he will. He speaks, and the elements obey him. He would not be the great I AM, if they did not. Did he not open up the way in the sea for the children of Israel to pass over, and turn the flint rock into waters for them in the wilderness? And if so, can he not as well make flint of water? What he has done once, can he not do again? Will your unbelief make the word of God of none effect? Will you limit his power? Is he a God of yesterday, and not of to-day? Think you he has deserted the earth and his people? Has he not sworn to Abraham, and will he not keep his promise, to give him the land for an everlasting inheritance?

"Let God be true, and every man a liar." "Yea, before the day was I am He, and there is none that can deliver out of my hand; I will work, and who shall let it?"—Isa. 43 : 13. "And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing, and he doeth according to his will in the army of heaven, and among the inhabitants of the earth, and none can stay his hand, or say unto him, What doest thou?"—Dan. 4 : 35. O, humble thyself in the dust! Read the word of God. There find wisdom, and the power of the Almighty.

How good, how grand, how excellent, how wise, how merciful, how great, is our God. He gave his only begotten Son to die for us. What mercy! See his power in that Son's resurrection and ascension into heaven. See his goodness in the promise that he shall come again to redeem those who by faith are accounted worthy. Remember, by "faith"; entire consecration is implied in that little word. Believe God, and live; disbelieve, and die. Sit not in the seat of the scoffer. The time has come when a well-grounded hope is needed. Let go all your earthly anchors; stand not in the wisdom of men; cling to the word, the faith of Jesus. "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." Fill your heart and mind with the word. Let it, and it only, be a lamp to your feet, a light to your path. It is the truth only that can sanctify.

The time has come when you must come out and separate yourself from the infidels who are waxing worse and worse; and these are not those who profess themselves wedded to this world; would to heaven it were; but it was in the house of His friends where he was wounded. Alas! that the church which calls itself by his name should deny his word, pervert his gospel, and know not the day of its visitation.

W. K. EVERSON.

CHRISTIANITY is to be learned from the Scriptures only. "You interpret the Scriptures in one way," said Queen Mary to John Knox, "and the Catholics in another; whom shall I believe, and who shall judge?" "You shall believe God, who plainly speaketh in his word," replied the sturdy old reformer, "and further than that word teacheth you, you shall believe neither one nor the other."

PULPIT TALKS.

It is evident that in the first Christian ages what is now a sermon was only a talk about matters of the directest interest and in the directest way. This is true, too, about the Reformation. All the sermons then that went to the heart of the people from men like Latimer, were full of the plainest possible talk, as of one plain man to another. And these did but follow the great models they found in the gospels and in the prophets. If we will go through these books to get an idea of the ancient preaching, I think we shall be amazed at the way those preachers of the old time contrived to bring their truth home. Everything serves their purpose, and they never beat "round the bush" to come at it.

But preaching now has got to be a fine art, and has taken its place among the rest of the fine arts. A sermon must be about so long, and so logical, and so good, and be written down so that you never have to wait for a word, or else it will not do. And it is possible sometimes, I feel sure, for a written sermon to be better than one preached right out of your heart and mind. There is a compactness and solidity to be attained in that way you can not come at otherwise, and I suppose men like Dr. Chalmers and Dr. Dewey would preach better right along from the manuscript than from the mind; and James Martineau could no more preach without his manuscript than a bird could fly without wings, and one sermon like those he preaches would weigh more also in the solid gold of truth and genius than a hundred of the pulpit talks of some other men. But the popular heart still responds to the pulpit talk. Mr. Spurgeon has six thousand people to hear him. Mr. Martineau perhaps seven score, and I think the six thousand know what they are about. They do not want so much the fine gold of truth and genius as the warm, quick presence of a man, and a man who may not do so much for their thought, but still may do a great deal for their life.—Robert Collyer.

For the World's Crisis.

JOHN 14 : 1.

Do not let your heart be troubled,
Firmly you believe in God;
Let your trust in Christ be doubled,
Rest your all upon his word.

Many mansions he's preparing
In the Father's house above;
He is anxious to be sharing
Them with objects of his love.

Were it not so, he'd have told us,
Though he's gone away for now;
He is coming to receive us,
And to crown the victor's brow.

Ever we shall be where he is,
Oh, delightful, happy thought!
Ever view his glorious features,
If we serve him as we ought.

How imagination wanders
O'er a scene so wondrous, grand;
Hark! ten thousand thousand thunders
Rock the sea and shake the land.

Dead ones springing into being
From the mountain and the main,
"Those who pierced him" now are seeing
Him who makes them live again.

Then the final separation,—
Day of vengeance, day of doom;
Angels gather from the kingdom,
Those who would not have him come.

Execute the judgments written,
Bind earth's nobles now with chains;
Let the dissolution hasten,
Give the proud ones to the flames.

But the wheat, the humble children,
Who have sighed and suffered long,
Shall inherit then the kingdom,
Wave the palm and sing the song.

No more sorrow, no more sighing,
No more suff'ring, no more pain,
No more parting, no more dying,
Christ has come on earth to reign.

Do not let your heart be troubled,
Do not yield to gloomy fear,
Let your diligence be doubled,
Your redemption draweth near.

Westfield, Mass. E. O.

For the World's Crisis.

MAINE SECOND ADVENT CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

The Maine Ministerial Conference convened in Portland, Tuesday, June 21st, at 2 o'clock P. M., as per appointment. The hour was well spent in united prayer and social converse, after which the chairman called for business, when it was agreed to hold a business session on the following morning. The evening was occupied in a very interesting social meeting with those who love Jesus and wait for his return from heaven.

Wednesday, half-past nine o'clock, convened for business. Elders Jesse Gay, I. C. Wellcome, and H. D. Reed, were chosen business committee, and presented the following items for action: Inasmuch as this conference was originally organized for the ministry only, and the conference which embraced the churches and societies has since been merged into it; therefore it becomes necessary to change its name and otherwise improve its constitution. It was voted that the conference be called, the Maine Second Advent Christian Conference. Voted, to change the time for its annual sessions, from Jan. to the second Tuesday in Oct.

CONSTITUTION AS AMENDED.

Art. 1. This conference shall be called The Maine Second Advent Christian Conference.

Art. 2. The officers of this conference shall be, a President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, and a committee of three, which shall constitute an Executive Board, and shall be chosen annually.

Art. 3. The regular meetings shall be held annually, on the second Tuesday in October.

Art. 4. The Executive Board shall call an extra session of the conference, at such time and place as they judge best for its welfare, always previously giving six weeks' notice.

Art. 5. The objects of this conference shall be, to obtain thorough investigation and knowledge of the Scriptures, by united examination; a greater unity in the faith, in purity, and in doctrine, among the ministry; the promotion of gospel order and discipline among ouselves and the churches; christian union and effort to build up the believers in Christ in the doctrine of the new covenant, and in the knowledge of all Bible truth, especially the proclamation of the immediate personal advent of Christ to restore all things. Also to bring sinners to Christ for pardon and salvation in the kingdom of God, by harmony of action and preaching; to encourage all, whom we believe divinely inspired to preach the word, to move forward in the work of God; and to circulate such publications as we believe the best adapted for these ends.

Art. 6. The members of this conference shall consist of all such ordained and unordained ministers as wish to unite in the above objects, and are not objected to by any of its members; also of delegates duly chosen, from all churches and societies within the State which are in harmony with this conference, and wish a voice in its action, viz., one delegate for each church or society, and one additional for every ten members.

Art. 7. No person called a preacher shall be received into this conference unless in the judgment of all its members present such person has natural qualifications to teach, grace enough to be taught, and a call from God to preach, though he be a christian.

Art. 8. All complaints against the character or conduct of any member, to receive attention, must be put in writing, accompanied by the name of the complainant, and then presented to the Secretary, who shall lay it before the Executive Board at once; who (if satisfied there is need of discipline for moral delinquency) may notify the accused to refrain from preaching, and the public from giving him countenance, until the next session of the conference, when proper investigation of the case shall be had.

Art. 9. No person ordained by members of this conference shall be thus recognized, unless his character and qualifications agree with article seven.

Art. 10. All members of this conference shall report at each session, either personally, or by letter to the Secretary.

It was voted to invite all brethren present from abroad to participate with us in conference. Voted, to instruct the Secretary to invite preaching brethren, who are not now members of the conference, to become such. The remainder of the day was spent in social worship. In the evening Bro. H. S. Mitchell preached.

Thursday, half-past nine o'clock, assembled for business. Voted, to receive Sr. Sarah K. Taylor as a member of conference. The question was then raised whether the virtue of membership entitles females to the right of action and voting in the business of our conferences. After some very pleasant discussion on the Bible doctrine of "Woman's Rights" and place, the question was tabled, to be called up at next conference for further discussion. Eld. S. K. Partridge reported by letter, not being able to attend conference. The tent and mission committee reported that it was not yet decided who will go with the tent, but they hope to have it at work soon. The campmeeting committee had not yet arrived at any decision to report.

MISSION SOCIETY.

Eld. Wm. H. Mitchell reported the names of ten members of the "Maine Second Advent Mission Society," and $16.86 collected by him. Eld. Jesse Gay reported sixteen members, and $12 collected by him. If our brethren generally are acting on this principle, more than one thousand mission members may be enrolled soon, and a good sum o money gathered for mission and tract work, beside paying our debt, while our brethren and sisters will be enriched with the Lord's blessing in so good a work.

TRACT AGENCY.

Bro. Thos. Smith, Bangor, is tract agent, and being so far east, it was thought best to have an agency west. I. C. Wellcome, Yarmouth, was chosen branch agent for the western part of the State. The afternoon was devoted to social worship, and preaching by Bro. Jesse Gay. In the evening Bro. Albion Ross, of New Hampshire conference, preached.

Friday, nine o'clock A. M., assembled for examination of Bible questions, duties of ministers, relating to organizing, watching over and disciplining the believers, came up and were freely discussed, after which the following resolution was passed:—

Resolved, That the duties of organizing and setting in order the believers in Christ, of watching over and disciplining them according to gospel rules, and of holding conferences to promote the general welfare, and to advance the work to which Christ has called us, are clearly taught by example, and enjoined on the ministry by command, in the New Testament. Therefore we cannot be good ministers of Jesus Christ, doing his will, while we neglect to perform these duties.

Unanimously adopted. Bro. Jesse Gay presented the following address, which was unanimously adopted.

ADDRESS.

To the churches and believers in Christ in Maine, believing in the second coming of Christ at hand, Greeting: Inasmuch as there are distracting and dividing elements among the flock of God, which work mischief for lack of good order and discipline; we, the ministry and delegation of the churches being assembled in conference, deem it our duty to admonish our brethren to come into gospel order, so as to observe and enforce discipline according to Matt. 18 : 15, 17, Rom. 16 : 17, 1 Thess. 3 : 6, 14, and many other Scriptures, and that you give heed to the admonition of the apostle in Heb. 13 : 7, 8, 17, and 1 Thess. 5 : 12, 14, and other passages, thus promoting love, harmony and peace among the flock.

The next question examined was the Millennium; and to put it in form for discussion it was stated thus: "Resolved, That the millennium, or one thousand years of Rev. 20, is yet future, and begins with the second coming of Christ and the first resurrection." Several spoke freely and definitely to the resolution; objections were offered and examined, after which it was tabled, to be taken up for further discussion at next conference. Voted, to direct the Secretary to send these minutes to the World's Crisis and Adv. Chris. Times for publication. Adjourned.

The meetings continued with interest through the day. Bro. E. B. Wells preached in the P. M., and Bro. J. Hill in the evening. Thus closed another of our State gatherings, which was an interesting and profitable conference, especially so to several of our young preachers, who had never before attended. Our gathering was not large, but those who came were very kindly entertained, and got car and boat fare at half rate, as it was convention week for several State Conferences. May the Lord soon gather us to his heavenly kingdom.

C. GOUD, President.
I. C. WELLCOME, Secretary.

June 28th, 1870.

THE BIBLE.

When thinking how little time and attention are given to the study of the sacred writings, I have wondered if the Hebrews heeded the commandment given to them. It was this: Hear, O Israel! Those words which I command thee this day shall be in thine heart, and thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up. And thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thine hand, and they shall be as frontlets before thine eyes, and thou shalt write them upon the posts of thine house, and on thy gates.

Did we spend as much time on a carpet of the Bible as we do on a raffle, our knowledge of the Scriptures would be largely increased. Christian mothers diligently teach their daughters the fashions of the world, but how often do they speak to them a word concerning the "things which belong to their eternal peace"? Why is it that we are so ready to speak and learn of everything but that which is of the most importance? And now, while Satan is so busy with his devices to draw away the imagination of the young and thoughtless, it is surely a time when christian parents should be awake and active. Be beforehand with him; so store their minds with principles of right and truth, that there will be no chance for the lodgment of his subtle wiles. Do not excuse yourselves by saying you have no time; you have all the time there is; and what is time given us for but to learn and do our duty?

For the World's Crisis.

SONG OF TRUST.

Unto God's throne of mercy
In loving trust we cling,
Our soul rests 'neath the shadow
Of his Almighty wing.

Upon the Rock of Ages
Our feet securely stand;
Christ's arm is underneath us,
Our name is in his hand.

In Christ our strength we fear not,
He is our righteousness;
The seed we sow with weeping,
We trust his hand to bless.

Doubtless we'll come rejoicing,
Bearing our ripened sheaves,
When, 'neath life's tree immortal,
We taste the healing leaves.

In our crown of rejoicing,
Christ set some dear loved name,
Whose dying soul we pointed
To our adoring Lamb.

Moorestown, N. J. ANNA E. MCELLISTER.

AN EXTRAORDINARY WOMAN.

Elizabeth Taylor, consort of John Taylor, now of Glasgow, Ky., was born in Virginia, Ky., was born in Virginia, Feb. 12, 1788. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Pedigo. She learned the English alphabet when young, and learned to spell some of the first lessons in Dilworth's spelling book. Her father moved to Kentucky, and she never went to school any more. She and her husband both became religious. He united with the Baptist church and she with the Christian church; but she could not read the Bible—he could. She thought for some time that she would listen to hear her husband read, and learn the Scriptures in that way. But frequently she would wish to hear the word read, when he was absent. This distressed her mind; but what could she do? She was considerably advanced in age; her companion could not always be with her when she would hear the Bible read. She resolved to learn to read herself; and after she passed into her sixty-fifth year, she bought Webster's elementary spelling book and a family Testament, and spelled through the spelling book, and then spelled through the Testament, word by word, and then commenced at the beginning and read it through, and has now read it through forty-four times! This truly pious sister is still living with her pious husband in Glasgow, Ky.

Come, ye idle daughters of Eve, no excuse, now, for your not understanding the Scriptures!—Apostolic Times.

CONGREGATIONAL SINGING.

I see, I feel, I know what power there is in singing—and that is one reason why, when I came into this church as your pastor, I determined that there should be singing in the congregation, and why I never changed that determination. You know how, for eight or ten years I fought you night and day. You differed from me in opinion; you thought you knew more than I did, and I could not have my own way; but after eight or ten years, when you were better instructed, and when you began to have confidence enough in me to let me have my own way (and I would have it; I knew I was right, and I would not give up) congregational singing was inaugurated among us. And now all—men, women and children—sing. And one reason why the Lord dwells among us so much, why there is so much spirituality in the church, why the people in the church are so cheerful and happy and social, and why you love each other so much as you do, is that you sing with grace in your hearts to the Lord. And I always feel that a church that do not sing have hard sledding. Sleigh-riding in winter, and no bells—think of it! A church that do not sing are like a spring without any birds, or like a garden without any flowers. Of all the world, a church that has four singers—four whole singers! A thousand people sitting down, and a thousand pairs of ears listening, and four mouths! Singing to the Lord was meant to open up the hearts of men who participate in it, and carry them near to God. There is no time when we come so near to the face of God, and speak to him so nearly, as when we are singing. A thousand folks, with four persons to do their singing for them, do not get very near to the Lord. And as a general thing the four singers do not get very near to him either. I know it is possible for them to sing devoutly—all things are possible with God; but they are not apt to do it. Give me a singing church! And in a church where the Spirit of the Lord is, singing must break out, it seems to me.—H. W. Beecher's Lecture Room Talk.

Gems.

— Anger is a perfect alienation of the mind from prayer, and, therefore, is contrary to that attention which presents our prayers in a right line to God.

— A true christian must have commanding power with men, even when unconscious of it himself.

— The radical fault of our nature, be it remembered, is self-will, and we little suspect how largely self-will and self-pleasing may be at the bottom of plans and pursuits which still have God's glory and the furtherance of his service for their professed end.

— If thy brother is in danger, haste thou to his assistance, and hesitate not to endanger thy own life for him.

— The more mind we have, the more original men do we discover there are. Common people find no difference between men.

Keep working; 'tis wiser than sitting aside,
And dreaming, and sighing, and waiting the tide;
In life's earnest battle they only prevail
Who daily march forward and never say fail.

— Reprove mildly and sweetly, in the calmest manner, in the gentlest terms; not hastily or fiercely, nor with sour looks, or in bitter language; for these ways do beget all the evil, and hinder the best effects of reproof. They do certainly inflame and disturb the person reproved.

— Do not forget that while you fold your hands time folds not up his wings.

— There is no test to the christian character so severe as prosperity. Through its means, many fall who would have stood proof against all the direct assaults of Satan.

— As gold is purified in the furnace, so is character refined by pain.

— Few men get their life-labor accomplished without some sore heart-aches.

— There is no joy so great as that which springs from a kind act or a pleasant deed, and you may feel it at night when you rest, and in the morning when you rise, and through the day when about your daily business.

— Let your companions discover, by your private as well as public conduct, the high sense you entertain of moral principle.

— The more honesty a man has, the less he affects the air of a saint.

— Praying and provender hinder no man's journey.

— The three elements which enter into the composition of the spiritual life are, acting, fighting, and suffering.

Hygiene.

"This is for your health."—PAUL.

HOW TO PROCURE SLEEP.

Many years ago a curious plan for procuring sleep was announced as a great discovery by a Mr. Gardner. As this plan made some noise at the time, and was reported to have seldom or never failed, we shall give a full description of it. Testimonials of the efficacy of this method were published by Mr. Gardner, from His Royal Highness the late Prince Albert, Sir. F. Buxton Bart., Sir W. Cockburn, Mr. Sheridan Knowles, and other men of eminence. It may be, then, that some of our readers may owe us a deep debt of gratitude for once more placing the priceless blessing of sleep within the reach upon easy terms.

Let us suppose, then, a person to be in a particularly wakeful state, and that he has tossed and tumbled about into the small hours of the morning without any feeling of somnolence. If he should now desire deep repose, the following proceeding must be adopted:

He is to lie on his right side, with his head comfortably placed on a pillow, having the neck straight, so that respiration may be unimpeded. Let him then close his lips slightly and take a rather full respiration, breathing through the nostrils as much as possible. This last, however, is not absolutely necessary, and some persons breathe habitually by the mouth. Having taken the full respiration, the lungs are to be left to their own action, that is, respiration is not to be interfered with. Attention must be fixed upon the respiration. The person must imagine that he sees the breath passing through his nostrils in a continuous stream, and at the instant that he brings his mind to conceive this, apart from all other ideas, consciousness leaves him and he falls asleep.

Sometimes it happens that the method does not at once succeed. It should be persevered in. Let the person take in thirty or forty full respirations and proceed as before, but he must by no means attempt to count the respiratory acts, for if he does, the mere counting will keep him awake. Even though he may not now succeed in procuring very sound sleep, he will at least fall into a state of pleasant repose.

Such is the account, somewhat abridged, of this much "vaunted "Art of procuring sound and refreshing sleep at will," given by Mr. Binns in his "Anatomy of Sleep." He, it seems, purchased the secret from Mr. Gardner, and hints at his generosity in having made it public gratis. It is founded on the principle that monotony, or the influence on the mind of a single idea, as we have already shown, induces slumber. The inventor had for years suffered great agony with consequent sleeplessness, from an injury of his spine. In this sad condition, opium and other sedatives, were found rather to increase than to allay his sufferings. He was a contemplative man, and at length discovered the secret of "subduing sleeplessness and commanding repose by a simple effort of volition."

The plan is at all events safe and easy of application, and any wakeful reader can test it on himself.—John A. Flemming.

WHY DO CHILDREN DIE?

In answer to this question, the Medical Recorder holds the following language:

"The reason why children die is, because they are not taken care of. From the day of birth they are stuffed with food, choked with physic, splashed with water, suffocated in hot rooms, and steamed in bed clothes. So much for in-door. When permitted to breathe a breath of pure air once a week in summer, and once or twice during the colder months, only the nose is permitted to peer into the daylight. A little later they are sent out with no clothes at all on the parts of the body which most need protection. Bare legs, bare arms, bare necks, girted middles, with an inverted umbrella to collect the air and chill the other parts of the body. A stout, strong man goes out in a cold day with gloves and overcoat, woolen stockings and thick, double-soled boots, with cork between and rubbers over. The same day, a child of three years old, an infant of flesh and blood, and bone and constitution, goes out with hose as thin as paper, cotton socks, legs uncovered to the knees, neck bare, an exposure which would disable the nurse, kill the mother outright, and make the father an invalid for weeks. And why? To harden them to a mode of dress which they are never expected to practice. To accustom them to exposure which a dozen years later would be considered downright foolery. To rear children thus for the slaughter-pen, and then lay it to the Lord, is too bad. We don't think the Almighty had any hand in it."

CURING A CANCER.

Deacon Dwight Needham, of this city, has had an experience with a scirrhus, or hard cancer, which gives those suffering in like manner so much encouragement to hope for relief as to make his case worth record. It is on the top of the shoulder, and became so painful three or four years since that he sought the best medical advice, east and west, and was recommended to have it taken out with the knife. He was led, however, to try drinking red clover tea and applying a wet clover compress. He picks and dries the full blown flower, using some two hundred heads daily. By careful attention to diet, he has with this treatment so far attained to a cure that the cancer gives him no further trouble, while his blood is pronounced very pure and his general health is excellent. Whether these good results will be permanent, and whether there may be peculiar conditions in this case that do not belong to the most, remains to be seen. Probably but few medical men are aware how common cases of cancer are, and how widely welcomed any promised relief would be.—Chicago Advance.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance..........................$2.50 a year
Five copies six months to one address.......$5.60.
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address.......$10.00.
Same rate for any number over ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cts. a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication write—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write—BUSINESS.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,

Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM,

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS.

PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Single copy, 60 cts. a year; and at the same rate for any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 769. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 13, 1870. VOL. XXXI.—NO. 17.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
160 HANOVER ST., BOSTON, MASS. } CORNER OF SALEM STREET. (☞ Entrance No. 7 Salem St.)

MILES GRANT, EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
D. MATHEWSON, H. V. DAVIS,
M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN,
H. H. DICKENSON.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

FRENCH HYMN.

"Be careful for nothing."—PHIL. 4: 6.

Why art thou cast down, O my soul?
Uplift thee, and be strong:
Thy care upon thy Maker roll;
Thy sadness doth him wrong.
Beneath his eye
Thy goings lie:
The God who rules above,
His child doth know and love.

Come, gaze on yonder vaulted sky:
Say, can thy glance embrace
The worlds wherewith the Lord most high
Hath sown the fields of space?
Though skill of thine
And strength combine,
Yet never shall thy hand
Create one grain of sand.

Thy helper is the Lord of all,
He marks thy lightest sigh:
A thousand means, at his high call,
For thy defence are nigh:
Safe in his care,
No storm shall bear
One hair from off thy head,
Though nature quails in dread.

Thou formed'st man of earthly mould,
Almighty! by thy power:
Not Solomon, in gems and gold,
Could match thy simplest flower:
Thy single word
Sufficed, O Lord,
To fill heaven's boundless sphere;
And lo! I faint and fear!

The worlds which run their course on high,
This blossom sweet and fair,
The stars in voiceless harmony,
Yon leaflet falling there,—
Shall these obey
One law, one sway,
And I aside be thrown,
The sport of chance alone?

Then with thy cares, my soul, have done.
Thy grief beclouds thy view.
How shall not He who gave his Son,
Give food and raiment too?
The life is more
Than roof and store:
No fear lest thou, his child,
Be from his care exiled!

Long as I live, my hand in thine,
I to thy side will cling,
For life is gain, O Guide divine!
While safe beneath thy wing:
Lo! all is well;
Each ill shall tell
For blessing, moulded still
By thy controlling will.

If thou give ear when I aspire,
I'll praise thy tenderness:
And if thou cross my heart's desire,
I will thy wisdom bless:
All-gracious One,
Thy will be done!
Thy love I know, I see;
And I can trust in thee!

And when thy solemn call I hear,
And yield my latest sigh,
Then, O my Father, draw thou near,
And give me grace to die!
So while at rest
Upon thy breast
My spirit thou shalt keep,
My dust in hope shall sleep.

—Sunday Magazine.

For the World's Crisis.

ANNIHILATION.

"The wages of sin is death."

Human nature sometimes demands more punishment than God does. It is human to err, but divine to forgive. It has been offered as an argument that annihilation, instead of being a punishment, is a thing much to be desired. It has become very popular in this century to deny self-evident facts, and if we could believe all the shadowless philosophy of this age, our very existence would be doubtful.

He that denies self-evident facts denies his own existence and the existence of everything else. It is a self-evident fact that existence is a very desirable thing; and if life is not desirable, there is nothing that is desirable, for life embraces all happiness as well as misery. Therefore the loss of life is the greatest calamity that can befall anything that has consciousness. Life is esteemed to be such a blessing by man, as to make him hold on to it with all the tenacity of his being, even under the most reduced circumstances—sickness, pain, imprisonment and starvation not excepted. And in the very face of these facts we are told that a cessation of existence is a desirable thing. Is this consistency?

But there is another view of the desirability of death. We do not envy a man his depth of mind or power of thought who desires annihilation. The man who asks for eternal sleep is not worthy to receive anything better. To live a momentary existence is a great thing, but an eternal existence is greater. To die but to wake is great, but to die to wake no more is a greater thing.

To lie down at night and go to sleep with the expectation of waking in the morning, after a few hours of repose, is a very easy matter;—to lie down in the arms of death, and sleep upon earth's cold bosom, with the glorious assurance of being waked to immortality and eternal life, is comparatively easy to do;—but to lie down with the expectation of being waked at the judgment of the great day, only to be punished with "everlasting destruction"; only to wake to "be burned up root and branch," and to be hurled back into an original chaotic state, is another thing altogether.

The more a man realizes the nature of the "second death," or annihilation, the more fear he has of it, and the greater punishment he sees it to be. There are men living who would prefer eternal torment to eternal nonentity. The celebrated infidel, Hume, died with annihilation staring him in the face,—and what a death! what mental agony! He never allowed the light to be put out in his room. His friends could not withstand the awful sight, and forsook his bedside, and even his servants fled from him. He died as he had lived, a disbeliever in God and the Bible. He died without hope. Methinks if Hume could have lived and suffered a few thousand years, he would have gladly accepted it; and perhaps for a longer time—who knows?

Doubtless at the resurrection mankind will be brought to their senses, and thousands, yea, millions would prefer living, even though they were to suffer, rather than cease to exist, or cease to be, or to suffer the penalty of the "second death."

The greatest calamity that could befall a human being,—the most awful thing that ingenuity could invent, would be to have nothing exist; to annihilate everything; to have existence, the universe, creation, and created power, annihilated. Nothing could be better calculated to inspire the human mind with horror and dismay, than to have everything blown out from the map of being. Still, every individual who suffers annihilation suffers a catastrophe equal to the above. Neither is this a catachrestical* conclusion, from the fact that the individual annihilated would cease to be. God and the universe would be annihilated to him. It would not matter, to that which was and is not, whether anything existed or not.

As we have already intimated, annihilation is unlike any other death or sleep. 1. It is dreamless. 2. It is a death from which there is no resurrection. 3. It is a death where there is no hope. The individual annihilated loses his identity; not for any specified time, but forever. His individuality, his organization, his consciousness, his being, is consigned to eternal oblivion. He is hurled into an eternal night of chaos, which is dreamless, moonless, and starless, where hope never can come, nor shade of being ever cross the path of that which was.

But it must be borne in mind that annihilation not only includes the loss of being, and the loss of this present life, but the loss of immortality and eternal life in paradise restored, which makes the punishment a thousand-fold more terrible than it would be otherwise.

The sinner is trespassing on the enemy's ground. He will have to forfeit his life to the glorious inheritance which was purchased for all. To him "is reserved the blackness of darkness forever"—i. e., annihilation. And he who has walked worthy while in a state of probation will come into possession of that which was purchased for all.

Here, then, we see that annihilation is not only the loss of a troubled life like this, where we only "see in part," but the loss of an eternal inheritance "which is incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeth not away."

The sinner who suffers the "second death" will see all the terrors of annihilation in the light of eternity; for his eyes will be opened at the judgment of the great day. "And death and hell, and all that were in them, were cast into the lake of fire." Here, added to all the rest, is the literal pain suffered by the sinner in passing into the regions of unconsciousness. Here the dying sinner, while suffering the vengeance of eternal fire, sees himself flung from eternal splendors. He realizes the great loss sustained; he might have had eternal life. While here in this gulf of fire, he sees Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and a great and innumerable multitude, going into their "rest." And there, too, is the city of gold—transparent gold, the New Jerusalem, the city of God; its gates are open; they are going in, while he himself is thrust out. There, on a "great white throne," sits the King of the universe, ready to destroy with fire sin, and its effects, from the things that exist; from whose presence the heavens and earth are to flee away. He looks before him; he reaches the utmost bounds of thought augmented. He sees no hope, no being; but one vast, wild waste of void, one shoreless ocean of nonentity. He sees for a moment the awful depths of Deity. His mental agony becomes so great that he feels not the vengeance of eternal fire. He feels himself fleeing away from the presence of Him who sitteth on the throne. His hour has come. His room in the universe is wanted for something better. He is not immortal. His destiny is sealed. One mighty, surging billow of liquid fire circumnavigates the globe, and he is among the things that were; he has ceased to be; he is "as though he had not been"; "the memory of him is forgotten"; he is annihilated.

Christian, sinner, reader! is not this punishment enough? Is it desirable? Does human nature demand more? H. M. ROSE.

*Far-fetched.

For the World's Crisis.

THE CHRISTIAN WORLD.

The false pretence and outward profession of Christianity, has proved its most dangerous enemy. Dangerous because having lost the appearance of enmity, and no longer feared as injurious, its insidious influence easily persuades the generality of people to resign themselves to be governed by its power; while the favors, honors, and protection it offers, destroy more christians than the furies and persecutions of the first centuries did.

The world by professing the religion of Christ, claims his spirit and passion. But will any one admit that it truly possesses them? Are the passions of pride, self-love, covetousness, ambition, and sensuality, the spirit of Christ? Are they not of the same world that John condemned as being not of the Father? And Paul also speaks of the elevation of christian life as being no longer of the flesh. "Yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet henceforth we know him no more. Therefore if a man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."

Literally speaking, the same Pharisaical spirit that persecuted the early Christian church, is now as much a ruling element as it was then. Its form is somewhat different, and its motives not so easily detected; but that same hypocrisy and deceit that characterized those self-righteous Pharisees, is today poisoning the very atmosphere of christian life.

Its spirit is daily manifested in its efforts of rivalry. It considers the honorable and desirable things of life to abound in wealth, live in fine houses, wear rich clothing, worship in magnificent churches, be attended with splendor, bear titles of dignity, command admiration, and overcome enemies by power.

But amid all this discordant strife and vain glory, there is, thank God, a religion pure and undefiled. The simple and unadorned truth, proclaimed by our blessed Savior and his apostles, teaching us to renounce the world, and live as pilgrims in spiritual watchings, and heavenly aspirations for another life; to take up our daily cross and deny ourselves; to forsake the pride and vanity of riches, and strive for the blessings of a spirit of poverty; to forgive and bless our enemies; reject the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, and to seek the glories of immortality by patient continuance in well doing. And if our life is not a common course of humility, self-denial, and poverty of spirit, we do not live the lives of christians and will receive the condemnation of them that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. S. T. WHEELOCK.

For the World's Crisis.

IDENTITY IN DEATH.

In the absence of valid arguments, our antagonists use the most plausible substitutes they can invent, to set aside the doctrine of man's unconsciousness in death; so we are often met with the assertion that if death kills the man entire and totally, there can be no resurrection, as the identity is lost; and, parrot-like, our opponents repeat it over after each other, till one thinks it is sound logic because it is used by his fellow. But let us examine it, and see if it has any force in it.

Does not death kill the body totally? Yes. And suppose a personal soul to survive the death of the body, can it raise the body? No. Can it help raise the body? No; if ever raised at all, God must raise it independent of the soul.

Now if the whole man dies, can not God raise him without help, just as easily as to raise the body without help? But I am told that "the identity is lost in death." Very well; how about the body? Has it no identity? Certainly. Who takes care of it in death? Is the soul so much wiser than God that it can watch over the identity of the body during death, better than God could do it, and thus have the body re-appear all right at the resurrection? If God can do it, why insist there is no connecting link between death and the resurrection except in a living, personal soul?

If God can take care of the identity of the dead body, why not of a dead man, if man really dies? Shall we impair the wisdom or limit the power of Deity? No man's identity can be lost in the mind of God, and he needs no help to preserve it; and his resurrection power will re-animate all men without the interference of numerous identity-keepers.

WM. SHELDON.

For the World's Crisis.

"HAVE FAITH IN GOD." Mark 11: 22.

This is the language of one who could read men's hearts. He saw how natural it is to disbelieve God. We hear him say, "Go in peace; thy faith hath saved thee." We hear him saying to his disciples at one time, when they could not cast out the devils, but brought the sufferer to Jesus, "O, faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me. And Jesus rebuked the devil; and the child was cured from that very hour." —Matt. 17: 17, 18.

What cured the afflicted son? Faith.

When asked by his disciples, "Why could not we cast him out?" Jesus said, "Because of your unbelief."

Faith is simply believing God; a confidence in his power, a trust in his will. We are to live by faith; we are to walk by it. Faith must also be kept alive; it must have something to feed upon, or it becomes a dead faith, as spoken of in James: "Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone."—Jas. 2: 17, 26.

God has set gifts in the church, and among them the gift of faith. All do not have the gift of faith; some have it on special occasions; but its workings are the same. It will cause a Jacob to wrestle all night, and then will not let go its object; he must have the blessing.

For faith, as the Savior taught, there is nothing too hard; it fears no evil; it serves as a shield to all God's people; it will quench the violence of fire; makes lions perfectly harmless; it will bring the dead to life again; it gives eyes to the blind, and causes us to look into a never-ending future, with the promise of enjoying its glorious realities.

Dear brethren, have faith in God. How can we please him without it? The wedding-garment must be put on, or we shall be speechless in the last day. We expected the return of our Lord and Master ere this; but we see the weight of those words in Acts 1: 7, 8,—"It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power." We, then, standing in the power of God, are made to see all alike, not by figures, but by faith. Church of God, arise! "Put on thy strength, O Zion! put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem, the Holy City! for henceforth there shall no more come into thee the uncircumcised and the unclean."—Isa. 52: 1.

Let us not be weary in well doing, but fight the good fight of faith. We may be persecuted if we have faith. The world will hate us as it did our Master, and the apostles, and patriarchs; but they overcame the world, and through faith obtained a good report. Have we thus far obtained a good report? If so, hold fast whereunto ye have attained, and lose not the crown at the judgment day.

East Canaan, N. H. D. EASTMAN.

CHRISTIAN UNION.*

(Continued.)

God has clearly taught us that his object in the institution of worship, was not only to establish and continue the most heavenly and intimate relations between himself and his worshipers, but also to produce the same union between the worshipers themselves. Every ordinance and institution in the divine economy for man, regulating their worship, imperatively demands their personal association in the most intimate and endearing relations.

In all the dispensations of the divine government these principles are made prominent and emphatic, each dispensation having its particular base of association.

The first dispensation is called the Patriarchal, or family dispensation, because the rules and laws regulating its worship recognized families, or tribes, as worshiping associations, and the great head of the family as the leader and priest of their devotions. The second was distinguished from the first by having for its base of association the national instead of family union. The distinguishing characteristic of the third, or gospel dispensation, is its unlimited association; for its fundamental law recognizes no tribe or nation in its union, nor suffers any wall of partition to exclude the members of any tribe or nation from its holy communion.

When the patriarchal government failed to accomplish the great object for which it was instituted, it was abrogated, and a change of rules and ordinances for the heavenly association introduced. The necessity for the change appeared evident from the history of Jacob's family, which was the last under that government. Jealousy and envy arose once among the members of Jacob's family, causing division and strife, culminating in the wicked act of selling a brother into slavery, and false testimony to clear the guilty.

When the persecuted member of the divided family, guided by a providential hand, came to be the head and father of a family of worshipers, he found himself mysteriously supporting and controlling twelve large families, instead of one. Joseph was thus involuntarily made the head of a large association of worshipers, which could not be called a family, but a nation; and there God ended the family dispensation, on account of jealousy and strife, and commenced the next dispensation, by producing circumstances which made a necessity for a new base of union and harmony among the associated. That nation could not for a time enjoy its institutions and be governed by its own laws, because it was in slavery to an infidel nation, who would not acknowledge the God of their fathers nor his government. But when the fulness of time was come, God sent a deliverer, who emancipated them from slavery and led them out of Egypt, so that they could develop their national unity, and receive from the hand of their lawgiver all the rules and statutes which were designed to perpetuate the national oneness.

The union of the twelve families was unbroken under the national administration as long as they continued to use the means and follow the rules that God had given to govern them in their associations. But when their families would not agree to be governed by Solomon, the anointed king God had sent as the ruler of the nation, then the tribes divided and became two antagonistic and warring nations. After the nation was thus divided, the divine government remained with the two-tribed nation, and so the Lord concentrated upon them all the promised blessings, in order to unite and consolidate them in faithfulness to God. But Satan succeeded in dividing them into contending religious sects and factious political parties, and those divisions continued until the advent of Christ.

When the Savior came and found his people warring and contending about foolish questions and the traditions of the elders, he rebuked them, and taught them that a "kingdom divided against itself cannot stand," and then introduced new conditions of union and peace, raising the rallying cry himself, inviting all to come unto him as the divinely-appointed Leader and Father of the national family. But they willfully and persistently refused to be gathered together by him, which caused him mournfully to say, "How often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wing, and ye would not."

Thus the second dispensation ended, because it failed to hold its subjects together in that unity and oneness for which it was purposed and instituted. When the people of the second dispensation were fully proved, and found to be unworthy of their high calling, in refusing to be gathered and united by God through his prophets and his Son, he turned the tables upon them; and, instead of calling them three times a year to their appointed place of reunion, he drove them into Gentile lands, and broke down their beautiful tabernacles, and set a guard around their sacred mountain, lest they should re-assemble and become a nation as of old.

Then stood up the long-predicted Mighty One, deeply veiled with apparently low parentage and humble circumstances, and introduced to the world the third dispensation. He was first heralded by an angel, who said, "Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be unto ALL PEOPLE." A multitude of the heavenly messengers immediately expressed the cause of the great, "great joy" which was then offered to "all people," saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, PEACE, good will toward men!" His language, introducing his administration of the divine government, was deep-toned and majestic, every sentence clothed with divinity, through which he uttered the long-hidden and silent truths, then, for the first time, made plain and vocal, which God had reserved as the last rallying cry to call together the wandering, straying sons of Adam into "one fold," "one faith," one holy communion, preparatory to their glorious, eternal, God-like oneness in the kingdom of heaven.

The new dispensation is not national in its political aspect, but is purely democratic in its government, and kingly in its prospective status. It contemplates but one people, under one government, having one Leader, one standard of citizenship, and no castes; all its members ranking as nobility. It invites no families, tribes, associations or nations, collectively, to become its citizens; but its invitation extends to every member of the human family, personally and individually, to become members of the holy fraternity, the Messianic association, called "the Church [or worshiping assembly] of the living God." Jesus Christ, as the leader and founder of the new communion, like a father, kindly invites all men to unite in him as their Counsellor, Captain and Savior. He prays for their oneness, teaches them to love each other as he had loved them, while he teaches them to associate personally in worship, observing such services and ordinances as are designed to strengthen and continue the heavenly union.

The work of Christ through his gospel and Spirit, has ever been to unite, consolidate, and bind together, by the bonds of strongest love and purest friendship; while Satan has labored ardently and constantly to defeat him in the accomplishment of that glorious work, by throwing them into confusion, strife and war. As Satan triumphed in the closing scenes of the first and second dispensations, breaking up the happy family relations, by envy and strife, and the national compact by jealousy and war; so he has nerved his arm to strike an effectual blow, to break and destroy the church of Christ in the closing scenes of the gospel age.

Satan's last and mightiest effort to be avenged on Christ, as revealed in the gospel, will be to break the unity of his church, to confuse her councils, to disrobe her of her mantle of love, to divide her communion and throw her into the thorn hedge of infidelity, helpless, torn and bleeding, when her Savior and Bridegroom shall appear. But Christ has forewarned his people of the last-day perils and hidden dangers they would be exposed to during the "evening-tide trouble." He has caused to be written upon the prophetic chart, in the most explicit and direct terms, the history of the times and events of the last days, by which Satan would test the bridal church as with fire and steel, to break her allegiance to Christ and disprove her indivisibility, if possible.

The last dark deed designed to be accomplished by rebellion's old marshal, is to throw back into Messiah's camp that terrible explosive shell, the old lie, now lying at Satan's feet, with a six-thousand years' fuse burned to the exploding point. Satan knowing the awfulness of the world's present crisis,—Heaven's Supreme Court about to hold its last great session, and make and execute its final decision as to who was the first great liar,—is wheeling into line his last reserved corps, to make a final and desperate charge upon the royal army of Christ, to drive it from its stronghold of eternal truth into the mined pit of Satanic delusion.

He has placed on his right and front the grand division of apostates, with extended lines and varied uniform, from the rich scarlet of Babylon the Great, to the numberless colors of inferior corps, all bearing the name of Immanuel, but wearing Satan's armor.

Next in order is the grand division of Spiritists, in Satanic uniform, of Canaanitish color and necromantic pattern, wheeling among the tombs, receiving from pallid lips and hands of bleached bones, weapons by which to pierce the heart of faith and destroy confidence in the divine testimony, defiantly proving that God was a liar when he said to man, "Thou shalt surely die." How the swelling music of the warring myriads charms the world with enchanting strains of scholastic theology and atheistical blasphemy, as they shout the glories and triumphs of death's victims beyond the river; while, with thundering tramp and mighty yells of defiance, they charge upon the friends of Jesus, swearing by the hero-gods that the Almighty shall be dethroned, and the sacred vestments torn from Messiah, and his people scattered to the four winds, forlorn and hopeless!

In the rear is seen a tumultuous host of unorganized warriors, drowning the confusion of Babel with their discordant theories, each manifesting his godship by holding in his hand nicely-adjusted balances, by which he professes to give the exact weight of sacred things, labelling them as "good" and "bad" by his infallible authority. They also profess to have omniscient eyes, and pronounce, with wonderful exactness and authority, the modus operandi of the earth's creating itself; measuring, with an hour-glass, the time required for it to lay its strata and bring out its mighty proportions. They also profess to view with perfect clearness the progress of human development from the lowest grades of physical and intellectual organism, till, wonderful to tell, he becomes a god! Their deductions are pronounced with a great flourish of trumpets and tumultuous excitement; and, with a great show of learning, are defiantly arrayed against the divine record. And thus science is made to disprove revelation. Then a mighty shout is heard through all the line, as Peter's "last day" geological "scoffers and "natural brute beast" rioters, with all the heterogeneous mob of infidel blasphemers, unite to wheel their long guns and large mortars to bear upon the old fort of Inspiration, where the sacred records have been safely deposited. Around the holy book, within the sheltering parapets of heaven's stronghold, stand a few faithful sentinels, sword in hand, guarding with ceaseless vigilance the heavenly treasure.

But, oh, the din and confusion of battle, as bursting shell and screaming shot, with deafening roar, tear up and break into shapeless ruins all that can be "shaken" and revolutionized in human society, in family, church, and state!

Kings turn pale and tremble, when they look out upon the restless, moving multitudes around them, whose hearts throb heavily with jealousy and envy, as they recount the oppressions of the past and the servitude of the present, and with a suppressed murmur and uplifted hand, in secret council boldly predict that a radical change is at hand.

This world has grown old and grey-headed, and in every department are seen threatening signs of dissolution. It is destined to experience one more grand and mighty revolution, in which every thing that can be moved will be changed. Then will be made manifest the power and awful consequences of sin, when, in its final spasms and convulsive throes, this world comes to its death struggle, and the last vestige of harmony and peace shall disappear. God has borne long with our sinful race, while he has opened his treasure-house and poured out countless blessings, with correcting judgments to discipline and win back to himself a rebellious and ruined world.

He has instituted three modes of discipline, all controlled by the same principles, designed to restore men to their original status in harmony with himself and at peace among themselves. But the first two signally failed; for, when God offered men love, they chose hatred; when he offered peace, they chose war; when he offered kindness and friendship, they chose jealousy and envy. Then he gave them up to drink the cup they had persistently mingled for themselves, and, opening the floodgates of contention, jealousy and war, swept them into captivity. So he will deal with Christians under the third form of discipline.

(To be concluded.)

*A tract of 50 pp., by Eld. J. Couch, being an Address delivered before the National Advent Conference of North America, at Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 1869. For sale at this office.

For the World's Crisis.

CHRIST THE WAY.

"Thou art the way, the truth, the life;
Grant us to know that way,
That truth to keep, that life to win,
Which leads to endless day."

"Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life; no man cometh unto the Father but by me."—John 14: 6. Thus did our Savior reply to Thomas' query.

And how can we know the way? Dear fellow christian, he is, as then, the only way for the child of God to pursue; we must proceed in his way if we expect to come unto the Father, and be counted worthy to dwell with all the ransomed ones—God's elect. By this way we shall pass safely through these perilous times, and not be forsaken when we come to the "valley of the shadow of death." This is the way in which we need not be ashamed to stand in that great and awful day of judgment, reward, and punishment. God help us to press on faithfully, not turning aside, or looking back, knowing that our only safety is in keeping close to Christ, our only hope is in him.

We owe all to him. We can plead no righteousness of our own, nothing but the entire, free, full, and glorious atonement procured for us on the cross. Will you, sinner, rejoice with us in the atonement? Will you enter into the way of life?

We have entered upon an eventful period. Passing events; the turmoils, wars, and rumors of wars; men's hearts failing them; business perplexities, and the disturbed condition of the very centre of our universe, go to prove that the sure word of prophecy is about to be consummated in the overthrow and destruction of earth. Now, sinner, how will you stand in that grand and glorious day of Christ's appearing? Will he be welcome? Will you be found among those who have their lamps trimmed and burning? or will you be one of the number to call upon the rocks to fall upon you,—among those who must die the second death? "Turn, sinner, turn, why will ye die," when here is the way of salvation? Come now, just as you are, penitent and believing, and he will in no wise cast you out. He will give you of the water of life freely, without money, and without price. "Ho! every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk, without money and without price."

Here is the remedy for the sin-sick soul. Here is the fountain wherein you may be made whole and obtain immortality. Will you accept the pearl of great price now? If suffering with some physical malady, what sacrifice you would make of money, time, anything, for the sake of health! You are morally diseased. You know it. Then why spurn the physician, and refuse the remedy which may be had by asking in faith and forsaking your evil ways? He will help and guide you in the new way, and will give you the mastery over your old sinful nature.

It will not be long we shall have to struggle, for soon the Babe of Bethlehem will appear, the Prince and Savior, Jesus Christ. God help us to be watchful, that he may not come upon us unawares. He is even now at the door. Let us be ready, and be not deceived at the cries of "Peace," and the false hope of the conversion of the world, as held out by those who are blind leaders of the blind. God help us all to keep in the right way, upholding the truth; then shall we have eternal life. C. MENDENHALL.

Wilmington.

For the World's Crisis.

FORGIVENESS.

"When ye stand praying, forgive."—MARK 11: 25.

The truly humble and obedient follower of the Lord Jesus will not lightly pass over any precept or command which he has so clearly enjoined, as the exercise of forgiveness, upon all who hope for pardon and salvation through his name.

Certainly no duty is more imperative, or the alternative of obedience more plainly set before our minds. "Forgive, . . . that your Father also which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses. But if ye do not forgive, neither will your Father which is in heaven forgive your trespasses." Yet it often seems that no injunction is more openly disregarded, the most trifling excuse being sufficient to quiet the consciences of many even of those who profess to be the followers of Him, who, upon a cross of shame and agony, forsaken by his friends, mocked and derided by his enemies, yet meekly bowed his head and prayed, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

O the nobility, the sublimity of soul, that is manifested in such a spirit of forgiveness! Human nature alone is not sufficient for its attainment. It is Christ-like, divine. Yet every child of God may have it for his own. "My grace" is sufficient to cover the ground of this as well as every other desire of the believer's heart.

We have much to learn before we can appreciate the blessedness of those who have grown sweet with loving, and whose lives are made luminous by the reflection of that life which was "the light of men," if we cherish the memory of any wrong done to us by any created being; if we dare not pray, "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors." Alas! for every such recreant disciple who endeavors to quiet his conscience by saying, "I know I ought to forgive—but then, none of us are perfect; it is not in human nature to forgive everything; and really it is too trying to endure;" or, "I do forgive; I am sure I wish them well, but I'll have nothing more to do with them; they may go their own way, and I will go mine."

Would not Jesus weep over such a perversion of his example? Can such an one expect to enjoy the sweet influences of the Spirit of Jesus in his heart and life? May he not rather question if he have at all the "Spirit of Christ," without which we can be none of his?

Blessed be God, some of his dear children know the joy of his approving smile resting upon them, lighting up their pilgrim pathway of patient suffering and endurance for Christ's sake, while with the meekness and gentleness of the Master they also pray, "Father, forgive." CARRIE W. BIXBY.

Francestown, N. H.

For the World's Crisis.

ANATHEMA MARAN-ATHA.

Pope Pius IX., individually, and his council collectively, have renewed the anathemas of the Council of Trent against all heretics. While "the fourth beast, exceedingly terrible" and cruel, thus indicates his real disposition and intentions, we need not fear his curse if we have taken refuge under the blessing of the Lord, promised to those that fear him—to those that hope in his mercy. Yet let us learn something from our enemy.

. . . . Does the Bible pronounce no curses upon the offender? Hear it! "Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things written in the book of the law, to do them." Deut. 27: 26; Gal. 3: 10. "Christ hath redeemed us from this curse, being made a curse for us." Gal. 3: 13. Oh, reader, if you have not accepted this offered deliverance, how fearful is your position! You are still "under the curse," and your condition is only the more dreadful, because of your indifference to it. Awake, thou sleeper! arise from the dead! Christ will give thee life!

Dr. Edward Robinson says, "Anathema, that is, a curse, or ban, signifies properly something set apart, separated, devoted. It is understood principally to denote the absolute, irrevocable, and entire separation of a person from the communion of the faithful, or from the number of the living, or from the privileges of society; or the devoting of any man, animal, city, or thing, to be extirpated, destroyed, consumed, and, as it were, annihilated. Thus Jericho and Achan were accursed. Joshua 6: 17-21, and Joshua 7.

"Another kind of anathema, very peculiarly expressed, occurs in 1 Cor. 16: 22, 'If any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be Anathema Maran-atha.' This last word is made up of two Syriac words, signifying 'the Lord cometh'; that is, the Lord will surely come, and will execute this curse by condemning those who love him not. At the same time, the opposite is also implied, that is, the Lord cometh also to reward those who love him."

As Christians, then, we should "bless them that persecute us," bless and "curse not." Disregarding the curses hurled by impious Rome, that "daughter of Babylon who is to be destroyed," we should, as a friendly warning, rather than as a threat, echo the apostle's words, "If any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be Anathema Maran-atha." M. B. [illegible]

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, July 13, 1870.

Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

Money Orders.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

H. MUNGER—Impossible this week.

R. E. LADD—Forwarded.

C. H. WILLIAMS—Money received. All right

D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

BRO. J. COUCH'S P. O. address is now Chelsea, Mass.

BRO. T. M. PREBLE having removed from Lynn, his P. O. address will now be North Cambridge, Mass.

MURDOCK'S TESTAMENT—We can now furnish Murdock's Translation of the Testament from the Syriac, for $2.50.

"DEBT & GRACE"—We have a few copies of "Debt & Grace" in good condition, which we have gathered, and will send it for $1.50. Some have been very anxious to get it.

BILLS! BILLS!!

There are many of our subscribers who are largely in arrears in their payments for the Crisis. To such we are now sending bills of their indebtedness. We hope to have a prompt response by the brethren and sisters sending in the amount due without delay.

AG'T.

OUR WESTERN TRIP.

We parted with our readers at Clinton, Iowa, Sabbath evening, June 26th, at the close of the series of meetings in the tent. Thus far, our western trip has been very pleasant. The Lord has bestowed constant and sweet peace. To his glory we can say that for years he has given peace like a river, and not suffered a cloud to darken our sky. Truly, the christian may say,

"What a friend we have in Jesus."

Why will not all love him, and try to please him in all their thoughts, words, and deeds? There is no other way to be truly happy in this life. All that is opposed to a pure christianity is equally opposed to pure joy and peace. This is the Lord's positive and righteous arrangement, from which there is no variation. Whoever would be happy must obey the Lord, who only requires us to do what is for the best good of ourselves and our neighbors. When we thus live, we glorify our Creator, and enjoy his smiles. Living in this way, we can truly say,

"All is well, all is well."

After waiting at the steamboat landing from ten P. M. till two A. M., the steamer Minnesota arrived en route from St. Paul to St. Louis. After enjoying about three hours rest on the boat, we awoke to behold the beautiful and varied scenery on the banks of the great river, interspersed with bushy islands, and busy in floating huge rafts of timber, and a variety of steamers upon its quiet bosom. In all our travels, for many years, we have taken no journeys that we ever enjoyed so well, as our rides upon the Mississippi river. There is very little motion to the boats; they are well managed, large and safe, and during the hot season of the year we have a very refreshing breeze.

We arrived at Burlington, Iowa, Monday evening, about seven o'clock, and received a hearty welcome by Bro. D. Winter, whom we found waiting at the steamboat landing. His home is very pleasantly situated on the top of "Mt. Hope," where he has the benefit of fresh air and sunlight. He is an ardent lover of the blessed hope, and willing to make noble sacrifices for the sake of spreading the truth. Burlington is a romantic city, upon a bluff, on the Iowa side of the Mississippi river, containing some 15,000 inhabitants. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R. passes through the city, en route for Omaha and California. The future of Burlington is flattering to business men. As far as we could ascertain, the religious interest is low. The people seem to be quite indifferent about their future welfare, but very attentive to things relating to their temporal prosperity. The next day after our arrival, in company with Bro. Winter, we called on the Baptist, Methodist and Congregational ministers, who treated us respectfully and kindly. We found some of them had been reading works on the nature and destiny of man. The great and glorious truths, for the belief of which we have been called "infidels," are now agitating the whole christian world. A revolution in theology must take place. Frowns, sneers, threats of excommunication, and the cry of "infidel," will not stop the onward march of the light now shining on the nature and destiny of man. The heathen doctrine of the immortality of the soul is being renounced by a large number of devoted men and women, who love Jesus more than reputation. If we can only persuade christian people to give their Bibles a careful examination on this subject, we have little fear but that they will see the truth, and abandon their false belief in the natural immortality of man. When this point is settled, the whole Bible comes into harmony.

THE WEATHER

Has been excessively hot for about two weeks, up to the last of June, when the mercury at Burlington stood at one hundred and two degrees in the shade. During our whole life, we think we have not before passed two such warm weeks as those ending June 30th, 1870. The pastures are very dry, the crops are suffering, and the prospect for farmers is disheartening. It is said there will not be more than one-third of a full crop of grass. In consequence of a refreshing shower, the last day of June, July began with a cool atmosphere, that caused a general rejoicing among men and all the animal creation. Now (July 2nd) the weather is delightful. The following shows the weather in other places, and its effects:

"OMAHA, July 1. The thermometer is up to one hundred and six. Some workmen upon the new hotel building were prostrated by heat. Work was suspended.

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 1. Had a flame of fire swept over this portion of Minnesota, daily burning for the last three weeks; it could scarcely have produced a more desolating result than have the torrid sun and the absence of rain and dew upon the growing wheat crop. It is no exaggeration to say that at no time since the first breaking of Minnesota soil has the prospect been so gloomy as now."

OUR MEETINGS.

In Burlington only thirty attended at first, in consequence of the oppressive heat and short evenings, but the audiences were intelligent and attentive. Several questions have been asked which have added interest to the meetings. The prospect is now very encouraging. We have Mozart hall, which is commodious, and the best ventilated of any public room in the city. The truth is taking strong hald, and we hope yet to see much good accomplished before the conclusion of our meetings.

"IN HIS OWN IMAGE."—Gen. 1: 2.

It is sometimes asserted by those who disbelieve the Bible account of the origin and nature of man, that instead of being created complete at the first, perfect in every physical organ, he sprang from some one of the smallest specimens of the animal creation, and has grown to be what he is by a certain law of progression which has gradually passed him from his small beginning, in the form of some little monad, up through the varied ascending scale of animals, to his present exalted condition, where it is proper to call him a man. The Scripture informs us that "the fool hath said in his heart, There is no God." Ps. 14: 1 We think it must be one just like him who says that man originated from the lower order of animals. We would like to ask such teachers if their law is perpetual, and unchangeable? We believe they all affirm very positively that the laws of nature, their God, are unchangeable. Then why do we not see the law operating now? During about six thousand years, no trace of the working of such a law has been discovered; but we find men degenerating in length of life and physical strength. Their boasted law of progression is advancing men backwards. Leaving such vagaries, as unworthy the notice of candid men, we turn to the Bible account of man's origin, which we find in Gen. 2: 7, as follows:—"The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul."

WHAT IS MAN?

Man is a being made of the dust of the ground in the likeness of his Creator. If this definition of man is correct, it will distinguish him from all other beings in the universe. Let us compare it with the holy Scriptures. In Gen. 1: 26, 27, we read:—"And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness. . . . So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him." These texts show that man was made in the image, or likeness of his Creator; and in Gen. 2: 7, we are informed that man was made "of the dust of the ground;" hence the definition given of man is in harmony with the Bible. In Deut. 32: 4, we read, "God created man upon the earth." In Isa. 45: 12, "I have made the earth, and created man upon it." Then it follows that man was not created till after the formation of the earth. Neither was he created in some other place, and then put upon the earth; but we are repeatedly informed that he was created "upon the earth." He had no existence as man, none as an intelligent being, till he was "formed" "of the dust of the ground." Whoever assumes that man existed before that time, must do so in opposition to plain Bible statements.

It may be inquired, In what sense was man created in the "likeness" of his Creator? We think only one consistent answer can be given, in harmony with the Bible, and that is, he was made in the personal likeness. A moral likeness could not be made of the dust of the ground. Besides, there is no intimation in the account of man's creation that the "likeness" was a moral one. Those who make such a claim are obliged to rest upon assumption for proof, instead of the Bible. While we believe "God is a Spirit," we also believe most firmly that the Scriptures uniformly teach that he is a person. We can see but one other position to take, and that is the one taught by the ancient Pantheists* and modern Spiritualists, who hold that God is not a being, but only a principle in all matter. When man was created of the dust of the ground, he was something more than a principle. He was not made in the likeness of a principle, but of the person who formed him. It looks reasonable that those whom God would receive as his adopted sons and daughters should be created in his "own likeness."

When speaking of God's "only begotten Son" (1 John 4: 9), the apostle Paul says, he "was made in the likeness of men." Phil. 2: 7. He cannot mean that he was made in man's moral, sinful likeness, for he was "without sin" (Heb. 4: 15); but literally, in his personal likeness. Again, Paul says: "Christ . . . is the image of God". (2 Cor. 4: 4); and that he is "in the form of God" (Phil. 2: 6); "and the express image of his PERSON." Heb. 1: 3. How could the personality of God be taught more plainly? (1) Christ, the Son of God, "was made in the likeness of men." (2) He "is the image of God." (3) He is "in the form of God." (4) He is the express image of his person." The words "likeness," "image," "form," and "person," are alike applied to man, Christ and God, and therefore cannot mean a moral likeness, for that would involve the blasphemous doctrine that Christ and God are sinners, like men.

When it is said an object is in the "likeness," or "image" of another, it is necessarily composed of the same material, or is of the same nature. A portrait is said to be a "likeness" of a person. We do not mean that the person is made of the same material as the likeness. When we say of a statue, It is a likeness of Benjamin Franklin, or Daniel Webster, or George Washington, or some other person, do we mean that those men were made of metal like that of which their statues are composed? No one would take such an absurd position. So when it is said that man is made of the dust in the "likeness," or "image," of God, who "is a Spirit," it would be equally absurd to assume that God is composed of earthy matter, because he "formed man of the dust of the ground," in the "likeness" of his own personal form.

Those who are saved in the kingdom of God are to possess for ever a personal likeness of the Lord. Says Paul: "This corruptible mus put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality." 1 Cor. 15: 53. Again he says: "Christ . . . shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body." Phil. 3: 21.

Stephen suffered martyrdom after the Savior had ascended to his Father in heaven; and while he was being stoned, he said:—"Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God." Acts 7: 56. At this time, our Savior was a real person, as truly as when he ascended from Mt. Olivet. Shall we dispute the holy man Stephen, and say that Christ and his Father are not persons, and therefore he did not see them? Said Jesus: "Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, That in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven." Matt. 17: 10. Said Peter:—"The eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers; but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil." 1 Pet. 3: 12. Said Jesus:—"It is written "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." Matt. 4: 4. In Exodus 31: 18, we read:—"And he gave unto Moses, when he had made an end of communing with him upon Sinai, two tables of testimony, tables of stone, written with the finger of God." Said David:—"He bowed the heavens also and came down; and darkness was under his feet." Ps. 9: 8. These and other Scriptures teach very clearly that God, as a Spirit, has a personal form, and that man is made literally in his external likeness. The angels are spirits, and yet they have personal forms like men. We think it would be absurd to speak of an intelligent being that had no personality.

It it be asked, How can God be omnipresent, if he is a person? we answer, by means of the Holy Spirit, which Jesus says "proceedeth FROM the Father." John 15: 26. That "which proceedeth from" a being is not the person from whom it proceeds. Light and heat proceed from the sun; but the sun still remains in the heavens. If there was no sun, then it would not send out light and heat. Although the sun is ninety-five millions of miles from the earth, yet it exerts a powerful influence upon both land and sea. Would it be correct to say that this almost omnipresent, impersonal influence of the sun is the sun itself? Just as reasonable, we think, as to assume that the omnipresent Holy Spirit, "which proceedeth from the Father," is the Father himself, who is in heaven, and with whom are the holy angels and Jesus our Savior.

* A Pantheist is one who believes that "the universe is God," or that he is a part of every thing, "without body, parts, or passions."

DAYS OF NOAH.

Jesus has informed us that just before his second coming, the state of things in the world will be much as it was in the days of Noah. There will be but little fear of God in the land. Wickedness will prevail alarmingly. Feasting and fun, pride and vanity, with general conformity to the world, on the part of the professed church, will be the leading characteristics of the society in the last days. In view of the present state of things, Mr. Spurgeon says:—

"I sometimes fear that the only age to which we can be truly likened, is the time before the flood, when the sons of God intermarried with the daughters of men, and when there ceased to be a distinction between the church and the world. It is but the part of candor to acknowledge that there is such a mixture now-a-days, such a compromise, such a giving and a taking of religious questions, that we are like a leavened mass, mingled and united together. All this is wrong; for God has always intended there should be a distinction between the righteous and the wicked, as clear and as palpable as the distinction between the day and the night."

CORRECTION.—In our report of the Strawberry festival at Clinton, Iowa, it is stated that "fifteen hundred dollars" were raised by voting on the comparative beauty of two young ladies. It should read fifteen dollars.

WM. MORPHY of Atlantic, Cass Co., Iowa, would be glad to find out any Adventists in the neighborhood of that place. Meetings are held once in two weeks four miles east of Atlantic, and the Lord blesses them.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING.

At a meeting of the Committee held in Springfield, July 6th, the following action was taken in relation to the Campmeeting appointed for August 20th:

Voted, "That all Associations and Societies, excepting the Advent Christian Association, and the Advent Christian Publication Society, be requested to appoint their business meetings at some place other than the Campground."

Voted, "That there be no collections taken or appeals made on the ground for money by any Association, Society, person or persons, excepting by order of the Committee."

Voted, "That the brethren and churches be requested (in consequence of the arrears of last year, caused in part by the large number of free boarders), to provide for the board of the poor among them.

GEO. T. ADAMS, SECRETARY.

The Advent Christian Quarterly, edited by Wm. L. Himes, is received. An excellent number.

PERSONAL.—Bro. Wm. Sutherland is lying very sick at Vernon, Vt., and requests the prayers of the church.

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."
By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

Sheldon's Four New Tracts.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

1. "LIFE AND DEATH THEOLOGY: or, The Scriptural Doctrine of 'Eternal Damnation' and 'Everlasting Punishment.'" Price 8 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 75 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $5.00 per hundred by express.

This work of forty-eight pages is the clearest and strongest document yet produced by Bro. Sheldon on this topic. It is just the thing to scatter among all classes.

2. IMMATERIALISM: or, The Doctrine of Soul-Immortality Refuted." Price 5 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $3.00 per hundred by express.

A tract of thirty-two pages, showing that fifteen cardinal errors spring out of the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and that those errors could not exist independent of that doctrine, thus showing it to be the main root of error. Let it be scattered widely.

3. "DEATH AND THE DEAD," 16 pages. Price 3 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1,50 per hundred by express.

Just the thing to scatter everywhere.

4. "THE COMING JUDGMENT: Its Necessity and Result," Eight pages. 10 cts. per dozen, postpaid, or 75 cts. per hundred by express.

It will do much good. A'GT.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY. By Elder James H. Whitmore. Published by the Western Advent Christian Association.

This little volume of 300 pages is a valuable contribution to the literature of the subject on which it treats, and is worthy of a wide circulation, not only among those who hold to the views advocated therein, but among others who have not given them due thought and investigation.

For sale at this office. Price, single copy, postpaid, $1.00. Six copies, by mail, $5.00; by express, $4.20. AG'T.

NEW MUSIC.

Six pieces, entitled "Jesus is coming again," "I love thee still," "Hoist every sail," "Sweetly sleeping," "He is coming," and "Home." Sent postpaid for 20 cents. Single sheet 5 cents. For sale at this office, or by the author, Geo. E. Lee, Brimfield, Mass.

For the World's Crisis.

SPIRITUAL MELODIES.

The church of God has passed the time of cruel persecution and subjection to tyrannical powers. For long centuries she wandered in the wilderness, with her head bowed down as the bulrush, her harp hung upon the willows. "How shall we sing the Lord's song in a strange land?" Even in the subterraneous catacombs of Rome, methinks the songs of Zion were sung in suppressed tones, lest the foundations of old Rome should reverberate the sound, and thus discover their retreat. So, too, in the valleys of Piedmont, an unrestrained song of praise might bring upon them the armed minions of the Man of Sin. But thank God, we are past that now. "Look up, lift up your heads." We can sing now; not the hushed melodies of the wilderness state, but the free, unrestrained anthems of soon-coming redemption.

"Shall not his people sing for joy?
Shall not the church her songs employ?
Sing, ye who will, sing while ye may,
And shout for joy th' approaching day."

Energetic song is characteristic of God's saints in the last days. Scores and hundreds have been attracted to our meetings because of the soul in our song.

It is our duty, then, to encourage every means that will facilitate this mode of expressing our hope. We have some excellent collections, as the "Jubilee Harp," "Advent Minstrel," "Social Hymns" by Bro. Hastings, and "Spiritual Melodies" by Bro. I. K. Lombard. We need them all. I would especially commend Bro. Lombard's new edition of "Spiritual Melodies," as containing many good pieces not to be found in the others. Brethren, let us sing. While our hearts are swelling and dilating with the big hope of soon-coming redemption, let it break forth in loud anthems of praise. GEO. THOMSON.

— The old parish Bible which for over a century lay in the pulpit of Epworth Church, England, and from which Rev. Samuel Wesley and his son John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, preached so long, has just come to this country, and is now in the possession of Rev. Wm. H. Boole, of New York, who exhibited it to the Methodist Episcopal Preachers' Meeting.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute according to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERRON, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments	$545.08
M. E. Stone	3.50

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	$69.58

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 202, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$838.65
John Clothy	2.00

For the World's Crisis.

CHASING A REVIVAL.—No. 4.

The more we think and reflect upon this subject, the more important it appears to us; for in all the world's chasing, only those who gain an entrance into the kingdom of heaven will have run effectually; all others will end their race at the great burning day. It will be a severe calamity to many who have entered their names in the course for eternal life, and find, when they reach the end, their names not registered in the Lamb's book of life. Yet this will most assuredly be the fate of thousands; for Christ has said, "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven."

We also read of the "foolish virgins," to whom Christ will say, "I never knew you." How important, then, that we have the assurance of a title deed, a passport to the celestial city.

Let us for a moment look at the great mass of mankind, at this evening hour of time. The whole world has become a grand racecourse, and all classes and conditions of men have entered the chase. Monarchs and despots are chasing the ideal of their hopes and aspirations, and their subjects, either voluntarily or by compulsion, join in the contest.

The Pope is chasing infallibility. The long list of societies, for various purposes, are chasing their peculiar theories and creeds. Spiritualism is chasing a myth. Free-masons are wandering into the dark caverns of their order, chasing they hardly know what.

There is a class of men who for years past have been chasing some pet hobby, and have overtaken it, and are so firmly saddled in it that nothing but the thunders of the last day will dismount them.

In reviewing the history of the church, we find that much of its energy has been directed in the building up of many errors and theories which, when weighed in the scale of truth, are found wanting.

The theory of the world being gradually converted to christianity has been chased, until it has been arrested and incorporated into the creeds of many of the churches.

Spiritualism has been chased for the last quarter of a century by almost all classes of the community, and many who once professed allegiance to Christ have been foremost in the race. The believers in the non-resurrection theory have been chasing an error. We cannot see how any one can deny such emphatic declarations as we find in the word of God upon the resurrection of the just and unjust, and not be wilfully ignorant.

What more can we say to arouse the church to gird on anew the armor of righteousness, and enter the race for eternal life? What will give life and vitality to its labors, and what will quicken or convict sinners and renew them to a life of hope and joy, in the prospect of sitting down with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of God? Nothing but the Holy Spirit in answer to prayer.

To those churches who have had its reviving influences, and have been quickened into new life and activity in the Lord's service, but from some cause have become lukewarm; renew the conflict; if the revival has gone by, follow hard after, until it is overtaken and brought again to sit as a guest to comfort and cheer the waiting church; and never again treat it coldly or indifferently, and cause it to depart. D. N. SMITH.

For the World's Crisis.

JOTTINGS.

We had the happy privilege on Sunday, July 3d, of meeting with a few of the scattered flock of the Chief Shepherd, in a back and secluded neighborhood known as the Clough district, in Effingham, N. H., where Brn. A. Stillings and Mark Stevens have held some meetings of late. Truly it was good to be there, to hear the cheering testimonies of the dear saints of God, and to behold their pleasant faces again in this life.

After the close of the forenoon services, Bro. Stevens led two young men, lambs of the flock, down to the water near by, and buried them beneath its dark waves, and raised them up to walk with Christ in a new life. The administration of the Lord's Supper was attended to at the close of the afternoon services, a hymn was sung, and the congregation departed their several ways, never more to all meet again until we all appear at the judgment seat of Christ.

We learn that a revival interest has been prevailing at Water Village, N. H., of late, and a few Sabbaths since Bro. Mark Stevens, who has labored there considerable, baptized ten converts as some fruit to the Lamb of God, who taketh away the sins of all who come to him. We learn that the grove meeting in Bartlett, N. H., held from the 22nd to the 26th of June, was an excellent one. Brn. N. Wheeler and L. Allen were present to assist Bro. and Sr. McKinstry in the meetings. One Bro. John B. Deering was set apart to the work of the gospel ministry.

Freedom, N. H. CHAS. H. HURD.

— Earl Russell said at a public meeting: "I sometimes think that there is a gimlet at work at the bottom of the Church of England. I trust the object of those who are using it will be defeated, but I cannot help thinking that it behooves all men, not only dissenters but low church and broad churchmen—all, in short, who do not belong to the ritualists—to be watchful in all they do, and take care that this Protestant country shall retain its Protestant Bible, its Protestant teaching, its Protestant schools, and continue to hold its rank among the nations of the world."

Correspondence.

From Bro. L. Boutell.

BRO. GRANT:—We are having blessed good times under the old A. A. Mission Tent, now pitched in South Providence. The meeting has been progressing since the 19th of June. Meetings every afternoon and evening. The people are interested to hear, and many that never visit the meeting-house are found under the tent, interested to hear the gospel in all its fulness. Sundays the tent has been crowded, and quite an interest has been created, so much so we dare not as yet stop the meeting.

While many have been revived and awakened, some have been hopefully converted. Some stand aloof and fear that the teaching will not be evangelical or orthodox; others are not afraid to come and labor in sweet fellowship and render us efficient service in the work of God and truth. Among them are our preaching brethren—Winchester and Tobey. They take hold in earnest with us; and are not afraid of the doctrine we preach.

Thus the work of God is prospering in Providence, and I can but hope under God it will result in a permanent meeting, where the free gospel can be enjoyed.

Sunday, the 3d inst., was a great day under the tent; meetings from nine in the morning till ten in the evening. Preaching four times, with love-feast, prayer and conference meetings, shouts, songs, hallelujahs, with joy and rejoicing, with the continual flow of soul all day.

The 4th, preaching afternoon and evening. A blessed good meeting. Bro. Morrill is still there, with others to help.

All classes of religionists are welcomed under the tent to enjoy their freedom, and they come and speak freely; so praise ye the Lord. The "blessed hope" is made prominent in all our meetings. The coming of the Lord, the resurrection of the dead, when the reward of all, both good and bad, will be received, with the signs of the times, have been brought before the people, and there seems to be an ear to hear. So we take courage, seeing error and tradition give place to truth and righteousness.

I return to-morrow to stay a few days longer, hoping to see greater results for Bible truth. L. BOUTELL.

Chelsea, July 7th.

From Bro. C. Pike.

BRO. GRANT:—The Lord is still blessing the church at West Hoosick, N. Y. Bro. J. Wilber, — Harrison, and Sr. Towslee, have preached to them part of the time for the past few months. I spent a Sabbath with them a few weeks ago, when seven were immersed, making in all twenty-three. They are a happy people. In the act of immersion, these have shown to the world that they believe in the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ,—hence were baptized for the dead; and those who do not believe that Jesus died, are not fit subjects for baptism; for how can they be baptized for the dead, if Christ was not dead? The act of baptism also shows that the individual is dead to the world, therefore wishes to lose sight of the world; and so they are buried; when they arise from the watery grave, they rise to newness of life, or to live a new life,—a life of righteousness, a life of faith and of holiness. Thus, dear young brethren and sisters, let me say to you, the world will expect you to appear different from what you did before. I trust you will, and by your good works lead others to glorify God.

The Lord is with us in Hebron. This church, like many other churches, has passed through trials years ago, yet there are a few who are trying to keep the fire burning, and, by the help of the Lord, to keep Satan from rooting up all the seed that has been sown here. We think the cause is in a healthy condition, and although few in numbers, yet, like Gideon and his men, we will go round the camp of Satan until the walls of sin and opposition tumble down, and victory turns on the side of God's truth.

We have a flourishing Sabbath School of about thirty members, and more are coming in soon. Two put on Christ last Sabbath by baptism, showing to those present that they were not ashamed to do as Jesus had done. How good it looks to see individuals obeying their Master, in going down into the water just as Jesus did. How thankful we ought to be that we can do something that he did, and just the way he did it. "For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall also be in the likeness of his resurrection." Let us do as he has commanded, and in the resurrection morning we shall have bodies fashioned like Christ's glorious body, and reign with him in a glorified earth. For God has said, "As sure as I live, the whole earth shall be filled with my glory." For one, I am willing to trust God and take him at his word. Lord, increase our faith.

C. PIKE.

Hebron, N. Y., June 27th, 1870.

From Bro. N. H. Reed.

BRO. GRANT:—It is now about one year since I last corresponded through the Crisis, since which time I have been over my usual route in the eight western counties of this province (N. S). A goodly number of tracts and papers have passed through my hands to the people, such as are calculated to enlighten them in the great truth of the soon coming and kingdom of our Lord, and a preparation to meet it. May God bless every effort put forth in this direction.

The religious interest is at a low ebb in this province. It is true the most part is not without some kind of religious instruction. How many have the form without the power. I am glad to say that to my knowledge God has blessed the work of those silent preachers, and also my labors as a preacher.

I am not discouraged, though it is not without some hardship that I make my way into new fields. At first it seems hard to persuade people that you come among them for their good. Yet I find there are some who, after awhile, will consider things rightly. Brn., let us respond to the call, and seek out new fields of labor. There is no time to be idle. Many, I fear, seek the light end of the rope, and are not willing to bear the burden and heat of the day. Do not let us fear doing too much. Have courage. God will repay us at the end.

My visit this spring in Boston was pleasant. Was glad to be made acquainted with so many dear ones bound to the same resting-place with myself. Many thanks to the Crisis office for the gift I received in tracts and papers, to aid me in the furtherance of my labors this season. It does me good to spend my time among the poor, and carry those messengers to teach the way of life. The Bible has become so much neglected that duty calls us to put forth efforts in various ways to arrest the people's attention to the great subject of eternal life.

Another annual conference of Christian Adventists has been held in this province. We all felt thankful for the past success and the prospect before us. The N. B. tent is now pitched (June 27th) at Bridgetown, Annapolis Co. Brn. Hall, Sederquest, and myself, are with it. Have had five meetings. The interest is increasing. We hope for good results to follow while in our summer's campaign. Pray for us, Brn., that we may be directed aright, and not be ashamed to declare the whole counsel of God. Yours in the Lord, NELSON H. REED.

Bear River, Annapolis, N. S.

Extracts from Letters.

SR. M. H. MORRISON writes from New Glasgow, P. Q., June 25th:—"Dear Brn. and Srs., I have been thinking of writing for some time. Some years ago, at times, I wrote for the Crisis; but my nervous system is so affected that it don't allow of my studying or writing. I was confined to my bed one month in Montreal. Since the end of March have been in New Glasgow, and in May was over two weeks in bed. But, thanks to the Restorer, these two past weeks I am come to my former strength, which is but feeble.

It is truly cheering to the faithful child of God to know that the long, dreary night of tribulation is almost ended, and that the bright dawn of eternal day already lights up the eastern sky. The signs of coming day are visible on every hand, and the glorious moment is drawing near when the good of every age and clime will be admitted into those bright mansions which Jesus is preparing; which are to 'come down from God out of heaven,' etc. It is evident that the last scenes in the great drama of earth's eventful history are transpiring before us; and everything proclaims in thunder tones that the great day is about to burst upon a slumbering world, when the trump of God shall awake the sleeping saints, and summon the world to judgment. Then the angels will gather the saints of God from every land, and bear them upward to meet their coming King; not one will be left behind. No, not one, will be forgotten—they will hear with rapture the voice of the archangel, and awake from the long repose of death, forever to bloom in the Paradise of God. Our sorrows will then be ended, and we shall walk by the side of life's pure river, and range the bright fields of unfading glory, and the shouts and the songs of the redeemed will roll along the new earth like mighty thunderings—'Blessing and honor and glory and power be unto him that sitteth on the throne, and unto the Lamb forever and ever.'

But ah! how great the contrast of the anticipation of the rejectors of the divine mercy in that great day of wrath, when they shall cry to the rocks and mountains to cover them from the face of so mighty a judge. O ye backsliding, careless ones! Can your hearts endure, or can your hands be made strong in the day that God shall deal with you? Oh! think of this, ye rejectors of God's truth and mercy. Think, oh, think what a state to be in! To know the truth and to have professed the truth, by covenanting with Christ by baptism, but now, countenancing the popular church, and the refined and fashionable world, which have met and kissed each other. No enmity exists between them. They dwell together in sweet friendship.

The spirit of compromise seems to reign predominant over the church and the world. The church labors to suit its religion to the depraved appetite of the world; and the world spares no pains to make its amusements acceptable to the church. Both have been successful in their endeavors. The church has so modified its once cross-bearing religion as to cause the offence of the cross to cease. Everything is deceptive. The sinful pleasures, fashions, maxims, and customs of the world are baptized with the name of religion, or innocent amusements. And many we had reason to expect better things of will cry out, 'innocent amusements,' etc. Hence, before the inexperienced christian is sensible of the painful fact, he is entrapped, and caught in this snare of the devil, set by the united agency of the church and the world. We say, without qualification, that countenancing the errors of the popular churches, and the amusements of the day, are snares of the devil, laid to catch and destroy souls. Surely, the Spirit of Christ does not produce such fruits. It separates its humble possessor from the spirit of error and practice of the world; and assures him, if he loves the world, the love of God is not in him. The danger lies in not discerning between the so-called innocent amusements of these last days and the pure religion of Christ. They are made to appear as near as possible like it; but they are as wide apart as heaven is from hell, or as Satan is from an angel of light, though he may appear like one. Remember, by their fruits they are to be known. The pure institutions of the gospel, in all their holy tendency, are calculated to reform the wicked, make them hate mirth and vanity, and love the ways of sobriety and self-denial.

O ye followers of Jesus, take heed to yourselves at this perilous moment. Keep near the Savior's side. He will safely conduct you to a participation of his soon-coming and everlasting kingdom, if you follow him to the end, and keep yourselves unspotted from the world.

'When Satan's temptations our hearts would allure
With aspect so gentle and seemingly pure,
To whom should we turn but to Him who once felt
The artful temptations by Satan's hand dealt?'"

—Adv. Times.

SR. P. M. EATON writes:—"Is it not a rich privilege, that there is at least one religious paper that is a free 'exchanger'? There are many excellent religious papers, but their columns are for the most part 'reserved' for the great names to fill, the learned, and titled names. How different the Crisis! Like its Master, it receives the 'common people,' and that is why many of us find opportunity to cast seed upon the 'waters'—the great company whom it is our privilege to reach through our pens.

I wish to invite your attention to the publications of the Dansville physicians. It is but a few weeks since I became acquainted with their Institution, through its publications and Monthly Journal. Read the 'Laws of Life,' published by Dr. James C. Jackson, Dansville, N. Y. Learn and live. Cease to do evil. Learn to do right. How great are the dangers of the present time! How are the sons and daughters of our land slain by excesses of every kind—in food, in dress, in mind, in heart, in person. May the intelligent christian patrons of the Crisis help on the good cause."

SR. H. WEMETT writes:—"It is now about one year since I embraced the glorious Advent views. I had belonged to the church four years, and thought myself a christian, though I often broke the covenant; but I hardly think if Christ had come he would have said 'well done, thou good and faithful servant.' But now I rest my faith on Christ Jesus, and this morning my heart is filled with gratitude and confidence. The Bible seems like a new book to me since I began to read and understand it. There are but few in our village, (Hemlock Lake), who are waiting for that glorious day. We do not have the blessed truth preached here often. Church doors are closed against us. We have our prayer meetings twice a week. The Lord is with us. There is a prospect of our having a place of worship this summer. One brother will open his house until the better way is opened. We feel hungry for the glorious truth to be preached. Pray for us."

BRO. J. DOWNING writes, June 14th:—"Bro. Miles preached here (Red Creek, N. Y.), four weeks last Sabbath, and baptized one. The Methodist minister gave up his appointment; that Bro. Miles might have the meeting-house, which caused some hard feelings among his members; but his reply was that he should not be dictated in the matter, for if Bro. E. wished to be baptized by Bro. Miles, he would say Amen to it, and not lay a straw in his way. As regards myself, I am a very unprofitable servant. I am one of the first who embraced the glorious doctrine of the coming of the Lord, under the preaching of Bro. Chapman, in South Butler, and when I review my life the past twenty-five years, I find that I have done comparatively nothing. I hope my heavenly Father will forgive the sin of omission. For the future I am determined to be more faithful."

BRO. J. L. ROBERTS writes from Olustee, Fla.:—"We have built a new Advent chapel about ten miles from here. We have seven members, and a flourishing Sabbath School of forty scholars. Our pastor is T. J. Green. The pursuit of the people is politics and gain. If the Lord were to come, it would be to them as a thief in the night."

MINUTES

OF THE MINNESOTA (WINONA DIST.) CONFERENCE.

The second Q. M. of the Winona District met at Hesper, Iowa, June 18th. Called to order by the President, J. Brown. C. McCabe was elected Secretary pro tem.

The discussion of the question of supporting a man to travel and preach in this district, resulted in the passage of a resolution instructing the Chair to appoint a committee of one or more from each church to circulate a subscription paper for the support of such laborer. Said committee to report in four weeks, and to recommend a minister for this work. Names of committee: I. Nelson, Hesper; P. Brode, Canton; C. H. Brown, Riceford; C. Pamer, Winona; O. Richardson, Utica; R. Palmer, Eyota.

A committee was appointed to look up the tent, and secure it for use in this district.

Two united with the Hesper church.

Adjourned to meet in Utica, Winona Co., at Cheatham's Grove, or school-house, Sept. 9th, 10th, and 11th, next.

C. MCCABE, Secretary pro tem.
—Adv. C. Times.

Married.

DARLING—MERRILL. In Thornton, N.H., July 4th, 1870, by Eld. A. W. Sibley, Mr. ROYAL J. DARLING, of Woodstock, N. H., and Miss JENNIE M. MERRILL, of Thornton.

GERRISH—CAMPBELL. In Strafford, June 30th, by Eld. N. C. Twombly, Mr. J. E. GERRISH, of Northwood, and Miss FANNY CAMPBELL, of Reading, Mass.

PEABODY—GOOCH. In Kennebunk, April 26th, 1870, by Eld. W. H. Mitchell, FRANK H. PEABODY and GEORGIANA GOOCH, both of Kennebunk.

LEACH—OLIVER. Also, July 5th, GEORGE E. LEACH and LILLIE E. OLIVER, both of Biddeford.

Obituaries.

EMMONS. Died, in Wrightville, Ct., April 2d, after a brief illness, Sr. Almeda Emmons, aged forty-two years.

Sr. E., for many years was an acceptable member of the Baptist church, but some five years since she became interested in the Second Advent faith, and two years since united with the church in Wrightville, of which she lived a consistent member until her death. PETER TATRO, JR.

BALL. Died, in Wrentham, Mass., June 13th, 1870, of throat disease, after a sickness of four days, James Irville, infant child of James A. and Ellen A. Ball, aged nine months.

Eld. J. S. White, and Mrs. Gustine, who is in charge of a church in Mansfield, assisted in the funeral service on the 15th. The little child is sleeping in Jesus. It is a sad house, but they feel to say—

"He doeth all things well."

GEO. H. CHILD.

SWAZEY. Died, in Ossipee, N. H., June 21st, Dolly M. Swazey, wife of Thomas Swazey, aged sixty-six years, four months, and five days.

She leaves a husband, three children, and other relatives, to mourn their loss. She was a good wife, a kind mother, and much beloved by all who knew her.

Words of comfort were spoken on the occasion from Heb. 9: 27, 28, by MARK STEVENS.

KIMBALL. Died, in Concord, N. H., June 12th, 1870, Sister Mary B. Kimball, in the seventy-fifth year of her age.

Words of comfort were spoken to the mourning friends by Bro. C. W. Sargent.

Sleep, mother dear, sleep sweetly on,
Until the resurrection morn,
When Christ will call thee, with his own,
To share that bright and deathless home.

M.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

MADRID, July 6—At a meeting of the Cabinet this afternoon Regent Serrano and his Ministers unanimously confirmed Gen. Prim's selection of Prince Leopold, of Hohenzollen, for future King of Spain. Friends of the administration declare that the Cortez will give a majority of at least two hundred in favor of the election of Prince Leopold to the throne.

The Prince will enter Spain about the end of October next, and will be escorted from Germany by a Spanish squadron. There is great rejoicing in the city to-night over the final selection of a permanent ruler for Spain, and the new King will be heartily welcomed. Prince Leopold's occupancy of the Spanish throne is now considered a foregone conclusion.

LONDON, July 6.—The attitude of the Great Powers towards the latest nominee for the vacant Spanish throne is narrowly watched.

The English government is favorably disposed towards the candidature of Prince Leopold, and has signified that it favors the nomination. Upon the other hand, France is uncompromisingly opposed to it, because of his nationality and connections, and earnestly objects to the election of a Hohenzollern Prince. She considers that it would be a check upon, and a menace towards her. The French government strenuously opposes Prim's ambitious plans in relation to the sovereignty.

Advices from Pekin give particulars of a fearful butchery of the French residents in that city by a mob, imbued with intolerant hatred of foreigners, and especially of the French, in a great mass appeared in the quarters populated by the latter, and immediately commenced beating and maltreating all the Frenchmen whom they encountered. They however met with some resistance, whereupon they procured all manner of weapons and began a massacre. They sacked many dwellings and dragged the inmates into the streets where they were beaten with bludgeons and stabbed with knives.

Many were killed, or will die from the effects of their injuries. Some of the Chinese used firearms. The residence of the French Consul was broken into by a party, and he, with his Secretary of Legation, was brutally murdered, and some of the attaches were wounded. The rabble also killed several Sisters of Mercy and a number of priests—all foreigners. They also beat to death several Russians. All the French people overtaken were killed or shockingly maimed. In fact the rage of the Chinamen appeared to be directly expended upon this class of foreigners. Not content with their fiendish work, they repaired to the Roman Catholic Cathedral, drove forth the worshippers, and after sacking the building, set fire to it, and it was totally destroyed.

PARIS, July 7. The Minister of Foreign Affairs has received full confirmation of the massacre of the French in Pekin, which will be immediately sent to the commander of the French fleet in the Chinese waters. No special expedition will be dispatched, as the naval force is deemed sufficient to vindicate the dignity of France.

PARIS, July 7. The Gaulois retracts its report that General Prim had given way. He still maintains the canditure of Prince Hohenzollern, but the Spanish Minister here has telegraphed to Madrid that the project must be abandoned or there will be war.

PARIS, July 6.—France is tremendously excited over the announcement from Madrid of the probable election of Prince Leopold of Germany to the throne of Spain. In the Corps Legislatif, to-night, the debate was of the most serious and warlike character. Duke de Grammont, Minister of Foreign Affairs, delivered a speech in which he said: "France cannot suffer any Foreign Power to disturb the equilibrium of Europe, or imperil the interests and honor of the French nation."

Prime Minister Ollivier then addressed the Chamber in a cool and deliberate, but emphatic speech. At the close of his remarks, he spoke as follows: "France earnestly and passionately desires a place with all nations, but peace only with honor, and if war is necessary, the Government will not hesitate to ask of the legislative body its consent to inaugurate war to maintain the honor and principles of France."

Midnight.—It having transpired that the Government is exchanging notes with Prussia, the excitement in the city to-night is intense. It is positively ascertained that France and Prussia exchanged notes to-day, and war between the two nations is considered certain, if Prussia persists in placing Prince Leopold upon the Spanish throne.

PARIS, July 7.—It is asserted in well informed circles, that the alliance between France and Austria has been concluded.

It is asserted that the French Minister at Berlin was recalled at two o'clock to-day.

Le Pays (Imperialist) publishes a violent article, crying out for war. France, it declares, has recent diplomatic defeats as well as Waterloo to avenge, and Frenchmen are ready to take the same road to Tena and Berlin which their fathers took.

There was an exciting scene in the Corps Legislatif to-day, after the declaration made by the Minister of Foreign affairs.

LISBON, July 9.—The latest advices from Rio Janeiro state that the revolution in the province of Entre Rios has been suppressed. The defeat of Gen. Lopez Jordan was followed by the disbandment of his forces who scattered and fled.

PARIS, July 10. It is positively ascertained that the English and Italian Governments are actively engaged in pressing a friendly and satisfactory settlement of the difficulty existing between France and Prussia, arising out of the Hohenzollern Candidacy for the Spanish throne. England and Italy earnestly advise calm deliberation upon the part of the belligerent powers, and suggests a free interchange of views upon the vexed question before adopting serious means in the event of a war with Prussia.

The Emperor Napoleon will act informally as Commander-in-Chief of the French army, which will consist of four grand divisions, under the command of Marshals Lebœus, Bazaine, McMahon, and Palikao.

The French Press of to-day are extremely warlike. They insist that the government, now that it has the question before it, shall compel Prussia to evacuate Mayence, and fulfill the clauses of the treaty of Prague. The people of France endorse the sentiments expressed by the press of the country, and are very warlike in conversation. If the Emperor decides to declare war with Prussia, he will receive the popular support.

MADRID, July 10. The Spanish government has issued a circular denying that it acted with any hostile spirit to France in accepting Prince Leopold as a candidate for the succession to the throne of Spain. They say they wished peace, and had no desire to interrupt the tranquility of Europe by irritating overtures in the selection of a permanent ruler. The Constituent Cortes has been convoked, and will assemble on July 20, when the question of a new king will be disposed of.

PARIS, July 10. Great preparations of war continue to be made by France. At all the arsenals and military depots the greatest activity is seen, and the arrangements for offence and defense are of the most formidable character. Marshal Lebouf, the Minister of War, has made a report of the steps taken by him to place the French army upon a war footing. He informs the government that in twelve days 250,000 French soldiers will be ready to take the field. The excitement continues unabated throughout France. The belligerent spirit pervades all classes. The extensive preparations of the government by land and sea in anticipation of hostilities, cause serious apprehensions of an impending great war upon the Continent, notwithstanding the reported peaceful tone of Prussia, and the excuses of Spain.

ROME, July 7. The dogma of infallibility will be proclaimed on July 17th, with a magnificent celebration of the event. The ceremonials attending the publication of the dogma will be held in the church of Leo IV. The Pope will occupy the veritable chair of St. Peter. Cardinals, Archbishops and Bishops will attend in full ceremonials, and the various religious orders will go to the church in a procession. The conclusion of the religious ceremonies will be heralded to the populace with salvos of cannon and peals of bells.

The orators on both sides of the infallibility question having renounced their intention of speaking, on condition that manuscripts of their speeches may be submitted to a deputation of faith, it is probable that a schema will be voted on before the 15th inst. On Tuesday chapter III. was adopted, and a vote on the last chapter, which deals exclusively with the dogma of infallibility, will soon follow. The partisans of the dogma believe that the original formula will be maintained. The sittings of Council have been suspended for some days, pending the preparation of an amendment to the chapter on infallibility. Several American prelates have protested against the abrupt close of the discussion on chapter 3.

PARIS, July 8. All the Chinamen in Paris, fearing the anger of the populace on account of the recent massacres in Pekin, have carefully kept within doors, but owing to the Spanish affair the news from China created but little sensation.

The Minister of War declared to the Emperor yesterday that the army is ready to march at the first signal. No answer is expected from Prussia before Monday. The French Minister at St. Petersburg has declared the coronation of Hohenzollern as King of Spain will be regarded by France as a casus belli.

The Council.

The following is extracted from the N. Y. Herald's correspondent at Rome, under date of June 21st:—

WORK.

On Saturday, the 18th, the second discussion of the infallibility chapter took place in the Council Hall, and was marked by an unexpected revelation—viz., that the learned Archbishop of Bologna, Cardinal Guidi, of the order of Dominican monks, is a strong anti-infallibilist. In his speech he objected to the present form of the dogma and proposed to modify it by the declaration that the Pope is only personally infallible when he defines ex-cathedra, in matters of faith and morality, accompanied with the assent of the episcopal body.

As this would entirely change the aspect of the dogma, attempts were made by some of its most zealous partisans to interrupt the orator, but he held his ground and carried his arguments boldly through. The other two speakers on Saturday were Cardinals De Pitra and Bonnechose. The first being of a weak voice entrusted the delivery of his written speech to the powerful lungs of the Bishop of Belley, in favor of the infallibility, which he supported by a good amount of Greek quotations, which were, of course, unintelligible to most of the fathers. As to Cardinal de Bonnechose's speech it was all Greek to them, for he was perfectly inaudible, as, in fact, are half of the orators who rise to address the assembly.

As there are one hundred and five bishops on the orators' list engaged to speak on this subject, it may be anticipated that the dogma will not be promulgated just yet. On Sunday, of course, there was no meeting of the fathers, but yesterday they went on with the discussion. To-day again is a vacation day in honor of the Pope's coronation.

FRENCH INTERESTS.

The Bishop of Orleans has just sent round to the fathers of the Council a pamphlet he has written, and had printed in French at Naples, in reply to the article in the Civitta Cattolica of the 2d May, which sustained that the Pope's decision, and not the moral unanimity or even majority of the votes in Ecumenical Councils, gave force to dogmatic decrees or innovations.

While combating this principle Mgr. Dupanloup aims a side blow at the composition of the present Council, in which he complains that there are 276 Italian Bishops, of whom 143 belong to the Papal States—43 cardinals who are not bishops or have no sees—120 archbishops and bishops in partibus, and 51 abbots or generals of monastic orders; while the bishops of all the Catholic countries of Europe, except Italy, now attending the Council, only amount to 265, so that the diocesan bishops of Italy alone are in a numerical majority over the patriarchs, primates, archbishops and diocesan bishops of the rest of Christendom.

DISCIPLINE.

It is stated that after the infallibility dogma has passed, which, in some form or other, it is now generally expected it will, a schema in the category of discipline will be introduced in the Council limiting the rights of bishops, who, in future, before being recognized by the Pope, will be required to give a written promise to resign their sees "whenever it shall seem advisable to the Sovereign Pontiff for the general good." If the bishops vote this they will, indeed, be deliberately destroying their traditional rights and privileges, and in a few years we may expect to see the whole Episcopacy reduced to the condition of apostolic vicars, whom the Pope may depose or transfer from one see to another according to his good pleasure and without any of the canonical formalities now required for expugnating a bishop from his stronghold.

DOMESTIC.

Chicago, July 6. Information has been received at Military Head Quarters that Lieut. Young of the 2d Cavalry with 35 men attacked 200 hostile Indians on the 26th of June, 38 miles from Rawlins on the Union Pacific Railroad, and killed fifteen of them besides wounding a number of others. None of the soldiers were killed, and but one wounded, Sergeant Kostun who was shot in the hip. After fighting for five hours, Lieut. Young sent for reinforcements, but before they reached him the Indians had fled to the mountains, and it was impossible to discover their trail. The Indians had a strong position in the brush and mountain gorge.

New York, June 27. The World's Montreal special says that a great independence mass meeting took place in Montreal on Saturday night. In the course of a stirring speech, Sir John Young said that the time had now come when Canada should sever the connection with Great Britain, and become an independent nation. At this announcement the greatest part of the vast assembly cheered lustily.

La Flamme said that appeal to England for support in case of an invasion of the dominion would be futile. The present imperial administration had deserted her colonies, and proved herself a stepmother to those who had fostered the deepest affection for her. It was, therefore, folly to think of anything but independence.

Other speakers followed in the same strain, and the meeting adjourned to Tuesday. The independence movement may be recorded as fully started in the dominion.

Passing Events.

☞ The standing army of 600,000 drunkards, which this country sees upon its lists every year, would make a procession of over 10,000 miles long, or nearly one-half the circumference of the globe.

☞ Great Britain is overrun with beer houses. They have been multiplying at the rate of 1,200 a year, till now one in every 200 of the population is a vender of intoxicating drinks!

☞ No less than 21,000 emigrants, chiefly Irish, sailed from Liverpool for the United States in May.

☞ The council of state of Neufchatel has voted by a large majority in favor of the separation of church and state.

☞ Insanity is greatly increasing in the British Isles. It is said to be due to insufficient nutriment, poverty, and physical deterioration, more frequently than to severe mental strain.

☞ There are in the United States and British America 5319 newspapers, of which about 550 are dailies.

☞ The Austrian government has decreed that the Polish language alone shall be used in the University of Cracow.

☞ The great fire at Constantinople will cost Great Britain £100,000 to rebuild her embassy palace, &c.

☞ The Porte has granted about 600 acres of land near Jaffa for a Jewish model farm, with exemption front land tax.

☞ Forty Chinese attend the school of the Five Points house of Industry, in New York.

☞ Pompeii has not ceased to give its mysteries to the world. Last month there were five musical instruments unearthed there. They are in an excellent state of preservation and somewhat like our clarionet; the lower half of the instrument is silver, the upper half and mouth-piece are ivory.

☞ France and Prussia can hurl a million and a quarter of armed men each upon the other. Of these France has 370,000 ready for instant action while Prussia can put 846,000 upon her frontier at a word. What would a shock like that do to the mass of Europe?—News.

☞ There must be fight in the atmosphere—it thunders all around from the East and West.

☞ It is announced that the tunnelling of Mont Cenis will be completed at the end of next year.

☞ Another disastrous conflagration has recently occurred at Saguenay, Canada, lasting eight days. The destruction is very great, and the Government has been applied to for $25,000 in aid of the sufferers.

☞ Dispatches have been sent to St. Petersburg to obtain the advice of Russia on the candidature of Prince Hohenzollern. An important dispatch has been sent by the Minister of Foreign Affairs to Zenano to-day.

☞ Manchester, N. H. has been visited by a terrible conflagration, causing a loss of a quarter to a half a million of dollars. Churches, hotels and buildings of all descriptions were destroyed and hundreds of families are rendered houseless.

☞ The semi-official journals of Berlin say that Bismarck is an accomplice of Prim in the Hohenzollern intrigue, and that the King of Prussia had given permission to the project.

☞ The movements of troops, strengthening of garrisons and the departure of fleets excite the gravest apprehensions

☞ Thr Austrian Government are preparing to form a permanent camp near the Prussian frontier. The plan has been contemplated for a long time.

— The Episcopal Council of the Diocese of Wisconsin was held at Milwaukee, Saturday. Adopted the following new canon:

"Every community of this church, marrying outside of our communication, or married by any other than a clergyman of our church, shall stand profacto excommunicated."

Notices.

Notice.

Providence permitting, the campmeeting at Alton Bay, N. H., will commence Sunday, Sept. 4th, and hold over the Lord's day, Sept. 11th.

For the committee, J. G. SMITH.

Grove Meeting.

There will be a grove meeting in the Root settlement, Crawford Co., Pa., near Bro. J. T. Ongley's saw-mill, two and a half miles north-east of Little Cooley, and two and a half miles west of Lincolnville, to commence Saturday, August 6th, at two o'clock, and continue as long as duty may demand. In case of wet weather, the mill will be fitted up for the occasion. Come, brethren and sisters in the Lord, let us have a good meeting. The brethren here voted that there be a general invitation given,—houses, barns and hearts open and free. The King is coming soon. Let us be ready, and try to get others ready to meet him.

Brn. C. F. Sweet, C. Buzzell, and others, will be in attendance to preach the word. The meeting is ten miles south of Union Mills, on the A. & G. W. R. R., and P. & E. R. R.; and seven miles northwest of Centreville, on the Oil Creek R. R. A team will be sent to Union Mills on Saturday, and will be there from twelve to two P. M. Inquire for team for the grove meeting. Committee—John Root, A. S. Geer, Geo. Porter, Little Cooley, Pa. JOHN T. ONGLEY, Secretary, Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.

Maine Mission Tent.

The "Maine Mission Tent," under the charge of Bro. and Sr. Taylor, will probably be in the field for service in a few days. All desiring tent meetings in any locality in this State are requested to write as soon as possible to either of the undersigned. W. H. MITCHELL, Kennebunkport.
R. R. YORK, Portland.

Notice.

I will hold a two days meeting in Island City, commencing July 16th, and continue over the Sabbath. Can Bro. Denslow, of Lovina, Putnam Co., attend this meeting? A. F. DUGGER.

Notice.

Friends writing either of the Clinton Arch Missionaries through July, will please direct to the care of G. W. Smith, No. 273 West 22d St., New York City. M. E. DOW.

Conn. State Tent.

Parties desiring the tent pitched in their vicinity, will please correspond with the Chairman of the Committee, H. H. DICKINSON, Hartford, Ct.

To the King's Servants.

Some of the brethren and sisters in Warner Village, N. H., and vicinity, have decided to have preaching one half of the time at Union Hall, the second and third Sabbaths of July, and after that the first two Sabbaths of each month.

Correspond with B. S. COLBY, Warner Village, N. H.

In behalf of the congregation worshiping at Warner Village. ALLEN DAMON.

Notice.

As the time has come for us to start the Mass. Mission Tent, we shall need funds to carry forward the work; and we wish those who have subscribed would forward the amount to the Treasurer, C. GOODRICH, No. 7 Salem Street, Boston, as soon as convenient.

S. W. THURBER, Pres. of Conf.

Notice.

The Advent Christian church of Rochester have hired a neat, commodious hall, just finished, on the corner of Stone and Court Sts., known formerly as the Air Bath Institute, which will be opened next Sabbath, the Lord will, with appropriate services, by Bro. J. Hemenway. Meetings will be held hereafter in said hall three times Sundays, also Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Special Notice.

To all interested in having a State Conference organized in Ohio: Beloved brethren in Christ,—Believing that the end of all things is at hand, and what we do must be done quickly, and that the Lord has raised us up as a people to herald the coming kingdom, and to lift our warning voice, and cry aloud, and spare not, and in earnest tones bid the slumbering myriads of earth's sons and daughters to prepare for solemn judgment; and believing we can better accomplish the great work allotted us to do, we have, after advising with brethren, thought best to appeal to every Advent church in the State, and where there is no church, to individuals, who are interested in forming such a conference, to write at once to Eld. E. McCulloch, Pastor of the Advent Church in Nevada, Ohio; and, if sufficient interest is manifest, we shall issue a call for a conference, to be held immediately after the campmeetings are over. Come, brethren, let us hear from you at once relative to this matter, and may heavenly wisdom guide your hearts aright. For the Brethren,

E. MCCULLOCK.

Notice.

The Advent brethren in Buffalo, N. Y., have hired a hall and established a prayer and conference meeting every Sabbath, at two o'clock P. M. The hall is on Maine Street, in the Arcade building, second floor, No. 9, and is large enough for preaching. Ministers passing this way who can spend a Sabbath with us, we will give notice of by our daily papers, if informed by Friday. They can expect but a small compensation at present, as most are poor, and we are just making an effort to gather the scattered flock. Some fifty in the city hold our views, and we hope, by a permanent meeting, some preaching, and God's blessing, we shall be able to form a stable church. Preachers can call on Wm. Shaw, 528 Eagle Street, or J. Blain, 79 North Division Street, H. Tanner, 255 Pearl street, and a home will be provided. We can have no meeting on week days at present, but hope to by and by.

For the brethren, J. BLAIN.

The Iowa Mission Tent.

Those who desire tent, camp, grove, or basket-meetings, will do well to correspond with me soon, so that I may make arrangements for summer work. In these meetings will be presented the gospel of Jesus Christ, with a view to do the people good. No party, sect, or hobby to build up, but to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Every lover of Jesus shall be free to work with us. All lovers of this pure christianity are requested to write soon. Direct to Peter S. W. Deyo, Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meeting on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's. O. G. TRUNDY.

Notice.

The Advent Christian Church in Nashua, N. H., have hired a hall in Beasom's Block, corner of Maine and Factory Streets, up two flights of stairs, well fitted up, where we shall hold meetings three times on the Sabbath, and Thursday and Saturday evenings. For the brethren,

NATHANIEL EATON.

Notice.

Will our brethren, who wish the campmeeting committee to build their tents at Alton Bay, send to me at once (at Farmington, N. H.), the plan, or how they wish them built? J. G. SMITH.

Notice.

The Advent brethren have rented the Temperance Hall on Maine St., in Brunswick, Me., and will hold meetings on Sunday regularly. Seats free to all who are disposed to meet with us. Ministering brethren are invited to come over and help us. Per order, C. GOUD.

Notice.

Putney's Hall, Sutton Mills, N. H. Meetings every Sabbath for the present. This is a new movement on the part of the Advent people of Sutton, and we think it is according to the will of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us.

A. CRESSEY,
FRANK NELSON, } Committee.
SAM'L ROWELL,

Notice.

We gave $78 for our meeting-house in Vienna, all in good repair outside. We need more to finish it inside. Some have pledged to help us to the amount of $30. We want $70 more. If not obtained, shall be obliged to sell it.

H. B. SEVEY.

Notice.

All persons, rich or poor, wishing to have the Rhode Island Mission Tent pitched in any locality where there is an opportunity to get the great truths of the plan of salvation before the people, will address me by letter, at South Killingly, Ct.

E. BELLOWS.

Notice.

Brethren in Conn. wishing my labors between now and the 20th of July, will please address me at once at Forestville, Conn., and appoint for me accordingly through the Crisis.

S. C. HANCOCK.

German Tracts.

Bro. Reimer has a good supply. Send your orders to L. REIMER, 1006 Chesnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Notice.

I would say that persons desiring practical treatment with the Resuscitator for diseases, may address me at 43 Revere Street, Boston.

W. C. STONE.

Inquiry.

Brethren and sisters of Sutton, Bradford, and Warner: Can we join together and have a tent meeting? We in Bradford think we can.

Notice.

As the piece of music entitled "Sweet by-and by" cannot be obtained in sheet form, I will send the book containing words and music, post-paid, for 35 cents. "The Pilgrim's Harp," 60 cts., post-paid. GEORGE E. LEE, Brimfield, Mass.

☞ A short poem, "The Blissful Vision," may be had for 30 cts. per dozen, of the author, J. Albert Libby, West Poland, Me.

☞ To Preaching Brethren.

Those wishing to preach in	Correspond with
Westfield, Mass.	E. A. Eggleston.
Savoy, Mass	Daniel Miller, or A. E. Bliss.
Wakefield, Mass.	G. R. Tyzzer.
Worcester, Mass.	H. M. Blackmer, Willard M. Hall, or Willard G. Ruggles.
Portsmouth, N. H.	T. E. Wood, Box 1445.
Hampton, N. H	Joseph A. Philbrook.
Manchester, N. H.	A. J. Mahew, S. R. Davidson, or O. Proctor.
Loudon Ridge, N. H.	Daniel L. Moore, Wm. Batchelder, Edward Mudget. Fourth Sabbath engaged.
Seabrook, N. H.	R. S. Johnson, of Hampton, N. H., or Chs. Barton, of Seabrook.
Chichester, N. H	C. R. Knowles.
Goshen, N. H.	O. F. Cain.
Rye, N. H.	Moses C. Philbrick or Samuel Smart.
Pittsfield, N. H (Belhel)	C. S. Emerson.
Portland, Me.	R. R. York, S. K. Dyer D. F. Scamman.
Lewiston, Me.	Albert Burgess.
South Berwick, (Great Works), Me.	Harrison Dow.
Kennebunk Depot, Me.	Rufus Duran.
Vernon, Vt.	J. C. Allen.
Bristol, Ct.	B. Hitchcock, Forestville, Ct.
West Glocester, R. I.	Geo. A. Hawkins, Putnam, Ct.
New Haven, Ct.	W. F. Carpenter, 73 State St.
Pleasant Valley, Ct.	Reuel O. White, New Hartford, Ct.
Meriden, Ct.	E. J. Whitehead, West Meriden, Conn., Box 4.
New Britain, Conn.	A. Powell.
Wrightville, Ct.	D. A. Grant, Torrington, Ct.
Newfield, Ct.	Wm. Ripley, Pleasant Valley, Ct.
New Milford, Ct.	J. Coggswell.
Morris, Ct.	Joseph Curtis.
Rochester, N. Y.	J. R. Cooper, 4 Hickory St.
Philadelphia, Pa.	Frank E. Davis, 1715 Markham Street, or I. N. Wilfong, 135 N. 22d St.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED.
WHAT IS MAN?
THE SOUL—WHAT IS IT?
THE SPIRIT—WHAT IS IT?
THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.

All the above works in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL.

J. Couch....Sunday, July 17th
M. Batchelor....Sunday, July 24th

BOSTON, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.

N. M. Davis....Sunday, July 17th
Nathan Whiting....Sunday, July 24th

Meetings in South Boston on Wednesday evenings, at C. W. Huntress,' 3 Lowland street. On Friday evenings at J. N. Berry's, 227 E. street.

EAST BOSTON.

Meetings are held at Chase's Block, up two flights, at 154 Meridian Street, on Sundays, at the usual hours, also Monday and Thursday evenings.

C. Goodrich....Sunday, July 24th

CHELSEA, MASS., (LIBRARY HALL.)

M. Batchelor....Sunday, July 17th
J. Hemenway....Sunday, July 24th
J. Pinkham....Sunday, July 31st

CHARLESTOWN.

Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.

L. Boutell....Sunday, July 17th
T. M. Preble....Sunday, July 24th
J. G. Smith....Sunday, July 31st

Kennebunkport, Me....Sunday, July 17th
North Carver....Sunday, July 31st
C. GOODRICH.

Lowell, Mass....Sunday, July 24th
J. COUCH.

Westfield Farms, Mass....Thurs. evening, July 14th
Hartford, Ct....Sabbath, July 17th
Plainville, Ct....Sunday, July 24th
New Britain, Ct....Tuesday evening, July 19th
Bristol, Ct....Wednesday evening, July 20th
New Preston, Ct....evenings, July 21st and 22d
Where Bro. Morgan may arrange..Sabbath, July 24th
A. ROSS.

Manchester, N. H....Sunday, July 17th
Lawrence, Mass....Sundays, Aug. 7th and 14th
Lowell, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 21st
A. A. PHELPS.

Kennebunk Depot, Me....evening, July 19th
Kennebunkport....July 20th, and over Sunday and as much longer as the Lord may direct.
B. P. MANNING.

Denmark Corner, Me....Sabbath, July 17th
East Stoneham, Me....Sabbath, July 31st
West Stoneham....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
Brownfield, Me....Sabbath, Aug. 28th
GEO. W. HOWARD.

Montgomery....Sundays, July 17th and 31st
Huntington....evenings, July 17th and 31st
Westfield Farms....Sunday, July 24th
E. OWEN.

Westfield, Mass....July 21st
Worcester, Mass....July 22nd and over Sunday if there is no previous appointment.
C. H. LAVERTON.

Cabot, Vt. (Advent Chapel)....Sunday, July 17th and onward.
S. W. THURBER.

Barnstead, N. H (Lock's Corner)..Sunday, July 24th
Great Falls, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. G. SMITH.

South Berwick, Me. (Great Works)....Sun., July 17th
GEO. W. BROWN, Elliot Me.

Sutton Mills, N. H. (meeting-house) Sunday, July 17th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, July 31st
West Deerfield, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
L. E. SAULPAUGH.

Collinsville, Ct....Sunday, July 24th
Lovely Street, Ct....Sunday, July 31st
A. ELLIOT.

North Scituate, R. I....Sabbath, July 17th
Bristol, R. I....Sabbath, July 24th
J. T. DIXON.

Warehousepoint, Ct. (Chapel)....Sunday, July 31st
S. WOODRUFF.

Lewiston, Me....Sunday, July 17th
Burnham, Me....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Swanville, Me....Sunday, Aug. 14th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Bartlett, N. H. (in Bro. Deering's grove)....July 17th
West Ossipee, N. H....Sunday, July 24th
Belmont, N. H. (Factory Village)....Sunday, July 31st
Manchester, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Stoneham, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Woburn, Mass. (on the Common) at five o'clock P. M., or at such time as Bro. Marcy may arrange, Aug. 14th.
L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Salisbury (Union meeting-house)...Sunday, July 17th
Nottingham....Sunday, July 24th
S. S. MOONEY.

Chichester, N. H....Sunday, July 17th and once in two weeks until further notice.
C. R. PARSONS.

Water Village, N. H....Sunday, July 17th
MARK STEVENS.
C. COLMAN.

Portland, Me....Sabbath, July 17th
G. W. BURNHAM.

Great Falls, Windham, Me. (as Bro. Wheeler may arrange) Sunday, July 17th. J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Peru, Me. (Wait school-house)....Sunday, July 17th
Carthage, Me....Sunday, July 24th
A. A. C. ABBOTT.

Belgrade Depot....Sunday, July 17th
H. B. SEVEY

Wrightville, Conn....Sunday, July 17th
New Milford, Conn....July 20th, and over the 24th
A. D. FLAGG.

West Ossipee....Sunday, July 17th
Lake Village (North Church)....Sunday, July 24th
T. E. LANG, JR.

North Haverhill, N. H. (at the brick house) Sunday, July 17th. W. H. SHAW.

Loudon Ridge, N. H....Sundays, Aug. 14th and 15th
Will some one meet me at Lake Village Depot, at two P. M., Saturday, Aug. 13th? E. S. MOULTON.

Rawsonville, Vt....Sunday, July 17th
Z. T. WOOD.

Barnstead, N. H., (Lock's Corner) Sabbath, July 17th
Barnstead, N. H., Oak Ground, (Tuttle school-house) Sabbath, July 24th.
Loudon Ridge....Sabbath, July 31st
Lower Gilmanton (where Eld. J. G. Munsey may appoint) evening, July 29th.
Guilford Village (Universalist meeting-house) Sabbath, Aug. 7th. ABIGAIL M. TRIPP.

Chicopee Falls, Mass....Sunday, July 17th
Springfield....July 19th
Warehouse Point, Ct....July 20th
New Britain, Ct....July 22nd
J. S. WHITE.

Pittston, Me. (conference)..July 23d and over Sunday
Cushing, Me....Sunday, July 3d, and baptize
H. S. MITCHELL.

Porter, Me....Sunday, July 17th
Melvin Village, N. H....Sunday, July 31st
T. W. PIPER.

North Springfield, Vt....Sunday, July 17th
Bridgewater, Vt....Sundays, July 10th and 24th
Plymouth, Vt., at 7½ o'clock...Sabbath eve., July 10th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Bridgewater, Ct. (at Sr. Strong's)..Sunday, July 10th
Southville, Ct....Sunday, July 17th
Platt Dist. school-house, July 17th.
Roxbury, Ct. (at Sr. Teeple's)....Sunday, July 24th
New Milford....Sunday, July 31st
H. K. WALLING.

Meredith, N. H., (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, July 17th
Lake Village, N. H. (North Church) Sun., July 24th
Manchester, N. H....Sunday, July 31st
Dover, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Great Falls, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 14th
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works), Sunday, Aug. 21st
Hampton, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 28th
A. SIMPSON.

Warner Village (Union Hall)....Sabbaths, June 19th and 26th. ALLEN DAMON.

South Elliot, Me....Sunday, July 17th
Seabrook, N. H....Sundays, July 24th and 31st
E. S. MOULTON.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, July 17th
Some Bro. meet me at the Meredith depot, second down train.
East Orford, N. H. (Davis town school-house) Sunday, July 24th. Will Bro. Huckings meet me at Wentworth, July 21st, two o'clock P. M., at G. Deans?
Keene, N. H....Sunday, July 31st
Hinsdale, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Will Bro. Streeter meet me at the Hinsdale depot Aug. 5th, first down train?
Northfield, Mass. (where Bro. Streeter may appoint) Sunday, Aug. 14th.
If any of these appointments conflict, write me immediately at West Rumney, N. H. E. COTTON.

New York, 24th St., morning and evening, July 17th Afternoon, 205 Grand Street.
Putnam, Ct....Sunday, July 24th
Webster, Mass....Sunday, July 31st
L. M. STODDARD.

Hampton, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Rye, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 14th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Plainfield Pond....Sunday, July 17th
H. K. FLAGG.

Webster, N. H. (Old meeting house)..Sab., July 17th
Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall) Sabbath, July 24th
SAMUEL BONY.

Charlton (Chapel)....Sunday, July 17th
Will be at Charlton depot 1½ P. M.
Vernon, Vt....Sabbath, July 24th
Keene, N. H....Sabbath, July 31st
Vernon, Vt....Sabbath, Aug. 21st
H. MUNGER.

Freeport, Me. (Swamp school-house) Sunday, Aug. 7th
Meeting all day. S. F. MORSE.

New Preston, Ct....Sunday July 24th
J. L. WOOD.

Holden, Mass....Sunday, July 17th
RUFUS WENDELL.

Putnam, Ct....Sunday, July 17th
Webster, Mass....Sunday, July 24th
S. F. BABCOCK.

Lyndeborough, N. H. (in the grove)...Sun., July 17th
JOHN H. DADMUN.

Appleton, Me. (where Bro. G. Miller may appoint) Sabbath, Aug. 7th. J. SOMES.

North Somers, Ct....Sunday, July 17th
I. B. POTTER, or MARY E. OTIS.

Rye, N. H....the first Sunday in each month
South Berwick, Me., (Great Works) the second Sunday in each month. JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Jay, Me. (Bean's Corner)....Sunday, July 17th
Sumner, Me. (Bonney school-house)...Sun., July 24th
Hartford, Me. (Stetson school-house) Sun., Aug. 7th
E. M. HAGGETT.

Seabrook, N. H....evening, July 15th
South Elliot, Me....evening, July 22d
Portland, Me....Sabbaths, July 24th and 31st
Richmond, Me....evenings, July 26th and 27th
Brunswick, Me....evening, July 28th
Bath, Me....evening, July 29th
Lewiston, Me....evenings, Aug. 2d and 3d
Biddeford, Me....evening, Aug. 4th
Kennebunkport, Me....evening, Aug. 5th
Kennebunk Depot, Me....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
South Berwick, Me., (Great Works)....Sab., Aug. 14th
Seabrook, N. H....Sabbath, Aug. 21st
C. H. SWEET.

Abington, Ct....Sabbath, July 24th
E. BELLOWS.

Mexico, Me. (Harlow Hill)....Sabbath, July 17th
Buckfield, Me. (Federal meeting-house)....July 24th
Jay, Me. (Kennedy's Corner)....Sab., July 31st
O. W. KIMBALL.

North Dana, Mass....Sunday, July 17th
Worcester, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 7th
GEO. A. STREETER.

Piermont, (Clay meeting-house)....Sunday, July 31st
WM. H. SHAW.

Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) Sun., July 24th
Campton, N. H. (Bump school-house) Sun., July 31st
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Northville, Newport, N. H., Saturday evening, July 23d, and over the Sabbath, the 24th.
F. S. RANSOM.

Southington, Ct....Sunday, July 17th
Holden, Mass....Sunday, July 24th
Z. FORD.

East Rochester, N. H....Sunday, July 17th
H. M. BRYANT.

Dover....Sunday, July 17th
Wakefield, Mass....Sunday, July 24th
Stoneham, Mass..evenings, July 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th
J. PINKHAM.

Richmond, Me. (as Bro. H. D. Reed may arrange) Sabbath, July 17th. T. M. PREBLE.

Gonic, N. H. (Chapel)....Sunday, July 24th
ALMIRA A. MARSTON.

Stowe, South Hollow, Vt. (school-house)....July 17th
Brethren from Waterbury and other places are requested to attend. J. A. CLEAVELAND.

Warehouse Point (at the Chapel)..Sabbath, July 17th
Scitico....Sabbath, July 24th
G. L. WHITE.

Chicopee Falls, Mass....Sunday, July 24th
WM. A. & M. L. DURAND.

Springfield, Mass. (on the hill)....Sunday, July 17th
Charlton, Mass. (Chapel)....Sunday, July 24th
Will be at Charlton Depot at 1½ P. M.
CHAS. P. GREENMAN.

West Monroe, Oswego Co., N. Y. (grove meeting) Sunday, July 17th, at 10½ A. M. and one P. M.
South Butler, N. Y....Sunday, July 24th
Port Byron, N. Y....evenings, July 27th and 28th
Fish-Creek Landing, N. Y., Sun., July 31st, at one P. M.
Glenmore, N. Y....evening, Aug. 1st
C. H. WILLIAMS.

Bonny Eagle....Sunday, July 17th
T. P. S. HAMPSON.

Rye, N. H....Sunday, July 17th
J. G. SMITH.

Webster, Mass....Sabbath, July 17th
Woodstock Valley, Ct....Sabbath, July 24th
Wilbraham, Mass....Sabbath, July 31st
P. S. BUTLER.

Abington, Ct....Sunday, July 17th
Square Pond, Ct....Sunday, July 24th
A. MORSE.

Cheshire Street, Ct....Sunday, July 17th
Meriden, Ct....Sunday, July 31st
WM. STUART.

Lowell (near tannery of Mr. Webb) Friday, July 15th
Burlington (meeting-house)....Sunday, July 17th
Bangor, Me....Sunday, July 24th
THOMAS SMITH.

Terryville, Ct. (Bro. Yale's neighborhood) July 17th
Wolcottville, Ct....Sunday, July 24th
CHAS. C. BARKER.

Sugar Hill, N. H....once in two weeks
N. WHEELER.

West Meriden, Ct....Sunday, July 17th
W. N. PILE.

Meredith Neck....Sunday, July 17th
N. GLIDDEN.

North Narrows, N. H....Sunday, July 17th
East Rochester, N. H....Sunday, July 24th
WM. BODGE.

Edenboro, Erie Co., Pa....Sunday, July 17th
Rootville, Break Bread....first Sunday in the month
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

James Hemenway....Sunday, July 17th
L. Boutell....Sunday, July 24th
Wm. N. Pile....Sunday, July 31st
and Sundays, Aug. 7th and 14th.
A. A. Phelps....Sunday, Sept. 11th

CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS.

J. S. White....Sunday, July 17th
Sr. M. L. Durand....Sunday, July 24th
B. Hitchcock....Sunday, July 31st
Sr. L. M. Stoddard....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Sr. M. L. Durand....Sunday, Aug. 14th

LOWELL, MASS.

J. Pinkham....Sunday, Aug. 7th

CONCORD, N. H., (CENTRE STREET.)

Allen Damon....Sabbath, July 17th
A. Ross....Sabbath, Aug. 7th

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)

A. A. Phelps....Sundays, July 24th and 31st

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

C. H. Sweet....Sunday, July 17th
Allen Damman....Sundays, July 24th and 31st
J. H. F. Varney....Sunday, Aug. 7th
W. H. Mitchell....Sunday, Aug. 14th
B. S. Emery....Sunday, Aug. 21st

DOVER, N. H.

J. Pinkham....Sunday, July 17th
T. W. Piper....Sunday, July 24th
J. W. White....Sunday, July 31st

LOUDON RIDGE, N. H.

D. F. Leavitt....Sunday, July 17th
Joseph Harvey....Sunday, July 24th
A. Kidder....Sunday, July 31st

HAMPTON, N. H.

Joseph W. White....Sunday, July 17th

BIDDEFORD, ME.

R. R. York....Sabbath, July 17th
Geo. W. Burnham....Sabbath, July 24th

HARTFORD, CT.

A. Ross....Sunday, July 17th
H. Pratt....Sundays, July 24th and 31st
T. M. Preble....Sabbaths, Aug. 14th and 21st

PLEASANT VALLEY, CT.

J. S. White....Sunday, July 24th
H. H. Dickinson....Sunday, July 10th
R. K. Stark....Sunday, Aug. 7th
G. L. White....Sunday, Aug. 21st

SCITICO, CT.

G. L. White....Sunday, July 17th
A. D. Flagg....Sunday, July 24th

NEW BRITAIN, CT.

A. M. Higgins....Sunday, July 17th
Wm. Stuart....Sunday, July 24th

BRISTOL, CT.

R. K. Stark....Sabbath, July 17th
M. L. Durand....Sabbath, July 31st

ROCHESTER, N. H.

There will be preaching in the chapel, near the brick school-house, in Rochester, N. H., on the first Lord's day in each month. Others can appoint so as not to conflict.

NEW YORK CITY.

The Advent Church formerly meeting at Grand and Allen Streets, have removed to 405 Grand Street, one door above Clinton. Preaching every Sunday for the present. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening, at the house of J. K. Bellows, 19 Orchard Street.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION, 14 LAURENS STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Sunday morning, prayer and conference, six o'clock. Sunday School, two o'clock P. M. Love feast, four o'clock P. M. Preaching, seven o'clock P. M.
Monday, (class meeting), seven o'clock P. M.
Wednesday, (preaching), seven o'clock P. M.
Friday, (prayer and conference), seven o'clock P. M.
Come one, come all. A. H. SMITH, Principal.

Business.

Letters Received.

H Munger, J G Smith, W A Fenn, E Jonhson, H H Tilley, W Morphy, G A Streeter, C H Hurd, M Stevens, G H Child, E Owen, A French, L A Brown, A A Seymour, W H Burdick, J L Roberts, R E Ladd, J C Allen, P Tatro Jr., J C Stoddard, N McCulloch, F H Chamberlain, J Morrison, L C Mattox, H Knowlton, W A Knight, J C Wheeler, M P Lamprey, N H Reed, H Winchell, E S Moulton, D D Chaffee, J S Wilder, A W Sibley, T L Waugh, D Miner, C Pike, J B Oaks.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.20; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents. Postage 8 cts.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail, 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc., etc. Cloth, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Leather back, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D.F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36; Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERYBODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? A Tract on War. Price 10c, postage 2c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 6c.

THE FIRST DAY SABBATH. By T. M. Preble. A new and interesting work. pp. 471. Price $1.50.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5 cts. single; by mail, 7 cts.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M Preble. 15c. postage 2 cts., or by mail 17 cts.

TWO HUNDRED STORIES FOR CHILDREN. By Elder T. M. Preble. pp. 284. 80c. by mail.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. By Thomas Carlyle. 3c. single; 5c. by mail; 20c. per dozen.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR; or, Spiritualism; What it is, and what it is not. Paper covers, $1.00; by mail; cloth, $1.25 by mail.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

VOICE OF THE THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, Retribution, and Will all Men be Saved? By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man, with various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper, 50c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church; By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times to Daniel and John. On Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

THAT MAN OF SIN. By Eld. O. R. Fassett. To which is added "The Only Hope." Price, 5c. single; postage 2c. 50c. per dozen; postage 6c.

Any of the above will be sent by mail on receipt of the price.

THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.

"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

"Historic Echoes of the Voice of God."

AN EXPOSITION OF THE ELEVENTH CHAPTER OF DANIEL.

BY ELDER J. COUCH.

Price 15 cents single copy. $1.50 per dozen. $10.00 per one hundred.

"ADVENTISM."

We have a supply of this valuable work.

Price in cloth	75 cts., postage 12 cts.
Flexible covers	60 cts., postage 12 cts.
Paper covers	50 cts., postage 6 cts.

In paper covers by the dozen, by express, $4.75.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 15 cts. per copy additional, when sent by mail.

LIST OF ENGLISH BIBLES.

We have received and keep on hand the following English Reference Bibles:

Minion, 8vo., marg. ref., large type, circuit binding, $4.50; postage 28 cts. Do. plain binding, $4.00; postage 28 cts.

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., circuit binding, $3.50; postage 20 cts. (Best size for preachers.)

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., plain, $2.25; postage 20 cts. Do. ref. between verses, $2.25; postage 24 cts.

Pearl, 8 vo., marg. ref., circuit, $3.25; postage 20 cts. Do. plain, $1.75; postage 20 cts.

SPIRITUALISM CONDEMNED

BY THE TESTIMONY OF THE BIBLE AND ITS OWN WITNESSES.

BY M. D. WELLCOME.

Price 10 cents single copy. Twenty copies for $1.00; $3.50 per one hundred copies.

"UNTIL THE DAY BREAK."

Will it pain me then forever,
Will it leave me happy never,
This weary, weary gnawing of the old dull pain?
Will the sweet yet bitter yearning,
That at my heart is burning,
Throb on, and on forever, and forever be in vain?

From the conflict ceasing never,
From the toil increasing ever,
From the hard and bitter battle with the cold and callous world?
Will the sky grow never clearer?
Will the hills draw never nearer,
Where the golden city glitters, in its rainbow mists impearled?

Ah me! that golden city!
Can God then have no pity?
I have sought it with such yearning for so many bitter years!
And yet the hills' blue glimmer,
And the portals' golden shimmer
Fade ever with the evening, and the distance never nears!

O weary, weary living!
O foemen unforgiving!
O enemies that meet me on the earth and in the air!
O flesh that clogs my yearning!
O weakness aye returning!
Will ye never cease to trouble? Will ye never, never spare?

Alas! the clouds grow darker,
And the hills loom ever starker
Across the leaden mist screen of the heavens dull and grey!
Thou must learn to bear thy burden,
Thou must wait to win thy guerdon,
Until the daybreak cometh and the shadows flee away!

—St. Paul's.

For the World's Crisis.

PRE-EXISTENCE MISAPPREHENDED.

The doctrine of "pre-existence" does not stand alone, as used generally. It properly belongs to a series of imagined pre-existences, from which christians should turn away.

The truth aimed at in the examination of this subject is vital, tending to life. "The just shall live by faith." But that which is not of faith is sin and death. Hence the value and virtue of Bible views cannot be over estimated. The loftiest range of the life of faith moves entirely within the sphere of "the word of faith." The wisdom from above, the reverence and love of God in the christian life, begin, go on and end in the light of revelation. It dare not add to or take from the truth of God.

But as there is a length and breadth, depth and height that passeth knowledge, it would seem wise to allow the "invisible things" and unknown terms to find their applications in things and terms that have been seen and known for the confirmation of faith through all ages. "Secret things [only referred to or implied] belong to God"; but things revealed belong to us, that we may know and do them. Amen.

Let us, then, in our humble sphere, be "all taught of God" on this point. Let that which is too high for us not becloud or crowd off the best known facts and plainest terms of the Scriptures touching creation or redemption. Ps. 19; Rom. 1: 1–23. Let us take a step at a time.

I. Nothing in the gospel, nothing in nature or grace, ever did exist beforehand (aside from this point which seems presumed.) "Pre-existence" means existence beforehand. The term would be a misnomer if applied to any other existence or event, in earth or heaven, so far as I see. Now, as "God's ways are equal," the presumption is that the term has no higher value, when used of the personal Christ, than of other existences. There seems a primary mistake in using this word "pre-existence." However, or whenever he existed, let that be stated; but the logically suicidal notion of "pre-existence" may be avoided most advantageously.

II. The Logos, the Word of God, did exist "from the beginning." John 1: 1–14. But does this give pre-existence to him who (four thousand years afterwards) was the word made flesh, the promised seed, the Son of God made of a woman, then in the fulness of time? Was all the word and wisdom of God in the ancient promises "yea and nay"? Surely not.

III. The logos (word) of God is quick and powerful, and arrayed in divine attributes. Heb. 4: 12, 13. But let us be satisfied to stop at this and like statements; for then we are on safe ground, and best prepared to believe other parts that make harmony of the Bible on this point.

IV. "He hath chosen us in him before the foundation of the world." Eph. 1: 4. Yet this only insures our existence and calling in Christ, in God's order of the ages. But it does not assume or argue the pre-existence of the apostles or of "us." No, no. "The Lamb slain from the foundation of the world" (Rev. 13: 8), may appear easy of apprehension if taken in the light of Abel's lamb, Abraham's lamb, and the lamb of the daily sacrifice "from the beginning." But nothing of this gives pre-existence to the passion or person of Jesus, "the Lamb of God, who gave himself for us," as recorded in Matt. 27; John 1: 29–34. Surely we need not make all this "yea and nay."

V. The idea of pre-existence may have come in the category of pre-existent souls, the pre-existence of sin, "the pre-Adamite period, the pre-Adamite race," the pre-"conflict of ages," and the co-eternal devil, and his ceaseless war on heaven. To me, this is an undesirable association of ideas. It looks like dangerous company.

VI. On approaching the plain and positive record "that God has given of his Son," we find that the long line of promise was verified by a cluster of facts, set forth in the simplest terms in "the gospel of Christ."

It is not an Avatar, like the Hindoo dream. It is not a recorded change in the form of a pre-existent Son. It is not some strange transmigration into another order or mode of being. But what is given us in the gospel on this point of Christ's existence? I answer, "the word of promise" reaches through all ages to the Virgin Mary: "Thou shalt conceive (by the Holy Ghost coming on thee); thou shalt bring forth a son; wherefore that holy [one] born of thee shall be called the Son of God." Luke 1: 30–35.

This is the sonship "that is written for our instruction in righteousness." These facts and terms seem decisive, and also demonstrative of a real and divine sonship. Amen. For to us (Christians) there is one God—the Father, and one Lord Jesus Christ. 1 Cor. 8: 6. How, then, can there be any alteration or addition to this recorded sonship of Christ, save as we modify the whole gospel? Nay, more. How can there be a want unsupplied as to the strength and perfection of our argument? I see none. But the pre-existent transcendental theory of Christ ignores all these facts and terms, or subordinates them to a few vague texts. Thus the unknown and obscure is made to take precedence of the plainest and most positive matters of recorded fact.

VII. "Whose goings forth (are) from of old, from everlasting." Micah 5: 1–4. Why not take this in the recorded line of promise—of personal type—sacrificial offering, and sanctuary service—"the shadow of good things to come by Christ"?

The genealogy of Christ is unique and divine. Matt. 1; 1 Luke 3. Is not this the recorded channel for this descent of "the living word" through "other ages" to ours? The word of promise became a reality. God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under law. He is the only begotten Son—the Son of the Highest—the Son of God. Amen.

The first, fullest, and divinest cause for calling him "the Son of God," lies in his recorded conception by the Holy Ghost in the Virgin Mary, and his consequent birth,—"Wherefore he shall be called the Son of God." This was "declared" further "by his resurrection." Rom. 1. It is confirmed by God, his prophets, apostles and angels. It is a birthright sonship. The vague and hitherto unknown lines of light centre here, and become determinate and known. The unseen circumference of this grand theme is consistent with this inspired account of its gospel centre. Amen. Such a Son, so born and so sent forth, is the Lord Jesus Christ. His era is written, 1870.

NOTE. "The word of the Lord" in creative power preceded creation. But the foregoing "Word" was not a pre-existent creation. So of man and the church "chosen in Christ." So of the kingdom, and so of the new earth and heaven. "The word of God" does not give them a pre-existence, but only assures their existence in the order and manner foretold.

The presumed personal pre-existence of the Messiah, called Christ, would prove too much if it proved that point. It would exalt "the word of God" touching creation, the church, the Lamb slain, the second coming, the kingdom and new creation, into a corresponding pre-existence. For "God's ways are equal"; they are consistent and harmonious. Hence it is enough that the promise of God—"the Word"—is justified and verified in Jesus, "the Christ," as it is touching all other existences and points of doctrine.

The ancient appearances to Abraham, Moses, Joshua, Gideon, Manoah, David and Daniel, were varied in character with the event. The purpose of God was fulfilled at each stage of the unfolding plan. Just so at the first advent. An hundred prophecies were then fulfilled in and by him. But all such proof goes against pre-existence, as popularly and presumptuously held.

Neither "the creation" (Gen. 1) nor the calling of the church in Christ by the gospel, can be recorded in more simple terms than those which set forth the birthright sonship of Christ as a personal being. Jesus is his personal name, and Christ his anointed, official name. If this is veiled—if this be a mystery in the popular sense, then we may go on and put a like veil over every existence that God has foretold. Then all is darkness, doubt, and perhaps delusion. But, no! Let Christ and creation be seen to come in accordance with the foregoing "Word," then we have the light and life beaming in the face of Jesus.

J. B. COOK.

For the World's Crisis.

ADDRESS.*

The great movement in regard to the personal advent of our Lord Jesus Christ, which culminated about A. D. 1844, brought out from the churches with which they had been associated a large body of people who, because of their earnestness in the advocacy of their views, made themselves offensive to their associates, and consequently were violently opposed and often derided.

As a result, those embracing the Advent views were the more confident and earnest in their work, and many were converted to God and added to the church. After the passing of the time, the disappointed ones were driven closely together, and love and harmony prevailed. Although there was a difference of opinion on some points, yet it was not a cause of dissension. So long as this union existed, prosperity attended us and many were converted; but after awhile the spirit of disorder broke out among us, and each party pressing their own views became jealous of the other, and even proper gospel rule became galling, and the most complete disorganization pervaded the body. The effect of such a condition of things was to drive from our association those who, entertaining views in accordance with our own, could not endorse the irregularities so often carried on under the name of Adventism. Even our leading men have themselves, at times, felt that there was a reproach connected with their association, and have considered the propriety of adopting some other name to designate our church associations. The authors of mischief having had their day, and finding themselves incapable of destroying what they had so seriously embarrassed, in a great measure withdrew from the contest, and thus the church had rest for a season. Recent events have given this class some encouragement, and they now seem to hope to build up themselves on the ruins of the church.

They are attempting to sow disorder and dissension in the church under the plausible plea of union without order, or rather in the exercise of autocratic power by themselves. If every one will bow to their will, and submit to their dictation, we can have peace and harmony. One object of our conference association is to resist such encroachments on our rights, and give to each individual member of the church a share in the management of its affairs. All are called upon to do something. If you cannot visit those you would influence, use your money for the diffusion of knowledge, by means of publications, teaching the doctrines you so much love. Our ministers perhaps need a word of kindly admonition. We should not conform to the world, or in any measure lower the dignity of our position; neither should we on the other hand court opposition from those who differ from us, and thus let the work flag while the workmen are contending. Our hearts and affections should be in our work. We should love association with our brethren, and with christians of every name, in every good work. We should cultivate a love for prayer-meetings, both for ourselves and the people. We should preach to the heart, and not the head alone.

The people on their part should bear with the imperfections of preachers, but not allow or extenuate their sins. All should take a deep interest in our conference, and feel to make it what it should be. Let it be a means of aiding young men called of God to engage in his work. Let it be a place of rest for approved ministers, who may come recommended from other conference bounds. Let it be the authorized power to ordain preachers who, after suitable trial, are found worthy, and thus avoid the reproach so often felt because of improprieties and inconsistencies of so-called Advent preachers.

A word to young preachers. It is a great error to attempt to preach on subjects not understood. Confine yourselves to what you do understand, and do not take abstract subjects of doctrine or prophecy. David could not fight in Saul's armor. Constantly study to be thoroughly furnished. There are other duties for ministers beside the administration of baptism and the celebration of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Preach Christ in his every attribute and position. Preach repentance, conversion, salvation by faith, a holy life, the resurrection of the dead, and the coming kingdom. Finally, brethren, let the same mind be in you that was in Christ, and when our work is done, and the kingdom of God revealed, we may share in its glories.

The present question is, What is our duty now? What can we do to spread the truth which has had such a telling influence on the Christian world? What can we do to prepare a people for the coming kingdom? We none of us doubt the truth of our position on the subject of the near advent of Christ, or in regard to the nature of man. The views we hold on these kindred points are so glorious that no inducement to change our views is presented by any of the churches about us; but we would change our weakness for strength. Nothing but the truth could have sustained us amid such discouragements as we have passed through.

Our duty is to bear forward our views; to enlighten the obscure vision of the theologians of the day; to assist those who already "can see men as trees walking." We must not diminish our power by folly, indiscretion, division, or indecision. We must "contend for the faith once delivered to the saints," but we must do it in love. We may use hard arguments, but must be gentle and loving in speech. We must maintain unity in essentials, but forbearance and kindness in minor points. Remember always that a "thus saith the Lord" may not be doubted, but our opinions may, as we are erring creatures. "The watchman will only see eye to eye, when the Lord shall bring again Zion"; how then can the people see all things alike? We must have union in purpose, in effort, and in work. We must aim for more of the spirit of self-sacrifice, and for greater results in turning the wicked from the error of their ways. While we would not undervalue learning and intelligence, we should remember they are no substitutes for grace.

Churches should be organized, and the preaching of the gospel maintained, by systematic efforts on the part of the people. The idea prevails altogether too extensively, that it is the duty of preachers to go forth and break the bread of life to the hungry, even although their own families may starve for want of their labor. Preachers cannot spend their time without some return in the way of means to procure the necessaries of life. In fact, God does not demand of the poor preachers to labor with the rich church for nothing. If they value their money above God's truth, they must abide the result. Perhaps it may be said, "God will supply." So he will, but he does it through instrumentalities; and if he has chosen you as he did the ravens for the prophet, and has placed the meat in your possession, your work is done only when you have handed out what he has furnished.

Per order of the Conn. A. C. Conference.

GEO. L. TEEPLE, Secretary.

* To the churches in Conn.

For the World's Crisis.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE TENT.

Perhaps some of the people who read the Crisis would like to know what the N. H. Mission Tent is doing this season in the cause of God. To such we desire to say that the tent is in the field, and that the gospel of the kingdom is being preached under its canvas. Thus far the tent has been in three places—Kittery and Great Works, Me., and Great Falls, N. H.

KITTERY.

This was almost a new field, only a few Advent sermons having been preached here. The people, however, turned out in good numbers to listen to the gospel. God blessed the efforts of his people to the good of the community. Some who had believed in the fables of the last days saw the word of God in its purity. Some who had stood in the storm and tempest of the sea unmoved, and who had been unaffected by the popular theology of the day, were affected by God's holy word and naked truth to such an extent as to give God their hearts in a covenant of peace. It was thought that a little effort would have raised funds enough to build a chapel.

GREAT WORKS.

This is where the tenting campaign closed last year. Then God blessed, sinners were converted, and now his blessing we still see manifested to rebel sinners. During this meeting seven or eight started out in the service of God, some of them hard cases. During the meeting work began on the new chapel. God's humble servants did not think it beneath their ministerial dignity to throw aside their clerical garb and put on the dress of laborers, and assist in the building of a house for God to be worshiped in.

GREAT FALLS, N. H.

The tent was pitched here Saturday, June 18th, and taken down Wednesday, June 29th. During that time the truth was preached in the love of it, and the gospel was proclaimed in its simplicity. The meetings were crowned with success in every way, and the victory turned on the side of the Lord. About fifteen sought the salvation of their souls, and started out to gain the kingdom of God. Three of these were spiritualists whom Satan had striven to bind in the meshes of his net. Besides this, prejudice was removed, opposition broken down, and the gospel brought before large numbers who had never heard it in this light before. One young man, who was preparing for the ministry, came to the anxious seat to be prayed for. He told us he had never been converted, but that he wished to be a child of God. He saw the truth, and wanted to cast in his lot with us, and see the end of the matter. The evening after the meeting closed, ten of the young converts boldly stood up and testified for Christ at a meeting held in Franklin Hall.

To say that everybody, not excepting Catholics, was pleased with the meeting, would not be an exaggeration at all. Although we had become very strongly attached to the people, yet we had to leave them with saddened hearts and chastened feeling, praying God's blessing to rest upon them in mighty power now and evermore.

Brn. J. C. Shorey and D. M. Leavitt are with the tent. They are faithful men of God, who shun not to declare the whole truth. May God give them his grace, and help them to win a bride for their Master.

Brethren, the tent is not a failure, but is calculated to do much good. Pray that the Spirit of God may attend it always.

E. S. MOULTON.

For the World's Crisis.

OUR DAILY CROSS.

Dear blessed Jesus, I would share
Thy sufferings with thee,
For thee the painful cross I'd bear,
Who bled and died for me.
Why should I fear the proud world's scorn?
It scorned and hated thee;
The scoffs and jeers which thou hast borne,
Must be endured by me.

The crown of thorns once pierced thy brow;
Shall mine from care be free?
Thine eyes with grief did oft o'erflow,
Nor mine should tearless be.
No worldly honors should I wear,
I count them only dross;
Thy blessed kingdom, Lord, to share,
I'll bear thy shameful cross.

Moorestown, N. J. ANNA E. MCELLISTER.

PERSONAL CHARACTER OF POPE PIUS IX.

According to the news received from Rome, June 29th was the day appointed for voting the infallibility of the Pope by the Ecumenical Council. Very naturally, the central figure upon which all nations are now looking with various degrees of interest is the Pope himself, and a sketch of him is therefore very appropriate at the present time.

The early days of the Pope's youth were spent in the army as a soldier. He then entered the priesthood, and seems to have led an obscure life during the early part of his ministry, as very little is known of this period of his history. He belongs to the great family of Mastai, and is, therefore, of noble birth. This family is famous for the longevity of its members. The Pope's father lived to the ripe age of eighty-eight, and died—not of any disease peculiar to age, but of an accident. The Pope is now about eighty years old. In consequence of the confusion of the registers of the Pontifical States, occasioned by the events of the close of the last century, his age is commonly put at seventy-eight. Remarking upon this, he playfully observes that the people are always taking something from the Pope. His elevation to the episcopal office, and subsequently to a cardinalate, was due more to his ability and ecclesiastical qualities than to his nobility. He was, however, noted for his piety and purity of character. In 1846, upon the death of Gregory XVI., he was raised to the Papal chair, and his election seems to have taken place without the manifestation of much opposition, or the resorting to any trickery. As soon as he came into power, he thrilled all Italy by issuing a proclamation of emancipation. The people had looked for a continuation of the policy of Gregory XVI. in his proscription of the liberty of conscience; and as all Italy was then beginning to move toward establishing her independence, the liberal views of the Pope were hailed with great enthusiasm. But the Jesuits soon entangled him in their toils, and the Pope returned from his exile in Gaeta thoroughly convinced that all liberty of conscience was of the devil, and upon this Gregorian doctrine all his subsequent encyclicals have rested.

An intelligent observer at Rome has thus briefly characterized the Pope: "An upright and ardent soul, fixed forever, despite his early mobility, in the doctrines of Jesuitism; uniting fanaticism with goodness; following his own impulses as inspirations; believing in himself as in a dogma; without pride, because he thinks himself at an inaccessible height, and believes that so indisputable authority need not be asserted; indulgent and inflexible; incapable of political management, following ever his path, his idea; as ignorant of the time as the lowest monk; able to be a sincere christian in his humility, and a pontiff usurping the rights of God and of his Christ."

In his domestic life, the Pope lives very simply, even as a monk. He is amiable, and delights in familiar conversation. He grants audiences to all who request them, and often condescends to ask several questions respecting the health and incidents of the journey of those who call upon him. While the Pope is inexorable in his adherence to system, and while in his encyclicals he breathes out anathemas upon all heretics, and condemns them to eternal punishment, yet he is kind at heart, and bears no malice toward individuals. He once said to a young French priest, who was about to return to his country: "My child, you cannot hate error enough; but love him who has fallen into it. I do not say like a brother, but like a mother." He enjoins upon the priests the doing of everything for the salvation of the soul, but if that soul refuses to be saved, it is condemned to all the horrors of inquisition.

Although an octogenarian, the Pope has an erect figure, and has none of the infirmities of age. He has a well modulated voice, and speaks with great emphasis. He delivered his allocution on the opening of the Council in clear and distinct tones. It has been remarked, however, that the Pope, since the sitting of the Council, begins to show signs of weariness, and that his age becomes more apparent. No doubt the responsibilities of his office, and his unceasing labors to procure a favorable vote of the Council on the infallibility of the papal chair, together with the anxiety he has naturally felt for the issue, have had the effect to produce physical weakness and decline. The Pope, too, has shown a more ruffled temper since last December than he was wont, and sometimes a very small circumstance will irritate him considerably, and cause him to give vent to his anger. It would be a wonder if, in spite of his excellent training, Pius IX. did not show, at the age of eighty, an abatement of both physical and mental powers. His life has truly been an eventful one. He has successively occupied the positions of priest, bishop, cardinal, and pope. The latter office he has held for twenty-four years. One trait in his character, that has stood out prominently, has been obstinacy. He has felt himself to be the visible head of the Church, and the vicegerent of Christ, and he has acted out that conviction. He has pursued his policy with a pertinacity which brooks no opposition. But while his stubbornness does not permit him to swerve from the course he has marked out, he is extremely desirous of conciliating all parties, and gaining popularity, of which he had a taste when upon his accession to the papacy he proclaimed the liberal views which he so shortly after retracted. His assurance is complete. He did not hesitate to proclaim the dogma of the immaculate conception upon his own authority. Nor will he hesitate to assume the character of the infallible vicegerent of Christ, and as such say unto his disciples, though vainly enough: "It is I, be not afraid!" Such is the man, subject to like passions, and fallible as other men, who is anxiously waiting to be proclaimed divine.—Methodist.

— A churchman declared that no prayer is acceptable to God unless it is read. An objector demanded of him, "Who, then, held the candle for Jonah when he read his prayer in the whale's belly?"

For the World's Crisis.

THE QUARTERLY CONFERENCE AT WHITEFIELD, N. H.

This conference was held according to appointment, with a good attendance of our brethren and sisters from the commencement. The social meetings were excellent; a good number of the faithful ones were blessed in obedience to the will of God. All the meetings were characterized by the divine presence of the great Head of the church; making the conference one of profit and a lasting benefit to the church and community in Whitefield, as well as to those who attended from abroad. Bro. Nathan Wheeler, a faithful minister of Christ, has the pastoral charge of the church in W., and preaches to them once in two weeks.

The following ministers were present some portion of the time that the meeting was in session: T. W. Piper, Nathan Wheeler, Wm. Shaw, A. Gordon, Bro. Stevens, from Canada, A. W. Sibley, and a Bro. Johnson from Lunenburg, N. H., a Methodist. Bro. J. is quite interested in our views, and is an earnest young man. May God bless him. Quite an interest has sprung up in this part of the old Granite State in regard to having a tent in which the glad tidings of salvation may be proclaimed in the destitute fields of Coos and Grafton counties. There has been paid and pledged for this object about $150.

The following have been chosen a committee to take the supervision of the matter of getting up the tent by the New Hampshire Advent Christian Conference:—A. Gordon, Colebrook, N. H.; Nathan Wheeler, Sugar Hill, N. H.; Ira Aldrich, Whitefield, N. H.; Horace Holton, Lancaster, N. H.; Allen B. Young, Pittsburg, N. H. Bro. Ira Aldrich has been chosen Treasurer of this committee, to whom all monies and pledges should be sent for this worthy object.

Come, brethren, let there be a response from your purse, or a pledge from your pen stating the amount that you will give for the purpose of procuring the tent. We want the tent in the field as soon as possible. Send in the mite that you will give, or a pledge to pay a certain amount. We trust there will be a noble and hearty response to this call.

A. W. SIBLEY, Secretary.

For the World's Crisis.

LITTLE TALKS.

A WORD TO THE WEARY.

Sick people! Sad, worried, and weary people! People of the saints of God, troubled and heart-heavy! There is a goodly company of such as you. You have the love of God in your hearts, and joy in his service. Yet you are not without trials and temptations. You are many times under the harrow of afflictions. You have pain in your bodies, and sorrow at your hearts. You have been plagued and buffeted. Some of you are staggering under the growing burden of years. You feel the infirmities of age. Some of you are pressed with poverty, others with ill health, others with ill success and temporal adversities, others with the loss of dear friends, others with coldness and defection, and yet others, which is perhaps hardest of all to bear, with the sense of spiritual imperfection and short-coming and sinfulness. O for deliverance from every doubt and fear, every sinful imagination, every evil disposition or inclination! O for salvation from all unbelief, and the deadly and dreadful power of slowness to feel, and feebleness to love, and hesitation to rejoice always, and praise God always in all things!

But since you are troubled, you need consolation. Since you are weak, you need to be invigorated. Since you are sorrowful, you need grace, and rest and refreshment. There is one thing for you that is precious to remember, that is, Jesus loves you. And there is another thing also precious beyond expression, Jesus will come and save you.

And that is just exactly what you want. You want to be made sinless and immortal. You think, and think truly, that if Jesus will look down on your case of suffering, look down with face of sunshine in the cloud of glory, he will look all your sorrows away at one glance, into oblivion. One solitary ray of the light of his love, you know will cure you, when he comes the second time from heaven. You have not one shadow of doubt that a word, a glance, a gleam of light, a flash of gentle glory, a heart-beat of pity when he comes in power, will be all you want—it will be enough, it will be perfect, it will be omnipotent, it will help you, it will heal you, it will save you. Hence your hope is for the power and coming of the Lord Jesus Christ. There, there, your heart's repose will come to an unutterable reality. Thither, thither, your soul yearns, with strong conviction of salvation, sole, and full, and absolute.

Hope on! The day is coming. Be of good cheer. Look out for day-break. A little longer, and oh, the joy of the gray dawn in the east, and the rosy morning will spread out flush and resplendent, and Jesus will be with you, and you will say, "heaven has come, rest has come, glory and peace are mine, sin and woe and weariness are gone, all gone. Wake up my glory. God has redeemed me. Thrill all my harp-strings, and say glory to the grace! Bring all the crowns to put on the head of my Redeemer."

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

We can but think they are ominous of future and most important changes at a very early day. The promulgation of the Infallibility dogma seems exceedingly likely to be followed by a counteracting movement among the nations of Europe, or at least to make their relation and attitude towards Rome something quite unlike any thing in the past. The relation of Egypt to Turkey is exceedingly critical. The Khedive has got together war material in readiness for a conflict, and is surrounded by able officers of other nations (largely American) to direct the movement of his army. There is exciting disturbance among the people of Ireland. Canada seems about ripe for disjunction from England. Prussia is said to be eagerly aspiring at a great increase and consolidation of power. We think there can be little doubt of some marked and startling events ere the close of 1870. However, we shall see soon, and we are content to wait. The kingdom of God draweth nigh, and hasteth greatly.

HOBBS' CHART.

I have now in my possession the beautiful prophetic chart of O. T. Hobbs, Randolph, Penn. It recognizes the grand historic evolutions of kingdoms in the ages of the past, according to prophetic symbols, while it designates particularly certain great developments as unmistakably imminent on the area of the old Roman empire, and among the rest the Satanic apotheosis of antichrist. The Napoleons of 1800 and 1870, together with the one partly hidden in the cardinal college at Rome, are prominently marked as probable, and even diagnostic characters in the apocalyptic scenery, marking in a powerful manner the close of the present age. My endorsement of this interpretative exhibit need not be reiterated here, nor do I propose to obtrude upon yourself and readers a written exposition, or suggestive survey, which would require far too much of your space. I deem the chart very creditable to its author, illustrating in an interesting and effective manner subjects of the greatest importance. We shall very soon see whether there is not a further function of the Bonapartes in Europe, directly connected with the closing career of Romanism, and springing from it. And at the same time it is proper to insist on the pre-eminent propriety of looking for the Lord from heaven to redeem his waiting people.

THE DISCUSSION WITH NOBLE PALMER.

The discussion with Mr. Palmer of Nunda, N. Y., has terminated through that gentleman's withdrawal. I am sorry, as I wished to prosecute a thorough and protracted inquiry into the questions of human nature and destiny. I have requested Bro. Lovell, a warm friend of the truth in Nunda, to invite in my behalf any clergyman or other person throughout that region to become Mr. Palmer's successor or substitute in the enterprise thus interrupted. I may possibly send you one or two of the latest articles, one being an introductory on Spiritualism.

CLINTON COLEGROVE.

Gems.

— Engage not hastily, as a party, in a difference between others, but reserve thyself impartial and unengaged, that thou mayst moderate between them.

— It is better to starve than to sin for a sustenance.

— By doing good with his money, a man as it were stamps the image of God upon it, and makes it pass current for the merchandise of heaven.

— Study pure and holy walking if you would have your confidence firm, and have boldness and joy in God.

— Faith which works by fear only leads to a selfish, dishonest repentance, if to any, and leaves the soul at the gates of death.

— Home is the one place in all this world where hearts are sure of each other. It is the place of confidence.

— Temptations are everywhere, and so is the grace of God.

— Every one's joys will actually be greater in proportion as he gets away from selfishness and becomes like God in his benevolence, that is, in his love.

— Let your promises be sincere, and so prudently considered as not to exceed the reach of your ability. He who promises more than he can perform is false to himself, and he who does not perform what he has promised is false to his friend.

— Worldly pleasures are no more able to satisfy the soul than the light of a candle to give day to the world.

— Happiness is a perfume that one cannot shed over another without a few drops falling on one's self.

"All earthly things must pass away,
And leave a ruined shrine:
But there are those which ne'er decay—
The heavenly, the divine."

— An Irish schoolmaster wrote the following copy for one of his pupils: "Idleness covereth a man with nakedness."

— Our conversation should be such, that youth may therein find improvement, women modesty, the aged respect, and all men civility.

☞ Bread is the staff of life, and liquor the stilts—the former sustaining a man, the latter elevating him for a fall.

— Do not overlook the lowly and obscure in the church of God. Some flowers and herbs that grow very low are of a very fragrant smell and healthful use.

— Let us never go where we cannot ask God to go with us. Let us never be found where we cannot act as Christ would have us.

— It is joy then, not sorrow, that is our strength; and they that have done most for God have been those who have had most joy in God.

— "I am with thee." The same words that declare safety announce success. If he goes with us to our work, we cannot fail. His presence insures success. Nothing else can. Nothing more is needed. Not eloquence, nor learning, nor intellect, nor breadth of thought, nor high position, nor sympathy with the progress of the age, but the presence of the Lord.

For the World's Crisis.

THE HIGHER LIFE.

None have made so great attainments but can rise a little higher. There is a growth in the moral as well as in the intellectual and physical world. As the tiny bud will blossom, and the little child's mental powers will expand, so will the moral life gather new strength and vigor.

Men should never be satisfied with their present attainments. As the intellectual is above the physical, so is the moral above the intellectual. A man with no moral or reasoning powers, is no better than the brute. A man with no moral power, although we might admire his person, and be charmed with his eloquence, comes far short of a man, and is of but little good in the world.

Physical and mental culture is good so far as it goes. The higher attainments we make in these, the greater strength and activity will be imparted to our moral and spiritual life. We must have our moral sentiments brought into action; we must have the selfish and animal under their control. We must have a faith above reason—faith in God and his holy word. We must bow in reverence and humble adoration to his divine will, and give him a full control of our powers.

What God has given us should be for his glory. We should not abuse it, but cultivate and improve it. We should get a complete victory over our lusts and passions. We should let every circumstance in life strengthen our moral worth, and shed new lustre on the christian's graces. We should gather up the precious words of Jesus, and store them away, and long for the time to come when we shall be like our Beloved, and dwell in his presence forever.

Step by step, I climb the hill,
Thirst and long for something still;
Higher up, where life is pure,
Joy and peace forevermore.

Lawrence, Mass. ALSON GREELY.

A NEW BROOM SWEEPS CLEAN.—Now, then, to the point. Are all the men and women, boys and girls in this world, sweeping? Yes, every one. How is the broom handled by us? Do we each determine to make a good clean path as we onward go in all life's varied duties? Do we feel that our fellow men may at all times trust us, and not be deceived? For our own good, if there were no higher aim, this point must be attained, and held till the battle of life is over.

The Children's Corner.

PLEDGE OF THE TRY COMPANY.

We, the Undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from Tea, Coffee, Tobacco, and all Intoxicating Drinks as a Beverage.

GOOD FOR NOTHING.

A gentleman while addressing some children, took out his watch, and asked them what it was for.

"To keep time," the children answered.

"Well, suppose it wont keep time, and can't be made to keep time, what is it good for?"

"It is good for nothing," they replied.

He then took out a lead pencil, and asked what it was for.

"It is to mark with," was the answer.

"But suppose the lead is out, and it wont mark, what is it good for?"

"It is good for nothing."

He then took out a pocket knife, and asked what was its use.

"To whittle with," said some. "To cut with," said others.

"Suppose it has no blade, then what is it good for?"

"Good for nothing."

"Then a watch, or knife, or pencil is good for nothing unless it can do the thing for which it was made?"

"Yes, sir," the children all answered.

"Well, children, what is a boy or girl made for?"

The children hesitated.

"What is the answer to the question, 'What is the chief end of man?'" asked the gentleman.

"To glorify God, and enjoy him forever."

"Now, then, if a boy or girl does not do what he or she is made for, and glorify God, what is he or she good for?"

And the children all answered, with out seeming to know how it would sound, "Good for nothing."

FINGER-MARKS.

A short time since a gentleman employed a mason to do some work for him, and, among other things, to "thin whiten" the walls of one of his chambers. This thin whitening is almost colorless until dried. The gentleman was much surprised, on the morning after the chamber was finished, to find on the drawer of his bureau standing in the room, white finger-marks. Opening the drawer, he found the same on the articles in it, and also on a pocket-book. An examination revealed the same marks on the contents of a bag. This proved clearly that the mason, with his wet hands, had opened the drawer, and searched the bag, which contained no money, and had then closed the drawer without once thinking that any one would ever know it. The thin whitening which happened to be on his hands did not show at first, and he probably had no idea that twelve hours' drying would reveal his wickedness.

As the work was all done on the afternoon the drawer was opened, the man did not come again, and to this day does not know that his acts are known to his employer.

Children, beware of evil thoughts and deeds! They all leave their finger-marks, which will one day be revealed.—Home Journal.

"FATHER KNOWS."

A gentleman was one day opening a box of dry goods. His little son was standing near, and as his father took the packages from the box, he laid some of them upon the arm of the boy. A young friend and playmate of the merchant's son was standing by looking on. As parcel after parcel was laid upon the arm of the boy, his friend began to fear his load was becoming too heavy, and said:

"Johnny, don't you think you've got as much as you can bear?"

"Never mind," answered Johnny, in a sweet, happy tone, "father knows how much I can carry."

Brave, trusting little fellow! He did not grow restless or impatient under the burden. There was no danger, he felt, that his father would lay too heavy a load on him. His father knew his strength, or rather the weakness of that little arm, and would not overtask it. More than all, his father loved him, and therefore would not harm him. It is such a spirit of loving trust in him that God desires all his children to possess.

THE STARS.

Little folks' notions about them.

"They are peep holes to let the glory through."

"They are nice lamps that have been good and gone to heaven."

"They are the angel's fingers pointing to us."

"Mamma, here is the moon come, and brought a lot of little babies with her."

"When God makes the new moon, doesn't he cut up the old moon to make stars of?"

"Angel eyes looking down at us."

"Nails in the floor of heaven."

"If the wrong side of heaven is so beautiful, what must the right side be?"

"'That star you see up there is bigger than this world,' said a little girl to her four-year-old cousin. 'No, it ain't, or it could keep the rain off,' exclaimed the young philosopher."

☞ A very pretty idea children have in Germany of forming themselves into societies for the protection of animals and the preservation of plants. They all agree not to steal birds' eggs or destroy their nests; not to tread on the plants or tear the roots out of the moist, warm earth, and leave them to wither and die; not to beat the cows and horses, or throw stones at the chickens.

☞ A muddy stream, flowing into one clear and sparkling, for a time rolls along by itself. A little further down they unite and the whole is impure. So youth, untouched by sin, may for a short time keep its purity in foul company, but a little later and they mingle.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance....................$2.50 a year
Five copies six months to one address.......$5.60.
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address......$10.00.
Same rate for any number over ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cts. a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication write—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write—BUSINESS.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS.

PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate for any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 770. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 20, 1870. VOL. XXXI.—NO. 18.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,

Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at

160 HANOVER ST., BOSTON, Mass. } CORNER OF SALEM STREET. (☞ Entrance No. 7 Salem St.)

MILES GRANT, EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
D. MATHEWSON, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, H. H. DICKENSON.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

MANNA IN THE NIGHT.

Silently it fell,
Whence, no man might tell,
Like good dreams from heaven
Unto mortals given,
Like a snowy flock
Of strange sea-birds alighting on a shore of rock;
Silent thus and bright,
Fell the manna in the night.

Silent thus and bright,
In our starless night,
God's sweet mercy comes
All about our homes;
Whence no man can see,
In a soft shower drifting, drifting ceaselessly,
Till the morning light,
Falls the manna in the night.

For the World's Crisis.

THE GRACE MANIFESTED BY JESUS CHRIST.

"For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich."

It is a common practice with religious theorists to infer that a passage of Scripture has a hidden significance, not apparent on its face, and by a peculiar process of arguing will make a passage seem to teach what will absolutely contradict the general testimony of the Scriptures. For instance, the Scriptures teach in so many words that "God is one," and yet it is inferred that he is three-one, when there is not a direct statement, or one that actually implies it, in the Bible. And by such arguing the plain truths of the Scriptures are erased from the minds of men, and their honest convictions smothered, and they are led to rely more on the teachings of a religious sophist than on a plain declaration of the inspired word of God.

It is inferred from the passage at the head of this article that, if Christ Jesus was rich, it must have been before he was conceived of his mother Mary, and so became poor by voluntarily consenting to be made over (from what he was before) into an infant. But this would absolutely require a dissolution of his being (if he had been subjected to such an unnatural process as that), to have his infancy real and not pretended, and this would make him to have died once just before conception, and afterwards on the cross.

But since the Scriptures teach that "in that he died, he died unto sin once," that peculiar theory of his becoming "poor" is not allowable.

The apostle speaks of something the Corinthian brethren knew. "Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that being rich he became poor for your sakes."—Douay ver. It being something they "knew," it could have no reference to what would require a great stretch of the imagination to ever conceive of. It must, therefore, have reference to what they knew of him in his own proper human personality. They knew that he was the Son of God by virtue of his peculiar birth, and so the absolute and unfailing heir of all things, whether of "durable riches and righteousness," or of the material universe; all things were his.

So his poverty was voluntary, of whatever kind it was, whether of a spiritual character, in bearing "our sins in his own body on the tree," or in not having "where to lay his head." It was by a continual voluntary exercise of grace that he became poor, and not that he was born poor, and unable afterward to be anything different. To locate his riches before birth, is equivalent to teaching that he was rich before he became Jesus Christ; for the name Jesus was given at birth, and therefore denotative of his whole human personality. And the name Christ is denotative of the sacred office which he was afterwards to fill; and so neither were applicable to an invisible, spiritual life incarnated in him.

God promised Abraham all the land wherein he was a stranger for an everlasting possession, to him and his seed after him. Paul says, "He saith not, Of seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, which is Christ." Then as the seed of Abraham, he was the unfailing heir of the world and all things therein; which involves eternal life with all its infinite blessings. By birth he was the Son of God, and so partook of the divine nature, and therein possessed durable riches and righteousness, which made him the unfailing heir of eternal life and all things. He became poor by a non-acceptance of rights and privileges to which he was entitled, and chose fishermen for his apostles, and the poor for his associates; and instead of traveling in state, with servants in livery, "he went about doing good, healing all that were oppressed of the devil," casting out demons, healing the sick, raising the dead; and by coming down to the level of the poor, he thus sought to raise them up to possess those riches of his which are spiritual and eternal. In doing this he subjected himself to the contempt of the proud, and the malice of the envious, who finally put him to death.

But "he bore our sins in his own body on the tree," and thus subjected himself to the crowning act of poverty, in thus bearing our sins, when he had none of his own, that we through his poverty might become rich, by becoming "heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Jesus Christ, to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away."

Taking this view of the passage, the words of Paul were appropriate; for he says, "Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that being rich he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich." For the birth, life, death, and resurrection of Christ, were to them a matter of knowledge, being confirmed to them by living witnesses. But to say that they knew our Lord was rich before birth, and became poor by being born, could not be true of any of them, since it requires a great stretch of imagination to only conceive such incredible things. They knew that grace which led him to avoid being made king, when the people would have made him so by force; yet he was the legal and divinely ordained heir to the throne of David.

"He came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many." His poverty was voluntary; he did not seek earthly riches and honors, nor let them seek him; but avoided and refused them, and by sharing poverty with the poor, he gave the greater proof of his divine sonship, that we might by faith in his sacrificial death obtain the true riches, even durable riches and righteousness. WM. HOBBS.

"BEHOLD, I COME."

The following report of a sermon, delivered by an Episcopal clergyman, is taken from the National Republican, published at Washington, D. C.:—

"As especially appropriate to this, the first Sunday in Advent, the rector of the venerable St. John's church, in Georgetown, Rev. A. B. Atkins, preached an impressive discourse from Rev. 16: 15: 'Behold, I come as a thief; blessed is he that watcheth.' He commenced by referring to the numerous prophecies relating to the first advent of the Messiah, and their exact fulfilment in the miraculous birth of Christ, and the various incidents of his life, death and ascension. He then proceeded to show that the prophecies with regard to his second advent are equally specific, and will be as literally fulfilled. As Christ ascended into heaven, so, in like manner, shall he come again from heaven. Did he go up out of the apostles' sight with an actual, fleshy body? so he will reappear in the clouds of heaven, when every eye shall see him. And this coming is to be sudden and unexpected by most of those dwelling on the earth at the time it occurs. 'As it was in the days of Noah [and Lot] so shall the coming of the Son of Man be.'

Men will be engaged in their usual avocations; planting, building, marrying and giving in marriage; the sun will rise as it has risen on every other morning for six thousand years in the past, and nothing in nature will indicate that anything unusual is about to occur; when, all at once, as the lightning, the last trump shall sound, the dead will arise, and Jesus will appear to gladden the hearts of his saints, but to strike terror into those who have neglected the offers of mercy, and who are unprepared to meet him, and who will call upon the mountains to hide them from the wrath of the Lamb. A few who have looked into the prophecies will be looking for him, even as Simeon and Anna were at his first advent; a few faithful ministers will be warning the people to flee from the wrath to come; but the majority of mankind will be either indifferent, or actual scoffers, asking, deridingly, 'where is the promise of his coming?'

He is to judge the quick (or living) and the dead; hence the latter must be raised: 'All that are in the graves shall hear his voice and shall come forth—some to the resurrection of life, and some [an awful thought] to the resurrection of damnation.' The apocalypse, from which the text was taken, closes the declaration, "Behold, I come quickly," to which the response of the devout apostle is, "Amen; even so, come, Lord Jesus;" and this will be the sentiment of every heart that truly loves the Lord. Although the Scriptures do not declare the exact time when it will occur, careful students of prophesy and observers of the signs of the times cannot fail to be convinced that we are now living in the last days, and it is not improbable that it may take place in the present generation. The gospel of the kingdom must first be preached as a witness to all nations; but only as a witness, and then, whether there be only a thousand, or a thousand million believers on the earth, the end shall come. The late Dr. Arnold, by no means an enthusiast, wrote that he believed we were in the last footsteps of the world's onward march, and that everything seems to indicate that the close of the present dispensation is at hand.

The contemplation of this time, when we shall be with Christ, who shall wipe the tears from every eye, will ever be delightful to the believer. Whether this felicity is to be enjoyed in some distant sphere or on this earth, purified by fire and restored to its Eden state, as some scriptures seem to intimate, (and which would be truly 'Paradise regained,') we are assured that it is an object worthy of every effort that we can put forth to attain it.

The speaker then made a most solemn appeal to all present, to deal honestly with themselves, and see whether they were now prepared to meet God in judgment, etc.; pictured the daily life of the mere worldling, every moment devoted to selfish gratification, and not one thought bestowed on God, and urged all who were pursuing this course to consider what they were living for, and what it would profit them to gain the whole world and lose their own souls, earnestly beseeching them to give their hearts to Christ to-day, as their only hold on probation was a lease which expired with every breath we draw; though constantly renewed by God's goodness, He will soon absolutely determine. We could but be struck with the deep feeling and solemn earnestness which characterized the speaker during the delivery of this most admirable discourse, (of which we have given but a meagre outline, much of it being extempore,) springing, as it apparently did, from a sincere christian love for the souls of his auditors, and reminding us of the language of St. Paul: 'Now, then, we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us; we pray you, in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God.' This, of course, should be the feeling and attitude of all who assume the sacred office; but we are so accustomed to seeing both clergy and laity engage in the services of the sanctuary in a mere perfunctory style, apparently more concerned about the cut of a garment, or an altar-cloth, or to go through with a certain prescribed round of ceremonies, than to awaken the consciences of the unconverted, and to 'rightly divide the word of truth, and give to each a portion in due season," that an exception is noticeable."

For the World's Crisis.

HADES AND PARADISE.

Is Paradise a part of Hades? Yes, say the most able exponents of the doctrine of the immortality of the soul. We will look at this claim in the light of declared facts, and see if it has any analogy with them.

Now if it is true that Paradise is a part of hades, it is equally true that it is a part of sheol, as sheol is the Hebrew name corresponding with hades in Greek. In other words, whatever is meant by the Greek word hades, is meant by the Hebrew word sheol; hence, whatever is true of hades will be true of sheol, for both words refer to the same thing.

Now if Paradise is a part of hades, it must be a part of sheol; and if we can find out what the condition of man is in either, we shall know what it is in both.

We first look at the Hebrew word sheol. "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave [sheol] whither thou goest."—Eccl. 9: 10. The word rendered grave here is sheol; hence sheol is a state where there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom. Such a state as that could not be productive of very much happiness or misery, to say the least. But could a man be even conscious without knowledge, wisdom, or device? He could not be active, mentally, while bereft of these properties; and he could not be active physically, as he is physically dead when in sheol. He must be totally inactive, then, while in sheol.

The division of sheol, or hades, into various parts, calling one Paradise, will not change the condition of the man while in this state. It is immaterial which part is occupied; the condition is inactivity. Solomon makes no distinction in character when he says, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do," etc. Sheol is here set forth as the common receptacle of the dead, irrespective of character; hence what is true of one class is true of another, or of all. It follows, then, that the inmates of hades are inactive; and they are in sheol if in hades, as hades is but another name for the same thing.

Let us apply a text, found in Luke 23: 43, to these claims. "Verily I say unto thee today shalt thou be with me in paradise." Remember that paradise is one department of hades (so claimed by the popular theology of the day), and I have shown that hades and sheol are one and the same; and I have proved man to be inactive in sheol; hence he is inactive in hades; and although Christ and the thief went to paradise, they were by no means conscious and active, as paradise is claimed to be a part of hades, and man in hades or sheol is proven to be inactive. So the claim that man is not mentally active in death, is sustained by this text, if so be that paradise is a part of hades.

While it is a fact that man is mentally and physically inactive in sheol or hades, it is a fact that Christ and the thief were mentally and physically inactive in paradise; if so be that paradise is a part of hades.

Now suppose our opponents should be pleased to change tactics, and say paradise is not a part of hades. They gain nothing by this, as it is said of Christ, "His soul was not left in hell" (hades). Acts 2: 31. There would be no reason in saying his soul was not left in hades, unless it went there; and this is said of his resurrection, and pertains to what took place when he was raised from the dead.

Again, if they say paradise is where God is, and that Jesus went to the Father spiritually with the thief, in that he said, "Into thy hands I commend my spirit" (Luke 23: 46), they are submerged in a worse dilemma; as Jesus says three days after that, "I am not yet ascended to my Father." John 20: 17. He uses the same pronoun "I," when he says to the thief ("I say unto thee") that he does when he says to Mary, "I am not yet ascended to my Father."

Why will men contend for an idea which requires the twisting and turning, that the claim that men are dead and alive at the same time, involves? Why can they not believe the plain declarations of God's word,—"The dead know not any thing"? Eccl. 9: 5. "Put not your trust in princes, nor in the son of man in whom there is no help; his breath goeth forth; he returneth to his earth; in that very day his thoughts perish." Ps. 146: 34.

Why should our first parents have believed the devil's first lie to them, viz., "Ye shall not surely die," and almost every one else believe his other lie, viz., "he is not dead after he dies"?

I claim the following points established in the above argument:

1. That death is an unconscious state, and proven by the fact that hades is where man is when dead, and he is mentally inactive in hades.

2. That Christ and the thief were unconscious in death, as they went to hades; and the popular claim that paradise is a part of hades (if admitted) only strengthens my position, even if I allow the term "to-day" to mean just what they claim, viz., that Christ and the thief went to paradise that day"; as it only proves they were unconscious, if what they claim is true, "that paradise is a part of hades"; inasmuch as "there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom in hades," whether they went. Allowing they went to paradise that day, and that paradise is a part of hades, as is claimed, I have proved my point, viz., that death is an unconscious state, from their own text, reasoning from their own stand-point. What will next be claimed?

Times, please copy. WM. A. FENN.

CHRISTIAN UNION.*

(Concluded.)

The prophetical Scriptures roll up the curtain and present to view the dark and fearful closing scenes of the gospel age,—love growing cold; little faith; wicked men and seducers waxing worse and worse; a form of godliness, without the power; resisting the truth, like Jannes and Jambres; receiving strong delusion, that they all might be damned who believe not the truth; men like Cain, Balaam, Core, who separate themselves, many following their pernicious ways, whose judgment now of a long time lingereth not, and their damnation slumbereth not.

No historian could more clearly describe the prominent features of society at the present time than the prophets have done in their prophetic descriptions of the last days. Jealousy is disturbing its social harmony in family, church and state. The prophetic representation shows that the nations in the last days would be "angry" and "perplexed," making great efforts to form a "confederacy," or alliance, while God declares "they shall be broken in pieces." That they would say "peace and safety," but prepare for war. That they would ardently labor to bind themselves together in peaceful and harmonious associations, as tares are bound in bundles, but that universal "jealousy" would bring "every man's sword against his brother."

No society or association of men is exempt from its disturbing and dividing influences. It makes factious and disloyal parties in the state. It makes schisms and sects in the church. It causes each party to look upon all others as Gentiles and dogs. It puts glasses on men which magnify the faults of all except those within their own pale. It coils itself, like a serpent, around the family shrine, poisoning its sweetest joys and corrupting its purest love, producing discord and contention in its councils and breaking the strong bands of matrimonial union. God has brought this world to its last testing trial. Every being and thing in this world which can "be moved" or "may be shaken," that is, changed as the result of sin, must experience that change at the last great shaking of heaven and earth; so that the kingdom which shall then be established shall never experience those terrible results. Every thing in this world which has any prospective relation to the coming kingdom of God, must be tested prior to its incorporation into that kingdom, to prove its fitness and adaptation to its place, so that no change will ever again be necessary.

God is sending forth his mighty agents and powers to feel the ribs of the earth and prove the condition of its shattered frame, as it "reels to and fro like a drunkard," and its "foundations do shake," to show the necessity of its being changed and renewed before it can become the safe and happy abode of his redeemed people. He is also sending forth mighty moral agents to throw back the veil and show the exact condition of the social principles now controlling human associations. As the trial progresses, the power of the testing influences will increase, so that satanic principles will appear more manifest by an increase of divisions and contentions; while heavenly principles will be more fully developed by their power to resist jealousy and contention, and hold its possessors together in heavenly union.

The prophets foretold that jealousy would be the great source of national, ecclesiastical and social trouble in the last days, which would result in the breaking up and scattering of all human associations not founded on Christ and cemented together by the strong adhesive power of the gospel. Those days have come. The threatening storm-clouds of judgment are rising. The muttering thunders of pent-up indignation and burning jealousies are rolling round the heavens. Kings look out upon the coming tempest with fearful forebodings, as their hearts fail them for fear, calling their most trusty captains around them, who are required to make ready the armor and defences for the fearful coming conflict. We sweep the glass around, and view the worshiping multitudes bowing before their consecrated altars, and witness the same disturbed condition of the social element. Church arrayed against church, and priest against priest. Angry disputants arise, discussing theological questions, arraying the people against each other in fearful rivalry. Unbridled tongues, whispering and backbiting, are like the frogs in Egypt; they enter every house, and alienate all hearts. The slightest difference in faith becomes the pretext for division; and division, as soon as established, is made the justification for bitter and relentless war. The religious world has become a perfect Babel. Worship is everywhere disturbed with jealousies and strife. No minister can please all; no worship is satisfactory to all; and almost every one feels determined to have his own way. Men who esteem themselves theologically above par, are ambitious to become the leaders of a party or sect, and in many cases divide the church of Christ, and break the unity of the Spirit, to gratify their unsanctified ambition for pre-eminence. Those whom Satan cannot bring into line in some warring and anti-christian body, organized after Cæsar's pattern, he will influence to throw off all restraint, to submit to no discipline, and to despise the true government of Christ's church, and thus increase the confusion of the age. Satan understands that one of the most powerful means which Christ employs to secure the unity of his people is their personal association. To deprive the church of that powerful influence, he is laboring to make its meetings and associations repulsive and undesirable to true christians, and so cause them to "forsake the assembling of themselves together," that thus he may divide and break up their unity. But Christ has forewarned his people of this danger, and commanded us not to forsake the assembling of ourselves together, but to "exhort one another;" and as those duties are designed to strengthen their union, when the power which threatens that union increases, the assembling and exhorting must be attended to, "so much the more" as the day of final decision approaches.

The prophets, in speaking of these times, represent the proud and wicked as comparatively happy, not suffering the fiery trials which the people of God would endure, and say, "Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another." "And they shall be mine, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels." We live at a time when many of the prominent events now transpiring have a prophetic history. The influences and circumstances which cause our hearts to throb heavily with sorrow and grief, were seen and described by the prophets long ago. They saw the world, as it would be in the last days, painted upon the canvas, dotted with great and fearful signs of coming judgment. We dwell in the midst of those signs. They have grown with our growth and increased with our years, until the passing of a day seems prosy and dull without the exhibition of some tragical scene of human woe, some wild freak of nature, or some wonderful phenomenon, warning men of coming change.

The world is wild with excitement, and rushes with reckless carelessness into the future. Numerous classes are deliberately making arrangements to cast off all restraint of law and order, glorying in "liberty," which they falsely interpret to be the unlicensed privilege of doing as they please, regardless of others. The adhesive power which has hitherto held men together in social relations is fast dissolving and becoming extinct.—Kingdoms, states, churches and families, are everywhere contending, jarring and warring. Factious parties and disloyal subjects threaten to revolutionize every kingdom and state. Jealousies and contentions about men, rituals and theological questions, are everywhere increasing and threatening the very existence of the Christian church. Peace is rapidly departing from families high and low, rich and poor. Children are "disobedient to parents," and almost everywhere there is strife in domestic matters, and Sodom-like infidelity in the marriage relation. Every screw in the social machine seems to be loosened. Men are rapidly losing confidence in each other. Truce-breakers are multiplying. Falsehood and treachery are running unrestrained. Life and property are becoming insecure. Judges are bribed. Peace officers share the spoils of wickedness; or, fearing the poison or steel of the highwayman and midnight assassin, retire from office. All feel conscious of approaching danger, and look for a place of safety. The multitudes bind themselves by secret oaths to defend each other when the final conflict shall come. The defenceless tremble as the roaring tempest approaches, and would gladly rest under the sheltering folds held by the strong arm of some protecting government. But, alas! safety and protection have nearly left our world.

O, the mighty conflict and fearful scenes of world-wide confusion and desolation, as an insulted God is rising to execute the immutable penalty of his broken law and be avenged on an insulting and blasphemous race! Fearfulness has seized the hearts of the thoughtful, who anxiously inquire, "What shall be the end of these things?" All read, in the present restless and perturbed condition of our world, that a mighty change is coming. But who can tell us what that change shall be? False teachers say "Peace;" but God says "War." Satan understands the events, and knows that his time is short. He has come in great wrath, remembering his early defeat by the second Adam, and knowing that he has made an appointment to meet him again and measure swords, to show who shall be the ruler of this world. As the appointed time draws nigh when the decision must be made, Satan's anger increases. He looks upon the coming King as a usurper. He would gladly tear his crown from his brow, and wrench his sword from his hand; but he is powerless to do it. He roars like a hungry, caged lion, as he views in heaven's glorious palace, that sacred head bowing to receive the diadem of earth's dominion now to be wrested from his possession. He stirs up priests, Pharisees and scoffing infidels, once more to prevent him from taking the reins of earthly government.

But the Satanic movement will be all in vain. Christ must triumph at last, and Satan experience an eternal defeat. As Satan cannot reach Christ and take his life, as before, he turns his anger upon Christ's people; and, with unprecedented rage, to be avenged on Christ, he labors to divide his people, knowing that this will separate them from Christ, and thus rob him of his beloved spouse.

Martyrdom never separates from Christ, but divisions do. No sin is so deeply stained, no deed so damning, as dividing the followers of Christ. Therefore, Satan, in his last mighty effort to defeat and injure Christ, will exercise his greatest power and skill to cause division and strife in his church. To accomplish this, jealousy is poured out like a flood, so that every act and word is looked upon as oppression and war. The spirit of envy is also made to do the satanic work, by causing many to despise those who seem to be esteemed above themselves, and laboring to bring down the reputation and standing of the most gifted and efficient brethren to their own level. This spirit causes many to despise church government, because they are envious of those who have the rule over them.

As the great work of Satan at this time is to divide the church of Christ, the great work of Christ and his servants should be to prevent this work of Satan, and unite his people in the bonds of heavenly union. Therefore, the great and specific work for Christ's servants to do in the church at this time, is to strengthen, guard and perpetuate Christian union. For this cause have we to-day assembled in this convocation. Christ has called us here. Our work is a specific and holy work. If it is faithfully done, it will strengthen the union of God's people, and Christ will accept it. But if it is not faithfully done, it will create division and strife, and Christ will reject it.

Strike for God and gospel union, brethren, and Christ will defend you. Seek not for numbers, but for christian fellowship. Aspire not for worldly fame, but for holy communion with all the saints; and the God of peace shall preserve you blameless unto his heavenly kingdom. Form no union or Christian fellowship with any out of Christ. You cannot do it without compromising the principles of the gospel. Destroy not brotherly love by harsh and unkind words, or strife for positions, or contentions about doctrines; for the servant of God must not strive.

O, ye friends of Jesus, standing amidst this moving, excited and restless generation, has it fallen to your lot to bear responsibilities and do sacred duties at the grand era of earth's transition from the measured scenes of mortal woes to the unmeasured scenes of eternal blessedness? How indescribably grand and impressive is your experience who occupy this clearly-predicted focal point in earth's history. You can look back upon the dark cloud of evil which has been gathering blackness and deepening its thunder tones for six thousand years, and now you can see the roaring tempest culminating to the point of universal revolution and destruction. Your eye of faith has pierced through the dark storm-cloud, and seen coming, in the immediate future, a glorious morning, when the storms of evil will be hushed in eternal silence, and the dark clouds of sorrow will no more gather; when the new creation shall unfold its unequalled beauties, and the harp of universal harmony, tuned for the celebration of earth's great jubilee, shall peal the note of Messiah's triumph. Earth's protracted groan is ending in the convulsions of dissolution. Death's appointed period to hold in darkness and silence the sainted dead is expiring. The withering curse will soon end its work of destruction by limitation. The last sweet morning of rest is dawning, when the renewed creation, all harmonized and united by its Redeemer with the great Head and Ruler of the universe, shall commence the matchless scene of unending adoration and praise. O, then, ye men of God, as you view the grand and important events around you, and your relation to those events, knowing that they must soon culminate in irrevocable decisions, fixing the eternal destiny of every member of the human family, arise above self and selfish interests; tread under foot sectarianism and worldly ambition, that you may give all to Christ, reckoning that no sacrifice is too great nor life too dear, that you may gain immortality through him.

And now, ye servants of Christ, amidst the din and roar of satanic conflict, stand up like men of God. Stand together in Christ. Strike! Strike calmly and kindly against error, but with crushing power. Lift up your voice; lift it up together. Sound long and loud the judgment note. Give the last rallying cry. Call together, in heavenly oneness, the scattered soldiers of Christ. Then, when the mighty Conqueror comes, to hush in endless silence the confusion and strife of sin, and hurl down into the pit of everlasting death and darkness the great Deceiver and the innumerable host of enemies to Christ, then shall be gathered, in heavenly harmony and eternal union, the countless millions of the redeemed into the glorious kingdom of God, in eternal peace.

* A tract of 60 pp., by Eld. J. Couch, being an Address delivered before the National Advent Conference of North America, at Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 1869. For sale at this office.

For the World's Crisis.

"SMOKING FLAX."

"A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench, till he send forth judgment unto victory."—MATT. 12: 20.

Whatever might have been, or whatever ought to be, we know that very few of the mass of professing christians are burning and shining lights. The majority seem to occupy the lowest possible grade. They neither burn nor shine, but merely "smoke." Now shall we throw a wet blanket over the "smoking flax" and say, "You have no love to God, no religion, no good hope of eternal life," because they don't shine like John the Baptist?

It seems to be a hard lesson for the strong to learn to "bear with the weak"; but many seem quite willing to let "the weak brother perish, for whom Christ died." There is continual pushing "with side and with shoulder," constant passing of unjust (because partial) judgment; and thus christians by profession "bite and devour one another."

The class who are constantly judging should remember that "he shall have judgment without mercy that hath showed no mercy." "Therefore thou art inexcusable, O man, whosoever thou art that judgest; for wherein thou judgest another thou condemnest thyself; for thou that judgest doest the same things." The judge should certainly be without sin; as the Savior said to those that would condemn the woman spoken of in the eighth chapter of John, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." Pride goes with unjust judgment; and boasting also, either implied or expressed.

In condemning another for his course we say in effect, "I am not like that person. I am free from that sin." People talk about "perfecting holiness" who never knew perfect love. And they talk loudly about being cleansed from all filthiness of the flesh, when they would not dare to say there were no spots on their own garments. "My brethren, these things ought not so to be."

I profess to love Jesus. I believe that Jesus loves me. I feel that all my sins are forgiven for his name's sake. I want to be a burning and a shining light. Yet I often find myself only "smoking flax" or a "bruised reed" at best. God is merciful, Jesus is merciful; let all christians strive to be merciful also. F. H. CHAMBERLAIN.

Webster, Mass.

For the World's Crisis.

"RISE FIRST."

The resurrection of the "dead in Christ" (1 Thess. 4: 16) is an apostolic doctrine, concerning which mistakes are frequently made, and in relation to which misapprehensions too commonly exist. The "rising first" of "them that sleep in Jesus," is not put in contrast with the rising of any others, either before or afterward; hence has no bearing whatever for or against the resurrection or non-resurrection of the impenitent dead. The contrast is, of the living and dead saints. In other words: "We [those] who are alive and remain over unto the coming of the Lord," constitute the antithesis of those "who are asleep," or of "the dead in Christ."

Now it is affirmed by the apostle Paul of those saints who shall be living when Jesus comes, that they (the living saints) shall not have precedence of the sleeping dead saints, and go and meet Jesus first in the way, before the dead saints are resurrected; but, contrariwise, the living saints (when Jesus comes) must wait until the dead saints are first raised to life; after that, the living saints will be changed, and then both companies, the resurrected dead and changed living saints together (simultaneously, in one company), shall be caught up to meet the Lord in the air. "Wherefore comfort one another with these words." GEO. W. STETSON.

Olena, Ohio.

For the World's Crisis.

DEATH, AND THE COMING OF CHRIST.

A few years since a Methodist minister, then believing in the speedy coming of Christ, inquired in one of his prayer-meetings why christians should so generally dread that event? One brother said he did not know, unless it was because that event was so much like death. Poor man! I pity him. He does not know what a loss he sustains every day he lives with such feelings. The two events are opposites. One deprives man of life, the other restores it.

Dread the coming of Christ? As well may a loyal wife dread the coming of her loyal, absent husband, or dutiful children that of absent kind parents. O, shame, shame on such conduct! Am I too severe? I can not help it. Instead of dreading it, there is no event the christian should love so well. And he will, he must, when he comes to see what it truly is,—the consummation of his hope, and what he must sooner or later see, that there is no salvation without it.

"So much like death"? How have people read their Bibles? They have found no such thing there. But can we so live as to be glad to have the Son of man come? Indeed we can, and we have no right to live otherwise. It should be the most gladsome event of all our lives, and it may be. I am glad, O yes, as glad as I can be, that God in his goodness ever brought me to see by faith his coming again, and to love it too—the most gladsome event of all my anticipations.

But how sad the fact, for fact it is, that what is considered orthodox theology should virtually and so generally repudiate his coming, and the resurrection. For, go into what church you please, and when you please, what will you hear on those two subjects? Did any one ever hear them made leading themes, as the apostles made them? Has it been clearly evident that a majority of church members have been ardent lovers of his appearing, so that on that account a crown of righteousness is laid up for them as for Paul? O, no, no, no. I would that it were so—that men did love his appearing and his kingdom. Then, instead of that silence in the pulpit and prayer-room on these themes, we should see them having their prominent place in both, and men rejoicing in the prospect of the blessed, glorious event, instead of dreading it, as the enemy death. O what a change must come over the churches before they can realize these two great cardinal truths of the Bible. But the change cannot come, while they allow death to introduce them to glory, so that they have no occasion for Christ's coming, and therefore do not value it. Orthodoxy makes the offices of death repudiate the second advent of Christ.

"So much like death?" As much so as black is like white. But the Orthodox view gives death the preference, does it not? Let us see. It introduces one to the presence of the Lord, where the Psalmist says "is fulness of joy." The coming of Christ takes him back from glory into his body again. Is there anything desirable in that? Anything joyful? Then is not death the preferable event? And such doctrine is orthodoxy! Hence we see why the coming of Christ has become a dead letter to its advocates. To them Christ's coming brings not good, but evil.

Paul, in 1 Thess. 4, after discoursing on the coming of Christ and the resurrection, closes with, "Wherefore comfort one another with these words." Now what comfort could a believer in death's introducing the righteous to glory draw from Paul's words? Just none at all. What a monstrous evil this death theory is! It makes men love death more and Christ less, not even enough to love his appearing.

Let us ever be grateful to God who hath made us to differ, who hath made us truly to love his appearing and kingdom, so that we may draw comfort from "these words."

DANIEL D. CHAFFEE.

— He learns much who studies other men; he also learns much who studies himself.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, July 20, 1870.

☞ Take Notice!

☞ All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ Money Orders.

☞ Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ W. A. MUNROE—Your letter contained only two dollars.

☞ C. H. WILLIAMS—Money received.

☞ MARY CAPWELL—Please give us your P. O. address.

☞ J. W. C. GRAY—Please give us your P. O. address.

☞ SAMSON BATTEY—Give us your P. O. address, and we will do as requested.

☞ D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

☞ BRO. J. COUCH'S P. O. address is now Chelsea, Mass.

☞ BRO. T. M. PREBLE having removed from Lynn, his P. O. address will now be North Cambridge, Mass.

☞ MURDOCK'S TESTAMENT—We can now furnish Murdock's Translation of the Testament from the Syriac, for $2.50.

☞ "DEBT & GRACE"—We have a few copies of "Debt & Grace" in good condition, which we have gathered, and will send it for $1.50. Some have been very anxious to get it.

☞ BILLS! BILLS!!

There are many of our subscribers who are largely in arrears in their payments for the Crisis. To such we are now sending bills of their indebtedness. We hope to have a prompt response by the brethren and sisters sending in the amount due without delay.

AG'T.

EXPLANATION.

Sometimes persons write to us that they ordered their paper discontinued when the subscription expired, but it was not, and they think we want to force the Crisis upon them, and then force them to pay. We wish to force none. Post-masters, in returning papers to be discontinued, often send them with no post-office or State marked upon them, and we cannot look our large list all over to hunt up the name; and then there may be several of the same name on our list.

When any one orders a post-master to return a paper, always see that he puts on the post-office and State.

BURLINGTON.

Our meetings in Burlington, Iowa, were thinly attended at first, on account of the very hot weather. We have never experienced before so many hot days in succession. The heat was really scorching. The mercury stood at 102 degrees in the shade. Notwithstanding the short evenings, and the excessive heat, the meetings resulted in much good. We learned that some of the most devoted members of other churches became deeply interested.

As a general rule, in all places, we find the best christians are the first to see the light on the sleep of the dead, the coming of Christ, and the destruction of the wicked, and we believe this will continue to be the case. Those who are seeking popularity will stand back; while those who love the truth more than reputation, will press forward and obtain the light. Bro. J. B. Carey, a Baptist minister, attended the meetings, became deeply interested, and is giving the subject a careful investigation. He says he is willing to receive the truth from any source. We found in him a kindred spirit. Two other ministers were present, but we do not know their feelings. Bro. George Hurd, who lives at Hopper's Mills, Ill., about seven miles east of Burlington, was with us several evenings, and assisted in the meetings. He is a true man, and preaches a part of the time for our Brn. at Burlington. Three were baptized Friday afternoon, July 8th. In the evening we had a pleasant communion season at the table of the Lord.

"KNOW THYSELF."

Let us read the account of man's creation: "The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul." Gen. 2: 7. Observe, the being called "man" was formed "of the dust of the ground;" but was not a living person till after he received "the breath of life" into his nostrils. "The breath of life" is common to all living creatures upon the earth, and in no case is it represented as being intelligent, or accountable when in man, or after its departure. It is simply that which passes into the man's nostrils to vitalize and purify the blood, which passes through the lungs; and when this process of breathing stops, the man dies. It is never spoken of as man, or represented as performing any moral actions whatever; hence it does not properly have any place in the analysis and description of man.

We will now proceed to show that the Bible teaches clearly and harmoniously, that the term MAN, when it represents the personal, physical organism, is the word used in the Scriptures to denote the intelligent, accountable being, who is to be rewarded or punished after the day of judgment; and that all the commandments, promises and threatenings of the Lord are addressed to the personality which he made "of the dust of the ground." In Gen. 2: 8, 15, 16, we read: "And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed. . . . And the Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden, to dress and to keep it. And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat; but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it." Here we find the first mention of a commandment in the Bible: "And the Lord commanded the man." What man? "The man whom he had formed" (Gen. 2: 8) "of the dust of the ground" (Gen. 2: 7), "in his own image" (Gen. 1: 27). This man disobeyed his Creator, to gratify his appetite. The Lord then addresses him as follows: "And unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and has eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it; cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life. Thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat of the herb of the field. In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." Gen. 3: 17–19. "Adam" was the name of the man whom he commanded, and who disobeyed the command, and he is represented by the thou. This very identical man, that was formed of the dust "of the ground," placed in the garden of Eden, who ate the forbidden fruit, is the one who sinned, and to whom the Lord says: "Dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." The case is so plainly stated in the Scriptures, that there is no room left for doubt.

In the further history of this first man, we read:—"And the Lord God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us to know good and evil; and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever; therefore the Lord God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken. So he drove out the man." Gen. 3: 22–24. Here we find the same man, whom he had made and put into the garden of Eden, was driven from it, lest he should "take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever." This passage affords positive proof that this accountable man, called Adam, who had sinned, was not immortal; hence we read, "And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years, and he died. Gen. 5: 5. How much of Adam died? All that God commanded, all that disobeyed the command and sinned; all that constituted him a moral, intellectual, and accountable being, the very man Adam, whom he formed "of the dust of the ground," and placed in the garden of Eden. With this position we find harmony throughout the entire Bible, excepting in Gen. 3: 4, where the deceiver says to Adam and Eve, "Ye shall not surely die." If Adam was immortal, and could never die, did not the deceiver tell the truth? and is not the Bible untrue, when it says Adam died? At the present time the devil is making a tremendous effort, through Spiritualism, to convince the people that all are immortal, in order to confirm his lie, when he said, "Ye shall not surely die."

"IN THE DAY."—Gen. 2: 17.

We have met persons who claimed that Adam did not die at the time specified in the penalty, and for this reason the Bible is not a reliable book. The penalty reads as follows;—"But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it; for in the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." Gen. 2: 17.

It has been assumed by some that the death here mentioned is a moral death, which Adam died the day he sinned. Then it could not be a penalty for sin. The crime was moral death, and it would be a strange system of government that made the penalty for sin the same as the crime. It would be like making stealing the punishment for stealing, lying for lying, and adultery for adultery. In the Bible, moral death is never mentioned as a penalty for sin. Whenever death is specified as a punishment for sin, it is always literal, whether in human or divine law.

Suppose the penalty on Adam was a moral death; then, inasmuch as Christ suffered the same penalty, to redeem man, he must die a moral death. In that case it would be necessary for him to become a sinner. But the Scriptures affirm that he "did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth" (1 Pet. 2: 22); therefore, moral death was not the penalty for sin. Some have asserted that Adam's punishment was a moral death because the sentence reads, "In the day thou eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die;" and as he did not die literally the day he sinned, therefore the penalty must have been a spiritual death. This apparent difficulty is all removed when the facts in the case are presented. The statement, "Thou shalt surely die," occurs in twenty other passages besides Gen. 2: 17, and in them all it refers to a literal death. Why say its first use, when language was in its simplest form, is a figurative one? We think it would be more reasonable to assume that the day mentioned was figurative, than the penalty. It is said some of the Jews believed "the day" represents the first thousand years of Adam's existence; and that if he had been obedient during that time, his probation would have been ended. It is thought Peter refers to the same, when he says: "But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day." 2 Pet. 3: 8.

When speaking on Gen. 2: 17, Dr. Clarke says:—"From that moment thou shalt become mortal, and shalt continue in a dying state till thou die." This we find literally accomplished."

By anticipation, Adam was but a dead man when he had partaken of the forbidden fruit. During the plagues upon the Egyptians, they urged the children of Israel to depart, saying, "We be all dead men." Ex. 12: 33. In consequence of what Abimelech had done, the Lord came to him "in a dream by night, and said to him, Behold, thou art but a dead man." Gen. 20: 3. So, when a man takes poison, we say of him, "he is a dead man," by which we mean he will certainly die in consequence of taking the poison.

Instead of "thou shalt surely die," the Greek of Symmachus reads: "thou shalt be mortal"; likewise the Syriac, which is approved by Jerome, Grotius, Chrysostom, Theodoret, Ambrose, the venerable Bede, Drusius, Diodati, Knapp, Cahen, Ainsworth, Patrick, D'Oyly, Mant, Henry, and Dr. Payne. The Targum of Jonathan reads: "Thou shalt be subject to death."

In harmony with the foregoing, it should be stated that the Hebrew proposition be, rendered "in," is translated thirteen ways in the Bible. But three of these thirteen renderings would make sense in Gen. 2: 17, and these are, "in," "after," and "against." "Against" would hardly be appropriate in the passage, and we will drop it, leaving the choice between "in" and "after." "In the day that thou eatest thereof," and "after the day," are expressions equally sensible and proper; and the choice between the two depends entirely upon the meaning of the passage. In Num. 28: 26, the same preposition "be" is correctly translated both in and after in the same verse, as follows:—"Also in the day of the first fruits, when ye bring a new meat-offering unto the Lord, after your weeks be out, ye shall have an holy convocation." Genesius says be should be rendered after, "where the mind rests more upon the end of a period, and spoken therefore of time already past." This is the case with the sentence pronounced on Adam, in Gen. 2: 17. Had it been rendered "after the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die," it would have been in harmony with all the facts and statements connected with the history of the first man. The Lord did not design that he should die in that day; for he says to him in Gen. 3: 19, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground." This passage shows that the Lord designed that Adam should live "till" a certain period, and then he would "return unto the ground." If he had died in the day he ate of the tree, it would have exterminated the human race, for Adam had no children at that time.

Those who translated the received version of the Scriptures, in King James' time, believed man to be immortal, consequently, he could not die a literal death. It would not have been in harmony with their views to have translated the preposition be by the word after. Let the death penalty pronounced against Adam be literal death, and all is plain and harmonious. We think it is certain that the penalty for Adam's sin was literal death.

"THOUGHTS PERISH."

When speaking of the nature of man, David says:—"His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth; in that very day his thoughts perish." Ps. 146: 4. The Septuagint reads: "His breath shall go forth, and he shall return to his earth: in that day all his thoughts perish."

Those who do not believe in the unconscious sleep of the dead, sometimes try to evade the simple teaching of this passage, by saying it means his thoughts concerning world. Others say it should be rendered "purposes," which relate to things in this world. The Hebrew word gesh-toh-noth, rendered thoughts in this passage, occurs nowhere else in the Bible. The full definition of the word, given by Gesenius, is as follows: "thoughts, counsels. The Bishop's Bible reads: "For when the breath of man goeth forth, he shall turn again to his earth, and so all his thoughts perish." If man continues to think when he is dead, and never stops thinking, then David must be wrong. But he is in harmony with all other Bible writers. Why not let God be true, if all the theological books of modern times are proved false? It is very easy to believe that a dead man has stopped thinking. The Bible, common sense, true philosophy, and sound reason, are harmonious, and all teach that in the day a man dies "his thoughts perish."

FRENCH WAR CLOUDS.

There are very threatening omens in France and Prussia of an approaching war between those nations. There is considerable excitement on the subject in the commercial circles of Paris. The French Government is very decided that a German prince shall not be allowed to take the throne of Charles the Fifth; consequently, either Spain or Germany must back down, or a war must follow. M. Cremieux remarked that "war now meant war with Europe."

CORRECTION.—In the Crisis of July 13th, in our article headed—"In his own image," a paragraph reads as follows: "When it is said an object is in the 'likeness,' or 'image' of another, it is necessarily composed of the same material, or is of the same nature." It should read, "It is not necessarily composed of the same material, nor is of the same nature."

☞ All appointments, notices, obituaries, and proper names especially, should be written very plainly, if friends would see them correct in the paper.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING.

At a meeting of the Committee held in Springfield, July 6th, the following action was taken in relation to the Campmeeting appointed for August 20th:

Voted, "That all Associations and Societies, excepting the Advent Christian Association, and the Advent Christian Publication Society, be requested to appoint their business meetings at some place other than the Campground."

Voted, "That there be no collections taken or appeals made on the ground for money by any Association, Society, person or persons, excepting by order of the Committee."

Voted, "That the brethren and churches be requested (in consequence of the arrears of last year, caused in part by the large number of free boarders), to provide for the board of the poor among them.

GEO. T. ADAMS, SECRETARY.

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."

By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY. By Elder James H. Whitmore. Published by the Western Advent Christian Association.

This little volume of 300 pages is a valuable contribution to the literature of the subject on which it treats, and is worthy of a wide circulation, not only among those who hold to the views advocated therein, but among others who have not given them due thought and investigation.

For sale at this office. Price, single copy, postpaid, $1.00. Six copies, by mail, $5.00; by express, $4.20. AG'T.

NEW MUSIC.

Six pieces, entitled "Jesus is coming again," "I love thee still," "Hoist every sail," "Sweetly sleeping," "He is coming," and "Home." Sent postpaid for 20 cents. Single sheet 5 cents. For sale at this office, or by the author, Geo. E. Lee, Brimfield, Mass.

Sheldon's Four New Tracts.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

1. "LIFE AND DEATH THEOLOGY: or, The Scriptural Doctrine of 'Eternal Damnation' and 'Everlasting Punishment.'" Price 8 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 75 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $5.00 per hundred by express.

This work of forty-eight pages is the clearest and strongest document yet produced by Bro. Sheldon on this topic. It is just the thing to scatter among all classes.

2. IMMATERIALISM: or, The Doctrine of Soul-Immortality Refuted." Price 5 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $3.00 per hundred by express.

A tract of thirty-two pages, showing that fifteen cardinal errors spring out of the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and that those errors could not exist independent of that doctrine, thus showing it to be the main root of error. Let it be scattered widely.

3. "DEATH AND THE DEAD," 16 pages. Price 3 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1.50 per hundred by express.

Just the thing to scatter everywhere.

4. "THE COMING JUDGMENT: Its Necessity and Result," Eight pages. 10 cts. per dozen, postpaid, or 75 cts. per hundred by express.

It will do much good. A'GT.

For the World's Crisis.

THE CLOSING AGE.

"We are living, we are dwelling,
In a grand and awful time;
In an age on ages telling,
To be living is sublime."

The beginning and ending of every dispensation of this world's history have been marked by most stupendous events. In the throes and convulsions by which an age expires, we may perceive the natal epoch of a more glorious era, advancing in the time and manner ordained by Heaven. And so has the all-wise Creator and Ruler of the universe arranged the government of his empire, that night unto night showeth knowledge, until the day dawn, and the Day-Star arise in our hearts.

From no other than a heavenly source can the mysteries of a distant futurity be made known; the telescope of faith sweeps the firmament of revealed truth;

"For there in glittering splendor shine
Great truths, eternal and divine."

Heaven and earth shall pass away, but God's word shall not pass away. Suns and systems may dissolve and disappear, but the purposes of the Almighty as revealed to man will certainly continue. Their fulfillment is not contingent, but absolute and irrevocable, without regard to the ignorance or folly of those who presumptuously neglect or misconstrue their meaning.

Eighteen centuries have rolled away since the armies of Rome triumphed over Jerusalem, bringing to pass the numerous predictions of the sacred Scriptures respecting the holy city. At the present, worlds are witnessing with anxious suspense a crisis of similar magnitude. But whereas the king of the Romans was against the Jews, now is seen the King of the Jews against Rome.

The Man of Sin has developed his most revolting attribute; he has attained the full length and breadth of his monstrous proportions; the acme of human depravity is reached, the strongest argument of weakness, and the infallible prelude of utter failure. His threescore years and ten have ended; henceforth his life will be labor and sorrow. The son of perdition takes a leap in the dark; soon he will be taken out of the way.

See the bold, blasphemous harlot,
Drunk with blood and clothed in scarlet,
Swiftly to her fate now flying,
Judged, condemned, and doubly dying.
Lo, "'tis done; the climax of folly has been attained, and madness rules the hour."

—Com.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute acording to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERRON, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments	$548 58
Mrs. E. Bedell	.25
A. P. Moore, for Tracts	1.35
Mary C. Wardwell	1.00
Mrs. A. Andrews	1.00

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	$60.56
"A Friend"	1.00
Addie L. Brown	1.00
Mrs. A. Andrews	1.00

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 202, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$840.65

For the World's Crisis.

REPORT.

R. I. AND EAST. CONN. CONFERENCE.

Held at River Point, R. I., June 29th to July 1st, 1870.

We were very much disappointed in not seeing a larger number of preachers and delegates present at this conference, and for this and other reasons failed to enjoy the meeting as well as we had expected; yet it was far from being a lost season. Wednesday A. M., after a short discourse by Bro. Harrison Arnold, we had a number of stirring exhortations from the brethren and sisters present. In the evening another similar meeting, the discourse being by Bro. Alba Bellows, founded on Luke 4: 18, 19.

Thursday. There being but few members present, and as we had no very urgent business to transact, it was thought best to adjourn our business session until to-morrow. The morning was spent in prayer and social remarks. At 2 P. M., preaching by Sister Crumb, from Josh. 24: 15. In the evening we listened to one of Bro. Durfee's able, argumentative discourses. Text, Matt. 22: 42.

Friday, 9 A. M. Met for business. The President, A. Durfee, in the chair. Opening prayer by Bro. E. Bellows, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read, and adopted as correct. The Treasurer's report was made and accepted. Bro. E. Bellows reported from the committee appointed to draft a church covenant. The report was accepted and the committee discharged.

The following churches reported: North Scituate—Stand as well as could be expected, with no pastor, and with preaching but two Sabbaths in the month. When no preaching have social meetings, most of which are good. N. A. Angell, clerk. Westerly—A few still battling for the Lord. Prayer meetings thinly attended, but interesting. Preaching every Sabbath. E. Slocum, clerk. Abington—Still holding on to the apostolic faith. Preaching half the time. C. Cady, clerk. Exeter—Have an interesting Sabbath School. Preaching every Sabbath. Five have been baptized, and thirteen received into the church. Have forty members who are well united and waiting patiently for Jesus to come. R. R. Perry, pastor. Danielsonville—There has been a great scattering and sifting among them, but the church never stood better in spiritual matters. E. Bellows, pastor. River Point—Seven added to the church during the last quarter. The prospect encouraging. Reported by Bro. Card. Wyoming—In something of a trial now, on account of the debt on their chapel; but hope to get out of it soon. One or two added. Reported by Bro. Durfee.

The preachers' reports were, as usual, very interesting. Although some were in trial, yet they had no disposition to cease their efforts, but all expressed a determination to labor more zealously than ever before. As God had blessed and prospered them in their labors, and given them souls for their hire, they felt confident that they were in the way of duty.

Moved, That we employ Bro. Angell to print one hundred copies of the Constitution of the conference. The motion was seconded, and after some remarks from which it appeared that there was a desire to amend some articles of the constitution, it was Voted, that the action upon the printing of the constitution be deferred until our next session. The names of two brethren were presented for ordination. After all had freely expressed their opinion concerning the matter, it was Voted, that we postpone the matter of ordination until our next session. Upon examining that instrument, it was discovered that the vote taken at our last conference changing the time for the meeting of this body was unconstitutional. Moved, that we adjourn to meet with the church at Lafayette, R. I., according to the constitution.

At two P. M., a soul-stirring discourse by E. B. Card, from 1 Thess. 4: 17; after which we had a most blessed social meeting. The gloom which had been hovering over us was dispersed, and our sighs and groans were changed to shouts and songs of joy. In the evening an impressive discourse by Sr. Crumb, from Jer. 5: 22.

Meetings were continued over July 4th, and increased in interest to the end. One manifested a desire to become a christian, and others appeared to be powerfully convicted. On the Sabbath great manifestations of God's power were witnessed. There were so many who wanted to tell what the Lord had done for them, our ministering brethren could not get an opportunity to preach during the day. I should have stated that this conference and these meetings were held beneath the R. I. Mission Tent.

Preachers present: A. Durfee, E. Bellows, J. S. Collins, E. B. Card, A. Bellows, N. A. Angell, H. Arnold, W. Smith, E. S. Straight, C. H. Sweet, and Sr. Crumb.

C. H. SWEET, Clerk.

For the World's Crisis.

SISTER C. B. TURNER.—Sr. Turner is still quite sick, and needs help. Any who feel that the Lord would have them send her any thing, will please direct to Mrs. C. B. TURNER, care of P. H. Palmer & Co., Syracuse, N. Y. "The poor ye have always with you."

B. P. STEVENS.

For the World's Crisis.

HOAG'S VISION.

This Vision has been published in the Crisis, although not precisely as is here given. I have taken some pains to ascertain its origin, history, and correctness.

I find that the original, written by Mr. Hoag, is in the family of Mr. Thomas Grover, of East Mansfield, Mass. Mr. Grover belongs to the society called Friends, and is one of their preachers. This is the exact copy written off by the daughter of Mr. Grover, and given to Dea. J. Miller of Sheldonville (Wrentham), Mass. J. S. WHITE.

REMARKABLE VISION.

The following singular vision was revealed to Joseph Hoag, of the Society of Friends, who was born in Duchess county, New York, April 23d, 1762. He first appeared as a gospel minister when he was about eighteen years of age, and was acknowledged as such by the Society of Friends in the twenty-third year of his age. In 1789 or 1790 he removed with his family and settled at Charlotte, Vermont, and was the first minister who settled in that town. He traveled extensively as a minister in all parts of the U. S., also in the Canadas and Nova Scotia. He died at Charlotte, Vermont, Nov. 2nd, 1846, in the eighty-fifth year of his age. It was while on his farm at Charlotte that he had this vision.

In the year 1803, probably in the eighth or ninth month, I was one day alone in the field, and observed that the sun shone clear, but a mist eclipsed the brightness of its shining. As I reflected upon the singularity of the event, my mind was struck into silence the most solemn I ever remember to have witnessed; for it seemed as if all my faculties were laid low and unusually brought into deep silence. I said to myself, What can all this mean? I do not recollect ever before to have been sensible of such feelings. And I heard a voice from heaven say,

"This that thou seest, which dims the brightness of the sun, is a sign of the present and coming times. I took the forefathers of this country from a land of oppression; I planted them here among the people of the forest; I sustained them, and while they were humble, I blessed them, and fed them, and they became a numerous people; but they have forgotten me who nourished and protected them in the wilderness, and are running into every abomination and evil practice of which the old countries are guilty, and I have taken quietude from the land, and suffered a dividing spirit to come among them. Lift up thine eyes and behold!"

And I saw them dividing in great heat. The division began in the Presbyterian society and went through the various religious denominations, and in its progress and close the effect was nearly the same. Those who dissented went off with high heads and taunting language, and those who kept to their original sentiments appeared exercised and sorrowful.

When this dividing spirit entered the Society of Friends, it raged in as high a degree as any I had before discovered, and, as before, those who separated went with lofty looks and taunting, censuring language. Those who kept to their ancient principles retired by themselves.

It next appeared in the lodges of the Free Masons, and it broke out in appearance like a volcano, inasmuch as it set the country in an uproar for a length of time.

Then it entered politics throughout the United States, and did not stop until it produced a civil war. An abundance of human blood was shed in the course of the combat, the Southern States lost their power, and slavery was annihilated from their borders.

Then a monarchical power arose, took the government of the States, established a national religion, and made all the societies tributary to its expenses. I saw them take property from Friends to a large amount. I was amazed at beholding all this, and I heard a voice proclaim:

"This power shall not always stand, but with this power I will chastise my church until they return to the faithfulness of their forefathers. Thou seest what is coming upon thy native land for their iniquity and the blood of Africa, the remembrance of which has come up before me. This vision is yet for many days."

I had no thoughts of writing it for many years, until it became such a burden that for my own relief I have written it.

JOSEPH HOAG.

THE TWO ST. PETERS.

In history there are two St. Peters. One is the ambitious, the unscrupulous, the cruel and tyrannical creation of the church at Rome. Every unhallowed and worldly impulse was gradually numbered among the attributes of the great apostle. In the third century his Roman defamers began to invest him with an ambitious design of subjecting all other bishops. In the fifth, Leo openly demanded for him a universal primacy of authority that was denied both at Chalcedon and Constantinople. At a later period he was made a temporal prince, ruling over the Roman States by force and fraud. In the eleventh century the haughty Hildebrand, in the hallowed name of Peter, proclaimed himself the temporal and spiritual master of the world. In the thirteenth, Innocent III., to enforce the authority of Rome, filled Europe with bloodshed, and exterminated the heretics of Provence. St. Peter was now made the author of the Inquisition, the champion of the Crusades, the oppressor of the humble, a universal persecutor. Still later, he was represented by the horrible vices of Borgia. At the Reformation he was held up to mankind as the foe of rising knowledge, the patron of a dull conservatism. He was supposed to have inspired the bitter malevolence of the Council of Trent, and to have countenanced every crime of Charles V. or Philip II. In the nineteenth century, his name is once more invoked by the bishop of Rome in exciting a new assault upon human freedom. Priests and pope, in their final council, present once more to mankind their traditional St. Peter—ambitious, cruel, tyrannical—and declare his infallibility.

Very different was the true St. Peter of the Gospel and the Acts. He was ever lamenting his own fallibility. In a moment of terror, at the thought of death, he had denied his Savior. On him the eye of affection had been turned reproachfully; to him had been spoken the words of indignation, "Get thee behind me, Satan." His fervent love had won forgiveness; he was the rock on which the church was built. Again he had denied his Master when he strove to enforce the Mosaic law on the followers of Christ; again he yielded, conscience-smitten, to the intercession of James and the fierce denunciation of St. Paul. At the sacred supper it was not Peter that leaned on the bosom of the Lord, and only his age and his rude eloquence gave him any precedence among the disciples. Often the first to act or speak, his advice was not always followed. To James the Just, to John and Peter, the Lord, after his resurrection, communicated a divine knowledge; and Peter seems to have paid a willing deference to the family of his Master.

His true greatness, his inspired eminence above mankind, lay in the humility with which he subdued his own impetuous nature, in the lessons of gentleness and purity which he so freely inculcates upon his disciples. To him the worship paid to a modern pope must have seemed a shocking idolatry. "I am but a man," he cried to the Roman convert who would have adored him. He could scarcely have presided at an auto da fe, for his language is ever merciful and forbearing. For himself he disclaimed all superiority, and would be only an elder among elders. Instead of the vicar of Christ, the Lord of kings, and keeper of the sword of persecution, he would have all men humble themselves to one another. "Love as brethren," he cried; "be pitiful, be courteous, not rendering evil for evil." "God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble." To such a nature the vain strife of contending bishops, the pretensions of priests to spiritual and temporal despotism, the unhallowed splendors of the medieval church, the horrors of the Inquisition and the massacres of the religious wars, the pride of a Hildebrand, the cruel rage of an Innocent III., must have seemed the orgies of evil spirits clad in a sacred robe.—Harper's Magazine for May.

For the World's Crisis.

BRO. GRANT:—The following I clipped from the Advent Herald. It is simply one man's opinion endorsed by a correspondent of the Herald, and not "what the people think." A READER OF BOTH PAPERS.

WHAT SENSIBLE PEOPLE THINK.

Bro. Orrock:—The following item appears in the "Pastor and People, an evangelical newspaper conducted by an association of clergymen" in your city:

"The ADVENT HERALD is one of the best religious papers that comes to our table. The CRISIS is the simplest."

Correspondence.

From Bro. L. C. Mattox.

BRO. GRANT:—I have thought proper to send you a short communication for the Crisis, in order to let the brethren know that the truth is progressing in Georgia. Eld. P. A. Smith stopped with me last month on his way from Jacksonville, Fla., to Rochester, N. Y., and we labored together at Valdosta, Homerville, and Blackshear, and truth was gladly received by many. If we had the means to bear our traveling expenses, to say nothing of other necessaries of life, we would canvass the State, visiting all the cities, most of the villages, and preach through the country. If there are any of the friends of truth who have the means to spare, and wish to thus contribute to the spread of the gospel in its true light, with the assurance of its proper and economical use, here is a chance to do so. Brother Smith possesses qualifications peculiarly fitting him for new fields of labor, being a great doctrinal preacher, and otherwise peculiarly fitted for the Southern field. We would be pleased to have other brethren to preach for us, if they will come South and do so.

I see the writings of many able brethren, but can we get them? I speak more particularly of Bro. Smith, being acquainted with him and having heard him preach often. He of necessity comes South during cold weather for his health, and during his stay has done much for the furtherance of the gospel. I assure you many are thankful they ever heard him preach, having been brought to see the plan of salvation in its true light. I for one glory in the truth, and desire its spread as much as possible; and the more as we see the day approaching and so near, when we shall be called to stand in judgment before the Judge of the world. Yours in Christ,

L. C. MATTOX.

Homerville, Ga., July 6th, 1870.

BRO. H. KNOWLTON writes:—"The meeting that was held in the Haskell school-house, Liberty, Me., the 3d and 4th of July, was a glorious success. The Spirit of the Lord pervaded the meeting. Brethren N. F. Nason, Somes, Weeks, and Day, were present and rendered efficient aid, and the 'Fourth' resounded in praises to God. Seed was sown that we hope has fallen on good ground and will ripen for the kingdom."

Married.

CARTER—JOHNSON. In Thornton, N. H., July 10th, 1870, by Elder A. W. Sibley, Mr. RICHARD F. CARTER, of Bethlehem, N. H., and Miss ANNETTE JOHNSON, of Thornton.

LOWELL—McALLISTER. At Piermont, June 26th, 1870, by Elder Wm. H. Shaw, Mr. JOSIAH F. LOWELL, and Miss MARTHA G. MCALLISTER, both of Piermont, N. H.

Obituaries.

PIPER. Died, in Lake Village, N. H., June 25th, Sr. Annette Piper, wife of Bro. S. A. Piper, aged thirty-eight years.

Sister Piper submitted to the winning influences of Christ's gospel in early life, and lived a devoted, consistent christian until the day of her death. She confidently rejoiced in expectation of soon hearing the voice of Him who has power to awaken the dead from their dreamless slumbers, and bring the countless host of the redeemed to enjoy the full fruition of christian hope. She left her dear friends the comforting assurance that, by faithfulness to Christ, they will soon meet her again where sad partings will never be known.

J. COUCH.

CROSIER. Died, in Hebron, N. Y., July 7th, 1870, George H. Crosier, eldest son of Bro. and Sr. Crosier, aged thirty years, seven months, and twenty days.

George was well spoken of by all who knew him. Remarks were addressed to those who assembled on the day of his burial, by the writer.

C. PIKE.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

LONDON, July 13. The Government monopolizes the cables leading to the continent with dispatches on the Spanish question. Business is deranged and news delayed.

PARIS, July 13. The Constitutionel, a Ministerial organ, to-day says: "The Government has testimony that the candidature of Hohenzollern is withdrawn, and that the peace of Europe will not be disturbed. Hohenzollern will not reign in Spain. We demand nothing more, and rejoice at the pacific solution of the question."

MADRID, July 13. Minister Sagosta had a protracted conference yesterday with the Ministers of France, England and the United States.

Warlike preparations have commenced here. Orders have been signed calling out the first military reserves.

VIENNA, July 13. The Vienna papers denounce Prussian arrogance and invoke the mediation of England to prevent war. The Tages Presse openly takes sides with France.

BRUSSELS, July 13. Warlike preparations continue in France, notwithstanding the withdrawal of Leopold, and there is a universal fear of war.

DUBLIN, July 13. The Orangemen had a procession yesterday, as a protest against the party procession act. They distributed 100,000 copies of inflammatory speeches, denouncing the British Government.

ROME, July 14. The Ecumenical Council passed the dogma of infallibility by a vote of 450 to 88.

BRUSSELS, July 14. Napoleon is dissatisfied with the mere withdrawal of Hohenzollern, and persists in his demand that Prussia must formally disavow the candidature. The King of Prussia firmly refuses, alleging that to accede to this demand would only produce more extravagant demands from France.

PARIS, July 15. A declaration of war has been announced in the Corps Legislatif.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 15. There is a strong feeling on the part of the Russian government against France. The Czar's government believes Napoleon bent on making aggressive war in Europe to gain an overmastering position, and force the restoration of the Bourbons in Spain.

LONDON, July 15. It is reported that the European powers will unite in a protest against the implacability of Prussia.

PARIS, July 15. An extra edition of the Constitutionel, just issued this noon, announces that in consequence of the insult offered to Benedetti, France accepts the war which Prussia offers.

BERLIN, July 12. A semi-official announcement was made on the Berlin Bourse this afternoon that Prince Leopold will be allowed to accept the crown on the condition that Spain shall immediately declare war jointly with Germany against France.

PARIS, July 12. The Emperor Napoleon arrived at the Tuilleries to-day and presided over a Council of Ministers. Important resolutions it is expected will be communicated to the Chambers this afternoon. Great anxiety is manifested to ascertain their character.

The head quarters of the French army is at Tangiers. The Emperor assumes chief command, with Marshals Bazaire and McMahon as his subordinates. The reserves, called the "Army of Paris," are ready to start at a signal.

BERLIN, July 15. The Bundezrath of the North German Confederation meet here to-day. The Prussian Diet is already in session.

The chiefs of all parties assure the King of their unqualified approval of his dignified and energetic attitude. A resolution was adopted according unlimited credit for the national defence.

PARIS, July 15. The excitement in the city is very great to-day. No opposition to war is manifested by any class of citizens.

LONDON, July 16. The extra-official expression of the Ministers leads to the belief that England peremptorily forbids the occupation of Belgium by France.

The neutrality of England will be difficult, perhaps impossible and dishonorable, should Holland and Belgium become involved in the war.

The Times intimates that the recovery of Alsace and Loraine, containing the modern provinces of Moselle and Lower Rhine, are the real objects of war on the part of Prussia, and in that she has the sympathies of mankind. English intervention is probable in the case of Prussia's losing strength.

CAUSES OF THE FRENCH DECLARATION OF WAR.

The French declaration of war is based on the following causes: First, the insult offered at Ems to Count Benedetti, the French Minister and its approval by the Prussian Government; second, the refusal of the King of Prussia to compel the withdrawal of Prince Leopold's name as a candidate for the Spanish throne; and third, the fact that the King persisted in giving the Prince liberty to accept the crown. The declaration continues: "The extraordinary constitutional changes in Prussia awaken the slumbering recollections of 1814. Let us cross the Rhine and avenge the insults of Prussia. The victors of Jena survive!"

PARIS, July 18—4 P. M.—News direct from the seat of war up to one o'clock this afternoon announces that there had been no bloodshed yet. The Prefect of Police has issued a proclamation requesting the citizens of Paris to make no more war demonstrations.

PARIS, July 18. The Prussian guns at Kehl are levelled at the French custom house, while the French guns are similarly threatening the Prussian customs. All the troops from Chalons Camp are between Metz and Thionville. Marshals Bazaine and Canrobert have left Paris for the front.

The French men-of-war watched the departure of the Prussian iron-clads from England. The iron-clad fleet is chasing the Prussian squadron toward the Baltic. The gunboats will co-operate with the army in the action on the Rhine.

The Gaulois newspaper says the English government has instructed Lord Lyons to communicate with the government on the neutrality of Holland, which England wishes stipulated. France will willingly guaranty this. The Gaulois adds that Sweden is ready to join Denmark and France if the fleet operates in the North and Baltic seas.

ZURICH, July 18. Switzerland will maintain armed neutrality. The Chambers have voted plenary powers to the State Council to raise money and troops.

BERLIN, July 17. The advance guard of the Prussian army is in France, occupying a village near Longry—the Iron gate of France—a fortified town in the department of Moselle on the Belgium frontier, 22 miles N. N. W. of Metz. Its Citadel stands on a steep rock. Longry was taken by the Prussians in 1792, and again by the Allies in 1815. An encounter between the Prussian and French troops is momentarily expected.

COPENHAGEN. The Danish Government announces its neutrality during the pending hostilities between France and Prussia.

FLORENCE. A demonstration against the French policy has taken place in this city. The French Government has demanded of Italy its immediate statement of the policy to be pursued by that Government during the war with Prussia.

The French Army of Invasion is reported to be 280,000 men.

Despatches from South Germany show that the feeling is unanimously in favor of Prussia.

The army of Saxony is being mobilized.

The bridge of boats at Kehl, on the Rhine, near the mouth of the Kinzig, connecting with Strasbourg, has been blown up.

THE BIBLE.—REVISION OF THE "AUTHORIZED" VERSION—COMMUNION OF THE COMPANY OF REVISERS.—It may be interesting to recall a scene which was briefly noticed in the columns of the Times as having occurred during the past week, and which gives a pleasing augury for a better feeling between the contending factions of Church and State. We refer to the participation in the Holy Communion by the company of the revisers of the authorized version of the New Testament, which occurred in Henry VII.'s Chapel in Westminster Abbey, preparatory to their entrance on their important work. A notice had been issued to each of the body, to the effect that the Sacrament would be administered there, on the day of their first meeting, to such of the body as should feel disposed to attend. Some few were prevented from appearing, but at the hour named as many as twenty presented themselves, and were placed in the ancient stalls of the chapel. No one else assisted. The Dean read the service from the communion table at the head of Henry VII's tomb. It so happened that this table thus received its first use. It had within a few days past replaced a temporary table, having, as the inscription round it records, been erected in the place of the ancient altar which once indicated the spot where Edward VI was buried, probably to meet the wishes of his sister Mary, and had been destroyed by the Puritans in the civil war. On the marble slab which covers its top is placed the fragment of the beautifully carved frieze of the lost altar, found unexpectedly, last year, in Edward VI.'s grave, together with other fragments of ruined altars which happened to be at hand for a like purpose. In front of this table, thus itself a monument of the extinct strifes of former days, and round the grave of the youthful Protestant King, in whose reign the English Bible first received its acknowledged place in the coronation of the Sovereign, as well as its free and general circulation throughout the people, knelt together the band of scholars and divines, consisting of representatives of almost every form of Christian belief in England. There were Bishops of the Established Church, two of them by their venerable years connected with the past generation; there were the representatives of our historic cathedrals and collegiate churches, of our learned universities, of our laborious parochial charges, and of our chief ecclesiastical convocation; and with these, intermingled without distinction, were ministers of the Established and of the Free Church of Scotland, and of almost every Nonconformist Church in England—Independent, Baptist, Wesleyan, Unitarian. It is not to be supposed that each one of those present entered with equal agreement into every part of the service; but it is surely not without a hopeful significance that neither on the side of the Church nor of Nonconformity was there any "religious difficulty" raised as to a joint participation on such an occasion in the most venerable and sacred ordinance of the Christian religion. The chapel of Henry VIII. has witnessed many famous sights, more august and more stirring—the funerals of kings and princes, of nobles, generals and statesmen; debates of the Westminster Assembly and of the convocations of the English Church; the installation of the Knights of the Bath, whose banners wave from the roof, and whose swords were deposited beneath the altar raised on that spot. But it may be doubted whether it has ever been the scene of an event so fraught, if rightly considered, with possibilities of kindly intercourse between jarring factions, and pacific solution of warning problems, as that which happened, silent and unobserved, on the 22nd of June.—London Times, June 27th.

☞ Some payments in the civil list of France will give an idea of the people's burdens. The Minister of Fine Arts is paid $20,000 per year. His assistant $10,000. For the expense of removing his establishment from one part of the city to another recently his bill was $15,000. The luxury displayed in the fitting up of all the departments of the Chief Minister of the French Government is unequalled in any country in the world. This same Minister of Fine Arts receives his hotel also free, at a rental of $18,000 per year. All his appointments make up the magnificent sum of $80,000, more than three times the salary of the President of the United States. The official journal of the Empire receives $40,000, which is divided among its editors and publishers.

HOPE is the best medicine, and fortunately it is in the power of every doctor to dispense it.

DOMESTIC.

FORT FETTERMAN, July 14. Red Cloud and sixty lodges of Sioux came here yesterday and left to-day with the determination of inducing all Indians in our country to make peace. He goes from here direct to the Cheyennes and Arapahoes.

NEW YORK, July 17. A special to the Herald says: The French army for war with Prussia are concentrating at Metz on the Moselle.

The Emperor Napoleon leaves Paris to-day for the army. His Majesty intends to cross the Rhine frontier immediately.

Marshals McMahon, Canrobert and Bazain are in command of the Imperial French forces. The French gunboat flotilla on the Rhine will be under the command of Admiral Genonilly of the Imperial Navy, and with the French Baltic fleet will blockade the German ports. The French gunboats are already in Prussian rivers.

The army and navy of France will attack the German forces simultaneously. The French fleet is watching the Prussian fleet lying in the British Channel waiting orders. Sweden will remain neutral. Denmark, which holds the key of the Baltic, offers to join France. Austria will remain neutral so long as Russia observes neutrality. Italy is friendly to France. King Victor Emanuel has written a letter to Emperor Napoleon expressing his sympathy and friendship. Spain is also friendly to France. Marshal Prim has written to the Emperor to this effect. England is neutral. Rome, the key of the Mediterranean, is really under French control. The French troops in Paris and the army at all points are singing the Marseillaise, and there prevails a universal national enthusiasm for the empire and the war struggle.

NEW YORK, July 18th. Owing to the Franco-Prussian war, much activity has been infused into the Fenian circles of this city. General Dennis F. Burke issued a call to-day for a special meeting of the military organization of the brotherhood.

BOSTON, July 19th. Despatches received here at three o'clock this morning announce that Prussia has receved the formal declaration of war from France. In the English House of Commons a despatch was read from Lord Lyons saying that the declaration had been sent, and the Premier announced that neutrality would be proclaimed. The Prussian forces occupy positions in Rhenish Bavaria, and the advance guard is at Longry, on the Belgian frontier. The neutrality of Sweden, Norway and Switzerland has been proclaimed, and England expresses great anxiety for that of Holland, and has made a formal offer of mediation to France. The war subscriptions in Paris are increasing, and the citizens have been ordered to abstain from any demonstrations, although in favor of the Emperor. Le Liberte newspaper says that Prussia does not wish to begin war, and hence its ambassador was not ordered to ask for his passports. This delay cannot last, however; the Chamber expects to receive the declaration of war to-day, and the Minister of Finance has asked the Corps Legislatif for 440,000,000 francs for the war budget. The Germans throughout the West and in New York and Baltimore are enthusiastic in their support of Prussia. Some may be compelled to return to serve their time in the army.

Passing Events.

☞ The executioner of Paris has drawn up a memorial, recommending to the Emperor Napoleon the Third that criminals in France, sentenced to death, be henceforth executed by having their skulls crushed with an iron club.

☞ The Russian Government, according to recent report of the Minister of War, possesses 566,232 needle guns. The manufacture of metallic cartridges, it is also stated, has reached 300,000 a day, with 15,000,000 already made.

☞ A statue of Luther is about to be erected at Eisleben, Upper Saxony, his native town. A committee has just been formed to raise this monument to the memory of the great reformer.

☞ Shocks of earthquake are reported to have been perceptibly felt in New York City and Brooklyn between six and 7 o'clock on the morning of the 27th ult.

☞ A remarkable herb has been lately discovered in New Jersey. It is called the Cancer Plant, and it is claimed for it that it is the most powerful purifier of the human blood known to botany.

☞ Sunday and Saturday, the two favorite days for marriage in England, are blank days for marriage in Scotland. Friday is the day on which the English do not marry, but in Scotland it is one of the favorite days for marriage.

☞ The Prussian Government has demanded that Count Benedetti be recalled by the French.

☞ The Mormons of Utah have turned their attention to the production of gloves that rival those of Paris in delicacy and workmanship. The gloves are made from genuine kid raised in the vicinity of Salt Lake.

☞ The Belgian Government is preparing for warlike contingencies. All leaves of absence have been recalled, and troops have been ordered to the frontier, with instructions to destroy the railways and telegraphs in case of an invasion by a foreign army.

☞ Austria continues to profess neutrality in the quarrel between Prussia and France, but will abandon it if a third power should intervene.

☞ It is estimated that America, when her productive power is fully developed, will be able to feed four times as many persons as there are now on the face of the earth.

☞ This is to be a wonderful year in Holland, for this is the year of the blue tulip. A prediction exists that in 1870 some successful horticulturist will raise a blue tulip, and a prize of many thousans francs awaits the producer of the rare flower. Already there are some six hundred kinds of tulips in Holland.

☞ The small pox is nearly as bad in London as in Paris.

☞ Less tea is used in the United States than in England, but more than in France. We have imported already this year about 31,000,000 pounds. England, during the same time has imported twice as much, but France only about 1,000,000.

Religious Items.

— Dr. Ellicot offers an estimate of the alterations which may be found necessary in the text of the English Bible, by which it appears that in the whole 6,944 verses in the New Testament the revised passages will not exceed one for every five verses.

— Prof. Deering of Baltimore, a convert to the Greek Church, has been enthusiastically received in Russia, and after being ordained will return as the propagator of that faith in this country.

— A worthy missionary in India says that his congregation had not yet experienced any trouble from the pew-system, as they were accustomed to sit on the ground.

— Tidings are sent from Madagascar, saying that, in addition to the burning of the heathen idols, churches by hundreds have been erected, and religious service established. In many places where the people are ignorant, they meet on the Sabbath and, after sitting for a season in silence, they depart without any worship. They are generally anxious to receive instruction.

— It is a remarkable fact that, while the Japanese government is persecuting Christians (Catholics), Protestant missionaries are invited to positions of influence in connection with educational institutions, and left almost entirely untrammelled as to what they shall teach. One missionary was invited to take charge of a class of young officers, even before he had gone ashore from the vessel which conveyed him to the country. There is reason to believe that the recent persecution is not confined to Roman Catholics. A Protestant in Nagaski, in the employ of a British subject, has been banished from the country on account of his Christian profession, though the British Consul interfered in his behalf. Thousands of Christian books are in circulation in the native families. Many have been carried to distant places, and it is highly probable that some of the persecuted ones may be real Christians, made such by God's blessing on these messages of salvation.

— About thirty Baptist clergymen of New England have already signed a declaration of faith which allows each church to fix its own terms of communion.

— The Chicago Young Men's Christian Association has found employment for over 5,000 men.

— At the meeting of the Ohio Congregational Conference several women were refused admission as delegates by a vote of 88 to 65.

— In Vienna, 680 persons, of both sexes, have abjured Christianity and embraced Judaism, within less than two years.

— The laws of Indiana, backed up by a decision of the Supreme Court, place all who participate in the species of gambling usually carried on at church and charity fairs, on the same footing as lottery gamblers. They are all liable to heavy penalties—fines and imprisonment.

— The first Methodist Episcopal Church in Salt Lake City was opened on the 22d of May last, by Rev. G. M. Pierce.

— An English church paper, the Rock, states that the question of a revision of the Scriptures will be brought before the coming Protestant council by an eminent clergyman.

EXPERIENCE is a flannel waistcoat that we do not think of putting on until after we have caught cold.

Notices.

Tremont Campmeeting.

The Tremont Campmeeting will commence Monday, August 8th, and continue over the following Sunday. Ample arrangements will be made to accommodate all with board and lodging who cannot provide themselves with tents. All who have tents are requested to bring them.

Now, brethren and sisters, come to this gospel feast, for we anticipate the blessing of the Lord will be with us in this consecrated ground as in days past.

Bro. Geo. T. Adams will probably secure a reduction of fare on the Old Colony and Cape Cod railroads, for those who come through Boston.

For the Committee, HENRY V. DAVIS.

Notice.

The Lord willing, there will be a campmeeting at Pittsfield, Maine, in Hawthorn's Grove, about half a mile from the depot, on the road leading from Pittsfield to Newport, commencing Aug. 22nd, to continue over Aug. 28th. We propose to know no sect or party, but such as are new lights in heart, therefore to provoke one another only to love and good works, remembering the new commandment and the building of each other up in Christ alone. We heartily invite the members of the household of faith, and all who would enjoy such a convocation, to come in the fulness of the gospel of peace, laying aside all contentions as unprofitable, contending only to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, and be filled with all the fulness of God. As nearly as possible, we want to enjoy an old-fashioned meeting, and greeting with the saints scattered here and there, in their patient waiting for the last great gathering. Let special prayer be offered that the church may be strengthened with might through the Spirit, deserters be arrested, and soldiers enlisted in the army of the Lord.

Arrangements will be made for the reduction of fare on the railroads. As far as practicable, we wish all to bring tents and provisions for themselves; those who cannot, need not stay away on that account; but all can bring bedding, perhaps. We intend to arrange that all shall be made welcome and comfortable, as far as lies in our power. To such as prefer to board, provision will be made at the village on reasonable terms, as we expect no boarding tent on the ground. For the church of God,

A. H. WALKER.
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a grove meeting held near Martin Carr's, less than one half mile from Lunenburg, Vt., commencing Aug. 9th, at half past one o'clock P. M., and hold over the following Sabbath. It is expected that Eld. W. H. Shaw, and others, will be present to preach the word. Preachers, and all, are invited to come and labor for the salvation of sinners. Come in the fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ. This is a new field, where but few are looking for the return of this "same Jesus."

Grove Meeting.

The Lord willing, there will be a grove meeting on the land of Heber Kimball, in Harrison, Me., commencing Aug. 5th, at five o'clock P. M., to continue over the following Lord's day. Jesse Gay, O. W. Kimball, and the writer, are expected to preach the word. Per order,

J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Read! Read!!

Send your pledges and monies at once to Bro. Ira Aldrich, Whitefield, N. H., for the Tent. Come, brethren in Grafton and Coos Counties, N. H., let the amount be raised immediately, for we want the tent in the field doing its work.

A. W. SIBLEY.

Tent Meeting.

If the Lord will, the New Hampshire Mission Tent will be pitched at New Castle, N. H., on land owned by Wm. Neal, July 30th, and remain over two Sundays. J. C. SHOREY.

Notice.

Providence permitting, the campmeeting at Alton Bay, N. H., will commence Sunday, Sept. 4th, and hold over the Lord's day, Sept. 11th.

For the committee, J. G. SMITH.

Grove Meeting.

There will be a grove meeting in the Root settlement, Crawford Co., Pa., near Bro. J. T. Ongley's saw-mill, two and a half miles north-east of Little Cooley, and two and a half miles west of Lincolnville, to commence Saturday, August 6th, at two o'clock, and continue as long as duty may demand. In case of wet weather, the mill will be fitted up for the occasion. Come, brethren and sisters in the Lord, let us have a good meeting. The brethren here voted that there be a general invitation given,—houses, barns and hearts open and free. The King is coming soon. Let us be ready, and try to get others ready to meet him.

Brn. C. F. Sweet, C. Buzzell, and others, will be in attendance to preach the word. The meeting is ten miles south of Union Mills, on the A. & G. W. R. R., and P. & E. R. R., and seven miles northwest of Centreville, on the Oil Creek R. R. A team will be sent to Union Mills on Saturday, and will be there from twelve to two P. M. Inquire for team for the grove meeting. Committee—John Root, A. S. Geer, Geo. Porter, Little Cooley, Pa. JOHN T. ONGLEY, Secretary, Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.

Notice.

The next regular quarterly conference for Norwalk, O., will be holden on Saturday and Sunday, July 23d and 24th. Come to the feast. Brethren and sisters, we are evidently nearing the kingdom.

The next regular conference for Fairfield, Ohio, will be held Sept. 3d and 4th, and will probably be a grove meeting. Let all be duly prepared.

G. W. STETSON, Pastor.

Notice.

There will be a grove meeting at Hemlock Lake, N. Y. (a little south of the village), July 31st, to commence in social form at 9 A. M., and preaching at 10½ o'clock. Elder C. F. Sweet is expected. All others, both elders and people, are cordially invited to attend. Let all interested be there at the commencement of the social exercises.

WM. SEIDMORE.
GEORGE STODDARD.
L. J. OWEN.

To Brethren in Vermont.

I want the committee, that was appointed last fall to arrange for a meeting the coming autumn in Vermont, to meet me at West Bethel Depot House, August 1st, to see what can be done. We want Bro. Stetson also to be there. Do not fail to be there, brethren, for it is a long way for me to go, being off the line of the railroad.

The brethren shall know soon where the meeting is to be. We want a good meeting. We expect it. More soon. J. A. CLEAVELAND.

Grove Meeting.

Providence permitting, a grove meeting will be held in West Lebanon, Maine, where Bro. A. P. Watson may appoint, commencing Sunday, Aug. 7th, at 10.30 A. M., and holding over Sunday, Aug. 14th. A cordial invitation is given to all those looking for Jesus, residing in the neighboring towns, to meet with us for the worship of God. This is a new field. Let us have a rally of earnest brothers and sisters. E. S. MOULTON.

Maine Mission Tent.

The "Maine Mission Tent," under the charge of Bro. and Sr. Taylor, will probably be in the field for service in a few days. All desiring tent meetings in any locality in this State are requested to write as soon as possible to either of the undersigned. W. H. MITCHELL, Kennebunkport.
R. R. YORK, Portland.

Notice.

Friends writing either of the Clinton Arch Missionaries through July, will please direct to the care of G. W. Smith, No. 273 West 22d St., New York City. M. E. DOW.

Conn. State Tent.

Parties desiring the tent pitched in their vicinity, will please correspond with the Chairman of the Committee, H. H. DICKINSON, Hartford, Ct.

To the King's Servants.

Some of the brethren and sisters in Warner Village, N. H., and vicinity, have decided to have preaching one half of the time at Union Hall, the second and third Sabbaths of July, and after that the first two Sabbaths of each month.

Correspond with B. S. COLBY, Warner Village, N. H.

In behalf of the congregation worshiping at Warner Village. ALLEN DAMON.

Notice.

As the time has come for us to start the Maine Mission Tent, we shall need funds to carry forward the work; and we wish those who have subscribed would forward the amount to the Treasurer, C. GOODRICH, No. 7 Salem Street, Boston, as soon as convenient.

S. W. THURBER, Pres. of Conf.

Special Notice.

To all interested in having a State Conference organized in Ohio: Beloved brethren in Christ,—Believing that the end of all things is at hand, and what we do must be done quickly, and that the Lord has raised us up as a people to herald the coming kingdom, and to lift our warning voice, and cry aloud, and spare not, and in earnest tones bid the slumbering myriads of earth's sons and daughters to prepare for solemn judgment; and believing we can better accomplish the great work allotted us to do, we have, after advising with brethren, thought best to appeal to every Advent church in the State, and where there is no church, to individuals, who are interested in forming such a conference, to write at once to Eld. E. McCullock, Pastor of the Advent Church in Nevada, Ohio; and, if sufficient interest is manifest, we shall issue a call for a conference, to be held immediately after the campmeetings are over. Come, brethren, let us hear from you at once relative to this matter, and may heavenly wisdom guide your hearts aright. For the Brethren,

E. MCCULLOCK.

Notice.

The Advent brethren in Buffalo, N. Y., have hired a hall and established a prayer and conference meeting every Sabbath, at two o'clock P. M. The hall is on Maine Street, in the Arcade building, second floor, No. 9, and is large enough for preaching. Ministers passing this way who can spend a Sabbath with us, we will give notice of by our daily papers, if informed by Friday. They can expect but a small compensation at present, as most are poor, and we are just making an effort to gather the scattered flock. Some fifty in the city hold our views, and we hope, by a permanent meeting, some preaching, and God's blessing, we shall be able to form a stable church. Preachers can call on Wm. Shaw, 528 Eagle Street, or J. Blain, 79 North Division Street, H. Tanner, 255 Pearl street, and a home will be provided. We can have no meeting on week days at present, but hope to by and by.

For the brethren, J. BLAIN.

The Iowa Mission Tent.

Those who desire tent, camp, grove, or basket-meetings, will do well to correspond with me soon, so that I may make arrangements for summer work. In these meetings will be presented the gospel of Jesus Christ, with a view to do the people good. No party, sect, or hobby to build up, but to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Every lover of Jesus shall be free to work with us. All lovers of this pure christianity are requested to write soon. Direct to Peter S. W. Deyo, Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meeting on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's. O. G. TRUNDY.

Notice.

The Advent Christian Church in Nashua, N. H., have hired a hall in Beasom's Block, corner of Maine and Factory Streets, up two flights of stairs, well fitted up, where we shall hold meetings three times on the Sabbath, and Thursday and Saturday evenings. For the brethren,

NATHANIEL EATON.

Notice.

Will our brethren, who wish the campmeeting committee to build their tents at Alton Bay, send to me at once (at Farmington, N. H.), the plan, or how they wish them built? J. G. SMITH.

Notice.

The Advent brethren have rented the Temperance Hall on Maine St., in Brunswick, Me., and will hold meetings on Sunday regularly. Seats free to all who are disposed to meet with us. Ministering brethren are invited to come over and help us. Per order, C. GOUD.

Notice.

Putney's Hall, Sutton Mills, N. H. Meetings every Sabbath for the present. This is a new movement on the part of the Advent people of Sutton, and we think it is according to the will of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us.

A. CRESSEY,
FRANK NELSON, } Committee.
SAM'L ROWELL,

Notice.

We gave $78 for our meeting-house in Vienna, all in good repair outside. We need more to finish it inside. Some have pledged to help us to the amount of $30. We want $70 more. If not obtained, shall be obliged to sell it.

H. B. SEVEY.

Notice.

All persons, rich or poor, wishing to have the Rhode Island Mission Tent pitched in any locality where there is an opportunity to get the great truths of the plan of salvation before the people, will address me by letter, at South Killingly, Ct.

E. BELLOWS.

German Tracts.

Bro. Reimer has a good supply. Send your orders to L. REIMER, 1006 Chesnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Notice.

I would say that persons desiring practical treatment with the Resuscitator for diseases, may address me at 43 Revere Street, Boston.

W. C. STONE.

Inquiry.

Brethren and sisters of Sutton, Bradford, and Warner: Can we join together and have a tent meeting? We in Bradford think we can.

Notice.

As the piece of music entitled "Sweet by-and by" cannot be obtained in sheet form, I will send the book containing words and music, post-paid, for 35 cents. "The Pilgrim's Harp," 60 cts., post-paid. GEORGE E. LEE, Brimfield, Mass.

☞ A short poem, "The Blissful Vision," may be had for 30 cts. per dozen, of the author, J. Albert Libby, West Poland, Me.

☞ To Preaching Brethren.

Those wishing to preach in	Correspond with
Westfield, Mass.	E. A. Eggleston.
Savoy, Mass	Daniel Miller, or A. E. Bliss.
Wakefield, Mass.	G. R. Tyzzer.
Worcester, Mass.	H. M. Blackmer, Willard M. Hall, or Willard G. Ruggles.
Portsmouth, N. H.	T. E. Wood, Box 1445.
Hampton, N. H.	Joseph A. Philbrook.
Manchester, N. H.	A. J. Mahew, S. R. Davidson, or O. Proctor.
Loudon Ridge, N. H.	Daniel L. Moore, Wm. Batchelder, Edward Mudget. Fourth Sabbath engaged.
Seabrook, N. H.	R. S. Johnson, of Hampton, N. H., or Chs. Barton, of Seabrook.
Chichester, N. H.	C. R. Knowles.
Goshen, N. H.	O. F. Cain.
Rye, N. H.	Moses C. Philbrick or Samuel Smart.
Pittsfield, N. H. (Bethel)	C. S. Emerson.
Portland, Me.	R. R. York, S. K. Dyer D. F. Scamman.
Lewiston, Me.	Albert Burgess.
South Berwick, (Great Works), Me.	Harrison Dow.
Kennebunk Depot, Me.	Rufus Duran.
Vernon, Vt.	J. C. Allen.
Bristol, Ct.	B. Hitchcock, Forestville, Ct.
West Glocester, R. I.	Geo. A. Hawkins, Putnam, Ct.
New Haven, Ct.	W. F. Carpenter, 73 State St.
Pleasant Valley, Ct.	Reuel O. White, New Hartford, Ct.
Meriden, Ct.	E. J. Whitehead, West Meriden, Conn., Box 4.
New Britain, Conn.	A. Powell.
Wrightville, Ct.	D. A. Grant, Torrington, Ct.
Newfield, Ct.	Wm. Ripley, Pleasant Valley, Ct.
New Milford, Ct.	J. Coggswell.
Morris, Ct.	Joseph Curtis.
Rochester, N. Y.	J. R. Cooper, 4 Hickory St.
Philadelphia, Pa.	Frank E. Davis, 1715 Markham Street, or I. N. Wilfong, 135 N. 22d St.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED.
WHAT IS MAN?
THE SOUL—WHAT IS IT?
THE SPIRIT—WHAT IS IT?
THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.

All the above works in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

"ADVENTISM."

We have a supply of this valuable work.
Price in cloth..........75 cts., postage 12 cts.
Flexible covers..........60 cts., postage 12 cts.
Paper covers..........50 cts., postage 6 cts.
In paper covers by the dozen, by express, $4.75.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL.
M. Batchelor..........Sunday, July 24th
J. Hemenway..........Sunday, July 31st
C. H. Leverton..........Sunday, Aug. 7th

BOSTON, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.
Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.
N. M. Davis..........Sunday, July 24th

Meetings in South Boston on Wednesday evenings, at C. W. Huntress,' 3 Lowland street. On Friday evenings at J. N. Berry's, 227 E. street.

EAST BOSTON.
Meetings are held at Chase's Block, up two flights, at 154 Meridian Street, on Sundays, at the usual hours, also Monday and Thursday evenings.
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, July 24th

CHELSEA, MASS., (LIBRARY HALL.)
J. Hemenway..........Sunday, July 24th
J. Pinkham..........Sunday, July 31st
J. Couch..........Sunday, Aug. 7th

CHARLESTOWN.
Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.
T. M. Preble..........Sunday, July 24th
J. G. Smith..........Sunday, July 31st

North Carver..........Sunday, July 31st
C. GOODRICH.

Lowell, Mass..........Sunday, July 24th
Lynn, Mass..........Sunday, July 31st
Tremont Campmeeting..........Aug. 14th
Lawrence, Mass..........Sunday, Aug. 21st
Great Falls, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 28th
J. COUCH.

Stoneham, Mass..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
J S WHITE.

Holden, Mass..........Sabbath, July 31st
T. M. PREBLE.

Lynn, Mass..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
M. BATCHELOR.

Hurd's Corner, Needham, near Upper Falls, Sunday, July 24th.
Lawrence, Mass..........Sunday, July 31st
B. WOODSIDE.

Lawrence, Mass..........Sunday, July 24th
A. P. MOORE.

Worcester, Mass..........Sundays, July 24th and 31st
WM. SHELDON.

Fairhaven, Mass..........Sundays, Aug. 14th and 21st
New Bedford, Mass..........evenings, Aug. 24th and 25th
C. H. LEVERTON.

Lynn, Mass..........Friday evening, July 22d
Salem, Mass..........Sunday, July 24th
Lawrence..........Tuesday evening, July 26th
WM. N. PILE.

Plainville, Ct..........Sunday, July 24th
New Britain, Ct..........Tuesday evening, July 19th
Bristol, Ct..........Wednesday evening, July 20th
New Preston, Ct..........evenings, July 21st and 22d
Where Bro. Morgan may arrange..........Sabbath, July 24th
A. ROSS.

Lawrence, Mass..........Sundays, Aug. 7th and 14th
Lowell, Mass..........Sunday, Aug. 21st
A. A. PHELPS.

Kennebunkport..........July 20th, and over Sunday and as much longer as the Lord may direct.
B. P. MANNING.

East Stoneham, Me..........Sabbath, July 31st
West Stoneham..........Sabbath, Aug. 7th
Brownfield, Me..........Sabbath, Aug. 28th
GEO. W. HOWARD.

Montgomery..........Sunday, July 31st
Huntington..........evenings, July 17th and 31st
Westfield Farms..........Sunday, July 24th
E. OWEN.

Barnstead, N. H (Lock's Corner)..........Sunday, July 24th
Great Falls, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. G. SMITH.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)..........Sunday, July 31st
West Deerfield, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
L. E. SAULFAUGH.

Collinsville, Ct..........Sunday, July 24th
Lovely Street, Ct..........Sunday, July 31st
A. ELLIOT.

Bristol, R. I..........Sabbath, July 24th
J. T. DIXON.

Hartland (Town Hall)..........Sunday, July 24th
Warehousepoint, Ct. (Chapel)..........Sunday, July 31st
S. WOODRUFF.

Burnham, Me..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
Swanville, Me..........Sunday, Aug. 14th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

West Ossipee, N. H..........Sunday, July 24th
Belmont, N. H. (Factory Village)..........Sunday, July 31st
Manchester, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
Stoneham, Mass..........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Woburn, Mass. (on the Common) at five o'clock P. M., or at such time as Bro. Marcy may arrange, Aug. 14th. L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Nottingham..........Sunday, July 24th
S. S. MOONEY.

Carthage, Me..........Sunday, July 24th
A. A. C. ABBOTT.

New Milford, Conn..........July 20th, and over the 24th
A. D. FLAGG.

Lake Village (North Church)..........Sunday, July 24th
T. E. LANG, JR.

Loudon Ridge, N. H..........Sundays, Aug. 14th and 15th
Will some one meet me at Lake Village Depot, at two P. M., Saturday, Aug. 13th? E. S. MOULTON.

Pittston, Me. (conference)..........July 23d and over Sunday
Cushing, Me..........Sunday, July 3d, and baptize
H. S. MITCHELL.

Melvin Village, N. H..........Sunday, July 31st
T. W. PIPER.

Roxbury, Ct. (at Sr. Teeple's)..........Sunday, July 24th
New Milford..........Sunday, July 31st
H. K. WALLING.

Lake Village, N. H. (North Church) Sun., July 24th
Manchester, N. H..........Sunday, July 31st
Dover, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
Great Falls, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 14th
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works), Sunday, Aug. 21st
Hampton, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 28th
A. SIMPSON.

Seabrook, N. H..........Sundays, July 24th and 31st
E. S. MOULTON.

East Orford, N. H. (Davis town school-house) Sunday, July 24th. Will Bro. Huckings meet me at Wentworth, July 21st, two o'clock P. M., at G. Deans?
Hinsdale, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
Will Bro. Streeter meet me at the Hinsdale depot Aug. 5th, first down train?
Northfield, Mass. (where Bro. Streeter may appoint) Sunday, Aug. 14th.
If any of these appointments conflict, write me immediately at West Rumney, N. H. E. COTTON.

Putnam, Ct..........Sunday, July 24th
Webster, Mass..........Sunday, July 31st
L. M. STODDARD.

Northwood Narrows, N. H..........Sunday, July 24th
West Ossipee, N. H..........Sunday, July 31st
Hampton, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
Rye, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 14th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall) Sabbath, July 24th
SIMEON ROBY.

Steuben Co., N. Y. (near Dea. T. C. Armstrong's) Aug. 6th, at 2 P. M., and the 7th at 9½ A. M.
Fremont (as friends may appoint) evenings, Aug. 8th and 9th.
Blooming Valley, Pa. (as Bro. Wm. Darrow may appoint) Aug. 11th and 14th.
Rootville, or Little Cooley..........Aug. 18th and 21st
Edenboro, Pa..........Aug. 27th and 28th
Sharp's Corners (Meth. church) evenings, Aug. 29th and 30th.
Cohocton (once in four weeks) Sept. 3d, at 2 P. M., and Sunday, the 4th.
Darien, N. Y. (quar. conf.)..........Sept. 9th, 10th and 11th
C. F. SWEET.

South Elliot, Me..........Sunday, July 31st
GEO. W. BROWN.

China, Me., Week's Mills..........Sunday, July 24th
Mud Mills, Augusta..........Sunday, July 31st
Pittston..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
Windsor (Preble school-house)..........Sunday, Aug. 14th
THOMAS RINES.

Lewiston, Me..........Sunday, July 31st
Bath, Me..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. T. JORDAN.

Cushing, Me..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
East Bowdoinham, Me. (Lancaster school-house) Sunday, Aug. 14th. L. D. TOTMAN.

West Fairlee, Vt..........Sabbaths, July 24th and 31st
Will friends from abroad come and help?
North Springfield, Vt..........Sabbath, Aug. 7th
Bridgewater, Vt..........Sabbath, Aug. 14th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Meredith, N. H., (Dolloff Hall)..........Sunday, July 24th
Meredith Neck, N. H..........Sunday, July 31st
Moultonborough Neck..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
N. GLIDDEN.

East Tilton (Freewill House)..........Sunday, July 24th
Weir's Bridge (school-house)..........Sunday, July 31st
JULIA BUSWELL.

East Otis, Mass..........Sunday, July 24th
Waterbury, Ct..........Sunday, July 31st
Morris, Ct..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Seamen's Bethel, North Square, Boston, Sundays, July 24th and 31st. H. L. HASTINGS.

Portland, Me..........Sabbaths, July 24th and 31st
Richmond, Me..........evenings, July 26th and 27th
Brunswick, Me..........evening, July 28th
Bath, Me..........evening, July 29th
Lewiston, Me..........evenings, Aug. 2d and 3d
Biddeford, Me..........evening, Aug. 4th
Kennebunkport, Me..........evening, Aug. 5th
Kennebunk Depot, Me..........Sabbath, Aug. 7th
South Berwick, Me., (Great Works)..........Sab., Aug. 14th
Seabrook, N. H..........Sabbath, Aug. 21st
C. H. SWEET.

Abington, Ct..........Sabbath, July 24th
E. BELLOWS.

Buckfield, Me. (Federal meeting-house)..........July 24th
Jay, Me. (Kennedy's Corner)..........Sab., July 31st
O. W. KIMBALL.

Worcester, Mass..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
GEO. A. STREETER.

Piermont, (Clay meeting-house)..........Sunday, July 31st
WM. H. SHAW.

Holderness, N. H. (True school-house) Sun., July 24th
Campton, N. H. (Bump school-house) Sun., July 31st
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Northville, Newport, N. H., Saturday evening, July 23d, and over the Sabbath, the 24th.
F. S. RANSOM.

Holden, Mass..........Sunday, July 24th
Z. FORD.

Vernon, Vt..........Sabbath, July 24th
Keene, N. H..........Sabbath, July 31st
Vernon, Vt..........Sabbath, Aug. 21st
H. MUNGER.

Freeport, Me. (Swamp school-house) Sunday, Aug. 7th
Meeting all day. S. F. MORSE.

New Preston, Ct..........Sunday July 24th
J. L. WOOD.

Webster, Mass..........Sunday, July 24th
S. P. BABCOCK.

Appleton, Me. (where Bro. G. Miller may appoint) Sabbath, Aug. 7th. J. SOMES.

Rye, N. H..........the first Sunday in each month
South Berwick, Me., (Great Works) the second Sunday in each month. JOSEPH W. WHITE.

West Kingston, N. H..........Sunday, July 24th
Lawrence, Mass..........evening, July 26th
Wakefield, Mass..........evening, July 27th
Cambridgeport, Mass..........evening, July 30th and over Sunday, July 31st.
Manchester, N. H..........Sunday, Aug. 14th
WM. C. STEWART.

Bristol, R. I..........Sunday, July 31st
A. DURFEE.

Barnstead, N. H., Oak Ground (Tuttle school-house) Sunday, July 24th.
Farmington, N. H..........Sunday, July 31st
Rochester (Chapel)..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
My appointments beyond Barnstead are withdrawn for the present. ABIGAIL M. TRIPP.

Cheshire Street, Conn..........Sunday, July 24th
☞ NO NAME.

Wallingford, Ct. (in the grove near Bro. Dudley's) Sunday, July 24th. O. D. WOODRUFF.

Casco Village, Me..........Sunday, July 24th
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

South Atkinson, Me..........Sunday, July 24th
E. Bradford, Me. (Lewis Jones' school-house) Sunday, July 31st.
Kenduskeag, Me..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
Surry, Me..........Sunday, Aug. 14th
E. V. B. EDGERLY.

East Shelby, N. Y., Sunday, July 31st, and once in two weeks thereafter until further notice.
West Barre, N. Y..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. H. WHITMORE.

Sumner, Me. (Bonney school-house)..........Sun., July 24th
Hartford, Me. (Stetson school-house) Sun., Aug. 7th
E. M. HAGGETT.

Wakefield, Mass..........Sunday, July 24th
Stoneham, Mass..evenings, July 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th
J. PINKHAM.

Gonic, N. H. (Chapel)..........Sunday, July 24th
ALMIRA A. MARSTON.

Scitico..........Sabbath, July 24th
Campville, Ct..........Sabbath, July 31st
G. L. WHITE.

Chicopee Falls, Mass..........Sunday, July 24th
WM. A. & M. L. DURAND.

Charlton, Mass. (Chapel)..........Sunday, July 24th
Will be at Charlton Depot at 1½ P. M.
CHAS. P. GREENMAN.

South Butler, N. Y..........Sunday, July 24th
Port Byron, N. Y..........evenings, July 27th and 28th
Fish-Creek Landing, N. Y., Sun., July 31st, at one P. M.
Glenmore, N. Y..........evening, Aug. 1st
C. H. WILLIAMS.

Woodstock Valley, Ct..........Sabbath, July 24th
Wilbraham, Mass..........Sabbath, July 31st
P. S. BUTLER.

Square Pond, Ct..........Sunday, July 24th
A. MORSE.

Bangor, Me..........Sunday, July 24th
THOMAS SMITH.

Wolcottville, Ct..........Sunday, July 24th
CHAS. C. BARKER.

East Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, July 24th
WM. BODGE.

Rootville, Break Bread.....first Sunday in the month
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
L. Boutell..........Sunday, July 24th
Wm. N. Pile..........Sunday, July 31st
and Sundays, Aug. 7th and 14th.
A. A. Phelps..........Sunday, Sept. 11th

CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS.
Sr. M. L. Durand..........Sunday, July 24th
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, July 31st
Sr. L. M. Stoddard..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
Sr. M. L. Durand..........Sunday, Aug. 14th

LOWELL, MASS.
J. Pinkham..........Sunday, Aug. 7th

CONCORD, N. H., (CENTRE STREET.)
A. Ross..........Sabbath, Aug. 7th
M. Batchelor..........Sunday, July 31st

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)
A. A. Phelps..........Sundays, July 24th and 31st
H. J. Parsons..........Sunday, Aug. 7th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
Allen Damman..........Sundays, July 24th and 31st
J. H. F. Varney..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
W. H. Mitchell..........Sunday, Aug. 14th
B. S. Emery..........Sunday, Aug. 21st

PITTSFIELD, N. H. (at the Bethel.)
A. A. Phelps..........evenings, Aug 2d, 3d, and 4th
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Aug. 7th

DOVER, N. H.
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, July 24th
J. W. White..........Sunday, July 31st

LOUDON RIDGE, N. H.
Joseph Harvey..........Sunday, July 24th
A. Kidder..........Sunday, July 31st

Geo. W. Burnham..........Sabbath, July 24th

HARTFORD, CT.
H. Pratt..........Sundays, July 24th and 31st
T. M. Preble..........Sabbaths, Aug. 14th and 21st

PLEASANT VALLEY, CT.
J. S. White..........Sunday, July 24th
H. H. Dickinson..........Sunday, July 10th
R. K. Stark..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
G. L. White..........Sunday, Aug. 21st

SCITICO, CT.
A. D. Flagg..........Sunday, July 24th
H. H. Dickinson..........Sunday, July 31st
E. L. Colton..........August 5th
R. Starks..........August 12th

WOLCOTTVILLE, CT.
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, Aug. 7th
G. L. Teeple..........Sunday, Aug. 28th

NEW BRITAIN, CT.
Wm. Stuart..........Sunday, July 24th
J. S. White..........Sunday, July 31st

BRISTOL, CT.
M. L. Durand..........Sabbath, July 31st
A. M. Higgins..........Sabbath, Aug. 14th

ROCHESTER, N. H.
There will be preaching in the chapel, near the brick school-house, in Rochester, N. H., on the first Lord's day in each month. Others can appoint so as not to conflict.

NEW YORK CITY.
The Advent Church formerly meeting at Grand and Allen Streets, have removed to 405 Grand Street, one door above Clinton. Preaching every Sunday for the present. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening, at the house of J. K. Bellows, 19 Orchard Street.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION, 14 LAURENS STREET, NEW YORK CITY.
Sunday morning, prayer and conference, six o'clock Sunday School, two o'clock P. M. Love feast, four o'clock P. M. Preaching, seven o'clock P. M.
Monday, (class meeting), seven o'clock P. M.
Wednesday, (preaching), seven o'clock P. M.
Friday, (prayer and conference), seven o'clock P. M.
Come one, come all. A. E. SMITH, Principal.

LIST OF ENGLISH BIBLES.

We have received, and keep on hand the following English Reference Bibles:

Minion, 8vo., marg. ref., large type, circuit binding, $4.50; postage 28 cts. Do. plain binding, $4.00; postage 28 cts.

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., circuit binding, $3.60; postage 20 cts. (Best size for preachers.)

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref. plain, $2.25; postage 20 cts. Do. ref. between verses, $2.25; postage 24 cts.

Pearl, 8 vo., marg. ref., circuit, $2.25; postage 20 cts. Do. plain, $1.75; postage 20 cts.

Business.

Letters Received.

T. M. H., J Pinkham, N Wheeler, S Ayres, J Gardner, F M Williams, C Pike, J B Cook, J A Cleaveland, J Whitman, A H Forrester, A Boynton, M U Harris, C M Pierce, C Colegrove, G W Ashdown, G W Stetson, J S White, T H Verge Jr., N J Lucas, J Couch, P Tatro, C Lovis, D Chaffee, J Lamb, J H Rhodes, L B Ricker, E S Moulton, J Vandam, J Wendell, D N Smith, H V Davis.

Cash received for Books and Tracts.

D C Day $3.00, M R Miles $1.25, F Zuriseller $1.10, M R Steele 50c, B R Wilson $1.50, J K Jacoy 65c, E N Whitford $2.50, H Brown 50c, D T Ross 50c, E M Davis $2.00, J B Eastman $1.00, F A Bradford $1.50, H T Varney 50c, J Crosby 60c, L G Smith 50c, B Slocum 50c, S W Ames 35c, J R Sturtevant $1.15, W Eastwood $1.50, J S Gidding $1.20, J C Moore 75c, L Town 70c, J Dick 50c, T Rines 60c, M W Corliss $1.50, J Small $1.50, A A Hoyt $9.00, H N Reed $2.50, D Versteeg $2.20, A J R Ripley $2.00, E F Emerson $55c, Mrs A D Hardy $2.23, L Roundsville 40c, A D Flagg 75c, F B Robinson $4.20, E K Follinsbee $9.00, A Sherwood $1.50, F Sherman 35c, M R Miles $5.00, J Moffat $8.25, A F Dugger 35c, B Knepper $1.50, W Lyle $1.60, S Robjohn $2.50, L E Pendleton $3.00, J C Wheeler 40c, Jona. Wheeler 50c, E J Fuller $1.85, C Chamberlain 50c, P S Putler $1.82, T Bradley $1.15, W W Woodruff $1.15, M E Stone $1.50, P Robbins $1.50, S F Small $1.00, L B Picks 70c, C W Nelson 60c, S J Bronson 54c, W A Munroe $1.50.

Books and Tracts Sent.

By Mail—J W Taylor, W M Darrow, F B Robinson, F Drew, T P Wyman, J Hill, M Smith, A Fike, G Miller, J K Hawkins, E N Whitford, J K Jocey, B R Wilson, F A Sheldon, H M Hoffingre, F Zuriseller, M R Steele, A Espenscheid, P T Varney, F A Bradford, A Fritz, J B Eastman, Mrs E M Davis, D T Ross, H Brown, R O White (2), H G Smith, J R Sturtevant, J Crosby, J C Moore, E Crowell, A Slocum, S S Brewer, L Town, Wm. Eastwood, E E Traverse, T Ames, J Dick, J Bussell, E McCullock, G W Ashdown, T Rines, C H Williams, D M Cartright, J Small, M W Corliss Rev. C Smith, J D W Lapear, Mrs A D Hardy (2), R F Emerson, L Bean, A J Ripley (2), R J Sherman, D Vastey, F B Robinson, Mrs. E D Reniffe, A D Flagg, M A Powell, L Roundville, F Sherman, W W Hicks, A Sherwood, J B Griswold, Eld A F Dugger, B Knepper 2, T Robjohn, J Wheeler, J Worthington, E J Fuller, J Jeffrey 2, J C Wheeler, Mrs C Chamberlin, Etta J Barrett, P S Butler, Mrs. R C Hamilton, M E Stone, F Bradley, L Haskell, H C Freeman, W W Woodruff, B C Bancroft, S T Small 2, L B Fisher, S J Bronson, C W Nelson, W A Monroe, Mrs P Rollins, J Morrison, F S Ransom, W G Churchill, J H Brown, J Boardwain, D M Smith, Mrs. A Espencheid, E D Fowler, H B Eaton, H H Weld, T W Pease, L Halloway 2, Mrs. J W Burroughs, L Dow, W Brown & Son, D D Chaffee, P E Fenn, W L Howard.

By Express—J C Shorey 2 pack., J S Giddings, J D Sheridan, A A Hoyt, H N Read, E K Follemsbee, J Moffatt, E Morrill, W Lyle, A W Taylor, D Cogswell, S Hall.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, post-paid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents. Postage 8 cts.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc., etc. Cloth, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Leather back, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c; Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERYBODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? A Tract on War. Price 10c, postage 2c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 6c.

THE FIRST DAY SABBATH. By T. M. Preble. A new and interesting work. pp. 471. Price $1.50.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5 cts. single; by mail, 7 cts.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M Preble. 15c. postage 2 cts., or by mail 17 cts.

TWO HUNDRED STORIES FOR CHILDREN. [By Elder T. M. Preble. pp. 234. 80c. by mail.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. By Thomas Carlyle. 3c. single; 5c. by mail; 20c. per dozen.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR; or, Spiritualism; What it is, and what it is not. Paper covers, $1.00; by mail; cloth, $1.25 by mail.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

VOICE OF THE THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

WORKS BY I. C. WELLCOME.

A Treatise on Matt. xxiv. and xxv.

Expository and Historical, showing the accurate fulfilment of Christ's predictions to the present time, and what we should expect next. Fifth edition. 180 pages. 25 cts. by mail.

Christian Baptism--its Object and Duty.

Thoroughly examined, Scripturally and Historically. A valuable work. Fourth edition. 81 pp. 25 cts. by mail.

The Berean's Casket.

A Collection of Scriptures, in various versions, on the most important subjects in the Bible, in sections; to which is added much important History, Statistics, and Tables, making a book of great value to all Bible students and teachers. Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50 by mail.

The Plan of Redemption.

BY WELLCOME AND GOULD.

A valuable work on the Creation and Fall of Man, the Covenants, Atonement, Redemption, Regeneration, Faith and Hope, Restitution, Reign of Christ, Millennium, True Israel, &c., &c. This work receives great commendation. Third edition. 460 pages. $1.25 by mail.

Israel and the Millennium.

A thorough refutation of Judaism; a valuable exposition of the Scriptures, and clear statement of the true doctrine of the Millennium. 162 pages. 25 cts. by mail.

I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

What matter if on life's broad sea
The wild winds toss our bark,
And white-browed waves in anger rise,
And all around is dark?
We care not for the perils round,
So long as we are homeward bound.

The tempest's breath may rend our sails,
The sullen thunder roar,
But every surge is drifting us
Nearer a peaceful shore,
Where endless joy and rest are found,
To bless the faithful homeward bound.

We're homeward bound! our hearts are strong,
For at the helm is He
Who once in storm and darkness stilled
The sea of Galilee:
And he will still the tempest's sound,
And safely guide us homeward bound.

Soon shall we moor our little bark
Beside the shining shore,
And meet again in that blest land
The friends we've loved before;
And, in our Father's kingdom crowned,
Greet all the loved ones homeward bound.

—Selected and corrected by J. B. Oaks.

For the World's Crisis.

THE DISCUSSION WITH NOBLE PALMER.

NUMBER TWELVE.

THE SOUL'S EXISTENCE UNCEASING ONLY THROUGH CHRIST.

We have been told that "if the soul ceases to exist at death, the connecting link is destroyed between the man that now is and that which shall be," and that a continuous soul-life and consciousness intervening between death and the resurrection, is essential to prevent the catastrophe of hopelessly lost identity. Certainly we think this must strike a thoughtful mind as a singular limitation of divine power. As if the great Creator could not restore a thoroughly dead man to life, and re-compose through a resurrection the very person that died! But every one knows that a machine composed of ten thousand pieces, can be wholly resolved into its elementary parts, and then perfectly re-adjusted, and yet no one doubts the identity of the instrument. A man is struck senseless by a powerful blow, and is taken up for dead, yet when he is resurrected we have no question of personal identity.

Suppose it is assumed, that in that case (every atom of mental function having been suspended) restored identity is due to an unceasing or immortal soul within. Yet precisely the same preservation of identity would be admitted in the case of any living creature of God, resuscitated after paralysis and apparent death, without any immortal soul on which to base identity. Is not the argument perfectly good in the case of any inferior animal life? Certainly, unless we deny to every inferior creature such a thing as identity. Who would do that, we ask?

If in a case of wholly suspended animation identity or personality returns with revived life, what possible ground have we for supposing that the resurrection will not involve perfectly restored personality, without a necessary inherence of life in a soul that never did or could die,—a soul alive when the body is dead? It is simply a question of divine prerogative. As if God who made man in the beginning, could not resurrect the very same man, though he was absolutely dead! For my part I am unable to see how or why identity is not just as easily restored as life. If I awake from a perfectly sound slumber in the morning, I am not obliged to depend upon the hypothesis of inherent immortality in order to be satisfied that I am the same personality that fell asleep the night before. Nor will the saints in the resurrection. We are confident that Scripture inculcates the teaching of life and personality as not inherent and endless in man, but dependent on the power of God.

Again, it was said that "Jesus, as a divine person in the flesh, ate, drank, slept, was crucified, dead and buried. As a divine person not in the flesh, he was not dead and buried; he still lived. Dare you say this is not true?" We reply in the language of the apostle, "Great is the mystery of godliness. God manifest in the flesh." We devoutly recognize and acknowledge the great truth. But when we are asked to admit that he was alive after he was dead, we shall certainly give a negative answer. We believe there was just so much unity in the nature of Christ, that what was positively affirmed concerning him is to be believed. As Christ, the anointed of God, "he died for our sins." "In due time Christ died." "Christ both died and rose and revived." "I am he that liveth and was dead." "He poured out his soul unto death." Numerous similar and positive testimonies could be produced. They do not say that his body died, but he died. Nay, the psalmist prophetically said of Christ, "Thou wilt not leave my soul in hell" (sheol.) Most certainly, then, the soul of Christ was in sheol, and in sheol there is no intelligence, positively none. If in any aspect Christ was not dead, the Scriptures do not so inform us (although one or two passages are adduced to support the idea, and we are ready to examine them). If he still lived when he was dead and buried, let us have the proof. Will we limit again the wisdom and power of God by saying that the divine man could not die, and could not be totally unconscious? Nay, but it was in the very scheme of God that he should die.

To say that Jesus was alive after he was dead, is to contradict the testimony. "He poured out his soul unto death," that is the record, but not that his soul after death manifested life and personality and intelligence. We say reverently, it was essential to man's redemption that Christ should truly die, and God was glorified in raising him from the dead. Adam died, Noah died, Jacob died, millions of men have died the Adamic death, and Jesus also died to atone for sin, and through his own resurrection by the Father, to wrest forever from the dominion of death his sleeping saints. The apostle says, "If we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so also them that sleep in Jesus will God bring with him." Here important consequences are suspended on the circumstance of believing that Jesus died. Shall I complicate or weaken or change the testimony, by averring that only the body died, but the soul survived? I dare not add to the record. Abating not one iota from the divinity of Jesus as the Son of God, I would not circumscribe the possibilities of Omnipotence by asserting that the very Christ who will raise the dead, was not truly dead himself.

It is not the question whether the uncreated and eternal God can die, which is wholly unnecessary to be supposed, but whether we are to believe the record which God gave of his Son, that "he humbled himself and became obedient unto death." Let it be proved that he was alive, or more alive than ever after he was dead. We have been thus explicit, notwithstanding the in-appositeness of the adduction, as we conceive, to prove an immortal soul in man. Who would venture to maintain that what divine wisdom should devise, almighty power could not execute? We understand distinctly, that the penalty of death threatened and inflicted upon man for transgression, positively required that a vicarious man, a perfect and absolute substitute, should also and equally die to redeem him. And now the simple question for determination is this, whether God could not perfectly and consistently accomplish this necessity. We say he could. And we say in the resources of divine wisdom, it was possible for Jesus to die, and in that death become absolutely unconscious. The Lord Jesus thus gave an example of unbounded faith in the truth of the Father, that though he should become a captive to death, he should certainly live again. But if he should live on in spite of death, the sublimity of the work of Christ, and the sublimity of his faith in his Father would be less conspicuous. Says the apostle, "For though he was crucified through weakness, yet he liveth to the power of God." How? Most certainly through a resurrection.

The whole body of testimony in God's word, with perfect unity and intense combination, teaches the veritable death of Jesus Christ. We are not bound by any human testimony, however learned or respectable, to believe that Jesus did not die. The Scripture says, "In due time Christ died for the ungodly, . . . while we were yet sinners Christ died for us." To maintain that Jesus did not and could not die, is to contradict the testimony. To affirm that the Son of God did not actually and truly become dead, is, we conceive, to strike at the very basis of man's salvation, and detract from the efficiency and perfection of the Redeemer's substitutionary work. It is true "it was not possible that he should be holden of death;" he could not remain dead, for "God raised him from the dead." The mass of Scripture expressly certifying that Jesus died, is in amount and in clearness of statement, simply overwhelming and irrefutable. Jesus said himself, "I am he that liveth and was dead;" now let it be demonstrated that he was alive at the very same time he was dead.

The magnitude of a single misrepresentation, in a recent article, demands attention without further delay. I wrote (in art. No. 4, and in a reasonably perspicuous style of expression, I trust,) of a "system that was utterly hostile to the gospel of Christ." I then specified and designated that system as "the giant error of Spiritualism." In what manner should that kind of mis-quotation be characterized, I considerately ask, which has twice in this discussion placed me in the position of an accuser of "the faith of the whole Christian world," as thus utterly hostile to Christ? I do deliberately and emphatically object to such an unmerited and unworthy way of reproducing a writer's language. I am suffering the injustice of being asserted to say what I never said. Where is the courtesy or the rectitude of such a proceeding? If the utter misrepresentation is due to a rapid and superficial reading, is it on that account justifiable? We deny the tenableness or truth of the soul's immortality, and say it is false.

But why should we be alleged to seek to unchristianize believers in Jesus, who have been mis-instructed on this point? I spoke distinctly of Spiritualism, and explained that this "system avowed its basis in the doctrine, vital to its existence of soul-immortality." And it is this doctrinal error, we hold, which is seized as the grand justification of manifold enormities, and which now menaces disastrous injury to the race, by justifying to the votary the entire structure of a system expanding into the last apostasy, and perfecting itself in the coming religion of antichrist. We shall stop long enough to give an exposition of this enormity in our next article, and reach each omitted item in the examination, as fast as we can. CLINTON COLEGROVE.

For the World's Crisis.

THE MISSION TENT.

BRO. GRANT:—I have still good news to tell relative to the old Mass. Mission Tent, which has been up four weeks in South Providence. The meetings continued right along from the 4th (where I left in my last letter) till Sunday the 10th, and that was a favored day from the Lord. The weather was beautiful, the people were interested, the tent was well filled, and truth seemed to find a lodging place in the hearts of the hearers. The time was well taken up at love-feast, also in the conference and prayer-meetings, beside the attention to the word preached. I have not seen a more prosperous meeting for a long time. Truth took hold of a large class of people that had not been reached before, and many confessed their backslidings, declared their loyalty to Christ, and a strong determination to stand by the grace of God in the truth and for the truth. They were brought into a sweet relationship with Jesus and his waiting people.

O, it is blessed to see the work of God prosper; yea, to see the heads of families, and the children, leave the downward road to destruction, that they have been pursuing for many years, and penitently yield and submit to Jesus, take his yoke upon them, and step into wisdom's pleasant path. It brings a response of joy from the angels, and heartfelt rejoicing from the lovers of the Savior.

It was with sadness that we struck the tent Sunday evening; but Bro. Morrill nor myself could stay longer; and as we had had meetings daily so long, we knew of no other way. But they would not consent until we promised them (if the Lord would) they should have the tent pitched again in a more central place two or three weeks in the future.

Brethren, pray for the cause of the Lord in Providence, that a consistent Advent meeting may be gathered where the lovers of Jesus may breathe freely, without any fear save that of not pleasing the great Head of the church. We think the tent will soon be pitched in Providence again, when with the new recruits we will, by the favor of God, have another campaign.

The sound, "Behold the Bridegroom cometh!" the waking up of the sleepers from the dust of the earth, the eternal life to be given only at the coming of Jesus, must be kept before the people. These evangelical, Bible doctrines, with the conversion and reclaiming of all that can be reached, must engage all our energies the little time allotted us. Let all be awake.

Spiritualism, indifference and irreligion are carrying the multitude to speedy destruction, when nothing but the gospel of Christ can save them. Bro. Grant, the standard must be lifted high; the sword of the Spirit, which is the sacred word of God, is the only weapon that can be successful in this contest—that will triumph. Glory be to God, we will trust him and the word of his grace, and go on full of courage. I have promised them when the tent goes up again that you will be with us to help fight the good fight of faith. The tent meetings are doing a good work. They reach a class that cannot be reached in any other way.

The Mass. Mission Tent will soon be up again. Brethren, pray for us, and the meetings, and send on the material aid. Let me say to the brethren we left at Providence, be of good cheer, meet often, and pray for one another; have your meetings, and God will bless you. Amen. L. BOUTELL.

Chelsea, July 12th.

For the World's Crisis.

ALMOST A CHRISTIAN.

Almost a christian; why almost?
Why dubious yet remain?
Art thou not walking with the lost,
In hopes of glory vain?

Dim rays of light illume thy mind,
Thy conscience feels offense;
But yet unbroken fetters bind,
And chain thee down to sense.

Wholly Christian, obeying God
With all thy heart and strength;
'Tis thus the narrow path is trod,
The kingdom gained at length.

C. H. SWEET.

For the World's Crisis.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

Circumstances have prevented my traveling among the churches as much as usual since last fall, until last month, and it seems natural to go again over the old battle-grounds of former times. Viewing the changes, reminds us of the certainty of the great change that is soon coming upon us all, either for better or for worse. To every observing mind it is evident which way this generation is drifting in religious matters; viz., infidelity, anarchy, and confusion. There is no reason to expect a successful combination of religious elements to arrest this generation from the vortex so plainly foretold in the Scriptures, that the day of God's judgment will come upon them as a thief in the night, and the twilight of this age is plainly seen. It is useless for the few to think of rescuing the sinking raft of dead logs. It must go down. The work of those who see the light is to know their duty and do it; and if we are attached to anything that is sinking, we must cut loose and save ourselves. The political element is soggy, and must sink. The fancy religious element is sinking to rise no more. All secret combinations are being rafted into the fancy religious, and political element, each trying to support the other,—and all will go down together. We must see it soon, although the elements are at ease just now, crying "peace and safety." Paul tells us when these things exist then sudden destruction is sure. This security and scoffing go hand in hand. How fast these last-day signs are thickening around us, all drifting to infidelity, or the antichrist power gathering.

I find our people standing well grounded, and watching the signs of these times, and that is all that they can do in many places, as the people have come into the valley of decision after hearing. I never had a better time pouring on the truth than during this trip; for such as come out now are not fully satisfied with the condition of things, and have an ear to hear. In Richmond they came from all quarters, some twelve and sixteen miles, and the house was full. One half were strangers, and the good attention showed an interest which makes it easy preaching on the last-day signs.

Going through the country from the Kennebec to Lewiston, had meetings in new places, to me, and found them all of the peculiar stamp, looking for the blessed hope. Maine is generally in a better condition than I ever saw it before. It is not so easily duped by one-side issues, hobbies, and fanaticisms, that have scattered them, as formerly. Wandering stars and wind-clouds have nearly ceased to visit Maine. Their conferences, prudently managed, have done much to bring this about. Lewiston is suffering from a tare-sower, as few other places are; but few of the tares will go to seed, I hope.

Poland, an old fortification of '43 stamp, has suffered less than many other places, although there still remains an ignorant and willful opposition to this truth. The hypocritical and wicked conduct of some of the opposers has cast an influence in favor of this last-day message. We had a large, attentive congregation. Bro. Libby preaches one fourth of the time there, and is good and sound.

Casco holds its own, and the opposition is less, on account of the small shot the enemy is only able to use, and in a confused state at that. Casco will not take down its flag.

Traveling over one hundred miles through the State in wagons, gave a good chance for seeing the crops in June. This is the month for judging the coming crops. Fruit is promising. Grass looks well since the four days of wet weather. There is a great difference between the fashions, food, scenery and music of country and city life. The fashions are more convenient and becoming, the food less in variety of fresh meats and fish. But my natural taste for fishing afforded me extra enjoyment, as there were plenty of fish ponds and brooks in every place, or near by. The good, sweet, Gentile pork was just the thing to cook the fish in. Field strawberries were very plenty, and good milk and butter afforded us the best of food. The scenery was mostly bad, hilly roads, farms, plenty of wood, no coal, and no need of going under ground when there is enough above. The music—no organs, sackbuts, nor dulcimers, but cows calling their calves to supper; the sun-down robins, more at liberty than house canaries, sung better and later. The bells were rung by the most orderly old cows; the whistles were those of the cat or hoot-owl, and the great bull-frogs in the ponds, sung us to sleep for the night, unless some little spindle-legged dandy—in fashion at this season—had crept into the room without leave, to present his bill. But these were not as troublesome as in cities.

This state of things, and seeing no papers filled with crimes and casualties for three weeks, afforded rest for the mind, by calling into action a new set of thoughts and exercises, which are necessary to health and vigor.

June 18th. Left the country for Portland. A ride of twenty-five miles in a farmer's wagon brought us to the city; and in two hours saw more people, heard more noise, and saw more business done, than in the whole three weeks previous. Found the brethren well grounded in the truth, and ready to hear it still; which was manifest by the general turn-out. This is an old fortified place, and the people dare hold up their heads and speak the truth.

At South Berwick found a little company, mostly young converts, rejoicing in the new light just received. The first start of Second Advent meetings in this place was three years ago. Bro. Gideon Doe wrote to me to go and preach in the Methodist house. On arriving there, the key could not be found. One of the officials, more holy than the rest, had hidden it, or refused to open the door. We applied to the outsiders, and they took hold with Bro. Doe, and we had a good meeting, and many came out of sympathy for us. The seed took root from that meeting. Brn. White, Smith and Leavitt have lent a helping hand by a tent meeting, and the result is, a good, united company are out in the truth, in spite of all opposition. And now they have started to get a little house to worship in, as the enemy opposes so hard; they are obliged to buy it or give up the meetings. Only a few poor factory operatives, not worth one thousand dollars all together, have started in the name of the Lord, and, with the help of a few who do not profess, they have put up a house 30x 36, and covered and paid for so far; and there it stands,—no money to finish it until they earn it, which will take them at least two years.

Now here is a chance to help a needy little company. They have raised about four hundred dollars, and lack as much more. Who will put a little into this bank? The cashier is Augustus Webster, South Berwick, Me. I hope the house will not stand where it is much longer for the want of a little money to finish it.

At Lee, N. H., found a few holding on; some on the fence, as usual, waiting to see if the doctrine will become popular, or true. Such will probably die of consumption. One lung is all gone, and the other affected. The popular worldly tonics will not effect a cure.

Next to Exeter, which remains about so—half soul and half body. At Hampton meetings have just been started, and are doing much good. The people see there is something to learn from the Scriptures about the times in which we are living. Rye, five miles from Hampton, is also doing well. Some have been converted, and more are thinking and looking at the truth; and they are getting an identity, though a backslider is blackballing them through a penny paper. Great business to rake up the doings of a dead man. Poor backsliders! What mean things the devil will set them about! I want to say here, that the dead man referred to by this scavenger died a good christian, after preaching forty years, converting thousands, and baptizing hundreds. He wore out, became childish, and, like David and others, went astray in his infirmities, or sickness. I was one of the council that investigated his case, and found ten lies to one truth reported. This brother said he yet needed a Savior, if his accusers did not; and his last days were peaceful and happy. He is now beyond the reach of the slandering tongues of backsliders. God will judge both.

Since writing the above, I learn his widow is dead.

At Lawrence the church is alive, having never allowed any wild-gourd-soup-peddlers to come in among them. By this caution the children are healthy. South Reading and Lynn are holding up their light as usual, watching the signs for more.

Boston, Lowell St. This church is about the same. Little difficulties do not stop their zeal. There are a few who have the doctrine pocket-deep. They pay $50 to $75 per month for the use of their chapel, and as much more for preaching, besides coal, lights, and other expenses. But few of our brethren know what it costs to support a meeting in Boston and some other cities. The Advent churches in cities make greater sacrifices than is generally supposed, especially in Boston at Lowell St. There are some four other meetings, one in Chelsea, one in Charlestown, one in East Boston, and one in South Boston. All pay in proportion, the aggregate being not less than five thousand dollars yearly, to support this truth. H. MUNGER.

POSITIVE THEOLOGY AND BROAD CHARITY.

There is no necessity for connecting a Christian breadth of charity with a loose, indeterminate theology. That A. has clear, firm, intelligent ideas on any disputed subject, whether it be philosophy, politics or religion, is not a fact in any respect inconsistent with his cherishing respect and love for his neighbor B., whose views are different. Indeed, with that spirit of love, it is surely much better, both for his intellect and heart, that he should have thought himself out to some definite conviction. Of all wishy-washy characters deliver us from the man of no clear opinions, whose muddled brain is the servant of mere good nature, or of momentary sympathy. We have great respect for an out-and-out, pronounced opponent, who meets us fairly and squarely in a counter argument, and waxes earnest against our position because he believes it to be false. We have little or none for the indifferent mind, which is either too shallow to see the distinction between truth and error, or else to feel its importance. Paul was the author of the famous description and eulogy of charity in the thirteenth chapter of first Corinthians; but he was none of the sentimental rose water, universally complaisant religionists, who hold that almost any theology will answer a man's purpose well enough. The soul of charity though he was, and (as the epistle to Philemon proves) the beau ideal of courtesy, in its proper relations, he was a sturdy defender of a positive, clearly defined faith, and did not hesitate to pronounce him "accursed" who preached "another gospel from his own.

A charity which is intelligently liberal, will so distinguish between false systems and certain individuals involved in them, as neither to ascribe to the character of the latter the logical demerit of the former, nor yet to credit to the erroneous system the personal good qualities of the individuals misled by it. Charity may lead us to respect our neighbor's sincerity, and to admire his many good works; but it does not require us to speak favorably of his religious errors, or to trace his goodness to them, or to believe that his character and life are as perfect as they would have been, had he been inspired by truer conceptions of God and redemption. Every truth has a sanctifying power, for which error has no substitute. If delusion as to fundamental points must operate harm in spiritual character, the less serious mistakes cannot be without their measure of evil influence.—Advance.

— Some wild animals are caught in a steel trap and go off, but carry the trap, biting and tormenting them all the while. So with some who commit sin. They deny it, attempt to cover it up or run away, but the trap—guilt and pain—is carried with them. Their agony is terrible. Would they would repent and surrender to God.

FORGIVE AND FORGET.

The woman who said, "I can forget and forgive, but I shall always remember it," has far too many imitators. True forgiveness is not based on forgetfulness; nor are we to wait till time has worn away the sense of wrong, before we pardon a penitent offender. When we do forgive that should forever end the matter. Forgetfulness should follow forgiveness.

Remembering wrongs benefits no one. If we have a sore finger we bind it up, and let it alone. Is there any use in pulling off the rag ten times a day, and showing the hurt to every man we meet? Talking over a wrong often does more hurt than suffering it, recollecting it is worse than receiving it.

God has his purposes in all the wrongs we suffer. He permits every one. God allows us to be injured, and forbids us to avenge ourselves, thus testing our faith and patience. He commands us to forgive those that wrong us and thus proves our obedience and our love. "Be not overcome of evil." Sin, self, and the devil, strive to master the injured man. He that overcomes evil with good overcomes his enemy, and the devil, and himself; thus gaining a triple victory, and by ruling his own spirit, proving himself "stronger than he which taketh a city."

Forgive and forget. Secret grudges are like canker eating out the soul. Put away all bitterness. Be faithful to those who wrong you, reprove them thoroughly yet lovingly, confessing your own faults meanwhile. And when forgiveness is asked and granted, let it be full, and free, and final. Let love prevail over wrong. Let bitterness end. Let your charity cover the multitude of sins, and forever hide them from the gaze of man. Let the divine compassion take root in your heart, and let your word to those who have wronged you, be like the word of God to those who have deeply revolted from him and penitently returned—"Their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more." Heb. 8: 12.—Christian.

For the World's Crisis.

THE PREACHER'S PRAYER.

My Sunday duties, Lord, I know,
Will be but illy done,
Unless thou dost to me impart
Favor, through thy dear Son.

Thy servant, Lord, is, oh! so weak,
Incapable and small,
How can he ope his lips, and speak,
If Christ be not in all?

Thy servant does not ask, oh! Lord,
That he be rich, or great,
But help him preach thy blessed word,
So men may feel their state.

Impart to him, in Jesus' name,
Ability, I pray,
To speak thy truth, a burning flame,
Just in thy Spirit's way.

Oh! make him, skillful souls to win,
An humble, earnest man,
Bold to denounce the smallest sin,
Thy word makes clear the plan.

May he be kept, oh! gracious Lord,
From preaching Christ for hire;
May the assurance of thy word
His noblest deeds inspire.

Wilt thou direct him in the way
Thyself wouldst have him go,
And give him wisdom, day by day,
Fully thy will to know.

And when his course at last is run,
When Jesus shall appear,
May he the crown of life have won,
The "Come, ye blessed," hear.

May he have many stars to place
In the Redeemer's crown,
Forever view his smiling face,
And on his throne sit down.

Westfield. E. O.

For the World's Crisis.

THE VELOCITY OF LIGHT.

In an article contributed to the Crisis of the 10th of Nov. last, under the caption of "The heavens declare the glory of God," was given what purported to be an extract from a lecture of Prof. Alexander, in which occurred the following passage:—

"Light travels at the rate of one hundred and ninety-four thousand miles a second. Now, this being so, remember it would take eight and three fourths months to travel with the velocity of light from here to the sun; and it does when the sun's light reaches us.'

Now, although the inaccuracy of the latter part of this statement (probably erroneously transcribed) was of course apparent at once to every educated person, or to any one who chose to bestow a moment's thought on the subject, and divide the distance of the sun by the rate per second, as given, I made a memorandum of the error at the time, intending to correct it for the benefit of your younger readers, but a pressure of business has prevented my doing so before. With your permission, I will now submit a quotation from Chambers' "Information for the People," bearing on the point:

"Anciently, it was believed that light was propagated from the sun, and other luminous bodies, instantaneously; but the observations of modern inquirers have shown that this was an erroneous hypothesis, and that light, like sound, requires a certain time to pass from one part of space to another, though the velocity of its motion is truly astonishing, as has been manifested in various ways. Astronomers have proved, by observing the eclipses of Jupiter's satellites, when that planet is nearest and when it is furthest from the earth, that light moves from the sun to the earth, a distance of ninety-five millions of miles, in seven and a half minutes, or about two hundred thousand miles during a single vibration of the pendulum. So prodigiously great is this velocity, that, as far as any common observation is concerned, light may be said to be perfectly instantaneous in its universal action." H. H. T.

Washington, D. C.

THE MARCH OF EVENTS IN EUROPE.

The situation in Europe increases in gravity. Were we only to regard the single issue which has provoked the disagreement, a peaceful solution might not unreasonably be expected. The men who guide the destinies of Spain will certainly pause before taking the responsibility of affording by the election of a Hohenzollern the pretext for a European war. But it is becoming too apparent that the merits of the original question will shortly be lost sight of in the opening of a much larger area of discussion. The true danger lies in the fact that France, on the one hand, seems disposed to reopen, on its very broadest basis, her unsettled feud with Prussia, and that Prussia, while explicitly disavowing all responsibility for the candidature of Prince Leopold, may, by her implicit support of the king-makers of Madrid, lead the way to a contest which, on other grounds, she may find inevitable.

The demands categorically made in the columns of the official Moniteur may have some show of justice to recommend them, but, in the interests of peace, are certainly very ill-timed. It is quite true that, as regards Denmark, Prussia has not yet implemented the fifth article of the Treaty of Prague, which provided for a plebiscitum of the population of North Schleswig to decide upon the question of a reunion with the Scandinavian Kingdom. But it is difficult to understand in what way Prussia has interfered with the liberty of South Germany so as to violate the treaty, or why France should needlessly complicate existing difficulties by selecting the present occasion for making such a representation. By the fourth article of the treaty of Prague it is simply stated, with regard to the line of the Main, "that the German States situated south of this line shall conclude a union, the national connection of which with the North German Confederation remains reserved for further agreement between both parties, and which shall possess an international independent existence."

Austria, the other chief contracting party, has made no protest against the Prussian want of fidelity to this article, neither have the South German States themselves; and if the declaration of the Moniteur correctly indicates the views of the French Government, they must be held open to the suspicion of showing a disposition to engender useless strife. The evacuation of the fortress of Mayence, situated as it is in the portion of Rhenish Hesse not ceded to Prussia, and being to some extent a standing menace to her southern neighbors, is a point on which France might reasonably enough make a diplomatic remonstrance, but on which few people will recognize her right to make a peremptory demand.—N. Y. Times.

Gems.

— Not to believe that the Bible is God's message is voluntarily to deprive ourselves of all true well-founded knowledge about God and our future state. It is returning to darkness—it is to ruin our own prospects, and perhaps also the welfare of many others with us.

There is many a gem in the path of life,
Which we pass in our idle pleasure,
That is richer far than the jewelled crown,
Or the miser's hoard of treasure;
It may be the love of a little child,
Or a mother's prayer to heaven,
Or only a beggar's grateful thanks
For a cup of water given.

— If you would be pungent, be brief; for it is with words as with sunbeams—the more they are condensed the deeper they burn.

— The man who, whether in his habits or his actions, in great things or in small, separates himself from his friends, seems to set every evil and envious feeling of our nature in array against him. Distinction is purchased at the expense of sympathy.

— None are so fond of secrets as those who don't mean to keep them; such persons covet secrets as a spendthrift covets money—for the purpose of circulation.

— Habit is a cable. We weave a thread of it every day, and at last we cannot break it.

— A helping word to one in trouble is often like a switch on a railroad track—but one inch between a wreck and smooth rolling prosperity.

— An humble man is like a good tree: the more full of fruit the branches are, the lower they bend themselves. "Through much tribulation ye must enter into the kingdom of God."

— Error loves to walk arm in arm with truth, to make itself thought respectable.

☞ Faith and works were well illustrated by a venturesome little six-year old boy, who ran into the forest after a team, and rode home upon the load of wood. When asked by his mother if he was not frightened when the team came down a very steep hill, he said, "Yes, a little, but I asked the Lord to help me, and hung on like a beaver."

☞ The word "heart" is named eight hundred times in the Bible; the word "soul" four hundred and forty times; and the word "head" only eighty times.

— Scandal, like a kite, to fly well depends greatly on the length of the tale it has to carry.

— There are promises in Scripture to help our weaknesses, but none to overcome our willfulness.

— The ruin of most men dates from some vacant hour. Occupation is the armor of the soul. There is a satirical poem, in which the devil is represented as fishing for men, and fitting his bait to the taste and business of his prey; but the idler, he said, gave him no trouble, as he bit the naked hook.

— Don't be afraid of the storms of time, knowing that God holds the moral as well as the physical ocean in the hollow of his hand.

— God loves to have us pray with earnestness. The best proof of earnestness is simplicity. Better in God's sight are the broken but heartfelt utterances of a child than the high flown utterances of some who think themselves wonderful in prayer.

— God never gives us the light which our children need. He gives it to them.

For the World's Crisis.

PAYING THE MINISTRY.

Please read the first twenty verses of the tenth chapter of Luke.

Dear brethren, are we fulfilling those commandments of Christ? Are we going over ditches and through hedges to proclaim to a dying race the soon coming of an immortal kingdom? And if so, are we going as commanded, without scrip or money? Are we trusting solely in the Lord for our support, spiritual and temporal? Or are we looking deep into the pocket of some brethren and friends, in hopes we may extract from thence the almighty dollar, to aid the Lord in carrying us over all wordly care and sorrow? It is to be seriously regretted that in a great number of cases the negative must be the answer.

There are ministers of my acquaintance who refuse to preach unless they receive from one thousand to one thousand and two hundred dollars per annum; many who demand from six hundred to one thousand dollars; and scarcely none, in comparison to the whole, will dream of preaching a single sermon for less than four hundred or five hundred dollars a year; while only a few beacon lights labor here and there, as the Lord directs and provides.

What is the difficulty, brethren? Why do we covet the filthy and reject the pure? preach God for the pride of Satan, proclaim a free gospel, at the rate of one thousand dollars a year? It is not right, and yet we do it. God says he will provide for the faithful. Will he do it? If so, let us trust him, and him only. If we fear he will not, then let us leave off proclaiming his gospel, and thereby make room for a man of God. Jesus says "the laborer is worthy of his hire," and "God will provide." Therefore let us gird on the armor anew, go out into the wide world, preach Jesus, and him only; feed the lambs of God freely, as he freely feeds the shepherd; look to him, trust him, and rely upon him only for our support. He is a gracious God, and will supply every want. Do this, and you will behold the fruits of your toil. But never preach Christ for the devil's gold.

Arena, Wis. MAHLON D. PEAVY.

Times, please copy.

CHRISTIAN INFLUENCE.—The sun is full of heat and light, and it asks no questions as to how it shall do good, but is perpetually pouring out its golden flood. The spring that sparkles at the foot of the hill is full, and asking leave of no one, is forever welling forth its sweet waters. So the christian, if only full of the love of God and man, and shedding around him benign influence, as a natural result cannot help doing good.

Hygiene.

"This is for your health."—PAUL.

TREATMENT OF SUNSTROKE

To the Editor of the Chicago Tribune:

It is during such heated terms as we are now experiencing that cases of sunstroke are liable to occur among persons exposed to the direct rays of the sun; and, inasmuch as many of them prove quickly fatal, unless proper means be used for their relief, it is important that the public should have sufficient knowledge of the symptoms of the disease and of its treatment to enable any person to make use of correct means without delay.

Cases of sunstroke present themselves in two forms, which must be carefully distinguished from each other. In the first, the patient either falls or lies down; has a feeble, moderately quick pulse, a tendency to fainting, on making the least exertion, and a moist skin. These are the mildest and least dangerous cases and the condition present is simply that of exhaustion from heat.

The second class of cases comprises those in which the patient falls suddenly to the ground, where he lies totally unconscious; he has a feeble, very frequent pulse; the breathing is slow, difficult, stertorous (snoring), and the skin hot, pungent and dry. This condition, unless promptly relieved, soon ends in death.

The treatment of the first class of cases—those of exhaustion—consists in placing the patient on his back in the coolest possible place, with his head low, and the free administration of stimulants.

Those of the second class should also be removed to a cool place, where, if possible, there is a current of air. The clothing should be quickly removed, and every part of the body rubbed by two or three persons with pieces of ice as large as can be conveniently handled—the rubbing to be continued an hour or more if necessary. At the same time pieces of ice may be placed in the armpits. If the patient is able to swallow, iced-water should be freely given.

While the ice is being obtained, no time should be lost. The whole surface of the body should, in the meantime, be kept wet with cold water, and the evaporation and cooling increased by the use of one or more fans. However great the debility may seem, give no stimulants. To recapitulate, then:

1. Send for the nearest medical practitioner.
2. Remove the patient to the coolest place.
3. If the skin be moist, give stimulants.
4. If the skin be hot and dry, remove the clothing and apply ice (in its absence cold water) freely and constantly to the body, and give no stimulants. A. REEVES JACKSON.

MORE ABOUT HAIR DYE.

A physician writes to the Boston Journal of Chemistry, in regard to two cases of partial paralysis that had come under his notice, caused by the use of "Hall's Vegetable Sicilian" hair restorative. He says: One complained of creeping chills, and a sensation of numbness in the back of the head and neck; the other had the peculiar symptoms of lead paralysis in the arm and wrist. Both had used the nostrum freely, and recovered after I had advised them of its contents, and they had discontinued its use.

Any one may satisfy himself of the contents of this filthy compound by the peculiar sticky feeling of acetate of lead, when rubbed between the fingers, or by placing a drop upon the tongue, and noting the sweetish astringent taste of the salt. Or if he wishes more accurate evidence, let him try the effect of a drop or two of solution of iodide of potassium, added to a filtered portion of the "Renewer." Other tests might be given, but this is as convenient as any.

I cannot see how the consumer can fail to absorb lead into the system, if the directions on the bottle are carefully carried out: "Rub the scalp thoroughly, after which leave the scalp and hair thoroughly saturated with it," etc.—Ex.

☞ Dr. Hall is very decided in condemning a practice common in many households. He says:

"Under no circumstances should two persons—save mother and infant—sleep together in the same bed, or even in the same room. It is indelicate. It destroys privacy. It weakens self-respect. It is injurious to health in that two persons consume more air than an ordinary chamber holds, or than good ventilation will supply, while the difference in the temperaments and electrical conditions of almost any two persons renders it exceedingly improper for them to occupy the same bed. Many a child has wilted and waned, and, finally, died from no other cause than sleeping with a middle-aged or an old person. The animals herd together, but human beings should have each his own room and bed."

PALPITATION.—There are probably few persons who have not at some time in their lives had, if not for more than a moment, palpitation of the heart. The disease is dependent on over-excitement of the nerves of this organ. Where not caused by disease of the heart or its valves, it is not a dangerous affection. The best treatment is perfect quiet and composure in a recumbent posture. If it continues long, apply hot compresses over the region of the heart, changing them often. To prevent their occurrence, avoid over-exertion, tight clothing, nervous excitement, a crowded or unventilated room, and above all, loading the stomach with indigestible articles of food.

VENTILATION.—It is more difficult to ventilate a close room in summer than in winter; because in summer there are no fires to create a draft, or to move the air; but an open fireplace, or an open door, or long windows, open at top and bottom, may be sufficient.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance....................$2.50 a year
Five copies six months to one address.......$5.60.
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address......$10.00.
Same rate for any number over ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cts. a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication write—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write—BUSINESS.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS.
PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Single copy, 60 cts. a year; and at the same rate for any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 771. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 27, 1870. VOL. XXXI.—NO. 19.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
160 HANOVER ST., BOSTON, Mass. } CORNER OF SALEM STREET. (☞ Entrance No. 7 Salem St.)

MILES GRANT, EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
D. MATHEWSON, H. V. DAVIS,
M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN,
H. H. DICKENSON.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

THE GOSPEL BANNER.

Unfurl the gospel banner
To earth's remotest bound;
Tell every dying sinner
The way of life is found;
That One who can deliver
From Satan's galling chains,
Give life and joy forever,
Has suffered all our pains.

Unfurl the gospel banner!
Let all the world draw near;
Behold the loving Savior!
His gracious words then hear
For every tribe and nation,
Upon the cross he died;
For sinful man's redemption
He thus was crucified.

Unfurl the gospel banner!
Let every sinner hear,
While the cheering sound, hosannah!
Falls sweetly on the ear.
"Ho, every son and daughter,
Now come ye unto me;
And drink the living water,
And eat of life's fair tree."

Unfurl the gospel banner!
Proclaim the jubilee;
Warn every man of danger,
That from it he may flee;
And flee to Christ for refuge,
Who only can defend,
And save from that great deluge—
Destruction's fiery end.

Unfurl the gospel banner!
The fleeting hours improve;
To every man and brother
Cry, "See his dying love!"
For lo, the morn is breaking
To every watchful son;
The sacred light now shining,
Proclaims the coming One.

"Now furl the blood-stained banner,"
Will soon be heard on high,
When Christ shall come to gather
His children in the sky
Then grasp the gospel banner,
And bear it far above,
That every thirsting sinner
May taste his dying love.

Peru, Ind. H. H. HALL.

For the World's Crisis.

THE ALARM BELL.

Ring—ring—ring—O bell! Ring the wrestle of the Titans, the battle-fray of the nations! Sound the tocsin of hurrying squadrons, and mighty legions of armed men waking to the conflict! If there is war between France and Prussia now, France we think will be victor. These are grand prophetic hours. The destinies of millions are involved. Tremendous changes are at hand. Christ will call up a waiting people soon, to meet him in the air. Satan, full of fury, will roar and roam about like a lion. That last-day antichrist is soon to be revealed. We have no controversy with those who doubt it. The argument of events will silence all denial.

Ring—ring—ring—O bell! The day of God is coming—"a day of darkness and of gloominess, a day of clouds and of thick darkness, as the morning spread upon the mountains." O, woe upon the heedless and ungodly, who never call upon God! There is that dogma of infallibility, that apple of Sodom, ripe and ready to be plucked, and what a tree of demon evil will shoot and grow out of it, grow in a night, and spread out into the Bohon Upas of the last apostasy!

Ring—ring—ring—O bell! The demons are preparing for the fray. Jesus, the Son of the Highest, will soon take to himself his great power and reign. The hour of salvation is coming to the weary ones of Christ, sighing and crying, "Save me, O God," who are weary with their groaning, and their throat is dried. An arm of Almighty power will reach after them—a face of exceeding and wonderful loveliness will look on them.

Ring—ring—ring—O bell! Eighteen hundred years and more, since the jubilee of the angels at Bethlehem, a people looking at the signs of the returning Messiah, exclaim, "Glory to God in the highest." Soon the dead shall hear his mighty voice, calling them up to love and praise and glory! Dead they are, and dead they have been all these ages long. Dead in truth and in fact, dead in the grave, but not dead in trespasses—dead in the ground, but asleep in Jesus. Now they are coming forth at the mandate of the Conqueror of death.

Ring—ring—ring—O bell! The word of God must be fulfilled. Let creation cry—"Glory to the God of prophecy!" What wonders are coming—wonders of joy and jubilee to the instructed and watching friends of Jesus! The time may be very near, when in the pressure of hurrying events, the possibility of a connected and thorough testimony, which the hitherto heedless can understand, will be succeeded by the deep and half mute profound of instant expectation. And those who learn then, may have to learn as best they can, amid the headlong course and speed of events, rushing like a torrent—learn through a dread and fearful experience.

But amid all this, to the wise belongs the injunction of the apostle: "Let your moderation be known to all men." It is no time for frenzy—even of joy—but for wisdom and faith in God.

The hour has struck. War is declared. It is the beginning of the end. The giants France and Prussia are about to join in deadly combat. The dreadful shock and jar of the conflict will be felt everywhere throughout the civilized world. All kingdoms, nations and people will be affected by the dread collision.

Consider one moment the prominence and power, the cunning, the eagerness and determination of these antagonists, especially France. Immense multitudes and masses of trained and armed men will pour forth in opposing torrents, to dash against each other in bloody and mortal strife. Chassepots and needle-guns will send their hissing cones like hail, and the most effectual and tremendous artillery of modern times will hurl their globes of iron in opposing storms, to decide the vexed question of national, aye, and of European supremacy. With what intense interest will all intelligent observers watch the progress of this fierce and fearful fight. And with what added interest of thrilling and unspeakable expectation and solemnity will the enlightened believer and student of the word of God attend to the course of this most ominous and pregnant event, war between the Latin and Teutonic kings. For what particular reason? Answer—because this is a prophetic war, a war of giants, a war of ages, at their culmination, a war of vast issues and vast omens—a war, the last, it may be, before the Armageddon maelstrom of panoplied hosts, and the great day of God Almighty.

And what is to be the issue of this mighty collision of the German and the Gaul? Yes! that is the question, and a most interesting and significant query it is. We can give the answer, we think, without error or rashness; an answer long ago formed upon the base of the infallible testimony of prophecy. The answer is that Prussia will be beaten and humbled, and France exceedingly aggrandized in power and influence, while the Latin races and nations of the prophetic earth are drawn by an irresistible attraction to unite in a confederation of semi-democratic states with the illustrious conqueror in the hot and furious fight with Prussia. Then the victor Napoleon will be preparing to ascend into his fatal and fearful seat of antichrist. Prussia, that launched forth her legions in 1866 against Austria, and humbled the Hapsburgh, Francis Joseph; Prussia, avaricious, aggressive, and impetuous, will, we conceive, herself be humbled in turn, while the nations around, struck with the splendor of the triumph of France, will hasten to ally themselves to the successful power in this trial of strength, and on this field of fierce debate with the logic of the sword.

Thus pregnant with immense results, is the impending strife of the giants. Can language exaggerate the magnitude of the consequences? How utterly short-sighted and foolish is the idle guess of those who rate this at no greater significance than the combats of former years, either before or since the accession of Louis Napoleon to the French emperorship! How profoundly ignorant of the exigences and developments of the immediate future are those who pass lightly by this rising storm of battle as a thing of little consequence or concern, and with a kind of sublime indifference exclaim, "Well, it is no concern of mine; let them fight it out!" Men will find, sooner or later, that it will be a matter of pressing and earnest concern to them, involving the most serious consequences, excepting only that an escape for waiting saints from approaching trials is experienced through the grace of the divine Deliverer.

May we have wisdom to understand the meaning of this coming storm of war, and grace to improve the time wisely in the service of the Master, while we are yet on the field of toil and conflict with our spiritual enemies. C. COLEGROVE.

NOTE. I may not have in my hands the prophetic chart of Bro. O. T. Hobbs for any length of time. Should any wish for an exposition of the symbols on this chart, and a prophetic elucidation of passing and future events, if they will notify me at an early day, it is possible that I might do something in this direction, if Providence permit. C. C.

For the World's Crisis.

CHRIST OUR REPRESENTATIVE.

"He [God] is not a God of the dead, but of the living."—LUKE 20: 38.
"To this end Christ both died, and rose, and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and living."—ROM. 14: 9.

Jesus the Anointed was chosen of God and "made unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption"; and "he that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord," "who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree." And as the high priest entered into the holy place with blood, which he offered for himself and for the errors of the people; so Christ has entered "into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us." He was "delivered for our offences, and was raised again for our justification"; and when he has fulfilled his work as priest, or representative, then he will come forth to bless his people; and "when Christ who is our life shall appear, then shall [we] also appear with him in glory."

The life that the christian now lives in the flesh he "lives by faith on the Son of God"; for they "are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus"; "and if children, then heirs." But the inheritance has not been divided yet; therefore we are "waiting for the . . . . redemption of our body." "For we are saved by hope"; but by and by we shall be "the children of God, being the children of the resurrection," and be "equal unto the angels," to die no more.

So Abraham became a child of God "by faith," was "saved by hope," and "sojourned in the land of promise as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise: for he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God." "These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them." "These all, having obtained a good report through faith, received not the promise; God having provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect."

Abraham looked forward to the resurrection, from whence also he received Isaac in a figure. See Heb. 11: 19. And as Abraham died, and as the whole human family were under the sentence of death, and as God is not a God of the dead, but of the living, Christ came and "took not on him the nature of angels, but he took on him the seed of Abraham"; "and being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross," "that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil; and deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage." "For to this end Christ both died, and rose, and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and living." Therefore "none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself; for whether we live, we live unto the Lord; and whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's."—Rom. 14: 7, 8. "And if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise." "And as it is appointed unto man once to die, and after this the judgment; so Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation."—Heb. 9: 27–28.

God grant that we may be reconciled unto him through Jesus Christ, that at last we may enter into that city that Abraham looked for, "whose builder and maker is God."

JOHN RIDLEY.

For the World's Crisis.

"I WILL NEVER LEAVE NOR FORSAKE THEE."

Precious words from the lips of Jesus! How they have comforted my poor heart amid hours of affliction; how they bear my spirits up while I walk a lonely pilgrim here. What a friend we have in Jesus! Though earthly friends fail, and storms of adversity rise, in Jesus we have a never-failing friend, who will never forsake, no, and if we trust fully in him, he will journey by our side all the way down through the valley of the shadow of death, even to the haven of eternal rest. How sweet the thought, how blissful the anticipation to the believer in Christ, of soon seeing Jesus, and being made like him. Though the way may be rugged, and thorns and thistles continually strown in our pathway, and tears sometimes in our weariness fall, what matter? Jesus has promised to be with us, and we need fear no evil. "Though a host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear." Ps. 27: 3. We read in Ps. 125—"As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about his people, from henceforth, even forever."

How much we find in the sacred volume to cheer and comfort us in our heavenly journey. Thank the Lord for the Bible!

"Holy Bible, book divine,
Precious treasure, thou art mine."

Hartford, Me. N. J. LUCAS.

For the World's Crisis.

"LO, THESE MANY YEARS DO I SERVE THEE."—Luke 15: 29.

The Jews, and more particularly the Pharisees, said, "Lo, these many years do I serve thee, neither transgressed I at any time thy commandment." In this case, if we take the passage to be the Savior's own ideas, we could in no wise reconcile it with his doctrine elsewhere. Now we ask, What is the parable of the two sons to teach? According to verses 1 and 2, the publicans and sinners, by the Savior, are represented by the prodigal, and the Pharisees and Scribes by the oldest son. Then in the next place we ask, Did the Savior mean to teach, or affirm, that the Pharisees and Scribes never at any time transgressed God's commandments? This is the only conclusion we can come to, if we take all that the Savior said to be his own doctrine.

But the Savior's own words and the Pharisees' deeds show us differently. In the conduct of the oldest son, we have the real Pharisaic spirit manifested. This spirit is always ready to say: I am not like other people. I keep the commandments of the Father. The young lawyer belonging to the Pharisaic family said: "All these things have I kept from my youth up—just like the oldest son: never have I transgressed thy commandments.

Now read the woes pronounced by the Savior against the Scribes and Pharisees (Matt. 23: 13–29), and who can still think that he meant to say that the Scribes and Pharisees never transgressed the commandments of God? Hence in this parable the elder brother represents the Pharisees; but it is not the case that they never transgressed God's commandments, though they thought so themselves.

Here, then, it is plain that the Savior in one of his parables made use of the Pharisees' own notions, to reach the end he had in view. This plainly shows that he did not mean that the Pharisees and Scribes never transgressed God's commands, as his own words (Matt. 23) also abundantly prove; yet the Pharisees themselves thought so. So also the Savior did not mean, in the description of the rich man, to teach that the wicked immediately after death lift up their eyes in the flames of hell, as his own words [Matt. 16: 27; Luke 14: 14, and Rev. 22: 12] clearly prove; but the idea of the righteous dead being in Abraham's bosom, and the Gentiles in hell, was altogether a Jewish one.

Now, for instance, if we infer from the description of Lazarus and Dives that immediately after death the good enter heaven, and the bad the torments of hell, and will stick to this inference, then we are bound to infer from the parable of the oldest son, that the Pharisees and Scribes never transgressed God's laws; from the parable of the lost sheep, that only one out of a hundred persons stray away from God by disobedience. But the parable of the ten pieces of silver compels us to believe that one out of ten are in a lost condition; and from the parable of the ten virgins, we must infer that one half of the human family will be saved, and the other half lost.

Wellersburg. B. KNEPPER.

HOPE'S SONG.

I hear it singing, singing sweetly,
Softly in an undertone—
Singing as if God had taught it,
"It is better farther on!"

Night and day it sings the same song;
Sings it while I sit alone,
Sings so that the heart may hear it—
"It is better farther on!"

Sits upon the grave and sings it,
Sings it when the heart would groan,
Sings it when the shadows darken—
"It is better farther on!"

Farther on? How much farther?
Count the milestones, one by one,
No! no counting—only trusting.
"It is better farther on!"

For the World's Crisis.

CHRISTIAN EXPERIENCE.

"Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. By whom also we have access by faith into this grace, wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God. And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also, knowing that tribulation worketh patience, and patience experience, and experience hope. And hope maketh not ashamed, because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given us." "Now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous; nevertheless, afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby. Wherefore lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees; and make straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way." "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord."

The above language seems truly applicable to God's dear children, especially to me of late. O how sweet, how blessed, how full of divine mercy and goodness, yea, fraught with incalculable blessings for his precious children in this world of sin and adversity. But in order to fully enjoy the peaceable fruits of righteousness, we have to be pruned, chastened, scourged, and sometimes tried almost beyond measure, that we may be brought to realize our weakness, sins, and dependence on the hand that sustains us.

While in this world we are on probation, in the Lord's crucible, and we often have the gospel mirror placed before our minds, that we may see our moral condition while passing through, and the improvement we are making. O, may the hand that directs the rod for our good and his glory, open ultimately with peace and blessing on all our hearts; and it surely will if we suffer patience to have her perfect work.

I have been placed in this crucible for thirty-five years, or more, and have suffered many trials, temptations and deprivations during the time, in connection with my dear wife, while laboring for the good of others; but we have tried to keep our bark well anchored and ballasted. But for some months, and I might add some few years last past, the storms have raged most fearfully, not only without, but within, among some of the ship's voyagers, so that it has been quite difficult to keep the ballast at its proper equilibrium; but what we could not help, we tried to endure with christian resignation and patience, though imperfectly, while the exciting and angry waves stared us wildly in the face. While this was our condition, we had Jesus (oh, that blessed Name!) to stand by us and comfort our aching hearts. The following cheering words of the poet more than once have come home to our hearts with gladness, as though they were divinely inspired:

"Have we trials and temptations?
Is there trouble anywhere?
We should never be discouraged,
Take it to the Lord in prayer."

Can we find a friend so faithful,
Who will all our sorrows share?
Jesus knows our every weakness,
Take it to the Lord in prayer."

Well, praise the Lord, we did, and we have outweathered the storms and tempestuous winds, and the rough sea, without harm, and once more have quietness nearly all around, especially in our own hearts; and that is the best of all. A holy, heavenly breeze is calmly wafting us on towards the port of endless day.

About the time the dark cloud of trial began to cover us, we were awakened from our slumbers about twelve o'clock at night by some unearthly visitor whom I believe was a ministering angel; and if ever I was happy since God for Christ's sake forgave my sins, it was then. I awoke my wife and said,

"Mary, glory be to God! I am as happy as I well can be." The influence was so pure and holy, my being seemed wrapt in a flame of heavenly love. Then it was that the following words of the poet were engraven most deeply upon my memory; words that I shall never forget, neither the influence that sealed them to my soul:

"His own soft hand shall wipe the tears
From every weeping eye,
And pains and groans, and griefs and fears,
And death itself shall die."

This manifestation of superlative excellence and glory seemed to be my comforter for days, but finally was gently withdrawn. It had done its work, and left its impression. Then came my trials, temptations, conflicts, and tears. Had it not been for this heavenly manifestation, I know not but I should have sunk beneath the waves of trouble; but this flashed across my soul in my darkest hours, and somewhat relieved me in my distress, and led me to hope still for deliverance. The day after a long time dawned. The disturbing elements found a grave; upon its tombstone is written eternal death. The clouds began to move steadily away; the recollections and impressions of the past could not be readily obliterated and forgotten. I looked for the morning star—the star that ushers in the sunrise and a cloudless sky. They came, dancing with joy and "good cheer," on Tuesday night of this week, Feb. 15th, 1870, about ten o'clock. We had been singing two or three hymns, after which we knelt in prayer. We enjoyed much freedom and were refreshed. Arising from worship, I took the Advent Minstrel, and opened it to the 112th Hymn—one that I never sung, to my knowledge, and do not know that I ever heard the tune that I sung it in. I sung it through. My soul began to well up with unutterable joy. I sung it again. My whole being began to be agitated. My eyes were flooded with tears. I sung it again; my soul was full of glory. I retired to rest. Sleep I could not for hours, the peace and glory were so great. How I wept for joy. God's love and peace had full possession of me. God, it seemed, would have his own way with me, and he had it; for I was more than willing. I finally dropped to sleep. My soul was wrapt in ecstasies of joy, praise, and thanksgiving, so that nearly the whole night I communed with God through his heavenly messengers.

The morning came. I could think of but little outside of my Jesus, my God, my Bible, the angels, and my joys. Truly this was enough. O how much I love to sing that hymn. Tongue cannot express the joy I feel on account of it; and in singing this hymn for the last four days I have been truly happy, full of peace. I feel that I am sealed for translation and the kingdom of God. And glory, praise, all praise is due to God, who is the author of so great a salvation. I never can express the gratitude I feel for this salvation, and the rich blessings flowing from it. Could skeptics, infidels and spiritualists enjoy what I have for the last four days, there would not be found either of these classes twenty-four hours hence on the face of the earth.

God's eternal purpose embraces only one divine arrangement for the salvation of fallen man. Every soul that desires this great salvation must fall in love with it, fully embrace it, be swallowed up in it, and all of its heavenly mandates must be submitted to; then we shall be filled with peace and glory while we long for eternal redemption. All systems of human origin or worldly policy, such as secret societies, should be at once and forever abandoned by every lover of God and his truth. It is exceedingly dangerous to abide in them; they contaminate and disqualify and materially hinder our progress in divine things. The friendship of this world is at enmity with God. I bid them all a final farewell. I have stronger attractions, something more glorious and real. Praise the Lord.

A. N. SEYMOUR.

SLIPPERY PLACES.

Slippery places for whom? For the impenitent and the ungodly? No. It is not for them that this friendly word of counsel is written. "Their foot shall slide in due time," and unless they shall yet lay hold on the arm that is mighty to save, they shall land in the depths of perdition.

I am now thinking rather of the spiritual dangers which beset God's people—those for whom Jesus bled, and who have already made their vow to be his followers. It is a sorrowful fact that much of the labor of every pastor is to exhort, to warn, to guide and to caution the members of his own church, and to keep them off the slippery places. And the saddest sound that smites on his ear is the occasional fall of some poor backslider whose feet have slipped, and he has gone down maimed and bruised and well nigh dead! . . . Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. Happy is that christian who always remembers that on every path of life there are slippery places, and who keeps so near to God that he may "hold him up" the moment his foot begins to slide.

Even in the blessed season of their "first love," young converts are in peril. They have not yet learned the sharp practice of the adversary. Presumption is a weakness of youth—even of christians in their spiritual youth. They overrate their own strength. They are very apt to feel like Peter when he uttered the vain-glorious vaunt, "though all men forsake thee, Lord, yet will not I!" Brave boasting that! But listen for a moment and you will hear a most terrible fall. "Then Peter began to curse and to swear, saying 'I know not the man!'" Poor Peter! bruised, bleeding, crestfallen, as he goes away weeping into the garden he has learned a sore lesson that he will not soon forget. He has learned what a miserable, weak creature Simon Peter is without Christ. Out into the solitudes of the garden he goeth—not to hide his sin with the rope of the suicide—but to be reconverted. He repents anew, and does his first works, and gives his heart afresh to Jesus. From that garden he comes back a wiser, humbler, and a better man. Now there are tens of thousands of christians who have had just such an experience as presumptuous Peter's.

2. Worldly prosperity is a very slippery place for a professing christian. When a man begins to get rich in money, he is very apt to grow poor in grace. . . . When a church-member gets wealth, his pride is very likely to swell with his income; he begins to feel independent of God; the higher he rises in prosperity the more he leans over like a tower whose altitude is too great for the breadth of its base. Every prosperous christian ought to pray every night and morning, "O Lord! I am in a dizzy place. When my foot begins to slip, let thy mercy hold me up!"

3. A state of over-confidence is always a state of danger. We always feel uneasy for those who claim to have made wonderful attainments. Secret pride steals in, and saps their humbleness of mind and dependent faith. They grow presumptuous. "Who is afraid? Not I." Other people may fall; not they. So Peter felt, and and yet he was the very first disciple to desert in the hour of trial. We have always felt most anxiety about those converts who enter the church with a very glib and fluent profession in which the little word "I" is painfully prominent. They are often the earliest backsliders. In Bunyan's allegory, poor "Mr. Fearing" managed to reach the celestial city at last, though with a very sorry opinion of his own graces. Self-conceited "Mr. Presumption" was left lying on the road with a pair of iron fetters on his heels.

God sees a secret pride in the hearts of his own people often, which needs to be chastised. We have no doubt that this is the reason why sore afflictions are sent sometimes on those who stand as eminent christians before the world. God saw that they were going to stumble through over-confidence, and so in mercy to them he brought them low. After their humbling afflictions they become tenfold stronger and holier christians than they ever were before. A stoop has often saved from a fall.

4. In these days many in our churches are in terrible danger from sinful conformities to the world. An elegant, luxurious style of living—parties of pleasure—wine-dinners—opera-houses—dancing and dressing and drinking entertainments are certain death to the spirituality of those who are decoyed into them. We have never found the christian yet who could be trusted to stand firm on such slippery places. Sooner or later the devil trips him up. God has never promised to take care of his people in the theatre, the ball-room, or over the wine bottle. At fashionable watering-places, and in foreign travel, church members often try to go as far over the line as they can and save their christian character. "Only this once; we are away from home now; nobody knows us here." Alas! when the tempter gets a professed christian into such a net of sophistry and self-deception, he is already on the edge of the precipice. The man who does not feel every hour, "Christ sees me and how can I do this sin?" is already begun to be a backslider.

What is the safeguard? There is only one. It is this: keep close to God and keep away from the danger! If the ice is thin, stay off of it, and you will never be drowned. If there is an under-current drawing you into sin, cry unto God for help and swim out! When you feel a sinful inclination drawing you toward any place or any practice, or any pursuit or any pleasure, then put your foot down firmly and say to yourself, "No! I will not go one inch further!"

The safest rule for a child of God is to practice a total abstinence from everything that leads the footsteps into slippery places. Never go where you cannot ask Christ Jesus to go with you! Never do what you cannot ask Christ Jesus to help you do! Never try to see how close you can drive to a precipice without going over. And if stern duty requires you to go where the path is dangerous, then remember the Psalmist's prayer, "When I say my foot slippeth! O! Lord, let thy mercy hold me up!"—T. L. Cuyler.

CONSIDER!

CONSIDER
The lilies of the field, whose bloom is brief;
We are as they:
Like them we fade away,
As doth a leaf.

CONSIDER
The sparrows of the air, of small account;
Our God doth view,
Whether they fall or mount;
He guides us too.

CONSIDER
The lilies that neither do spin nor toil,
Yet are most fair;
What profits all this care
And all this toil?

CONSIDER
The birds that have no barn, nor harvest weeks;
God gives them food.
Much more our Father seeks
To do us good.

—Macmillan's Magazine.

CONGREGATIONAL SINGING.

1. Sing all. See that you join with the congregation as frequently as you can. Let not a slight degree of weakness or weariness hinder you. It is a cross to you; take it up and you will find it a blessing.

2. Sing lustily, and with a good courage. Beware of singing as if you were all dead, or half asleep; but lift up your voice with strength. Be no more afraid of your voice now, nor ashamed of its being heard, than when you sang the songs of Satan.

3. Sing modestly. Do not bawl so as to be heard above, or distinct from the rest of the congregation, that you may not destroy the harmony; but strive to unite your voices together, so as to make one clear, harmonious sound.

4. Sing in time. Whatever time is sung keep up with it. Do not run before, or stay behind it; but attend closely to the leading voices, and move therewith as exactly as you can; and take care you sing not too slow. This drawling way naturally steals on all who are lazy, and it is high time to drive it out from among us, and sing all our tunes just as quick as we did at first.

5. Above all, sing spiritually. Have an eye to God in every word you sing. Aim at pleasing him more than yourself, or any other creature. In order to do this attend strictly to the sense of what you sing; and see that your heart is not carried away with the sound, but offered to God continually—so shall your singing be such as the Lord will approve of here, and reward when he cometh in the clouds of heaven.—John Wesley.

For the World's Crisis.

WHAT IS TRUTH?—John 18: 38.

NUMBER ONE.

"Thy word is truth."—John 17: 17. Reason why: "For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." 2 Pet 1: 21. Then we shall find in the Word all that is necessary for us to know. Says the Psalmist, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."—Ps. 119: 105. A lamp will do us no good unless we walk in its light; neither will it give us any light unless supplied with oil. The Bible will do us no good unless we take heed to its teachings, seeking for the inspiration of that same Spirit that guided those who wrote its sacred truths. If we do this, we may rest assured that we shall be guided into all truth. John 16: 13, 14.

Paul could say that he had kept back nothing that was profitable, but had declared all the counsel of God. Acts 20: 20, 29. Here, then, we come inquiring for light, confidently believing that we shall find in the word of God all we need to know.

We therefore propose very briefly to trace man's history, from the time of his creation to the end of probation, as delineated in the Bible, praying that we may be guided by the Spirit of God into all truth.

"What is man?" Ps. 8: 4. "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul."—Gen. 2: 7. How much of him? Just as much as was made of dust; and the record says that man was made of dust; not a mortal body to put an immortal soul or spirit into, but man. Then man is put on probation (not his immortal soul) for life or death. The law was, "Thou shalt not eat; . . . for in the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die" (margin, "dying, thou shalt die").—Gen. 2: 17.

Man ate and fell. Let us hear his sentence after he had broken the divine law: "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return."—Gen. 3: 19. Take notice; it is the same thou (or man) that is to eat bread that is to return to dust; just what God made man of and called him man before he breathed; and then when he gave him the "breath of life" he called him a living soul (or creature, or person).

That soul means person read 1 Pet. 3: 20; "Eight souls were saved by water." Also Acts 27: 33–38, where there were two hundred threescore and sixteen souls in the ship that ate bread. No one would for one moment attempt to maintain the position that eight immortal spirits were saved; for that which is immortal cannot die, consequently could not be saved from death.

But we read, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die."—Ezek. 18: 20. What is that death? There are two deaths brought to view in God's word: the Adamic death, and the second death. The prophet here is clearly referring to the second death. We read: "And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years, and he died."—Gen. 5: 5. He was dead. How much of him? Just as much of him as became a living soul when he received the breath of life. Job says man "dieth and wasteth away; yea, man giveth up the ghost, and where is he?" 14: 10. "As the waters fail from the sea, and the flood decayeth and drieth up, so man lieth down, and riseth not; till the heavens be no more they shall not awake nor be raised out of their sleep." "O that thou wouldst hide me in the grave."—Job 14; 11, 13.

Man at death goes to the grave; for, says Solomon, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave whither thou goest."—Eccl. 9: 10. This agrees with the testimony of David in Ps. 104: 29,—"Thou takest away their breath; they die, and return to their dust." Also, "His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth; in that very day his thoughts perish."—Ps. 146: 4. "For the living know that they shall die; but the dead know not anything; neither have they any more a reward; for the memory of them is forgotten." Eccl. 9: 5.

Thus far we see all dying, dropping into the tomb, without one ray of light or life to cheer the dark gloom of an eternal sleep. But hark! "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."—1 Cor. 15: 22. We saw just what kind of a death Adam died. It was Adam that died; yea, all that constituted him Adam died; so all that constituted him Adam will be made alive again. It cannot be any other than a death of the entire man; or, in other words, it cannot be a spiritual death, for infants, who have never sinned, die in Adam, or in consequence of Adam's sin, and will be made alive in Christ at the resurrection. "For the hour is coming in the which all that are in the graves [not a part] shall hear his [Christ's] voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation."—John 5: 28, 29. All are to come forth. When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory; and before him shall be gathered all nations; and he shall separate them one from another." "And he shall say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." But to them on the left, "Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels." "And these shall go away into everlasting punishment; but the righteous into life eternal." Matt. 28: 31–46.

Bryant's Pond, Me. S. TENNEY.

— Do not shut up your happiness, but let all, who will, rejoice in it with you.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, July 27, 1870.

Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

Money Orders.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

W. A. MUNROE—Correct. It was a mistake.

D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

MURDOCK'S TESTAMENT—We can now furnish Murdock's Translation of the Testament from the Syriac, for $2.50.

"DEBT & GRACE"—We have a few copies of "Debt & Grace" in good condition, which we have gathered, and will send it for $1.50. Some have been very anxious to get it.

BILLS! BILLS!!

There are many of our subscribers who are largely in arrears in their payments for the Crisis. To such we are now sending bills of their indebtedness. We hope to have a prompt response by the brethren and sisters sending in the amount due without delay.

AG'T.

CHICAGO.

From Burlington, Iowa, we went to Chicago, Saturday, July 9th. It is quite a pleasure to ride on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R., because of the good speed, easy motion, and convenient cars. The same is true of the Michigan Central, from Chicago to Detroit, the Boston and Maine and Eastern from Boston to Portland. The Michigan Central cars have excellent ventilation. By a peculiar arrangement, four currents of fresh air are continually forced into the cars, while in motion, which adds much to the comfort of the passengers. Within a few years, great improvements have been made for the convenience of those who travel by railroad, and every year brings valuable additions. What a contrast between the present and fifty years since. Up to that time, for about six thousand years, there had been no improvement made in the speed of travel beyond the fleet horse. The stage coach brought the earliest news. But what a change. Now we read in our morning papers of what took place at midnight in Paris the night before. We have news from all the world, a few hours after it transpires. Truly, this is an age of wonders. People may well inquire, "What next?" When the Pope is declared infallible, we think it might be well for men to pause and take breath, before they renew the race for other new and strange things.

But we commenced to say a word about Chicago. As seen from a business and worldly stand-point, the contrast between this city and ordinary ones is much like that between the lightning express trains and the old stage coach. It is said there are no four cities combined, each having the same population as Chicago, that are doing the amount of business which is transacted in this metropolis of American enterprise. One stands amazed at the sight as when he gazes upon the roaring Niagara; and beholds the business of the one, like the tossing, foaming, dashing waters of the other. There is no rest. The business men of Chicago have no time to stop and think of a future world. If any class of people upon the earth have need of the Savior's exhortation,—"Take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares" (Luke 21: 34), it is the people of Chicago. They are noble-hearted, but have an insatiable desire for wealth, and are determined to make their city the ruling one of the nation. Their ambition and enterprise know no bounds. But the day is drawing near when the glory and wealth of man will come to nought. Then, where shall be found these mighty men? We think some reference is made to such in Rev. 6: 15–17, where the Revelator is describing the scenes at the coming of Christ. He says, "The kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, . . . hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; and said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb; for the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?"

Although the mass in Chicago seem utterly reckless as to the future, yet there are some noble exceptions, even among heavy business men, who are ready to make liberal sacrifices for a pure Christianity. There are some who have got their eyes of faith fixed upon the coming kingdom, and are resolved to be at "the marriage supper of the Lamb." We had precious seasons with the Chicago church, Sabbath, July 10th. It was a rich feast of heavenly things. There was much freedom in our social meetings, and an earnest spirit manifested, which indicated daily life in Christ. The brethren urged that a special effort should be made in the autumn to spread the truth in the city. We think favorably of the plan.

After years of faithful service, Bro. Ramsey has resigned the pastoral charge of the Chicago church, intending to move further west, and labor in new fields. He is well adapted to the enterprising spirit of the west, and we shall expect to hear of rich fruits from his zealous labors. May the Lord bless him abundantly, and give him many souls as seals of ministry. He found but a few scattered fragments when he first went to Chicago. Those he gathered together, and preached to them without charge, while he supported his family by daily labor. This he did till the church became so large that he could no longer work six days, preach on the Sabbath, and fulfill the duties of a pastor. He then gave up a good business situation, and devoted his whole time to the religious interests of the church; labored incessantly, till his health failed. He has not fully regained his strength, but hopes to be able to labor as an evangelist, as the door may open. The church in Chicago will be supplied with preaching for the present by evangelists.

THE PROSPECT.

Unless the war between France and Prussia comes to a speedy termination, it is likely to involve nearly all the nations of Europe. The position of England is peculiarly critical. Her royal family is closely allied to the war parties, and their sympathizing neighbors. The Prince of Wales married a daughter of the royal house of Denmark; but Denmark is on the side of France, and opposed to Prussia. On the other hand, the Princess Royal of England is the wife of the Crown Prince of Prussia. The situation of England is very critical. If Napoleon is victorious over Prussia, he will most surely advance upon England to avenge the battle of Waterloo, where Napoleon I. was defeated. It would arouse the French war-blood to the highest pitch, should a war open between France and England.

In the present war, Napoleon does not receive the sympathies of other nations; because they think he has been too hasty, and might have maintained the honor of France without fighting. Other governments defended him at first, so long as there was a prospect that Leopold, the Prince of Hohenzollern, was to receive the throne of Spain; but when he refused the position, and Prussia declared that she was innocent of any attempt to place the Prince upon the Spanish throne, the world said Napoleon ought to be satisfied. But he felt otherwise, and has acted accordingly. He has remembered the snub that he received from Bismarck in 1866, and since that time has been preparing for war with Prussia, and watching the opportunity for an excuse to begin. There is great enthusiasm in both countries. The two nations are fully aroused, and will soon be doing very bloody work. O how much the Prince of Peace is needed upon our planet to set things right. Until he comes, "evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse."

This is the time for christians to keep upon their watch-towers, clothed with "the whole armor of God," with the prophetic glass at the eye, looking carefully into the opening future, having pure hearts, all ready to welcome the coming of the rightful heir to earth's diadem. Sublime scenes are about to open upon an astonished world. We are glad it is our privilege to live in these last days with a bright hope of being alive when Jesus comes.

SPIRIT MECHANICS.

In the Banner of Light, April 17th, 1869, are some questions put to the spirits and their answers. Among others are the following:—

"Q.—How do spirits employ their time in the spirit-world?

A.—There are an infinite number of ways by which the spirits employ their time or are occupied in the spirit-world. They who are artists, because they have a love in that direction, employ their time in that way. The mechanic—for we have mechanics in the spirit-world—who is such from the love of it—pursues the same avocation in the spirit-world."

"Q.—How do mechanics exercise their powers? Have they building material with which to work?

A.—You forget that these buildings which you inhabit are in the spirit-world—every one of them. They have an inner as well as an external life. Every one of these works of art has a soul, and the external appearance of that soul has need of an external architect—somebody to fashion it,—somebody to take care of it, somebody to embellish it.

The spirit mechanic, who builds spirit-houses, would need spirit-saw-mills to saw spirit-logs into spirit-boards; and spirit-nails, and other spirit materials with which to construct his spirit-house. He would also need spirit-planes, spirit-chisels, spirit-saws, spirit-hammer, spirit-gimblets, and all sorts of spirit-tools, if he was going to do nice work. No doubt it would be quite a spirit-house when done; some like other castles built in the air in our dreaming reveries. We will not chase this spirit-bubble any further, as it is not pleasant to meditate on that which exists only in the imagination.

"I AM THE LIFE."

BRO. GRANT:—I write to ask you your views of Christ's words: "I am . . . the life." John 14: 6. Does he mean here that he imparts immortality to the soul that comes to the Father by him? GEO. S. CHASE.

We do not see any other meaning to the passage. Jesus is the one who is to give eternal life to those who obey him. "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ." Rom. 6: 23. Says John: "This is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son." 1 John 5: 11. This is the "eternal life" promised to the faithful, and obtained from Christ at his coming.

T. S. Arthur's Home Magazine, and The Children's Hour, for August, published in Phila., have been received; each with a fine list of contents.

THE WAR IN EUROPE.

The war winds in Europe are let loose with terrible fury. The prospect is truly alarming. There has been no time since the days of Napoleon I. when the war clouds were so ominous of a tempest as at the present time. We have been anxiously waiting for some ten years for what has now commenced. We felt sure it must take place before the coming of Jesus. The scene has now opened in the right place to bring about the fulfillment of the last pencilings of the seer upon the great prophetic chart of this world's history. It looks like the opening of the last bloody drama among men; though we do not expect that the war now begun will last till the coming of Christ; but it will prepare the way for the closing scenes of this dispensation. If we are not very much mistaken, the "wonderful man" upon the throne of France has a certain part to fulfill in the grand winding up of this dispensation. We think his present move commences the closing series of great events that are to transpire just before the appearing of the King of kings. We cannot tell now how long it may take to reach the last one; but we are fully satisfied it is not far in the future.

We are truly "in the last days." Those who are not ready for the coming of Christ have no time to lose, if they would be prepared to meet him in peace. We occupy a sublime moment in earth's history. Every day adds interest to our position. Let us keep upon the watch-towers, waiting for the "coming One."

BE NATURAL.

Many good men and women fall into the habit of being quite unnatural in their tone of voice, when they speak and pray in meetings. They do not appear like themselves; and the consequence is that their efforts for good are not as successful as they would be if they were natural. Artificial tones and manners are not pleasing. The Chicago Advance has some excellent remarks on this subject, from which we make the following extracts:—

"A multitude of good men, both ministers and laymen, do not understand this, and consequently are short of power, despite an earnest desire to do good. They have a 'holy tone' in religious conversation, which their friends and neighbors do not hear at other times, when the subject is business or politics. They assume a different cast of countenance when they approach a man for a religious purpose, so that he knows infallibly what the topic will be, before a word has been uttered. They pray in an unnatural key, changing instantly from their ordinary voice, and in a manner not required by simple reverence. Their demeanor in a conference meeting has something sanctimonious about it, as though their piety was of a sudden caught up and put on, when they entered the room, as an Episcopal clergyman arrays himself in his robes when he enters the pulpit. The sermon or exhortation has a whine in it, that does not savor of outspoken manliness. The hymn is so read as to have a canting sound. The American drawl, justly offensive to pure English ears, is put to doleful use, as though piety lay in protracting the vowel sounds of religious speech.

Oh, for a race of christian preachers and speakers, who will cultivate the grace of uttering themselves naturally, in private and in public, eschewing peculiar tones, worn out catch phrases which have degenerated into a religious slang; mannerisms imitated from an eccentric revivalist, or contagious to a particular sect, sing-songs of reading, sanctimoniousness of demeanor. Why not so imbue mind and heart with religion, that it shall spontaneously express itself in all natural ways, as do the ruling principles of the lives of other men? The christian has no cause to be ashamed of his religion, no need to apologize for it, no occasion for artificial word or act or manner in advocating it. Let him be true to his manhood, then, and speak as all do on other topics, who have an earnest purpose, clear convictions, and proper respect for themselves and their hearers. The argument will then convince, the sincerely given testimony will have weight, the solemn appeal will impress. The man himself will be thought to have spoken, unsuspected of hypocrisy or delusion, of cant or artifice."

The nearer we can come to earnest conversation in preaching and exhortation, the more interested will the audience become, and the more the people will feel that the speaker is addressing himself to them. When he assumes an artificial tone, and a loud voice, looking at everything but the hearers, he must not expect to see much effect from his preaching. He may expect a sleepy audience, and poor attention, from those who manage to keep awake. When we talk to people, we should look them in the eye, and the listener should do the same. It is very disheartening to a preacher to see his hearers looking about the room, reading some book, or with their heads bowed on the desk, as if they desired to go to sleep; but if he would not witness such things, let him be sure and be natural, and address himself to the hearers in an earnest manner. If he does not feel what he is saying, he must not think of making them feel the importance of the subject.

THE GHOST CREW AND REV. MILES GRANT.

EDITOR OF THE BANNER:—I saw in the Banner, a few weeks since, an account of the two fishing schooners sent out from Salem, Mass., to the George's Banks, whose names were "The Andy Johnson," and the "Haskell;" the former having been run down, and sunk by the latter, when all on board perished,—and the Haskell is said to have been twice sent back from George's Banks, this Spring, by the ghosts of the seamen of Andy Johnson."

Now, I wish to recommend an experiment to our brethren, the Adventists, who advocate the literal death of the soul and declare that all who die will remain literally dead and therefore utterly unconscious to the end of time, or till the second coming of Christ, which is yet future. Let them provide a skipper and crew of their faith, and let them take the schooner Haskell to the George's Banks again. If they will do this they will no doubt give up their (partly atheistic) Creed, before the return to land again. Let Miles Grant accompany the crew.

I do really wish there could be a Skipper and crew of Advents found plucky enough to make the above experiment.

Fraternally, Yours, B. B. M. Turner.

The foregoing appeared in "The Gospel Banner," Augusta, Me., June 4th, 1870. We do not see why the living crew on board the "Haskell" could not conduct their schooner "to the George's Banks" as easily as the ghosts of the dead one; or does the writer intend to say that none but the ghosts of "The Andy Johnson" crew are on board the "Haskell," and that they are now running the schooner to the fishing banks? If this is what he means, we have only to assure him that we are "plucky enough" to say we do not believe his fish-story, and challenge him for his proof. Till that appears, we shall not spend time in chasing after his imaginary ghosts.

THE TRACT FUND.

Brethren, are we doing our whole duty in scattering light among our neighbors? We think but few are aware of the amount of good that may be done in this way. Dear reader, can't you spare a little money for this purpose? Come, make a present to the Lord, and thus assist in leading men to Christ. Time is short. Men are perishing. Send them a life-boat. One little tract may serve as a light-house to guide the shipwrecked mariner safely to Jesus.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING.

At a meeting of the Committee held in Springfield, July 6th, the following action was taken in relation to the Campmeeting appointed for August 20th:

Voted, "That all Associations and Societies, excepting the Advent Christian Association, and the Advent Christian Publication Society, be requested to appoint their business meetings at some place other than the Campground."

Voted, "That there be no collections taken or appeals made on the ground for money by any Association, Society, person or persons, excepting by order of the Committee."

Voted, "That the brethren and churches be requested (in consequence of the arrears of last year, caused in part by the large number of free boarders), to provide for the board of the poor among them.

GEO. T. ADAMS, SECRETARY.

"FREE-MASONRY DEVELOPED."—Have you read the thrilling work on Masonry, published by Samuel D. Green? He is the only surviving member of the lodge in Batavia, N. Y., that caused the murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan, in 1826. The book should have a wide circulation, and be read by everybody. All christian men, especially, should be familiar with the contents of the work. It is emphatically a book for the times. For sale at this office. Price $1.50.

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."

By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

NEW PAMPHLET.

"The Mediatorial Kingdom, or the reign of Christ in the Gospel Dispensation": by Eld. Wm. N. Pile.

The above is the title of a new pamphlet of 96 pages. It is divided into thirteen sections, under the following captions, which suggest its contents: "Christ as a Prophet"—"Christ as a Priest"—"The Tabernacle of David"—"The Tabernacle of David identical with that of Christ"—"The Melchisedek priesthood a kingly order"—"The reign of Christ on Zion's hill"—"Extent of Christ's power during this reign"—"Christ has the title and prerogatives of God in this age"—"The Mediatorial reign of Christ"—"The relation of the church to Christ in this age"—"Exposition of Zech. iv"—"Christ delivers up the Mediatorial Kingdom to the Father at the end of this age"—"God all in all."

Price 25 cts. per copy; five for $1.00, postage included. For sale at this office. AG'T.

TWO NEW TRACTS.

BY I. C. WELLCOME, YARMOUTH, ME.

THE INQUIRER.—CATHOLIC OR PROTESTANT: WHICH?

This tract gives a sketch of the great Roman apostasy, and the dogmas which caused it; the arguments which the early faithful christians used in opposing it: also of original Protestantism, its noble declaration of Bible principles against Romanized Platonism on the immortality of the soul; the relapse of Protestantism to the Platonic dogma; their present driftings towards Romanism, Rationalism, Universalism, and Spiritism, growing out of their dogma of the soul's immortality. To this is added some interesting sketches of the revival and progress of truth in our times, and a statement of the true gospel hope. 48 pp. Price, single, 8 cts.; by mail, 10 cts.; three for 20 cts.; $5 per hundred, by express.

CHURCH SPECTACLES.

This tract raises the questions, "Why do so few attend preaching, prayer, and conference meetings? Why are so few thoroughly converted to Christ?

It finds an answer in the lack of love for Christ in the church, as manifested in the sinful practices by her members of pleasure parties, levees, fairs, banquetings, games, gambling, dancing, and other immoral conduct, which destroy the confidence of the unconverted in the religion they see exhibited. Many proofs are given, and faithful scriptural reproofs administered. It is a terrible picture faithfully drawn, and the only remedy clearly pointed out.

16 pp. Price, single, 5 cts.; three for 10 cts.; per dozen, 30 cts., by mail; by express, $1 for fifty; $1.50 per hundred copies. For sale at this office.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.—"In this parable perhaps our Savior partly alludes to some real event. . . . Perhaps, too, it hints the tremendous ruin that fell upon the Jewish rulers and people for their despising of Jesus."—Brown's Bible Dictionary, p. 314.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute according to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERROX, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments	$552.08
Received of Eld. F. A. Baker, Executor of the estate of the late J. Turner, of Levant, Me., being the balance of one thousand dollars donated the Society (two hundred and fifty dollars having been paid last year) less revenue tax (sixty dollars)	690.00
"The Lord's money"	5.00
E. Noyes	.50
D. N. Brown	1.00

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments $63.56

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 202, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments $840.65

For the World's Crisis.

"OCCUPY TILL I COME."

To me there is no text of Scripture in the whole Bible that makes a deeper impression upon my mind than the one above. When we take into consideration the fact that God has delivered to us individually a talent, one or more as the case may be, and commanded us to improve upon what he has entrusted us with, it throws a responsibility on us, of which we cannot easily rid ourselves. It is an easy matter to say we have no gifts, and cannot do anything; but the Nobleman is to return by and by, and he will call us to an account. Then comes the trial, and it is for life; and if so, it will be wisdom in us to do as he has ordered; for as we have it in the parable, He said, "A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return. And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten pounds, and said unto them, Occupy till I come."—Luke 19: 12, 13. And this number is to represent the whole. We are all included in the number, and we shall be called to an account when Jesus the Nobleman comes.

It has seemed to me for some time to be of the greatest importance that I should look about myself. A man in order to "occupy" has something to do. In the first place, if the Lord has entrusted me with a talent, it is my duty to use it the best I can, at all times. As a preacher of the gospel, I have my work to do. I cannot expect to make much progress in this direction without some effort on my part.

Every one's duty is plainly set forth in the Scriptures. The great commission given to his servants is, to "go into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Their work in the vineyard is assigned them. Now I am not to stop and say, Because I am not the head I cannot do anything, or the hand, instead of the feet, I cannot do anything. If one cannot preach, he can pray. If one is willing to do the little the Master has for him to do, all will be well. The interest on a dollar for a year is six cents; and if it is not put out to usury, it gains nothing. If there is but little given, little will be required. It would be very poor policy if I had one acre of land, and my brother ten, for me to say I would not improve my land because there was so small a bit of it. If I have all my time to spend on one acre, while my brother has ten to work, you see, brethren, I should have the advantage. If I am industrious, I could make it like a garden. So with the small gift. Improve upon it, and it will shine; and it will be said, when the Nobleman comes, "Well done!" That will be enough. Just improve on what you have.

I made up my mind at the commencement of this year that I would be more faithful and do more than I have ever done before. I would keep preaching, and I would go to writing, and do the best I could, and send it to Bro. Grant; and if he could get anything out of it that would answer to put in the paper, well and good; and if not, it would do me some good; if he did, it would help him some. I think he, with all other editors, has considerable to do; and if he has a large pile of manuscripts to select from, it is easier for him.

I hope to see an increase of interest in this direction. Brethren, do not say, "I can't." Let us hear from you often. God will bless you if you will try. "Occupy" is the text. You cannot tell which will prosper; this or that. Let us cast our bread upon the waters. It is but a little part of our duty to preach and pray; this alone will not save men. Let us use hands, heads, and hearts.

In the great work of saving souls it is not enough for us to preach, pray, and talk in meetings; this is but a little part of the work to be done; we must visit the sick, feed the hungry, clothe the naked; if it is but a cup of cold water in the name of the Lord, we shall not lose our reward. Let us use of our substance. Jesus is soon coming to reckon with us; and shall it be said of us, Cast them out as unprofitable servants? Shall this be said of me? My Lord, have mercy! Wake up, brother; wake up, sister; soon it will be said, "It is done!" and Jesus will cease all his pleading and come again.

The Crisis is the best reading I can find, except the blessed Bible. It seems better and better. Brethren, let us remember Bro. Grant in our prayers. If any one needs help, it is those who have every body to please. I love the Lord with all my heart. Glory to God. I want to see Jesus, and be like him. Come, Lord Jesus, and come quickly!

Marshfield, Vt. J. A. CLEAVELAND.

LET US REASON.

"The dead know not any thing." Eccl. 9: 5.

Those in hades are dead. Rev. 20: 13.

Therefore there is no knowledge in hades.

Dead men lying in the sea are to be judged. Rev. 20: 13.

None but accountable, intelligent beings are to be judged.

Therefore, accountable, intelligent men are now lying dead in the sea.

— One of Rutherford's golden sentences gives us the secret of his unusual unction: "The Cross gives us much to say."

For the World's Crisis.

CHASING A REVIVAL.—No. 5.

What is implied in the term revival? Its definition is, to quicken into new life. The prophet prayed, "O Lord, revive thy work!" and this should be the outgushing from every pious soul in the land. If a revival does not come from God, it will amount to nothing. Men may be indoctrinated into all the mysteries of the Bible, and not be converted to God; and there is something in conversion that none but God can do, and the sooner the church realizes this the more thorough and efficient will be its labors.

In the apostolic age the Holy Spirit was the efficient agent in convicting men of sin; but in this enlightened age, this is with some almost ignored. Doctrinal belief is considered indispensable to salvation; and, with many, forms and observance of days. We know that men are saved through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth; but they may believe the truth, and not be sanctified by the Spirit.

We are living under the dispensation of the Spirit; and preachers, teachers, and churches, who are not led and quickened by this divine agent, are out of their proper element, and like wandering stars, to whom is reserved the mist of darkness forever. We would like to ask churches and christians to review their experience, and note the seasons when they were the most happy, and when their hope and faith were the strongest. Was it not when they were revived by the Spirit?

Many preachers now try to revive the church by preaching long doctrinal sermons, but leave their hearers in a colder state than they find them; and if we believed that time would continue long enough, we should pray that there might be a professorship endowed upon brevity in preaching and praying.

While upon this subject, as the campmeeting season is approaching, we would suggest that those preachers who intend to officiate at these gatherings, and who are accustomed to preaching long sermons, should provide themselves with a strong bridle for the tongue, that they may not make a bore of themselves, and weary their audiences, and send a chill through the place; as we have often seen this effect result from the labors of this class of preachers. These hints are applicable to prayer-meetings also. It is generally conceded that the love-feast is the most interesting meeting of the church at the campmeeting, or elsewhere. And why is it so? Evidently because there are so large a number who take part in it; and if the same rule was adopted at the prayer and conference meeting, like results would follow.

But perhaps some will say the love-feast must be reserved for special occasions, and the church must feed upon husks and all other kinds of trash to give it an appetite to enjoy them. We do not use our bodies in this way, but use nourishing food daily to enable us to perform our daily labor. The soul needs this spiritual food daily to give it vitality and energy in the Lord's work.

We know it is much easier to instruct people having perfect eyesight, than those who are blind; and if churches and preachers would make the conversion of the impenitent and blind in sin a speciality, and the first thing, in their labors, they would accomplish more with less labor. A person who has been born of the Spirit, and his spiritual vision has become clear, can discern the truth more intelligently than those who are yet in spiritual darkness. So we would say, preach repentance and conversion first; and to Sabbath School teachers, labor and pray for the conversion of the children first; for of what avail will it be if they are indoctrinated into all the truths of the Bible, and are not renewed by the Spirit of God? All this labor will be a total failure; for "without holiness, no man shall see the Lord." D. N. SMITH.

For the World's Crisis.

BOOKS IN THE TENTS.

There are now many Mission tents in the field, in which the coming of Christ and his kingdom is being published.

The importance of carrying a good stock of books on these subjects with the tents can scarcely be over estimated. Many brethren attend these meetings who want such books. Many strangers to our views and hope attend, perhaps one day, or one service, or only call at the tent; they can hear but little; some of them will gladly buy our books to learn more, and take them home and get the benefits of a constant preacher in their libraries, explaining much they would not hear at the meeting if they attended a week.

The preachers can advertise their books to the congregations occasionally, and sell many of them, while the profit will half pay for the many tracts given away, or for books they might occasionally give to advantage.

A small book-case (about one and a half by two and a half feet, with cover on hinges to turn down) upon the preacher's stand, will advertise them, and draw many of the timid believers and unbelievers to the stand between meetings, to examine the books, tracts, and music; where the preachers and other faithful workers can find easy access to talk with them on the great salvation. We have had experience in this work. I. C. WELLCOME.

For the World's Crisis.

GOING TO WORK.

Dear brothers in Christ: I purpose visiting the state of Maine this summer. It is my native state. I love its hills and people. I am going in the name and strength of the mighty God. The calls of the Master have been long and loud; necessity compels me to yield to the summons. The object of my visit will be to point sinners to immortality and eternal life, to raise the fallen and support the weak, to bind up the broken-hearted, to oppose error and to do good, that I may finally rest in the garden of God. With the assistance of divine power I shall make my life consistent with my profession.

My labors will be confined principally to new fields. I seek not popularity. I only ask for fellowship with God's people in this world, and eternal life in the world to come.

I have no new doctrine or hobbies to present to the people. My purpose is to travel in the old and beaten paths of God's people; the story of the cross is old, but it seems just as good to God's children as ever.

I believe the first lie that Satan told to deceive man was coupled with truth; but I believe that Spiritualism, the last great device of Satan, is a blasphemous lie from beginning to end, and it will claim my special attention during my labors with the children of men.

The church of my choice is the Second Advent Christian, and I desire that it may prosper. Its doctrines I fully believe, and upon this point my mind can never change. Its ministers are like great lights in a dark night, and their doctrine is the last great message from God to man.

The church of our choice may have its faults and defects. It stands unpopular, isolated and rejected by the masses of mankind; but we believe that when the great historian shall recount its privations, its great deeds and mighty achievements to warn and redeem a world smitten with a curse, that it will stand out before an assembled world like some bright star on the brow of evening.

HOLLIS M. ROSE.

Correspondence.

From Sr. M. E. Dow.

BRO. GRANT:—Letters and kind inquiries have come to us from various sources recently, asking after our health and interests; and many have expressed a desire to meet us at the coming campmeetings. A number of these have come to our Sr. Mellen, who has been unable for some time to do any writing whatever. She wishes me to explain her silence to the friends, and request an interest in their prayers.

We had hoped a little rest from our Mission labors during our July vacation, in the country air, might recruit and refresh us for still greater efforts. But, alas! the month is passing, and with it the strength of our sister. Cough, fever, and prostration, confine her almost entirely to her room, where she is spending weary hours in great weakness. A kind, careful physician is doing all he can to restore, assuring us that constant labor and over taxation have hastened the disease; and though he considered it complicated and serious, yet possibly it might be arrested for a time.

She is calmly resigned to any way that may seem to be the Lord's will. Her greatest care is still her mission work, and she desires that others may be speedily raised up to labor among the poor. But we are loth to think her work is done in that direction, and she must sleep; and we remember that we have a greater than all earthly physicians, who has said, by the mouth of one of his apostles, "The prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up." No matter how incurable the disease may appear to be, the command is to pray. Will the dear scattered ones then pray that she may be healed, and spared till Jesus comes?

She greatly appreciates the sympathy and letters sent her, and hopes that though she cannot answer personally, friends will still administer their kind words of comfort and counsel. Her address is—West Chester, Pa., Box 516. Yours looking for redemption,

M. E. DOW.

BRO. W. A. FENN writes:—"Our tent meeting in East Randolph has been a success in every respect."

Obituaries.

MORRILL. Died, at Newburgh, Me., July 4th, 1870, Eld. John Morrill, aged sixty-eight years.

Elder Morrill was converted in 1824, and was solemnly set apart to the work of the Christian ministry by laying on of hands with prayer, on the 5th of July, 1841.

Just twenty-nine years from that day he was laid in the grave, amid the tears and regrets of his relatives, neighbors, and friends.

His illness was long, and his disease (cancer in the stomach) very distressing; but he rests in peace and hope at last.

He was beloved and honored as a man of industry, integrity and piety, and in his death both the church of Christ and the community around sustain a serious loss.

The apostolic exhortation to the elders of the church of God in 1 Pet. 5: 1–6, was made the subject of discourse on the occasion, by the writer, and appropriate remarks were offered by Eld. F. A. Baker.

"How long shall death the tyrant reign,
And triumph o'er the just?" M. L. H.

HOLLIS. Died, at East Randolph, July 15th, 1870, Harriet Hollis, wife of Bro. Ambrose Hollis, aged seventy-four years and six months.

The subject of this notice embraced, in 1844, the New Testament teachings in regard to the immediate and personal coming of our Lord Jesus Christ to reign on the earth with his resurrected saints forever and ever. In this faith she died, and in hope of living again when He, who is our life, shall come to call all his ransomed people home. Funeral attended by the writer.

WM. HOBBS.

THOMPSON. Died, at Danville, Vt., July 4th, of inflammation of the stomach, Mr. Nathan Thompson, aged seventy years.

Bro. T. was a firm believer in the truths taught in the Crisis, which had been his family paper for several years. The blessed hope gave him strong consolation in the hours of his dreadful sufferings. He and his family stood almost alone in their faith in the place where they resided. God bless the dear, liberal-hearted children, and grant that the light may not go out in that place till Jesus comes to destroy death. N. WHEELER.

BERRY. Died, in New Durham, N. H., July 15th, 1870, Sarah E. Berry, wife of John Berry, aged thirty-seven years, three months, and two days.

Sister Berry lived and died a christian. She leaves a christian husband to mourn, not as others which have no hope; for he believes that Jesus died and rose again, and that she who now sleeps in Christ will rise, and he will be caught up with her in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air; and so "forever be with the Lord." Sermon by the writer. J. PINKHAM.

COOK. In Ellsworth, Me., July 15th, 1870, Ella E., wife of Cyrus A. Cook, aged twenty years, three months, and eight days. Z. B. CHASE.

Passing Events.

The cannon in the Palais Royal at Paris, discharged by means of a magnifying glass, now goes off at noon daily. The garden is frequented just before that hour by numbers of idlers and strangers, waiting to regulate their watches by the detonation.

A great scarcity of straw is apprehended in Europe in consequence of the protracted drought. M. Darbly, the great French flour merchant, says, "There will be bread and meat this winter, and they will not be dear; but millionaires only will be able to lie on straw."

Berlin is growing more rapidly than any city in Europe. In 1832 it was the eighth in the order of European capitals, its population being 250,000; in 1869 it was the third, only London and Paris its superiors, its population being 800,000.

Since Queen Victoria took her place on the English throne, thirty-three years ago, every other throne in Europe has changed occupants.

There were 148 cases of suicide in the Prussian army last year. That superb military system weighs heavily upon the people.

The Crown Princess of Prussia has another daughter, and Queen Victoria another granddaughter, born two or three weeks since.

The protracted heated term is causing a large amount of sickness, especially among those exposed to the sun, and those who are engaged in mental labor.

— In the principality of Waldeck, Germany, the government has recently issued a notice that no license to marry shall be granted to a drunkard, unless he exhibits proof that he has entirely reformed.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

PARIS, July 20. In the Corps Legislatif to-day M. Grammont announced that war had been declared with Prussia and her allies in the following words:

"The expose presented to you on the 15th instant made known the cause we have for war against Prussia. According to the rules and usages of nations, and by order of the Emperor, I have requested the Charge d' Affaires at Berlin to notify the Cabinet of Prussia of our resolution to seek with arms the guaranties we could not obtain by discussion. This has been done, and I have the honor to make known to the Corps Legislatif that in consequence thereof a state of war exists since the 19th between France and Prussia. This declaration applies to the allies of Prussia who give her armed assistance."

BERLIN, July 20. At the opening of the Reichstag to-day, after the applause had subsided, the King said:

Prussia had no interest in the selection of the Prince of Hohenzollern for the Spanish throne, except that it might bring peace to a friendly people. It had nevertheless furnished the Emperor of the French with a pretext for war unknown to diplomacy, and scorning peace, he had indulged in language to Germany which could only have been prompted by the misunderstanding of her strength. Germany was powerful enough to resent such language and repel such violence. He said so in all reverence, knowing that the event was in God's hands. He had fully weighed the responsibility which rested on a man who drives into war and havoc two great and tranquil nations, yearning for peace and the enjoyment of the common blessings of Christian civilization and prosperity, and for contests more salutary than those of blood. Those who rule France have shrewdly studied the proper methods of hitting the sensitive pride of that great neighbor nation, and to promote their interests have misguided it. "Then, (concluded their King,) as our fathers before us have done, let us fight for liberty and our rights against wrong inflicted by a foreign conqueror, and as He was with our fathers, so God will be with us in a struggle without which Europe can never enjoy lasting peace."

LONDON, July 20. Telegraphic communication between France and Germany has been destroyed by the authorities.

ROME, July 18. The Council held a public session to-day, and 538 fathers were present.

The Schema de Ecclesia Christi was adopted by a vote of 536 to 2, and was approved as a constitution of the Church by the Pope, who pronounced a short allocution.

BERLIN, July 21. The mouth of the river Weser has been closed with sunken hulks, to prevent the entrance of the French Navy.

LONDON, July 21. The English Cabinet, after a stormy session, have ordered 10,000 troops to be held in readiness to dispatch to Antwerp if necessary for the protection of the neutrality of Belgium.

The markets and all classes of people in this city are excited over the prospect that England will become involved in a general European war.

BERLIN, July 21. The Parliament of the North German States, in their address to the Throne declared that they do not hesitate to trust their King to conduct at the eve of life a struggle in which he joined when a youth—a struggle that is now likely to terminate forever the attempts of France to shatter the German nation, which now on the field of battle will attain a unity never enjoyed before.

Europe is congratulated that at last the continent is to be delivered from the Bonapartist lust of power, the evil ambition which has ever directed Napoleonic aspirations, and that a healthy check will now be given to the vanity of the French nation.

The North German Union seems at this moment a unit for war.

BERLIN, July 23. The Government has issued circulars to all Consuls of North Germany in foreign States requiring them to forward immediately all Germans liable to military duty, paying their passage to fatherland and furnishing them with such articles as may be necessary. They are also empowered to forward on the same terms all volunteers who may wish to fight for Germany.

The sailors of German ships now in English ports are returning to Prussia to enlist in her armies, and the English dockyards are emptied to man the German navy.

Marshal law has been proclaimed in the Rhenish provinces of Prussia, as well as in Hesse, Hanover, Schleswig, Pomerania, and Eastern Prussia. Part of Hamburg is still open, and traffic has not been disturbed.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 24. In to-day's issue of an official journal of the empire, published in this city, the attitude of Russia towards the combatants in the Franco-Prussian contest, is fully explained. The journal says Russia will exert every effort to prevent a war in which she herself might possibly become involved. The Czar has resolved to remain neutral, unless the interests of Russia shall become endangered by the eventualities of war.

LONDON, July 24. Large bodies of French troops are concentrating at Cherbourg, whom it is supposed are intended to join an expedition which will operate against Hamburg, in conjunction with the advance upon the frontier.

Napoleon communicated by note with Vienna yesterday, and proposes to Austria an alliance, offensive and defensive. An immediate reply is demanded. This city is again thrown into excitement by this news, and a general European war is predicted on all sides.

Despatches received by the press through Belgium, announce that the opposing armies are in close proximity to each other, and that skirmishing is constantly reported from the advanced outposts. Animated picket firing occurs at intervals during the day and night. Both armies are without doubt moving into position, and the news of a great battle may be received at any moment. No despatches concerning movements are received through France, a strict espionage having been established over the telegraph.

BERLIN, July 25. King William, by proclamation to his people, designates Wednesday, July 27, to be set apart as a day of fasting and prayer.

All Germans are exhorted to offer to heaven a prayer for the success of the armies of Fatherland. In this, as in all other papers that have emanated from the throne, Napoleon is charged with the responsibility of having dragged Prussia into a war without cause.

LONDON, July 25. The Times this morning publishes the projected treaty submitted by France to the Prussian Government and guarantees its authenticity. The following are the points of this document: The preamble sets forth that the King of Prussia and the Emperor of the French, in order to strengthen the ties of friendship between the two governments and peoples, etc., conclude the subjoined treaty:

In the first article Napoleon admits and recognizes the late acquisition of Prussia from Austria. In the second, the Prussian king engages to facilitate the French acquisition of Luxembourg. In the third, the Emperor acquiesces in the union of the North and South German States, Austria excepted. In the fourth, France finding it necessary to absorb Belgium, Prussia lends her assistance to that measure. The fifth article is the usual one of an offensive and defensive alliance between two nations.

The Prospect for France.

[Corres. of Boston Journal.]

The prospect in France is very black, indeed has never been darker since the commencement of the Napoleonic dynasty. A war certainly seems imminent; in a short time it must come, or France must lose her present position among the nations. But never was nation, in reality, more illy prepared for war. The crops of France have failed this year, and the manner in which supplies would require to be concentrated for an immense and rapidly moving army, would cause the greatest trouble, not to say positive famine, in certain parts of the country. The misery now existing in some sections of Southern France, because the crops have failed, is quite frightful. Where would it finish if war came on? And then, the reverses? It is by no means certain that France would win. She has at any rate an immense amount of prestige to lose by going to war with Prussia. You will see how. Much of the rumored invincibility of France in the field of battle is bosh, and when once the French come in contact with the Prussians this will be proved. Wherever Saxon blood has met French blood in the wars of battle, it has triumphed. Let us see how it will be with the Teutonic. . . .

If an actual war comes on the carpet, and Prussia attempts to maintain her Spanish alliance, while at the same time she teaches France her new born strength, the present dynasty at the Tuileries runs the greatest danger. In case of failure in a campaign it would surely fall forever. Even Jules Favre now-a-days seems anxious to see the Orleanists back, preferring to see a family "in which all the sons are brave and all the daughters chaste" supplant a court of parvenus and semi-Spanish grandees. There is an old gentleman down in a malaria-smitten corner of Italy, too, whose temporal power is sure to fall through if the Prussian people get their way and whip France. Prussia has, however, laid herself open to the chance of much abuse and some ridicule in history. No Hohenzollern, or any other man, can long control the destinies of a people so firmly resolved as are the Spaniards to manage themselves. It is possible that Spain will solve this whole troublous question itself yet by driving out the invading King in such a manner that Prussia will not care to meddle in the strife, and France will be appeased. I watch events impatiently. E. KING.

DOMESTIC.

TERRIBLE FIRE IN EAST BOSTON.

The most fearful fire since the memorable one of July 4th, 1861, broke out in East Boston, Monday afternoon, the 25th. Seven or eight acres of territory were burned over. The Presbyterian and Baptist churches were burned, as was the Hall occupied by the Adventists as a place of worship. Many families were left homeless. The loss is estimated at a quarter of a million.

New York, July 20. Enthusiastic German meetings were held last night at Evansville, Indiana, Louisville and Chicago. In response to a dispatch sent by the Germans at Chicago, the following was received:

"BERLIN, July 18.

To Edward Jassen and others:

"I thank you, and feel convinced that Germany will answer the hopes of her countrymen beyond the sea. WILLIAM, REX."

Washington, July 20. The new French Minister, Monsieur Paradol, committed suicide at an early hour this morning, by shooting himself through the head with a pistol.

War Items.

☞ The gradual evacuation of Rome has been decided upon.

☞ The Paris correspondent of the Tribune writes under date of the 25th inst: The Emperor was expected to leave quietly for the front last night, but he did not go. His departure will probably be delayed some days. It is certain that he is ill.

☞ The secret treaty which was projected between France and Prussia monopolizes the attention here of the public press and of Parliament. Intense indignation is manifested at the duplicity of the powers concerned, and the action of Napoleon is considered as insulting to England.

☞ The special correspondent of London Daily News in Paris states on Saturday that France is resolved to force Denmark into hostilities against Prussia, notwithstanding the determination of the Danish Cabinet to remain neutral; that a French squadron will appear before Copenhagen and occasion a movement that will overthrow the ministry and save the Danes from Prussia in spite of themselves.

☞ At McMahon's headquarters, in Strasbourg, a strong French force is massing to prevent surprises through the defiles at Vosges. Troops are pouring into Strasbourg from Besancon. Every thing indicates that the first great blow will be struck in that vicinity.

☞ A fleet of French gunboats is at Strasbourg. A great force has been sent there by the railways. A French frigate has been dispatched to the Scotch coast to collect seamen from the fisheries.

☞ If the telegraph is to be believed, Prussia strikes high in the conflict upon which she is just entering. Her aim, according to this authority, is nothing less than the utter dethronement of the Bonapartes in France, and the destruction of their power in the French nation.

☞ It is generally admitted that the situation of the French army has every advantage over that of the Prussian. The French have two points of attack.

☞ The French Government has been notified from the kingdoms of Wirtemburg and Bavaria that they join Prussia.

☞ Fifteen hundred of the Paris city hackmen and one hundred omnibus conductors have joined the army for the war. Three hundred Americans have volunteered for the French army.

☞ France lost 80,000 men during the Crimean struggle. The Italian campaigns carried off 60,000 more of Napoleon's braves, while 65,000 Frenchmen were sacrificed in the Chinese and Mexican wars. The opening war is assuming such mammoth proportions that Napoleon's losses now promise to exceed all these figures aggregated.

☞ Bismarck has played the first trump card in the European war game, in the estimation of the diplomats here, by his declaration that private property on the high seas will be exempted from seizure by the Prussian men-of-war. The North German Union has a large mercantile marine and a comparatively small naval force, whereas France has but few merchant vessels as compared with her large and well appointed steam navy. But Bismarck, by adopting a principle long contended for, has made it necessary for France to follow his lead or to bear the opprobrium of being backward in obeying the dictates of civilization.

☞ It is taken for granted that the United States will remain neutral in the impending war. The only possibility to the contrary has appeared to be in the warlike alliance of Spain with Prussia, and the attempted seizure of Cuba by France.

☞ The Spanish press unanimously condemn Napoleon for declaring war.

☞ The Rothschilds have lost twenty millions by the war. Erlanger and other brokers have also lost heavily.

☞ If the telegraph is to be believed, Prussia strikes high in the conflict upon which she is just entering. Her aim, according to this authority, is nothing less than the utter dethronement of the Bonapartes in France and the utter destruction of their power in the French nation.

☞ Berlin correspondence says: "Thanks to her organization Prussia will in a few hours be equal to France at all points. The colleges and schools are closed, and the students are thronging to the recruiting offices to be enrolled. The scenes of 1814, are repeated. The same is true of South Germany."

☞ According to accounts from Rome, the Pope openly favors Prussia.

Religious Items.

☞ There are one hundred and four churches in Boston. The African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church was organized seventy-four years since, and named after a church in New York. They have fifteen annual conferences and 164,000 members. They favor the union of the various churches of colored Methodists into one organization, with their own bishops and conferences.

☞ The Bible is making wonderful progress in India, the whole Bible being published in fourteen of its principal languages, the whole New Testament in five others, and some books of the Old and New Testament in seven more, so that the Word of God, in whole or in part, is printed in no less than twenty-six of the living languages of India.

☞ A church in England has achieved immense popularity because the sermons only take take ten minutes in delivery!

— The Archbishop of Canterbury has addressed a letter to the Bishop of Ohio, with reference to the forthcoming Christian Conference in New York. His grace expresses the deep interest which he feels in the proceedings, and earnestly trusts that the Divine blessing may guide all who take part in the discussions.

— More than 300 children are now receiving daily Christian instruction in Seville, Spain. One night-school, taught by a lad of 14, has 100 pupils. Training schools for school mistresses, governesses, and Bible readers, are in successful operation.

— Interest in the education of the laboring classes is increasing in Russia. Night schools for artizans have been opened in St. Petersburg, in which several hundred working-men are receiving instruction. If the schools were free it is thought that the attendance would be much greater. Similar schools have been established in other parts of the Empire.

— Father Gavazzi, the telegraph states, has arrived in Paris, en route to New York to attend the Evangelical Alliance.

— A Franciscan monk named Hotyl, who had written in defense of Dr. Dollinger, has been summoned to Rome by order of his superior "ad recreandum animum," and is now recreating himself in a narrow cell, deprived of books, thus enjoying a Roman summer.

— Rev. J. R. Riley was installed pastor of a new church in Louisville, recently. He is a colored man; a regular graduate of a literary college and Theological Seminary in Canada, and was licensed to preach by the United Presbyterian Presbytery of London, Canada West, and is a man of decided promise.

☞ The first Methodist Episcopal church in Boston was organized in 1792.

THE RIGHT AND THE LEFT BANK OF A RIVER.—As the general reader is apt to confound the banks of a river with the movements of an army up or down the stream, let it be understood that the right bank of a river is always the bank which is on the right hand as you look down the stream, and the left bank will never be placed on the wrong side.

☞ Every flower grower can find good use for the soot which is usually so abundant in the stovepipes and chimneys. Twelve quarts of water, well mixed with soot, will make a powerful liquid manure, which will improve the growth of flowers. In either a liquid or solid state it makes an excellent top-dressing for grass or cereal crops.

Notices.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING.

Providence permitting, a GENERAL CAMPMEETING will be held at Springfield, Mass., on the new camp-ground, beautifully located, about one and a quarter miles from the R. R. Depot, on land of C. W. Chapin, Esq., known as "Chapin's Grove," commencing Saturday, August 20th, and continuing till August 29th.

Ample accommodations will be provided for board at the new and commodious boarding house on the ground. Board 85 cents per day. Breakfast, or supper, 35 cents each. Dinner at 50 cents, excepting Sunday, August 28th, when it will be 75 cents. The boarding department is under the charge of the Committee, and any profits accruing from the same will go to the support of the meeting.

Fare on the Boston and Albany Railroad is reduced one third, which will be $4.00 from Boston to Springfield and return. Tickets to be obtained at the ticket offices, between Boston and Worcester, at Grantville, Holliston, Natick, Westboro, Milford, and Southville; beyond Worcester, at the usual stations. On the New Haven and Hartford R. R., fare is reduced one third; tickets to be obtained at New Haven, Middletown, Meriden, Berlin, Hartford, Thompsonville, and Windsor Locks. On the Conn. R. R. fare is reduced one third from South Vernon and intermediate stations to Springfield. On all the above roads campmeeting tickets, good from August 17th to August 30th, must be called for at the ticket offices, and they must also be signed by the Secretary at the campmeeting. Remember this.

It will be absolutely necessary for passengers over the Conn. R. R. to buy their tickets at the stations, as no return checks will be issued except by the agent at the stations where the ticket is purchased.

Passengers coming from North of South Vernon, unless provided with return tickets, should purchase only to South Vernon, and then purchase to Springfield and return. The same rule will apply also to passengers coming from East of, or in the vicinity of Greenfield.

On the Vt. and Mass. R. Road, persons will purchase regular tickets at the offices for Greenfield. At Greenfield they will go into the ticket office and call for Campmeeting Tickets for Springfield. All such when they go to the Secretary on the camp-ground to have their tickets countersigned, will be furnished with a free return pass from Greenfield to Brattleboro, Vernon, Athol, Fitchburg, or any place on the Mass. and Vermont R. R. that they may come from—provided twenty-five passengers shall have come over the Vt. and Mass. Rail Road to the meeting.

On the Worcester and Nashua R. R. Road, friends from Nashua, N. H., Groton Junction, and Clinton, will purchase regular tickets at the stations for Worcester, at which place they will purchase tickets for Springfield; and free return passes from Worcester will be furnished them by the Secretary on the ground.

Arrangements have been made with the Eastern R. R. Co., by which those taking the cars from Portsmouth and intermediate places for Boston, paying full fares at the ticket offices, can have FREE RETURN PASSES by application to the Secretary, on the camp-ground.

Cars leave the Boston and Albany depot, Boston, at 5, 7, and 8½ A. M.; and at 3, 4½, and 9 P. M.

Arrangements with any other roads that may be made, will be noticed hereafter.

S. G. MATHEWSON,
GEO. T. ADAMS,
H. MUNGER,
J. HEMENWAY,
M. GRANT,
D. MATHEWSON,
W. B. DODGE,
Committee of Arrangements.
GEO. T. ADAMS, Secretary.

Campmeeting.

The Deerfield Union Campmeeting will be held, (the Lord willing) at Deerfield, N. H., near So. Road, commencing Saturday, August 6th, 1870, and continue nine days. All who love Jesus, of every name and order, are invited to come to campmeeting, and let us worship and labor together to save the perishing. Special invitation is given to all ministers of the gospel of Christ, in the surrounding vicinity, to come and help preach the word. Those coming by Railroad, will stop at Candia Depot, N. H., and there they will find conveyance to the ground. Let all who can, bring provisions and tents with them. Tent room and plain food will be furnished at reasonable prices. Horse keeping, 50 cts. for hay and 75 cts. for grain per day. Come one, come all, and let us have an old-fashioned gospel feast.

Eld. John Couch, of Chelsea, will be present during the first part of the meeting. We expect also Elders J. G. Smith, L. Boutell, T. W. Piper, A. P. Moore, A. A. Phelps, and other able ministers of Christ, to be present.

ENOCH MORRILL,
JOHN M. QUIMBY,
JOHN D. SWAIN,
ASA P. MOULTON,
JAMES M. BATCHELDER,
Campmeeting Committee.

P. S. Bro. Couch will try to get the fare reduced on the R. R. If he succeeds, campmeeting tickets will be sold at the following stations: Portsmouth, New Market Junction, Epping, Suncook, Concord, Manchester, Derry, Salem, Lawrence, and Nashua. For Committee,
ENOCH MORRILL.

Notice.

The Union Female Missionary Association will hold its annual meeting at Springfield, Mass., commencing Aug. 24th, 1870, at one o'clock P. M. All laboring members are requested to be present, as there are some matters of importance to be attended to. Should any be unable to attend this meeting, will they please send their reports to the Secretary at Stoneham, Mass., by Aug. 14th? We kindly invite our brethren and sisters, who are interested in the mission work, and desire to help the women who labor in the gospel, to meet with us. We hope to have a good meeting in the name of the Lord. M. MCKINSTRY.

Notice.

The Lord willing, there will be a campmeeting at Pittsfield, Maine, in Hawthorn's Grove, about half a mile from the depot, on the road leading from Pittsfield to Newport, commencing Aug. 22nd, to continue over Aug. 28th. We propose to know no sect or party, but such as are new lights in heart, therefore to provoke one another only to love and good works, remembering the new commandment and the building of each other up in Christ alone. We heartily invite the members of the household of faith, and all who would enjoy such a convocation, to come in the fulness of the gospel of peace, laying aside all contentions as unprofitable, contending only to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, and be filled with all the fulness of God. As nearly as possible, we want to enjoy an old-fashioned meeting, and greeting with the saints scattered here and there, in their patient waiting for the last great gathering. Let special prayer be offered that the church may be strengthened with might through the Spirit, deserters be arrested, and soldiers enlisted in the army of the Lord.

Arrangements will be made for the reduction of fare on the railroads. As far as practicable, we wish all to bring tents and provisions for themselves; those who cannot, need not stay away on that account; but all can bring bedding, perhaps. We intend to arrange that all shall be made welcome and comfortable, as far as lies in our power. To such as prefer to board, provision will be made at the village on reasonable terms, as we expect no boarding tent on the ground. For the church of God,
A. H. WALKER,
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a grove meeting held near Martin Carr's, less than one half mile from Lunenburg, Vt., commencing Aug. 9th, at half past one o'clock P. M., and hold over the following Sabbath. It is expected that Eld. W. H. Shaw, and others, will be present to preach the word. Preachers, and all, are invited to come and labor for the salvation of sinners. Come in the fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ.

This is a new field, where but few are looking for the return of this "same Jesus."

Grove Meeting.

The Lord willing, there will be a grove meeting on the land of Heber Kimball, in Harrison, Me., commencing Aug. 5th, at five o'clock P. M., to continue over the following Lord's day. Jesse Gay, O. W. Kimball, and the writer, are expected to preach the word. Per order,
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Notice.

There will be a grove meeting at Hemlock Lake, N. Y. (a little south of the village), July 31st, to commence in social form at 9 A. M., and preaching at 10½ o'clock. Elder C. F. Sweet is expected. All others, both elders and people, are cordially invited to attend. Let all interested be there at the commencement of the social exercises.
WM. SKIDMORE,
GEORGE STODDARD,
L. J. OWEN.

Tremont Campmeeting.

The Tremont Campmeeting will commence Monday, August 8th, and continue over the following Sunday. Ample arrangements will be made to accommodate all with board and lodging who cannot provide themselves with tents. All who have tents are requested to bring them.

Now, brethren and sisters, come to this gospel feast, for we anticipate the blessing of the Lord will be with us in this consecrated ground as in days past.

Bro. Geo. T. Adams will probably secure a reduction of fare on the Old Colony and Cape Cod railroads, for those who come through Boston.

For the Committee, HENRY V. DAVIS.

To Brethren in Vermont.

I want the committee, that was appointed last fall to arrange for a meeting the coming autumn in Vermont, to meet me at West Bethel Depot House, August 1st, to see what can be done. We want Bro. Stetson also to be there. Do not fail to be there, brethren, for it is a long way for me to go, being off the line of the railroad.

The brethren shall know soon where the meeting is to be. We want a good meeting. We expect it. More soon. J. A. CLEAVELAND.

Grove Meeting.

Providence permitting, a grove meeting will be held in West Lebanon, Maine, where Bro. A. P. Watson may appoint, commencing Sunday, Aug. 7th, at 10.30 A. M., and holding over Sunday, Aug. 14th. A cordial invitation is given to all those looking for Jesus, residing in the neighboring towns, to meet with us for the worship of God. This is a new field. Let us have a rally of earnest brothers and sisters. E. S. MOULTON.

Grove Meeting.

There will be a grove meeting in the Root settlement, Crawford Co., Pa., near Bro. J. T. Ongley's saw-mill, two and a half miles north-east of Little Cooley, and two and a half miles west of Lincolnville, to commence Saturday, August 6th, at two o'clock, and hold over two Sundays. In case of wet weather, the mill will be fitted up for the occasion. Come, brethren and sisters in the Lord, let us have a good meeting. The brethren here voted that there be a general invitation given,—houses, barns and hearts open and free. Come at the commencement, and stay through. Bring your tents, if you wish. Let there be a rally in Northwestern Penn. The King is coming soon. Let us be ready, and try to get others ready to meet him.

Brn. C. F. Sweet, C. Buzzell, and others, will be in attendance to preach the word. The meeting is ten miles south of Union Mills, on the A. & G. W. R. R., and P. & E. R. R., and seven miles northwest of Centreville, on the Oil Creek R. R. Teams will be sent to Union Mills on Saturday, and will be there from twelve to two P. M. Inquire for team for the grove meeting. Committee—John Root, A. S. Geer, Geo. Porter, Little Cooley, Pa. JOHN T. ONGLEY, Secretary, Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.

Special Notice.

To all interested in having a State Conference organized in Ohio: Beloved brethren in Christ,—Believing that the end of all things is at hand, and what we do must be done quickly, and that the Lord has raised us up as a people to herald the coming kingdom, and to lift our warning voice, and cry aloud, and spare not, and in earnest tones bid the slumbering myriads of earth's sons and daughters to prepare for solemn judgment; and believing we can better accomplish the great work allotted us to do, we have, after advising with brethren, thought best to appeal to every Advent church in the State, and where there is no church, to individuals, who are interested in forming such a conference, to write at once to Eld. E. McCullock, Pastor of the Advent Church in Nevada, Ohio; and, if sufficient interest is manifest, we shall issue a call for a conference, to be held immediately after the campmeetings are over. Come, brethren, let us hear from you at once relative to this matter, and may heavenly wisdom guide your hearts aright. For the Brethren,
E. MCCULLOCK.

Notice.

The annual meeting of the American Advent Mission Society will be held at the Advent Chapel, Springfield, Mass., Aug. 25th, 1870. Members of, and delegates to, the Advent Christian Association, are members of this Society. It is hoped there will be a full attendance of members to this meeting. ABIAL W. SIBLEY, Secretary.

Tent Meeting.

The Lord willing, the A. A. Mission Tent will be pitched again in Providence, R. I., near the line of horse cars running from the station at the Bridge to Elm Wood. Meeting to commence Wednesday evening, July 27th, and continue afternoons and evenings for eight days. Pray the Lord to bless the meeting. ENOCH MORRILL.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meeting on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's. O. G. TRUNDY.

Tent Meeting.

If the Lord will, the New Hampshire Mission Tent will be pitched at New Castle, N. H., on land owned by Wm. Neal, July 30th, and remain over two Sundays. J. C. SHOREY.

Notice.

Providence permitting, the campmeeting at Alton Bay, N. H., will commence Sunday, Sept. 4th, and hold over the Lord's day, Sept. 11th.

For the committee, J. G. SMITH.

To the King's Servants.

Some of the brethren and sisters in Warner Village, N. H., and vicinity, have decided to have preaching one half of the time at Union Hall, the second and third Sabbaths of July, and after that the first two Sabbaths of each month.

Correspond with B. S. COLBY, Warner Village, N. H.

In behalf of the congregation worshiping at Warner Village. ALLEN DAMON.

Notice.

As the time has come for us to start the Mass. Mission Tent, we shall need funds to carry forward the work; and we wish those who have subscribed would forward the amount to the Treasurer, C. GOODRICH, No. 7 Salem Street, Boston, as soon as convenient.

S. W. THURBER, Pres. of Conf.

Notice.

The next regular conference for Fairfield, Ohio, will be held Sept. 3d and 4th, and will probably be a grove meeting. Let all be duly prepared.

G. W. STETSON, Pastor.

Read! Read!!

Send your pledges and monies at once to Bro. Ira Aldrich, Whitefield, N. H., for the Tent. Come, brethren in Grafton and Coos Counties, N. H., let the amount be raised immediately, for we want the tent in the field doing its work.

A. W. SIBLEY.

Notice.

The brethren in Bowdoinham Village, Me., have hired Hinkley's Hall for a few months, and invite preaching brethren who can come and break the bread of life, to give notice through the Crisis.

For the brethren, N. G. REED.

Maine Mission Tent.

The "Maine Mission Tent," under the charge of Bro. and Sr. Taylor, will probably be in the field for service in a few days. All desiring tent meetings in any locality in this State are requested to write as soon as possible to either of the undersigned. W. H. MITCHELL, Kennebunkport.
R. R. YORK, Portland.

The Iowa Mission Tent.

Those who desire tent, camp, grove, or basket-meetings, will do well to correspond with me soon, so that I may make arrangements for summer work. In these meetings will be presented the gospel of Jesus Christ, with a view to do the people good. No party, sect, or hobby to build up, but to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Every lover of Jesus shall be free to work with us. All lovers of this pure christianity are requested to write soon. Direct to Peter S. W. Deyo, Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Notice.

Will our brethren, who wish the campmeeting committee to build their tents at Alton Bay, send to me at once (at Farmington, N. H.), the plan, or how they wish them built? J. G. SMITH.

Notice.

Putney's Hall, Sutton Mills, N. H. Meetings every Sabbath for the present. This is a new movement on the part of the Advent people of Sutton, and we think it is according to the will of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us.
A. CHENEY,
FRANK NELSON,
SAM'L ROWELL,
Committee.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL.

J. Hemenway....Sunday, July 31st
C. H. Leverton....Sunday, Aug. 7th

BOSTON, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.

Meetings in South Boston on Wednesday evenings, at C. W. Huntress,' 3 Lowland street. On Friday evenings at J. N. Berry's, 227 E. street.

EAST BOSTON.

Meetings are held at Chase's Block, up two flights, at 154 Meridian Street, on Sundays, at the usual hours, also Monday and Thursday evenings.

Wm. C. Thurman....Sunday, July 31st

CHELSEA, MASS., (LIBRARY HALL.)

J. Pinkham....Sunday, July 31st
J. Couch....Sunday, Aug. 7th
C. Goodrich....Sunday, Aug. 14th
M. Batchelor....Sunday, Aug. 21st

CHARLESTOWN.

Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.

J. G. Smith....Sunday, July 31st

North Carver....Sunday, July 31st
C. GOODRICH.

Lynn, Mass....Sunday, July 31st
Tremont Campmeeting....Aug. 14th
Lawrence, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 21st
Great Falls, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 28th
J. COUCH.

Stoneham, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. S. WHITE.

Lynn, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 7th
M. BATCHELOR.

Manchester, N. H....Friday evening, Aug. 5th
Lawrence, Mass....Sundays, Aug. 7th and 14th
Lowell, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 21st
Chicopee Falls, Mass....evenings, Aug. 30th and 31st
South Norwalk, Ct., evenings, Sept. 14th, 15th, and 16th
New York, 24th Street....Sunday, Sept. 18th
A. A. PHELPS.

Wakefield, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Worcester, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 21st
CHAS. P. GREENMAN.

Charlton, Mass....Monday evening, Aug. 1st
Clinton, Mass....evening, Aug. 2nd
A. ROSS.

Lowell, Mass....Sabbath, Aug. 28th
G. W. BURNHAM.

Springfield, Mass. (on the hill)....Sunday, July 31st
Feeding Hill tent meeting....Aug. 7th
A. D. FLAGG.

Bowdoinham Village (Hinckley's Hall) Sun., July 31st
N. G. REED.

Webster, Mass....evening, Aug. 12th and Sunday, 14th.
S. S. BREWER.

Holden, Mass....Sabbath, July 31st
Warren, Mass. (at Bro. Rufus Baker's) eve., Aug. 5th
Brimfield, Mass....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
T. M. PREBLE.

West Abington, Mass....Sunday, July 31st
WM. HOBBS.

Stowe, Mass....Sunday, July 31st
Marshfield....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. A. YOUNG.

New Durham, N. H. (Second Division) Sun., July 31st
Will John Brooks meet me there?
J. W. HORNE.

Sutton Mills (Putney's Hall)....Sabbath, July 31st
Vernon, Vt....Sunday, Aug. 7th
C. H. FLETCHER.

Lyndeborough, N. H. (grove)....Sunday, July 31st
JOHN H. DADMUN.

Webster, N. H. (Old meeting house)...Sab., July 31st
Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall)....Sab., Aug. 7th
SIMEON ROBY.

Rawsonville, Vt....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Z. T. WOOD.

New York, (Cooper Institute, room 24) Sun., Aug. 7th
WM. STUART.

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sab., Aug. 7th
DUSTIN W. DAVIS.

Rochester, N. H. (Gonic Chapel)....Sab., July 31st
Rochester (Town House)....Sabbath, Aug. 21st
S. VARNEY.

South Berwick, Me., Great Works, (in the Methodist Episcopal church) Sunday, July 31st.
Great Falls, N. H....evening, Aug. 2nd
Farmington, N. H. (as Bro. J. G. Smith may arrange) evening, Aug 6th, and over Sunday.
B. P. MANNING.

East Haddam, Ct....Sunday, July 31st
H. H. DICKINSON.

Lewiston, Me....evenings, Aug. 2d and 3d
Biddeford, Me....evening, Aug. 4th
Kennebunkport, Me....evening, Aug. 5th
Kennebunk Depot, Me....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
South Berwick, Me (Great Works)....eve., Aug. 9th
Great Falls, N. H....evening, Aug. 10th
East Rochester, N. H....evening, Aug. 11th
Rochester, N. H....Sabbath, Aug. 14th
Seabrook, N. H....Sabbath, Aug. 21st
Charlton, Mass....Sabbath, Sept. 4th
Webster, Mass....Sabbath, Sept. 11th
C. H. SWEET.

Cheshire Street, Conn....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Southington, Conn....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Z. FORD.

Wilbraham, Mass....Sabbath, July 31st
Square Pond, Ct....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
Putnam, Ct....Sabbath, Aug. 14th
Webster, Mass....Sabbath, Aug. 21st
Woodstock Valley, Ct....Sabbath, Aug. 28th
P. S. BUTLER.

Lawrence, Mass....Sunday, July 31st
B. WOODSIDE.

Worcester, Mass....Sunday, July 31st
WM. SHELDON.

Fairhaven, Mass....Sundays, Aug. 14th and 21st
New Bedford, Mass....evening, Aug. 23d
C. H. LEVERTON.

East Stoneham, Me....Sabbath, July 31st
West Stoneham....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
Brownfield, Me....Sabbath, Aug. 28th
GEO. W. HOWARD.

Montgomery....Sunday, July 31st
Huntington....evenings, July 17th and 31st
Westfield Farms....Sunday, July 24th
E. OWEN.

Great Falls, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. G. SMITH.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, July 31st
West Deerfield, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
L. E. SAULPAUGH.

Lovely Street, Ct....Sunday, July 31st
A. ELLIOT.

Warehousepoint, Ct. (Chapel)....Sunday, July 31st
S. WOODRUFF.

Burnham, Me....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Swanville, Me....Sunday, Aug. 14th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Belmont, N. H. (Factory Village)...Sunday, July 31st
Manchester, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Stoneham, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Woburn, Mass. (on the Common) at five o'clock P. M., or at such time as Bro. Marcy may arrange, Aug. 14th. L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Seabrook, N. H....Sunday, July 31st
Loudon Ridge, N. H....Sundays, Aug. 14th and 15th
Will some one meet me at Lake Village Depot, at two P. M., Saturday, Aug. 13th? E. S. MOULTON.

Melvin Village, N. H....Sunday, July 31st
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works)....Sun., Aug. 7th
T. W. PIPER.

New Milford....Sunday, July 31st
H. K. WALLING.

Manchester, N. H....Sunday, July 31st
Dover, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Great Falls, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 14th
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works), Sunday, Aug. 21st
Hampton, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 28th
A. SIMPSON.

Hinsdale, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Will Bro. Streeter meet me at the Hinsdale depot Aug. 5th, first down train?
Northfield, Mass. (where Bro. Streeter may appoint) Sunday, Aug. 14th.
If any of these appointments conflict, write me immediately at West Rumney, N. H. E. COTTON.

Webster, Mass....Sunday, July 31st
L. M. STODDARD.

West Ossipee, N. H....Sunday, July 31st
Hampton, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Rye, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 14th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Steuben Co., N. Y. (near Dea. T. C. Armstrong's) Aug. 6th, at 2 P. M., and the 7th at 9½ A. M.
Fremont (as friends may appoint) evenings, Aug. 8th and 9th.
Blooming Valley, Pa. (as Bro. Wm. Darrow may appoint) Aug. 11th and 14th.
Rootville, or Little Cooley....Aug. 19th and 21st
Edenboro, Pa....Aug. 27th and 28th
Sharp's Corners (Meth. church) evenings, Aug. 29th and 30th.
Cohocton (once in four weeks) Sept. 3d, at 2 P. M., and Sunday, the 4th.
Darien, N. Y. (quar. conf.)....Sept. 9th, 10th and 11th
C. F. SWEET.

Seamen's Bethel, North Square, Boston, Sunday, July 31st. H. L. HASTINGS.

Jay, Me. (Kennedy's Corner)....Sab., July 31st
O. W. KIMBALL.

Worcester, Mass....Sunday, Aug. 7th
GEO. A. STREETER.

Piermont, (Clay meeting-house)....Sunday, July 31st
WM. H. SHAW.

Campton, N. H. (Bump school-house) Sun., July 31st
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Keene, N. H....Sabbath, July 31st
Vernon, Vt....Sabbath, Aug. 21st
H. MUNGER.

Freeport, Me. (Swamp school-house) Sunday, Aug. 7th
Meeting all day. S. F. MORSE.

Mud Mills, Augusta....Sunday, July 31st
Pittston....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Windsor (Preble school-house)....Sunday, Aug. 14th
THOMAS RINES.

Lewiston, Me....Sunday, July 31st
Bath, Me....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. T. JORDAN.

Cushing, Me....Sunday, Aug. 7th
East Bowdoinham, Me. (Lancaster school-house) Sunday, Aug. 14th. L. D. TOTMAN.

West Fairlee, Vt....Sunday, July 31st
Will friends from abroad come and help?
North Springfield, Vt....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
Bridgewater, Vt....Sabbath, Aug. 14th
H. F. CARPENTER.

South Elliot, Me....Sunday, July 31st
GEO. W. BROWN.

Meredith Neck, N. H....Sunday, July 31st
Moultonborough Neck....Sunday, Aug. 7th
N. GLIDDEN.

Weir's Bridge (school-house)....Sunday, July 31st
JULIA BUSWELL.

Waterbury, Ct....Sunday, July 31st
Morris, Ct....Sunday, Aug. 7th
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Appleton, Me. (where Bro. G. Miller may appoint) Sabbath, Aug. 7th. J. SOMES.

Rye, N. H....the first Sunday in each month
South Berwick, Me., (Great Works) the second Sunday in each month. JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Lawrence, Mass....evening, July 26th
Wakefield, Mass....evening, July 27th
Cambridgeport, Mass....evening, July 30th and over Sunday, July 31st.
Manchester, N. H....Sunday, Aug. 14th
WM. C. STEWART.

Bristol, R. I....Sunday, July 31st
A. DURFEE.

Farmington, N. H....Sunday, July 31st
Rochester (Chapel)....Sunday, Aug. 7th
My appointments beyond Barnstead are withdrawn for the present. ABIGAIL M. TRIPP.

E. Bradford, Me. (Lewis Jones' school-house) Sunday, July 31st.
Kenduskeag, Me....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Surry, Me....Sunday, Aug. 14th
E. V. B. EDGERLY.

East Shelby, N. Y., Sunday, July 31st, and once in two weeks thereafter until further notice.
West Barre, N. Y....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. H. WHITMORE.

Hartford, Me. (Stetson school-house) Sun., Aug. 7th
E. M. HAGGETT.

Guilford, Ct....Sunday, July 31st
And in the evening at the house of Bro. Foster, in Madison, or where he may appoint. G. L. TEEPLE.

Savoy, Mass. (New Chapel)....Sunday, July 31st
Collinsville, Ct....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Burlington....Thursday evening, Aug. 11th
Warehouse Point....Sunday, Aug. 14th
North Canton....Sunday, Aug. 21st
H. K. FLAGG.

Campville, Ct....Sabbath, July 31st
G. L. WHITE.

Fish-Creek Landing, N. Y., Sun., July 31st, at one P. M.
Glenmore, N. Y....evening, Aug. 1st
C. H. WILLIAMS.

Rootville, Break Bread....first Sunday in the month
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Wm. N. Pile....Sunday, July 31st and Sundays, Aug. 7th and 14th.
A. A. Phelps....Sunday, Sept. 11th

CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS.

B. Hitchcock....Sunday, July 31st
Sr. L. M. Stoddard....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Sr. M. L. Durand....Sunday, Aug. 14th

LOWELL, MASS.

J. Pinkham....Sunday, Aug. 7th

PORTLAND, ME.

C. H. Sweet....Sunday, July 31st
R. R. York....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Wm. Sheldon....Sunday, Aug. 14th
also Aug. 21st, if possible.

CONCORD, N. H., (CENTRE STREET.)

A. Ross....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
M. Batchelor....Sunday, July 31st

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)

A. A. Phelps....Sunday, July 31st
H. J. Parsons....Sunday, Aug. 7th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

Allen Damman....Sundays, July 24th and 31st
J. H. F. Varney....Sunday, Aug. 7th
W. H. Mitchell....Sunday, Aug. 14th
B. S. Emery....Sunday, Aug. 21st

PITTSFIELD, N. H. (at the Bethel.)

A. A. Phelps....evenings, Aug. 2d, 3d, and 4th
C. Goodrich....Sunday, Aug. 7th

ROCHESTER VILLAGE, (Town Hall.)

C. Parsons....Sunday, Aug. 21st
E. S. Moulton....Sunday, Aug. 28th

DOVER, N. H.

J. W. White....Sunday, July 31st

LOUDON RIDGE, N. H.

A. Kidder....Sunday, July 31st

HARTFORD, CT.

H. Pratt....Sunday, July 31st
T. M. Preble....Sabbaths, Aug. 14th and 21st

PLEASANT VALLEY, CT.

R. K. Stark....Sunday, Aug. 7th
G. L. White....Sunday, Aug. 21st

SCITICO, CT.

H. H. Dickinson....Sunday, July 31st
E. L. Colton....Sunday, August 5th
Hiram Munger....Sunday, Aug. 7th
R. Starks....August 12th

WOLCOTTVILLE, CT.

B. Hitchcock....Sunday, Aug. 7th
G. L. Teeple....Sunday, Aug. 28th

NEW BRITAIN, CT.

J. S. White....Sunday, July 31st

BRISTOL, CT.

M. L. Durand....Sabbath, July 31st
A. M. Higgins....Sabbath, Aug. 14th

ROCHESTER, N. H.

There will be preaching in the chapel, near the brick school-house, in Rochester, N. H., on the first Lord's day in each month. Others can appoint so as not to conflict.

NEW YORK CITY.

The Advent Church formerly meeting at Grand and Allen Streets, have removed to 405 Grand Street, one door above Clinton. Preaching every Sunday for the present. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening, at the house of J. K. Bellows, 19 Orchard Street.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION, 14 LAURENS STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Sunday morning, prayer and conference, six o'clock Sunday School, two o'clock P. M. Love feast, four o'clock P. M. Preaching, seven o'clock P. M.
Monday, (class meeting), seven o'clock P. M.
Wednesday, (preaching), seven o'clock P. M.
Friday, (prayer and conference), seven o'clock P. M.
Come one, come all. A. E. SMITH, Principal.

LIST OF ENGLISH BIBLES.

We have received and keep on hand the following English Reference Bibles:

Minion, 8vo., marg. ref., large type, circuit binding, $4.50; postage 28 cts. Do. plain binding, $4.00; postage 28 cts.

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., circuit binding, $3.50; postage 20 cts. (Best size for preachers.)

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., plain, $2.25; postage 20 cts. Do. ref. between verses, $2.25; postage 24 cts.

Pearl, 8 vo., marg. ref., circuit, $3.25; postage 20 cts. Do. plain, $1.75; postage 20 cts.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED.
WHAT IS MAN?
THE SOUL—WHAT IS IT?
THE SPIRIT—WHAT IS IT?
THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.

All the above works in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

SPIRITUALISM CONDEMNED BY THE TESTIMONY OF THE BIBLE AND ITS OWN WITNESSES.

BY M. D. WELLCOME.

Price 10 cents single copy. Twenty copies for $1.00; $3.50 per hundred.

Business.

Letters Received.

A W Sibley, E Morrill, A McIntire, D Lawson, K A Page, S W Burroughs, C H Sweet, G W Stetson, W A Fenn, A Chase, I C Wellcome, D N Smith, M E Dow, B F Davis, Wm Hobbs, S Jackman, I Plummer, Z Whitney, C Colegrove, H Austin, S A Cummings, H H Hall, J T Ongley, E F Cook, Z B Chase, A Ross, H L Hastings, B F Davis, D C W Woodruff.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents. Postage 8 cts.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc., etc. Cloth, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Leather back, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.26; Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERYBODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? A Tract on War. Price 10c, postage 2c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 5c.

THE FIRST DAY SABBATH. By T. M. Preble. A new and interesting work. pp. 471. Price $1.50.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5 cts. single; by mail, 7 cts.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M. Preble. 15c. postage 2 cts., or by mail 17 cts.

TWO HUNDRED STORIES FOR CHILDREN. [By Elder T. M. Preble. pp. 234. 80c. by mail.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. By Thomas Carlyle. 3c. single; 5c. by mail; 20c. per dozen.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR; or, Spiritualism; What it is, and what it is not. Paper covers, $1.00; by mail; cloth, $1.25 by mail.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

VOICE OF THE THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 15 cts. per copy additional, when sent by mail.

"Historic Echoes of the Voice of God."

AN EXPOSITION OF THE ELEVENTH CHAPTER OF DANIEL.

BY ELDER J. COUCH.

Price 15 cents single copy. $1.50 per dozen. $10.00 per one hundred.

NEW HYMN BOOK.

"Hymns of the Jubilee Harp."

WITHOUT THE MUSIC.

The above work, printed in large, clear type, on beautiful paper, we are ready to fill orders for, at the following prices:—

Bound in cloth, with sprinkled edges, 75 cents per copy; $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per 100.

Bound in leather, gilt edge, $1.00 per copy; $9 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; when sent by mail, 18 cts. additional postage

THE POWERS OF THE AIR.

A WORK THAT THOROUGHLY VENTILATES SPIRITUALISM.

376 pages. Price by mail, $1.25.

The above works for sale at this office.

"ADVENTISM."

We have a supply of this valuable work.
Price in cloth....75 cts., postage 12 cts.
Flexible covers....60 cts., postage 12 cts.
Paper covers....50 cts., postage 6 cts.
In paper covers by the dozen, by express, $4.75.

WORKS BY I. C. WELLCOME.

A Treatise on Matt. xxiv. and xxv.

Expository and Historical, showing the accurate fulfilment of Christ's predictions to the present time, and what we should expect next. Fifth edition. 160 pages. 25 cts. by mail.

Christian Baptism—its Object and Duty.

Thoroughly examined, Scripturally and Historically. A valuable work. Fourth edition, 81 pp. 25 cts. by mail.

The Berean's Casket.

A Collection of Scriptures, in various versions, on the most important subjects in the Bible, in sections; to which is added much important History, Statistics, and Tables, making a book of great value to all Bible students and teachers. Cloth, $1.00; leather, $2.50 by mail.

The Plan of Redemption.

BY WELLCOME AND GOUD.

A valuable work on the Creation and Fall of Man, the Covenants, Atonement, Redemption, Regeneration, Faith and Hope, Restitution, Reign of Christ, Millennium, True Israel, &c. &c. This work receives great commendation. Third edition. 160 pages. $1.25 by mail.

Israel and the Millennium.

A thorough refutation of Judaism; a valuable exposition of the Scriptures, and clear statement of the Bible doctrine of the Millennium. 142 pages. 25 cts. by mail.

I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

For the World's Crisis.

REVERY.

When twilight comes, and close of day
Has hushed the sound of noisy play,
And all is still as breath of e'en,
And God seems speaking in the scene,
I pause and think:

How fleet the years, how bright the days,
Since childhood's hour and childish plays
Engaged my young and happy heart;
It seems but yesterday, so short
The days appear.

And yet the days are hastening on,
My life's great work scarcely begun,
So many years have run to waste,
Thoughtless and gay, devoid of grace,
I mourn the loss.

O, that my future years may be
A worthy model to those who see
My daily walk and hear my speech,
Until the crowning end I reach—
Eternal life.

SOPHIA JACKMAN.

For the World's Crisis.

PLAIN TALKS.

[CAUTION: Don't read this unless you like plain talk.]

Having pointed out some of the duties which the preachers owe to the people, let us reverse the picture, and see whether the obligations of the ministry and laity are not reciprocal. I have no desire to modify the popular sentiment that loads the gospel minister with solemn responsibility, and demands a high degree of fidelity in discharging the same. The demand is just. I only wish to show that ministerial shoulders are not the only ones for which burdens are prepared by the Master of the harvest. Come, brethren, walk up and take your share without grumbling. Listen to a little "plain talk" on the duties you owe to God's ministers.

1. Pity them. They are not angels, but men. As earthen vessels, they are encompassed with infirmities. Some of them are stronger than others, but they all have some weak points. Many have had but little mental discipline. Their mannerism is faulty. Some talk too long, and some too loud; some talk too slow, and some too fast. Their sermons are sometimes marred by grammatical blunders and rhetorical blemishes. Perhaps, too, they may occasionally be guilty of a logical non sequitur, or a theological freak of pure nonsense. Everybody has a right to wish that preachers would study more and stammer less; but in spite of all our good wishes and earnest protests, some of God's real servants and divinely commissioned ministers will blunder on. Hold your temper, and commiserate what you cannot cure.

Preachers have trials, too, that demand a little sympathy. As leaders in the army, they are exposed to the enemy's hottest fire. If there is persecution to be suffered and reproach to be endured, the standard-bearers of Jesus generally receive their full share. If they occupy prominent positions, the poisoned javelins of Satan will be hurled at the glittering target with unwonted violence. "But are ministers ever tempted?" I think they are! Burdened with responsibility, embarrassed with poverty, torn from family and friends, separated from the attractions of home, called to meet and mingle with strangers, little understood and less appreciated—it is just like the devil to hang a blue curtain over their eyes, and try to make them think that their labors are lost and they might better give it up! A little genuine sympathy from the saints, at such a time, would not come amiss.

2. Pray for them. They need your prayers full as much as your pity. He who was "not a whit behind the very chiefest apostles" was so deeply impressed with his weakness and wants that he frequently solicited the prayers of others. Listen to his earnest requests: "I beseech you, brethren, for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, and for the love of the spirit, that ye strive together with me in your prayers to God for me; that I may be delivered from them that do not believe in Judea; and that my service which I have for Jerusalem may be accepted of the saints."—Rom. 15: 30, 31. Again he pleads: "Brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course, and be glorified, even as it is with you; and that we may be delivered from unreasonable and wicked men." —2 Thess. 3: 12. He begged the Ephesian brethren to offer their supplications that "utterance" might be given him—that he might open his mouth "boldly" for the blessed Master.—Eph. 6: 18, 19. He craved the prayers of the Colossians that God would open to him "a door of utterance." It was not enough that his own heart had been washed in the all-redeeming fountain—he longed for a chance to herald the glad tidings to others.

If Paul needed the prayers of christians, can ministers dispense with them now? If prayer in the apostolic age could break down barriers, open effectual doors, and impart superhuman courage to grapple with dangers and difficulties, it can to-day. As ministers are God's servants, it follows that in praying for them, you do it not so much for the sake of the servants, as for the sake of the cause they serve. But they are the people's servants, also; and those who render the most efficient service to God, are sure to be the greatest benefactors to men. If, therefore, your prayers can augment their usefulness, you can afford to pray on; for you are surely, though perhaps unconsciously, praying down blessings on your own heads. Hence it is that those who pray the most and grumble the least, always have the best preachers. Pray on.

3. Work with them. What can a minister do without the co-operation of the church? He may preach like an angel; but if the heavenly accents fall on fastidious ears and frozen hearts, what can be accomplished? Some churches have light enough to see that something ought to be done, but not life enough to do it. They would be willing to have it a little warmer, if some one else would kindle the fire. Perhaps they would not seriously object to a revival, if the ministers would only be kind enough to bring one along. But they are too deplorably dull and drowsy to take hold of God's work in God's way. Like drones in the hive, they are willing to eat the honey, but not willing to make it. Ministers sometimes make a desperate effort to get sinners converted over dead churches; but the machinery creaks at every turn, and the results are meager and discouraging. The few that do start, generally freeze up and die out for want of proper nursing and watch-care. The attempt to secure a glorious and substantial revival over a backslidden church, is very much like trying to melt an iceberg with a moonbeam.

O brethren, there is work to be done. The world is perishing. If you want God to work, you must work, too. If you desire the preachers to be successful, will you not get your own hearts baptized with the spirit of labor, and add your strength to theirs in drawing the mighty load? What glorious results would follow the united efforts of preachers and people, whose hearts were swelling with a common joy, and whose hands were ready to every work of God! O for the cementing love, the soul-inspiring zeal, the divine anointing!

4. Pay them. It is delicate business for a minister to touch this subject at all; but somebody must bear unpopular crosses. What is the New Testament teaching on ministerial support? St. Paul affirms that "the Lord hath ordained that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel."—1 Cor. 9: 14. This, then, is the divinely established law in the case; and it may not be violated with impunity. The context will show that I have not put any unwarranted construction on the passage. Listen again: "Let him that is taught in the word, communicate unto him that teacheth, in all good things."—Gal. 6: 6. Nothing is plainer than that this scripture imposes a solemn obligation on the people taught, to impart temporal comfort to the spiritual teacher.

Do you wish for another testimony? Take this: "Let the elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honor, especially they that labor in the word and doctrine." I suppose the "double honor" here referred to implies (1) that we should "esteem them very highly in love for their works' sake"; and (2) that we should show our esteem in a practical way by dividing with them the blessings of life. That the matter of temporal support is included in the apostle's injunction, is evident from what immediately follows: "For the Scripture saith, Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn. And, the laborer is worthy of his reward." 1 Tim, 5: 17, 18.

The apostles were so situated that they knew how to appreciate a kindness. Luke makes a very touching allusion to the treatment which Paul received at the hands of even a barbarous people, on the island of Melita. The ship-wrecked minister magnified his office by praying and laboring among the sick. His fidelity was fully acknowleeged by their generosity. And this is the apostle's receipt: "They honored us with many honors; and when we departed, they loaded us with such things as were necessary." That was a promising missionary field.

"We are ready to acknowledge the principle," perhaps you are saying, "but how much shall we give?" It is difficult to lay down any rule that would apply to every case. The beneficence of God's ancient people, if practiced now, would enable every ten families to support a minister as well as they live themselves. If christians would come somewhere near this elevated standard of benevolence, I think the Lord would find a chance to do something for them.

Brethren do not always realize that many ministers are actually sacrificing from $200 to $1000 a year by consenting to preach the gospel. I mean, they could occupy positions that would secure so much more than they now receive. Some of them would like to change places with you who are carrying on a thriving business, if you would go and do their work. And they would agree to be pretty generous, too, in supporting the cause of God.

Why should men of culture, of liberal education, of business capacity, consent to lead a pauper's life and wear out their energies in the gospel ministry? I can see no sufficient motive but the love they bear to Christ and perishing men. Shall they then be continually pinched with poverty, embarrassed with debts, cramped in their feelings, and crippled in their efforts, when a little extra lifting of many united hands would make it all clear sailing? How many of those who sit under gospel preaching would think of supporting their families on the paltry sums which are handed to the preachers? While second rate mechanics receive fifteen dollars a week, the itinerant minister is expected to pay his traveling expenses, go decently clothed, procure his books, and support his family on eight or ten dollars a week. Were it not for an occasional lift in a private way, many a minister's family would actually suffer for the necessaries of life.

These pointed remarks are not intended for those who feel their responsibility and are doing their duty (thank God! there are such), but for those who either fail to see the light, or refuse to walk in it. Pay your preachers, and you may get better preaching! Amen.

A. A. PHELPS.

For the World's Crisis.

WATER-PROOF TENT-CLOTH.

BRO. GRANT:—Wanting a preparation for making my tent-cloth water-proof, I applied to a friend, who sent me the following recipes, which you are at liberty to publish for the benefit of others. I adopted the second because it was cheaper, and my cloth was otherwise quite tight.

For seventeen and a half yards of forty-one-inch cloth, I used four pounds of alum, with four gallons of water, and twelve pounds of soap, with four gallons of water, and then had to soak a part of the cloth at a time, not being able to get it all in at once. I have finished my cloth, and after folding one end so as to form a bag, poured in a dipper of water, and not a drop came through.

No. 1. French process for water-proofing army-tents: Into a boiler or pot put twenty pounds of alum and nine gallons of water. Boil until the alum has dissolved. In another pot dissolve twenty pounds of sugar of lead and three gallons of boiling water. As soon as dissolved mix it with the alum at a boiling heat, stirring the whole well. The sulphuric acid of the alum unites with the oxide of lead, forming sulphate of lead, insoluble in water, and falls to the bottom of the pot as a white precipitate. After the sulphate of lead has subsided by letting the mixture stand for some time without stirring, then pour off the solution carefully into another vessel and soak the cloth in it. When well saturated take it out, squeeze or wring out the excess of the solution, then hang up to dry. If well wrung, it will dry in five minutes in a stove-oven heated to 160° F. The proportion of alum used may vary from ten to twenty pounds to twenty pounds of sugar of lead. Cloth prepared in this way will shed water like a duck's back and remain white.

No. 2. Dissolve twenty pounds of alum in ten to twenty gallons of water, "according to the strength wanted." When the cloth has been well soaked in this solution, wring it out and hang it up. When nearly dry, dip it into a solution of thirty pounds of soft soap and ten gallons of hot water. Wash, dry, etc.

No. 3. Dissolve twelve ounces of castile soap in one gallon of hot water. Soak the cloth in it, then take it out. After twenty-four hours dip it into a solution of two ounces of alum and one gallon of water. The rest of the process the same as the others.

No. 4. Take best pale glue four ounces, white curd soap four ounces, hot water three pints; dissolve, then add powdered alum two ounces; mix and stir well. Distend the cloth wrong side up on a table, and apply the mixture with a brush. After it has dried, brush it on the wrong side against the grain, then dip the brush in clean water, and pass it lightly over the cloth to remove any gloss. Brush it when dry. Cloth prepared by this and the French method is impervious to water, but not to air.

D. D. CHAFFEE.

South Wilbraham, Mass.

For the World's Crisis.

WORK FOR JESUS.

Among all the professors and professions here, how very little of truly heart service! How the care of every thing, except God's things, engrosses every thought; and how often Christ is wounded in the house of his friends. O how can we do too much for him, when he has done everything for us; when he has bought us, and redeemed us from eternal death; when he has promised us every blessing here and hereafter, even to being the "sons of God." What a happiness! What a glory! What a blessing! And all things are ours, even His hidden things, which "eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard, neither hath entered into the heart of man."

That the God who gave to the flowers their bright colors and pleasing odors; to the winged bird its brilliant plumage, and its sweet voice, warbling forth evermore its joyous melody, making glad the heart of man; who "binds the sweet influences of Pleiades"; who "looses the bands of Orion"; who "guides Arcturus with his sons"; who "metes out the waters in the hollow of his hand"; who says, "Hitherto shalt thou come, and no further, and here shall thy proud waves be stayed"; who makes it a "great and wonderful sea, wherein are all manner of creeping things innumerable, both small and great"; who "numbers the clouds in wisdom," and "sends forth his lightnings"; who created everything "for his pleasure"; who is "excellent in power and in judgment,"—will one day say unto us (if we have fought the good fight and kept the faith), "Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." The joy of thy Lord! Pure, holy, far above our highest thought of joyousness—God's joy forever. All things are ours; even His joy, and forever.

Can we not endure every trial? Can we not even count it a pleasure, remembering that "if we suffer with him we shall also reign with him"? Can we not take as from heaven whatever he sends us? for he loves us with an everlasting love, and "does not willingly afflict." Can we not speak for him, and work for him? Would we not for any earthly friend who had done for us the merest trifle? And yet we are ashamed of him, and dare not live for him entirely. O how unworthy, how mean, and poor, and earthly.

O, why do we not work more for Jesus? Why do we not follow him more closely? "Let us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into that rest, any of you should seem to come short of it." L. A. B.

Gems.

— The true christian is like the living spring which is not impoverished by sending forth its grateful waters. He is not afraid to freely bestow of that which he has freely received, and the more he gives, the more abundantly does God supply him; but there are too many like stagnant pools, withholding that which tends to poverty. Like the servant with the one talent they are afraid to use their possessions for God's glory.

— In the development of every moral principle, there is, sooner or later, a crisis reached, which, if safely passed, insures the greatest possible amount of good of which the case admits; otherwise the greatest possible amount of evil. The weight of a feather may turn the scale.

— He who waits without working is simply a man yielding to sloth and despair. He who works without waiting is fitful in his strivings, and misses results by impatience. He who works steadily and waits patiently may have a long journey before him, but at its close he will find its reward.

Better to hope, though the clouds hang low,
And to keep the eyes still lifted;
For the sweet blue sky will soon peep through
When the ominous clouds are rifted!
There never was a night without a day,
Or an evening without a morning;
And the darkest hour, as the proverb goes,
Is the hour before the dawning.

— It is good to know much and live well; but if we cannot obtain both, it is better to desire piety than wisdom; for knowledge makes no man happy, nor doth blessedness consist in intellectuals. The only brave thing is a religious life.

— In all evils which admit a remedy, impatience should be avoided, because it wastes that time and attention in complaints which, if properly applied, might remove the cause.

— A soul without prayer is like a solitary sheep without a shepherd. The tempter sees it and lures it away into his snare.

— The whole of a well-spent human life is but the development of a noble thought, and that thought is godliness.

— Does not God come home to us more closely, more searchingly, more personally, by his providence than even by his word?

— Seclusion from the world prepares us for communion with God; and communion with God prepares us for intercourse with the world.

— It is much easier to get money than to get justice. The world is apt to resent, as a wrong done to its self-esteem, that you should claim anything as a right. It prefers to bestow, as a charity, that which you properly, perhaps, can regard only as a debt.

Is there a thing beneath the sun,
That strives with thee my heart to share?
Ah! tear it thence, and reign alone,
The Lord of every motion there;
Then shall my heart from earth be free,
When it has found repose in thee.

— True piety is not a morose, but a cheerful thing; whilst it makes me joyful it delivers me from frivolity, yet it causes me to be pleasant and glad.

— If you are disquieted at anything, you should consider with yourself, is the thing of that worth, that for it I should so disturb myself, and lose my peace and tranquility.

— It is delightful to observe in the true Christian character, how wisdom and simplicity, courage and humility, go hand in hand and act together.

— A plain man, who has a good voice and sings from house to house, is a preacher, and a good one.

— If ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your heavenly Father forgive your trespasses.

— We weave our children's habits as clothes are made, stitch by stitch.

— Undisguised ignorance is vastly more endurable than affected learning.

— The man who is venial himself, believes that every body has his price.

WELSH PREACHING.

At a meeting of ministers at Bristol, the Rev. Mr. —— invited several of his brethren to sup with him; among them was the minister officiating at the Welsh meeting-house in that city. He was an entire stranger to all the company, and silently attentive to the general conversation of his brethren. The subject on which they were discoursing was the different styles of public preaching. When several had given their opinion, and had mentioned some individuals as good preachers, and such as were models as to style of composition, etc., Mr. —— turned to the Welsh stranger and solicited his opinion. He said he felt it a privilege to be silent when such men were discoursing; but that he felt it a duty to comply with his request.

"But," said he, "if I must give my opinion, I should say that ye have no good preachers in England."

"No?" said Mr. L——.

"No," said he; "that is, I mean no such preachers as we have in the principality."

"I know," said Mr. L——, "you are famous for jumping in Wales; but that is not owing, I suppose, so much to the strain of preaching which the people hear, as to the enthusiasm of their characters."

"Indeed," said the Welshman, "you would jump too, if you heard and understood such preaching."

"Why," said Mr. L——, "do you not think I could make them jump, if I were to preach to them?"

"You make them jump?" exclaimed the Welshman; "you make them jump? A Welshman would set fire to the world, while you were lighting your match."

The whole company became very much interested in this new turn of the subject, and unanimously requested the good man to give them some specimen of the style and manner of preaching in the principality.

"Specimen," said he, "I cannot give you; if John Elias were here, he would give you a specimen indeed. O! John Elias is a great preacher."

"Well," said the company, "give us something that you have heard from him."

"O, no," said he, "I cannot do justice to it; besides, do you understand the Welsh language?"

They said, "No, not so as to follow a discourse."

"Then," said he, "it is not possible for you to understand it, if I were to give you a specimen."

"But," said they, "cannot you put it into English?"

"O," said he, "your poor meagre language would spoil it; it is not capable of expressing those ideas which a Welshman can conceive; I cannot give you a specimen in English without spoiling it."

The interest of the company was increased, and nothing would do but something of a specimen; while they promised to make every allowance for the language.

"Well," said the Welshman, "if you must have a piece, I must try, but I do not know what to give you; I do not recollect a piece of John Elias; he is our best preacher; I must think a little. Well, I recollect a piece of Christmas Evans. Christmas Evans was a good preacher, and I heard him a little time ago at an association of ministers. He was preaching on the depravity of man by sin; of his recovery by the death of Christ; and he said:

'Brethren, if I were to represent to you in a figure the condition of man as a sinner, and the means of his recovery by the cross of Christ, I should represent it something in this way: Suppose a large grave-yard surrounded by a high wall, with only one entrance, which is by a large iron gate, which is fast bolted. Within these walls are thousands and tens of thousands of human beings, of all ages, and of all classes, by one epidemic disease bending to the grave. The grave yawns to swallow them, and they must die. There is no balm to relieve them—no physician there; they must perish. This is the condition of man as a sinner; all, all have sinned; and the soul that sinneth, it shall die. While man was in this deplorable state, Mercy, the darling attribute of Deity, came down and stood at the gate, looking at the scene, and wept over it, exclaiming, "O that I might enter! I would bind up their wounds, I would relieve their sorrows, I would save their souls."

While Mercy stood waiting at the gate, an embassy of angels, commissioned from the court of heaven to some other world, passing over, paused at the sight, and Heaven forgave that pause; and seeing Mercy standing there, they cried,

"Mercy! Mercy! can you pity, and not relieve?"

Mercy replied, "I can see!" and in her tears she added, "I can pity, but I cannot relieve."

"Why can you not enter?"

"O!" said Mercy, "Justice has barred the gate against me, and I can not, must not, unbar it."

At this moment, Justice himself appeared as it were to watch the gate. The angels inquired of him, "Why will you not let Mercy in?"

Justice replied, "My law is broken, and it must be honored; die they, or Justice must."

At this there appeared a form among the angelic band, like unto the Son of God, who, addressing himself to Justice, said:

"What are thy demands?"

Justice replied, "My terms are stern and rigid. I must have sickness for their health. I must have ignominy for their honor. I must have death for life. Without shedding of blood there is no remission."

"Justice," said the Son of God, "I accept thy terms. On me be this wrong, and let Mercy enter."

"When," said Justice, "will you perform this promise?"

Jesus replied, "Four thousand years hence, upon the hill of Calvary, without the gates of Jerusalem, I will perform it in my own person."

The deed was prepared and signed in the presence of the angels of God. Justice was satisfied, and Mercy entered, preaching salvation in the name of Jesus. The deed was committed to the patriarchs; by them to the kings of Israel and the prophets; by them it was preserved till Daniel's seventy weeks were accomplished; then at the appointed time Justice appeared on the hill of Calvary, and Mercy presented unto him the important deed.

"Where," said Justice, "is the Son of God?"

Mercy answered, "Behold him at the bottom of the hill, bearing his own cross." And then she departed and stood aloof at the hour of trial.

Jesus ascended the hill, while in his train followed his weeping church. Justice immediately presented him with the deed, saying, "This is the day when this bond is to be executed." When he received it, did he tear it in pieces and give it to the winds of heaven? No, he nailed it to his cross, exclaiming, "It is finished!" Justice called on holy fire to come down and consume the sacrifice. Holy fire descended, it swallowed his humanity, but when it touched his Deity it expired; and there was darkness over the whole heavens; but "Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace, good will to men."'"

"This," said the Welshman, "this is but a specimen of Christmas Evans."—Com. by S. Houlette.

"SKEPTIC, SPARE THAT BOOK!"

TUNE—"Woodman, spare that tree."

Skeptic, spare that book,
Touch not a single leaf,
Nor on its pages look
With eye of unbelief;
'Twas my forefather's stay
In the hour of agony;
Skeptic, go thy way,
And let the old book be.

That good old book of life
For centuries has stood,
Unharmed amidst the strife,
When the earth was drunk with blood;
And wouldst thou harm it now,
And have its truths forgot?
Skeptic, forbear the blow,
Thy hand shall harm it not.

Its very name recalls
The happy hours of youth,
When, in my grandsire's halls,
I heard its tales of truth;
I have seen his white hairs flow
O'er that volume as he read;
But that was long ago,
And the good old man is dead.

My dear grandmother, too,
When I was but a boy,
I've seen her eye of blue
Weep o'er it tears of joy;
Their traces linger still,
And dear they are to me.
Skeptic, forego thy will,
Go, let the old book be.

WOMEN IN THE NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH.

The women of the primitive church were both officers and teachers on equal footing with the men. Women were even sometimes instructors of men in the more perfect significance of the gospel. The theological school in which the eloquent Apollos graduated was composed of Aquila and Priscilla; and so half of the professors were women. "And he (Apollos) began to speak boldly in the synagogue, whom, when Aquila and Priscilla heard (finding him deficient in the faith,) they took him with them and taught him in the way of the Lord more perfectly." The apostle to the Gentiles, baptized into the principle and spirit of his Master, cries out to the Phillippian brethren:—"Help those women that labor with me in the gospel." Bids the Romans to "receive Phebe, a servant of the church of Cenchrea, and to assist her in whatsoever business she may have need of you." Bids them 'greet Priscilla and Aquila, my helpers in Christ Jesus." To "greet Mary who bestowed much labor on us." To "greet Tryphena who labored in the Lord." No wonder that he who had so loudly rung the key-note of Christ's kingdom, that—"there is neither male nor female; but all are one in Christ Jesus"—should so honor woman, so welcome her as a co-laborer both in the teaching and business of the church, and so rejoice in her exaltation and her work.—Woman's Journal.

CHRIST UNVEILED.

A Spanish artist was once employed to paint the "Last Supper." It was his object to throw all the sublimity of his art into the figure and countenance of the Lord Jesus; but he put on the table in the foreground some chased cups, the workmanship of which was exceedingly beautiful. When his friends came to see the picture on the easel, every one said, "What beautiful cups!" "Ah!" said he, "I have made a mistake; these cups divert the eyes of the spectators from the Lord, to whom I wished to direct the attention of the observer." He forthwith took up his brush and blotted them from the canvas, that the strength and vigor of the chief object might be seen and observed. Thus all christians should feel the great study to be Christ's exaltation; and whatever is calculated to hinder men from beholding him in all the glory of his person and works, should be removed out of the way. "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ."

ALPHABET OF SHORT RULES.

Attend well to your duties.
Be punctual in your payments.
Consider well before you promise.
Dare to do right.
Envy no man.
Faithfully stick to your business.
Have respect for your character.
Interest yourself in charity.
Jest not about serious affairs.
Know thyself.
Lie not, for any consideration.
Make friends among the good.
Never profess what you don't do.
Occupy your time usefully.
Postpone not what you can do now.
Quarrel not with your neighbor.
Recompense each man for his labor.
Save every thing for a day of trouble.
Treat everybody with kindness.
Use yourself to moderation.
Villify no person's reputation.
Watchfully guard against idleness.
Xamine your conduct daily.
Yield to superior judgment.
Zealously pursue the right path.

THE QUAKER AND SKEPTIC.—A skeptical young collegian confronted an old Quaker with the statement that he did not believe in the Bible. Said the Quaker:

"Does thee believe in France?"

"Yes. Though I have not seen it, I have seen others who have; besides, there is plenty of proof that such a country does exist."

"Then thee will not believe any thing thee or others has not seen."

"No, to be sure I won't."

"Did thee ever see thy own brains?"

"No."

"Ever see any one that did?"

"No."

"Does thee believe thee has any?"

A GREAT EVIL NOT REMOVED.—A conference preacher one day went into the house of a Wesleyan reformer, and saw, suspended on the walls, the portraits of three expelled ministers.

"What," said he, "you have them there?"

"O, yes, they are there," was the answer. "But one is wanted to complete the set."

"Pray, what is that?"

"Why, the devil, to be sure."

"Ah," said the reformer, "HE is not yet expelled from the conference."

EDUCATION does not commence with the alphabet; it begins with a mother's look; a father's nod of approbation, or his sign of reproof; with a sister's gentle pressure of the hand, or a brother's noble act of forbearance; with a handful of flowers in green and daisy meadows; with a bird's nest admired but not touched; with pleasant walks in shady lanes; and with thoughts directed, in sweet and kindly tones and words, to nature, to beauty, to acts of benevolence, to deeds of virtue, and to the source of all good—to God himself!

CHARACTER is not shaped by trifles any more than marble is sculptured by puffs of air. Only by hard struggles and stern conflicts with temptation, and resolute self-mastery, does the divine principle assert its supremacy, and carve its immortal loveliness into every faculty and mood of the mind. The sharpness of our trials, and the hardness of our lot, show what we are made of, and how long we are to last.

HOW TO SPOIL THE INFLUENCE OF YOUR PREACHER.—1. Tell your neighbors that he is a man of very ordinary ability.

2. Keep it before the people that he can do no good.

3. Magnify every fault you see in him.

4. Don't co-operate with him in any effort he may make to advance the interests of the church.

5. Stay away from meeting when you can possibly find an excuse.

6. Show to the world that you have no interest in his welfare.

The above rules, faithfully followed, will ruin the influence of any preacher, especially if a large number of his parishioners follow them.

The Children's Corner.

PLEDGE OF THE TRY COMPANY.

We, the Undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from Tea, Coffee, Tobacco, and all Intoxicating Drinks as a Beverage.

THE BIRD WITH TWO SONGS.

We were standing in the garden with a stranger, one cloudy, chilly, unsummerlike afternoon in June. Near us was a large clump of lilac bushes, into which we saw a bird of a dingy, faded, black color fly. Presently she broke out into what, perhaps, she called a song; but it was in reality like the flat squalling of an old cat.

"Yaah! yaah!" she continued to cry.

"Pray," said the stranger, "what bird is that making such a horrible noise?"

"That, sir, is the cat bird."

"I should think so, and a burnt cat too! I thought it homely enough to the eye, but the color is nothing to the screech."

"I can't say much at present, to defend the poor bird, for looks and voice are against her. But I am confident you will think better of her before long."

The next morning I found my friend standing on the piazza, listening to the notes of a bird in a thick sugar-maple near by. The song was that of a mocking bird, not so wonderful as the notes of a real mocking bird, nor even so sweet as that of the thrush, yet they were round, full, and often as exquisite. She seemed to repeat the note of every bird with which she was acquainted,—robin, sparrow, oriole, and the like, with surprising accuracy. The morning was fair and the air still, and the bird seemed to be swallowed up in song.

"Pray, tell me," said my stranger friend, "what bird is that which sings so delightfully?"

"That is our cat-bird."

"You must be making fun of me. You don't pretend to say that homely, squalling bird, and this singer are the same?"

"I do, truly, and to convince you, I will throw a stone into the tree and drive her out, and you shall see it is the same bird."

With this I threw the stone, and out came Mrs. Cat-bird, making directly for the lilacs, where she began to scream "Yaah! yaah!"

The gentleman looked on in amazement.

"I know many people just like her. When away from home they are full of smiles and gentle ways; but see them at home! and the cat-bird notes are theirs."

"Oh, yes," said the stranger, "I know scores of such people, fathers and mothers, so smiling and pleasant away from home, but the moment they enter their own doors they are cold, silent and repulsive. And some young ladies so lively and obliging when away from home that we would think them uncommonly lovely; but when at home, disrespectful to parents, coarse and unlovely. Like our cat-bird, with her two songs, cheerful and well-bred among strangers, but the moment they go home, rude, disobedient, rough and ill-tempered."

What is the reason people will be so?—Ex.

GOOD COUNSEL.

A RHYME SIX HUNDRED YEARS OLD.

Guard, my child, thy tongue,
That it speak no wrong.
Let no evil word pass o'er it;
Set the watch of truth before it.
That it speak no wrong.
Guard, my child, thy tongue.

Guard, my child, thine eyes;
Prying is not wise;
Let them look on what is right;
From all evil turn their sight;
Prying is not wise.
Guard, my child, thine eyes!

Guard, my child, thine ear!
Wicked words will sear.
Let no evil words come in
That may cause the soul to sin.
Guard, my child, thine ear!

Ear, and eye, and tongue,
Guard while thou art young,
For, alas! these busy three
Can unruly members be.
Guard while thou art young,
Ears, and eyes, and tongue!

A TRAP FOR A HUMMING-BIRD.

You have heard of rat-traps and mouse-traps, but did you ever hear of a humming-bird trap? Perhaps you will think it cruel to try to catch such pretty little things, but wait till I tell you how we do it. There is a hanging-basket in our window, and in that we put trumpet-creeper flowers, and Chinese larkspurs, and tiger-lilies every morning. Then we sit down quietly near the window, and it is not long before a loud humming attracts our attention. There, our first humming-bird has come. Round he flies to one flower and then another, with his white-edged tail outspread, and his long bill finding its way even into the deep trumpet-flowers.

This is the pleasantest way to catch birds.

Little children! there are generally two ways to do anything—one a pleasant and kindly way, the other a cross and cruel way. When you wish your little brother or sister to do anything, try with the flowers of kind words and smiles, not with the steel-traps of scolding and striking.

I will tell you a true story about a girl who knew how to make flower-traps for her little brother.

One day he was a little sick, and she wanted him to put on a shawl.

"Charlie," said she, "don't you want to play school?"

"Yes," he answered, gladly.

"Well," said Carrie, "let me put on your shawl, and we will go to school together in the other room."

Which of you will try to help your brothers as little Carrie did, and so make flower-traps to catch smiles and thanks, as we catch humming birds?—Children's Hour.

LITTLE BROTHERS.

Sisters, do not turn off your younger brothers, as if they were always in your way, and any service which they might ask of you were a burden. Perhaps the hour may come when, over a coffin that looks strangely longer than you thought, and over a pale brow where often, half unwillingly and perhaps with a petulant push, you parted the hair—you bend with blinding tears and sobs that shake your very soul, while remorseful memory is busy with the by-gone hours. You will wish then that when he came and asked you to help him in his play, or to lift him on your lap because he was tired, or take him out because he wanted to see, you had laid aside your book and made the little heart glad.

A SMILING FACE AND A KIND HEART.—Which will you do—smile and make your household happy, or be crabbed and make all those young ones gloomy and the elder ones miserable? The amount of happiness you can produce is incalculable, if you show a smiling face, a kind heart, and speak pleasant words. Wear a pleasant countenance, let joy beam in your eyes, and love glow on your forehead. There is no joy like that which springs from a kind act or a pleasant deed.

HOW TO OBEY.—Do it at once. Never wait to be told the second time. Then your obedience will be pleasing to God and man.

P. O. Address of Preaching Brethren.

Massachusetts.

C. Goodrich—No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.
Enoch Merrill—Crisis Office, Boston.
J. S. White—93 Decatur Street, East Boston.
J. Couch—Chelsea.
I. K. Lombard—Chelsea.
L. Boutell—Chelsea.
S. W. Thurber—Chelsea.
T. M. Preble—No. Cambridge.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls.
D. Churchill—Lowell.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford.
S. S. Brewer—Ashburnham Depot.
H. Pratt—Springfield, 57 Cedar Street.
Z. Ford—Box 392, Springfield.
W. N. Pile—Springfield.
P. S. Butler—Collins Depot.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana.
Alvah Bean—Lowell.
J. W. Thomas—Lowell, 16 Rock Street.
Benj. Finney—Wakefield.
A. D. Flagg—Chicopee Falls.
S. S. Brasee—Cold Spring.
W. H. Hathaway—North Carver.
Rufus Baker—Warren.
J. W. Brittan—Westboro.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—Palmer.
H. K. Flagg—Savoy.
E. Owen—Westfield, Lock Box 616.

Maine.

S. K. Partridge—North Whitefield.
I. C. Wellcome—Yarmouth.
H. D. Reed—Richmond.
H. S. Mitchell—Richmond.
J. Carr—South Albion.
Israel Damman—Corinna.
C. H. Leverton—Surry, Me.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills.
C. Goud—Topsham.
Jesse Gay—Norway.
Thomas Smith—Bangor.
Thomas Rhynes—Augusta.
R. R. York—Portland.
M. B. Patterson—Richmond.
J. Albert Libby—West Poland.
J. T. Jordan—West Poland.
E. M. Haggett—Livermore.
F. A. Baker—Levant.
Jared Whitman—Mechanic Falls.
H. B. Sevey—Mt. Vernon.
M. W. Corliss—Milltown.
N. G. Reed—Bath.
Wm. H. Mitchell—Kennebunk.

New Hampshire.

L. C. & M. McKinstry—Lake Village.
A. W. Sibley—West Thornton.
A. Simpson—Concord.
D. N. Chadsey—Whitefield.
Caleb Richardson—Salem Depot.
N. C. Twombly—Strafford Centre.
E. Cotton—Newport.
Daniel Eastman—East Canaan.
J. B. Brown—Laconia.
A. A. Hoyt—North Haverhill.
T. E. Lang, Jr.—Meredith Village.
E. S. Moulton—Whitefield.
Wm. C. Stewart—Exeter, Box 227.
John H. Evans—Holderness.
Levi Allen—Lake Village.
Allen Damon—Lake Village.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff.
Joseph Kimball—Unity.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover.
N. B. McMurphy—Gilmanton.
A. Ross—Amherst.
C. H. Fletcher—Newport.
T. L. Hall—Keene.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport.
S. S. Mooney—Pittsfield.
N. Wheeler—Sugar Hill.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426, Concord
Simeon Roby—Warner.
D. F. Leavitt—London Ridge.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia.
J. G. Smith—Farmington.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth.
N. Glidden—Meredith Center.

Vermont.

H. F. Carpenter—North Springfield.
Z. T. Wood—Springfield.
J. A. Cleaveland—North Hydepark.
A. Gordon—Canaan.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
U. G. Ladd—Barnston, Ways Mills, P. Q.

Rhode Island.

M. R. Phetteplace—West Gloucester.
D. O. Hopkins—North Foster.
B. Roberts—Knightsville.
A. Durfee—Westerly, Box 334.
E. S. Straight—Watchemoket.
J. T. Dixon—Rocky Brook.
C. H. Sweet—Natick.
Geo. A. Cole—317 No. Main St., Providence.

Connecticut.

William J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley.
S. M. Tatro—No. 51 Windsor St., Hartford
H. H. Dickenson—Hartford.
P. S. Butler—West Woodstock.
W. S. Campbell—New Britain.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted.
Wm. A. Durand—Cheshire.
S. Woodruff—Unionville.
B. St. John—Wolcottville.
J. L. Wood—New Milford.
Dr. Samuel Wellis Treat—Middlebury
Geo. L. Teeple—New Haven, 189 Orchard Street.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford.
E. Bellows—South Killingly.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville

New York.

Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
E. S. Jennings—Knowlesville, Orleans Co.
J. B. Cook—Brooklyn.
Wm. Ingmire—Lincklaen, Chenango Co.
Jacob Blain—Buffalo, 79 Division Street.
Chas. P. Greenman—Rapids, Niagara Co.
H. A. King—240 Broadway.
R. V. Lyon—Suspension Bridge.
Wm. A. Penn—Rochester.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester.
Z. Dubois Baird—N. Greenwich, Washington Co.
C. Pike—Hebron, Washington Co.
J. H. Whitmore—East Shelby, Orleans Co.
C. F. Sweet—Albion, Orleans Co.
Warren J. Hobbs—Honeoye Falls.
C. W. Low—Fredonia.
M. R. Miles—Wolcott, Wayne Co.
J. Wilbur—West Hoosick, Rensselaer Co.
A. C. Newell—Darien City.
C. H. Williams—West Martinsburg.
B. P. Stevens—South Butler.
D. Cogswell—Dansville.
Herbert H. Brown—Honeoye, Ontario Co.

New Jersey.

S. P. Babcock—Malaga.
D. S. Clark—Amboy.
Geo. A. Brown—Hackensack.

Pennsylvania.

J. W. Taylor—Little Marsh, Tioga Co.
John T. Ongley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co.
Jonas Wendell—Edenboro, Erie Co.
Wm. Stuart—1814 Vineyard Street, Philadelphia.

Ohio.

G. W. Stetson—Olena.
E. McCullock—Nevada.

Tennessee.

Dr. I. I. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis.
L. F. Cole—Memphis, Box 634.

Kentucky.

John B. Wadsworth—166 No. 2nd St., Louisville.

Indiana.

R. H. Scott—Scottsville, Floyd Co.
David Shankland—West Lebanon.
E. C. Andrus—Big Indian P. O.
Dr. N. Field—Jeffersonville.
S. A. Chaplin—Pierceton.
Edward Cordray—Lakeville.
Dr. C. H. Cass—Holton.
Dr. J. W. Warman—Muddy Fork P. O.
Dr. Case—Nebraska
G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co.

Illinois.

George W. Foster—Victoria, Knox Co.
O. D. Gibson—Amboy.
J. W. Burroughs—Neponset.
H. G. McCulloch—De Kalb.
F. Burr—DeKalb.
Wm. McCullock—New Rutland.

Michigan.

J. R. Preston—Wallaceville, Wayne Co.
J. M. Snook—Romeo.
A. N. Seymour—Reading.
George Wright, Jr.—Lexington.

Iowa.

Peter S. W. Deyo—Strawberry Point, Clayton Co.
A. F. Dugger—Simpson.
Ambrose H. Eggleston—Parkersburg
Dr. M. Chandler—Maquoketa, Jackson Co.

Wisconsin.

Wm. Sheldon—Brodhead, Green Co.
N. A. Hitchcock—Dayton, Green Co.
George Thompson—Attica, Green Co.
P. W. Hough—Meadoro, La Crosse Co.

Minnesota.

Edwin T. Himes—St. Paul, Box 258.
Wm. Sweet—Backsville, Brown Co.
Philip Ramer—Winona.
Thos. K. Allen—Box 241, Winona.
Ruth M. Rowell—Winona, Box 621.
O. R. Fassett—Minneapolis.

Nova Scotia.

Wm. M. Ingham—Clemensport.

D. D. Reed—Santa Clara, Cal.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance....................$2.50 a year
Five copies six months to one address....$5.60.
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address......$10.00.
Same rate for any number over ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cts. a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication write—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write—BUSINESS.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 772. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1870. VOL. XXXI.—NO. 20.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
160 HANOVER ST., BOSTON, Mass. } CORNER OF SALEM STREET. (☞ Entrance No. 7 Salem St.)

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
D. MATHEWSON, H. V. DAVIS,
M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN,
H. H. DICKENSON.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

IN SICKNESS.

Suffering and restless, on a bed of anguish
I toss in ceaseless pain, and make my moan—
"How long, oh Lord, leavest thou me to languish,
Bearing my bitter burden all alone?
Oh Lord, how long!"

Then comes the pitying Christ, and bends above me,
And pours his balm into my aching breast;
"Daughter of God, thou knowest that I love thee;
A little while, and I will give thee rest,—
A little while!

"Once, in the night-time, on a lonely mountain,
I drank the cup my Father sent to me;
Wilt thou refuse the drops, when I the fountain
Drained to its bitter source—and all for thee,
The agony?

"Thy Father sends this suffering and hunger;
Wilt thou rebel against thy Father's will?
In love he sends it, not in hate nor anger,
That he may draw his dear child nearer still,
And nearer still."

So speaks the Lord, in his divine compassion,
Comforting me when I am sore distrest;
Changing my murmuring to resignation,
Till I cry out, "Thy will, oh Lord, is best,
Thy will is best!"

For the World's Crisis.

"IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD."—John 1: 1.

A recent reading of this declaration of the Evangelist, and a careful comparison of his words with those of the other New Testament writers, as also his own comments thereon in his epistles, has led me to suspect that the phrase "In the beginning," like many other scriptures, has been very generally misapprehended, and consequently misapplied. It is most frequently referred to the beginning of the creation of the material worlds, of the heavens and the earth, as recorded by Moses in Genesis, and outside of the record I do not recollect of having seen any other.

But is it even probable that John, in giving his "treatise of all that Jesus began to do and teach," would in his narration of events take some other and different starting point than that assumed by all the other evangelists and apostles, widely differing also from his own other statement, as made and recorded by himself in his first epistle (1: 1, 2)? We think not. Let us, then, collate the different writers on this point, and note the unity of testimony among them as given upon this subject.

Matthew introduces his narrative with—"The book of the generation of Jesus Christ," and goes no further back than Abraham, fourteen generations. Then, "The birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise." (Statement of events follows.)

The record by Mark opens with—"The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ the Son of God."—1: 1. The preface of Luke is more explicit; thus: "Forasmuch as many have taken in hand to set forth in order a declaration of those things which are most surely believed among us, even as they delivered them unto us, who from the beginning were eye-witnesses, and ministers of the word [i. e., the word of testimony, or the word testified]; it seemed good to me also, having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first, to write unto thee in order, most excellent Theophilus, that thou mightest know the certainty of those things, wherein thou hast been instructed." Luke goes no further back for "the very first of this beginning" than to a "certain priest called Zacharias, in the days of Herod."—1: 5.

Now in contradistinction to this beginning, Peter introduces a secondary, in Acts 1: 22; "Wherefore of these men who have companied with us all the time the Lord Jesus went in and out among us, beginning from the baptism of John." Again (10: 36, 37), "The word which God sent unto the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ . . . . throughout all Judea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached." (See also Mark 1: 14.) Paul refers to the same when he says in Heb. 2: 3, "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation, which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him?" But this secondary beginning was only the manifestation of that word to which John refers when he says, "The word was with God" (1: 1); i. e., the word of life; the word which God sent to Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ; the word which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord; the word of promise ("for this is the promise that he hath promised us, even eternal life; and this life is in his Son"); this word was in the beginning, at the very first, with God, and this word was God; because it constituted the utterance of the Spirit's voice, and God is spirit. So John in his epistle (1: 1-3) is in perfect harmony with his primary declaration when he says, "That which was from the beginning, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled of the word of life; for the life was manifested, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and show unto you that eternal life which was with the Father by whom the worlds were made; of whom are all things'], and was manifested unto us."

Next, let us turn to the record that God has given us concerning his Son, and see if this view is in harmony with that.

1. The word of promise. Matthew, in his narrative, goes back to Abraham; and Paul says, in Rom. 9: 9, "For this is the word of promise"; then he quotes that which constitutes that word: "At this time will I come, and Sarah shall have a son"; and, in ver. 7, "In Isaac shall thy seed be called." In Gal. 3: 8, Paul says the gospel was comprehended in this promise of blessing to Abraham; and in ver. 16 he affirms that the seed of promise referred to Christ. So far, then, what was said of and done to Abraham, Sarah, and Isaac, was only the shadow of (or foreshowing) the good things to come; but the body (substance) was of Christ. Leaving, then, the shadow, let us come at once to the substance of the word of promise, which "in the beginning was with God."

1. Gal. 4: 4. "But when the fullness of the time was come God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law." How? In fulfillment of the promise. At this time, or at the set time, will I come. Where? Luke 1: 26-55. "And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God, unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary. And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favored, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women. And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favor with God. And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name Jesus. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David; and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end . . . The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the highest shall overshadow thee; therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God. And, behold, thy cousin Elizabeth, she hath also conceived a son in her old age: and this is the sixth month with her who was called barren. (See Gal. 4: 2.) For with God nothing shall be impossible. And Mary said, Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. And the angel departed from her. And Mary arose in those days, and went into the hill-country with haste, into a city of Juda: and entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elizabeth. And it came to pass that, when Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe leaped in her womb; and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost: and she spake out with a loud voice, and said, Blessed art thou among women; and blessed is the fruit of thy womb. And whence is this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? . . . And blessed is she that believed: for there shall be a performance of those things which were told her from the Lord. And Mary said, My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Savior. For he hath regarded the low estate of his handmaiden: for, behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed. For he that is mighty hath done to me great things; and holy is his name. . . He hath holpen his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy: as he spake to our fathers, to Abraham, and to his seed forever."

In the beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ (Mark), the word (of promise—Paul) of life (John), spoken (Peter), was with God. Came from God by the angel, sent to Mary in Nazareth, when God promised by the angel that she should have a son and call his name Jesus. (Luke.) "And the word [of promise] was made flesh, and dwelt among us." Jno. 1: 14. When in the fulness of the set time, Jesus was made of a woman, made under the law (Gal. 4: 4), "and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth." John 1: 14,—"For he received from God the Father honor and glory, when there came such a voice from the excellent glory, . . . and this voice . . . we heard, when we [Peter, James and John] were with him in the holy mount." Pet. 1: 18.

Lastly. "The word spoken by our Lord" was "in the beginning" with God. John 17: 5-22. "And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self with the glory which I had with thee before the world was. I have manifested thy name unto the men which thou gavest me out of the world: thine they were, and thou gavest them me; and they have kept thy word. Now they have known that all things whatsoever thou hast given me are of thee. For I have given unto them the words which thou gavest me; and they have received them, and have known surely that I came out from thee, and they have believed that thou didst send me. I pray for them: I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me; for they are thine. And now come I to thee; and these things I speak in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves. I have given them thy word; and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world. . . . Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; that they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us, that the world may believe that thou has sent me. And the glory which thou gavest me I have given them; that they may be one, even as we are one."

Most assuredly the word of faith which we preach is the word of God, and was in the beginning with God. "And this is life eternal, that we may know the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom he hath sent."

Olena, O. G. W. Stetson.

Prayer is a retirement from earth to attend on God, and hold correspondence with him that dwells in heaven. The things of this world, therefore, must be commanded to stand by for a season, and to abide at the foot of the mount while we walk up higher to offer our sacrifices as Abraham did, and to meet our God.

DOUBTS AND THEIR REMEDY.

Dr. Bonar points out an instructive contrast between the doubts of the disciples after the death of Christ and the doubts which now overshadow the lives of many Christians. The former doubted the fact of the resurrection of the Lord; but they had no doubt that, if he was indeed raised from the dead, all was well with them. When he appeared among them, they doubted whether this was indeed Jesus of Nazareth; but they knew, if this was their Lord, they had abundant cause of rejoicing. The doubters of our day have no doubt that he is risen and ascended Jesus is the Christ, the Savior of the world; but they doubt whether his resurrection is of any avail to us till we have succeeded in doing or feeling something which will make it available—till we have ascertained that our faith is of a kind and quality to put gladness into the fact; as though the office of faith were not at once and directly to draw joy out of the simple fact that Christ is risen. They admit the proof of his resurrection; they own him as the Prince of life; but they say that this is nothing to us till we have determined what our feelings are, and what is the quality of our faith.

This mode of dealing with the facts of the Bible, ascribes to faith what belongs to Christ; concentrating our thoughts on self, and the changes to be wrought in self. It makes our joy come not from the certain fact that God raised him up, but from the uncertain consciousness of what the Holy Spirit does within us. It says that the sinner must not taste the cup of blessing which the resurrection of Christ presents, till he has wrought and prayed himself into a more suitable frame of spirit, forgetting that nothing save drinking of this cup can bring about this better and more blessed frame.

The first disciples raised no question about self. Conscious of their unworthiness, and aware that no time or effort could remedy it, knowing that they were lost, and that it was the lost Christ come to save, there was no room for any question about self. If he was the Christ, as they believed him to be, and if they were the lost, as they knew themselves to be, then the whole matter was decided by that divine testimony which, ages before, had announced, "He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities." And after all that has been written and disputed about inward evidences and preparatory experiences, this is our great question, "Is Jesus the Christ?" Has he died and has he risen? These we should regard as the vital questions had we any right apprehension of the state of the matter between us and God.

The first disciples saw that the question of their acceptance was included in the question of his resurrection. Not that they were accepted before they believed, and not that they were to believe themselves accepted; but to know Christ in his person and work; to receive the Father's testimony regarding him, as crucified, buried, risen, and ascended, was, in the very act of receiving it, to enter into the state of no condemnation, to obtain eternal life, to be accepted in the Beloved. Many disciples in our day think that peace with God can only be reached by a knowledge of some attainment of their own, the fruit of a lifetime's hard experience, the result of one of the hardest processes of self-scrutiny ever attempted by man. To be satisfied with Christ is life and gladness, as well as the destruction of sin. To seek to be satisfied with self, in order to be satisfied with Christ, or to make Christ satisfied with us, is the introduction of the subtlest and darkest form of self-righteousness.

When Jesus appeared to his disciples after his resurrection, they doubted his identity. They were so slow of heart to believe what the prophets had spoken, that they would not believe that he could die till they had seen him die; and now they could not believe that he was risen when he actually stood in the midst of them. He convinced them by showing them his hands and his side. This, then, is indeed "Jesus whom they crucified." Here were the proofs that he had died and had triumphed over death. Though crucified through weakness, he lived again by the power of God. The sin had been borne, the sacrifice offered, and the penalty paid, justice satisfied, Satan baffled, death overcome. They had known him as the seed of the woman; now they were to know him as the Lamb that had been slain. It was the same blessed evidence that reassured the staggering faith of Thomas. On the same ground the beloved John was comforted in Patmos. "Fear not," said Jesus, "I am the first and the last; I am he that liveth and was dead." It is thus he approaches us still, and shows us that he is in very deed the Christ that we need. He thus shows us that the fuller knowledge of himself, the dead, buried, risen, and living Christ, is the true way of dispelling doubts; for the real cause of doubt is imperfect knowledge of the Lord. What we need is a knowledge of the immeasurable love of God, in the knowledge of the life, death, and resurrection of a divine Substitute, through whom this love can give itself out lawfully and righteously to man.

Who, after the proof of such a death and resurrection, can refuse to be comforted? And if these gracious facts will not cheer and revive, what is there that will do it in earth or heaven? Look at him with prolonged gaze; see him as he was and is; as the dead, the buried, and the risen One; look at his hands, his feet, his side, till you are like those of whom it is written, "Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord."—Ex.

— Those who in the day of sorrow have owned God's presence in the cloud will find him also in the pillar of fire, brightening and cheering the abode as night comes on.

EGYPT.

SPECIFIC PREDICTIONS.

Now this is what God has said concerning Egypt—"It shall be the basest of kingdoms, neither shall it exalt itself any more among the nations. The pride of her power shall come down. And they shall be desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate; and her cities shall be in the midst of the cities that are wasted. I will sell the land into the hand of the wicked. I will make the land waste, and all that is therein, by the hand of strangers. And there shall be no more a prince of the land of Egypt." These are specific, clear denunciations; have any of them been fulfilled? Are any left unfulfilled?

Every one of them has been proved true in each particular. This miserable strip of soil, lying out there on the margin of the desert, must always be to the world of an importance entirely incommensurate with its worth. Inconvenient of access, unhealthy in climate, dangerous to traverse, ineffably vexatious with its beggary and extortion, it yet attracts and rivets the attention of the successive ages. Divine purpose seems to preserve it in its ruin to witness to its ruin. Ground to the dust, Egypt has no prospect, not even a gleam of promise of redemption. England and France now hold it down under Turkish sway only that eventually they may divide it between them.

Is it "desolate?" Did inspiration catch the precise word in that utterance of prediction? Alas! the very type of desolation could no where be found as well as it can in this enslaved land! Day by day the maiden bears upon her head the huge pile of brushwood she has gathered for her scant fuel in making ready the meagre cake for her lord. All that toil can attain, all that thrift can save, goes to the inevitable task-master to pay taxes. Beaten, impoverished, worn, and weary, Egypt is the very basest of the kingdoms.

It is interesting to know, as one of the most significant of all illustrations, that some years ago the attempt was made by a famous musician to represent, in an orchestral composition, what he intended to call "Souvenirs of Egypt." He introduced the many sounds he heard when in that country. But so unutterably sad and wild were the strains, that the piece was rejected. One lonely and unchanging creak was evermore present in the windings of the harmony—the sound of the terrible instrument for the lifting of water, as the wheel turned upon its unoiled axle. If you listen out in the fields, where the men would be the most jocund, and the women would feel freest, you at times might hear the fellaheen singing. The best tune they have is one called "The Song of the Harvest." But this is a mere plaintive melody, the intervals of which are all minor. You cannot catch the strains so as to know it. Rowing, digging, planting, the laborers will sing, but the sound is like that of men wailing. The land weeps and groans under the reprobation of God.—For. Cor. Christian Union.

For the World's Crisis.

THE TIME OF TROUBLE.

We infer from Dan. 12: 1, that the "time of trouble" there spoken of shall be upon the nations, and not upon the church; for this tribulation she has already endured.

In Luke 21: 25, we read that there shall be "distress of nations, with perplexity," just preceding the coming of Christ; and it seems that these things are now being fulfilled.

From the comments of the daily papers upon the war in Europe, the writers seem to be in the dark as to the final result,—perplexed.

There are some questions I should like to ask.

The sealing of the servants of God in their foreheads. What are the four angels, holding the winds until this is accomplished?

What is the battle of the great day of God Almighty? and when is it to be fought?

What is the supper of the great God?

All these are spoken of in connection with the coming of Christ, and I think should engage the attention of the church. It must be apparent to all students of prophecy that the final consummation hasteth greatly, and the time is passed for doctrinal discussion, or the elucidation of theories. There is something of more importance which should engage the church's energies.

The church has had its time of observation, its labor and conflicts; and now it is just about to enter the harbor, and should begin to make preparation to enter the celestial city. We can almost see its spires in the distance. "Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh."

D. N. Smith.

For the World's Crisis.

NO NIGHT IN HEAVEN.

No fear, no gloom shall overshadow us. There all is peace and joy. Sighs shall be turned to songs, prayer to praise. Just beyond gleams the promised land, with its crystal fountains, its glittering towers and green fields. And the Savior is there. "Their eyes shall see the King in his beauty, and behold the land that is very far off."

Eyes shall no more keep their vigils; no more aching heads, no more throbbing brows. Not a tear shall fall within their pearly gates; no faltering step, no weary limbs. "He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters."

Not a trouble nor a sorrow. None shall say, "I am sick." There we shall meet loved ones, never more to part. We shall see Jesus. We shall receive the glorious crown. "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness."

No cankering cares, no disappointed hopes. Every day draws the faithful christian nearer that bright world over whose portals is written, "Neither shall there be any more pain." No chilling blasts, no fading flowers, no falling leaf; but there is the tree of life, the golden streets, the beautiful river. "And I, John, saw the Holy City, New Jerusalem, . . . prepared as a bride adorned for her husband."

But there shall be bright, glorious day. They need no light of the sun, nor of the moon, for the glory of the Lamb is the light of it, and the streets of gold resound with the joyous steps of saved ones, who have washed their robes and made them white; and the heavenly arches echo with their songs of praise. "And after these things I heard a great voice of much people saying, Alleluia! Salvation, and glory, and honor, and power unto the Lord our God."

"No night shall be in heaven, but endless noon;
No fast declining sun, no waning moon;
But there the Lamb shall yield perpetual light,
'Mid pastures green, and waters ever bright."

Portland, Me. Isabell Plymmer.

For the World's Crisis.

THE DISCUSSION WITH NOBLE PALMER.—No. 13.

THE SOUL'S EXISTENCE UNCEASING ONLY THROUGH CHRIST.

Suppose we accept the asseveration of the two-fold or composite nature of man, and comprehend in the union a mortal body and an immortal soul. Let us try a familiar passage in Ecclesiastes by the standard of this hypothesis. "For the living know that they shall die, but the dead know not any thing." (If this is a dialogue between the preacher and a skeptic, it seems rather perplexing to see and assign to the speakers their appropriate parts, and decide which is one, and which the other). By what agency do the living know that they shall die, or which component in the compound man knows this, the body or the soul? Concede that it is the latter that is the true intelligence or intellectual agent. Then in the second part of the antithesis, "the dead know not any thing," what is the agent that has relinquished intelligence and relapsed into unconsciousness? If it is the soul of the living that foresees death, is it not certainly the same soul that through death has surrendered sight and sense and knowledge? Is it in the sense of his intellectual soul that a man thinks and knows when he is alive, and in the aspect of his senseless decaying body, that he ceases to know when he is dead?

It is not easy to see the integrity of this logic. The same identity that knew in life, knows nothing in death. How useless and utterly wanting in pertinence or force would be a sentiment, "the soul of the living knows—the body of the dead knows not!"

We take it for granted there is no ground for mistiness or mystery in the case. Granting that man lives, an organic being—as such he dies. As such, knowing in life—as such, he knows nothing in death. We repeat, if man in the aspect of his soul, or of his body and soul together, is intelligent in life, in either aspect, he is unconscious in death. If in the aspect of his body alone he is conscious in life, and the "unceasing" intelligent soul is not enlisted or involved in the act or exercise of consciousness, how much more emphatically is such a soul helplessly involved in unconsciousness in death.

How perfectly free from maziness or misunderstanding is this Scripture if we take it precisely as it reads. "The hatred, love, and envy" of the dead "is now perished. Now we beg to inquire with particular and concentrated attention, are these sentiments the attributes of an immaterial soul in life? They are certainly extinct in death, and accordingly in what condition is an immortal soul that, with an utter absence of mental faculties or functions, is likewise totally devoid of moral quality or feeling, whether virtuous or vicious?

Take the common and customary phraseology of Scripture, which distinctly locates the dead wholly and absolutely in the grave. The angel said to Daniel, "And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake." What does sleep properly involve? Of course, if it be profound, it implies unconsciousness. (The organism of the brain positively requires repose in healthy sleep, and involved in that repose is a cessation of mental activity. In proportion to the completeness of mental quiet, is the realized result of refreshment.) Why should the accompaniment of perfect mental inaction be denied to the profound slumber of death? The living are awake—the dead are asleep. In addition to the state of death (a state of slumber) is specified the circumstance of place. They are sleeping in "the dust of the earth." They shall undergo a change—they "shall awake."

Are the dead intensely alive and active somewhere? If so, it seems to me that we should have a hint of deathless souls coming up from sheol, or down from heaven to reoccupy their ancient tenements. But such language is not scriptural. Jesus says, "The dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and come forth." Do the dead hear? No, but "all that are in the graves shall come forth." Nothing hinted of souls with lightning speed flying to repossess vacated houses of clay.

See the Savior standing before the tomb of Lazarus. His whole attitude and attention are in agreement with the assurance of the sisters, that Lazarus is truly in the tomb. Christ said, "Lazarus is dead," but "he shall rise again." Martha said, "I know he shall rise in the resurrection." Jesus said, "Lazarus sleepeth; but I go to wake him." And now before the sepulchre of the dead, the powerful Restorer cries with authority: "Lazarus, come forth!" "And he that was dead came forth." The whole narrative is perfectly consistent, implying never in the slightest degree an idea of soul entity alive and undying in any part of the universe. The Lord calls to the Lazarus dead and in the tomb. With his potent mandate went reviving energy and re-animating life. According to the prevailing belief, the essential entity, the living soul, the Lazarus that had continued to think and know before death, and in death and after death, came swift as an arrow of light from heaven above, or hades beneath, or paradise somewhere, to re-enter and occupy the body.

But Jesus did not invoke a soul hid in some invisible or distant retreat, nor did his language approximate such an invocation. Each of the sisters affectionately protested to their beloved Master and Friend, "Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died." Had they entertained a belief kindred to that which so many now cherish, they might have added—"but, still we are comforted with the thought, that his soul is now enraptured and emancipated. It has attained a blessed repose in Paradise." Did the Master suggest to those tearful women such a consolation?

Many teachers, with perfect sincerity and genuine sympathy, say to mourning friends: "Do not weep; your friend is gone to rest in heaven; far beyond the reach of sorrow and pain, is safe in the bosom of eternal love." There is not one syllable of looking or leaning towards this notion of soul immortality, in all the chapter of fifty-seven verses. But Christ magnifies the necessity of a resurrection. He declares to Martha, "I am the resurrection and the life," and it is not to be overlooked that, as the resurrection precedes the life, so it is also indispensable to life. There neither is nor can be life to the dead without a resurrection. The potent intervention of the Son of God is absolutely requisite to relieve and redeem the universal host of death's captives, in order to any possible future life whatever.

The address of Christ to the dead was the same in the case of the widow's son and Jairus' daughter—simple and direct:—"Young man, arise!" "Damsel, arise!" Nor do we conceive that interpretation of such language sophistical or strained which is perfectly natural, and according to the letter or spirit. The dead, who are invoked to arise, are certainly supine, and the word of divine power imparts conjointly with life the muscular power to arise.

A theological pre-supposition views and invites a living, immaterial soul to ascend from hades, or descend from heaven, at the command of Christ. The narrative implies no such thing. The defunct and helpless organism of each is on the bier or on the bed. The dead have no longer an identity, for they have no consciousness, sensation, or life. If the lost identity is to be restored, the body must be re-animated, and the functions of physical life renewed. They who once lived are now dead, but when Jesus speaks they revive and obey his bidding, which is to arise. If the essential identity, the consciousness, the intelligence, be ten or ten thousand millions of miles away, why is it not invoked, as it is the real subject concerned in this transaction? What is a lifeless lump of matter to be addressed, in comparison with a sentient, sensitive, and immortal soul?

And again the unutterable felicities of heaven, or the blessed tranquility of Paradise, must be forsaken by Lazarus, if he is alive after he is dead; and he must live on earth in a mortal body again. We look in vain for the slightest intimation of such an exchange of locations, or such a succession of experiences. There is no clue to a removal from the society of the blessed, no token, no reminiscence, no record. The reviving child does not say to her mother, "O, what a vision of glory I have had!" or, "What an hour of blessed repose with Abraham I have enjoyed!" Did the souls having once entered Paradise vacate and forsake it? Did they hear the voice of the divine Lord calling to them to leave the sweet quiet and precious sympathies of disembodied life in elysium, almost as soon as it was commenced? Just one unspeakable thrill of ecstatic satisfaction, one amazed and delighted view of souls and scenes unearthly, and all is over. Earth and Judea again; scenes and people in the flesh; these are to succeed the few moments of incorporeal bliss. We say again, emphatically, the Bible is silent in regard to any such imagined or alleged ecstasies of the dead in hades or heaven. If such an omission is slighted, or pretermitted, as of no account, we beg to say we think it is of some account. If positive testimony to a state of disembodied joys, so complete and conclusive as these instances would naturally furnish, is absolutely wanting, there is significance in the fact. Or if the widow's son, not being a christian, felt preliminary and intermediate agonies in hades, his joy at the unlooked-for boon of release and relief must have sought and found expression, apparently. But the record answers with the ominous negative of perfect silence. In a matter of such magnitude, involving questions of doctrine and faith throughout successive ages, and among vast multitudes of human beings, how easy to have a foundation supplied in the testimony of the resurrected dead, if it existed. I dare not credit the tenet of an inquisitive though influential, a dogmatic though venerable theology, which substitutes for the implication of perfect reticence in Scripture the hypothesis of man's invention.

It is very common indeed among christians, in referring to the present state of a deceased believer, to say, "He is happy"—"He is gone home"—"He is with angels before the throne"—"He sings the song, and waves the palm of victory." Now we ask, Is this Bible teaching or Bible phraseology? If so, every instance of it is worthy of examination. We say, such is not the language of God's word. "Lazarus sleepeth"; "Many that sleep in the dust"; "The bodies of saints which slept arose"; "Christ the first fruits of them that slept"; "Them also which sleep in Jesus"; "We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed"; "Lighten mine eyes, lest I sleep the sleep of death"; "Since the fathers fell asleep"; "Stephen fell asleep"; "Some are fallen asleep"; "They which are fallen asleep in Christ"; "Concerning them which are asleep"; "Shall not prevent them which are asleep"; "David slept"; "Solomon slept"; "Hezekiah slept"; and many more. Such is the phraseology of the Bible, and the scripture version of the state of the righteous dead.

It is an expression sometimes used of the wicked also, as—"Jehu slept"; "Ahaz slept"; "The stout-hearted have slept their last sleep." It is maintained that they all sleep solely in one aspect; that is, of their bodily organism. But if so, why does not the Bible comfort weeping and afflicted ones by the assurance of the present felicity of the dead? Why not say David and Hezekiah went to heaven or Paradise, or to the bosom of Abraham? What we want is the truth.

Clinton Colegrove.

For the World's Crisis.

MAN IS FLESH.

"And the Lord said, My Spirit shall not always strive with man; for that he also is flesh."

There are several ways in which we might make this subject very interesting, but for the present we will dwell on the latter clause of the text—"That he also is flesh."

We see at a single glance that this conflicts with the popular teaching of the day. The popular teachers tell us that man proper is that immortal soul which is destined to live alway, that occupies the flesh, without which the body is dead. But God says man is flesh. Whom shall we believe? Let us take the truth of God, though it tear away all the fiction that has been placed in our minds by error. Here we have a "thus saith the Lord" for the identification of man, and this is worth more to the real christian than all the teachings of man. We will let those contradict the word who understand it not; but we will believe the word, though men in popular stations in life will contradict it. God says man is flesh, and for this reason his Spirit shall not always strive with him. For the Scripture speaketh on this wise: "He that being often reproved hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy."—Prov. 29: 1. The Lord speaking through the mouth of Jeremiah (6: 8) says, "Behold, I am the Lord, the God of all flesh." And in verses 25 and 31, he will "plead with all flesh." Here the term flesh denotes the whole man. God would not plead with all flesh if the flesh-man did not know anything; he would plead with intelligence, whether it be flesh or spirit; but he does not say I will plead with all spirits; no, he will plead with all men. If we believe man is a ghost, or a spirit, this scripture would not have any reference to him. But this has reference to the flesh man. How simple this scripture is; how plain and tangible, and yet men will continue to preach that the flesh does not know anything; that it is not capable of being pleaded with; that only as the soul, or the immortal part, quickens the flesh, is it capable of retaining life. And again, if the flesh is not capable of knowing anything of God, then God would not have pleaded with man.

In speaking through the prophet Joel, the Lord says, "And it shall come to pass in the last days that I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh." Thus we may perceive that God deals with men as flesh; he is God over all flesh; he pleadeth with all flesh; he pours out his Spirit upon all flesh; and his only begotten Son, who is full of grace and truth, says, "That which is born of the flesh is flesh," giving us to understand that we are flesh without we are born of the Spirit, and have received the seed of incorruption, and the spirit of adoption.

The Lord speaking through the prophet Isaiah says, "All flesh is grass, and the goodliness thereof as the flower of the field." How plain the Scriptures are. David said, "As for man, his days are as grass." Peter says, in conjunction with the prophet Isaiah, "For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. But the word of the Lord endureth for ever." Here we may behold that everything connected with man is as the grass that withereth, and as the flower that fadeth. But the word of the Lord endureth for ever; and this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you. In this every christian can rejoice, because we know that this word is in us, and we have the assurance that the word endureth for ever.

We can very readily see that the Scriptures do not define man as an immortal being, but as being composed of elements which are as perishable as the grass, and which endure but for a short time, and then vanish away. The sacred writers agree on this. God the Father and the Son agree; but fallen man would like to get immortality in some other way than in yielding to the strivings of the Spirit.

Dear reader, do you understand that you are as weak and as feeble in the sight of God as a spear of grass? Do you understand that you are flesh, and doomed to die? That God gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him might not perish, but have everlasting life? That the Spirit of God will not always strive with man? If out of the church of Christ, fly quickly to the embrace of Jesus, who is able to give that life which will endure forever, whom we expect is soon to be "revealed from heaven, with his mighty angels, in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ; who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power."

In view of these things, fly to Christ, who is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them that are sanctified.

G. W. Ashdown.

Port Byron.

— If the sun is going down, look up to the stars—if the earth is dark, keep your eyes on heaven. With God's presence and God's promise, a man or child may be cheerful.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Aug. 3, 1870.

Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

Money Orders.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

L. D. DOLLOFF—We cannot tell you who sent it.

MRS. H. DAY—The money is credited.

THOMAS SMITH—The money order received.

S. M. NEWELL—Send the $2 65.

D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

MURDOCK'S TESTAMENT—We can now furnish Murdock's Translation of the Testament from the Syriac, for $2.50.

"DEBT & GRACE"—We have a few copies of "Debt & Grace" in good condition, which we have gathered, and will send it for $1.50. Some have been very anxious to get it.

BILLS! BILLS!!

There are many of our subscribers who are largely in arrears in their payments for the Crisis. To such we are now sending bills of their indebtedness. We hope to have a prompt response by the brethren and sisters sending in the amount due without delay.

AG'T.

EXPLANATION.

Sometimes persons write to us that they ordered their paper discontinued when the subscription expired, but it was not, and they think we want to force the Crisis upon them, and then force them to pay. We wish to force none. Post-masters, in returning papers to be discontinued, often send them with no post-office or State marked upon them, and we cannot look our large list all over to hunt up the name; and then there may be several of the same name on our list.

When any one orders a post-master to return a paper, always see that he puts on the post-office and State.

DISCUSSION AT MECHANIC FALLS.

We are now (July 28th) engaged in an interesting discussion with Dr. Houghton, at Mechanic Falls, Me. Dr. H. is a Spiritualist, with whom we discussed in Norwalk, O., last year. We commenced the discussion Monday evening, July 25th, and expect to continue it till Saturday evening, July 30th. Thus far the discussion has proceeded pleasantly, and with profit. Much interest has been awakened in the place, and in the adjoining towns. We have a crowded house, excellent attention and order. We expect much good will result from the discussion. The only point the Dr. seems anxious to prove the immortality of the soul. He admits cannot find the doctrine stated in the Bible; thinks it is so plain, that the Lord did did not suppose we needed any revelation for proof.

The more we examine the evidence on which men rely for proof of the immortality of the soul, the weaker it looks; and it is a wonder that intelligent people were ever led to believe such a wild notion. We could not ask to be better satisfied than we are that the doctrine of the immortality of the soul is entirely opposed to the teaching of the Scriptures, and all sound philosophy. The doctrine of the sleep of the dead is much needed in these days as a barrier against Spiritualism, and all other forms of infidelity.

APPROACHING EVENTS.

The war in Europe is opening a new field to the prophetic student. It affords him the same interest as the astronomer feels when he discovers a new planet, the approach of a great comet, or the burning of a distant star. At its first announcement all eyes are directed to the spot in the heavens where the wonder is to be seen. So now, all eyes are directed to the war scene in Europe, and those who have been looking for the speedy coming of Christ have reason to watch with double interest for some special event, that will show most clearly that the coming of Christ "is near, even at the doors." If we have come to the point which prophecy seems to indicate, the war now opening will bring about most important results, which will give a degree of definiteness and certainty concerning the Lord's coming that will greatly cheer the hearts of the waiting bride of the Lamb.

Some may need caution against being too positive in relation to the results of the impending war; while many others need to be aroused from their careless slumbers, to prepare for the grand event now just at hand. Many are in the condition of the foolish virgins, with no oil in their lamps. They are not aware of their perilous condition. Let us do what we can to arouse all the sleeping ones.

NAPOLEON'S PLANS.

We think it will be seen soon that Napoleon is playing a deep game with the nations of Europe. He is not making random movements, but has a magnificent programme, eclipsing all others ever devised. He has been a close student of human nature, and knows how to play on its popular strings, so as to accomplish his object. He understands the wants of the people of Europe, and has a larger place in their affections than is known to the crowned heads. The common people are looking to him as their deliverer from aristocratic oppression, which has been holding them down for centuries. He says he represents the principle of "universal suffrage." The people of Europe propose to make him the head of a great confederation, provided he will give them their liberty.

A late correspondent from Paris says:—"It is predicted that the Emperor will proclaim a republic throughout Europe, if a coalition is formed against him." There is considerable probability that such a coalition may take place. Europe is alarmed at the steps of the French Emperor. His tread makes the thrones tremble, and their occupants turn pale. They know not what to do. They fear to help Prussia, lest they should not be successful; and they hardly dare remain neutral, lest Napoleon should attack them, if he conquers the Germans.

ROME.

The evidence is increasing to show that in a short time a revolution must take place at Rome. It appears to be a settled matter that Napoleon will soon withdraw his troops from Rome. In case he does, the Italians will not suffer the Pope to go long without a test of his infallibility, and his power to hold the city. They think he has ruled long enough, and have no sympathy for the system of religion that he represents. The Pope has spoken his "great words," and the time for the fall of Babylon must be near. The christian may now wait with breathless interest for coming events.

We are entering the most interesting period of the world that has ever transpired. The coming of Christ, the resurrection of the dead, and the setting up of the everlasting kingdom, are now at hand. Evidently, we have entered the closing hours of the last generation in the present dispensation, and shall soon come to the dawn of the eternal day. Friends of Jesus, lift up your heads and rejoice; for your redemption is drawing near. Keep continually ready to meet the coming King.

SOUL, BODY AND SPIRIT.

In 1 Thess. 5: 23, we read: "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." We think no one would assume that this passage means there is a whole spirit, a whole soul, and a whole body—three distinct personalities—to be preserved blameless. Moses was instructed to say to Israel:—"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might." (Deut. 6: 5.) It would not be claimed by any that the 'heart' and 'might' were two more personalities in man, making five in all. It is said of Josiah: "And like unto him was there no king before him, that turned to the Lord with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might." 2 Kings 23: 25.

Instead of "soul," Wakefield renders the work psukee life, in 1 Thess. 5: 23. Instead of spirit, body and soul, Mace renders it: "May every part of you be preserved blameless." This is the obvious meaning of the text. All the feelings represented by the word "spirit," and all the desires ever expressed by the word "soul," and all the actions performed by the body, should be "blameless." In other words, all the mental, physical, and spiritual powers of man should be devoted to Christ.

A BOOK FOR THE TIMES.

We have received from the publisher a book of thrilling interest, entitled "The Broken Seal: or, Personal Reminiscences of Samuel D. Greene, on the Abduction of William Morgan by Freemasons, in 1826." The above named book will be found one of peculiar interest, being a faithful narrative, by an eye-witness, of events that deeply moved the land more than forty years ago.

Mr. Greene is an acquaintance of ours. He is a venerable gentleman, of high respectability and intelligence, upwards of eighty-two years of age, a member of the Congregational church, and we esteem him as a christian man. He believes most sincerely that the institution of Freemasonry, in its natural workings, is injurious alike to individual and public morality; that it is secretly hostile to good and wholesome government, and still more hostile to the Christian Church. He feels it his duty, before leaving the world, to tell what he has personally known of the institution. He gives a very interesting account of Captain William Morgan, and states that both he and Mr. Morgan were members of the same lodge of Freemasons. Mr. Greene gives a detailed account of the proceedings of the masons in and out of the lodge, and makes a book of extraordinary interest. It will pay well for reading, and is calculated to do a great deal of good. Price $1.50. For sale at this office.

WHAT A WASTE!

When we look at the amount of money expended for intoxicating liquors, and consider the poverty, sin and sorrow that result from the money thus wasted, who can deny that the human family is in a deplorable condition? Is it not time for Jesus to come and put an end to such a horrid state of things as is now witnessed upon the earth?

Read the following, and then meditate upon the cost of intemperance:

"Mr. Welles, our commissioner, estimates the amount of liquor sales in a single year at $1,483,491,000, nearly 1,500 millions, or $43 for every man, woman and child, more than half as much as our national debt, and nearly as much as the value of all our railroads, which is put at $1,654,080,779. The 3,000 grog-shops of Cincinnati sell, on an average, one hundred glasses each of liquor daily, which, at ten cents a glass, amounts to $30,000 a day, or $10,950,000."

ABSENT FROM THE BODY.

"ELDER GRANT:—Dear Sir,—Will you please give your views in the World's Crisis in relation to what St. Paul meant in 2 Cor. 5: 1–9, in relation to the earthly house, and the house not made with hands? What constituted the house in which Paul groaned? What constituted the body in which Paul was at home when absent from the Lord? What body was it from which he was willing to be absent, so as to be present with the Lord? You will please bear with me. I do not fully understand it, neither do I believe that there were two St. Pauls, one inside of the other. If you will explain this, you will confer a great favor on me and others. I read a piece in the Crisis, under the heading of 'Death,' to some of my Methodist neighbors. They had not a word to offer but just this scripture to which I have referred. I am hardly competent to explain it so as to satisfy the objector."

The passage reads as follows:—

"For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. For in this we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house which is from heaven; if so be that being clothed we shall not be found naked. For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened; not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life. Now he that hath wrought us for the self same thing is God, who also hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit. Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord (for we walk by faith and not by sight). We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to present with the Lord. Wherefore we labor, that, whether present or absent, we may be accepted of him."

The last verse of the preceding chapter reads:—"While we look not at the things which are seen; for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal." We find the apostle is contrasting temporal with eternal things. Those which are now seen are temporal, but those which are to come will be eternal. He then speaks of our present home as contrasted with the one we are to possess in the future, and says: "We know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands." Those who claim that this scripture teaches the immortality of the soul, or its conscious state between death and the resurrection, should observe that it does not contain a word about soul or spirit.

Let it be observed there is only one house, or tabernacle, promised for the whole church. If "house" in this scripture means a human body, and the pronoun "we" represents the souls of the saved, then it would follow that all the souls have but one body. Then what would be done with the bodies that are to be raised from the dead? There would be no souls for them, if they were all in another "house," or body. If "house" means body in the beginning of the first verse, it must mean the same at its close, and also in the second verse. If this view were correct, then the passage teaches that the "house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens," is an eternal body in the heavens. Such a position would destroy all hope of the resurrection of the dead. We need not say more about this wild theory in relation to the meaning of the passage.

But what does the apostle mean by the word "house?" We think it is certain he does not mean body. Said Jesus: "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you." John 14: 2. Would any one claim that this passage should read: "In my Father's body are many mansions?" When in vision upon the isle of Patmos, John says: "I . . saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God, out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. And I heard a great voice out of heaven, saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men." Rev. 21: 2, 3. No one believes that "the tabernacle of God" in this text means the body of God, but it is a name applied to "the holy city, new Jerusalem," or the house to which Jesus evidently refers in John 14: 2; which he was going "to prepare;" and and which John sees in vision, "coming down from God, out of heaven, prepared." Now we have found "a building of God, an house not made with hands," which is "in the heavens." It is "eternal"—not eternally in the heavens,—and is to come down upon the new earth as the capitol "building" in the coming kingdom, when Jesus shall ha turned to reign on earth with his saints.

With all this before him, when looking at the temporal things that now surround us, and considering the fact that they must be "dissolved," Paul exclaims:—"For we know that, if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. For in this we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house which is from heaven."

When speaking of these temporal things, Peter says: "All these things shall be dissolved."—2 Pet. 3: 11. When that event shall take place, where shall the saints find a shelter? Paul answers, in "our house which is from heaven." At the time of the resurrection of the dead, as brought to view in Isa. 26: 19, the saints are called upon to enter into their "chambers," and hide themselves "for a little moment, until the indignation be over and past." Isa. 26: 20. When that heavenly tabernacle comes "down from God, out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband" (Rev. 22: 2), then the time will have come for "mortality" to "be swallowed up of life." Till then, we shall be surrounded by this groaning state of things, while dwelling in a temporal home. The prophet Isaiah says, the Lord "stretcheth out the heavens as a curtain, and spreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in."—Isa. 40: 22. The whole earth, with the heavens spread over us, is like a mammoth tent, which is to stand six thousand years, and then be taken in pieces, and fitted up to stand for ever.

Wakefield renders 2 Cor. 5: 1–2 as follows: "For we know that, if this tent, wherein we dwell, which is fixed on the ground, be taken to pieces, we have a divine building, a house not made with hands, eternal, in the heavens. For, indeed, in this tent we sigh with an earnest desire of clothing ourselves with that heavenly habitation."

Thus it appears that this passage, so often quoted to sustain the doctrine that the real man continues to live in a conscious state between death and the resurrection, does not afford the least shade of proof of such a theory.

"ABSENT FROM THE BODY."

We will now look at the meaning of the word body in 1 Cor. 5: 6–8. As the apostle has just been using figures to illustrate the change that is to take place at the coming of Christ, and compares it to putting off and putting on clothing; it would not be at all strange if he should introduce other figures to illustrate the condition of the church. It should be observed that Paul uses the plural pronoun we, while the word body is singular. If he meant by "body" the physical organism, we think he would have said, We are willing to be absent from our bodies, instead of "the body." We will let the apostle explain his own terms:

"So we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another."—Rom. 12: 5. "Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular."—1 Cor. 12: 27. "And he is the head of the body, the church." Col. 1: 18. Examples like these might be multiplied to show that the apostle often speaks of "the body," meaning "the church"; from which he was "willing rather to be absent, ... and to be present with the Lord"; but does not intimate that he expected to go to heaven at death, or to receive his reward before the personal coming of Christ to raise the dead, when he will give immortality to the faithful.

TREMONT CAMPMEETING.

FARE REDUCED.

Tickets for this meeting, good Aug. 8th to 16th, may be had of GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover street. Fare $1.90 for the round trip. Cars leave the Old Colony Depot at 8 A. M., and 4 P. M.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING.

At a meeting of the Committee held in Springfield, July 6th, the following action was taken in relation to the Campmeeting appointed for August 20th:

Voted, "That all Associations and Societies, excepting the Advent Christian Association, and the Advent Christian Publication Society, be requested to appoint their business meetings at some place other than the Campground."

Voted, "That there be no collections taken or appeals made on the ground for money by any Association, Society, person or persons, excepting by order of the Committee."

Voted, "That the brethren and churches be requested (in consequence of the arrears of last year, caused in part by the large number of free boarders), to provide for the board of the poor among them.

GEO. T. ADAMS, SECRETARY.

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."
By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

NEW PAMPHLET.

"The Mediatorial Kingdom, or the reign of Christ in the Gospel Dispensation": by Eld. Wm. N. Pile.

The above is the title of a new pamphlet of 96 pages. It is divided into thirteen sections, under the following captions, which suggest its contents: "Christ as a Prophet"—"Christ as a Priest"—"The Tabernacle of David"—"The Tabernacle of David identical with that of Christ"—"The Melchisedek priesthood a kingly order"—"The reign of Christ on Zion's hill"—"Extent of Christ's power during this reign"—"Christ has the title and prerogatives of God in this age"—"The Mediatorial reign of Christ"—"The relation of the church to Christ in this age"—"Exposition of Zech. iv"—"Christ delivers up the Mediatorial Kingdom to the Father at the end of this age"—"God all in all."

Price 25 cts. per copy; five for $1.00, postage included. For sale at this office. AG'T.

Sheldon's Four New Tracts.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

1. "LIFE AND DEATH THEOLOGY: or, The Scriptural Doctrine of 'Eternal Damnation' and 'Everlasting Punishment.'" Price 8 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 75 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $5.00 per hundred by express.

This work of forty-eight pages is the clearest and strongest document yet produced by Bro. Sheldon on this topic. It is just the thing to scatter among all classes.

2. IMMATERIALISM: or, The Doctrine of Soul-Immortality Refuted." Price 5 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $3.00 per hundred by express.

A tract of thirty-two pages, showing that fifteen cardinal errors spring out of the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and that those errors could not exist independent of that doctrine, thus showing it to be the main root of error. Let it be scattered widely.

3. "DEATH AND THE DEAD," 16 pages. Price 3 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1.50 per hundred by express.

Just the thing to scatter everywhere.

4. "THE COMING JUDGMENT: Its Necessity and Result." Eight pages. 10 cts. per dozen, postpaid, or 75 cts. per hundred by express.

It will do much good. AG'T.

For the World's Crisis.

GOOD BOOKS.

I take pleasure in recommending the following interesting works, which I have just received:

1. "The Doctrine of Immortality," by Jas. H. Whitmore. 300 pp. The argument is not exhaustive, but sufficiently full for practical purposes. I commend the work for its elegance of style, soundness of logic, and correctness of doctrine. I think it must take rank among the best works written on the subject.

2. "The Broken Seal," by Samuel D. Greene. 304 pp. If you want your detestation of Freemasonry intensified, this book will do the work. It is a thrilling account of the abduction and murder of William Morgan, interwoven with very interesting reminiscences of the author, who was a member of the same lodge with the ill-fated Morgan. The appendix contains valuable facts. The people generally do not sufficiently understand that Freemasonry is a terrible abomination. How many are tangled up in its fatal meshes! Let the "children of light" stand aloof from all oath-bound societies that carry on their operations in conclaves of darkness!

3. "Sheldon's four Tracts." These vary in size from 7 to 45 pp., and treat of "Eternal Damnation," "Immaterialism," "Death and the Dead," and "The Coming Judgment." They are written in the author's usually clear and forcible style, and are well calculated to dissipate error and establish the mind in Bible truth. Scatter them extensively.

A. A. PHELPS.

For the World's Crisis.

THE ALARM BELL.

France victorious over Prussia,—Napoleon lassoing the nations with his rope of regal democracy, and carrying Rome, with his ten confederate democratic kingdoms,—Napoleon thus and therefore wondered at and magnified,—financial convulsions, because of his power over the treasures of gold and silver;—that these are some of the coming wonders at hand, we can not for one moment doubt. How important that these things should be understood and proclaimed by faithful men.

It is a great crisis that we have reached. "The lion is come up from his thicket, and the destroyer of the Gentiles is on his way." Be admonished, O man of God, and furbish thy sword to do battle for the truth. And amid all these near, startling, and tremendous changes and evolutions, proclaim the quick coming and kingdom of the Lord.

C. COLEGROVE.

For the World's Crisis.

READ IT AGAIN.

What? "PLAIN TALKS" in last week's Crisis, by Bro. Phelps. Read it over carefully, and ask yourself if it is right to let men, devoted to the work of Christ, and spending their whole time laboring in the gospel, be thus crippled by the fact that their families at home are half clad and half fed, while you have all the luxuries of life.

It is a delicate subject, but some one must speak on it. There must be a reform. As stewards of what God has given you, can you give an account of your stewardship that will be accepted? Are you doing your duty? "God bless you, brother, come again," is good; but it needs something more with it to feed and clothe a preacher's family, and pay rent and traveling expenses. Think of it candidly.

A. P. MOORE.

TWO NEW TRACTS.

BY I. C. WELLCOME, YARMOUTH, ME.

THE INQUIRER.—CATHOLIC OR PROTESTANT: WHICH?

This tract gives a sketch of the great Roman apostasy, and the dogmas which caused it; the arguments which the early faithful christians used in opposing it; also of original Protestantism, its noble declaration of Bible principles against Romanized Platonism on the immortality of the soul; the relapse of Protestantism to the Platonic dogma; their present driftings towards Romanism, Rationalism, Universalism, and Spiritism, growing out of their dogma of the soul's immortality. To this is added some interesting sketches of the revival and progress of truth in our times, and a statement of the true gospel hope. 48 pp. Price, single, 8 cts.; by mail, 10 cts.; three for 20 cts.; $5 per hundred, by express.

CHURCH SPECTACLES.

This tract raises the questions, "Why do so few attend preaching, prayer, and conference meetings? Why are so few thoroughly converted to Christ?"

It finds an answer in the lack of love for Christ in the church, as manifested in the sinful practices by her members of pleasure parties, levees, fairs, banquetings, games, gambling, dancing, and other immoral conduct, which destroy the confidence of the unconverted in the religion they see exhibited. Many proofs are given, and faithful scriptural reproofs administered. It is a terrible picture faithfully drawn, and the only remedy clearly pointed out.

24 pp. 5 cts. single; three for 10 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen; forty for $1; $2 per hundred, by mail.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY. By Elder James H. Whitmore. Published by the Western Advent Christian Association.

This little volume of 300 pages is a valuable contribution to the literature of the subject on which it treats, and is worthy of a wide circulation, not only among those who hold to the views advocated therein, but among others who have not given them due thought and investigation.

For sale at this office. Price, single copy, postpaid, $1.00. Six copies, by mail, $5.00; by express, $4.20. AG'T.

When God wishes especially to bless the inner ring of the christian circle—the "Peter, James and John" fraternity—then it is that He permits a rainy Sunday to intervene. What pastor has not felt a peculiar atmosphere to pervade the house of God on such days, when the "two or three" are assembled in the name of Christ? They are such confidential days!—those rainy Sundays. Pastor and people come so near together; the services are participated in by all; the homily becomes so pointed and direct; every exercise has so much of the "Thou art the man" about it, that no one has any margin left for his neighbor. If yours is a church soul, you must have felt your religious life to have risen to such a comfortable heat in God's house on a rainy Sunday, as to enjoy such days, rather than abominate them. Be sure that it is wholly impossible for you to be there, are you absent yourself, for the "Lord has something to say unto thee."—Guardian.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute according to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERRON, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments	$1248.58
R. A. Bunnell	1.15

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	$63.56

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 202, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$840.65
P. W. Higgins	5.00
Sidney Hall (balance of pledge)	25.00

Correspondence.

From Sr. E. Braley.

To the Saints scattered abroad;—Peace be multiplied unto you. Our warfare will soon be over. Our cross will soon be changed for a shining crown of glory, that will never grow dim. These vile bodies will be changed, and made new, like Christ's glorious body, to die no more. This earth will be changed, and made new, and the tabernacle of God shall be with men. The New Jerusalem will come down from heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. The saints of every age and from every clime will be there, and they shall walk in the light of it; for "the glory of God shall lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof." Glory to God. We shall not need the light of the sun, nor of the moon, for the glory of God will far outshine the luminary of this world. The perfection of beauty is there.

O, how I long to see Him whom my soul loveth. He first loved us, and gave himself a ransom for us. He saw there was no eye to pity, and no arm that could save poor sinful creatures from the pit into which they had plunged themselves; but his loving eye pitied us, and his powerful arm brought salvation to us. Did it cost him anything? He had glory with the Father before the world was. The world was made by him. He was rich, yet for our sakes he became poor, took upon him the form of a servant, was rejected of men, tempted of the devil, had not where to lay his head. He went about doing good, healing the sick, raising the dead, casting out devils, and preaching the kingdom of God.

He was a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief. He had wept over those wicked Jews who delivered him up to the Roman soldiers to be crucified. They platted a crown of thorns and put it upon his head; they arrayed him in a purple robe; they spit upon him, and smote him on the head; and when all things were accomplished concerning him, that the Scriptures might be fulfilled, he saith, "I thirst." And they filled a sponge with vinegar and put it to his mouth; and when he had received the vinegar, he said, It is finished; and bowed his head, and gave up the ghost; the sun had refused to shine; the vale of the temple was rent; the earth did quake; the rocks were rent, and the graves opened. "And they feared greatly, saying, Truly, this was the Son of God."

But God would not suffer his holy One to see corruption. This same Jesus that suffered, and died, and was laid in Joseph's new tomb, burst the bands of death, and arose a mighty conqueror. He led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men. Him hath God exalted with his right hand to be a Prince and a Savior, to give repentance unto Israel, and the forgiveness of sins. Glory to God for salvation through Jesus Christ. I can say with the poet—

"I love the holy Son of God,
Who once this vale of sorrow trod;
Who bore my sins, a dreadful load,
Up Calvary's gloomy mountain."

Just before he suffered, he instituted the Holy Supper, that we might remember his agony. "Do this," said he, "in remembrance of me." "And as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till he come." Glory to Jesus! He is coming again; not in humiliation, but in his glorification, King of kings, and Lord of lords. The holy retinue will attend him. "And he shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity." "Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. It is then we shall be glorified together with him.

"Drooping saints, no longer grieve, Heaven is propitious."

Jesus will never forget his people; he has loved them of old; he has laid down his life for us. Can we not trust him? He loves us still; he sees every tear; he hears every sigh; he pities every groan; and he knows all our weaknesses; he knoweth how to succor those that are tempted. Then let us go to Jesus and cast all our burdens upon him. He will give us grace and glory, and no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly.

I praise God this day for the provisions he has made for his people. His store-house is full and free. Friends of Jesus, gird on the whole armor of God. We need it. We cannot stand without it. The battle is waxing hot betwixt the two kingdoms. Raise up the standard of King Jesus! Unfurl your banners to the breeze, and give the trump a certain sound. Obey the Captain of our salvation, and he will lead us on to certain victory, and we shall be more than conquerors through Him who hath loved us, and shall inherit the kingdom prepared for us from the foundation of the world. Your sister in Christ,

East Roxbury, Vt. E. BRALEY.

Extracts from Letters.

"BRO. J. G. HOOK writes from Phila.: "Our tent meetings are doing well. Many are interested to know the truth. Some are seeking the Lord."

BRO. B. F. DAVIS writes:—"The Lord is at work here in Shorey, Me. I have been preaching what they call heresy, but, thank God, some have seen the truth and fallen in love with it. Five have come out of the Methodist church, and love to talk about the coming of Jesus. The Lord is my helper. He is more than all that can be against us. Pray for us. The people are afraid of getting poisoned with the so-called Advent faith; but I mean by the help of the Lord to preach God's truth, and leave the result with him."

BRO. J. G. BAKER writes, July 25th:—"Bro. Hook is still running his tent in Camden. There was good interest yesterday; the Lord was present to bless. He buried three happy souls in baptism, one of whom was blind. We commemorated the death and resurrection of our dear Lord in the afternoon. The table was surrounded by others, as well as Adventists. Sectarianism seems to be giving way in Camden. Dr. Read, of the Presbyterian church, is announced to preach in the tent on Tuesday evening. To God be all the glory."

The Rhine as a Boundary.

A generation ago Victor Hugo wrote a book on the Rhine, in which, besides giving the most fascinating and poetic of all descriptions of that famous stream, he cried out, "France, take back the Rhine," as he stood at the tomb of Hoche, who was buried on the shores of that river, and whose grave is to this day pointed out to the curious tourist.

Napoleon, the bitter enemy of Hugo, had tried on several occasions to make of this cry a national slogan, to call to his support all parties in France. The Rhine is, according to many Frenchmen, the natural boundary of France. The Germans whom the Emperor would like to make his subjects, however, do not agree with him. The people of the German Rhenish provinces are German in languare, tastes and feelings, and have no admiration of Napoleon III. or his policy. Belgium, with its French-speaking population, and with but forty years of national existence to overturn, would be a much easier acquisition for France.

France already owns the west bank of the Rhine from a few miles north of Basle, in Switzerland, to the frontier of the Palatinate at Lauterburg. The possession of the last named district would add to the list of French cities Spires, with its old cathedral, and the fortified places of Landau and Neustadt, besides a large number of smaller towns and villages. In Rhenish Prussia—speaking always of the western shore of the Rhine—the first town of importance is Worms, associated with the name of Luther. After passing over the flat, highly cultivated district through which the Rhine here sluggishly rolls along, the towers and bridges of Mayence loom in sight. This is a city of strategic and historic importance. Shortly further on is Bingen, and there begins the marvelous scenery which has given to the Rhine such world wide celebrity, and has made familiar the names of such trifling though picturesque hamlets as Oberwessel, St. Goar, Boppart, Andernach, Bacharach, Bemagen, and the like. Midway among these is Coblentz, overlooked by "Ehrenbreitstein's castled height," and still further down the stream is the collegiate town of Bonn.

To add to all these the long list of French towns would certainly be a splendid gain for France. This is what is meant when Frenchmen cry with Victor Hugo "Take back the Rhine." It is, however, a large enterprise, and not likely to succeed.—N. Y. Eve. Post.

Married.

ALCORN—WILFONG. In Philadelphia, Penn., at the residence of the bride's parents, July 26th, 1870, by Elder John G. Hook, Mr. WM. ALCORN and Miss FANNY D. WILFONG, both of Philadelphia.

Obituaries.

HUNT. Died, in No. Woodstock, N. H., July 17th, 1870, Julia Etta Hunt, only child of Bro. Geo. W. and Sr. Kate Hunt, aged eleven months and twenty days.

Julia was a lovely babe, but the bud was plucked just as it began to bloom. A discourse was preached by the writer on the occasion from 1 Cor. 15: 22.

A. W. SIBLEY.

CARD. Died, in Providence, R. I., Sunday, July 10th, after a few days sickness, with diphtheria, Theodore, only child of Bro. Geo. and Sr. Lydia Card, aged two years and eleven months.

Funeral services (July 12th) were attended by the writer.

ENOCH MORRILL.

SMITH. Died, March 30th, Lyon Co., Kansas, Rosetta Smith, wife of Jonathan Smith, formerly of Maine, aged fifty-seven years.

She won, by her amiableness and integrity, many friends, and also fervently cherished the faith of the soon coming kingdom and glory to be revealed at the coming of Jesus, and sleeps in hope of eternal life at the dawn of everlasting day.

HAVER. Fell asleep in Jesus, June 23d, 1870, Maria D., wife of Lewis Haver, only daughter of Jonathan and Rosetta Smith, aged twenty-six years.

She freely conversed with me upon the unconscious repose she now rests in; made all necessary arrangements relative to her death and burial; chose for her funeral sermon the subject of reliving from among the dead, and left assurance that her hopes reached on the other side.

S. H. SMITH.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 28. The Russian force in Poland has been increased to 200,000 men, including the regiments of the Imperial Guard.

LONDON, July 28. Great excitement has been caused in the Danubian Principalities by the breaking out of the war. The people are preparing to use this opportunity to obtain their independence, and Turkey is consequently arming to prevent a revolt.

The advices from Shanghae up to July 4, show that the attack on foreigners at Pekin was directed only against the French, though other foreigners were accidentally killed. The house of the Sisters of Mercy was destroyed, and the inmates ravished by the Chinese.

BERLIN, July 28. A detachment of French troops, consisting of three companies of infantry and eighty horsemen, attacked half a Prussian regiment at Vockinger. The French were repulsed with the loss of one officer and eight men. One Prussian soldier was wounded.

Count Benedetti's draft of the secret treaty between France and Prussia is not the only document of that kind which exists. Napoleon at one time opened similar negotiations, presenting his views with regard to Switzerland, and intimating that he did not know where France ended and Italy began. The papers proving this statement it is understood, will soon be produced.

PARIS, July 20. The following is the proclamation of the Emperor to the army on assuming command in person:

"Soldiers—I come to take my place at your head to defend the honor and soil of our country. You go to combat against one of the best armed of European countries; but other countries as valiant as they have not been able to resist your valor. It will be the same to-day.

The war which now commences will be long and hardly contested, for its theatre will be places hedged with obstacles and thick with fortresses; but nothing is beyond the persevering efforts of the soldiers of Africa, Italy and Mexico. You will prove once more what the French army is able to accomplish, animated by the sentiment of duty, maintained by discipline and influenced by the love of country. Whatever road we may take across our frontiers we will find upon it glorious traces of our fathers, and we will show ourselves worthy of them. All France follow you with ardent prayers and the eyes of the universe are upon you. Upon our success depends the fate of liberty and civilization. Soldiers! let each one do his duty, and the God of battles will be with us.

(Signed) NAPOLEON.

At General Headquarters, Metz, July 28."

The World's London letter, July 16, says great anxiety exists on the question of the comparative strength and readiness of France and Prussia. But it may safely be assumed that the former would not have forced the business as she has done, had she not believed that the balance of advantage lay with her with no feature.

There is reason to suppose that the French army is far more prepared for instant conflict than is that of Prussia; that the chassepot is a deadlier weapon than the needle gun, and that in field artillery the French have every advantage.

France, it is said, has 400,000 men ready for immediate service, while Prussia has only half that number in the same condition.

True, Prussia's reserve is large enough when called out to make her force equal to that of France, but it will take time to call them out, and if France can strike the first effective blow it may prove to be more than half the battle.

LONDON, July 28. The Prussian government announces that Count Benedetti's autograph, in the secret treaty lately made public in England, is visible to all callers at the foreign office. A formal communication from the North German Confederation is expected, demonstrating the authenticity of the treaty, and reciting other similar overtures from the French Emperor.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says that the people of that city are furious because Prussia intercepts French and English journals.

BRUSSELS, July 28.—The Independence Belge to-day publishes a letter from its Berlin correspondent, which throws some new light on the secret treaty proposed to Prussia by France. The correspondent says he has seen the original draft of the treaty in the archives of the War Office at Berlin, and certifies to the accuracy of the copy recently printed by the London Times.

France has repeatedly demanded this document from the Prussian government, through her representative at Berlin, Count Benedetti, but in all cases has been refused; and now that she is satisfied that its recovery is impossible, she assumes a hostile attitude towards Prussia.

LIVERPOOL, July 28. All warlike demonstrations either in favor of Germany or France have been forbidden here.

LONDON, July 30. The Telegraph publishes a telegram from Paris to-day, which states it is reported that Marshals Bazaine and McMahon with their divisions have crossed the Rhine.

July 31. Dispatches from Paris state that the Emperor's headquarters to-night are at St Avolt, near the frontier. This indicates that a general engagement is close at hand.

PERTH, Aug. 1. The lower chamber of the Hungarian Diet has voted a supplementary credit of five millions for defence, and authorized the calling out of next year's contingent, whenever necessary.

BERLIN, Aug. 1. King William left for the front at six o'clock last evening. The Queen attended him to the railway station. Multitudes of people collected there, and flags and flowers were without end.

GARIBALDI AND ROME.—In considering the possible events of the pending war between France and Germany we must not forget to give a proper and due importance to the relations which France has sustained with the Pope and Rome. It is a matter of notoriety that France is the only power which has maintained the temporal authority of the Pope by practical action; and that the presence of French troops in Rome has alone prevented Garibaldi from taking possession of the Holy City and delivering the states of the Church to Victor Emanuel. This war may, in any one of half-a-dozen contingencies, result in dethroning Pius the Ninth and completing Italian unity. Prussia may see fit to annoy her enemy by furnishing aid to Garibaldi; Napoleon may be compelled by the exigencies of war, to summon back his troops from Rome; or, should Prussia triumph, one of the conditions of peace might be the evacuation of Rome by the French troops. In either event we should very soon see Garibaldi marching into Rome at the head of his volunteers, and His Infallibility tucking his skirts about him and skedaddling with all convenient speed to a safer place. This result, should it be attained, will be regarded by the world at large as of more importance than the main issue disputed between France and Prussia. The practical destruction of the temporal power of the Pope would be a vast revolution both in the political and religious world, and, coming so soon after the declaration of infallibility, would be one of the most pointed antitheses of fate.—Cleaveland Leader.

DOMESTIC.

St. Paul, Minn., July 28. A letter from Pembina, of the 16th inst., says that the Blackfeet Indians have taken Fort Camolta, one of the forts belonging to the Hudson Bay Company, on the south branch of the Sackatchewa River, and that MacDonald, the officer in charge, is among the slain. Forts Bell and Edwards have also been attacked, and others of the Company's forts have been threatened.

Company K. of the 20th U. S. Infantry, had just arrived at St. Joseph, and joined Col. Wheaton's command, which is now encamped on the military reservation near Pembina. They will probably have warm work soon, as the Indians are rapidly concentrating below Fort Garry, and grave apprehensions of trouble are entertained among the people of the settlement. They are, no doubt, the loyal Indians heretofore reported as gathering to receive the new adminstration.

War Items.

☞ The Empress, attended by the ladies of the Court, proceeded to the Chapel of Notre Dame des Victoires and placed there a votive lamp similar to the one she placed in the same chapel at the beginning of the Italian war.

☞ Advices from Rome represent that the Pope accepts as inevitable the evacuation of Rome by the French troops.

☞ The theatre of war, according to present appearances, will be in the German territory. The French frontier projects saliently into Germany, and the French army can either concentrate at Metz, on the northern part of the frontier, march north via. Treves, and cross the Rhine between Cologne and Coblentz, or it may concentrate at Strasbourg and make Southern Germany the battle-field, gaining line of the main and striking Prussia on her most vulnerable side.

☞ Bismarck, in a dispatch to the North German Ambassador to England, confirms the authenticity of the secret treaty published in the London Times. He says that since 1866 France has incessantly tempted Prussia with offers of territorial aggrandizement at the expense of Belgium and South Germany. He is confident that France will not obtain any enlargement of territory, even by fighting for it, and says that if the disclosures made by the Times had been withheld, France, though fully armed, would have repeated her offer of peace at a cost of the kingdom of Belgium.

POSSIBILITIES OF THE WAR.—Let us suppose again that this impending conflict should become so serious and so complicated that Italy should be able to say, "I can now do as I please." What would follow? Italy would rise as one man. A rush would be made upon Rome. The Pope would find congenial shelter on board some British ship. There might be an end of the Papacy. There certainly would be if he did not take refuge in Malta or come to the United States. In any event Rome would once more be the capital of Italy. Should Prussia win, what would be the immediate result? A united Germany, a German empire. Austria would be completely demoralized; for every German in Austria—and almost all that is good in Austria is German—would gravitate towards Prussia. France would, indeed, be humbled, whatever might be the fate of the Bonapartes. Should France win, what will follow? A European congress; some slight rearrangement of frontier lines; a recognition by the dynasties of the family of Bonaparte; pledges given in the interest of his son; his son's succession guaranteed; the Pope to be allowed to remain in Rome; the Prince of Asturias to succeed his mother on the Spanish throne. But how much more? Nothing. The victory would not be a victory for France, but for Napoleon; and the fruits of Napoleon's victory will perish with him.

Such are some of the possibilities and probabilities. But we cannot name them all. We can, however, and we do say that this war, if it does take place, will be one of the most foolish wars in the whole history of our race. It will not be the less foolish that it will certainly be the most destructive. So far as Napoleon himself is concerned, it is a purely dynastic war, and therefore to be denounced by all who go in for the rights of the people. As Disraeli has well said, "A war of succession is unworthy of the nineteenth century."—N. Y. Herald.

Passing Events.

— The number of Sunday-school scholars in this country in 1828 was estimated to be 350,000. In 1834, 1,000,000. In 1869 Mr. Abbott puts the number at 4,000,000, with 400,000 teachers. A writer in the Chicago Teacher thinks that there are now 6,000,000 scholars and 1,000,000 teachers.

— The distinguished African missionary and explorer, the father-in-law of Dr. Livingston, says the London Daily News, July 13th, has arrived at the Cape of Good Hope, whence he sails in the "Norseman" for England. He is expected in London on the 12th of July.

☞ Mazzini and Garibaldi have been found to be engaged in a plot to proclaim a Republic of Italy, at an uprising which is to take place simultaneously throughout the kingdom, while a similar movement under different leaders is to be made in the Papal territory, for the purpose of taking possession of Rome.

☞ The crops in New Hampshire are said to be suffering severly from the long-continued drouth. Many fields of corn have been completely destroyed by the heat.

— It is now stated that fears are entertained that the ends of the Hoosac tunnel will not meet, as the mineral in the mountain has undoubtedly affected the plumb lines and other instruments used in determining the direction of the bores.

Notices.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING.

Providence permitting, a GENERAL CAMPMEETING will be held at Springfield, Mass., on the new camp-ground, beautifully located, about one and a quarter miles from the R. R. Depot, on land of C. W. Chapin, Esq., known as "Chapin's Grove," commencing Saturday, August 20th, and continuing till August 29th.

Ample accommodations will be provided for board at the new and commodious boarding house on the ground. Board 85 cents per day. Breakfast, or supper, 35 cents each. Dinner at 50 cents, excepting Sunday, August 28th, when it will be 75 cents. The boarding department is under the charge of the Committee, and any profits accruing from the same will go to the support of the meeting.

Fare on the Boston and Albany Railroad is reduced one third, which will be $4.00 from Boston to Springfield and return. Tickets to be obtained at the ticket offices, between Boston and Worcester, at Grantville, Holliston, Natick, Westboro, Milford, and Southville; beyond Worcester, at the usual stations. On the New Haven and Hartford R. R., fare is reduced one third; tickets to be obtained at New Haven, Middletown, Meriden, Berlin, Hartford, Thompsonville, and Windsor Locks. On the Conn. R. R. fare is reduced one third from South Vernon and intermediate stations to Springfield. On all the above roads campmeeting tickets, good from August 17th to August 30th, must be called for at the ticket offices, and they must also be signed by the Secretary at the campmeeting. Remember this.

It will be absolutely necessary for passengers over the Conn. R. R. to buy their tickets at the stations, as no return checks will be issued except by the agent at the stations where the ticket is purchased.

Passengers coming from North of South Vernon, unless provided with return tickets, should purchase only to South Vernon, and then purchase to Springfield and return. The same rule will apply also to passengers coming from East of, or in the vicinity of Greenfield.

On the Vt. and Mass. R. Road, persons will purchase regular tickets at the offices for Greenfield. At Greenfield they will go into the ticket office and call for Campmeeting Tickets for Springfield. All such when they go to the Secretary on the camp-ground to have their tickets countersigned, will be furnished with a free return pass from Greenfield to Brattleboro, Vernon, Athol, Fitchburg, or any place on the Mass. and Vermont R. R. that they may come from—provided twenty-five passengers shall have come over the Vt. and Mass. Rail Road to the meeting.

Friends coming on the Rutland and Burlington R. R. will be furnished with free return passes—provided twenty-five or more passengers come over the road from Burlington or intermediate places to Brattleboro. At South Vernon, or Greenfield, let all such get campmeeting tickets at the office.

On the Providence and Worcester R. R., campmeeting tickets at one third discount can be obtained at the depot in Providence, good from Aug. 17th to Aug. 30th. Call for Campmeeting Tickets.

On the Worcester and Nashua R. R. Road, friends from Nashua, N. H., Groton Junction, and Clinton, will purchase regular tickets at the stations for Worcester, at which place they will purchase tickets for Springfield; and free return passes from Worcester will be furnished them by the Secretary on the ground.

Friends coming from New York can come and return for $4.70 by taking the boat at New Haven, and thence by cars to Springfield. The boat which leaves New York at 11 P. M., connects with the train at the steamboat wharf at New Haven. Passengers by this boat arrive in Springfield at 7.30 A. M. No train with Saturday night boat. The other boat, which leaves New York at 3.15 P. M., reaches New Haven in time for the express train, which leaves New Haven at 11 P. M.; but passengers will have to go across the city by horse cars to the depot of the Hartford and New Haven R. R. Tickets for the Rail Road to the campmeeting will be sold on the steamboats. Passengers buying through tickets, will be furnished with a return ticket, which will be good only when endorsed by the Secretary of the camp-ground.

Arrangements have been made with the Eastern R. R. Co., by which those taking the cars from Portsmouth and intermediate places for Boston, paying full fares at the ticket offices, can have FREE RETURN PASSES by application to the Secretary, on the camp-ground.

Cars leave the Boston and Albany depot, Boston, at 5, 7, and 8½ A. M.; and at 3, 4½, and 9 P. M.

Arrangements with any other roads that may be made, will be noticed hereafter.

S. G. MATHEWSON,
GEO. T. ADAMS,
H. MUNGER,
J. HEMENWAY,
M. GRANT,
D. MATHEWSON,
W. B. DODGE,
} Committee of Arrangements.
GEO. T. ADAMS, Secretary.

Advent Christian Association.

The next annual meeting of this Society will be held at Springfield, Mass., commencing Tuesday, Aug. 23d, at nine o'clock A. M. Every church cooperating with the A. C. A. is entitled to one delegate, and one additional delegate for every fifty members above the number of twenty-five. Each delegate must bring credentials from the church to which he belongs. H. PRATT, Sec.

Notice.

The annual meeting of the American Advent Mission Society will be held at the Advent Chapel, Springfield, Mass., Aug. 25th, 1870. Members of, and delegates to, the Advent Christian Association, are members of this Society. It is hoped there will be a full attendance of members to this meeting. ABIAL W. SIBLEY, Secretary.

Campmeeting.

The Deerfield Union Campmeeting will be held, (the Lord willing) at Deerfield, N. H., near So. Road, commencing Saturday, August 6th, 1870, and continue nine days. All who love Jesus, of every name and order, are invited to come to campmeeting, and let us worship and labor together to save the perishing. Special invitation is given to all ministers of the gospel of Christ, in the surrounding vicinity, to come and help preach the word. Those coming by Railroad, will stop at Candia Depot, N. H., and there they will find conveyance to the ground. Let all who can, bring provisions and tents with them. Tent room and plain food will be furnished at reasonable prices. Horse keeping, 50 cts. for hay and 75 cts. for grain per day. Come one, come all, and let us have an old-fashioned gospel feast.

Eld. John Couch, of Chelsea, will be present during the first part of the meeting. We expect also Elders J. G. Smith, L. Boutell, T. W. Piper, A. P. Moore, A. A. Phelps, and other able ministers of Christ, to be present.

ENOCH MORRILL,
JOHN M. QUIMBY,
JOHN D. SWAIN,
ASA P. MOULTON,
JAMES M. BATCHELDER,
} Campmeeting Committee.

P. S. Bro. Couch will try to get the fare reduced on the R. R. If he succeeds, campmeeting tickets will be sold at the following stations: Portsmouth, New Market Junction, Epping, Suncook, Concord, Manchester, Derry, Salem, Lawrence, and Nashua. For Committee,
ENOCH MORRILL.

Annual Campmeeting.

The annual campmeeting for the eastern part of Maine, will be held at Pittsfield, Me., in Mr. Hawthorne's grove, about half a mile from the village and station, on the Newport road, commencing Monday, Aug. 29th, 1870, and continue over the following Sabbath. This meeting is to represent the whole body, and is one with the conference and missionary enterprise of the Advent people. All, both ministers and people, are cordially invited to come up to this feast and unite for the general good. Arrangements will be made for board and horse-keeping, and a reduction of railroad fare. Bring tents, bedding and provision, if possible. Come early and remain till the close of the meeting. Leave all worldly care, and put off anger, wrath, and evil speaking, and come praying in the Holy Ghost. "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor." We hope the "Maine Mission Tent" will be present.
F. A BAKER.
JER. CARR.
H. P. MAINE.
E. RICKER.

Notice.

The Union Female Missionary Association will hold its annual meeting at Springfield, Mass., commencing Aug. 24th, 1870, at one o'clock P. M. All laboring members are requested to be present, as there are some matters of importance to be attended to. Should any be unable to attend this meeting, will they please send their reports to the Secretary at Stoneham, Mass., by Aug. 14th? We kindly invite our brethren and sisters, who are interested in the mission work, and desire to help the women who labor in the gospel, to meet with us. We hope to have a good meeting in the name of the Lord. M. MCKINSTRY.

Tremont Campmeeting.

The Tremont Campmeeting will commence Monday, August 8th, and continue over the following Sunday. Ample arrangements will be made to accommodate all with board and lodging who cannot provide themselves with tents. All who have tents are requested to bring them.

Now, brethren and sisters, come to this gospel feast, for we anticipate the blessing of the Lord will be with us in this consecrated ground as in days past.
For the Committee, HENRY V. DAVIS.

Grove Meeting.

Providence permitting, a grove meeting will be held in West Lebanon, Maine, where Bro. A. P. Watson may appoint, commencing Sunday, Aug. 7th, at 10.30 A. M., and holding over Sunday, Aug. 14th. A cordial invitation is given to all those looking for Jesus, residing in the neighboring towns, to meet with us for the worship of God. This is a new field. Let us have a rally of earnest brothers and sisters. E. S. MOULTON.

East Boston.

During the great fire there July 25th, the Hall where our brethren have held their meetings for the past year was burned, and in consequence they have no place to hold meetings. As soon as a place can be obtained, notice will be given in the Crisis. By order of the Brn.,
A. P. MOORE.

Notice.

All owners of shares in the Dover tent, at the Alton Bay camp-ground, are requested to meet at the auction room of E. S. Davis, on Franklin Square, Saturday, Aug. 6th, at two o'clock P. M., to decide what alteration shall be made in said tent; also to give an opportunity to those who wish to sell their shares, and those who wish to buy, thus to do. Per order of Committee.

Notice.

The Lord willing, there will be a campmeeting at Pittsfield, Maine, in Hawthorn's Grove, about half a mile from the depot, on the road leading from Pittsfield to Newport, commencing Aug. 22nd, to continue over Aug. 28th. We propose to know no sect or party, but such as are new lights in heart, therefore to provoke one another only to love and good works, remembering the new commandment and the building of each other up in Christ alone. We heartily invite the members of the household of faith, and all who would enjoy such a convocation, to come in the fulness of the gospel of peace, laying aside all contentions as unprofitable, contending only to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, and be filled with all the fulness of God. As nearly as possible, we want to enjoy an old-fashioned meeting, and greeting with the saints scattered here and there, in their patient waiting for the last great gathering. Let special prayer be offered that the church may be strengthened with might through the Spirit, deserters be arrested, and soldiers enlisted in the army of the Lord.

Arrangements will be made for the reduction of fare on the railroads. As far as practicable, we wish all to bring tents and provisions for themselves; those who cannot, need not stay away on that account; but all can bring bedding, perhaps. We intend to arrange that all shall be made welcome and comfortable, as far as lies in our power. To such as prefer to board, provision will be made at the village on reasonable terms, as we expect no boarding tent on the ground. For the church of God,
A. H. WALKER.
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Grove Meeting.

There will be a grove meeting in the Root settlement, Crawford Co., Pa., near Bro. J. T. Ongley's saw-mill, two and a half miles north-east of Little Cooley, and two and a half miles west of Lincolnville, to commence Saturday, August 6th, at two o'clock, and hold over two Sundays. In case of wet weather, the mill will be fitted up for the occasion. Come, brethren and sisters in the Lord, let us have a good meeting. The brethren here voted that there be a general invitation given,—houses, barns and hearts open and free. Come at the commencement, and stay through. Bring your tents, if you wish. Let there be a rally in Northwestern Penn. The King is coming soon. Let us be ready, and try to get others ready to meet him.

Brn. C. F. Sweet, C. Buzzell, and others, will be in attendance to preach the word. The meeting is ten miles south of Union Mills, on the A. & G. W. R. R., and P. & E. R. R., and seven miles northwest of Centreville, on the Oil Creek R. R. Teams will be sent to Union Mills on Saturday, and will be there from twelve to two P. M. Inquire for team for the grove meeting. Committee—John Root, A. S. Geer, Geo. Porter, Little Cooley, Pa. JOHN T. ONGLEY, Secretary, Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a grove meeting held near Martin Carr's, less than one half mile from Lunenburg, Vt., commencing Aug. 9th, at half past one o'clock P. M., and hold over the following Sabbath. It is expected that Eld. W. H. Shaw, and others, will be present to preach the word. Preachers, and all, are invited to come and labor for the salvation of sinners. Come in the fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ.

This is a new field, where but few are looking for the return of this "same Jesus."

Grove Meeting.

The Lord willing, there will be a grove meeting on the land of Heber Kimball, in Harrison, Me., commencing Aug. 5th, at five o'clock P. M., to continue over the following Lord's day. Jesse Gay, O. W. Kimball, and the writer, are expected to preach the word. Per order,
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Notice.

There will be a grove meeting at Hemlock Lake, N. Y. (a little south of the village), July 31st, to commence in social form at 9 A. M., and preaching at 10½ o'clock. Elder C. F. Sweet is expected. All others, both elders and people, are cordially invited to attend. Let all interested be there at the commencement of the social exercises.
WM. SEIDMORE.
GEORGE STODDARD.
L. J. OWEN.

Campmeeting.

The Lord willing, there will be a campmeeting in New Milford, Ct., commencing Sept. 3d, and hold over the eleventh. Board will be had on the ground at a reasonable rate. The camp-ground lies three-fourths of a mile from the depot on the Housatonic rail road. Bring your tents with you. Come filled with the Holy Spirit, praying the blessing of God to rest on the meeting.
For the Committee, J. L. WOOD.

Notice.

Providence permitting, the campmeeting at Alton Bay, N. H., will commence Sunday, Sept. 4th, and hold over the Lord's day, Sept. 11th.
For the committee, J. G. SMITH.

Special Notice.

To all interested in having a State Conference organized in Ohio: Beloved brethren in Christ,—Believing that the end of all things is at hand, and what we do must be done quickly, and that the Lord has raised us up as a people to herald the coming kingdom, and to lift our warning voice, and cry aloud, and spare not, and in earnest tones bid the slumbering myriads of earth's sons and daughters to prepare for solemn judgment; and believing we can better accomplish the great work allotted us to do, we have, after advising with brethren, thought best to appeal to every Advent church in the State, and where there is no church, to individuals, who are interested in forming such a conference, to write at once to Eld. E. McCullock, Pastor of the Advent Church in Nevada, Ohio; and, if sufficient interest is manifest, we shall issue a call for a conference, to be held immediately after the campmeetings are over. Come, brethren, let us hear from you at once relative to this matter, and may heavenly wisdom guide your hearts aright. For the Brethren,
E. MCCULLOCK.

To the King's Servants.

Some of the brethren and sisters in Warner Village, N. H., and vicinity, have decided to have preaching one half of the time at Union Hall, the second and third Sabbaths of July, and after that the first two Sabbaths of each month.

Correspond with B. S. COLBY, Warner Village, N. H.

In behalf of the congregation worshiping at Warner Village. ALLEN DAMON.

Notice.

As the time has come for us to start the Mass. Mission Tent, we shall need funds to carry forward the work; and we wish those who have subscribed would forward the amount to the Treasurer, C. GOODRICH, No. 7 Salem Street, Boston, as soon as convenient.
S. W. THURBER, Pres. of Conf.

Notice.

The next regular conference for Fairfield, Ohio, will be held Sept. 3d and 4th, and will probably be a grove meeting. Let all be duly prepared.
G. W. STINSON, Pastor.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meeting on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's. O. G. TRUNDY.

Read! Read!!

Send your pledges and monies at once to Bro. Ira Aldrich, Whitefield, N. H., for the Tent. Come, brethren in Grafton and Coos Counties, N. H., let the amount be raised immediately, for we want the tent in the field doing its work.
A. W. SIBLEY.

Notice.

The brethren in Bowdoinham Village, Me., have hired Hinkley's Hall for a few months, and invite preaching brethren who can come and break the bread of life, to give notice through the Crisis.
For the brethren, N. G. REED.

Maine Mission Tent.

The "Maine Mission Tent," under the charge of Bro. and Sr. Taylor, will probably be in the field for service in a few days. All desiring tent meetings in any locality in this State are requested to write as soon as possible to either of the undersigned. W. H. MITCHELL, Kennebunkport.
R. R. YORK, Portland.

The Iowa Mission Tent.

Those who desire tent, camp, grove, or basket-meetings, will do well to correspond with me soon, so that I may make arrangements for summer work. In these meetings will be presented the gospel of Jesus Christ, with a view to do the people good. No party, sect, or hobby to build up, but to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Every lover of Jesus shall be free to work with us. All lovers of this pure christianity are requested to write soon. Direct to Peter S. W. Deyo, Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Notice.

Will our brethren, who wish the campmeeting committee to build their tents at Alton Bay, send to me at once (at Farmington, N. H.), the plan, or how they wish them built? J. G. SMITH.

Notice.

Putney's Hall, Sutton Mills, N. H. Meetings every Sabbath for the present. This is a new movement on the part of the Advent people of Sutton, and we think it is according to the will of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us.
A. CRESSEY,
FRANK NELSON,
SAM'L ROWELL,
} Committee.

Notice.

The Advent brethren have rented the Temperance Hall on Maine St., in Brunswick, Me., and will hold meetings on Sunday regularly. Seats freee to all who are disposed to meet with us. Ministering brethren are invited to come over and help us. Per order, C. GOUD.

Notice.

All persons, rich or poor, wishing to have the Rhode Island Mission Tent pitched in any locality where there is an opportunity to get the great truths of the plan of salvation before the people, will address me by letter, at South Killingly, Ct.
E. BELLOWS.

Conn. State Tent.

Parties desiring the tent pitched in their vicinity, will please correspond with the Chairman of the Committee, H. H. DICKINSON, Hartford, Ct.

Notice.

The Advent Christian church of Rochester have hired a neat, commodious hall, just finished, on the corner of Stone and Court Sts., known formerly as the Air Bath Institute, which will be opened next Sabbath, the Lord will, with appropriate services, by Bro. J. Hemenway. Meetings will be held hereafter in said hall three times Sundays, also Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Notice.

Friends writing either of the Clinton Arch Missionaries through July, will please direct to the care of G. W. Smith, No. 273 West 22d St., New York City. M. E. DOW.

Notice.

The Advent Christian Church in Nashua, N. H., have hired a hall in Beasom's Block, corner of Maine and Factory Streets, up two flights of stairs, well fitted up, where we shall hold meetings three times on the Sabbath, and Thursday and Saturday evenings. For the brethren,
NATHANIEL EATON.

German Tracts.

Bro. Reimer has a good supply. Send your orders to L. REIMER, 1006 Chesnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ To Preaching Brethren.

Those wishing to preach in	Correspond with
Westfield, Mass.	E. A. Eggleston.
Savoy, Mass	Daniel Miller, or A. E. Bliss.
Wakefield, Mass.	G. R. Tyzzer.
Charlton, Mass.	E. H. Allen, Oxford, Mass.
Worcester, Mass.	H. M. Blackmer, Willard M. Hall, or Willard G. Ruggles.
Portsmouth, N. H.	T. E. Wood, Box 1445.
Hampton, N. H.	Joseph A. Philbrook.
Manchester, N. H.	A. J. Mahew, S. R. Davidson, or O. Proctor.
Dover, N. H.	John Vickery.
Loudon Ridge, N. H.	Daniel L. Moore, Wm. Batchelder, Edward Mudget. Fourth Sabbath engaged.
Seabrook, N. H.	R. S. Johnson, of Hampton, N. H., or Chs. Barton, of Seabrook.
Chichester, N. H.	C. R. Knowles.
Goshen, N. H.	O. F. Cain.
Rye, N. H.	Moses C. Philbrick or Samuel Smart.
Pittsfield, N. H. (Belhel)	C. S. Emerson.
Portland, Me.	R. R. York, S. K. Dyer D. F. Scamman.
Lewiston, Me.	Albert Burgess.
South Berwick, (Great Works), Me.	Harrison Dow.
Kennebunk Depot, Me.	Rufus Duran.
Vernon, Vt.	J. C. Allen.
Bristol, Ct.	B. Hitchcock, Forestville, Ct.
West Gloucester, R. I.	Geo. A. Haskins, Putnam, Ct.
New Milford, Ct.	Richard Heacox.
New Haven, Ct.	W. F. Carpenter, 73 State St.
Pleasant Valley, Ct.	Reuel O. White, New Hartford, Ct.
Meriden, Ct.	E. J. Whitehead, West Meriden, Conn., Box 4.
New Britain, Conn	A. Powell.
Wrightville, Ct.	D. A. Grant, Torrington, Ct.
Newfield, Ct.	Wm. Ripley, Pleasant Valley, Ct.
New Milford, Ct.	J. Coggswell.
Morris, Ct.	Joseph Curtis.
Rochester, N. Y.	J. R. Cooper, 4 Hickory St.
Philadelphia, Pa.	Frank E. Davis, 1715 Markham Srteet, or I. N. Wilfong, 135 N. 22d St.

LEAFLETS FOR LETTERS.

1. Home.....16 pp.
2. Life Insurance.....16 pp.
3. Lost! Lost!.....8 pp.
4. Brother, shall we meet?.....8 pp.
5. About God (for children).....4 pp.
6. Worth Knowing.....4 pp.
7. Peace in Christ.....4 pp.
8. Now.....4 pp.

The above practical tracts, envelope size, will be sent, postpaid:

One set (54 pp.).....6c.
1300 pp.....$1.00
1800 pp., (by express, not prepaid).....$1.00

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

"ADVENTISM."

We have a supply of this valuable work.

Price in cloth.....75 cts., postage 12 cts.
Flexible covers.....60 cts., postage 12 cts.
Paper covers.....50 cts., postage 6 cts.
In paper covers by the dozen, by express, $4.75.

WORKS BY I. C. WELLCOME.

A Treatise on Matt. xxiv. and xxv.

Expository and Historical, showing the accurate fulfilment of Christ's predictions to the present time, and what we should expect next. Fifth edition. 150 pages. 25 cts. by mail.

Christian Baptism--its Object and Duty.

Thoroughly examined, Scripturally and Historically. A valuable work. Fourth edition. 81 pp. 25 cts. by mail.

The Berean's Casket.

A Collection of Scriptures, in various versions, on the most important subjects in the Bible, in sections; to which is added much important History, Statistics, and Tables, making a book of great value to all Bible students and teachers. Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50 by mail.

The Plan of Redemption.

BY WELLCOME AND GOOD.

A valuable work on the Creation and Fall of Man, the Covenants, Atonement, Redemption, Regeneration, Faith and Hope, Restitution, Reign of Christ, Millennium, True Israel, &c. This work receives great commendation. Third edition. 460 pages. $1.25 by mail.

Israel and the Millennium.

A thorough refutation of Judaism; a valuable exposition of the Scriptures, and with some of the Bible doctrine of the Millennium. 142 pages. 25 cts. by mail.

I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL.
C. H. Leverton.....Sunday, Aug. 7th

BOSTON, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.
Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.

Meetings in South Boston on Wednesday evenings, at C.W. Huntress,' 3 Lowland street. On Friday evenings at J. N. Berry's, 227 E. street.

CHELSEA, MASS., (LIBRARY HALL.)
J. Couch.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
C. Goodrich.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
M. Batchelor.....Sunday, Aug. 21st

CHARLESTOWN.
Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.
No meeting in Charlestown until after Alton Bay Campmeeting.
Rufus Wendell.....Sundays, Sept. 25th and Oct. 2nd
T. M. Preble.....Sunday, Sept. 18th

Providence Tent Meeting.....Saturday evening, Aug. 6th, and Sabbath, Aug. 7th. MILES GRANT.

New Bedford, Mass.....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
L. BOUTELL.

Tremont Campmeeting.....Aug. 14th
Lawrence, Mass.....Sunday, Aug. 21st
Great Falls, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 28th
J. COUCH.

Stoneham, Mass.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Sheldonville (Wrentham, Mass.).....Sunday, Aug. 14th
J S. WHITE.

Lynn, Mass.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
M. BATCHELOR.

Manchester, N. H.....Friday evening, Aug. 5th
Lawrence, Mass.....Sundays, Aug. 7th and 14th
Lowell, Mass.....Sunday, Aug. 21st
Chicopee Falls, Mass.....evenings, Aug. 30th and 31st
South Norwalk, Ct., evenings, Sept. 14th, 15th, and 16th
New York, 24th Street.....Sunday, Sept. 18th
Newark, N. J.....Sunday, Sept. 25th
Then home (Rochester, N. Y.) A. A. PHELPS.

Wakefield, Mass.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Worcester, Mass.....Sunday, Aug. 21st
CHAS. P. GREENMAN.

Lowell, Mass.....Sabbath, Aug. 28th
G. W. BURNHAM.

Salem, Mass.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Holden, Mass.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Salem, Mass.....Sundays, Sept. 4th, 11th, and 18th
RUFUS WENDELL.

Charlton, Mass.....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
MARY E. OTIS.

Three Rivers, Mass. (as Bro. Powell may arrange) Sunday, Aug. 7th. E. OWEN.

Hopkinton, N. H.....(in the grove) Sunday, Aug. 14th
FRANK NELSON.

Guilford, Ct.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Madison, Ct.....Monday evening, Aug. 8th
WM. A. & M. L. DURAND.

Ansonia, Ct.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
O. D. WOODRUFF.

West Meriden, Ct.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Hartford, (Talcott and Post's Hall), Sunday, Aug. 21st
W. N. PILE.

Danbury, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sabbath, Aug. 21st.
East Orange, (at the school-house near Bro. John Durgin's) Sabbath, Aug. 28th. D. EASTMAN.

Buckfield, Me. (Federal meeting-house) Sab., Aug. 14th
O. W. KIMBALL.

Rutland, Vt.....Sundays, Aug. 7th and 14th
S. W. THURBER.

Feeding Hill tent meeting.....Aug. 7th
A. D. FLAGG.

Webster, Mass.....evening, Aug. 12th and Sunday, 14th. S. S. BREWER.

Warren, Mass. (at Bro. Rufus Baker's) eve., Aug. 5th
Brimfield, Mass.....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
T. M. PREBLE.

Marshfield.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. A. YOUNG.

Vernon, Vt.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Keene, N. H.....Sabbaths, Aug. 14th and 21st
C. H. FLETCHER.

Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall).....Sab., Aug. 7th
Hill, N. H. (where Sr. Trumball may appoint) Sabbath, Aug. 14th. SIMEON ROBY.

Rawsonville, Vt.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Z. T. WOOD.

New York, (Cooper Institute, room 24) Sun., Aug. 7th
WM. STUART.

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sab., Aug. 7th
DUSTIN W. DAVIS.

Rochester (Town House).....Sabbath, Aug. 21st
S. VARNEY.

Farmington, N. H. (as Bro. J. G. Smith may arrange) evening, Aug 6th, and over Sunday.
B. P. MANNING.

Loudon Ridge, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 21st
Will some one meet me at Alton Bay at 12 M. Saturday, Aug. 20th? E. S. MOULTON.

Lewiston, Me.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Cascoville.....Sunday, Aug. 21st
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Rye, N. H.....Sunday, Sept. 18th
J. PINKHAM.

South Elliot, Me.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
WM. C. STEWART.

Bridgewater, Ct. (Sr. Canfield's).....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Sr. Strong's, five o'clock, Aug. 7th.
Roxbury, Ct. (Sr. Teeple's).....Aug. 14th and 18th
Washington, Ct. (house of A. Murphy).....Aug. 19th
Roxbury, Ct. (Sr. Teeple's) Aug. 21st, 23d, 25th, 28th
H. K. WALLING.

Kennebunkport, Me.....evening, Aug. 5th
Kennebunk Depot, Me.....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
South Berwick, Me (Great Works).....eve., Aug. 9th
Great Falls, N. H.....evening, Aug. 10th
East Rochester, N. H.....evening, Aug. 11th
Rochester, N. H.....Sabbath, Aug. 14th
Seabrook, N. H.....Sabbath, Aug. 21st
Charlton, Mass.....Sabbath, Sept. 4th
Webster, Mass.....Sabbath, Sept. 11th
C. H. SWEET.

Cheshire Street, Conn.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Southington, Conn.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Z. FORD.

Square Pond, Ct.....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
Putnam, Ct.....Sabbath, Aug. 14th
Webster, Mass.....Sabbath, Aug. 21st
Woodstock Valley, Ct.....Sabbath, Aug. 28th
P. S. BUTLER.

Fairhaven, Mass.....Sundays, Aug. 14th and 21st
New Bedford, Mass.....evening, Aug. 23d
C. H. LEVERTON.

West Stoneham.....Sabbath, Aug. 14th
Brownfield, Me.....Sabbath, Aug. 28th
GEO. W. HOWARD.

Great Falls, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Rye, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 21st
J. G. SMITH.

West Deerfield, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
L. E. SAULPAUGH.

Burnham, Me.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Swanville, Me.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Manchester, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Stoneham, Mass.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Woburn, Mass. (on the Common) at five o'clock P. M., or at such time as Bro. Marcy may arrange, Aug. 14th. L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

South Berwick, Me. (Great Works).....Sun., Aug. 7th
Great Falls, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 21st
T. W. PIPER.

Dover, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Great Falls, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works).....Sunday, Aug. 21st
Hampton, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 28th
A. SIMPSON.

Hinsdale, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Will Bro. Streeter meet me at the Hinsdale depot Aug. 5th, first down train?
Northfield, Mass. (where Bro. Streeter may appoint) Sunday, Aug. 14th.
If any of these appointments conflict, write me immediately at West Rumney, N. H. E. COTTON.

Hampton, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Rye, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Steuben Co., N. Y. (near Dea. T. C. Armstrong's) Aug. 6th, at 2 P. M., and the 7th at 9½ A. M.
Fremont (as friends may appoint) evenings, Aug. 8th and 9th.
Blooming Valley, Pa. (as Bro. Wm. Darrow may appoint) Aug. 11th and 14th.
Rootville, or Little Cooley.....Aug. 18th and 21st
Edenboro, Pa.....Aug. 27th and 28th
Sharp's Corners (Meth. church) evenings, Aug. 29th and 30th.
Cohocton (once in four weeks) Sept. 3d, at 2 P. M., and Sunday, the 4th.
Darien, N. Y. (quar. conf.).....Sept. 9th, 10th and 11th
C. F. SWEET.

North Somers, Ct.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Woodstock Valley, Ct.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Abington, Ct.....Sunday, Aug. 21st
Square Pond, Ct.....Sunday, Aug. 28th
North Somers, Ct.....Sunday, Sept. 4th
A. MORSE.

Worcester, Mass.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
GEO. A. STREETER.

Vernon, Vt.....Sabbath, Aug. 21st
H. MUNGER.

Freeport, Me. (Swamp school-house) Sunday, Aug. 7th
Meeting all day. S. F. MORSE.

Pittston.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Windsor (Preble school-house).....Sunday, Aug. 14th
THOMAS RINES.

Bath, Me.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. T. JORDAN.

Cushing, Me.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
East Bowdoinham, Me. (Lancaster school-house) Sunday, Aug. 14th. L. D. TOTMAN.

North Springfield, Vt.....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
Bridgewater, Vt.....Sabbath, Aug. 14th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Moultonborough Neck.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
N. GLIDDEN.

Morris, Ct.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Appleton, Me. (where Bro. G. Miller may appoint) Sabbath, Aug. 7th. J. SOMES.

Rye, N. H.....the first Sunday in each month
South Berwick, Me., (Great Works) the second Sunday in each month. JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Manchester, N. H.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
WM. C. STEWART.

Rochester (Chapel).....Sunday, Aug. 7th
My appointments beyond Barnstead are withdrawn for the present. ABIGAIL M. TRIPP.

Kenduskeag, Me.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Surry, Me.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
E. V. B. EDGERLY.

West Barre, N. Y.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. H. WHITMORE.

Hartford, Me. (Stetson school-house) Sun., Aug. 7th
E. M. HAGGETT.

Collinsville, Ct.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Burlington.....Thursday evening, Aug. 11th
Warehouse Point.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
North Canton.....Sunday, Aug. 21st
H. K. FLAGG.

Rootville, Break Bread.....first Sunday in the month
JOHN T. ONGLEY.

Albion, Me. (where Bro. Tuck may appoint) Sunday, Aug. 14th. S. K. PARTRIDGE.

New Preston, Ct.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. L. WOOD.

Biddeford, Me.....Sabbath, Aug. 14th
GEO. W. BROWN.

Porter, Me.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
T. E. LANG, JR.

Portland, Me.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
WM. SHELDON.

New Hampton (at Bro. Pike's).....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
F. S. RANSOM.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall).....Sunday, Aug. 7th
☞ NO NAME.

At grove meeting in Crawford Co., Penn. (as noticed by Bro. Ongley), at least during the latter part.
C. COLEGROVE.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
A. A. Phelps.....Sunday, Sept. 11th

CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS.
Sr. L. M. Stoddard.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Sr. M. L. Durand.....Sunday, Aug. 14th

LOWELL, MASS.
J. Pinkham.....Sunday, Aug. 7th

PORTLAND, ME.
R. R. York.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
Wm. Sheldon.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
also Aug. 21st, if possible.
James A. Libby.....Sunday, Aug. 28th

DOVER, N. H.
A. Simpson.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
J. Pinknam.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Wm. C. Stewart.....Sunday, Aug. 28th
C. Goodrich.....Sunday, Sept. 18th
L. Boutell.....Sunday, Sept. 25th

CONCORD, N. H., (CENTRE STREET.)
A. Ross.....Sabbath, Aug. 7th
M. Batchelor.....Sunday, July 31st

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)
H. J. Parsons.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
A. A. Hoyt.....Sunday, Aug. 21st

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
J. H. F. Varney.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
W. H. Mitchell.....Sunday, Aug. 14th
B. S. Emery.....Sunday, Aug. 21st

PITTSFIELD, N. H. (at the Bethel.)
C. Goodrich.....Sunday, Aug. 7th

ROCHESTER VILLAGE, (Town Hall.)
C. Parsons.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
E. S. Moulton.....Sunday, Aug. 28th

HARTFORD, CT.
Chas. E. Barnes.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
T. M. Preble.....Sabbaths, Aug. 14th and 21st

PLEASANT VALLEY, CT.
R. K. Stark.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
G. L. White.....Sunday, Aug. 21st

SCITICO, CT.
E. L. Colton.....August 5th
Hiram Munger.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
R. Starks.....August 12th

WOLCOTTVILLE, CT.
B. Hitchcock.....Sunday, Aug. 7th
G. L. Teeple.....Sunday, Aug. 28th

BRISTOL, CT.
A. M. Higgins.....Sabbath, Aug. 14th

ROCHESTER, N. H.
There will be preaching in the chapel, near the brick school-house, in Rochester, N. H., on the first Lord's day in each month. Others can appoint so as not to conflict.

NEW YORK CITY.
The Advent Church formerly meeting at Grand and Allen Streets, have removed to 405 Grand Street, one door above Clinton. Preaching every Sunday for the present. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening, at the house of J. K. Bellows, 19 Orchard Street.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION, 14 LAURENS STREET, NEW YORK CITY.
Sunday morning, prayer and conference, six o'clock Sunday School, two o'clock P. M. Love feast, four o'clock P. M. Preaching, seven o'clock P. M.
Monday, (class meeting), seven o'clock P. M.
Wednesday, (preaching), seven o'clock P. M.
Friday, (prayer and conference), seven o'clock P. M
Come one, come all. A. E. SMITH, Principal.

PORTLAND, ME.
Meetings are held in Advent Hall, Cushman's Block, 353½ Congress Street, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock.

LIST OF ENGLISH BIBLES.

We have received and keep on hand the following English Reference Bibles:

Minion, 8vo., marg. ref., large type, circuit binding, $4.50; postage 28 cts. Do. plain binding, $4.00; postage 28 cts.

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., circuit binding, $3.50; postage 20 cts. (Best size for preachers.)

Nonpareil, 16 mo., marg. ref., plain, $2.25; postage 20 cts. Do. ref. between verses, $2.25; postage 24 cts.

Pearl, 8 vo., marg. ref., circuit, $3.25; postage 20 cts. Do. plain, $1.75; postage 20 cts.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED.
WHAT IS MAN?
THE SOUL—WHAT IS IT?
THE SPIRIT—WHAT IS IT?
THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.

All the above works in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

SPIRITUALISM CONDEMNED BY THE TESTIMONY OF THE BIBLE AND ITS OWN WITNESSES.

BY M. D. WELLCOME.

Price 10 cents single copy. Twenty copies for $1.00; $3.50 per one hundred copies.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 15 cts. per copy additional, when sent by mail.

"Historic Echoes of the Voice of God."

AN EXPOSITION OF THE ELEVENTH CHAPTER OF DANIEL.

BY ELDER J. COUCH.

Price 15 cents single copy. $1.50 per dozen. $10.00 per one hundred.

Business.

Letters Received.

T L Saltonstall, J G Hook, J G Baker, E Braley, A Ogsburg, C W Terry, W F Jameson, H A King, S H Smith, J Cleaves, F A Baker, A Edgar.

Cash received for Books and Tracts.

A M Smith $2.50, M R Miles $6.25, J Boardman 60c, W G Churchill $1.50, F S Ransom $4.50, S Roby $1.50, H B Eaton $1.00, W S Howard $1.00, L Dow $2.25, L Holloway $1.00, D S Green $1.00, J Barker 40c, A Andrews $5.50, J C Libby $5.50c, W Sweet 50c, F M Gaston $1.00, A Fritz $3.00, O Hill 70c, S Wheelock $2.00, A W Taylor $1.00, M W Harris 65c, A J Smith 50c, W Boardman $1.00, D Cogswell $8.00, F Zuriceller $1.00, J Tracey $1.00, H Austin $2.50, J B Oaks $1.40, J V Himes $1.00, S B W Mulliken 75c, J Taylor $1.40, R A Bunnell 35c, W C Towsend 56c, T Harrison $1.00, J V Himes $5.00, C W Buvinger $1.35, R O White $3.35, A L Seymour 80c, B F Davis $3.10, C H McCarty $2.35, J Ridley 75c, B Burgess 35c, S D Remick 40c, Levi S Smith 55c.

Books and Tracts Sent.

By Mail, T J Whitcear, J Barker, E Boyd, A F Dugger, A Fritz, F M Gaston, S Wheelock, O Hill, P Patten, J Earle, A Andrews, A W Taylor (2), J A Packard, A J Smith, J Daley, M W Harris, W Woodward, J Andrews, L A Hart, J M Dunn, H Austin, J Tracy, W Shepard, F Zuriceller, D K Barrett, E M B Hubbell (2), W Simmons, W W Locke, A Wilber (2), W W Inman, E Preble, L D Totman, Dr. C F Forbes, Mrs. S B Mulliken, J E Miller, J Kelly, J B Oaks, Lulia Thayer, Mrs M C Cogswell, S Lyman, J A Haber, T Harrison, J B Lawrence, N Jones, C M Buvinger, Mrs. B Mathewson, A L Seymour, J B Treat, B F Davis (2), J Ridley, J Earle, C H McCarty, H E Douglass, S Varney, L S Smith, A Bunnell, P A Angell, S D Remick, Mary A Hill, Mrs E M Simonds, J H Morrison, A F Randall (2), N E Chute, C Patton.

By Express—J D Milne, L Reimer, J C Smith, J A Packard.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents. Postage 8 cts.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc., etc. Cloth, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Leather back, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c; Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERYBODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? A Tract on War. Price 10c, postage 2c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 6c.

THE FIRST DAY SABBATH. By T. M. Preble. A new and interesting work. pp. 471. Price $1.50.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5 cts. single; by mail, 7 cts.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M Preble. 15c. postage 2 cts., or by mail 17 cts.

TWO HUNDRED STORIES FOR CHILDREN. By Elder T. M. Preble. pp. 234. 30c. by mail.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. By Thomas Carlyle. 3c. single; 5c. by mail; 20c. per dozen.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR; or, Spiritualism; What it is, and what it is not. Paper covers, $1.00; by mail; cloth, $1.25 by mail.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

VOICE OF THE THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof texts.) 3c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THAT MAN OF SIN. By Eld. O. R. Fassett. To which is added "The Only Hope." Price, 5c. single; postage 2c. 50c. per dozen; postage 6c.

Any of the above will be sent by mail on receipt of the price.

THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, Retribution, and Will all Men be Saved? By H. L. Hastings. Cloth $1.00; paper 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man, with various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church; By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times to Daniel and John. On Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST. A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy, by mail; 40c. per dozen.

CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c., postpaid.

DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 10c; by mail, 12c.

NEW HYMN BOOK.

"Hymns of the Jubilee Harp."

WITHOUT THE MUSIC.

The above work, printed in large, clear type, on beautiful paper, we are ready to fill orders for, at the following prices:—

Bound in cloth, with sprinkled edges, 75 cents per copy; $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per 100.

Bound in leather, gilt edge, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; when sent by mail, 12 cts. additional postage.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR.

A WORK THAT THOROUGHLY VENTILATES SPIRITUALISM.

376 pages. Price by mail, $1.25.

The above works are for sale at this office.

THE BAD BARGAIN: or, THE WORLD SET UP FOR SALE.

The devil, as the Scriptures show,
Tempts sinful mortals, high and low;
And always acting well his part,
He suits his bribes to every heart.
See! there the prince of darkness stands,
With baits for souls in both his hands.

To one he offers empires whole,
And gives a scepter for a soul;
To one he freely gives, in barter,
A peerage, or a star and garter;
To one he pays polite attention,
And begs him just to take a pension.

Some are so fired with love of fame,
He bribes them by an empty name;
For fame they toil, they preach, they write,
Give alms, or sally forth and fight;
Prefer man's praise to God's salvation,
And sell their souls for reputation.

But the great gift, the mighty bribe,
Which Satan pours amid the tribe,
Which thousands seize with eager haste,
And all desire at least to taste,
Is—plodding reader, what d'ye think?
Alas! 'tis money—money—chink.

Round the wide world the tempter flies,
Presents to view the glittering prize;
See! how he goes from shore to shore,
And how the nations all adore;
Souls flock by thousands to be sold,
Smit with the love of shining gold.

See! at your needy tradesman's shop,
The universal tempter stop;
"Wouldst thou," he cries, "increase thy treasure?
Use lighter weights, and scantier measure;
Thus shalt thou thrive"; the trader's willing,
And sells his soul to get a shilling.

Next Satan to a farmer hies:
"I scorn to cheat," the farmer cries;
Yet his whole heart on wealth is bent,
And so the devil was content.
Now markets rise, and riches roll,
And Satan quite secures his soul.

Mark next yon cheerful youth so jolly,
So fond of laughter and of folly;
He hates a stingy, griping fellow,
But gets each day a little mellow;
To Satan, too, he sells his soul,
In barter for a flowing bowl.

Thus Satan tries each different state,
With mighty bribes he tempts the great;
The poor with equal force he plies,
But wins them with a humbler prize;
Has gentle arts for young beginners,
And fouler sins for older sinners.

Oft, too, he cheats our mortal eyes,
For Satan father is of lies;
A thousand swindling tricks he plays,
And promises, but never pays;
Thus we poor fools are strangely caught,
And find we've sold our souls for naught;

Nay, oft with quite a juggler's art,
He bids the proffered gift depart;
Some pleasure sets before our face,
Then claps a trouble in its place;
Sends some huge loss instead of gain,
And conjures rapture into pain.

Be wise, then, oh ye worldly tribe,
Nor sell your conscience for a bribe;
When Satan tempts you to begin,
Refuse him, and refuse to sin.
Bad is their bargain, on the whole,
Who gain the world and lose their soul.

—Selected by A. Ross.

For the World's Crisis.

MY JOURNEY TO CALIFORNIA.

Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—According to agreement, yet after a long time, do I give to you a short history of my journey over the mountains to California. On Monday, Dec. 13th, I bade adieu to friends at Knowlesville, N. Y. Reached Chicago Tuesday morning, at nine o'clock. From there I took train for Kenosha, Wis., and on Thursday morning again took train for Chicago, and in the same day started on my long journey to California.

The first day out from Chicago, at Sterling Spring, an engine was broken, which detained us one hour, which time was made by eleven the same evening. Crossed the Mississippi river about sunset. The river is bridged. On the morning of the second day, found ourselves at Dunlap, Iowa. At ten crossed the Missouri river. At Omaha were carried from cars to river in a 'bus, which was driven on board boat, and we were ferried across to Omaha. To me this was a barren looking place. Here we stopped one hour, then on. At sundown at Grand Island.

Third day morning at Sidney. A strong head-wind made it necessary to attach the second engine. Then onward, passing small stations, some of them only containing a depot, and some a watering place, a small grocery, and a few dwelling houses. At Antelope a third engine was attached. Before reaching this station, in hard-beaten paths, we could see flocks of those little creatures, the antelope, skipping and running and jumping over the plains, and on arriving at the station, from the appearance, one might suppose that the inhabitants subsisted almost wholly upon that animal. There were eight of them killed, dressed, and hung up near the depot; beside, a great number of heads and horns were seen strewn over the ground near by.

From there to Pine Bluff. This place contains depot, water tank, small grocery, and a few mud huts. Surrounding country, high bluffs, all naked, except that here and there might be seen a pine tree. Country on from this, prairie, level, then rolling. At Hillsdale, Wyoming Territory, about noon, stopped to shovel through a bank of sand and snow, which we expected would take but a short time. At one o'clock word came to us that the Hotel train was fast in the bank, one mile and a half ahead, and we must wait for that to pass. Help was sent for, and fifty men and six engines were employed in plowing and shoveling through, while we sat anxiously waiting.

Some passengers on the train, who had crossed the plains a number of times, added not a little to our anxiety by telling us we might not get through to our destination in two months. At this time the wind was blowing furiously, and snow and sand flying in every direction; and with all it was bitter cold. There happened to be a small eating saloon about a quarter of a mile from where we stopped. I sent for bread; paid seventy-five cts. for a small loaf. Here we remained until past eight, when we moved on three miles; remained until fifteen minutes past nine, then on to Cheyenne, a town of about sixteen hundred inhabitants, formerly containing from nine to twelve thousand, from being in anticipation the terminus of the road; but since the extension, some have gone into the mines, some to one place, and some to another.

At half-past twelve that night, we passed Sherman, of which I can tell you but little, except that it is the highest point ever reached by railroad. At daylight we were dashing over rocks and hills, and through vallies, where nought but wild grass could be seen, except one small grove of trees, the names of which I could not learn. The first station we passed was Carbon, a small station. On one side of the road were a few quite passable buildings; on the other, one half dozen or more, where the inmates digged down into the hillside, and there built their little huts. It was a lonely looking place. The next, Fort Steele, a town built of logs and boards, and containing many soldiers. Next, Point of Rocks, whose buildings were mostly covered with canvas. Then Coal Mines. Again, huts in side mountains. Next Green River, another canvas town, also huts built with barrels set out of the roof for chimneys. Next, Devil's Gate. At half-past eleven in the evening we arrived at Ogden, where we again changed cars, then onward again. Next day, in passing through Humboldt Valley, it was quite a curiosity to see the mountains reaching up to and above the clouds. Not so much of a curiosity to those who have lived in mountainous countries.

In passing through Nevada Territory, found the inhabitants to be mostly Chinese. They appeared to be watching and repairing roads. There are many short curves in crossing the mountains. In turning one of these a hand-car was run against, thrown off, bounded, struck an Irishman, threw him over, and broke his leg. He was brought aboard the train, and carried to a little hut about a mile from the spot. We also saw large flocks of wolves. With the exception of the above-named accident, all passed pleasantly that day. It was quite amusing to see the Indian men, women, and children, standing at each station, that they might get a ride on the platform of the cars, which they were permitted to do. Some of them were wrapped in rags, and some in the skins of the buffalo and other wild beasts. Most of them were painted, which gave them a savage appearance.

Next morning (Tuesday), just before light, we came to the snow-sheds, about thirty miles in length, with now and then a small opening. I waited anxiously to get through them, for the little peeps I could get through these openings, assured me that I was passing through beautiful scenery. After getting through, I found I was not mistaken. I can but wish I had the language to give you a just description. I almost imagined myself in the new earth. From my car window, at my right, I could look up, up, in some places not seeing the top of the side mountain (it being so near the road), but as far as I could see it was covered with huge rocks, trees, bushes, and green grass; while at my left I could look down, down, and see the tops of trees, and sometimes catch sight of a stream winding its way through the ravine below. I could not judge of its size, the distance from us being so great. The banks on either side were covered with beautiful shrubbery. The sun was shining very brightly, which added much to the grandeur of the scene. The most beautiful shrub was the manganita. The leaf and shape of the bush, when one bush is standing alone, very much resemble the box-tree we have in the States in our flower gardens; yet both leaf and bush are larger. They are very plenteous here in California, bearing a cluster of fragrant white flowers, followed by a small red berry. How unlike the snow and ice-clad fields of New York State, which I had so recently left, was the scene before me!

At ten o'clock and twenty minutes we arrived at Auburn, California, where I found my husband waiting for us. You may all depend upon it, it was a pleasant meeting, as we had not met in five months. I found him looking well, and weighing one hundred and ninety pounds. He was not a little surprised in finding me looking so well. From Auburn we rode by stage to Placerville, a distance of twenty-seven miles, to my husband's brother's. There we found a roasted turkey waiting for us. I endured my journey remarkably well. Took a sleeping car all the way from Chicago.

We stopped with our brother one month, awaiting the arrival of our goods, when we went to Coloma, ten miles from Placerville. Coloma is a small town, situated on the south fork of the American river, in the foot-hills of the Sierra Nevada range. It is noted for its fruits and flowers, and also for being the place where gold was first discovered, in 1848, by James W. Marshall, who is still living, a resident of California, and a poverty-stricken spiritualist; has a wild and strange look. He was at one time in possession of considerable money, but by some means has lost it. Is directed by spirits, and they tell him some strange things.

The present population of Coloma is about six hundred, including whites, negroes, and Chinese. Former population from fifteen to eighteen hundred. There is very little or no interest manifested in religious matters. There have been, in the past, several churches well attended; but now there is but one Protestant and one Catholic church. There are services held in the Protestant church once in two weeks, with a very small congregation. In the Catholic once in five, six, or seven weeks, as it may happen. If a stranger comes in to speak, they will all turn out a few times; then they go back to their former amusements.

We are doing what little we can, in weakness, to spread the true light of the gospel, looking forward, hoping soon to be able to do more. When my husband commenced speaking here, the minister manifested great uneasiness, saying he did not see why they all ran after him; but after he saw that it was the means of enlarging his own congregation, he remarked in public that "agitation was better than stagnation." I cannot tell what the consequence may be, but we will do what little we can, and leave it with the Lord.

This gospel of the kingdom must be preached for a witness to all nations, but we are not told that all nations will receive it. Therefore if we sound the alarm, give them the witness, our skirts are clear. We desire the prayers of all, that we may be humble instruments in the hands of the Lord in doing good; for had we not considered it duty, I never could have left my relatives, brethren and sisters, and the privileges I so much enjoyed.

To that brother I met at Darien conference, last September, who feared I would get off so far I would not hear the trumpet sound, I would say, I find the Lord just as precious, and just as near, in California, as in the State of New York; and have no less desire to serve and obey him, and to cling fast to him and his word. I am determined to endure unto the end, for only such have the promise of an endless life. I love these blessed truths, and often wish that some of our able, honest-hearted workers would come and help us spread the good news of the coming King.

How my heart leaped for joy when I saw Bro. Reed's call in the paper. I was about to sit down to my supper, but the reading of that was both meat and drink. Bro. E. T. [illegible] had written us that a Bro. Reed was residing at Santa Clara, but did not tell us he was a preacher. On learning this, and also that his labors were successful, it gave us great joy. I hope we may yet meet him here, and if we had means would send for him. But I allow none of these things to trouble me, for my trust is in the Lord, and I believe he will give us means to do just what he desires us to do.

Now, brethren and sisters, this is to all. Write us, and pray for us, and we will do the best we can. Your sister in Christ, waiting for his return to gather us all home, where there will be no bitter partings.

MRS. KATE A. PAGE.

Coloma, Eldorado Co., Cal., July 16th.

OUR LORD'S BIBLE.

BY MRS. H. B. STOWE.

* * * * * * *

If to have been the favorite intimate friend of the greatest number of hearts be an ambition worthy of a poet, David has had more of this than any poet who ever wrote. He has lived next to the heart of men, and women, and children, of all ages, in all climates, in all times and seasons, all over the earth. They have rejoiced and wept, prayed and struggled, lived and died, with David's words in their mouths. His heart has become the universal christian heart, and will ever be till earth's sorrows, and earth itself are a vanished dream.

It is too much the fashion of this day to speak slightingly of the Old Testament. Apart from its grandeur, its purity, its tenderness and majesty, the Old Testament has a peculiar interest to the christian from the fact that it was the Bible of the Lord Jesus Christ.

As a man, Jesus had a human life to live, a human experience to undergo. For thirty silent years he was known among men only as a carpenter in Nazareth, and the Old Testament was his daily companion. When he emerges into public life, we find him thoroughly versed in the Scriptures. Allusions to it are constant through all his discourses; he constantly refers to it as a book that reflects his own image. "Search the Scriptures," he says, "for these are they that testify of me."

The Psalms of David were to Jesus what they are to us, and more. In certain of them he saw himself and his future life, his trials, conflicts, sufferings, resurrection and final triumph, foreshadowed. He quoted them to confound his enemies. When they sought to puzzle him with perplexing questions he met them with others equally difficult drawn from the Scriptures.

"The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand till I make thine enemies thy footstool. If David then in Spirit call him Lord how is he his son?"

The dying words of Jesus, the words of his extremest agony, were a quotation from the Psalms: "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

When we read the Psalms we go along a track that we know Jesus and his mother must often have trod together.

The great resemblance in style between the Songs of Mary and the Psalms of David, is one of the few indications given in Holy Writ of the veiled and holy mystery of his mother's life. She was a poetess, a prophetess, one whose mind was capable of the highest ecstasy of inspiration. Let us read the Psalms again with the thought in our mind that they were the comforters, the counselors of Jesus and Mary. What was so much to them cannot be indifferent to us.

Our Savior quotes often also from the Prophets. On his first public appearance in his native village he goes into the Synagogue and reads from Isaiah. When they question and disbelieve, he goes on to answer them by allusions to the story of Naaman, the Syrian, and the widow of Sarepta.

When the Sadducees raise the question of a future life, he answers by quoting from the Pentateuch, that God calls himself the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and God is not the God of the dead but the God of the living, for all are alive to him. He quotes the history of Jonah as a symbol of his own death and resurrection, and at the moment of his last trial before the High Priest, when adjured to say whether he be the Christ or not, he replies in words that recall the sublime predictions of the coming of the Messiah to judgment in the Prophet Daniel. One who should read the New Testament through with a view to see how much the Old Testament was to our Savior, would find how constant are the allusions to it in all that he says.

And, after his resurrection, when he appears to his disciples, he opens to them the Scriptures. That talk on the way to Emmaus was an explanation of the old Hebrew Scriptures. We must regret it as among the lost jewels of the church. We have it only through the heart of those who heard it, but it is something, that at the very last we hear of Jesus on earth, we find him directing the study of his disciples back to the Hebrew Scriptures.

Nor did the disciples in the glow of the unfolding Christian dispensation cease to reverence and value the Old Testament Scriptures. They did not speak of them as a worn out thing that had had its day, but they allude to them with the affectionate veneration due to divine oracles.

"The prophecy came not of old times by the will of man, but holy men of old spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

St. Paul congratulates Timothy that "from a child thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which was able to make thee wise unto salvation," and adds, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, lacking nothing, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

Even while the New Testament was being formed, its writers gave this complete testimony to the old as being able to make wise unto salvation and to complete a man's spiritual education.

This book, then, so dear to Christ and his apostles, is something that should be dear to christians. Its study will enrich the soul. It is wonderful, mysterious, unique—there is no sacred book like it in the world; and in reading it we come nearer to Him who sprang out of it as an immortal lily grows out of the bosom of a rocky mountain.—Christian Union.

MEN NOT CONVERTED BY PHILOSOPHY.—I do not suppose that the fishermen of Galilee, or even the accomplished and erudite Paul had any distinct philosophical notions as to what they taught. But they were only the better fitted for their work because they had no pronounced philosophy of sacred things; for the capacity of fructifying faith exists in unnumbered minds that have neither the ability, taste, nor culture requisite for this philosophy; and such minds are best reached by the simple statements which supply them with so many germs of accredited facts, and of truths resting on adequate authority.—Prof. Peabody.

SENSATIONAL LITERATURE.

When we look for a moment at the mass of fictitious reading that is flung out broadcast over the world, can we wonder that the young so early wander away in the paths of vice, or that the vile dens in our cities, that are seething in impurity, are peopled with wrecked manhood and fallen womanhood? We look in astonishment at the evidences of blighted intellects, lost virtue, and ruined lives; and yet how many of these learned their first lesson in vice at home, over the pages of some impure novel! In how many of our homes does the Bible lie, all covered with dust from disuse, while dime novels are eagerly read by parents and children day after day! And I have seen professed christian parents remain away from the house of God, to read a weekly journal burdened with impure thoughts, to feed the imagination and the heart.

Parents, you cannot keep your homes too pure. If the young heart is not educated to love purity, it will love sin and follow after it; and if you crowd your libraries with fiction, and pervert your own lives by its perusal, how can you expect to lead your children heavenward?

The young gain more education from novels to-day, than from the sciences. They pore over the unchaste pages, and shed fountains of tears over some luckless heroine that never lived, and whose counterpart never will live; but they have no sympathy for the sorrows of a beggared widow or orphan, and their hearts are unmoved at the sight of actual human suffering.

Can it be that those to whom God has given ten talents, will waste them all in wrecking humanity? Shall they be willing, for dollars and cents, to send young souls, reeling beneath a burden of shame, into penitentiaries, dance-houses, and groggeries? Will it pay at the bar of God?—Rural New Yorker.

THE SOUND OF LITTLE FEET.

Not winds that sigh on summer eves,
Nor the silken stir
And rustle of the tasseled sheaves,
Nor softened whir
Of wood-bird's wing,
Nor anything
Of sky or earth;
Ah! none of these are half so sweet
As the sound of little feet.

Forever eloquent and gay
Is the pattered fall,
Throughout the longest, darkest day,
Most musical!
No thought, no care
Young feet ensnare;
Forever rings,
Forever sings
Round all the world, with restless beat,
The sound of little feet.

In that sad home where death has gone,
Where the mother's eyes
Behold no more her darling one;
Where tears and sighs
Are all that live;
Grief cannot give
A drearier pain
While time shall reign,
Than the void which makes life incomplete—
No sound of little feet.

Lyric of love, so soft, so dear!
Wert thou heard in vain,
Where the blessed Savior's listening ear
Caught up the strain
Of melody?
Still unto thee
Delights I owe
Each step I go,
By mossy lane or busy street,
Dear sound of little feet.

—Christian Union.

"HOW OFT SHALL I FORGIVE?"

"I can never forgive her, no, never. I have overlooked such things in Eva Moulton many times, until I have lost all confidence in her. I want nothing more to do with her." These words were spoken bitterly, and by one who professed to be a follower of the meek and lowly Jesus. The offender was a sister in the church, and once a cherished friend.

"Forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us," was the reply of an elder sister as they passed from the room, leaving me to silent meditations.

How are we forgiven? Are we not continually leaving the path of duty, on the right and on the left? and yet our heavenly Father welcomes our approach whenever our repentant footsteps turn towards the King's highway. Who can utter this prayer of his childhood, and then say of an offending brother or sister, "I can never forgive them, no, never?"

"Then Peter came to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? Till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee until seven times; but until seventy times seven."

☞ Rev. Robert Hall, the great minister of England, when asked how many sermons a preacher could conveniently prepare in a week, said: "If he is a man of pre-eminent ability, one; if he is a man of ordinary ability, two; if he is an ass, six.

Gems.

— Melancholy falls upon a contented life like a drop of ink on white paper—which is not the less a stain because it has no meaning.

— The descent of the Holy Spirit antidotes the evils of which we complain by taking away the cause of them.

— Man must have occupation, or be miserable. Toil is the price of sleep and appetite—of health and enjoyment. The very necessity which overcomes our natural sloth is a blessing.

Better to weave in the web of life
A bright and golden filling,
And to do God's will with a ready heart,
And hands that are ready and willing,
Than to snap the delicate, minute threads
Of our curious lives asunder,
And then blame Heaven for the tangled ends,
And sit and grieve and wonder.

— Caution holds all generous impulses in check. It is often but a blind and sly keeper of self.

— To hope to touch by the same sermon hearers of various ages, sexes, rank, and education, is to expect to open all locks with the same key.

— Men are never placed in such extremes but that there is a light to guide them.

— Godliness has the promise of and secures the blessings of both worlds.

— It is the greatest of all blessedness to know the blessedness that is to be had in the Lord Jesus Christ.

— Egotism, the fruit of self-conceit, is but the ebullition of a small mind heated by its own vain imaginings. Truly great minds always speak humbly and meanly of themselves.

— Three things should be thought of by the christian every morning: his daily cross, daily duty and daily privilege: how he should bear the one, perform the other and enjoy the third.

— Sorrow comes soon enough without despondency; it does a man no good to carry around a lightning-rod to attract affliction.

The saint that wears heaven's brightest crown,
In deepest adoration bends;
The weight of glory bows him down
Then most when most his soul ascends;
Nearest the throne itself must be
The footstool of humility.

— The pleasantest things in the world are pleasant thoughts; and the greatest art in life is to have as many of them as possible.

— A ship ought not to be made to depend on one anchor, or life on a single hope.

HONOR THE BODY.—At the bottom of much unsound feeling upon this subject of social sin, lies the impression that little harm is done by such sins to the after relations of married life. But the apostle shows us that even past sin cannot fail to have lowered the lofty conception of that life, and to have stained the purity of the relations that are established by it.

The most precious tribute of man to woman is his reverence for her, and that, we believe, he irrevocably destroys by unchastity. Where the opposite feeling prevails, it is because the reverence, the purity, the sacredness of married life are unknown, because the whole idea of it is at a point infinitely below that at which God has placed it. Finally, at the bottom of much error upon this subject lies forgetfulness of man's nature as a whole, the impression that he has nothing but his soul to think of, nothing but a happy eternity to secure, whereas his great work is here in the present world where his body has been given as the temple of the Holy Ghost. . . . . There is a solemn duty devolving upon the Church at this moment, to take this matter in hand by striking at its root, by setting forth more fully such views of the body and of marriage as are expressed by the apostle, and by doing more to promote a sound feeling of abhorrence of all impurity in the male sex as well as in the female.—Sunday Magazine.

THREE SECRETS.

The secret of respectability lies in the strict observance of the following three rules: Live within your means; always tell the truth; keep good company. The neglect of one or the other insures a loss of character, whether its owner be a peer or peasant. Riches are as much apart from respectability as health is independent of beauty.

The secret of keeping a friend is valuable, and must be observed with care. Making acquaintances is easy enough,—any rogue or fool can do that; the difficulty lies in keeping them, and converting them into friends. The best method I know of is to preserve your independence. There are obligations, however, which can be rendered and accepted without a loss of independence. The pleasure of conferring a favor is greater to properly constituted minds than that of receiving one; but it is delightful, and a guarantee of continued amity, if the kindness one receives can promptly be reciprocated. Secondly, do not press your company too much upon the new acquaintance. Make yourself agreeable to him, let him seek your society, and when you are with him avoid all topics on which a difference of opinion is likely to arise.

The secret of agreeable personal appearance lies in cleanliness and the absence of many colors. I have seen a well-adjusted bunch of humble primroses excite admiration, when a boquet of choice and variegated flowers has been scarcely noticed. Modern flower-beds illustrate my meaning. Were this not the case, statues would be colored. A taste for gaudy hues is barbarous, and peculiar to children and savages; a refined taste rejects scarlet and yellow as it would raw beef and strain oil. A gaudy cravat may look fine, and even well; but a black one looks better.—Home Journal.

Hygiene.

"This is for your health."—PAUL.

FOOD FOR REFLECTION.

BY DR. CHAS. P. UHLE.

In this world of ours, amid its cares and perplexities, how seldom do we pause to think upon the wonders and mysteries of our existence. Day by day we enjoy the breath of life, eat, drink, move, and have our being, unmindful of the wonderful powers by which these ends are realized, ungrateful, many of us, to that Divine being "whose hands have made and fashioned us," and whose infinite wisdom hath so beautifully adapted our organization to the requirements of our life and comfort. The science which unfolds to us the wonders of the human frame, and exhibits the workings of all its intricate machinery, shows us upon what an infinity of springs, and motions, and adaptations, our existence depends.

Whether we are sleeping or waking, sitting or walking, there is going on within such a variety of movements and muscular action, as would overpower us with astonishment, and even with fear, were we to behold them. We should be apt to feel alarmed on making the least exertion, lest the parts of this intricate machinery should be broken or deranged and its functions interrupted.

The steam engine, constructed as it is of the hardest and most durable materials, will run but a few months without some of its essential parts being worn or disabled, even though its action be frequently discontinued. But the animal machinery, though constructed for the most part of the softest and most flabby substances, can go on without intermission in all its diversified movements, by night and by day, for the space of eighty or one hundred years, the heart giving ninety-six thousand strokes every twenty-four hours, and the whole mass of blood rushing through a thousand pipes of all sizes every four minutes.

It is not very generally known what an immense amount of labor is performed by the various organs and parts of our body in every year of our short lives. We have made some estimate relative to this point, and will present the odd results for the benefit of those who seldom think upon the subject.

Our heart at each successive pulse or contraction, by which it protrudes the blood out of the arteries into the veins, exerts a force of about one hundred thousand pounds. It contracts four thousand times an hour, and in one day seven hundred and fifty gallons, or twenty-three and a half barrels of blood pass through its cavity, and at this rate upwards of 8877 barrels in one year. This quantity seems enormous. The idea of over eight thousand barrels of blood passing through this little organ in this time, and it capable of holding only about two ounces at one time! It seems almost incredible, but then there are many incredible truths in our strange existence, and figures very seldom lie.

Our liver secretes three barrels and one fifth of bile, salivary glands four barrels of spittle, stomach five barrels of gastric juice, and our kidneys upwards of eight barrels of their secretion in one year. There passes off through the skin, by means of twenty-eight miles of little "sweat tubes," three barrels or more of water in the form of insensible perspiration, and about the same quantity by the lungs through the breath. In addition to this, there are the secretions of various other organs and glands of the body, in proportionate quantities, which in itself cannot be less than two barrels, a very moderate estimate. Making an aggregate of the whole, we find that there are about seven hundred and seventy-six gallons, or nearly twenty-five barrels of liquids of various kinds discharged from our body by its various emunctories in one year.

These calculations, based upon facts gathered by the researches and experiments of our physiologists, bring to light the huge amount of labor these fragile organs of ours are capable of performing. But there are other curiosities in our economy, and we will pass on to them.

There are four hundred and forty-six different muscles, two hundred and forty-five bones (sixty of which are in the hands,) and upwards of three hundred ligaments in the human body. Each muscle acts in at least ten different capacities, that is, it has ten different intentions or qualifications to serve; each one has been estimated to have forty. Taking these together, we find that the muscles and bones alone have upwards of fourteen thousand different adaptations or intentions. If we were to attend to the many thousand ligaments, tendons, membranes, humors, fluids of various descriptions, the skin with its million pores, and every other part of the organical system, we would have another sum of many hundreds of millions, to be multiplied by the former product in order to express the diversified ideas which enter into the construction of our wondrous body.

One hundred and three muscles are brought into use every time we breathe, and the combined force of these muscles in accomplishing this act has been estimated at three thousand pounds at each inspiration. As regards the strength of the other muscles of our body, Dr. Dicks says, "that when a man lifts up with his teeth a weight of two hundred pounds with a rope fastened to the jaw teeth, the muscles named temporalis and the masseter, with which people chew, and which perform this work, exert a force of above fifteen thousand pounds. When a man, standing on his feet, leaps or springs to the height of two feet, if the weight of such a man be one hundred and fifty pounds, the muscles employed in that action will exert a force two thousand times greater, that is to say, a force of about three hundred thousand pounds." Thus it is, the more we inquire into the wonders and mysteries of our existence, the more perplexing and astonishing it seems to be. We meet with truths that more than puzzle our minds, and find ourselves in such a labyrinth of strange phenomena, as to excite doubts in our own minds as to their veracity; "Indeed," exclaims Dr. Dicks, "we can hardly believe our senses."

When these calculations are carried on for a lifetime of fifty or eighty years, they form results that are truly prodigious, and well calculated to excite sentiments of extreme amazement and wonder. A man's beard grows upwards of twenty-seven feet in a lifetime of fifty years, his finger and toe nails about seven feet in the same length of time; and it has been computed that a woman with a full and healthy head of hair has upward of fifty-seven miles of the capillary substance vegetating upon her cranium. But we will not lengthen our article by continuing farther these strange estimates of the wonders and singularities of "the house we live in." We will write a book some day, and enter the subject more fully, and content ourself at the present time with adding one more (there is always room for one more), and close. Has anybody ever thought how much food a human being "makes way with" in one year, or how much it would amount to if estimated for a lifetime? If not, the following may prove interesting.

Let us allow two pounds and a half of food per day, which is quite a moderate estimate, for there are men who daily eat from four to five pounds, and multiply it by the number of days in one year. We have nine hundred and twelve pounds and a half, the amount eaten in this time. If now we multiply this by fifty, to make our estimates for a lifetime of fifty years, we have forty-five thousand or nearly twenty-three tons of food that is eaten by a man of moderate appetite in this length of time.

What a delicate little morsel to set before a young man, with the information that he is to eat and digest it before he dies. Undoubtedly, when we whisper in his ears that the glands in his mouth will secrete about two hundred and fifteen barrels of spittle to moisten and assist the swallowing of it, that his stomach will furnish two hundred and fifty barrels of gastric juice to digest it, and that about one hundred and fifty barrels of other digestive fluids and acids are necessary for the accomplishment of the process, and that enough heat is generated in the same process to raise to the boiling point one hundred and forty-six gallons, or nearly five barrels, of cold water, it will open his eyes and ears to the truth that he is "fearfully and wonderfully made."

Indeed, with such abundant testimony before us, who could fail to think otherwise? Who can refrain from joining with the Psalmist in his pious exclamation: "Adorable Creator! with what wonderful art thou hast formed us! Though the heavens did not exist to proclaim thy glory, though there were no created being on earth but myself, my own body might suffice to convince me that thou art a God of unlimited power and infinite goodness."—Selected by T. Fraser.

SUNSHINE.

Sunshine is of no less importance than pure air. Dr. Bowditch's statistical tables go to show the intimate relation between the occurrence of consumption and its allied diseases, not only in years where there have been an unusual number of cloudy days, but in places naturally, and in houses designedly, deprived of the free access of the sun's rays. Some time ago this fact was signally illustrated by a district of Paris, where the people were pallid and filthy from the absence of sunlight in their dwellings; the government interfered, and shut up the places. There are not a few tenement-houses in all our large cities where such a procedure would throw light not only upon moral and physical nastiness, but upon the causes of disease and death among the poor foreign population swarming and festering in our midst.

Let the sunlight into your houses, then, and drive away the mould and mustiness which lurk in your halls and closets, and even in your parlors; far better that the carpets, and chairs, and curtains should fade, than that the rosy tints of health should disappear from the lips and cheeks of your children. The rays of the glorious sun are necessary for vegetable and animal growth, and above all necessary for the healthy growth of the human being; open, then, your curtains and blinds, and see how quickly the sun will change the atmosphere of your house, bringing light and warmth into musty corners, vivifying the air of every room, reddening the cheeks of the pallid children, and giving to every member of the family a vigor before unknown. No wonder the eastern nations worshiped the sun as the source of life, and light, and heat; let us open to him our houses, and let him have an altar in every room therein.—Good Health.

INTERESTING EXPERIENCE IN DIET.—A subscriber to the Herald from Cincinnati, writes us as follows:

"We have lived for over twenty years on a vegetable and fruit diet mainly, and have raised a family of eight children, including twins and triplets, without employing a physician for disease but twice, and then he gave no medicine. My oldest son had the small-pox a year ago; we consulted an old physician after he had been broke out ten or twelve days. The doctor said he was doing 'first rate,' and did not need medicine. We have lived for several years on two meals a day, and like this arrangement much. Now, my wife is teaching in several of the public schools of this city (Cincinnati, O.,) and six of our youngest children attend school, and we are obliged to be more irregular in diet.

My wife is over fifty years old, is able to walk two miles or more and teach drawing all day, and then walk home again at night. We fully believe that a simple vegetable and fruit diet is sufficient to enable people to endure severe labor. One of our triplets, a girl under ten years old, will not eat a mouthful of flesh-meat of any kind. She would go without her dinner before she would eat anything that had even chicken broth on it, and yet she is as hardy and healthy a child as we have.—WARREN HUTCHINS.—Herald of Health.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

HOW TO QUIT USING TOBACCO.—"How can I abandon the use of tobacco without subjecting myself to excessive prostration, as has been the case heretofore when attempted?"

It is impossible to quit the use of tobacco after it has become a settled habit, without more or less bad feeling and prostration. The man who would free himself from the curse of tobacco-using, must make up his mind that he has a hard struggle to pass through, call all his will-power to his aid, and resolve to quit at once and forever. This leaving off by degrees seldom succeeds. It is better to make the battle short, sharp, and decisive. A thorough course of bathing to eliminate the tobacco from the system, will make the struggle much less severe, and prove the greatest aid that can be given. The Turkish baths are best if they can be had. If not accessible, the wet-sheet pack or vapor bath should be taken instead. There will not be much appetite, and but little food should be taken. Fruit is best. No drink but water, and that may be drank as freely as desired. To allay the craving for tobacco hold cold water or pieces of ice in the mouth.

TWO MEALS A DAY.—"Do you think it better one should limit himself to two meals a day, irrespective of whether or not he takes much physical exercise?"

I do. Especially do I believe it would be better to take but two meals a day, if he adopts a vegetable diet and lives correctly in other respects. No matter how hard a man may work, two meals, composed of bread made from the entire grain, fruits and vegetables, are amply sufficient, and I believe he will do more work and do it easier and with less exhaustion to the system, after he gets habituated to it, than he would to eat three meals of the same food, or three meals composed of the ordinary kinds of food, as meats, fine flour bread, etc. If one eats fat pork, fine flour bread, butter, sugar, etc., he will need three meals in order to get the nourishment which the vegetarian will get in two. Instead of vegetarians being more poorly nourished than meat-eaters they are much better nourished, can endure more, go without eating longer, and feel hunger less.—Ibid.

ITS EFFECTS.

If a man should tell us that a healthy child could put his system under the influence of a powerful narcotic every day, without permanent injury, we should tell him that he didn't know much—about that. We never saw so many boys smoking along the streets, as now. The practice will reduce the final stature of the boy who begins at fourteen, at least half an inch. It will diminish his physical force in that proportion, and his mental force still more. The boy that smokes can bear trouble better. He can lose his place in a store with less grief. It worries him less to get to the foot of his class. Tobacco is a leather jacket that shields his hide from the lash of adversity. We doubt if there is a business man in Boston so green that he would take a boy who smokes, when he could as well have as good a boy who does not. Tobacco is a source of daily expense, a motive for theft till the boy comes to man's pay. It wastes his blood, for though parotid glands save the kidneys some work, yet he that makes an urethra of his mouth, must lose from his blood much that is needed to aid digestion, whereas the kidneys do their own work better, and, in health rob the blood of nothing useful. Man is the most precious crop the Yankee raises, and just now it is scant in quantity. Let it not be inferior in staple also.—Boston News.

BLEEDING FROM THE NOSE.—Bleeding from the nose is always regarded as an unwelcome event, yet, in the opinion of Dr. Hall, it always is beneficial, preventing headache or more serious illness, and sometimes arresting apoplexy and sudden death; therefore it should not be immediately arrested. When the nose threatens to bleed excessively, it can sometimes be arrested by putting the feet in hot water, or by applying a mustard plaster between the shoulders.

BREATHING.—It is a well known fact that people who habitually breathe through the nose are less liable to infectious diseases and pulmonary complaints. One very common benefit derived by such who sleep with the mouth closed, is that they never awake with the painful and disagreeable sensation produced by a parched throat and cracked lips. When we break nature's laws, we must pay the penalty.—Good Health.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance..................$2.50 a year
Five copies six months to one address.......$5.50.
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address.......$10.00.
Same rate for any number over ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cts. a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication write—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write—BUSINESS.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS.
PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate for any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada, subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 773. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 10, 1870. VOL. XXXI.—NO. 21.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
160 HANOVER ST., BOSTON, MASS. } CORNER OF SALEM STREET. (☞ Entrance No. 7 Salem St.)

MILES GRANT, EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
D. MATHEWSON, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, H. H. DICKENSON.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

THE SAVIOR'S ADVENT.

Come from the prairies, vales and hills,
Come, listen to the blissful story,
Which every christian bosom thrills,
With music from the plains of glory.
How He who once for us was slain,
(But rose o'er death and hell victorious),
Is coming back to earth again,
To reign forevermore victorious.
He's coming, yes, he's coming.

'Tis coming o'er the hills of time,
And shadowy hopes are growing brighter;
"We may not see it dawn sublime,"
But yet our hearts are throbbing lighter.
We may be sleeping in the ground
When it awakes the world in wonder;
But we have felt it gathering round,
And heard its voice in living thunder—
'Tis coming, yes, 'tis coming.

Kings, empires, nations, rot with age,
But God's eternal truth is youthful;
It speaks on time's historic page
In words of burning fire, most truthful;
Foretold events, long, long since past,
And tells us others yet fulfilling;
It speaks of scenes so grand, so vast,
Our hearts with rapturous joy are thrilling.
'Tis coming, yes, 'tis coming.

O who would wish earth's highest trust,
With all its glittering pomp and power?
How soon it vanishes to dust;
Its dazzling flame fades in an hour.
Its crowns and honors who would wear?
They burst like bubbles on the river;
They float like snow-flakes in the air,
To ocean fall and melt forever.
'Tis coming, yes, 'tis coming.

High o'er the hills of glory bright,
The glittering star of morn is beaming;
Swift, swiftly fly the shades of night,
And brighter still the light is streaming.
Soft, softly heavenly music steals
From angel choirs in glory singing;
Loud, louder yet the chorus peals,
Till mountain, hill and vale is ringing.
'Tis coming, yes, 'tis coming.

Methinks I see the coming day,
And feel the trembling earth now shaking;
I hear the archangel's trumpet say
"Arise, ye dead!" I see them waking.
O glorious day! dear saints, rejoice,
For o'er us waves Jehovah's banner;
We're with the people of his choice,
And soon we'll shout with them, Hosannah!
'Tis coming, yes, 'tis coming.

Aye, it must come, each earthly throne
"Is crumbling, with our hot tears rusted,"
The sword that warrior kings lean on,
"Is cankered, with our hearts' blood crusted."
Halt! men of might, and men of fray;
Your race is run, your rule's most ended;
The King of glory comes this way,
With thousand, thousand hosts attended.
He's coming, yes, he's coming.

J. N. BERRY.

For the World's Crisis.

THE CELESTIAL ARMY.

"And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God."—Luke 13: 29.

The gospel dispensation is a dispensation of grace. Its design is our salvation. It shall have a glorious consummation, as will be proved in the day of judgment and in the age of glorious immortality. An eternity of repose, pure association, and unutterable delight.

"They shall come from the east." They who are rejecting the offers of mercy, which if accepted would bring them at last to join the marshaled army of God, will then see that they have acted a foolish part; and the consequences of which they will be anxious to avert; but, alas, it will be in vain.

"The kingdom of God." The phrase—"kingdom of God" and "kingdom of heaven" are synonymous terms, meaning the same thing, though sometimes applied to parts of the kingdom, as in Luke 17: 20-21: "And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them and said, The kingdom of God cometh not with observation; neither shall they say, Lo here! or, Lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within [margin, among] you." Here Christ refers to himself, who is the King. It is also sometimes applied to the subjects of the kingdom, as in Matt. 25: 1: "Then shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins, which took their lamps, and went forth to meet the bridegroom." But in the text, it will be seen that all its parts are included—the territory, subjects, king, capital, and government. This is described in Dan. 7: 27: "And the kingdom, and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey him." Also Rev. 11: 15: "And the seventh angel sounded, and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign forever and ever." This is all to be witnessed beyond the grave,—not in a spiritual sense, but it will be a glorious reality.

It is the kingdom prepared from the foundation of the world. Matt. 25: 34. Also Micah 4: 8: "And thou, O tower of the flock, the strong hold of the daughter of Zion, unto thee shall it come, even the first dominion; the kingdom shall come to the daughter of Jerusalem." And his infinite love to his people has caused him to assign this kingdom for their eternal abode. This is evident from the declaration of Christ, in Luke 12: 32: "Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." And so it is that God will exalt humanity to sit with him on his throne, and dwell in the presence of Deity, in his kingdom and glory, which shall fill the whole earth. He has prepared it for us, and us for it. It is a kingdom of rapturous delight. A vast domain, extending its broad plains and fruitful gardens from the rivers to the ends of the earth. It contains ample room for all God's family. It is a kingdom of purity. Order and love prevail. A kingdom of infinite beauty and bliss; of durable life and immortality.

The scene of the gathering. This kingdom shall be vastly populated. They shall not only come from the east, but the four quarters of the globe shall contribute to swell the population of the celestial realm. Although in Scripture they are called the "little flock," and indeed it is true that they are small in numbers now; yet when the gathering angels shall receive the command to gather the elect, with what a rapturous sound shall the last loud trump of God be heard, when from the dark caverns of earth shall awake the sleeping millions, who are sleeping in the land of the enemy.

The seer of Patmos, in prophetic vision, saw rise before him the countless forms of men, women and children, from earth and sea. There shall be representatives from every nation, and when gathered, there shall be no man found that can tell their number. Hear the language of the beloved disciple, when he saw the seal of immortality stamped on the victors' brows. Rev. 7: 9-10,—"After this, I beheld, and lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; and cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God, which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb."

"They shall come." Once they were far off, as far as sin could make them. They were aliens, outcasts, enemies by wicked works, children of wrath. Christ has reconciled them by his death on the cross. His word has shed light in their path, and that light is shining more and more, and will until the perfect day. The Spirit has led them into all truth, and showed them things to come; and "as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God."

They shall come and see their promised rest. The language, "they shall come," is expressive of great certainty. The gospel has been successful in their salvation. Were they attracted by earthly pleasure? God has attracted them by heavenly pleasures, and they shall come to enjoy them. Some have been infidels, and haters of christianity; the enmity of their hearts has been slain by the Spirit of God, and they shall come. Satan says they shall not come, and tempts and tries to hinder them from coming; but God says they shall come, for his grace is sufficient. God has made them in love with that which they once hated, and they will not be contented without it.

Numerous indeed will be the white-robed company; for it is said of them, "Many shall come from the east, and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven."—Matt. 8: 11. Men of selfish views, bigots, extreme sectarians, speak and act as though the inhabitants would be few; but it is said in Scripture, "For it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the Captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings."—Heb. 2: 10. "Fear not, for I am with thee. I will bring thy seed from the east, and gather thee from the west. I will say to the north, Give up; and to the south, Keep not back; bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth."—Isa. 43: 5-6. Christ has bid men to come, that his house may be full. In this house are many mansions; and Christ has gone to prepare a place for his people, and he will not prepare it in vain. Glory to God. From hill-top and mountain they shall come.

This kingdom was not prepared only for such as are called "Methodists," "Baptists," "Episcopalians," "Presbyterians," or "Adventists"; but for Christians; and these christians shall come from the east and west. Yes, thank God, from Palestine they shall come, Israelites indeed. From Ethiopia shall come her swarthy sons and daughters, and sit down. Many from the land of China, from the vast countries of Asia, from the continent of Europe, from Australia, from the northern parts of America, and the wilds of Russia, Siberia, and the Polar seas; from the islands of the ocean, and every country under the sun; and they shall sit down.

The association will be agreeable. National distinctions will not be known. Riches and poverty will not exist there as the barriers to association. They are all rich, having been redeemed by the precious blood of Christ; and will equally share in the great blessings provided for their enjoyment. The high and low, rich and poor, monarchs and peasants, princes and beggars, masters and servants, the learned and ignorant; all, all will sit down in sweet communion there. And that which will render their intercourse sweeter still is their mutual recognitions. They shall know each other there. "For now we see through a glass darkly; but then face to face. Now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known." The apostle John describes this glorious recognition, when he says: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, but it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is." 1 John 3: 2. How inspiring the thought. Thank God for such a hope.

They "shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob." These patriarchs will be known. The prophets will be known. The apostles and martyrs will be known. Christ will be known as the King of kings, and Lord of lords. Husbands and wives, parents and children, brothers and sisters; all, all shall meet in happy communion, and know each other there. Glory to God, how thrilling the thought!

"O the prospect it is so transporting,
Savior, hasten thy coming, we pray;
We sigh for the land thou hast promised,
And the dawn of the bright, endless day."

To this event we look for the glorious manifestation of the sons of God. Soon unto Zion shall it be said, Thy warfare is ended, and thy rest hath come.

"There remaineth a rest for the people of God." To sit down is to rest; and this rest they will enjoy. They shall come and rest; rest with patriarchs, prophets, apostles, and Christ who has redeemed them and brought them to this place of rest at last.

How seldom has the poor christian sat down to rest in this world, without feeling the aches and pains to which mortals are subject compassing him about. What storms of sorrow have assailed him. The turbid waters of affliction for many years have rolled over him, and he has felt that he should sink; but he has found that one arm, that is mighty to save, has rescued him from many a wreck, and will bring him home at last to rest, beyond these toils. Cares and anxieties, persecutions, mental agony, and physical distresses, and death, are the cause of incessant toil and fear. O there is a home for the blest, where all shall be gathered to rest, and be at peace. Rest seems sweet to the laboring man, when he returns home from his labor, to sit down in his chair, or to throw himself upon his couch; but his reposing moments are disturbed with grief and pain, and he experiences restless nights and wakeful hours, which wear upon his mortal frame; and how oft, if a christian, he sighs for that undisturbed repose.

Weary pilgrim, soon will thy Redeemer say to these dreadful tempests, Peace, be still; and every cloud will vanish, and every storm subside, and then, poor mariner, thou shalt forever rest, and dwell at God's right hand, where there are pleasures forevermore.

"Beside the living stream that flows,
The weary heart shall find repose."

Yes, ye afflicted ones, soon shall you sit down and be at rest. Look up, for thus has your Savior commanded; and rejoice, for your redemption draweth nigh. The sweet notes of music, and the voice of his coming, we have heard. The heavings of creation, and the raging of the sea, the fearful sights and wonders of heaven, declare the coming of the Just One.

And they shall sit down in triumph. Having overcome every foe, and received the victor's immortal crown, how sweet it will be to sit down and feel that every enemy, even death itself, is vanquished. Their conversation will be sweet. What a sublime thought is this: they shall converse with Jehovah, and his Son Jesus Christ. Angels will mingle their voices in sweet communion with saints. Those from whom we have long been separated will blend their voices with ours again; not to talk of some expected sorrow, or rehearse the events of the past, which make our hearts faint within us; but to converse about the unfading joys of our new creation. When describing our future home, John says, "And I heard a great voice out of heaven, saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying; neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed away." Even so let it be, is the prayer of thy unworthy servant, O Lord; and let this day dawn quickly, for at times thine absence is a weight upon my breast.

Should this epistle be read by any who are unreconciled to God, let me say to you, that if you are found so when the gathering day shall come, you will suffer less, even life itself. O be attracted by those joys that are unfading, which are provided in the gospel. Come, and share the eternal glory which Christ has prepared. Soon, very soon, the chariots of God will come to gather the waiting ones to their final home; and if you are not ready, the glittering hosts will pass you by, and leave you forever behind, to mourn that you were not gathered with them, whom perhaps you have once despised. A chariot comes for you, but it is the chariot of fire, hurried on by the blast of Jehovah, as he stretches out his rod of fury, with which he will smite the nations, and dash them to pieces like a potter's vessel. Gazing at him who sits on the throne, you will cry, but to no avail, for the rocks and mountains to fall on you; but they will seem to scorn your plea, and the stern Judge "will laugh at your calamity," and "mock when your fear cometh." O wretched man that I am! Lost, lost at last, to go down to eternal death, will be your last faint, sad wail, when you shall see earth wrapt in an awful flame, and it comes to lick you up for its fuel. O God, save the purchase of thy blood, and let me hide in thee in that dreadful day, is the prayer of my heart. Amen.

ALLEN DAMON.

THINK.—Do you own thinking. Yes, that is the idea. Think for yourself. It is well to listen to the expressed thoughts of others, and it is an agreeable pastime to give expression to your thoughts. But when alone weigh what you have heard, and traverse what you have said. It is well to do this, for it will assist in curing you of false notions, and of eradicating unprofitable and vicious ideas, and in time make you better men and women. Do your own thinking.

For the World's Crisis.

A CHANGE COMING.

There is a change coming of which very few think. It is a change of a most important nature. It is a change that will be at the coming of Christ to judgment. What are the dear things now? Gold, silver, bank notes, mines, ships, lands, horses, oxen, carriages, furniture. These are the things that are thought valuable. These are the things which you can never get below a certain price. Such is the world.

What are the cheap things now? The knowledge of God, the free salvation of the gospel, the favor of Christ, the grace of the Holy Ghost, the privilege of being God's sons, the title to eternal life, the right to the tree of life, the offer of a crown of glory that fadeth not away,—these are things that a man hardly cares for. They are offered to the sons of men without money and without price. They may be had for nothing. Whosoever will may take his portion. But, alas! they are offered in vain. Such is the world. But a day is coming upon us all when the value of everything shall be changed. A day is coming when bank notes shall be as useless as rags, and gold as worthless as the dust of the earth. That day is the day of Christ's coming to judge the world. The halls and palaces will be forgotten in the desire of a house not made with hands. The rich will be no more remembered. The silks and satins, velvets and laces, will be lost sight of in the anxious want of the robe of Christ's righteousness. All shall be changed, in the great day of the Lord. Many will seek to enter in and shall not be able.

Reader, you think we ask too much, when we urge you to come out from the world, and take up the cross and follow Christ. But take notice, you will one day confess that we were right; sooner or later, in this world or the next, that you were wrong. Yes, it is a solemn thought for the faithful minister of the gospel, that all who hear his voice will one day admit that his counsel was good. Mocked, despised, scorned, neglected, as his testimony may be on earth; a day is coming which shall prove that truth was on his side. The rich man who hears, and yet makes a god of this world; the tradesman, and yet makes his ledger his Bible; the farmer, and yet remains cold as the clay of his land; the laborer, who hears and yet feels no more for his soul than a stone,—all, all will at length acknowledge before the world, that they were wrong. Such will at length desire earnestly that very mercy which we now set before them in vain. They will seek to enter in, and shall not be able. Reader, if you are one of those who love the Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity, you may well take comfort when you look forward. You often suffer persecution now for your religion's sake—you have to bear hard words and unkind insinuations, but you may well take courage when you look forward, and think of the coming of the Lord. That day shall make amends for all. You will see those who now laugh at you because you read the Bible, and pray, and love Christ, in a very different state of mind. They will say as did the foolish virgins to the wise, "Give us of your oil; for our lamps are gone out." They will say, O that we had taken part with you. You have been the truly wise, and we the foolish.

Then fear not the reproach of men. Confess Christ boldly before the world. Show to the world that you are not ashamed of your Master. Time is short; eternity hastens on. The cross is only for a little season; the crown is forever. Make sure work about that crown, leaving nothing uncertain. Many shall seek to enter in, and shall not be able. Dear sinner, there is a great change coming. Take heed that you are ready for it.

Great Falls, N. H. H. C. BEAN.

For the World's Crisis.

CLASSES.

God places us mortals in either of two classes—with the righteous or with sinners. There is no middle ground, nor yet can we always tell where the dividing line falls; for often we would place those with the righteous, whom God would rank with sinners; and perhaps we would judge those sinners whom God would class with his elect. But God who is never mistaken, he who sees down deep into the heart of man, knows where you are. We are either in the straight and narrow way that leads to eternal life, and a crown of glory; or we are on the broad and beaten track, that leads down to eternal death. There are no other paths. Then does it not behoove us, as accountable beings, as free mortal agents, to stop and allow ourselves time to think what path we are in? Are we living for this world alone? If so, now is the time to turn our back on the path we are pursuing, and follow Christ, and through him and him alone, we can enter the narrow way.

Jesus said, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep." Do you wish to be counted with the sheep that shall enter therein? If so, forsake your sins penitently, and the door will be open unto you. Do not defer. You may die, or Christ may come, and find you still rejecting his merciful offers; it will then be too late, the door will be shut. Awful thought! shut out from the presence of God, from all hope; then there will be no remedy. You will be lost and destroyed with the devil and his agents. Then Christ's mission will have run its course; he will cease to plead with and for you. There will be no more pardon, no more raising up of the cross. "Then shall they call upon me, but I will not answer; they shall seek me early, but they shall not find me." Will you not have your lamps filled with the oil of righteousness? Then your name will be registered in the Lamb's book of life, and you will be a joint heir with Christ. What a blissful thought! what a glorious hope! and what a reward awaits those who diligently serve him. Though we do not deserve such graciousness, it is procured for us by our great friend and Savior Jesus. God help those of us who have entered the door to be more faithful, for what is here required of us is nothing in comparison to the reward that awaits us at his coming. Let us so live that we may not become stumbling blocks in the way of sinners, but may we be consistent, and by our lives and words strive to lead others to place their hopes on him we acknowledge as our Redeemer.

CYRUS WENDENHALL.

Wilmington, Del.

For the World's Crisis.

"WHICH DROWN MEN IN DESTRUCTION AND PERDITION."

1 Tim. 6: 9.

Here we have a certain class of people described, who are said to fall into temptation and snares, and foolish and hurtful lusts, which things drown men in destruction and perdition.

The phrase "destruction and perdition," describes the final state of the wicked. But this question arises: Is this "destruction and perdition" of the wicked endless life in misery; or is it their final end in death? One fact in the case before us is evident; viz.; that destrtation and perdition are agents by which a certain end is to be accomplished, which is drowning,—"Which drown men in destruction and perdition." Can any one believe that men drowned in destruction and perdition are still alive, and continue to live for ever? Drowning is an unfinished act; but drowned is an end accomplished.

In Exodus we read: "His chosen captains are drowned in the Red Sea."—Ex. 15: 4. Here we have the word drowned, and I suppose there is no trouble in coming at the meaning, because it is a clear case that here was a destruction of life by the act of drowning.

Then the end of being drowned in the sea is death; and then we may conclude that the end of being drowned in destruction and perdition is also death, and not endless life in misery. Then as long as it cannot be made to appear that the Egyptian host, with Pharaoh's chief captains, were alive after they were drowned in the Red Sea, it is useless to say that the wicked will still be alive after they are drowned "in destruction and perdition."

The doctrine of endless life in misery would gain a great advantage by dismissing the passage (Acts 5: 29) from the Bible, or have it changed so that it would read, "We ought to obey men rather than God, instead of—"We ought to obey God rather than men."

Wellersburg, Pa. B. KNEPPER.

For the World's Crisis.

THE DISCUSSION WITH NOBLE PALMER.—No. 14.

THE SOUL'S EXISTENCE UNCEASING ONLY THROUGH CHRIST.

We have promised to develop at a suitable time some of the pernicious issues of this most fruitful error of natural immortality in man. Of all systems constructed upon this dogma, and reposing on it as an exclusive foundation, Spirtualism is certainly most conspicuous. The immortality of the soul is its specific basis. Let all men take notice of this incontrovertible fact. Here is a shoot straight from the root. Here is the development, pure and simple, from the original enunciation of the serpent. Let the reader mark and remember it well. And this system, we say, is as exactly antagonistic to Christianity, as black is contrary to white, darkness to light, and death to life. It is the full, natural, and mature product of an original, ancient, and fruitful falsehood.

Pernicious issues have been interwoven in the structure of other systems, corrupting the theology and faith of millions (we do not say, by any means, always fatally,) proceeding from this evil seed of error; but Spiritualism is the final and finished emanation, the thoroughly Satanic and anti-christian fruit. It denies the power of the death and blood of Jesus. It denies human depravity. It deifies man. It licenses licentiousness. It refuses the word of God. It rejects the fact of any actual death, amid all the anguish of dying, and despite all the gloom of the sepulchre. It affirms that man is immortal and never can die. And hence it builds absolutely its whole towering structure of false conclusions and deceitful fancies on the presumption that all souls of all the dead of all ages are now alive. Its communications, real or pretended, are confidently proclaimed to be with these deathless conscious essences or entities.

We understand clearly from the word of God that all this intercourse is with demons, confederate with Beelzebub, the demon chief, and that in not a single instance, no, not one, did, does, or can a living man correspond with the souls of the dead, for the very reason that all the inmates of all the sepulchres of all nations, ages, and places, are really dead, dead in doctrine and in fact, dead in every faculty and function of body and mind, wholly unintelligent and unconscious.

Now we say it is is a matter of some consequence to know how this is. The issues on this question are tremendous. It goes straight to the very welfare of millions of living beings on earth—this question whether a man is alive when he is dead. The determination of that question, more than any other, settles the character of this intercourse with unseen intelligences. Let it be once understood beyond mistake or contradiction that the conversation carried on is in every case with fallen powers and presences, with demons and devils, the malignant foes of God and man, and we think some who are ready to take the plunge into this vortex would recoil with horror from the verge.

If all the dead are unconscious, then there is no alternative; the "spirits" that "peep and mutter" from all this realm of mystery, are deceitful, viscious and diabolic. They are the worst possible counsellors. They are the most dangerous advisers. They are the vilest intelligences, blackened, blasted, and abandoned of heaven. Who that is instructed rightly from the word of God in regard to the real nature of the human soul, would be likely to be caught in this miserable device, this pernicious delusion? But so long as the immortality of the soul is advocated, and adopted and believed, so long as the dead are maintained to be alive and not dead, then men may fight Spiritualism with all the arguments they can muster, and in every case they fight with a broken sword. The right arm of their strength is disabled or weakened. And thousands of unsuspecting and innocent persons, in spite of every effort, will be led to undertake communications with those they once idolized or ardently loved. They will seek a balm for their bitter anguish through this utterly deceptive expedient of Spiritualism not knowing that the words of solace and alleviation which they receive emanate from spirits black as midnight, the very minions of Satan, their baleful and fallen chief. I tell you, people of Nunda, and of Livingston, it is worth while to be well armed against this deadly foe of the gospel of Jesus Christ. The gospel of peace, the girdle of truth, and the sword of the Spirit, are invaluable for armor in this conflict. Nor is it wise to wait until the wily foe has enthroned its idol-god, or become incarnate through its ruling and representative head, as antichrist.

We cite testimony from the mouth of Spiritualism itself. A spirit says,—"the first, the greatest, and the grandest truth, coming through modern Spiritualism, is the immortality of the soul." Here is a certificate of one of the demon host. Does it strengthen the credibility of the tenet of an inextinguishable essence in man? We quote from the "Grabula," by Andrew Jackson Davis: "The Banner of Light was my father's favorite paper. This was ever unflinchly devoted to the demonstration of the central idea of individual immortality."

From an advertisement in the same paper by Payton Spence, M. D., we proceed: "The Catholic Bishops say that there are eleven millions of Spiritualists in the United States. I believe it, and at the same time I believe a a fact which is of more importance than that. I believe in the great fact which made these eleven millions of Spiritualists, and which will yet sweep the whole earth, and make eleven hundred millions more." And that great fact we understand to be the ruinous falsehood of inherent immortality in man. How does the dogma appear as enunciated by such champions as this Professor?

In a communication of Nov. 23d, 1867, we find the following: "If I am superior to material change, I am an immortal future, I am an immortal past. If I am one, I am both. A future immortality only is not immortal, for what begins must end. As I live in the living present, essentially the same through all changes, I am past and I am future, without beginning or ending of days."

Here is the self-magnifying of microscopic man, through the doubly audacious assumption of inherent indestructibleness, and an eternally past duration. We may discover from the following quotation of how much value is the doctrine of intermediate consciousness, as an argument against Spiritualism, or rather how such a hypothesis really concedes an altogether unmerited advantage to the Spiritualist, since from its very inconsistency it is used by him as a weapon of attack against the great and vital truths of christianity. It is taken from the address of Isaac Rehn of Philadelphia, at the fourth National Convention of Spiritualists at Cleveland, O., Sept. 1867.

"If the spirits of those whom on earth we knew and loved, have the ability to return to us and identify themselves, it must be obvious to all that the dogma of an intermediate state of the dead, in which they who have departed shall await the resurrection morn, when Gabriel shall sound his trumpet to awake the sleeping nations, must be a mistake; for what will be the use of an attempt to awaken those who are not asleep? If the resurrection dogma, as taught to us, is thus shown to be a mistake, by the fact that those who were to be the subjects of it have never died, and therefore need no resurrection, the object of that resurrection, namely, the general judgment, must share the same fate as the former dogma. It must be apparent to all that the four fundamental dogmas of orthodox theology, cannot possibly be true, but that the very reverse of them is true, or in brief, there is no intermediate state of the dead, no general judgment, no vicarious punishment, and no everlasting damnation, but there is a continuous life, a progressive state, and an ever unfolding happiness."

Thus we see the enemies of Jesus use the tenet of the intermediate state as an argument against the necessity of a resurrection, and use it with effect. It is the dead, and not the living, who essentially need a resurrection. But from the word of God we learn that the christian's only hope (aside from a translation before death) is the resurrection of the dead.

Says the editor of the Banner of Light: "Is there anything especially honorable in the epithet [christian]? That there are good men calling themselves christians we admit, so are there equally good men called and calling themselves infidels. If any feel they must have some honorable qualifying phrase, permit us kindly to suggest Pythagoric Spiritualism, Socratic, Platonian, Jesusonian Spiritualism, anything, but Christian Spiritualism." It is well known that Plato was a chief and early champion of Immortality in man.

We add another quotation, showing the Satanic deformity, audacity and wickedness of this antichristian evolution of the last days. We quote from a report of M. B. Dyott on the organization of a secret society at the above national convention: "What matters it to us what St. John said or did? How many Egyptions were slain? Whether Jonah swallowed the whale, or the whale swallowed Jonah? Whether it was one of the sons, or the old gentleman, that died to save sinners." (Horrible blasphemy!)

Here is a glimpse of the antichrist of Satan, and we need only add,—"beware of the wolf!"

CLINTON COLEGROVE.

For the World's Crisis.

"LIFE VIEWS."

I cannot promise to present anything essentially new at this time in opposition to the doctrine of the non-resurrection of the wicked dead, but will endeavor to recapitulate a few of the points previously presented. Upon this subject a brother writes "to my mind the Bible all through teaches that sin is positively to be punished." We read of a day of wrath, in which God will render to every man according to his deeds. To the one class will be given eternal life. To the other "indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguish, upon every soul of man that doeth evil." (See Rom. 2.) Is all this fulfilled upon the wicked in this life? "Upon the wicked he shall rain snares (margin—quick burning coals), fire, and brimstone, and an horrible tempest; this shall be the portion of their cup."

Evidently these threatenings are not visited upon the wicked in this life. The righteous and the wicked are equally exposed to the evils of the present state. If either class suffers more than the other, it is the righteous; for "if in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable." The wicked are the people who "prosper in the world," while the righteous are "persecuted, afflicted, tormented." Then if tribulation and anguish, and a horrible tempest, and all else that is threatened, is ever to come upon the wicked, it must be after this life; and therefore there must be a resurrection of the wicked. As the brother before quoted says, "If there be no resurrection of the wicked, I see no way in which they are punished, in any sense, in which the righteous are not equally involved." Neither in life nor in death do the righteous have any apparent advantage over the wicked. I quote again: "The righteous have as fully passed under the power of death, and see corruption, by the one great law of death that hath passed upon ALL MEN, as have the wicked. So far as natural death is concerned, they have perished alike. The distinction is yet to be made, when they come forth from the grave; the one to a resurrection of life, and the other to a resurrection of condemnation." We believe that the Scriptures teach that all that die in Adam will be made alive in Christ. We further believe that neither the righteous nor the wicked receive their reward until the last day.

I would gladly leave this subject here, and thankfully receive permission of the Lord to refer to it no more. What I have said has been said from a deep conviction of duty. I have no personal antipathy against any one who holds to the non-resurrection view, but quite the opposite toward each and every one of them with whom I have any sort of acquaintance. Some of them have been numbered among my warmest friends, and my feelings are not changed toward them, whatever may be the state of their feelings toward me. If I have spoken earnestly against the doctrine, it was because I regarded it as a dangerous error, and was willing to do all in my power to hinder its extension. I believe that Christ himself stated the fact of the resurrection of the wicked in very plain language in John 5: 28, 29. He here speaks of those that have done good, and of those that have done evil. Speaking of both classes he says, "Marvel not at this, for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation." I believe this to be a plain statement of a plain truth. It seems to me as clear and as plain and as unmistakable as language can make it. And I have never seen any Scripture statement that even seems to clash with, or militate against it. The "general tenor" of Scripture is in harmony with it. Daniel 12: 2, conveys to my mind the same idea. So does Isaiah 26: 19. Also 1 Cor. 15: 22. I will here quote the 12th and 13th verses of this chapter: "Now if Christ be preached that he rose from the dead, how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead? But if there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen." How can the resurrection here spoken of be limited to the saints? And Paul here says that unless the dead rise, then is Christ not raised, and we are found false witnesses.

The testimony of Paul agrees with the other passages referred to, and to the "general tenor" of the Scriptures. To offset this Scripture testimony, I have before me the positive assertion of one who is called a believer in the "life views," to the effect that "there is no future life for any being, that dies without Christ the Life-Giver." I do not find such language in the Bible. The "general tenor" and plain language of Scripture expressly declares "that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust."

Webster, Mass. F. H. CHAMBERLAND.

☞ A gentleman who had amassed a competence, was recently asked by a friend the secret of his success. "I have accumulated," he said, "one half of my property by strictly attending to my own business, and the remainder by letting other people's alone."

—Trust in God but do not stumble yourself.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Aug. 10, 1870.

Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

Money Orders.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us your NAME and POST OFFICE ADDRESS. AG'T.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

MARY HORTON—Money received.

MRS. R. S. KENDALL sends us $2.00 for the Crisis, but does not give her P. O. address.

I. C. WELLCOME—Shall want some "Christian Baptism."

JAMES N. MOORES—Received.

D. MATHEWSON'S P. O. address, as Treasurer of the A. C. C. of N. A., will be for the present, Union Mills, Laporte County, Ind.

L. F. COLE'S address is Yarmouth, Me.

C. P. DOW'S address is Derby Line, Vt.

MURDOCK'S TESTAMENT—We can now furnish Murdock's Translation of the Testament from the Syriac, for $2.50.

"DEBT & GRACE"—We have a few copies of "Debt & Grace" in good condition, which we have gathered, and will send it for $1.50. Some have been very anxious to get it.

BILLS! BILLS!!

There are many of our subscribers who are largely in arrears in their payments for the Crisis. To such we are now sending bills of their indebtedness. We hope to have a prompt response by the brethren and sisters sending in the amount due without delay.

AG'T.

EXPLANATION.

Sometimes persons write to us that they ordered their paper discontinued when the subscription expired, but it was not, and they think we want to force the Crisis upon them, and then force them to pay. We wish to force none. Post-masters, in returning papers to be discontinued, often send them with no post-office or State marked upon them, and we cannot look our large list all over to hunt up the name; and then there may be several of the same name on our list.

When any one orders a post-master to return a paper, always see that he puts on the post-office and State.

TREMONT CAMPMEETING.

FARE REDUCED.

Tickets for this meeting, good Aug. 8th to 16th, may be had of GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover street. Fare $1.90 for the round trip. Cars leave the Old Colony Depot at 8 A. M., and 4 P. M.

THE NATIONAL CAMPMEETING.

The time of our great meeting is near at hand. The prospect for a blessed one is very encouraging. It is a rare privilege to meet so many dear saints as annually gather at Springfield, and Alton Bay. In view of the signs of the times, as they now appear, there is much need that we come together and exhort one another as we see the day of the Lord approaching. These are days of thrilling interest to the inhabitants of this planet. The evidence in favor of the speedy coming of Christ never looked more certain than at the present time. Let us meet once more and cheer each other's hearts with good words, prayers and songs, and do all in our power to persuade the careless to get ready for the coming of the Son of man. Let there be a general rally from far and near, of old and young, to this great feast of tabernacles. On account of the rich benefits arising from religious association, the Lord required his ancient people to meet three times in the year at Jerusalem for devotional exercises. Such gatherings accomplish more good than many suppose. They give much strength to the weary pilgrims, who have felt almost discouraged with the toils and perils of their journey.

Well, dear children of the Most High, come up to the camp of the saints once more, and let us worship the God of our fathers.

CERTIFCATES FOR DELEGATES.

It is necessary that the delegates from the churches* to the annual meeting of the Advent Christian Association, to be held at the National Campmeeting, in Springfield, should bring certificates showing that they were duly appointed. The following form will answer:

This is to certify that ——— was duly appointed by the church in ——— as a delegate to the annual meeting of the A. C. A., to be held on the National Campground, in Springfield, Mass., Aug. 23d, 1870.

[To be signed by the Elders, Clerk, or deacons of the church, or Chairman of the meeting called to appoint the delegates.]

This matter of choosing delegates should be attended to at once, in order that those appointed may have time to make suitable arrangements to be present. Every church can send one delegate, and an additional one for every fifty members over the first twenty-five. Let every church be fully represented.

* A church is understood to be any number of christians who meet together for the worship of the Lord.

MECHANIC FALLS CAMPMEETING.—When at Mechanic Falls, Me., we made a visit to the new camp-ground, about three-fourths of a mile from the depot. It is a pleasant place, on the bank of a river. We think the ground is well chosen, and can see no reason why the meeting will not be one of special interest. It is to commence the 12th of Sept.

PITTSFIELD CAMPMEETINGS.—We are requested to say that the two campmeetings advertised to be in Pittsfield, Me., are withdrawn, and one will be held at Carmel, Me., commencing Aug. 29th. See notice.

FAST AND PRAY.

In view of the perils of these last days, and of our nearness to the judgment, and the importance of our great National Campmeeting, to commence at Springfield Aug. 20th, we would propose to all who are interested in that meeting, and the one to commence at Alton Bay Sept. 4th, as well as other meetings, and in the cause of Christ far and near; that Friday, Aug. 19th, be observed as a day of fasting and special prayer, that these meetings may be the best we ever enjoyed, and be the means of leading many to get ready for the coming of Christ.

DISCUSSION AT MECHANIC FALLS.

Our late discussion at Mechanic Falls was one of special interest and profit. The following are some of Dr. Houghton's statements: "Spiritualism is the old religion revived." "All church members, who oppose Spiritualism, oppose their best friend, and must give up the immortality of the soul." "Speaking lies in hypocrisy (1 Tim. 4: 1-2) applies to Adventists." "It is the accursed system of Adventism that teaches there is a Devil." "Adventists are the ones who have departed from the faith." The Dr. professed much love for the Bible, but finally said: "I would move a pile of Bibles as high as the steeples on the churches, if they were opposed to Spiritualism and the doctrine of the immortality of the soul."

When pressed to tell what is meant by the word "devil" in the following passage: "Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness, to be tempted of the devil;" he said it was "circumstances."

He claimed that the spirits of our friends are "immaterial beings." We replied that "nothing immaterial can exist independent of a material form." For instance, pain, sorrow, desire, thought, heat, sound, love, hatred, attraction, animal magnetism, are immaterial, and never exist as personalities, independent of material forms. In other words, there can be no pain, unless there is a material form to feel it; no animal magnetism, without material animals; no thought without a material form to produce it; no attraction without material bodies; hence his immaterial beings are nonentities, and have no existence but in imagination.

Again it is unreasonable to suppose that man can communicate after he is dead. All of his five senses are parts of his physical organism, which dies and goes into the grave.

A man can do nothing, and knows nothing without the active exercise of some of his five senses.

Hence man in death can do nothing and knows nothing.

The Dr. did not meddle with these statements; but kept on asserting that man has an immortal soul. When pressed for one passage of Scripture that contains the words soul or spirit, with qualifying word to signify their endless duration, he was obliged to admit that none such were in the Bible.

We showed from history that the doctrine of the immortality of the soul is of heathen origin, and began to be believed by the Egyptians about two thousand five hundred years from creation; and that it has no foundation in the Bible. The Dr. claimed that his strongest evidence was from the phenomena of Spiritualism, and the teachings of the spirits. We then showed that his witnesses were liars, according to the Scriptures, and their own contradictory testimony; and that they deny every cardinal doctrine of Christ and the apostles. The Dr. continued to assert and deny, but the proof was lacking. The lovers of Jesus rejoiced in the results of the discussion.

Sabbath, July 31st, we had an interesting meeting in the hall where we held the debate. Brn. J. A. Libby and J. Whitman were present to assist. They are true men, who exert a healthy influence wherever they are called to labor. They are prudent men, full of good common sense. We spent happy hours in their society.

"DISTRESS OF NATIONS."

One of the closing signs to show that we are near the end of the present dispensation will be "distress of nations." When Jesus was asked to give signs of his second coming, he named this as one of the last. There are strong reasons for expecting soon the full tide of distress. Already the people in Europe begin to feel its approach. A Berlin correspondent, when speaking of the state of things in Germany, says:—

"Business is now nearly suspended. Young men from all branches of trade and industry are drafted out and are allowed to depart without regret on the part of their employers, on account of general stagnation. Banks are fast raising their rates of discount—the Bank of Prussia, for instance, to-day increased as much as two per cent; stock exchanges rushing from panic to panic in one day, quotations falling as much as ten per cent; bills of exchange totally unnegotiable, and specie beginning to command a premium."

"PREPARE WAR."

Every nation in Europe is preparing for war. It reminds us of Joel's prophecy, where he says:—

"Proclaim ye this among the Gentiles. Prepare war, wake up the mighty men; let all the men of war draw near; let them come up. Beat your plow-shares into swords, and and your pruning hooks [margin, scythes] into spears; let the weak say, I am strong. . . . Put ye in the sickle; for the harvest is ripe; come get you down; for the press is full, the fats overflow; for their wickedness is great. Multitudes in the valley of decision; for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of decision." Joel 3: 9-14.

The following shows that the American government is making its share of preparations:—

"Our navy is to be placed on a war footing immediately. Orders have gone forward from the Navy Department to the Commandants of the Portsmouth, Boston, Brooklyn and Philadelphia Navy Yarns to hasten with all possible speed the repairs and completion of every vessel that can be placed in commission. Additional laborers are being engaged at all the yards."

THE FENIANS.

The Fenians are specially awake at present, and preparing for active measures at no distant day. They seem to think the time is near at hand for them to make a strong demonstration. The different factions are coming together to unite their forces against the English government. They are in hearty sympathy with Napoleon.

When speaking of the Fenians, a correspondent of the Boston (Catholic) Pilot, of Aug. 6th, says:—

"This class of Irishmen are over head and ears in the war excitement, and no wonder, either. They have been patiently waiting and working for an opportunity, and their patience and their work seem on the verge of a reward. I can tell you, sir, that at the present moment there is very little sign of disagreement among Irishmen in America. I speak as one who knows, and I can assure you and your thousands of readers that there is a terrible unanimity among the Fenians in New York at the present juncture of affairs. O'Neill party, Senate party, and Savage party are shaking hands and bidding each other 'good day.' Outsiders look on and wonder! I, for one, do not wonder, and, excuse me, I don't think you will wonder, either. There are breakers a-head for England, and the boys are laughing in chorus together. They shrug their shoulders, and are heard to exclaim, 'All right.' Can you tell me what that means? I don't know. All that I know is, this business looks somewhat suspicious. Speak of England's difficulty, and forthwith every Irishman you meet smiles in you face and passes on."

PLAYING FOR EMPIRES.—The great men have now commenced a big game of war, to see who shall win the controlling power of Europe and the rest of the world. It will be a terrible struggle. It is said, by those prepared to judge, that "the number of men engaged in the conflict will outnumber any forces that have met on European soil, and the loss of life must be fearful." Napoleon will do all in his power to win the game. No means will be spared that will help to produce success. Every thing is at stake, as he well knows. It is a game for empires.

THE EUROPEAN WAR.—The preparations for war are rapidly progressing among all the nations of Europe. If the war continues long, it will introduce a terrible state of things. At a dinner given by the Lord Mayor of London to Her Majesty's ministers, Saturday evening, July 30th, Mr. Gladstone remarked that the war now begun "is the most mournful and miserable ever witnessed by mankind."

FRENCH RECRUITS.—We learn that a French officer has opened a recruiting office in Montreal. P. Q., to secure soldiers for the French army. The recruits have their passage paid to Europe, where they are to receive a bounty. Most of the recruits thus far have been Irishmen. The officer appears to be well supplied with money, having opened a bank credit of $50,000.

CANCERS.—If any of our readers, or their friends, have cancers, we would recommend them to consult Bro. W. K. Everson. M. D., 218 West Madison St., Chicago, Ill. He has discovered a way of curing cancers without inflicting scarcely any pain. He understands his business.

HOME AGAIN.—We arrived home August 2nd, and found all going on nicely at the office. Our helpers are true and trusty, and worthy to fill the positions they occupy.

QUITE PRUDENT.—The following advice from John Mitchell to his Irish friends in America, shows much good sense:—

"Our plain policy is to do nothing, unless it be to accumulate money in the hands of local trustees (avoiding carefully New York headquarters)—to refrain from boasting, expressing rash sympathies which we might have to turn into antipathies before long; and, in short, to take no "action," and to hold our tongues."

THAT PROGRAMME.—Have you read that Programme "for the Festival," to be held at "Vanity Fair"? It is a graphic picture of the popular religious fairs of these last days. This Programme should be widely scattered. For sale at the Crisis office. Price single, 2 cts., postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1.30 per 100, postpaid.

PERSONAL.—We are happy to chronicle the return of Rev. Mr. Wendell, editor of the Bible Repository, to our church. At a late preacher's meeting in this city, he made a full retraction of his views on the mortality of the soul, and other views of the destructionists, and was cordially welcomed by the brethren. We hope the other of our brother editors who once was high in our church honor and love, Rev. George Storrs, will come and do likewise. Bro. Wendell is an able man, and a very acceptable preacher.—Zion's Herald.

With Elder Wendell we have but slight acquaintance except by his writings. He has been one of the most efficient advocates of the ultra materialistic view of no resurrection of the wicked. The tendency of the human mind is to extremes, and now, having renounced materialism, "he returns" to the M. E. Church to be "welcomed by the brethren" who generally in their preaching and publications (so far as we know anything about them) have more to say about death than the Lord's coming, about the world's conversion than the perilous times of the last days, and who crown the saints without a resurrection from the dead! Can he be at home with them?—Advent Herald.

For the World's Crisis.

THE BRETHREN WEST.

Those who have written me letters of urgent invitation, and have been expecting me to arrive on every eastern train for some time past, and are puzzled to know why I tarry; this is to inform you, and I do it reluctantly and with great sadness, that my visit west is indefinitely postponed. Circumstances at home, the health (or want of health) of some of my family, is a sufficient and only reason. This is to me a bitter disappointment, but as matters now stand, I must submit. May "Our Father who art in heaven" bless you all, and in his own good time bring us together, to meet in the better, the heavenly country, if never in this we meet. CHAS. P. DOW.

Stanbridge, P. Q., July 6th, 1870.

NEW PAMPHLET.

"The Mediatorial Kingdom, or the reign of Christ in the Gospel Dispensation": by Eld. Wm. N. Pile.

The above is the title of a new pamphlet of 96 pages. It is divided into thirteen sections, under the following captions, which suggest its contents: "Christ as a Prophet"—"Christ as a Priest"—"The Tabernacle of David"—"The Tabernacle of David identical with that of Christ"—"The Melchisedek priesthood a kingly order"—"The reign of Christ on Zion's hill"—"Extent of Christ's power during this reign"—"Christ has the title and prerogatives of God in this age"—"The Mediatorial reign of Christ"—"The relation of the church to Christ in this age"—"Exposition of Zech. iv"—"Christ delivers up the Mediatorial Kingdom to the Father at the end of this age"—"God all in all."

Price 25 cts. per copy; five for $1.00, postage included. For sale at this office. AG'T.

NEW TRACTS.

JUST PUBLISHED BY THE A. C. P. SOCIETY.

"CHRISTIAN UNION," by Eld. John Couch.

Being the subject of an address delivered before the Advent Christian Conference of North America—expanded and enlarged. 52 pages. An excellent tract for the times. Price 8 cts. single copy; by mail ten cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; by express, $5 per hundred.

"THE MYSTERY OF INIQUITY."

By Eld. S. S. Brewer.

A tract of 32 pages. Price by mail, single copy, 5 cts.; postage 2 cts.; 50 cts. per dozen; $3 per hundred. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY. By Elder James H. Whitmore. Published by the Western Advent Christian Association.

This little volume of 300 pages is a valuable contribution to the literature of the subject on which it treats, and is worthy of a wide circulation, not only among those who hold to the views advocated therein, but among others who have not given them due thought and investigation.

For sale at this office. Price, single copy, postpaid, $1.00. Six copies, by mail, $5.00; by express, $4.20. AG'T.

Sheldon's Four New Tracts.

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

1. "LIFE AND DEATH THEOLOGY: or, The Scriptural Doctrine of 'Eternal Damnation' and 'Everlasting Punishment.'" Price 8 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 75 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $5.00 per hundred by express.

This work of forty-eight pages is the clearest and strongest document yet produced by Bro. Sheldon on this topic. It is just the thing to scatter among all classes.

2. IMMATERIALISM: or, The Doctrine of Soul-Immortality Refuted." Price 5 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $3.00 per hundred by express.

A tract of thirty-two pages, showing that fifteen cardinal errors spring out of the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and that those errors could not exist independent of that doctrine, thus showing it to be the main root of error. Let it be scattered widely.

3. "DEATH AND THE DEAD," 16 pages. Price 3 cts. single, postage 2 cts.; 20 cts. per dozen, postpaid; $1.50 per hundred by express. Just the thing to scatter everywhere.

4. "THE COMING JUDGMENT: Its Necessity and Result," Eight pages. 10 cts. per dozen, postpaid, or 75 cts. per hundred by express.

It will do much good. A'GT.

NEW MUSIC.

Six pieces, entitled "Jesus is coming again," "I love thee still," "Hoist every sail," "Sweetly sleeping," "He is coming," and "Home." Sent postpaid for 20 cents. Single sheet 5 cents. For sale at this office, or by the author, Geo. E. Lee, Brimfield, Mass.

TWO NEW TRACTS.

BY I. C. WELLCOME, YARMOUTH, ME.

THE INQUIRER.—CATHOLIC OR PROTESTANT: WHICH?

This tract gives a sketch of the great Roman apostasy, and the dogmas which caused it; the arguments which the early faithful christians used in opposing it; also of original Protestantism, its noble declaration of Bible principles against Romanized Platonism on the immortality of the soul; the relapse of Protestantism to the Platonic dogma; their present driftings towards Romanism, Rationalism, Universalism, and Spiritism, growing out of their dogma of the soul's immortality. To this is added some interesting sketches of the revival and progress of truth in our times, and a statement of the true gospel hope. 48 pp. Price, single, 8 cts.; by mail, 10 cts.; three for 20 cts.; $5 per hundred, by express.

CHURCH SPECTACLES.

This tract raises the questions, "Why do so few attend preaching, prayer, and conference meetings? Why are so few thoroughly converted to Christ?"

It finds an answer in the lack of love for Christ in the church, as manifested in the sinful practices by her members of pleasure parties, levees, fairs, banquetings, games, gambling, dancing, and other immoral conduct, which destroy the confidence of the unconverted in the religion they see exhibited. Many proofs are given, and faithful scriptural reproofs administered. It is a terrible picture faithfully drawn, and the only remedy clearly pointed out.

24 pp. 5 cts. single; three for 10 cts.; 40 cts. per dozen; forty for $1; $2 per hundred, by mail.

LUNAR PHENOMENON.

"CURIOUS. We observed a curious phenomenon in connection with the moon last Friday evening. A few minutes after six o'clock, while the moon was just making its appearance in the east, the sky was clear and cloudless about the moon, when a very distinct and bright ray of light, of a light grayish colar or shade, appeared both below and above that luminary. The ray or streak of light was more distinct above than below the moon; and for a portion of the time, only that above was visible. The phenomenon lasted for some twenty or thirty minutes. We have looked through our exchanges for a scientific account, but have as yet seen no notice of it. It was a new and strange sight to us."—Dundee Expositor, Nov. 26, 1869.

WANTED.—Short, pungent tracts, by our leading divines, on true Christianity, and against popular infidelity, for general distribution. We must learn wisdom from our opponents. Their ablest men write tracts, and they are distributed at every orthodox door. Shall we not sow the good seed, where evil is now scattered?—Zion's Herald.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, September 2nd, at the National Campmeeting, it was

Resolved, That we raise THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the Tract Fund the ensuing year.

It is proposed to raise this amount during the year for the publication and free distribution of tracts. The value of these little preachers in the work of enlightening and saving men from darkness and death can hardly be overestimated; and the generous and liberal stewards of the Lord's money are earnestly invited to contribute acording to their ability in aid of the good work. Send on your dimes and dollars, brethren, with a liberal hand, and receive, by and by, the reward of the liberal giver.

WM. B. HERRON, Sec. Adv. Chr. Pub. Soc'y.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis office.

Donations for the Tract Fund.

Previous acknowledgments	$1249.73
Sam Dodge	1.00
W. W.	1.00
M. Sanderland	2.00
"A Thank Offering"	2.50

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	$63.56
"A Thank Offering"	2.50

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, P. O. Drawer 202, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$870.65
"A Friend"	2.00

For the World's Crisis.

THE SPRINGFIELD CAMPMEETING.

As the brethren are inquiring about tent-lots and the building of board or cloth tents, I would say there is plenty of good, level tent-ground back of the circles, near a good well of water, and on the most quiet part of the ground. There are some four or five good places for house-tents in the first circle; two large ones near the preachers' stand, easterly. He who engaged one of them, from Conn., two years ago, must notify me immediately of his building this year, or he loses the lot, as we close up the vacancy. I have forgotten his name, and therefore give this notice. I would say, all kinds of timber and boards, suitable for tents or houses, will be delivered on the ground from Currier's lumber yard, on very reasonable terms.

I have no tents to rent or sell this year. Those wanting small tents can get the cloth in Springfield, and make a twelve by fifteen cloth tent, by two or three hours' work in sowng, and use it through the meeting, and use it for sheets or shirts after the meeting. I have followed this mode of economy more than half of my life, and can recommend it to others, instead of paying rent, after hunting up a tent and returning it.

We shall be on the ground on Wednesday, the 17th, the day the reduced fare takes effect, to attend to the wants of the brethren that come then, and after. If any wish to see me before, they will find me at home, at Chicopee Falls, Mass., two and a half miles north of the ground, or five north by cars from Springfield.

We expect a great and good meeting. The moral elements, as well as the political and religious, are preaching the Lord's soon coming. It may be the last meeting. No one can tell what another year will reveal. We expect good advent preaching this year, as the signs are thickening fast. All come to work, and get ready. I, as one of the committee, can advise those who want a stand in their tent to sell books and pictures, to pay their expenses; you had better not make such a calculation, and then you will not be to that expense, or be disappointed. We mean to have it as near an old-fashioned campmeeting as possible; and as the different conventions and business meetings will mostly be off the ground, more attention can be paid to the religious exercises on the encampment.

H. MUNGER.

For the World's Crisis.

PROVIDENCE TENT-MEETING.

Bro. Grant:—Yesterday was a good day with us in Providence. Our services commenced at 9.30 A. M., and continued until 9.30 P. M., with only two short intermissions of three-fourths of an hour each. Preaching at 11 A. M., 3, 5.30, and 8 P. M. The remainder of the time was occupied in praying, singing, exhorting, telling of the love of Jesus, talking of the good things of the coming kingdom, and trying to induce sinners to get ready for it. In the evening, the inside of the tent was crowded, and hundreds were round about the outside. I never saw so large a company with so good order and such good attention at a tent-meeting before.

You must try and find time to get down here with your chart one or two evenings this week. It is just what is needed here now. There is a hearing ear, and the people are ready to receive the truth, and, thank God, some are being made free by it. I pray the Lord to move upon you by his Spirit and lead you down here. From your Bro. in Christ,

ENOCH MORRILL.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 1st, 1870.

For the World's Crisis.

CONFERENCE REPORT.

The Maine Central Quarterly Conference convened at the Robbin's school-house, in Rome, on Thursday, June 2nd, at five o'clock P. M. Prayer and social meeting. But few out. Interest good.

Friday. Met at nine o'clock for a social meeting, which continued until noon. It was a season of much interest. At one o'clock preaching by Bro. Carr, of Albion, from Thess. 4: 17. At five o'clock, P. M., preaching by Bro. Nason, of China, from 1 Cor. 6: 12—20.

Saturday. Met at nine o'clock for social and prayer meeting, which continued until noon. At one o'clock, preaching by Bro. Nason, from Rev. 3: 21. At five o'clock P. M., preaching by Bro. Walker, of Bath, from Luke 19: 10.

Sunday. Met at half past eight A. M. Social meeting till ten, then preaching by Bro. Walker, from Matt. 24: 42. At one P. M., preaching by Bro. Nason, from Jude, 17th and 18th verses. Bro. Walker also stopped and preached at five o'clock P. M., from 1 Kings 18: 21.

The meeting increased in interest and numbers from the commencement to the close. This was the first meeting of the kind that was ever held at this place, and when it was known that it was to be held here it made quite a stir among the sects. Their first thought was to shut up the house, but the law of the State declares that all school-houses shall be open for public worship. Their next work was to circulate false reports, so as to keep as many from the meeting as possible, but this only served to bring out the more. The Christian Church did all they could to sustain the meeting, and some of the members of other churches, exhibited a true Christian spirit. We believe good seed was sown that will bring forth fruit to the glory of God. Many of the unconverted say they believe we have the truth.

W. A. KNIGHT, Sec.

For the World's Crisis.

OUR DUMB ANIMALS.

I recommend to all having dumb animals of any description, to subscribe for a monthly paper entitled "OUR DUMB ANIMALS," published by the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, at 46 Washington St., Boston. It is a most excellent paper for all persons, old and young. Address as above, the Secretary of the Society, Frank B. Fay. Price $1 a year. J. N. BERRY.

From Sr. A. M. Sutherland.

BRO. GRANT:—I think it but proper that our friends who were informed of my husband's severe and dangerous illness at Vernon, Vt., should through the same medium be informed of his present condition. After lying three long weeks, he has so far recovered that we have got him home, and he is gaining slowly. I trust that he will yet be able to go forth again and warn poor sinners to "flee from the wrath to come." I feel very grateful to Bro. Allen and family, where my husband was sick. They spared no pains, night and day, to make us comfortable. May the Lord multiply his blessings unto them, is my prayer. A. M. SUTHERLAND.

BRO. L. BOUTELL, Chelsea, writes, Aug. 8th:—"At the Deerfield campmeeting yesterday, we had a good congregation, good order, and a good meeting."

Married.

DREHER—HENRIKUS. At the residence of the bride's mother, in Camden, N. J., on Tuesday evening, July 12th, by Elder Burbank, assisted by Elder Ashman, Mr. CHARLES DREHER and LENA HENRIKUS, both of Camden.

STAPLES—CONLEY. In Middlebury, Tioga Co., Pa., July 2d, 1870, by Eld. J. W. Taylor, Mr. S. STAPLES and Mrs. MARTHA JANE CONLEY, both of Middlebury.

MORRIS—SHEPARD. At Springwater, N. Y., July 31st, 1870, by Eld. D. Cogswell, Mr. B. F. MORRIS and Miss SARAH E. SHEPARD, both of Springwater.

Obituaries.

BENEDICT. Died in Rochester, N. Y., July 28th, 1870, Andrew Benedict, in the seventy-ninth year of his age.

In the fall of the above aged pilgrim, the world loses a good citizen, the church a faithful christian, his family an ever-constant and loving companion and father. Sister B., in the eightieth year of her age, was blessed with strength of body and mind sufficient to be an ever-ready nurse, administering to the wants of him with whom she joined her heart and hand in her youth. It was hard for Bro. B. to yield to the conqueror, death; but a few practical thoughts brought to bear upon his mind, relative to the unconscious state of man in death, seemed to quiet his heart, as he saw he could not experience anything in death, and his stay in its embrace would be but momentary so far as his knowledge of the time was concerned. He cheerfully and hopefully bade his companion and only daughter farewell, and peacefully fell asleep, saying, "I must sleep in Mount Hope a little while, and it will be but a little while."

Bro. B. was followed to his resting-place in Mount Hope by only three relatives: his companion, his daughter, and her husband. His two sons (who are Episcopal clergymen) were living so remotely, that it was not practicable for them to be present. He has a brother and sister in Ct., with a number of other relatives. The Calvary church (Presbyterian), near his residence, was kindly offered for his funeral services, and the pastor assisted. A large number of the Advent people were in attendance, and many of Bro. B.'s near neighbors, all of whom regarded him as a man of marked piety. The writer was solicited by Bro. B., in the early part of his illness, to attend his funeral. Words addressed to king Hezekiah were chosen for the occasion: "Set thine house in order; for thou shalt die and not live."—Isa. 31: 1.

As the golden grain of fertile lands
Is bowed with fruits of richest worth;
So is the faithful, as he stands
With bended form upon the earth.

The grain its harvest passively yields,
And with care is placed in the darkened bin;
So man is taken from life's fair fields,
And by tender hands in the grave shut in.

And as the grain its bins forsake,
And shines on tables of festive mirth;
So man the bands of death shall break,
And shine as stars in the new made earth.

WM. A. FENN.

MORRILL. Died, in West Derby, Vt., July 20th, 1870, Jane L. Morrill, only daughter of James and Louisa Morrill, aged thirty-two years.

The subject of this notice gave her heart to Christ about four years ago, was baptized by my hand, and has since lived a consistent christian life. She was beloved by all who knew her, and her good works will long be remembered. Words of comfort were spoken by the writer to the mourners, and a large concourse of friends, founded on the words of Christ to Martha (John 11: 25): "I am the resurrection and the life."

S. W. THURBER.

CROCKER. Died, in Millville, Mass., July 24th, Bro. Abraham Crocker, aged eighty-five years, six months, and ten days.

He embraced the hope of the soon coming of the Lord in 1843, and continued in the faith until his death. He leaves an aged widow of eighty years to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate husband. E. E. BOYDEN.

JENNE. Died, at Whitefield, N. H., July 20th, Sister Jane, wife of Stillman Jenne, of Newbury, Vt., aged fifty years.

Her disease was paralysis. She retained her reason till near the last, and had a good hope.

N. WHEELER.

GOVE. Died, in Whitefield, N. H., July 20th, John M. Gove, Esq., aged eighty-three years.

Bro. G. has been an active member in the Advent cause until his strength of body and mind failed. He sunk to rest as a shock of corn, ripe in its season. N. WHEELER.

WHITE. Died, in Surry, N. H., June 24th, 1870, Bro. Samuel White, aged seventy-eight.

Bro. White gave his heart to God nearly forty years ago, but has lived in a backslidden state most of the time till the last year of his life. During the last six months he was very patient and resigned, although a great sufferer. His disease was a cancer in the ear. He died in full faith of eternal life. Words of comfort were spoken by the writer, assisted by Bro. C. H. Fletcher.

T. L. HALL.

SHEOL—THE GRAVE.—When speaking of sheol, Prof. Bush says it is "sometimes translated grave, sometimes pit, and sometimes hell." It is translated grave thirty-one times, hell thirty-one times, and pit three times. Prof. Stuart says of sheol: "It legitimately denotes the state of the dead in general, without implying the place of torment, or the place of bliss." And the Bible makes the following declaration concerning the condition of men in sheol: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave (sheol) whither thou goest." Eccl. 9: 10. Why not believe this reasonable statement? The Bible becomes a harmonious book as soon as we stop trying to make it teach that man is now immortal.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable News.

LONDON, August 2. Important despatches have been received from the Hague stating that a desperate naval battle has been fought off the German coast, resulting in the loss of a Prussian cruiser.

PARIS, Aug. 3. Later news from the frontier confirm the announcement of the victory of the French and the capture of Saarbruck. Paris is delighted, and the enthusiasm respecting the war is greater than ever.

Treasury bonds to the amount of 500,000,000 francs have been issued in Paris.

It is positively asserted in this city that Austria and Italy have entered into an alliance with France. The menacing attitude exhibited by the English press towards France, and the pressure in Parliament for an increased armament, seeming to suggest more than the possibility of England's cooperation with Prussia, in which case the security of Austria might be endangered, is said to have hastened the alliance.

PARIS, August 3. The Emperor Napoleon telegraphed the following to the Empress Eugenie: "Louis received his baptism of fire with admirable sangfroid. General Frossard took the heights on the left bank of the Saarbruck. The Prussians made a short resistance. We were in the first line and cannon balls and bullets fell at our feet. Louis has preserved one that fell near him. The soldiers wept at seeing him so calm. We lost one officer and ten men killed.

PARIS, Aug. 3. The Moniteur says all the arrangements for the evacuation of Rome have been terminated between France and Italy. The latter government will issue a declaration giving renewed force to the September convention. The affair may now be considered as regulated to the satisfaction of all parties interested.

LONDON, Aug. 3. It is reported from Rome that the Pope accepts the situation and has commenced a negotiation with the Government of King Victor Emanuel. Papal committees in France, Ireland, Holland and Belgium are making great efforts to raise recruits for the Pontifical service.

BRUSSELS. August 2. The correspondent of the Independent Belge, writing from Metz, asserts that the first great battle will be fought on Saturday or Sunday next, or Monday at the farthest. He underscores the sentence following: "This is sure."

LONDON, Aug. 2. Advices from Prussian sources mention the prevalence throughout Germany of an unwavering assurance of ultimate victory.

VIENNA, Aug. 2. Austria is mobilizing fifty thousand men to watch the Bohemian frontier.

It is generally believed that Prussia will raise the King's army to one million and a quarter of men, and afterwards advance on the soil of France.

ROME, August 1. His Holiness yesterday received General Dumont, commander of the French troops in Rome.

Another detachment of the French army left Civita Vecchia for Marseilles on Sunday.

FLORENCE, August 1. The negotiations between Italy and France for the withdrawal of the French troops from Italian soil have been brought to a satisfactory conclusion. The Italian government has guaranteed the preservation of order in Rome and the French troops have evacuated the city.

PARIS, August 1. The French government has received from Italy ample asurances of the observance of the convention for the withdrawal of the French troops from the Roman States.

It is asserted that the Pope has been advised by some to go to Malta, and by others to remain in Rome, and it seems that he has decided to stay.

The Roman police have seized a quantity of arms which were secreted in the city.

The Emperor, since he has been with the army, has kept one telegraph wire constantly busy with his correspondence with the Empress.

LONDON, Aug. 2. Evidence hourly accumulates of the superiority of the needle gun over the Chassepot, and the fact creates deep concern in France.

The Pall Mall Gazette estimates that the Prussian army on the frontiers now musters half a million men.

Intense activity is noticed in the English ports and dockyards, and extensive preparations are being made to put the coast defences in condition to resist an attack.

PARIS, Aug 2. An official dispatch from Metz announces that to-day, at eleven o'clock in the morning, the French had a serious engagement with the Prussians. "Our army took the offensive, crossed the frontier and invaded the territory of Prussia. In spite of the numbers and position of the enemy a few of our batteries were sufficient to carry the hights which command Saarbruck, and our artillery soon drove the enemy from the town. The impetuosity of our troops was so great that our losses were slight. The engagement commenced at eleven o'clock and ended at one o'clock. The Emperor assisted at the operations, and the Prince Imperial, who accompanied him, was everywhere received with enthusiasm on this his first field of battle—his baptism of fire. His presence of mind and sang-froid in danger were worthy of the name he bears. The enemy returned to Metz at 4 P. M."

LONDON, August 2. The first installment of French troops from Rome arrived at Marseilles this morning.

LONDON, August 3. Saarbruck was taken by the French this morning. Loss slight on both sides.

PARIS, Aug. 5—10 P. M. It is asserted that if England takes sides with Prussia France has agreed to send an invading force of 50,000 men, with arms and munitions of war, to Ireland.

The Pope has written a letter to Emperor Napoleon, in which he expresses dissatisfaction at the removal of the French troops from Rome.

The Gaulois asserts that the Austrian Ministerial Director Klazeko saw the Emperor yesterday at Metz and announced that Austria and Italy had formed an alliance which was favorable to France.

Collisions between the German and French soldiers in the Papal service are of constant occurrence, and the war news is narrowly watched.

The strenuous efforts made by the Court of Rome to bring the influence of the Empress Eugenie to bear effectively against the withdrawal of French troops have failed, and to-day the last detachment leaves Civita Vecchia.

BERLIN, Evening, Aug. 4. Official despatches have been received here announcing that a severe battle was fought to-day at Weissembourg, department of Meurthe, between Prussian and French troops, resulting in brilliant victory for the Prussians, which was commanded by Frederick William, Crown Prince of Prussia.

The Fifth and Eleventh Bavarian corps stormed the heights of Weissemburg, and after a desperate struggle drove the enemy from his position.

The French forces were commanded by Gen. Douay, and made a stubborn resistance, but during the conflict Gen. Douay was killed, and they became demoralized.

BERLIN, Aug. 4. The official Prussian Bulletin says, "the struggle between the Prussian and French armies to-day was a sanguinary and hard fought battle. The conflict was waged upon either side, with unparalleled obstinacy, but the French army was finally obliged to yield, and dispersed, leaving their camp behind. The Prussian army is now operating in the Valley of Moselle, with headquarters at Treves, 57 miles S. W. of Coblentz, and is in a menacing attitude towards Thionville, the headquarters of the French army. A general Prussian advance across the frontier has commenced.

BERLIN, Aug. 4-9 o'clock P. M.—The Prussian victory at Weissembourg to-day is confirmed. The number of killed and wounded has not yet been ascertained. After the death of General Douay, the French troops became demoralized, and fled before the Prussians, who captured 550 prisoners and one piece of artillery.

TERRIBLE EARTHQUAKE.

ATHENS, Aug. 3. A terrible earthquake has visited the shores of the Gulf of Corinth. The towns of Amphion and Galaserda and several villages were destroyed. Many persons were killed and wounded and the inhabitants are in a state of great destitution.

THE POSITION OF ITALY AND AUSTRIA.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—La Liberte says one hundred thousand Italians will be fighting with us in a few days under the treaty alliance, offensive and defensive. As for Austria, she remains the Austria of 1811. She has sold herself to her enemy, King William, for the German subjects which left her by the treaty of Prague. If victory should crown our arms, France will remember Italy and she will not forget Austria.

THE COMPLETE DEFEAT OF MCMAHON.

Information has reached London that the defeat of McMahon is complete, and that the Crown Prince has advanced to Hagenau and captured the place, routing the French. The French loss is stated at 4,000, in addition to a great number of prisoners. Thirty pieces of cannon and six mitrailleurs were also taken.

PARIS, Aug. 7. The Journal Officiel, in its second edition to-day, publishes the following proclamation:

Frenchmen:—Up to this hour we have always given without reserve all certain news which we have received, and we continue to do so. Last night we received the following dispatches:

METZ, August 6, midnight.—Marshal McMahon has lost a battle. General Frossard on the Saar has been obliged to retire. His retreat was effected in good order. All can be re-established.

(Signed) NAPOLEON.

August 7, 3:50 A. M.—My communications have been interrupted with Marshal McMahon. I am going to place myself in the centre of the position.
NAPOLEON.

METZ, Aug. 7, 4:30 A. M.—The Major General of the Army to the Minister of the Interior: After a series of engagements, in which the enemy brought heavy forces into the field, Marshal McMahon has been forced to fall back from his first line.

The corps of Gen. Frossard had to fight yesterday from 2 o'clock in the afternoon with the entire army of the enemy; having held his position until 6 o'clock, he ordered a retreat, which was made in good order.

(Signed) LEBŒUF.

Details of our losses are wanting. Our troops are full of elan. The situation is not compromised, but the enemy is in our territory and a serious effort is necessary. A battle appears imminent. In the presence of this grave news, our duty is plain. We appeal to the patriotism and energy of all. The Chambers have been convoked. We are placing Paris with all possible haste in a state of defence. In order to facilitate the execution of military preparations, we declare the capital in a state of siege. There must be no faint heartedness—no divisions. Our resources are immense. Let us pursue the struggle without flinching, and the country will be saved.

PARIS, Aug. 7. The Empress has issued the following proclamation:

Frenchmen, The opening of the war has not been favorable to us. We have suffered a check. Let us be firm under this reverse, and let us hasten to repair it. Let there be but one party in the land, that of France; a single flag, that of the national honor. I come among you faithful to my mission and duty. You will see me first in danger to defend the flag of France. I adjure all good citizens to maintain order. To agitate would be to conspire with our enemies.

Done at the Palace of Tuileries this 7th day of August, 1870, at 11 o clock A. M.

(Signed) THE EMPRESS REGENT EUGENIE.

PARIS, Aug. 7. La Liberte says a special train left the station at half-past five this evening to bring back the Prince Imperial. We have strenuously urged his return, and we are glad that it has been decided upon. In the grave crisis through which we are passing, the enemy should find opposed to him the breasts of men. The camp should no longer resemble a court out of place.

BERLIN, Aug. 7. King William sends the following dispatch to the Queen:

"Good news! A great victory has been won by our Fritz. God be praised for his mercy. We captured 4,000 prisoners, thirty guns, two standards and six mitrailleurs. McMahon, during the fight, was heavily reinforced from the main army. The contest was very severe, and lasted from eleven in the morning until nine at night, when the French retreated, leaving the field to us. Our losses were heavy."

LONDON, Aug. 7. [Tribune special.] Our special correspondent at Cherbourg writes on Friday: "The transport fleet will comprise not less than three hundred and twenty vessels, and the preparations for its departure will still take eight days. The government has not more than twenty-two ships of its own, and takes possession of all trans-Atlantic steamers. The expeditionary corps has been strengthened, and will include twelve battalions of marines, each with one battery of artillery, and one battalion of Turcos, under Generals Rebout and Martin. The main force consists of forty thousand troops of the line from various regiments, Gen. Trochu being commander-in-chief.

It is well known here that Danish neutrality is only ostensible and temporary. The Danish government cannot withstand the enthusiasm with which Admiral Bouet and his squadron has been received at Copenhagen and the known sympathies of the people. The secret mission of the Duke de Cadore and the arrival of the French fleet coincide too exactly to leave any doubt of what course events will take. It will not be many weeks, perhaps not many days, before an announcement will be made of an alliance, offensive and defensive between France and Denmark for the war. In the meantime Bouet blockades the Baltic ports, and when the whole squadron assembles, will bombard Hamburg, Kiel, Stettin and Dantzig.

PARIS, Aug. 1. A letter from Pere Hyacinthe, protesting against the declaration of the dogma of Papal infallibility, has appeared, and causes a sensation. The Catholic organs attack the letter and its author with much bitterness.

LONDON, Aug. 8. Fourteen millions of francs seized by the police of Paris last week, belonged to Rothschild, Hirsch, Raphael, Birchaffsheim and other Jewish bankers. It is asserted that the seizure was suggested by the authorities of the Bank of France. The financial circles of Europe are much incensed at what is deemed a great outrage upon some of their number.

PARIS, Aug. 8. The Democratic press of Paris demand the immediate arming of all citizens, and the organization of a committee of defense, and composed, firstly, of the Deputies from Paris, and that all patriots join it. The country is in danger.

TERROR AT ROME.

Advices from Rome state that the French disasters cause profound terror, and that the Pope has asked Eugenie for just one ship to defend him from the Italians now organizing for an attack on the Papal dominions and authority.

War Items.

☞ Prussia demands a full explanation of Austria as to why she is arming.

☞ The Germany journals are terribly exasperated against England because she continues to furnish supplies to France.

☞ The South German army, it has just been ascertained is supplied with the old flint-lock musket.

☞ The war expenses of Prussia are footing up enormously. They now amount to over 24,000,000 of francs a day.

☞ The old passport system has again been restored throughout France.

☞ Another of the English newspaper correspondents with the French army has been arrested.

☞ The Prince Imperial, who is with the army, is in active military training and evinces great love for camp life.

☞ Thirty thousand German soldiers are billeted upon the inhabitants of Hamburg.

☞ The Empress of the French paid a visit to the army and was received with immense enthusiasm.

DOMESTIC.

Canton, Aug. 2. A terrible pestilence among fish is spreading in the Illinois river in this vicinity, and for a long distance the river bank is covered with thousands of dead fish decaying in the sun. The stream itself is full of them. The river men think that this mortality is caused by the burning of 3000 barrels of whiskey on the river during the great fire at Peoria, which destroyed the oxygen so that the fish could not live. The stench is so great that families living on the banks of the river have been compelled to move away. It is feared that much sickness will follow. The dead fish are too numerous to bury and the only thing to be done is to use disinfectants.

Passing Events.

☞ Peace has been restored between Peru and Bolivia.

☞ There were seventeen deaths from sunstroke in New York on the 25th.

☞ Prussia complains of England furnishing arms and coal to France.

☞ Twenty deaths from sunstroke occurred in New York on the 27th.

☞ Austria has issued a proclamation of neutrality similar to that made by Russia.

☞ Jefferson Davis has arrived in New Orleans en route for New York and Europe.

☞ Gen. Sheridan and Col. Forsyth sailed on the Scotia, on the 27th, for the seat of war.

☞ More than 150 deaths have occurred from sunstroke in New York thus far during the month.

☞ All warlike demonstrations either in favor of Germany or France have been forbidden in Liverpool.

☞ Prime Minister Ollivier invokes the prayers of the French clergy for the safety of the Emperor and the young Prince.

☞ The Russian force in Poland has been increased to 200,000 men, including the regiments of the Imperial Guard.

☞ The English government are busy removing all the cannon and shot from the fortifications at Quebec, and shipping them to England. One ship-load has already been despatched.

☞ We have a Mormon Church in Boston with about sixteen members. The meetings are held at 544 Washington street.

☞ There were 20,000 people who committed suicide in France within five years after the establishment of the present Imperial Government by Louis Napoleon.

☞ The Hungarian Government has notified the Pope that it will sanction no suspension of the Bishops who voted against infallibility.

☞ Chicago publishes ninety-five newspapers and periodicals.

☞ St. Louis is going to build a house to occupy four blocks! It will be twenty-one stories high, above ground, five stories deep under ground, and everything to correspond.

☞ The new religious sect in New Jersey, known as "Jehovah's Band" are increasing in their extravagances. Their exercises consist in shouting, screaming, whistling, wrestling, singing, jumping, falling to the floor and rolling over and over, until the whole congregation is worked up to a high state of excitement. The whole of Sunday is spent in these exercises, with short intermissions for refreshments. Several wealthy, well-to-do farmers, and substantial citizens have joined them.

☞ Spurgeon is about thirty-six years old, and preached 1,000 sermons before he was twenty-one. For the last five years 25,000 copies a week of his sermons have been sold. Not less than 14-000,000 copies have been sold in England, besides 300,000 in America. From one to three volumes have been published in Welch, German, French, Swedish, Dutch, and Italian; besides separate sermons in Gaelic, Tamil, and the Maroi language of New Zealand.

☞ A California paper says that a box of Royal Ann cherries has been shipped to New York overland, the majority of the cherries measuring three and a half inches in circumference.

☞ The harvest in Oregon this season exceeds that of any former year.

☞ Business in the large cities was never more dull than it is at present.

Notices.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING.

Providence permitting, a GENERAL CAMPMEETING will be held at Springfield, Mass., on the new camp-ground, beautifully located, about one and a quarter miles from the R. R. Depot, on land of C. W. Chapin, Esq., known as "Chapin's Grove," commencing Saturday, August 20th, and continuing till August 29th.

Ample accommodations will be provided for board at the new and commodious boarding house on the ground. Board 85 cents per day. Breakfast, or supper, 35 cents each. Dinner at 50 cents, excepting Sunday, August 28th, when it will be 75 cents. The boarding department is under the charge of the Committee, and any profits accruing from the same will go to the support of the meeting.

Fare on the Boston and Albany Railroad is reduced one third, which will be $4.00 from Boston to Springfield and return. Tickets to be obtained at the ticket offices, between Boston and Worcester, at Grantville, Holliston, Natick, Westboro, Milford, and Southville; beyond Worcester, at the usual stations. On the New Haven and Hartford R. R., fare is reduced one third; tickets to be obtained at New Haven, Middletown, Meriden, Berlin, Hartford, Thompsonville, and Windsor Locks. On the Conn. R. R. fare is reduced one third from South Vernon and intermediate stations to Springfield. On all the above roads campmeeting tickets, good from August 17th to August 30th, must be called for at the ticket offices, and they must also be signed by the Secretary at the campmeeting. Remember this.

It will be absolutely necessary for passengers over the Conn. R. R. to buy their tickets at the stations, as no return checks will be issued except by the agent at the stations where the ticket is purchased.

Passengers coming from North of South Vernon, unless provided with return tickets, should purchase only to South Vernon, and then purchase to Springfield and return. The same rule will apply also to passengers coming from East of, or in the vicinity of Greenfield.

On the Vt. and Mass. R. Road, persons will purchase regular tickets at the offices for Greenfield. At Greenfield they will go into the ticket office and call for Campmeeting Tickets for Springfield. All such when they go to the Secretary on the camp-ground to have their tickets countersigned, will be furnished with a free return pass from Greenfield to Brattleboro, Vernon, Athol, Fitchburg, or any place on the Mass. and Vermont R. R. that they may come from—provided twenty-five passengers shall have come over the Vt. and Mass. Rail Road to the meeting.

Friends coming on the Rutland and Burlington R. R. will be furnished with free return passes—provided twenty-five or more passengers come over the road from Burlington or intermediate places to Brattleboro. At South Vernon, or Greenfield, let all such get campmeeting tickets at the office.

On the Providence and Worcester R. R., campmeeting tickets at one third discount can be obtained at the depot in Providence, good from Aug. 17th to Aug. 30th. Call for Campmeeting Tickets.

On the Worcester and Nashua R. R. Road, friends from Nashua, N. H., Groton Junction, and Clinton, will purchase regular tickets at the stations for Worcester, at which place they will purchase tickets for Springfield; and free return passes from Worcester will be furnished them by the Secretary on the ground.

Friends coming from New York can come and return for $4.70 by taking the boat at New Haven, and thence by cars to Springfield. The boat which leaves New York at 11 P. M., connects with the train at the steamboat wharf at New Haven. Passengers by this boat arrive in Springfield at 7.30 A. M. No train with Saturday night boat. The other boat, which leaves New York at 3.15 P. M., reaches New Haven in time for the express train, which leaves New Haven at 11 P. M.; but passengers will have to go across the city by horse cars to the depot of the Hartford and New Haven R. R. Tickets for the Rail Road to the campmeeting will be sold on the steamboats. Passengers buying through tickets, will be furnished with a return ticket, which will be good only when endorsed by the Secretary of the camp-ground.

Arrangements have been made with the Eastern R. R. Co., by which those taking the cars from Portsmouth and intermediate places for Boston, paying full fares at the ticket offices, can have FREE RETURN PASSES by application to the Secretary, on the camp-ground.

Cars leave the Boston and Albany depot, Boston, at 5, 7, and 8½ A. M.; and at 3, 4½, and 9 P. M.

Arrangements with any other roads that may be made, will be noticed hereafter.

S. G. MATHEWSON,
GEO. T. ADAMS,
H. MUNGER,
J. HEMENWAY,
M. GRANT,
D. MATHEWSON,
W. B. DODGE,
} Committee of Arrangements.

GEO. T. ADAMS, Secretary.

Advent Christian Association.

The next annual meeting of this Society will be held at Springfield, Mass., commencing Tuesday, Aug. 23d, at nine o'clock A. M. Every church cooperating with the A. C. A. is entitled to one delegate, and one additional delegate for every fifty members above the number of twenty-five. Each delegate must bring credentials from the church to which he belongs.
H. PRATT, Sec.

Notice.

The annual meeting of the American Advent Mission Society will be held at the Advent Chapel, Springfield, Mass., Aug. 25th, 1870. Members of, and delegates to, the Advent Christian Association, are members of this Society. It is hoped there will be a full attendance of members to this meeting.
ABIAL W. SIBLEY, Secretary.

Campmeeting at Mechanic Falls.

The committee chosen at B. Pond last year, have thought proper to locate a campmeeting, to be held permanently at Mechanic Falls, Me. A beautiful spot is found, and nearly prepared, which we believe will fully meet the expectations of the people. Now what we wish is a general rally of the brethren and sisters, that our meeting may prove a success. Prepare your tents, ye companies in the armies of the Lord, and be ready for a march to camp, about Sept. 12th. Particulars about railroads and other matters will be given by the full Board of the committee soon.
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Annual Campmeeting.

The annual campmeeting for the eastern part of Maine, will be held at Pittsfield, Me., commencing Monday, Aug. 29th, 1870, and continue over the following Sabbath. This meeting is to represent the whole body, and is one with the conference and missionary enterprise of the Advent people. All, both ministers and people, are cordially invited to come up to this feast and unite for the general good. Arrangements will be made for board and horse-keeping, and a reduction of railroad fare. Bring tents, bedding and provision, if possible. Come early and remain till the close of the meeting. Leave all worldly care, and put off anger, wrath, and evil speaking, and come praying in the Holy Ghost. "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor." We hope the "Maine Mission Tent" will be present.
F. A. BAKER.
JER. CAMP.
H. P. MAINE.
E. RICKER.

Notice.

The Maine Mission Tent will be pitched at Steep Falls, East Limington, Me., Aug. 9th, and continue over the following Sunday, and longer if it is the Lord's will.
AUSTIN W. TAYLOR.

ALTON BAY CAMPMEETING.

Providence permitting, a General Campmeeting will be held at Alton Bay, N. H., commencing Sunday, Sept. 4th, to hold through the week and over the following Lord's day. Ample provision will be made for board and horse-keeping. Board at 80 cents per day; breakfast and supper, 30 cents each; dinner, 50 cents; horse-keeping (hay and grain) 85 cents per day. The boarding department is under the charge of the committee, and any profits accruing from the same will go to the support of the meeting.

Arrangements have been made with the railroad and steamboat companies, as follows: Boston and Maine R. R. trains leave Boston for the meeting 7.30 A. M., 12 M., and 3 P. M.,—half fare. Purchase regular tickets at Boston, of Geo. T. Adams, 167 Hanover Street, for Alton Bay, and at all intermediate stations, beginning at Lawrence.

Boston, Concord, and Montreal R. R.; trains leave Concord at 10.30 A. M. and 3.25 P. M. for the Wiers. Trains leave Whitefield for the Wiers,—half fare. Those coming from Concord, Littleton, and Plymouth, can go through to the camp-ground the same day, by waiting at the Wiers. The fare on the steamboats one way.

Connecticut and Passumpsic River, R. R.; trains leave Derby at 7 A. M. for Wells River, Plymouth, Wiers, and Alton Bay,—half fare, if twenty-five passengers. Passengers will purchase regular tickets, and receive free return checks on the camp-ground, signed by the Secretary of the meeting. If any of our friends wish, they can come for the same a week before the meeting.

Eastern R. R., half fare. Purchase regular tickets at the several stations, and receive free return passes on the camp-ground, signed by T. H. Ford.

Portland, Saco, and Portsmouth R. R.; trains leave Portland at 6.15 A. M., 8.40 A. M., and 2.55 P. M., for Dover and Alton. Fare about two thirds.

Fare reduced on the Concord and Portsmouth, and Nashua railroads, one half.

J. G. SMITH,
J. COUCH,
D. CHURCHILL,
J. W. PIPER,
J. LANGLEY,
C. S. EMERSON,
N. WHEELER,
} COMMITTEE.

☞ More particulars hereafter. Other roads to hear from.

Conn. Campmeeting.

The Lord willing, there will be a campmeeting in a beautiful grove, on the land of Chauncey Dunham, two and one half miles south of the R. R. Station at Plainville, Ct., commencing Monday, Sept. 12th, 1870, and continuing over the following Sabbath. Plainville is at the junction of the H. P. & F. and N. H. & N. railroads. Conveyance from the station to camp-ground not to exceed twenty-five cts. for each person. As far as practicable, reach Plainville by noon trains. We shall endeavor to provide wholesome food for all who wish, but do not propose to invite saint or sinner to patronize Vanity Fair on ground consecrated to God. Provision will be made for those coming with horses.

Our object is to worship and glorify God, to strengthen the weak, promote brotherly love, and win sinners to Christ. To this end, we invite all who love our Lord Jesus Christ to join with us, from far and near. The deep, dark clouds of national distress, together with the muttering thunders of the final conflict, are the startling summons to meet the Bridegroom. Let us come, then, as pilgrims and strangers to prepare for the event, instead of fashionable devotees to eat and to drink. Come, brethren and sisters, consecrated to God, ready to work for him, that in the great judgment day many sheaves may be gathered as fruits of this meeting. Amen.

B. HITCHCOCK,
I. B. POTTER,
W. A. DURAND,
G. L. WHITE,
O. D. WOODRUFF,
} Committee.

New York State Quar. Conference.

By divine permission, the Advent Christian Conference of N. Y. State will assemble in quarterly session with the church in Darien, on Friday evening, Sept. 9th, 1870, and remain over Sunday. This will be the tenth annual meeting of the church in Darien; and a general and cordial invitation is extended to all who love the appearing of Jesus. Come praying; come to take bolder, higher ground for Christ and the interests of his coming kingdom.

Leave the cars at Craft's Station, six miles west of Batavia, Central Road. Teams will be in waiting on Friday P. M.—perhaps on Saturday. Trains arrive from the west at four P. M., and from the east at two P. M.

Will the churches which have received the Secretary's letter please take immediate action, that the treasury may be replenished and the conference prepared for work. Brethren, the "signs of the times" are ominous. Let us strengthen our hearts and hands for earnest and efficient labor. WHO WILL? WM. E. BROWN, Sec.

The Vermont Campmeeting.

This meeting will commence Sept. 11th, and hold over the following Sabbath. It is to be held in a pleasant grove at the mouth of Camp Brook, in West Bethel, at a place known as Finley's Bridge. It is easy of access. Come, brethren, one and all, to this meeting. Come prepared to work for the salvation of souls. Particulars soon.
J. A. CLEAVELAND.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the Advent brethren of Milo, and vicinity, though their numbers are few, have felt for a long time that it would be for their good, and the glory of God, for them to establish regular conference meetings. They have accordingly procured the Good Templar's Hall, a neat and commodious room, for religious worship, situated in Milo Village. The brethren have met and decided to hold conference meetings regularly once in four weeks. Our first meeting will be holden on Saturday, the third day of September, at 2 o'clock P. M., and every fourth Saturday after that date. Bro. F. A. Baker, of Levant, Me., is requested to meet us in conference, and preach to us on the Sabbath following. We most heartily invite all who love the Lord, of every name, to come in and worship with us. It is our earnest prayer that God would enable us, by his grace, to faithfully discharge our duties to him and to our fellow men; that we may with confidence claim and long for the glorious reward soon to be given to all the faithful. For the brethren,
J. K. BILLINGTON.
WM. FROST.

Notice.

The Maine Westerly Quarterly Conference will be held in the Bowdoin meeting-house, in Bowdoin, Thursday, Sept. 15th, at two o'clock P. M., and hold over the next Sunday.
Per order, C. GOUD.

P. S.—Will our preaching brethren arrange to be there to preach the word? Come, brethren and sisters, and work for and in the name of the Lord, for the salvation of our fellow men. C. G.

Grove Meeting.

If the Lord will, there will be a grove meeting held near Martin Carr's, less than one half mile from Lunenburg, Vt., commencing Aug. 9th, at half past one o'clock P. M., and hold over the following Sabbath. It is expected that Eld. W. H. Shaw, and others, will be present to preach the word. Preachers, and all, are invited to come and labor for the salvation of sinners. Come in the fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ. This is a new field, where but few are looking for the return of this "same Jesus."

Special Notice.

To all interested in having a State Conference organized in Ohio: Beloved brethren in Christ,—Believing that the end of all things is at hand, and what we do must be done quickly, and that the Lord has raised us up as a people to herald the coming kingdom, and to lift our warning voice, and cry aloud, and spare not, and in earnest tones bid the slumbering myriads of earth's sons and daughters to prepare for solemn judgment; and believing we can better accomplish the great work allotted us to do, we have, after advising with brethren, thought best to appeal to every Advent church in the State, and where there is no church, to individuals, who are interested in forming such a conference, to write at once to Eld. E. McCullock, Pastor of the Advent Church in Nevada, Ohio; and, if sufficient interest is manifest, we shall issue a call for a conference, to be held immediately after the campmeetings are over. Come, brethren, let us hear from you at once relative to this matter, and may heavenly wisdom guide your hearts aright. For the Brethren,
E. MCCULLOCK.

Notice.

The Union Female Missionary Association will hold its annual meeting at Springfield, Mass., commencing Aug. 24th, 1870, at one o'clock P. M. All laboring members are requested to be present, as there are some matters of importance to be attended to. Should any be unable to attend this meeting, will they please send their reports to the Secretary at Stoneham, Mass., by Aug. 14th? We kindly invite our brethren and sisters, who are interested in the mission work, and desire to help the women who labor in the gospel, to meet with us. We hope to have a good meeting in the name of the Lord.
M. MCKINSTRY.

East Boston.

During the great fire there July 25th, the Hall where our brethren have held their meetings for the past year was burned, and in consequence they have no place to hold meetings. As soon as a place can be obtained, notice will be given in the Crisis. By order of the Bre.,
A. P. MOORE.

Campmeeting.

The Lord willing, there will be a campmeeting in New Milford, Ct., commencing Sept. 3d, and hold over the eleventh. Board will be had on the ground at a reasonable rate. The camp-ground lies three-fourths of a mile from the depot on the Housatonic rail road. Bring your tents with you. Come filled with the Holy Spirit, praying the blessing of God to rest on the meeting.
For the Committee, J. L. WOOD.

To the King's Servants.

Some of the brethren and sisters in Warner Village, N. H., and vicinity, have decided to have preaching one half of the time at Union Hall, the second and third Sabbaths of July, and after that the first two Sabbaths of each month.

Correspond with B. S. COLBY, Warner Village, N. H. ALLEN DAMON.

Notice.

As the time has come for us to start the Mass. Mission Tent, we shall need funds to carry forward the work; and we wish those who have subscribed would forward the amount to the Treasurer, C. GOODRICH, No. 7 Salem Street, Boston, as soon as convenient.
S. W. THURBER, Pres. of Conf.

Notice.

To the young men and women in Christ:—Thinking that more ought to be done than is being done for the good and advancement of our young people, and believing that the only way to secure that most desirable end is to be united, and work in harmony the one with the other; and knowing that united labor and the spirit of harmony can be obtained only by organized operation; therefore, we, the undersigned, would issue a call for a meeting of all young men and women, who are waiting for the "blessed hope," to be held at the Alton Bay campground, Thursday, Sept. 8th, at 9 A. M., to see what can be done in this direction. A cordial invitation is extended to all those interested to be present. We hope every young preacher, whether male or female, will make this matter one of deep, personal interest.
E. S. MOULTON.
A. DAMON.

Notice.

The "Maine Mission Tent" has been in the field for several weeks, doing good service under the labors of Bro. and Sr. Taylor, Bro. W. H. Mitchell, and others. Any wishing to contribute funds to help along the tent interests in Maine, can send such aid to W. H. Mitchell or R. R. York.

Book Notice.

As the Lord has blest me with health to travel again this year, I would say to brethren that I shall be at the Springfield campmeeting with a good supply of "Death not Life," to deal out at cost by the dozen, so that more may be got to lend and give away to spread truth. They will be free to the poor. I shall also have McCulloh's large work there for $1.60, as noticed in the Crisis a few weeks ago,
J. BLAIN.

Notice.

The next regular conference for Fairfield, Ohio, will be held Sept. 3d and 4th, and will probably be a grove meeting. Let all be duly prepared.
G. W. STETSON, Pastor.

Notice.

By the permission of the Lord, there will be a conference held at Carr's Corner, Dexter, Me., every third Saturday in each month, at two o'clock, and also meeting on Lord's day following. Preaching brethren coming this way are invited to lend a helping hand. A pilgrim's home may be found at John H. Brown's.
O. G. TRUNDY.

Read! Read!!

Send your pledges and monies at once to Bro. Ira Aldrich, Whitefield, N. H., for the Tent. Come, brethren in Grafton and Coos Counties, N. H., let the amount be raised immediately, for we want the tent in the field doing its work.
A. W. SIBLEY.

Notice.

The brethren in Bowdoinham Village, Me., have hired Hinkley's Hall for a few months, and invite preaching brethren who can come and break the bread of life, to give notice through the Crisis.
For the brethren, N. G. REED.

Notice.

Will our brethren, who wish the campmeeting committee to build their tents at Alton Bay, send to me at once (at Farmington, N. H.), the plan, or how they wish them built?
J. G. SMITH.

Notice.

Putney's Hall, Sutton Mills, N. H. Meetings every Sabbath for the present. This is a new movement on the part of the Advent people of Sutton, and we think it is according to the will of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us.

A. CRESSEY,
FRANK NELSON,
SAM'L ROWELL,
} Committee.

Notice.

All persons, rich or poor, wishing to have the Rhode Island Mission Tent pitched in any locality where there is an opportunity to get the great truths of the plan of salvation before the people, will address me by letter, at South Killingly, Ct.
E. BELLOWS.

Notice.

The Advent Christian church of Rochester have hired a neat, commodious hall, just finished, on the corner of Stone and Court Sts., known formerly as the Air Bath Institute, which will be opened next Sabbath, the Lord will, with appropriate services, by Bro. J. Hemenway. Meetings will be held hereafter in said hall three times Sundays, also Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Notice.

Friends writing either of the Clinton Arch Missionaries through July, will please direct to the care of G. W. Smith, No. 273 West 22d St., New York City.
M. E. DOW.

Notice.

The Advent Christian Church in Nashua, N. H., have hired a hall in Beasom's Block, corner of Maine and Factory Streets, up two flights of stairs, well fitted up, where we shall hold meetings three times on the Sabbath, and Thursday and Saturday evenings. For the brethren,
NATHANIEL EATON.

German Tracts.

Bro. Reimer has a good supply. Send your orders to L. REIMER, 1006 Chesnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ A short poem, "The Blissful Vision," may be had for 30 cts. per dozen, of the author, J. Albert Libby, West Poland, Me.

☞ To Preaching Brethren.

Those wishing to preach in	Correspond with
Westfield, Mass.	E. A. Eggleston.
Savoy, Mass.	Daniel Miller, or A. E. Bliss.
Wakefield, Mass.	G. R. Tyzzer.
Charlton, Mass.	E. H. Allen, Oxford, Mass.
Worcester, Mass.	H. M. Blackmer, Willard M. Hall, or Willard G. Ruggles.
Portsmouth, N. H.	T. E. Wood, Box 1445.
Hampton, N. H.	Joseph A. Philbrook.
Manchester, N. H.	A. J. Mahew, S. R. Davidson, or O. Proctor.
Dover, N. H.	John Vickery.
Loudon Ridge, N. H.	Daniel L. Moore, Wm. Batchelder, Edward Mudgett. Fourth Sabbath engaged.
Seabrook, N. H.	R. S. Johnson, of Hampton, N. H., or Chs. Barton, of Seabrook.
Chichester, N. H.	C. R. Knowles.
Goshen, N. H.	O. F. Cain.
Rye, N. H.	Moses C. Philbrick or Samuel Smart.
Pittsfield, N. H. (Bethel)	C. S. Emerson.
Portland, Me.	R. R. York, S. K. Dyer, D. F. Seamman.
Lewiston, Me.	Albert Burgess.
South Berwick, (Great Works), Me.	Harrison Dow.
Kennebunk Depot, Me.	Rufus Duran.
Vernon, Vt.	J. C. Allen.
Bristol, Ct.	B. Hitchcock, Forestville, Ct.
West Glocester, R. I.	Geo. A. Hawkins, Putnam, Ct.
New Milford, Ct.	Richard Hoxcox.
New Haven, Ct.	W. F. Carpenter, 73 State St.
Pleasant Valley, Ct.	Rossel O. White, New Hartford, Ct.
Meriden, Ct.	E. J. Whitehead, West Meriden, Conn., Box 4.
New Britain, Conn.	A. Powell.
Wrightville, Ct.	D. A. Grant, Torrington, Ct.
Newfield, Ct.	Wm. Ripley, Pleasant Valley, Ct.
New Milford, Ct.	J. Coggswell.
Morris, Ct.	Joseph Curtis.
Rochester, N. Y.	J. R. Cooper, 4 Hickory St.
Philadelphia, Pa.	Frank E. Davis, 1715 Markham Street, or I. N. Wilfong, 124 N. 12d St.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

☞ The meetings which have been held in Minot Hall, corner of Washington and Springfield Streets, are removed to Branch Chapel, corner of Washington and Madison Streets.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL.
A. Ross.........Sundays, Aug. 21st and 28th

BOSTON, (Branch Chapel), corner of Washington and Madison Streets.
Meetings at 10½ A. M., and 3 and 7½ P. M.

Meetings in South Boston on Wednesday evenings, at C. W. Huntress,' 3 Lowland street. On Friday evenings at J. N. Berry's, 227 E. street.

CHELSEA, MASS., (LIBRARY HALL.)
C. Goodrich.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
M. Batchelor.........Sunday, Aug. 21st

CHARLESTOWN.
Preaching at Charlestown, (Evening Star Hall, No. 32 Main Street), every Lord's day.
No meeting in Charlestown until after Alton Bay Campmeeting.
Rufus Wendell.....Sundays, Sept. 25th and Oct. 2nd
T. M. Preble.........Sunday, Sept. 18th

Tremont Campmeeting.........Aug. 14th
Lawrence, Mass.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
Great Falls, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 28th
J. COUCH.

Sheldonville (Wrentham, Mass.)...Sunday, Aug. 14th
New Bedford, Mass.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
J. S. WHITE.

Lawrence, Mass.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Lowell, Mass.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
Chicopee Falls, Mass.....evenings, Aug. 30th and 31st
South Norwalk, Ct., evenings, Sept. 14th, 15th, and 16th
New York, 24th Street.........Sunday, Sept. 18th
Newark, N. J.........Sunday, Sept. 25th
Then home (Rochester, N. Y.) A. A. PHELPS.

Wakefield, Mass.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Worcester, Mass.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
CHAS. P. GREENMAN.

Lowell, Mass.........Sabbath, Aug. 28th
G. W. BURNHAM.

Holden, Mass.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Salem, Mass.........Sundays, Sept. 4th, 11th, and 18th
RUFUS WENDELL.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, Aug. 14th
Holderness, N. H. (Brick school-house) Sun., Aug. 21st
Danbury, N. H. (where brethren may arrange) Sunday, Aug. 28th. LEVI ALLEN.

Campville, Ct.........Sabbath, Aug. 14th
G. L. WHITE.

Morris, Ct (Baptism).........Sunday, Aug. 14th
B. HITCHCOCK.

Warren Summit, N. H.........evening, Aug. 16th
Meredith Village.........evening, Aug. 17th
Dolloff Hall.........evening, Aug. 18th
Lake Village.........evening, Aug. 19th
A. A. HOYT.

Great Falls, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
GEO. W. BROWN, So. Elliot.

Hill, N. H. (where Sr. Trumball may appoint) Sabbath, Aug. 14th.
Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., Aug. 21st
Webster, N. H. (Old meeting house)...Sab., Aug. 28th
Fisherville, N. H. (Sander's Hall).....Sab., Sept. 4th
SIMEON ROBY.

Plymouth Union, Vt. (as Levi Green may appoint) Aug. 13th.
Bridgewater, Vt.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
West Fairlee, Vt.........Sunday, Aug. 21st and 28th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Melvin Village, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Fisherville, N. H. (Sanders Hall)...Sunday, Aug. 21st
Lake Village, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 28th
JOHN PARSONS.

Hoosick, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
☞ NO NAME.

Lock's Corner, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
WM. C. THURMAN.

Freeport (Flying Point) and baptize..Sun., Aug. 14th
Bangor.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
R. R. YORK.

Warner Village, N. H. (Union Hall) Sun., Aug. 14th
DUSTIN W. DAVIS.

Pownal, Me.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
Lewiston, Me.........Sunday, Aug. 28th
J. T. JORDAN.

Loudon Ridge.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Barnstead (Red school-house) baptism, Sun., Aug. 21st
S. S. MOONEY.

Lovely Street, Ct.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Hartland (Town Hall).........Sunday, Aug. 21st
S. WOODRUFF.

Bath, Me.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Lynn, Mass.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
I. C. WELLCOME.

Hopkinton, N. H....(in the grove) Sunday, Aug. 14th
FRANK NELSON.

West Meriden, Ct.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Hartford, (Talcott and Post's Hall), Sunday, Aug. 21st
W. N. PILE.

Danbury, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) Sabbath, Aug. 21st.
East Orange, (at the school-house near Bro. John Durgin's) Sabbath, Aug. 28th. D. EASTMAN.

Buckfield, Me. (Federal meeting-house) Sab., Aug. 14th
O. W. KIMBALL.

Rutland, Vt.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
S. W. THURBER.

Webster, Mass.........evening, Aug. 12th and Sunday, 14th.
S. S. BREWER.

Keene, N. H.........Sabbaths, Aug. 14th and 21st
C. H. FLETCHER.

Rochester (Town House).........Sabbath, Aug. 21st
S. VARNEY.

Loudon Ridge, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
Will some one meet me at Alton Bay at 12 M. Saturday, Aug. 20th? E. S. MOULTON.

Lewiston, Me.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Cascoville.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
J. ALBERT LIBBY.

Rye, N. H.........Sunday, Sept. 18th
J. PINKHAM.

Roxbury, Ct. (Sr. Teeple's).........Aug. 14th and 18th
Washington, Ct. (house of A. Murphy).........Aug. 19th
Roxbury, Ct. (Sr. Teeple's) Aug. 21st, 23d, 25th, 28th
H. K. WALLING.

Rochester, N. H.........Sabbath, Aug. 14th
Seabrook, N. H.........Sabbath, Aug. 21st
West Greenwich, R. I. (as Bro. Madison may arrange) Sabbath, Aug. 28th.
Charlton, Mass.........Sabbath, Sept. 4th
Webster, Mass.........Sabbath, Sept. 11th
River Point, R. I.........Sabbath, Sept. 25th
C. H. SWEET.

Southington, Conn.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Z. FORD.

Putnam, Ct.........Sabbath, Aug. 14th
Webster, Mass.........Sabbath, Aug. 21st
Woodstock Valley, Ct.........Sabbath, Aug. 28th
P. S. BUTLER.

Fairhaven, Mass.........Sundays, Aug. 14th and 21st
New Bedford, Mass.........evening, Aug. 23d
C. H. LEVERTON.

Brownfield, Me.........Sabbath, Aug. 28th
GEO. W. HOWARD.

Rye, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
J. G. SMITH.

Swanville, Me.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Stoneham, Mass.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Woburn, Mass. (on the Common) at five o'clock P. M., or at such time as Bro. Marcy may arrange, Aug. 14th. L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Great Falls, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
T. W. PIPER.

Great Falls, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
South Berwick, Me. (Great Works), Sunday, Aug. 21st
Hampton, N. H.........Sunday, Aug. 28th
A. SIMPSON.

Northfield, Mass. (where Bro. Streeter may appoint) Sunday, Aug. 14th.
If any of these appointments conflict, write me immediately at West Rumney, N. H. E. COTTON.

Blooming Valley, Pa. (as Bro. Wm. Darrow may appoint) Aug. 11th and 14th.
Roceville, or Little Cooley.........Aug. 18th and 21st
Edenboro, Pa.........Aug. 27th and 28th
Sharp's Corners (Meth. church) evenings, Aug. 29th and 30th.
Cohocton (once in four weeks) Sept. 3d, at 2 P. M., and Sunday, the 4th.
Darien, N. Y. (quar. conf.)...Sept. 9th, 10th and 11th
C. F. SWEET.

Woodstock Valley, Ct.........Sunday, Aug. 14th
Abington, Ct.........Sunday, Aug. 21st
Square Pond, Ct.........Sunday, Aug. 28th
North Somers, Ct.........Sunday, Sept. 4th
A. MORSE.

Warner, N. H. (Union Hall).........Sabbath, Aug. 14th
Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sabbath, Aug. 21st, and through the week. Will Bro. Andrews meet me at the depot, noon train, Aug. 15th?
R. P. MANNING.

